

Time of Eden and Elves

A Spartan's War Chronicles: Book 1

By Michael J. Cropo
Copyright 2004

Visit the Spartan's War Chronicles web site at <https://aspartanswarchronicles.com/>

CHAPTER ONE

The torrential downpour of rain smashed against the metal and glass of the lone terminal building at the far corner of the Southern Utah Air Force Base. Mountains surrounded the secure facility on three sides, the lone runway extending out of sight to the north. Once used for the testing of experimental aircraft, the base was now mainly deserted. At least to the cursory glance of anyone who might be passing by and saw the buildings.

The base in actuality was very active, most of its facilities being underground, and therefore hidden from casual view. The two very large and odd-looking aircraft were parked close to each other on the tarmac, three hundred meters from the terminal itself. They were odd shaped aircraft, looking like massive wasps in their design. They had short stubby wings on each side with box shaped pods attached to each wing, their landing gear looking almost like clawed feet rather than wheels. Under the bubble nose of each aircraft was a large wicked looking chain gun of some sort that now sat dormant. Directly behind where the cockpit was on the top of the craft was another small bubble that ran back about six meters from the nose of the craft. Under that bubble could be seen a small map table of some sort and two couches against the wall of the upper deck room.

There were portable lights set up all around the aircraft at roughly a hundred meters distance, illuminating the heavy security that surrounded the two aircraft in an eerie glow. There was a ring of heavily armed guards standing at fifty meter intervals all around the craft, the rain not bothering them at all as they walked slowly along the perimeter, their eyes always trained outward. They were dressed in black fatigues and wore balacavas over their heads, hiding all but their eyes. Their rain drenched gloved hands clutched the silenced weapons they carried, the HK74 which was the newest version of the venerable HK MP5, and fired a devastating 10mm caseless round that was tipped with a pin drop of liquid explosive. There were small one man crane trucks moving large crates on wooden pallets into the bellies of both aircraft, driving up the sloped ramps into the dimly lit interiors of each ship. The security teams around the ships were exceptionally alert, their wicked looking HK74 sub-machine guns equipped with integral silencers and laser sights. The weapons hung from quick action slings, the gloved firing hands of the team members wrapped around the pistol grips, their fingers on the trigger guards. These were not ordinary Air Force security troops. They were perhaps; the most elite and lethal unit in the United States military, and they took nothing for granted.

Several hundred meters outside that inner ring of soldiers were half a dozen heavy gun Hummers. These particular vehicles, heavily armored and mounted with chain gun turrets, manned by equally alert members of the same security force, could destroy targets up to medium size tanks. Far in the distance, they could see the black out lights of another dozen Air Force gun Hummers slowly patrolling the perimeter of the tarmac, gun Hummers that were crewed by the same breed of soldier as the ones closer to the aircraft but assigned to the Air Force's Special Operations Wing.

The men and women inside the terminal paid no attention to the activity going on outside. They could not have cared less. They wore a mixture of civilian and military dress, and almost all of them had drinks in their hands. They were senior officers in all the services and the junior Senators and aides of the more important men and women gathering at this remote terminal. The work that was going on outside the terminal in the driving rain was below them and not any of their concern.

Except for the tall, heavily muscled young man dressed in Navy whites and standing in front of the large window just outside the lounge. His keen dark brown almost black eyes swept the tarmac below him, seeing the work that was going on three hundred meters from the terminal as if it was happening right outside the window. The young man's thick black hair was cut short, his skin deeply tanned. He looked like a man who spent most of his time outdoors, and in truth, he was. His uniform bore the three solid gold stripes of a full Navy Commander on his sleeve and his shoulder boards. The uniform fit his muscled form like a glove, as if he had been poured into the uniform. The seven rows of brightly colored ribbons on the left side of his chest were topped by a gleaming gold Navy SEAL "Budweiser" Trident, the official unit designator of the United States Navy SEALs.

Commander Martin Hunter was a unique young man among men, who commanded a unique SEAL team of men and women. All sixty-four of his team members were part of the failed military program to create genetically enhanced soldiers in the early 21st century. In late 2035, a dozen military and civilian scientists, some of the finest minds in gene research, were given the go ahead to put their genetic engineering minds together and begin the Genome Program. Using altered DNA sequences, they were able to breed genetically improved soldiers. These soldiers would have three times the endurance and strength than normal soldiers. They would be able to fight longer and harder than normal men and women without rest. Each of the military branches was given five units of seventy-two genetically enhanced men and women. Martin and his team were the first group to be born and bred from the scientist's test tubes. They were assigned to the Navy to be raised and schooled. From a very young age, they were trained and schooled in small unit operations and tactics. They were given the finest hand-to-hand combat training believed to exist in the Navy SEALs, all of their instructors being seasoned combat veterans. By the time they were eighteen they had officially been designated SEAL Team 12, and were activated as a unit.

In the course of the next fifteen years, they conducted fifty-nine operations in three separate wars. During that span of time, they suffered only eight members killed in action. They became known as the Team that could not fail. During that time, they earned the respect of every other SEAL Team, and were accepted into the small family of Navy SEALs. They were also the most successful of the Genome units in the military, and drew rave praise from the scientists who created them. The Genome program was a huge success initially, but the scientists never counted on the stresses and horrors of war and constant action. In the eleventh year of active duty existence for the Genomes, the problems began happening.

They began in the Marine units first. The Genomes began to disobey orders and conduct unsanctioned missions. Dozens of them began to mentally snap and go on bloody killing rampages. After three years of trying to determine what the problem was, and hundreds of humiliating and painful experiments, the Genome Program was officially closed, and all the remaining Genomes were secluded for further testing and elimination.

Specially trained teams from the government called "Sweeper" teams were used to eliminate the Genome soldiers determined to be unstable. Only SEAL Team 12 and one unit from the Air Force survived the Genome Purge, as it came to be known. The members of SEAL Team 12 were subjected to countless tests to try to determine why they were different. No instance of mental degradation had occurred within their ranks, and all of their members remained fit and in command of their facilities. The same was found for the Air Force's unit of Genomes, and again... no reason was ever determined. Since no reason was ever found and the need for their advanced skills and experience were needed they were returned to active duty. It was only seven months ago that Martin learned that his Team had been selected to be the new Security Force for a new base that was completing activation. This base was in a place none of them had ever been.

EDEN was on the moon.

EDEN was a sprawling base under control of the United States, but allowing many in the International Community to be part of its eight thousand-member crew. SEAL Team 12 was in charge of all security operations on EDEN thanks to a senior Admiral who had worked with Martin during the Central American War, and now was Commander of EDEN.

Martin was thirty-four years old now, his six foot two, two hundred twenty pound frame still just as hard and muscular as when he was eighteen. He bore the scars of five Purple Hearts received during the many missions they had conducted, yet he remained steadfastly loyal to his country and his Team. His genetically enhanced eyes focused on the SEAL closest to the terminal, and he saw his teammate as if he was only a few feet away, though to anyone not looking through enhanced vision devices, they would see only darkness and driving rain.

Martin Hunter had worked hard and long to obtain the status he now held. There had been times over the course of the years when he had questioned who and what he was, for his abilities far outweighed what any of the scientists had envisioned they would, in many more ways than they knew, but those questions had never affected his duties as Team Leader. He looked out for his team, and they looked out for him. He had been told by the man who had created him that the animal DNA that he and two others had been grafted with was that of a wolf, and over the course of the following years Martin had come to consider his SEAL Team his wolf pack, his family unit. He never revealed to anyone that it was he and the two others within his unit that had saved their fellow team members from the Genome Purge. It was something within their blood, something that had changed them even more than what the scientists said it would, and once they realized that Genomes were snapping and going crazy, and that they were not affected by this defect, they agreed to make the rest of their team members like them, in order to save them. Very few individuals outside of his SEAL Team, the man who had raised and created them and their commanding officer knew what he and his people could do, and they worked very hard to keep it that way.

“How goes the loading Chief Roberts?” Martin asked casually, as if he was talking to the window. His eyes however were focused on the senior Chief who stood apart from the others on the tarmac.

The SEAL on the tarmac did not turn at the voice of his commander in his head. All of SEAL team Twelve was equipped with transmitters and receivers implanted just under their skin along their jaw lines and the ridges of their ears. It allowed them to communicate openly and keep their hands free for other matters.

“We’d be done by now if it wasn’t for the fact we had to unseal and repack four crates Skipper.” The man replied.

“Explain.” Martin told him.

“Some tech head basically ignored our instructions on stowing his gear. The crates were not sealed properly. We had to crack them open and repack six thousand pounds of equipment. Mostly research stuff it looked like.” Roberts replied.

“Assigned to whom?” Martin asked.

“Manifest said a Lieutenant Commander Peterson.” Roberts answered. “I’d like to take the young Lieutenant Commander out back and take from his hide what we had to repack. Some of that equipment was pretty advanced Skipper.”

Martin was quiet for a moment, his eyes staring into the darkness. “How much longer until the load out is complete?” He inquired finally.

“Give us another forty minutes Skipper and we’ll be set.”

“You got thirty.” Martin said quickly. “I want to be boarding by 0100. The weather report says this storm will let up by 0300 and I want to be gone before it does.”

Martin saw Roberts nod his head. “Aye, Skipper. We’ll get it done.”

Martin turned when he sensed and smelled the presence of another person behind him. Due to his genetic engineering Martin and the members of his team all possessed an animal acute sense of smell, sight and hearing. In fact all of their known senses were much more acute than the normal human and it made it next to impossible to sneak up on them. It also allowed them to do many things others could not, including tracking individuals by their scent alone over great distances. He turned slowly, knowing only a member of his team could move quiet enough to get this close to him. He smiled when he saw his third in command.

“Sneaking up on me Master Chief?” He asked.

The six foot six Master Chief grinned from ear to ear as he stepped up to Martin, his ebony skin gleaming in the light of the terminal. His bald head reflected the intense light of the florescent fixtures fitted into the ceiling. He had been born three minutes after Martin, coming from the same batch of Genomes that the entire team had been chosen from, and he had been the first that Martin had saved on that moon lit night.

“I don’t think I could do that Skipper, even on my best day. Danny might... but I’m still trying.” He spoke with a grin. He held out the small automatic in the belt holster. “I got her tuned up for you. She’ll knock down a gnat at a hundred yards.”

Martin took the weapon with a nod and slid it around to the small of his back where he lifted his jacket and clipped it to the belt on his pants. He pulled his jacket back down and to the untrained eye; it looked as if nothing was there. “I appreciate it Master Chief.” He spoke.

“That’s what we are for, sir!” He replied chuckling.

Martin looked at the crowd through the doorway. “You had a chance to mingle?” He asked turning fully to face the large window from which he could view the men and women inside the lounge.

“I checked out the manifests on everyone.” He nodded slowly. “They all seem to check out ok.”

Martin detected the change in the Chief’s tone of voice and looked at him. “They seemed to check out ok?” He asked.

“There are about three dozen men and women. All of them are listed as technicians of some sort. They just don’t fit the profile of a Tech head Skipper.” The Master Chief answered.

“Explain that to me.” Martin asked.

The Master Chief shrugged. “They move like killers, very confident of themselves and their ability to deal with anything. And their eyes give them away as something other than mere technicians.”

Martin met his eyes, “Your opinion Master Chief?”

“If I had to guess, I’d say they were a Sweeper Team Skipper.” The Master Chief replied without hesitation.

Martin's face did not betray his reaction at hearing that, "A Sweeper team?" He spoke calmly. "Why would someone send a Sweeper Team to EDEN?"

"I don't know Skipper. I thought they had disbanded all the Sweeper Teams when they restored us to active duty. That's what they told us anyway." The Master Chief spoke.

"It would seem that is not the case." Martin said evenly, trusting that Tony knew exactly what his senses were telling him. "Have someone keep an eye on them Master Chief. Discretely."

The Master Chief nodded and stepped closer so that his voice would not carry. "You want me to tag them Skipper?"

Martin returned the nod. "And rig their quarters as well Tony. With the new TAP transmitters. I don't want them found. I want to know why a Sweeper Team is coming to EDEN."

"You don't think the Admiral...?"

Martin shook his head quickly. "No. He wouldn't request a Sweeper Team be deployed to EDEN. I trust him Master Chief, and he trusts us. He knows what we are and what we can do for the most part and he's never betrayed us... and he's always covered our asses."

"Then who Skipper?"

Martin was about to speak when the noise from the men and women gathered in the lounge grew slightly softer, at least to their enhanced hearing. They turned to see two men and a woman in a Navy uniform come in the opposite door. They knew immediately who the tall middle-aged man, his face was plastered across the evening news almost every night, and he was well known in the political circles of Washington D.C. Martin was still trying to figure out how he managed to wrangle a trip to EDEN.

The Master Chief detected the slight stiffening of Martin's body when the women came into full view. Tony turned and took a longer look at the young women. Even in the unflattering Navy uniform, she was drop dead gorgeous. She stood about five foot three and looked to be about a hundred and fifteen pounds. Her Persian red hair was shoulder length, longer than Navy regulations allowed, but she had it pulled into a tight ponytail and tied up. She had high regal cheekbones, and soft full red lips. He could see her eyes from across the room, a unique and brilliant gleaming jade green in color; they were unlike any eyes he had seen on a woman before. The color of her eyes highlighted and contrasted with her deeply tanned skin, and the light makeup she wore only accented that contrast. Her uniform could not hide her full, firm breasts and lean muscular legs under the Navy skirt. Her legs were long for someone of her height and as she turned slightly he saw that they connected to a perfectly shaped and muscled ass. She walked with the confidence of a pro and he noticed how most of the men in her immediate area turned to stare at her with lust in their eyes.

"Who is she Skipper?" The Master Chief asked, his eyes still watching her.

"Her name is Anja Peterson." Martin replied slowly, his voice carrying with it a hint of deep feeling. A note of feeling that was quickly squashed. "Commander Anja Peterson of the Naval Investigative Service."

The Chief's head snapped around to look at him. "She's NIS?" He asked stunned.

Martin Hunter nodded. "Oh yeah, their top operative depending on who you ask. They call her the "Ice Queen"." Martin spoke, his voice holding something in it that Tony had never heard before. "Remember that intelligence briefing we got last year, the one that listed the operation to eliminate the head of the Russian mafia? SEAL team Seven supported the op and conducted the extraction?"

"Yeah. It was a smooth Operation from what I know. No problems in or out." The Master Chief replied.

"She's the one who did the target." Martin spoke evenly. "I talked with Commander Williams after they returned stateside; it took her four months to get in deep enough to get the target's attention. When she did... the guy got sloppy, falling all over himself to do what she wanted."

The Chief looked at Anja from across the small lounge. She carried herself with an almost regal grace, as if she knew she could get anything she wanted. The chief turned back to his officer. "You got to admit boss... looking at her does get your juices to flowing. How could you not want that body next to you in the rack?" The Chief spoke.

Martin grinned knowingly. "She speaks three languages fluently, including Russian. Her mother was Russian. She has a Degree in Biology, and a Master's in Genetic research. She has used her looks and her body on more than one occasion to secure completion of a mission. And outside of her duties as well, to garner favor with the desk pukes at NIS to move her forward quicker and get her what she wanted for her genetic testing research."

The Chief looked at Anja again, watching her as she made her way towards them. He saw the males in the room turning to look at her and drink in her sexuality. She knew she was gorgeous and that men wanted her, and she used that knowledge to perfection. The men in the room, including the married ones, would give a years pay for one night with her, and she knew it.

“So why is she coming to EDEN, Skipper?” The Chief asked.

Martin looked at him. “I was told she was coming to evaluate us Chief.” He answered with a smirk. “To make sure SEAL Team Twelve and our genetically improved asses are in ship shape order.”

“What the hell does that mean?” The Chief asked, his face wrinkling up.

“It means that she’s coming here to insure that we are still a stable portion of the US military.” Martin told him. “And that none of us has blown a mental gasket.”

“You serious Skipper?”

“Deadly serious.” Martin spoke, all humor gone from his voice. “The Admiral got wind of this about two months ago. The NIS is unsure if putting our team in charge of EDEN’s security was a good decision. They prodded a few Senators to authorize this investigation. And they put their top agent on it.”

“Commander Peterson?”

Martin nodded with a small smile. “She’s the hatchet man. She’s come to see if we are still stable components of the Navy and if we can be trusted.”

“What a load of shit, Skipper!” The Chief spoke. “There ain’t nothing wrong with our people! You sound like you know her well boss. What’s up with that?”

Martin nodded slowly, remembering that night so many years ago as if it was only yesterday. Even half way across the room, Martin could still pick out her sweet honey scent from the dozens of other in the room. “I know her, or I thought I knew her.” He replied softly. “Right now she is working directly for Senator Graham on this. He’s that greasy looking bastard standing to her left, the same Senator Graham that has wanted to can our overworked asses for years. That’s his son, following along with her, drool pouring from his mouth.” He explained. “Apparently the two of them are engaged.”

“That drugged up sleaze bucket is engaged to her?” The Master Chief echoed. “He doesn’t look like he’d know what end to put it in.”

Martin chuckled. “I agree whole heartedly.”

The Chief saw Anja look their way and he saw her face change as she turned and headed directly for them. He looked at Martin, smiling. “I’m out of here, sir. I’ll let you deal with her!”

Martin smiled back. “That Russian Mob boss Chief?”

“Yeah?”

“I got a copy of the autopsy from a friend. She popped him as he was filling her tight little body with his little Russian sausage.” Martin made the shape of a gun and pointed it at his forehead. “One 40mm round between the eyes as he was popping inside her according to the lab reports. They found semen from an unidentified female mixed in with his all over the sheets on the bed.”

“Christ that’s cold Skipper!”

Martin nodded. “That’s why they call her the Ice Queen Master Chief.” He said, turning back to see Anja’s stunning jade green eyes looking at him from less than six feet away.

Twenty-nine year old Anja Peterson stepped up to Martin, a dazzling smile on her face, her eyes bright and alive. Martin felt his own heart skip a couple beats looking at this woman in front of him as her scent filled his nostrils once more. A scent only he and his people could detect. Every man, woman and child had their own unique scent, and telling them apart came like second nature to Martin and the others now. Anja’s scent however, her scent was one Martin would never forget, as he had burned it into his mind and had ever since that night.

“Commander Martin Hunter.” Anja spoke, her voice soft and seductive. “Your reputation precedes you Commander.” She held out her hand to him.

Martin took her hand gently, dreading that this day had come now. He had hoped to never have to see Anja again, especially not after the night they had shared. It seemed fate wasn’t going to allow him that. “So does yours Commander Peterson.” He spoke calmly. “So does yours.”

Anja Peterson smiled at him, her green eyes twinkling. “It’s been a long time Martin.” She spoke softly.

“Yes, it has Anja.” Martin replied, not returning her smile. “Not long enough it seems.”

Anja stared at his handsome face as the memories of that night flooded back to her. She was a newly promoted lieutenant in the NIS, and had just been assigned her first mission. She was to track and expose a traitor at a State function in a foreign embassy. She did not know that Martin had been assigned to security for the Ambassador to cover his mission, which was essentially the same as hers. He was there to take the traitor into custody and interrogate him. They had not known each other before that night, but they had spotted each other from across the crowded room and been instantly attracted to one another. When he had approached her Anja had been struck by his imposing physical form and expected him to be another knuckledragger Navy SEAL. She had met them before, always so arrogant and sure of themselves as if their shit did not stink, yet none of them had a wit of common sense about them. Martin was dressed in his Navy uniform, and she noticed the SEAL Trident right away, and she was wearing a very sexy and stunning red cocktail dress. They had chatted briefly, and Anja was taken aback by his casual demeanor and quiet humor, and they had exchanged phone numbers before going their separate ways within the embassy. There was something about him that had drawn her like no other man she had met before. He didn't react as so many did when confronted with a beautiful woman. He was respectful and polite and didn't stare at her tits, which her dress showed off quite spectacularly.

Anja Peterson was not yet cleared for information into the Genome project, and she did not know what Martin Hunter was at that point in her life; but based on everything that had happened to her since their night together, she didn't know if that was a good thing or a bad thing. They had ended up taking down the traitor in the foreign ambassador's office as he was beginning to transmit secret documents via computer. After a brief fight with the man and his two cohorts, their mission was successfully completed and a traitor to their nation was in custody.

Anja invited Martin back to her apartment in Washington to celebrate the mission completely on an impulse. He had accepted and they had gone back to her brownstone. They drank an excellent wine and talked with each other for over an hour, something Anja had almost never done with a man, before the sexual energy that was building between them took over. Anja didn't remember how they had ended up in her bed, only that they had, and it led to the most exquisite and pleasurable evening she had ever experienced even to this day. Anja knew she was beautiful, and knew that she could get any man to do her bidding. She knew what she wanted when it came to sex, and she got what she wanted for the most part.

With Martin Hunter however, it had been very different. He had taken control almost immediately, his lips and tongue extinguishing any protest she might have had with toe curling kisses, that didn't so much make her melt in his arms as they had brought out her desires more intensely. His hands had explored every square inch of her body, trailed shortly afterwards by his warm tongue. He brought her to climaxes that were more powerful than any she had ever felt, yet left her yearning for more. He met her demanding need with an equally demanding persona. His body was sculpted muscle, he was built larger than any man she had had before him, and even to this day, no one had matched his size in that department. Anja was no virgin by any means, but even the men that were larger than the norm didn't know what to do with their cock. To them size was everything, and nothing else mattered. Martin not only had a huge cock, but he knew exactly what to do with it to make Anja sing like she never had before.

Anja found herself exploring his body as well with her lips and tongue, something she had never done with any man. She found herself enjoying the power she had over his body, but also the ability he had over her to use it. They had shared each other's bodies well into the early morning, until she had finally collapsed from total exhaustion. When she awakened several hours later, he was gone, but he had left her a single rose with a note asking if they could see each other again soon. Anja found herself wanting to see him again. They had many things in common with each other, more so than the men did in her three previous private relationships. He left a private number where she could reach him, and she noticed it was a number with the same prefix as most Virginia based SEALs, yet she mused about it all day. She enjoyed her career and her job, and did not want a relationship to tie her down or ruin that. It was ultimately a visit by her father, a Vice Admiral, that convinced her what to do. In addition, her father got her clearance and then informed her of what Martin Hunter was, and what the Navy unit he commanded was made of.

Anja took almost a week to research Martin Hunter and the Genome project as much as her clearance allowed her too. When she finally worked up the nerve to call Martin and tell him there could never be anything between them, the Central American War was three days old, and Martin Hunter and SEAL Team 12 had already deployed. She never heard from him again, but the memories of that night came flooding back as she looked at him. She had followed his career as much as possible over the last seven years, but always kept quiet about their brief but very intense relationship.

“You don’t seem happy to see me.” She said, her green eyes twinkling.

“Should I be?” Martin asked. “I know why you are here Anja. I don’t like it; not one bit. There is nothing wrong with me or my people, and you know it.”

“What do you mean?”

Martin stepped closer to her. “Don’t insult my intelligence by feigning ignorance Anja. You are too intelligent for that. We both know who you work for, and why you are coming to EDEN.”

“I’m just following orders Martin.” Anja spoke sweetly.

“Were you following orders back then too? Your father’s orders maybe?” Martin threw the jab at her for some reason which he could not fathom.

Anja’s eyes narrowed slightly. “That... that isn’t fair Martin!” She hissed softly at him. “You... you never told me you were a Genome!”

“Pardon me, but if I remember correctly, and I am a Genome mind you, so my memory is perfect, I don’t recall you wanting me to stop what I was doing so you could ask that question.” Martin spoke in a low voice. “If I had told you, would it have mattered then?”

Anja met his dark eyes, deep pools of mystery that she had stared into for quite a few hours on that night. “It might have.” She finally blurted out, knowing it was a lie.

“So if I had told you I was a Genome you wouldn’t have slept with me?” Martin asked, his voice tinged with anger.

Anja’s face flushed even under her deep tan, and her eyes narrowed even more. “You should have told me before we... before...”

“Before we ended up enjoying ourselves too much?” Martin asked in a soft voice so that only she could hear him, but the anger was still there. “Forgive me, but it didn’t cross my mind at the time, and you didn’t seem to be complaining or be in any rush to have me stop what I was doing. I thought we were having too much fun. I guess I was the only one actually enjoying myself.”

Anja regained control of her racing emotions and looked at him. “I have a job to do, Martin. I hope you don’t get in my way.”

“Get in your way?” Martin chuckled stepping closer to her, so close in fact that Anja could smell his musky mint aroma. She had commented to him that night about what aftershave he wore because it smelled so good, and he had replied that he didn’t wear aftershave. “I’m EDEN’s Chief of Security Commander. As long as your job doesn’t interfere with my duties, we should get along just fine.”

“I have orders from...”

“Anja, there you are.” The male voice spoke from behind her interrupting what she was going to say.

The young man that had entered the lounge with her stepped up next to her and slipped his arm around her waist possessively. He was extremely handsome and of medium height, and was wearing what looked to be a two thousand dollar suit. His blond hair was neatly cut, his blue eyes dull with too much alcohol and drug use.

Anja forced a smile and pushed his arm from her waist as casually as she could. “Kevin, I’d like you to meet Commander Martin Hunter.” She spoke.

Kevin Graham, son of the most anti-genome senator in the country and a well-known junkie, looked at Martin, “Ah... the Genome.” He said.

Martin smiled at him, and had Kevin been more intelligent he would have seen the smile as what it was; a predatory grin from a wild animal about to strike, “Yeah... the Genome.” Martin said.

“Martin, this is Kevin Graham. Senator Graham’s son.” Anja explained quickly, seeing the look on Martin’s face and recognizing it for what it was. Anja however mistook the reason it was there, and for that matter so did Martin.

Martin folded his arms across his chest as Kevin held out his hand. “Yes, I know who he is.” Martin spoke maintaining control of his emotions. Seeing Kevin put his arm around Anja had sent a surge of anger through him and he didn’t know why. “I didn’t realize he was coming on this trip.”

“Senator Graham felt it would be a good experience for him. Kevin is campaigning for the 19th district in Virginia.” Anja told him.

Martin glanced at the Master Chief who was standing over to the side motioning him over. “That’s very nice. I wish you luck. I have work to do, if you’ll excuse me.” Martin glanced quickly at Anja before turning and heading for where the Master Chief stood.

Anja watched him move through the mass of men and women with confidence and grace. She smiled to herself as she remembered how she had reacted to his body against hers. The heat of his skin and the power of his body, it was almost as if he had some sort of unique aura that caused her to desire him so much. Or was it her own desire for him that made her react the way she did? Even after all this time Anja thought to herself, looking at his broad back, that one night they had spent together caused her to become damp between her thighs. It was going to be a very interesting assignment she thought.

“Arrogant asshole,” Kevin muttered drawing her attention, “Typical Genome.”

Anja looked at him, her smile fading away. “Don’t ever grab me like that again.” She growled at him in a low voice.

Kevin looked at her. “Like what? I’ve grabbed you like that before. In much, more public places. We are engaged, remember!”

“I am not a trophy Kevin!” Anja spat at him, the anger she was feeling very new and very intense. It was almost as if she was angry that Kevin had put his arm around her in front of Martin. “And you will not treat me like one! Is that understood?”

Kevin smiled. “Relax Anja.” He told her. “I only wanted to put the Commander in his place. He is a Genome. They are known to be volatile and explosive. I wanted to put him in his place right away, so you don’t feel threatened.”

Anja shook her head and smiled a sad smile. “Believe me, the last thing Martin Hunter feels threatened by is you.” Anja was beginning to regret saying yes to Kevin when he asked her to marry him six months ago. She had done so to advance her career and to make her father happy. He was worried she would be led astray by events that were happening in the military, and felt marrying Kevin Graham would solidify her position within the Senator’s entourage, and give her a leg up when she left the Navy. Anja hated having Kevin paw her body at odd times to prove his manhood to others, and having sex with him was revolting to her, even when she was drunk.

Kevin took her hand. “C’mon, my father is expecting an initial report of contact with Hunter.”

Anja let him lead her back through the mass of people, quietly thinking how Kevin would surely get his ass handed to him if he tried to pull the same stunts with the Genome soldiers as he had with everyone else he knew. It brought a smile to her face picturing Martin hanging him over a railing somewhere putting his arrogant ass in its place.

Martin and the Master Chief stood to one side of the line that was formed to walk through the three metal detectors. Each of the Raptor Jump ships could hold two hundred and fifty people in the part of the cargo hold that had been configured for airline seating, and these were the last groups of technicians and scientists that would be joining EDEN’s eight thousand-member crew. Martin turned when he heard his name called. He watched as Admiral William H. Wallace III walked up to him with another man who Martin recognized right away.

Senator Richard Graham was one of the most senior Senators within the US government. He was Chairman of several committees, including the Intelligence Oversight Committee. He was also the most vocal anti-Genome man in the government, and made sure everyone knew that. He was a man of medium height with gray just touching his brown hair. He wore what appeared to be a three thousand dollar suit, just like his son, and was impeccably groomed. The Admiral was holding his arm as they came up to where he and the Master Chief stood.

Admiral Wallace was a man that Martin would follow to hell and back. He was a true leader of men who had worked his way up in the ranks because of what he had accomplished in his career, and not because of some political connections. He was a tall muscular man, with just a touch of white hair on his mostly bald head. A man in excellent physical condition, who had lobbied hard to get SEAL Team Twelve this post on EDEN. Martin didn’t know why, and never really bothered enough to ask, but Wallace had always been there to look out for him and his team over the years, earning him Martin's trust and respect. There was something about the Admiral that made him feel relaxed and comfortable whenever he was in his presence.

"Martin..." He spoke stopping in front of him. "I told Senator Graham I would introduce you before we boarded. Senator, this is Commander Martin Hunter, EDEN's Chief of Security."

Richard Graham hesitated before extending his hand to shake Martin's outstretched one. He looked at him quickly. "So you are the Genome Commander?" He asked wiping his hand on his pants after shaking Martin's hand. This did not go unnoticed by Wallace or Martin.

Martin couldn't help but grin as he saw Anja approach from behind the Senator with his son. He nodded. "Yes sir." He replied, "Sequence One; Batch Number nine eight three four one."

Richard Graham looked slightly surprised. "You remember your batch number?" He asked, clearly taken aback.

Martin nodded. "Yes, sir; It's kind of hard to forget, when it's tattooed to the inside of your thigh." He replied.

Anja's eyes narrowed slightly at hearing this. She did not remember any number tattoo on the inside of Martin's thigh, and she had willingly and quite happily spent enough time between his legs to notice. Of the sexual partners she had over the years, Martin was the only man Anja had willingly sucked off, and she had done it on more than one occasion that night as she remembered, each time with delightful gusto.

Martin was the only one who noticed her reaction and he inwardly grinned to himself, knowing what must be racing through her head.

"So you believe you have the security of EDEN well in hand, Commander?" Graham asked.

Martin nodded. "Yes, sir, EDEN is the most secure facility the United States has right now. And not just because she is several million miles away. We have state of the art systems installed and my men, as well as the rest of EDEN's security force, are intimately familiar with all of them."

Graham nodded, as if he wasn't in the least bit interested, "Very well." He said.

Admiral Wallace realized that the conversation wasn't going to proceed anymore and motioned with his hand. "Senator, if you'll follow me, the loading ramp to our jump ship is further down the terminal."

Graham nodded and turned to walk with the Admiral. Martin looked at Anja and Kevin as they came up to him. Kevin had a smug look on his face.

"Can I help you?" He asked.

"We are ready to board." Anja said.

Martin glanced at the Master Chief quickly before looking back to her. "I believe the line for boarding is back there." He spoke.

"We have special clearance Commander." Anja said. "You know that."

Martin shook his head. "No one has special clearance unless I give it. Everyone has to pass through the detectors before they board. All this information was in the packets that were handed out, along with your security passes." He looked at her, and then at Kevin, "Which I don't see, by the way."

"What security passes?" Anja asked.

"They were in the packets given to you when you entered the terminal as I told you." Martin explained. "Without those security passes you will not be allowed to board."

"I gave... I gave them to my assistant." Kevin stuttered.

"Then I would suggest you find your assistant and get them back." Martin spoke. He could barely hold back the grin as Kevin turned and started down the long line of men and women looking for his assistant. He turned back to Anja who had taken a step closer to him.

"Playing games Martin?" She asked, her voice cold.

Martin shook his head. "Me? Play games? I wouldn't think of it. You have just forgotten how to follow instructions." He told her.

"I was promised your full corporation!" Anja hissed at him. "Are you going to let what happen between us begin interfering with how you follow orders?"

Martin's smile faded and he glared at her. "What happened between us Lieutenant Commander Peterson is ancient history; you saw to that!" He told her. "I have long put it behind me. What you need to do, is realize that we operate like any other military facility, and we have rules that need to be followed. If you can't handle that, I suggest you let the good Senator know, and we can find someone to take your place. The next scheduled trip back to earth is in four months!”

Anja bit back her sharp reply, knowing that to argue with him now would do no good. She took a deep breath and forced a smile to return to her face.

“Will that be all, sir?” She asked sweetly.

“That’s all. Dismissed.”

Anja spun around smartly and followed Kevin to find their security passes. Martin turned as the Master Chief came up next to him.

“Is it smart to piss her off Skipper?” He asked. “She does have the Senator’s ear.”

“What’s Admiral Wallace’s rule for facing the enemy Tony?” He asked.

The Master Chief smiled. “Keep them guessing.”

Martin nodded. “Keep them guessing. Moreover, that’s what I intend to do with the good Commander Peterson. Keep her guessing.”

“She’s got smarts as well as beauty Skipper.” The Master Chief said. “She’ll catch on real quick.”

Martin nodded. “Maybe, however, by then we’ll be on EDEN, and there won’t be a thing she can do about it. The Senator is only staying for a few weeks. She’s assigned for the full year.”

The Master Chief grinned. “You didn’t?” He asked.

Martin nodded with a smile. “It pays to have friends in low places Chief. You know that. I had MILPERSEN permanently assign her as an attachment to SEAL Team 12. She’ll be with us a while.”

The Master Chief broke out in a booming laugh. He shook his head. “Now I know why I don’t play poker with you skipper. You are devious.”

Martin nodded, “Only when I’m in battle Master Chief. Only when I’m in battle.”

They both were laughing as they turned back to watch the procession of people into the waiting Raptor Jump ships.

Martin moved through the upper deck of the Raptor Jump ship making his way forward to the cockpit as men and women were settling into their chairs. He barely glanced at Anja and Kevin who were sitting together, and he did not see her eyes linger on him for a long moment. He passed through the small doorway into the spacious cockpit and saw the two pilots prepping the ship for takeoff. He glanced at the small door and debated whether to go upstairs into the observation lounge for take off, but decided against it and settled into the engineering seat behind them.

“How goes it folks?” He asked.

“Four minutes.” The pilot answered, turning back to look at him. He wore a Marine Corp flight suit with gold oak leaf clusters on the shoulder boards. “All our guests got their seatbelts on Boss man?”

“We’re secure in the back.” Martin replied, settling into the chair at the computer station behind the pilot.

The Major glanced through the open doorway and looked at the long rows of seats now occupied by men and women. “Man, I hate transporting REMFs.”

The female co-pilot chuckled and looked at him. She wore Captain’s bars and a Marine Corp flight suit as well, “C’mon Ben.” She spoke. “We need to work on your social skills.”

The pilot, Major Benjamin O’Connell, looked at her with a grin. “Can we start with you?” He asked, wagging his eyebrows. “I might need extra training Tina.”

“We’ll see big boy.” Tina Winston said in reply. “We’ll see.”

Martin shook his head at the antics of the pair. They were the best damn flight crew he had ever worked with. They had taken him and his team into some of the nastiest places on earth, and always came back to get them. Even when they were ordered not to. They were also very much an item, almost never apart even when they weren’t flying, and there were rumors that they would end up getting married in the next year or so.

“Ramp coming up,” The voice on the intercom spoke from the back.

Both Ben and Tina became all business from that point on. Ben turned back to the consoles that were wrapped around him on three sides. They looked like something from a science fiction movie of old.

“Ok, bring the engines to max thrust.” Ben spoke his voice cool and calm, “Stabilizers to full extension.”

“Stabilizers at full,” Tina spoke, her hands seeming to fly across her equally space age consoles, “Engines spooling to max power. Bringing the navigation array online, and activating defensive systems.”

The Raptor Jump Ships were equipped with the most advanced offensive and defensive systems known to exist. They could fly invisible to all known radar due to the advanced reflecting armor coating the skin of the craft. The heat from the engines was vented and cooled before it ever reached the air. They were affectionately referred to as RAPTORS by the pilots and co-pilots because of their awesome capabilities and firepower. Martin secured his form in the seat and flipped several switches on the console in front of him. The screens came alive with the faces of the men and women in the back.

“How many lose their lunch?” Tina asked, not looking up from her console.

“I say thirty.” Ben spoke, his eyes focused on his own screens.

Martin chuckled and shook his head. “I got 50 that say only ten blow chunks.” He spoke. “Most of the people coming up this time have already undergone heavy G training.”

“Damn!” Ben muttered. “That’s too bad.”

“Why complain?” Tina asked. “We spent three hours cleaning up the cargo area after the last flight up. The smell made me sick myself. Twice.”

Ben laughed. “You should have heard her cuss you Marty.” He spoke.

Martin turned in his chair. “Me? Why was it my fault?”

“You didn’t tell us that over half were fresh from the academy, and had no heavy G training. They lost it six minutes into the flight!” Tina complained. “We had to fly fourteen hours with the air filters working triple time.”

Martin smiled as he turned back to the screens. He centered one screen on Anja and Kevin, who were speaking quietly together. She looked like she had a very bored expression on her face. Tina glanced back at just that time and saw him gazing at the stunning young woman on the screen.

“Someone you know?” She asked.

Martin nodded, “A long time ago.” He said softly, “A long time ago.”

Ben turned quickly and saw Anja on the screen. He whistled loudly. “Wow! Look at those...”

Tina punched him in the shoulder hard enough to shut him up. “Don’t you finish that statement big boy!”

“Ow!” Ben exclaimed. “What did you hit me for?”

“Just fly the damn ship!” She spat.

“Is this jealousy I detect dear?” Ben asked, turning back to his controls.

“I’ll show you jealousy buster. Wait till we get back to EDEN.” Tina growled, but with a small smile on her face.

“Raptor Two, Raptor One, ready to depart!” The voice on their com spoke.

Ben nodded, “Raptor Two confirm. We are ready to depart! Lead us out of here Robby.”

“Raptor Two roger, we are lifting off!”

Martin turned and looked out the small windshield as Raptor One lifted into the air with a blast of its powerful engines. He watched as Ben and Tina pulled on their flight helmets and then Ben took the controls and did the same.

“Raptor One, we are airborne and on your six. Rotating ten degrees to come up under your aft wing. Let’s keep it tight until we clear the atmosphere Robby.” Ben spoke into his helmet mic.

“Roger that Major. Initiating atmosphere entry in thirty seconds. Throttles to seventy percent power. Activating Reflector armor and flight tracker. Say goodbye to earth for six months folks!” The voice spoke.

Martin was still amazed at the speed in which they ascended into the clouds. In ten seconds, he could see nothing but tiny specks of light on the ground, and then they were hidden by clouds as they entered the atmosphere.

Ben flipped a switch on the console, “Good morning everyone and welcome to Raptor flight. One-way service to EDEN. Please do not leave your seats until the word is given. We will be entering the atmosphere in twenty seconds and the ride will be quite rough for another forty seconds. Hope no one had anything to heavy to eat before we left. Barf bags are in the arms of your seats, so please use them. Flying time to EDEN is thirteen hours and forty-nine minutes from now. Enjoy the flight. And any complaints should be directed to Commander Hunter when we reach EDEN.”

Martin laughed and waved at Ben’s back. “Thanks Ben.” He spoke.

Ben smiled, “Always a pleasure boss.”

The two ships of Raptor flight entered the atmosphere of earth heading toward their new home on EDEN.

The Earth they would return to would never be the same.

Anja sat in her seat going over the packet that was handed out to them in the terminal. Kevin had predictably lost all the contents of his stomach upon taking off, and once the flight had smoothed out, he had begun drinking. Now, six hours into the flight he was passed out from five glasses of straight bourbon, and snoring lightly. Anja pulled the two security badges from the folder and looked at them. Her eyes grew dark and she looked toward the cockpit. She kept the badges in her hand and got to her feet, tossing the packet onto her seat as she moved into the aisle. She marched directly toward the cockpit holding the badges in front of her. She could see the backs of at least one of the pilots as she got closer, and she heard the laughter come from the cockpit as well.

Anja burst into the cockpit to see the two pilots talking with one another, the female with a smile on her face as she leaned against the back of the co-pilot’s seat. She turned and saw Martin sitting at the console, reading from a chart and drinking a cup of coffee. The female pilot got to her feet.

“Can I help you?” She asked.

Anja turned and looked at Martin as he lowered the chart and met her eyes. She ignored Tina and tossed the two security badges onto the table in front of him. “I was told I would have Level Six security access on EDEN. And Senator Graham’s son would have level Six as well.”

Martin looked at her as he lowered the chart completely to the top of the table, his dark eyes unreadable. “Who exactly told you that?” He asked.

“Senator Graham assured me I would have the proper clearance!” Anja snapped, her temper rearing its ugly head, “As would Kevin. You need to correct this! Right now!”

Martin set the mug of coffee on the small table and looked at her closely. He picked up the two badges and held them out to her. “Senator Graham does not dictate to me what level clearances I issue Anja. As Head of Security that is at my discretion, and only Admiral Wallace as the authority to override it, which to my knowledge that has not occurred in this instance.”

Anja crossed her arms under her full breasts, completely unaware of the seductive pose she was striking. “You will change the clearances now Commander Hunter. If you don’t, the minute we land on EDEN I will go directly to Senator Graham and have you relieved of duty, for disobeying orders.”

Tina looked at Ben and shook her head as she settled back into her flight seat. She seen senior officers with more guts than brains go up against Martin verbally over something they felt was wrong. In every case, Martin had slapped them down in as much time as it took for them to formulate the thought. Ben grinned and shook his head as well as he turned back to his instruments and sipped his own mug of coffee.

Martin’s expression did not change as he got to his feet and stepped alongside Anja. He didn’t see Anja close her eyes quickly as a wave of desire swept through her. A wave of overwhelming desire for Martin, and that stunned her. Martin touched the control panel and the cockpit hatch slid shut with a hiss. Martin stepped back and looked at Anja, who still wore a smug expression on her face. He towered over her five foot three height, but she held her ground admirably yet quite arrogantly.

“Well?” She snapped.

Martin looked at her as he fingered the badges in his hand. “What is your rank Anja?” He asked her in an even voice.

“Excuse me?”

“I asked you what your rank was.”

“You know damn well what my rank is!” Anja snapped, not understanding what this was leading up to.

Martin nodded. “Yes! I know what your rank is. And the last time I checked Lieutenant Commander Peterson, I was a full Commander, which means in case you have forgotten, I outrank you.”

“What does this have to do with...?”

“At ease Lieutenant Commander!” Martin barked.

“You have no right to...”

“At ease,” Martin almost shouted, causing Anja to take a step back and bang into the bulkhead of the ship. Martin was in her face before she had time to recover. “If you say another word, I’ll have the Master Chief lock you in the hold of this ship until we reach EDEN! Exactly who do you think you are to come in here and spout off to me? I decide who gets clearance on EDEN! Me! Not you! And for damn sure not Senator Graham! I don’t care what your mission or purpose is. You are still a member of the active duty Navy, and you will follow regulations. If you had looked hard enough at these badges before letting your ego overrule your brain, you would see that yours is a temporary clearance until you assumed your position on EDEN.” He glared at her, his dark eyes nearly obsidian in color and they made Anja feel very small at that moment. “As for the good Senator’s son, I have no intention of allowing your two bit drunken, drugged up boyfriend any kind of access anywhere on EDEN. He has a criminal record for Christ’s sake!”

“Kevin doesn’t have a criminal record!” Anja spoke defending him for some reason, but her response was delivered much less forcefully now.

“You should probably take a harder look at your dear fiancée Anja. He does have a record... and I will not allow him access to any secure areas of EDEN. Period! Senator Graham can scream to the president for all I care. It won’t matter to me or to the Admiral. I answer to him... and his next superior is the President of the United States. Senator Graham does not factor into my Chain of Command at any level thank God.” Martin took her hand and slapped the badges back into her palm. “I suggest you take these and go back to your seat before you step way over the line.”

“Martin... I...”

“Save it! You keep talking and you’re going to sink your budding career before it ever gets started.” Martin spoke.

Ben looked at Tina out of the corner of his eye and grinned, except Tina wasn’t looking at him. She was staring out her side window with a look of utter horror on her face.

Ben followed her gaze and his eyes flew open, “Holy Shit!” Ben screamed, dropping his mug of coffee and reaching for his flight controls. “Tina! Full power!”

Tina was frozen in place as she stared at the massive asteroid bearing down on them. It filled her window entirely now, gases and smaller asteroids trailing along behind it.

“Tina!” Ben screamed again, “Full Power!”

His voice was enough to snap her out of her trance and her hand flashed forward to slam the throttles all the way forward to max. Martin and Anja had turned to see why Ben had screamed, only to witness the massive asteroid filling their view.

“Oh my god,” Anja muttered.

Ben shoved his flight stick all the way over to the left as the gravity leading the asteroid hit Raptor Two, sending Martin and Anja slamming hard into the bulkhead. Martin absorbed most of the impact and it was enough to knock him silly as Anja’s head collided with his jaw. The massive g-force from the turn pushed them against the bulkhead as the Raptor went into a turn it was never designed to endure!

The last thing Martin heard before the heavy Gs forced him to black out was Anja and Tina praying softly before they too succumb to the massive pressure.

CHAPTER TWO

Tina’s voice is what stirred Martin from his fog of blackness. He was jammed up against the navigation computer and he felt a weight on his chest as his eyes regained their focus. He saw the mass of red hair stirring on his chest and ignored the throbbing from the back of his head as the picture of the massive asteroid popped back into his memory. Anja was stirring on his chest, her body haphazardly sprawled across his, her navy regulation skirt hiked quite far up her tanned thigh. He had absorbed the brunt of the impact, cushioning Anja’s fall, and if not for his genetically engineered triple dense bone structure, his skull would have cracked open upon impacting with the navicomputer. Martin grasped Anja’s arms.

“Are you hurt?” He asked.

Anja lifted her head slowly. “Yes damn it! My head hit your jaw!” She snapped back, with no regard that his jaw had probably saved her from snapping her neck.

Martin grunted in contempt and unceremoniously dumped her off his body and got to his feet. Anja’s butt hit the deck with a thud and she let out a gasp.

“All you had to do was ask me to get up!” She nearly yelled, all the while holding her sore head.

Martin grasped the back of the two flight chairs to steady himself and could see nothing but stars out the cockpit window. Both Ben and Tina were engrossed in their consoles and did not notice that he was awake and moving again.

“Report,” He spoke.

Ben’s head snapped around and Martin saw the deep gash over his left eye, though it looked as if the bleeding had stopped. He saw Martin’s look and waved his hand. “It looks worse than it is.” He spoke. “You took the brunt of that slam into the navicomputer. How’s your head?”

Martin nodded, running his hand over the back of his skull, “Sore... even as hard as my head is.” He replied. “What the hell happen?”

Ben pointed out the left window and Martin followed his motion. He could still see the huge asteroid as it moved away from their location. He also caught a glimpse of RAPTOR ONE maintaining station slightly behind them, “That happened.” Ben replied pointing to the massive asteroid “Crept up on us out of no where. Our sensors didn’t even pick it up. Don’t know why yet.”

“We didn’t pick it up because it’s composed of hardened gases. Our sensors registered the increase in gases, but since we’ve never seen anything like that before, they didn’t equate it to a threat.” Tina spoke from her console.

“Not a threat!” Martin exclaimed. “The damn thing is nearly as big as an aircraft carrier! How is that not a threat?”

“Our instruments are calibrated for solid objects.” Tina explained looking at him. “Not gases that form huge rocks.”

“Is the ship ok?” Martin asked.

“Aside from the large dent and blown board from your stone head, we’re fine.” Ben replied with a grin, even though he winced when he chuckled. He was going to have a massive head ache from knocking his skull on the overhead console. “You were only out for about three minutes. If you hadn’t been chewing out the Lieutenant Commander and were in your seat, you would have been fine.”

Anja struggled to her feet leaning against the damaged console, “Very funny.” She said, her voice dripping with contempt.

Ben turned on her then, in no mood for games anymore. “No it’s not funny Commander. Now take your tight ass back into the passenger area and next time you want to come into my cockpit, you’d better ask fucking permission! You copy that?!”

“Yes... sir.” Anja replied, wisely keeping her mouth closed and she slowly moved back through the open hatch into the passenger area.

Martin chuckled and looked at Ben, “Nicely done.” He said with a smile and patting Ben on the shoulder, “Any injuries in the back?”

“The Master Chief is checking.” Tina replied as Martin moved back to his chair.

“Do we have Coms with RAPTOR ONE?”

“Just an initial inquiry as to our condition,” Tina replied. “They were higher and to our front so they missed the thing altogether.” Tina spoke.

The bald head of the Master Chief came through the hatch just then and his eyes found Martin. “Skipper we got a couple of broken arms and some minor scratches, nothing serious. The onboard medics are handling it. I did a quick once over of the hull too, and our integrity seems ok.”

Ben nodded, tearing his eyes from one of the screens. “That’s what I’m reading too Master Chief. I’m having trouble raising EDEN though.”

“Chief... check the transmitter.” Martin ordered, switching on his two screens and seeing the medics moving among the badly shaken passengers.

The Master Chief nodded, “Aye Skipper.” He spoke before ducking back out of the hatch.

“Admiral Wallace is hailing Marty.” Tina spoke up.

Martin reached over and flipped several switches on his panel, and the face of Wallace appeared on the small screen. “RAPTOR TWO SIX actual.” He spoke.

“Martin?” Admiral Wallace’s voice came through the com system, his face on the screen. “Everyone ok over there? You guys took a nasty tumble.”

“We’re secure sir. My head put a rather large dent in the navicomputer, and we may have lost our long range transmitter, but we are in one piece thanks to Ben and Tina.” Martin answered.

“Any injuries to report,” Wallace asked.

“Nothing serious Admiral, a few broken bones and some scratches,” Martin answered. “Only those people who were not secured in their seats were injured. We never even saw it coming sir. Our instruments didn’t pick it up.” Martin said.

“Neither did ours. I’ve spoken with Colonel Wilson on EDEN. They tried to contact us, but apparently the gases interfere with long range communications. They are apparently tracking your asteroids’ momma with photo drones now. It’s going to pass between the earth and the moon in roughly eighty hours.” Admiral Wallace told him, “Nothing to be concerned about though according to our people.”

“I’ll make sure we don’t have any ships up at that time sir.” Martin told him, looking at the screen.

Wallace nodded, “Very well. Major O’Connell, please return to formation for the flight to EDEN.”

Ben nodded. “Yes sir.”

“RAPTOR ONE out.”

Martin turned as the screen went black. “I really hate fucking flying.” He said.

MOON BASE EDEN

MARE ORIENTALE BASIN

WESTERN FRINGE OF THE LIGHT SIDE ON THE MOON

Formed in the moon’s infancy, the Mare Orientale was formed by the impact of a massive meteor. In satellite images and from the surface of earth it looked like a giant bullseye with three distinct rings. Built in the outer center of the inner ring was EDEN.

Fully six square miles, the sprawling base was home to nearly eight thousand men, women and children; Scientists, teachers, researchers... all of them occupied positions on EDEN, which they now called home. Martin was always in awe on the approach to EDEN. He’d seen it several dozens times before, but it never ceased to inspire him to look upon what man could accomplish. He could see the transport tunnels with the tram trains as they raced at over two hundred miles an hour between the huge sections of the base.

EDEN was split into half a dozen clusters of domes and buildings, built in a pseudo circular pattern. Almost everyone worked in the huge center clusters which housed almost all of the research companies and their labs as well as the assorted foreign government embassies and compounds. The living clusters were nearly as large, and the furthest from the center as to provide some semblance of normalcy. The other four clusters housed the other needs of the city sized base to include schools, stores, restaurants and all the necessities of normal life.

Martin was in command of not only his sixty-four member SEAL Team, but also EDEN’s internal security force of ninety three men and women. Martin watched as Ben brought RAPTOR TWO in low over the docking cluster. He could make out three of EDEN’s remaining fourteen RAPTORs on their respective landing pads. Further out on the docking ring were the two of the massive Mark Nine personnel transports. Each was capable of moving nearly 2000 men and women at a time off EDEN in case of emergency. Another four similar craft were on 24 hour standby at the base in Utah.

Ben brought his ship in and spilled power just as he was touching down. Everyone on board felt the landing gear set onto the docking pad and the engines begin powering down. Ben turned to his panel and hit a switch.

“Ladies and gentlemen, I’d like to welcome you to EDEN. Please allow the medical personnel to move the injured off before you begin to disembark. Everyone will need to file through Decontamination, so there is really no reason to rush. I do apologize for the rough few minutes we had, but thank you for flying RAPTOR air. As I stated when we departed earth, any and all complaints should be directed to Commander Martin Hunter. And thank you again for flying RAPTOR Air.”

Martin shook his head as he got to his feet and looked at Ben. “I can always count on you Ben.” He said.

Ben and Tina chuckled as they continued their post flight shutdown of all systems. Martin grabbed his shoulder bag and made his way aft of the cockpit. He could see the men and women filing orderly out of the two entrances and into separate decontamination centers. There was one for civilians and one for military personnel. Martin didn’t hurry as he filed off the jumpship and soon he entered the brightly lit and large decon room. The military personnel had begun to line up in rows as Martin entered. Anja waited by the door and came up to him immediately.

“Was it necessary to separate me from Kevin?” She asked. Her tone was more respectful, but Martin could detect the anger in her words.

“I don’t make the regulations Commander. All military personnel are to go through a separate decon unit.” Martin explained.

“May I ask why?”

Martin looked at her. Her green eyes were bright and ever so beautiful. “You’ll find out soon enough.”

Martin brushed past her and moved to the front of the room where he set his bag on a conveyor belt. He turned to the gathered men and women, “If I could have your attention please.” He waited until the voices quieted and all eyes turned to him. “The decon room holds twenty at a time. You will go through from lowest rank to highest since most of you are techs and you need to report to your stations immediately. Once inside the room, please remove all your clothing and pass them through the individual containment cylinders. Your clothes will be decontaminated and you can retrieve them upon exiting the chamber. What this chamber does is remove any bacteria that any of us might have brought from earth. The process is quick, and quite painless, but you will get a quick shower and blow dry. All those above the rank of Lieutenant will go through the chamber last with me. Please place all your bags and other equipment onto the belt here and you can pick them up on the other side. The first twenty may proceed into the chamber.”

Martin turned and went to the wall panel as the first twenty personnel made their way into the room. “Raptor Three, you copy?”

“Affirmative Two Actual,” The voice answered immediately.

“The chief sent ahead some tag requests. Has that been accomplished?”

“Tags are in place and singing Skipper. Welcome back.” The voice replied.

“I want someone monitoring our birds 24/7 Three.”

“Already dialed in Skipper,” The answer came.

Martin saw Anja come up next to him out of the corner of his eye. He didn’t look at her and continued to talk. “Very well; keep me apprised of the situation and advised if needed, Two Actual out.” He turned to Anja. “What is it now Commander?”

“I wasn’t aware of the decontamination procedures.” She spoke.

“Standard procedure for all flights arriving from earth Anja,” He told her. “That is in the packets passed out to all personnel. Perhaps you should read more than the first page.” Martin answered.

“The females are not separated from the men?” She asked.

Martin shook his head. “That would require too much time and effort on my part. Besides, we’ve been an integrated military for near a hundred years now. No one is going to care what you or I look like. They are too tired.”

“That still does not address the need to have separated decon units for men and women. You need...”

Martin held out the electronic pad to her. “Here.”

Anja took the pad. “What’s this for?”

“File your recommendations and I’ll run them past the Admiral. Other than that... you are shit out of luck. This procedure is approved, and of the thousands of women that have passed through this chamber... you are the first to have made an issue of it.” Martin shook his head and brushed past her. He stopped a few feet away and turned back. “And Commander...?”

Anja turned to look at him, her eyes flashing with anger, “Yes, sir!” She snapped, contempt dripping from her words.

“Make sure the recommendation is in the proper format.” Martin turned away and moved up next to where the Master Chief stood a very large grin on his face.

“Asshole,” Anja muttered under her breath.

“That he is.” The female voice behind her said softly. Anja turned quickly to face the young blond woman. Her hair was short and she wore the uniform of one of Martin’s SEALs with the rank of Lieutenant Commander. “But he’s the asshole that you want backing you up when your sorry ass is hanging out in the fire. Remember that. You might need it someday. And while you may think you are all that honey, I’ve seen and had better than you.”

Anja blushed red as the young woman pushed past her and headed for the decon room already pulling her fatigue shirt off.

Anja Peterson was used to being among people who considered her to be a cut above the rest because of her beauty and position. When they looked at her, they saw a confident woman with the looks to make men melt, and the intelligence to get things done. She did not get that sense from the men and women present in the decon room, standing among them completely naked, her body exposed for nine pairs of eyes to see, not one of them looked in her direction even briefly. They chatted amongst themselves as if she didn’t even exist. Anja knew she was beautiful, and she kept her figure in excellent shape with martial arts and regular workouts. Her breasts were high and firm and easily a 36C cup, topped by quarter sized nipples that were upturned and looking for attention. Her abdomen was flat and lean, with some muscle definition showing. Her hips were slim and accented what many called her best feature, which was her tight firm ass. Her abdomen sloped down to the small landing strip of soft red hair she had above the entrance to her center. Her thighs were muscular to a degree and fit perfectly on her long legs. Some had referred to her as a Greek Goddess when it came to her looks and body, and she had used that to her advantage over the years. Among these five men and three women, she actually felt inferior.

The young blond woman that had commented to her had a body hardened by battle and constant action. Her breasts were also quite firm, though not as large, with strong thighs and legs. Though she was obviously a natural blond, there was no hair between her thighs, and none anywhere else on her body except for her head. Looking at the others in the room, all genomes, they shared the same trait as her. She had been surprised at first that Martin had no pubic hair, but quickly grew accustomed to it, and now she realized it must have been the same for all the genomes. The other two women, a short brunette and very tall black woman, it was the same, muscular firm bodies, but the only hair was on their heads. The men, to include Martin and the enormous Master Chief that was always at his side it seemed, were all heavily muscled, but not in any overdone way. They all looked in the epitome of physical condition. She noticed scars on all of the men and women present, and even a very large scar along Martin’s lower back that had not been there during their night together.

There was no sexual innuendos made among the men and women, and not one of them even glanced at her. These men and women were hard professionals, and they held too much respect for each other to behave in that manner. Were there relationships among the genomes? She was certain of that. Men and women, even genetically enhanced men and women still had the same urges. Yet these men and women would not openly show it to anyone they considered an outsider.

And Anja was very much an outsider, even though she wore the same Navy SEAL trident on her breast. Anja had killed before, but it had always been deliberate and planned out. She had never seen combat in the same way as the men and women in this room, and for that she was not considered an equal to them.

For the first time in the four months since she discovered she had this mission, she began to doubt her ability to pull off what the senator wanted from her.

Anja sat in the chair next to her bed that evening staring at the sleeping form of Kevin. The initial orientation had gone quickly and everyone had been assigned and escorted to their new quarters. They were sparse quarters, just a bedroom, a small living room and kitchen and the bathroom. She had immediately made plans to visit the many shops in the Entertainment Cluster to try and make it more to her liking. Kevin had shown up shortly after she had unpacked and they had gone to dinner, and then returned. She had not wanted to have sex, but Kevin insisted and Anja endured another hour of his slobbering body against hers. Now, she sat in the chair wearing only a button done shirt, staring at Kevin and thinking how she had ever let the Senator talk her into this mission.

Seeing Martin again after all these years had immediately sent a warm tingle through her loins. He hadn't changed in the least and she still considered him the most ruggedly handsome man she had ever met. She had found herself reliving that night on several occasions during the trip here, and it troubled her to a great extent, because it was almost as if she could still feel his hands and lips on her body, making her scream in one raging climax after another.

Anja got up from the chair and walked softly into the small kitchen. She pulled a mug from the cupboard and dropped a small brown cube into the bottom. She placed it into the toaster oven sized box and touched several buttons. There was a flash of light inside the metal container and then a gentle beep. Anja opened it and took out the steaming mug of coffee. She added a small amount of sugar and walked into the living room where there was a computer terminal. She settled into the high backed chair and looked at the screen.

“Peterson, Anja. Lieutenant Commander, access 9185.4.”

_GOOD MORNING COMMANDER PETERSON_
HOW MAY I ASSIST YOU

The voice of the computer was male, but leaning quite heavily to the feminine side. The computer's reply also appeared on the screen in bold blue type.

“Is it possible to access EDEN's database?” She asked.

_THAT IS POSSIBLE COMMANDER. YOUR SECURITY CLEARANCE HAS BEEN UPDATED IN MY DATABANKS_

“What is my clearance Level?” She asked.

YOU HAVE A LEVEL 5 SECURITY ACCESS COMMANDER

Anja shook her head frustrated. Even after their confrontation she thought Martin would cave into her threat to involved the Senator and grant her a Level Six clearance. It appeared that was not the case. “I was supposed to receive a level Six Clearance.”

_I'M SORRY COMMANDER. LEVEL SIX AUTHORIZATION IS LIMITED TO SIX INDIVIDUALS_

“Which six would that be?” Anja asked as she sipped her coffee.

_ADMIRAL WALLACE, COMMANDER HUNTER, MASTER CHIEF BROWN, CHIEF PETTY OFFICER COLLINS, LIEUTENANT COMMANDER ANDERSON, AND_

“Two enlisted men have a higher clearance than EDEN's Assistant Medical Director?” Anja said.

CHIEF PETTY OFFICER COLLINS IS A FEMALE COMMANDER

“What does Level Five Access give me?” Anja asked in a bored tone. “I would imagine just about everyone else has level Five Clearance right?”

_YOUR CLEARANCE ALLOWS YOU TO ACCESS ALL INFORMATION IN EDEN'S DATABASE AS WELL AS MILITARY FILES RELATED TO ANY PERSONNEL ASSIGNED TO EDEN_

YOUR CLEARANCE ALSO HAS A SPECIFIC CLUSTER WHICH GIVES YOU ACCESS TO MEDICAL FILES OF ALL RELATED GENETIC PERSONNEL ASSIGNED TO EDEN AS PER YOUR REQUEST

ACTUALLY COMMANDER, ONLY NINETEEN INDIVIDUALS HAVE LEVEL FIVE CLEARANCE ON EDEN

“Senator Graham specifically requested I be granted a Level Six Clearance.” Anja spoke softly. “Why was that not acted upon?”

IT WAS ACTED UPON COMMANDER. AND THE REQUEST WAS DENIED.

“Denied? Denied by whom?”

EDEN’S CHIEF OF SECURITY. COMMANDER HUNTER

Anja sipped her coffee slowly, her mind working. “Please display Commander Hunter’s military records.”

WHAT SECTION WOULD YOU LIKE TO REVIEW COMMANDER PETERSON?

“His entire file,” Anja replied, somewhat exasperated that the question was asked.

I’M SORRY COMMANDER, THERE ARE SEVERAL SECTIONS OF COMMANDER HUNTER’S FILE WHICH YOU ARE NOT AUTHORIZED TO VIEW

“I thought I had access to all military records for everyone assigned to EDEN?” She asked.

THAT IS CORRECT COMMANDER, HOWEVER THE SECTIONS TO WHICH I AM REFERING ARE CODED AT LEVEL SEVEN CLEARANCE. AND HAVE BEEN SEALED BY ORDER OF USSOC

“Sealed?” Anja commented to herself. “Now that is interesting. The military doesn’t seal very many records. Very well, display all records that I am authorized to view.”

_SEARCHING_
RECORDS FOUND. DISPLAYING

Anja sipped her coffee as Martin’s military records began to appear on the small screen. There was an incredible amount of information and she skipped through much of it because it was standard military paperwork and therefore unnecessary to what she wanted to see. Her eyes grew more attentive when his records began displaying his decorations and awards, as well as quite a bit of information in regards to operations he had been involved with. She leaned forward and set her coffee down.

“Wait! Stop! What is this?” She asked, her finger touching the screen, “Operation Lily Dragon? I’ve never heard of that.”

_SEARCHING_
OPERATION LILY DRAGON WAS CONDUCTED DURING THE LAST WEEK IN JUNE 2093. MOST OF THE RECORDS OF THE MISSION, TO INCLUDE OBJECTIVE AND RESULTS, ARE COMPARTMENTALIZED AT LEVEL NINE
THE RECORDS WERE SEALED BY VICE ADMIRAL WILLIAM WALLACE III, ACTING CHAIRMAN OF THE PAC/FORCES AT THE TIME

“Are there any records of this operation? If PAC/FORCES were involved, it had to have taken place in the Western Pacific Theater. And that would have been at the height of the conflict with Japan.” Anja spoke.

NO RECORDS ARE AVAILABLE FOR YOUR LEVEL OF CLEARANCE COMMANDER, I’M SORRY

“Now that is interesting.” Anja said to herself. She sat back in her chair, her mind racing through quite a few scenarios, and how she could complete what the Senator had asked of her.

As Anja sat in her quarters and tried to devise different means to her end, one of the objectives of Operation Lily Dragon was currently in the midst of a mind blowing orgasm induced by the man currently nestled between her thighs.

Yuri Tanaka was twenty-seven years old, of Japanese descent, and currently the center of attention of the lover she hadn’t seen in nearly a week. Her waist length black hair was splayed across the sheets of their bed, her skin slick with sweat. Her hands grasped the sheets tightly, nearly pulling them from the mattress. There were drops of sweat pooling between her firm 34C breasts, her brownish nipples erect and hard as pencil erasers. Her breathing came in short gasps as she came down from the intense orgasm her lover had just produced from her, his tongue now slowly tracing the sensitive lips of her drenched center. It was the third such orgasm he had given her in less than an hour, and the sheets were becoming soaked in her juices. She took deep breaths, trying to get her racing heart under control before her lover did what she desired him to do more than anything.

Yuri felt his weight shift on the bed and she lifted her firm tight ass off the mattress as much as she could to allow him the prize he sought. She felt his powerful hands grasp her hips and then the heated touch of his massive organ against the entrance to her womanhood. She opened her eyes and looked at his handsome face, her juices still clinging to his lips.

“Do it!” She gasped.

Yuri threw her head back and cried out in ecstasy as her lovers’ pulsing manhood slid into her already burning center of desire. Her hands left the sheets to grab tightly to his massive shoulders as he plunged into her depths until she felt him strike home, burying himself with a groan completely inside her. She wrapped her long tanned legs around the small of his back, locking her ankles behind him, and threw her arms around his neck, pulling him down for a passionate kiss that caused her toes to curl in. He had been away for six days, and the warmth and tightness of her womanhood clutched him tighter than he had expected. Yuri felt his muscles tense under her hands and she broke their kiss quickly, grabbing his face in her hands.

“Yes!” She gasped. “Yes!”

Her lover did not disappoint her and he groaned loudly in release. Yuri’s eyes rolled into the back of her head as she felt him grow impossible large inside her. She could feel his passion seethe the length of manhood and erupt in her depths. He groaned once... twice... three times... each blast of his passion causing another staggering orgasm to trigger inside her. It was unlike anything she had ever felt before in her young life the first time they had made love. Her lover buried his face in the shallow of her throat, his tongue dancing across her skin as he continued to fill her with his passion.

Yuri held him tightly, their passion mingling together coating their lower bodies, as her dark eyes stared off at the ceiling. His weight above her made her feel incredibly safe and wanted. She felt his hands slid underneath her ass and clutch her to him tightly as he tensed one last time. Her own tongue traced the side of his face and her fingers clutched his powerful back.

“You... you missed me... I take it?” She finally was able to stutter as she caresses his head.

Martin lifted his face from her delicious skin and met her bright brown eyes, a smile splitting his face. “What gave you that idea?” He asked.

Yuri kissed him deeply, tasting her juices on his lips and tongue and not caring for an instant. He returned her kiss with equal passion and hunger. He rolled over on the bed, pulling her with him, his manhood still buried deeply within her body. Yuri groaned softly into his mouth as his hands cupped her firm ass and held her in place on him. She lifted her face from his and tossed her sweat soaked hair to one side as she traced his face with a finger tip. She could still feel his still rock hard manhood in her and she had a twinkle in her eye as she looked at him.

“We are not done are we?” She asked in a teasing voice.

Martin took her face in his large hands and kissed her deeply. “Not by a long shot.” He replied. “I missed you quite a bit.”

“Then...” Yuri groaned, feeling him flex his manhood inside her. She would be pleasantly sore in the morning, but she would trade that feeling for nothing in the world. “Then what are you waiting for?”

Yuri sat on the side of the bed nibbling a piece of fruit as she watched Martin dress. She wore one of his uniform shirts that fell nearly to her knees, the sleeves rolled up to her elbows. She had pulled her long hair into a tight pony tail and it fell across one shoulder. Yuri watched in silence, content to gaze upon the man who had saved her life. Martin had provided them a sanctuary at huge risk to himself, in a time when they would have been killed on sight. This man, who over the course of the last two years, she had fallen completely and totally in love with.

Yuri Tanaka was the product of the Japanese government’s attempt to create their own genome program. She stood only five foot four and a hundred and ten pounds dripping wet, but with the exception of Martin and one or two others on SEAL Team Twelve, she was perhaps the most lethal individual on EDEN. She had been trained from age five in the martial arts and some of the more arcane Japanese magical arts dating back four hundred years. Her skill ranked her on the same level as some of the most famous Japanese Ninjutsu Masters in history. She had completed dozens of very sensitive and dangerous missions for her government before they chose her to be the first to attempt to pass on the genome abilities during normal child bearing. She had been artificially inseminated with an embryo and began to carry the child. As any mother to be knows, she became very protective of her unborn child, and when the Japanese government decided to terminate her and the child after several violent genome outbreaks, she did what any mother would do.

Yuri ran.

She had been able to contact a friend in the United States embassy in Korea. The war between the US and Japan was winding down, and it had been costly for her country, but she knew the only place she could even remotely be safe was in the US. Martin and his SEAL team had been in Japan for four months wreaking havoc and spreading fear among the Japanese military even though they were being hunted by some of Japan’s finest. Martin and seven of his team were selected to extract her from Japan at all costs. The US government deemed her pregnancy a marvel and wanted to explore her at all costs. It was an even exchange in Yuri’s eyes if they got her safely out of her country.

And upon meeting Martin that first night in the pouring rain under a bridge in old Tokyo, Yuri had been smitten. It was a feeling she was not familiar with and it took her a few months to realize what exactly she was experiencing. It had not taken her long after that to request that Martin be assigned to her, and the US government was happy to comply. When he was assigned to EDEN, it was determined she and her two year old daughter would accompany him as well. Martin had been the first man to explore her body in the ways he did. He was by far the largest equipped she had ever had, the pleasant soreness between her thighs attesting to that, but what he made her feel with his size and his incredible tongue more than made up for any soreness she experienced. She wasn’t so sure that the soreness wasn’t from the intensity of her orgasms more than his size. They had been sleeping together for nearly two years, and she was more than adjusted to his exceptional size. In fact, his size was what made her feel his own orgasms so intensely, and caused hers to be more electrifying. Martin fit inside her like the finger of a tight glove, causing her to feel every pulse of his manhood inside her, thereby heightening her own passion.

“... Yuri?” Martin’s voice tore her from her sexual thoughts.

“Huh what,” She asked looking at him.

Martin knelt down in front of the bed. “Are you ok?” He asked.

Yuri smiled. “I’m fine.” she answered. “I’m just reflecting on what you make me feel when you make love to me.”

“I hope it’s good.” Martin said with a grin.

Yuri smiled and pulled him close with her arms while seductively sliding her legs up his sides. “Nothing could be more exquisite.” She told him. She kissed him softly.

Martin looked at her, marveling at the brightness of her eyes. “Yuri... I...”

She put a finger to his lips stopping his words. “No.” she said. “I know what you are going to attempt to say. You don’t need too. That I am the only woman that occupies your thoughts and your bed is more than enough for me. I love you enough for the both of us.”

Martin looked down, his hand tracing her thighs. “I wish... I wish...”

Yuri lifted his face even with hers again and kissed him deeply. “You need not try to explain Martin. I already know all that I need too. You say it every time you kiss me or hold me in your arms, and every time you make love to me. I am more than content with that. And in time... perhaps I can help show you what it is.”

Martin smiled. “I would like that.”

“I know.” Yuri told him with a smile. “Now go... you have your work to do. I understand Commander Peterson is among those assigned to EDEN now.”

Martin turned and looked at her. “How do you know that?”

Yuri smiled. “I have my sources.” She answered.

Martin nodded. “She came in last night with us.” He told her as he leaned over to lace up his boots.

“And how did that go?” She asked him.

“It went fine.” He said looking at her strangely. “Why do you ask?”

“You’re the one who told me what happen between the two of you.” Yuri said. “How she made you feel. Is there anything I need to worry about?”

Martin chuckled. “Nope. She’s is just as arrogant and pompous as you said she was when she interviewed you on earth.” Martin said.

“Good... I didn’t want to have to fight for your affections.” Yuri said.

Martin got up and leaned over kissing her softly. “You are taking Yuriko for her appointment with Walter right?”

Yuri nodded. “I’ll be back tomorrow evening. And then I expect to remain in bed for the entire weekend.” She spoke with a seductive grin.

Martin smiled “That should be fun. You’re sure you’ll be back here tomorrow evening right?”

Yuri nodded. “We’re taking the first transport back. It leaves right after her appointment at 1000 hours.”

Martin leaned forward and kissed her deeply once more. “I will see you then.” He turned and headed out of their bedroom before Yuri could see the strange look in his eyes when his thoughts turned to Anja.

Yuri watched him leave their bedroom, and Martin didn’t see Yuri’s eyes change from their dark color to cobalt blue when she blinked. They remained that way for several seconds before she blinked again and it was gone.

The Command Center for EDEN was a huge circular room with dozens of stations monitoring everything from the air temperature inside the station, to the activities of the RAPTORS on the pads, and the techs moving around them. In the center of the room was a massive holo projection of Earth and the moon’s orbit around earth. There were techs at all the stations with junior officers walking among the staff with data pads in their hands.

To one side of the command center was another large room with a granite table forged from an enormous boulder on the moon. The room could be seen from the command center but there was a massive sound proof glass partition between the two rooms. The high backed chairs surrounding the table were currently filled with most of the senior officers of EDEN in the morning briefing with Admiral Wallace. On the table were coffee and tea mugs and an assortment of breakfast Danish.

“...seems to be settling in fine.” Colonel Wilson reported. He was EDEN’s Executive Officer, and an ex-army Delta Commander. He was a no nonsense type officer who looked after the men and women under his command. He had been in command of two missions in which SEAL Team 12 had taken part, and he was a firm supporter of Martin and his team. “Everyone has their quarters and I haven’t received any complaints as of yet.”

There was some soft chuckling around the table. Everyone knew that Frank Wilson hated being contacted for minor problems in regards to living quarters when the people could just walk to the entertainment cluster and purchase nearly anything to fix it.

Admiral Wallace shared the chuckle and lowered his coffee mug back to the table. He turned his eyes to where Anja sat quietly, hoping to slip out of this first staff meeting without having to say anything. Anja had been to her new lab before coming to this meeting and found it to be even more advanced than her lab on earth. Anything she could have imagined or dreamed for was in this lab. She had her own staff of five men and women, and they were in the process of getting everything up and running. Anja was unaccustomed to the casual atmosphere of the EDEN senior staff. While working with the NIS or Senator Graham's staff the meetings were always so formal and stiff necked. No one spoke out of turn, or without permission, for fear of being chastised.

"Commander Peterson?" Admiral Wallace spoke directly to her.

Anja looked at him, "Sir?"

"What do you think of your facilities here on EDEN? Do they meet the requirements for what you need to accomplish?" Wallace asked.

Anja nodded, "Very... very much sir." Anja replied quickly. "I was surprised actually. I didn't think EDEN was set up with a gene research station."

"Most of what we do is experimental Commander Peterson." Wallace replied. "We have every lab you could possibly think of somewhere here on EDEN. We like to keep our options open. Have you met your staff?"

"Yes sir. They seem very capable. However, I would like to have another officer assigned to assist me." Anja said.

"What's wrong with Petty Officer Thurman?" Martin asked, looking at her. He kept the question very neutral and without any hint of emotion.

"He's a Petty officer." Anja replied tartly looking at him as if answering a stupid question from a child.

Half a dozen pairs of eyes turned to where Martin sat to gauge his reaction; a reaction that did not come, to their surprise. Martin was not known for accepting arrogance in any way shape or form. "Petty Officer Thurman finished tops in his gene research class, out of three hundred and fifty-seven students. He has a Masters in Gene Therapy, and five years of hands on experience. He also knows all the members of my team by name, which makes him ideal to assist in your research. What else exactly do you require?"

Anja blinked quickly. She hadn't thought to read the files on her staff, and Martin had just made her look like a fool because of it. "I... I wasn't aware of his qualifications." Anja finally spoke.

"Christ... neither was I skipper! And I play poker with him." The handsome young black man next to Martin blurted.

The comment had the desired effect and even Martin broke into a grin at his XO's words. He looked at Dan Simpson, the XO of SEAL Team Twelve and perhaps Martin's closest friend, and shook his head. "That's why you wanted me to dock his pay?" He spoke.

That brought another round of chuckles from the gathered men and women, and everyone could see Anja relax slightly. Thirty-three year old Dan Simpson leaned forward at the table and looked at Anja. He had a smooth face, with bright brown eyes, and caramel colored skin. His head was entirely bald, the bright lighting in the conference room reflecting off his skin. Anja could also see the muscular form under the fatigues he wore.

"I can vouch for him Commander Peterson." Dan said with a friendly smile. "He's got his all his wires and gadgets straight."

And Anja promptly proceeded to stick her foot in her mouth and make a bad impression to everyone in the room. "I would prefer an officer Admiral." She spoke, looking at Admiral Wallace. "While I appreciate the Petty Officer's experience, I prefer someone I am familiar with. And someone who is not biased towards SEAL Team 12 in any way."

Martin looked at Admiral Wallace, and the only outward appearance he gave was a calm demeanor. However Martin had known him long enough to recognize the slight darkening of the eyes.

"Will everyone excuse the Commander and I?" Bill spoke softly. "Please submit your daily reports via data mail."

Bill sipped his coffee as the other officers in the room got to their feet and gathered their files. Martin and Frank were the last ones in the line for the door and Admiral Wallace waved to them. "Frank would you and Marty remain please."

Martin and Frank stopped and let the door close in front of them. They moved back to the table and took seats. Anja looked at them and then turned to Bill.

"Commander Peterson... perhaps it's me, and I can be a cranky bastard at times, but I get the sense from you that you do not want to be here." Bill said.

"Admiral... I'm here to do a job, nothing else." Anja replied.

"And your job would be what Commander?" Bill asked, rising to his feet and walking to the counter on the far wall to pour himself more coffee.

"Excuse me sir?"

"Tell me what your job is, please."

"Sir, you know why I am here." Anja stated slowly. "I have been tasked with examining all members of SEAL Team Twelve to ascertain if they are fit for duty."

Wallace returned to his seat and looked at her. "And what exactly would you say is your definition of fit for duty?"

"I don't understand the question sir?" Anja looked confused, not seeing the bomb that was heading for her head.

"Let me re-phrase that." Wallace said. "What exactly is Senator Graham's definition of fit for duty? The definition you have been instructed to examine for."

"Admiral... I am not at liberty to say what my instructions from Senator Graham are." Anja said.

William Wallace smiled and looked at her. "Yes. I can imagine what your instructions are Commander Peterson."

"Admiral... what does this have to do with my directive?" Anja asked.

"I spoke with Admiral Prescott at NIS before you were assigned to EDEN Commander. Would you like to know what her assessment of you is?" Wallace asked.

"I'm... I'm not sure what relevance that has on the current situation sir." Anja replied cautiously.

"Admiral Prescott told me you were a fine officer." Wallace spoke ignoring her. "That you were extremely intelligent and very knowledgeable in your field. She said you were a competent field agent with two or three high profile assignments under your belt that you completed satisfactorily. She also told me you were a snotty little pompous bitch who would use whatever means she could to advance her career, including flaunting your obvious physical charms. She also said that you would steam roll anyone in the way of you completing an assignment." Wallace sipped his coffee and set the mug down before looking at Anja. "Not exactly a glowing recommendation from a former commander is it?"

"Admiral... Admiral Prescott and I did not... we did not see things in the same way. The mission, in my opinion took priority over everything." Anja tried to explain.

"So regardless of orders to the contrary from Admiral Prescott, you followed directives coming from a civilian office? Senator Graham's office if I'm not mistaken." Bill asked. "Some would say that your priorities are confused Commander. One of your decisions cost the lives of seven foreign nationals working with the US military. Those seven men and women had families."

"I was following orders Admiral." Anja spoke.

Bill nodded. "You were following orders from an individual outside the mission chain of command Commander. The only thing that saved you from court martial was Senator Graham's intervention."

"Yes sir, that is correct."

"And you went to work for his office right after that as his personal head hunter." Bill said.

"I was assigned to Senator Graham's office at his request sir. And none of this has anything to do with my mission here Admiral." Anja spoke. She didn't see Frank look at Martin out of the corner of his eye and shake his head.

"Senator Graham's request you say? Let me give you a little information on Senator Graham. The last two members of the military that were assigned to him in your capacity are now serving in Somalia as Embassy security." Wallace told her. He slid the data pad across the table to her. "I did a little checking of my own before allowing that political hack and his addict son on my base. Then I had a vid/con with the President. He and I are old war buddies in case you didn't know. Seems he's not real happy with Senator Graham for starting this witch hunt to begin with. See... I have a little problem with Senator Graham starting an investigation on a unit under my command without letting me know, and moving a Sweeper Team to Eden without my permission kind of sticks in my ass too. Especially when the unit he wants investigated has nine of the thirteen most decorated men and women in the armed forces serving in it; especially when the commander of that unit has fought in places that would make your dear Senator Graham and yourself puke if you or he ever breathed the air." Wallace got to his feet and moved closer to Anja, sliding one of the chairs out of the way so that he could perch on the edge of the table.

"A... a Sweeper team," Anja said looking at him. "I am not aware of any Sweeper Team being on EDEN."

"They transported up among the techs with your group." Martin spoke now. "The Master Chief can smell those bastards a mile away. It's no coincidence they came up on the same transports as you and Senator Graham."

"I have no idea what you are talking about!" Anja snapped.

"A word of advice Commander Peterson..." Bill continued from his new spot on the table. "Your little witch hunt here will not turn up what Senator Graham hopes it will. He has you chasing ghosts. But that's ok, cause when his little six week stay here is all done... he will go back to earth and be a thorn in someone else's side. You on the other hand... well your ass belongs to me for the duration of your one year tour up here on EDEN."

Anja's eyes went wide, "A year? Admiral... there must be some mistake; I am slotted to return with Senator Graham in six weeks. I am scheduled to attend the War College in two months!"

Wallace shook his head. "Not any more. I pulled some strings and got you assigned for the full year. I suggest you change your holier than thou attitude, or you will find it to be a lonely one year."

Wallace stood up and smiled at her. "You're dismissed Commander." He turned his back on her as she slowly got to her feet. She was in a daze at what she had just heard. She needed to speak with the Senator as soon as possible.

Martin and Frank watched as she darted quickly from the command center. Martin turned to Bill. "Admiral... you realize she'll go straight to Graham and start complaining. He's going to come after you then."

Bill nodded and smiled. "I'm counting on it. She has the makings of a good officer Marty... she just has lost her way. You might not see that, but that is what my gut is telling me. I need you and Frank to help me bring her back into the real world."

Martin nodded. "I'll do what I can sir, but I got a feeling I just made the top of her shit list."

"Better you than me Marty!" Frank said barely able to contain his laughter.

"Good. Between the three of us, we'll make her an ideal officer yet."

Martin chuckled. "That's if she doesn't shoot us first."

Frank couldn't contain himself any longer and broke out into a fit of laughter. Martin and Bill joined in shortly after.

Martin was right, and Anja marched right into the Senator's quarters and saw Kevin eating breakfast with his father. Richard Graham wore a silk robe over satin pajamas and was almost daintily sipping his coffee.

"Good morning Anja." He spoke from the couch without getting to his feet. Kevin looked at her and grunted with a mouthful of English muffin. "What can I do for you?"

"I just came out of the morning brief with Admiral Wallace!" Anja spat. "Did you know he pulled some strings and got me assigned up here for a full year? Did you know that?"

Richard looked at her. "I just became aware of it this morning." He lied.

"I can't stay up here for a year!" Anja spat. "I do not fit in with the people up here. You told me you could get me into the War College Richard."

"Anja... you need to calm down." Graham spoke. "I am already working on it. What else did you learn at this meaning?"

"He has staff meetings every morning. Nothing of great importance, just reports from the department heads." Anja replied. "He's also aware of the Sweeper Team that you brought up."

Richard looked at her. "Excuse me?"

"Don't insult my intelligence Richard." She spoke. "Did you actually think you could get a Sweeper Team onto EDEN without them knowing about it?"

Richard looked at Kevin. "Kevin... there are some data pads in the office. Would you retrieve them for me?"

Kevin Graham nodded like the robot he was and stood to conduct his father's bidding. Richard got to his feet and moved closer to Anja. "You need to remain calm." He told her in a low voice. "The Sweeper team is insurance."

"Insurance for what," Anja asked. "I'm tired of playing games with you Richard. When you brought me into your office you said you could help my career. So far... all I've gotten is slobbered on by Kevin and fucked by you whenever you want. When do I get something?"

"Anja... as soon as this genome issue is settled... you'll get everything you want. I promise." Richard said, reaching up to stroke her cheek.

Anja stared into his eyes and knew she was being played... but she was in too deep now. "I'll do what you want." She told him. "But as of this moment the sex store is closed until I get something in return. Is that clear?"

"Anja... you..."

"I'm dead serious Richard." She snapped. She held up the data pad. "This is what I have so far from EDEN's computer database. What you do with it is not my concern. I'm going to my lab... because you can be damn sure they'll be watching me."

Anja spun around and marched out of the quarters. She began walking towards the tram train and took the data pad Admiral Wallace had given her from her coat pocket. She wasn't going to read any of the information on it, but after seeing Richard and not believing a word he said, it was time to start looking out for her own interests. She didn't see Richard watching her as she walked, or Kevin come up behind his father.

Richard Graham looked at his son. "We may have a problem developing." He stated simply.

WALTER REED MEDICAL CENTER EARTH

Yuri looked at the doctor wide eyed in disbelief.

"Pregnant?" she gasped. "There... there must be some mistake. I... I can not... Martin can not possibly get me pregnant."

The older doctor smiled in genuine warmth and nodded his head. Walter Carson was the head of the US Genome Program, and had been working closely with Yuri since her defection to the states. He had grown to think of her as one of his children, as he thought of all the genomes that had been created with his technology. He knew Yuri was in love with Martin, and he had been the one to help her realize what she was feeling, as well as encourage her to pursue Martin if that was what she wanted. He knew they had been sleeping together for almost two years, and now... what was not suppose to happen... had indeed happen. Yuri had become pregnant without the assistance of any artificial means. And while it was a joyous moment for him, he knew that perhaps others would not be so comfortable with the idea of genomes being able to breed.

Walter nodded and took her hand. "Almost six weeks." He told her.

"Walter... how is that possible? I thought... I thought we were unable to have children without artificial insemination." Yuri said.

"It's possible... because you are evolving Yuri." He replied. "All life finds a way sooner or later. It appears Martin's DNA has mutated along with yours and made child bearing possible."

"I'm... I'm going to have his child?" She said softly, her hand going to her stomach.

"I thought you would be happy." Walter spoke, seeing her concerned look.

Yuri looked at him. "Happy? Walter... yes... of course I'm happy." She said. "What... what do I tell Martin?"

"He is still trying to grasp the concept of love?" Walter said, pulling up the roller chair.

Yuri looked at him. "How did you know that?"

Walter smiled. "While I consider all the genomes in our program my children in a way, I've only been really close to three; Martin, Dan and Julie. They just related to me more than the others, perhaps because they were the first. They still come to me for advice occasionally. I know them pretty well. I've talked to Martin about his feelings for you Yuri."

"Wait... maybe we shouldn't be talking about this." Yuri said.

Walter smiled. "I won't reveal anything personal, don't worry. I will say this however. He may have trouble expressing what he feels Yuri, but do not question for a second that you are the center of his life right now, you and Yuriko."

Yuri couldn't help but force a smile at Walter's words. His statement made her shudder inwardly with fear. "Thank you."

Walter smiled and got to his feet. "Come with me." He said.

Yuri stepped nimbly from the table and followed the older man down the well lit corridor to a private office. He entered in a code and the door slid open, Walter proceeding into the room. Yuri followed and for the first time since she had known him she saw a different part of the doctor who had been so kind to her.

The office was very neat and large, with comfortable furniture and a view of Washington outside the large window. Yuri also took in the numerous pictures of elves dotting the walls, as well as several sculptures on the tables and his desk. The oil paintings all depicted scantily clad elves of every description, and they looked quite expensive. Walter turned and saw her admiring one of the paintings and he smiled.

"I have a healthy imagination and an interest in elves. I have since I was a boy. They fascinate me." Walter said.

Yuri smiled. "So I see. What is this one depicting?"

Walter stepped up next to her his eyes on the painting. "Elves were considered the noblest race of beings in legend and myth. This painting is of the High Elf Queen sparing the life of a Wood elf." The painting showed an exquisitely beautiful dark skinned elf holding her sword at the throat of the equally handsome male elf.

"According to legend, several years after this painting, the Queen married this surface elf you see and the races were finally reunited after three thousand years."

"Elves were immortal?" Yuri asked.

Walter nodded. "They could still be killed in any manner of ways, but their life spans were endless. You and Martin and the remaining genomes are the closest thing to them in history."

Yuri looked at him. "How do you mean?"

"Elves... especially the High elves... were said to be warriors unequalled. Aside from their exceptional beauty they followed a strict code of honor. They had a caste type system of ruling, in which a Matriarch Mother ruled the clans until she died. While you and the others are not immortal, all of you could easily live to be several hundred years old." Walter told her.

Yuri looked at him surprise in her eyes. "You are joking!" She gasped.

Walter shook his head and turned to go back to his desk. "Not in the least. All of the original genomes were engineered with age slowing bio-agents, along with their animal DNA. They are in your blood system as well. For all practical purposes, you and the other genomes could live several hundred years as I said. I even had a symbol in the elfin language tattooed on the back of Martin's shoulder since he was the first."

Yuri nodded. "I've noticed that. I asked him about it once. He said it was a tattoo that he had gotten, along with the others." She answered.

Walter nodded with a smile. "That is how he explains it to spare me any adverse reaction here if they find out I tattooed government property." He settled into the high backed chair behind the desk. "Mind you I wasn't happy when he went out and had all those flame tattoos added to his body."

Yuri grinned. "I find them rather sexy." She said. "And they fit his personality." She settled into the chair across from his desk. "Walter... is the animal DNA that Martin and the others were given the reason they did not come apart in the same way as the other genomes?"

Walter took a deep breath. "I believe it is the largest factor, yes."

"I asked him about it once and he would not go into great detail." Yuri said.

Walter nodded. "They were the only batch to receive animal DNA. I did not foresee their ability to change as they are able, but I believe that is the reason they were not affected by the same DNA breakdown as the other genome units. I believe it's also the reason they have survived this long and taken only light losses on their missions."

Yuri nodded. "He has told me a few stories of how they had to change in order to survive. I don't doubt that."

"I was going to try and base the later batches on the elves you see in the paintings and statues, but the government pulled the project before I could begin tests." Walter said.

"You were going to try and make elves?" Yuri asked with a smile.

Walter grinned and nodded. "They would be perfect." He said. "All of them would be beautiful, and almost irresistible to human males and females. Martin and his team are unique. They are not completely human, yet they are not completely genome anymore either. They have evolved over the years, and that is why I believe you have become pregnant. The Air Force unit that guarded you when you first arrived and that guard you when you come to earth; their unit is the only other genome unit not to be affected by whatever destroyed the others."

"I don't care how it has happen." Yuri spoke stiffly. "That I will have his child is what is important to me."

"We need to keep your pregnancy quiet Yuri." Walter said his face and voice becoming serious now. "I'm quite sure that there are people not yet ready to accept the fact that genomes can breed. I've already adjusted my files to reflect your pregnancy. It states that you were artificially inseminated with this child. No one can know the truth. Not right now."

Yuri nodded. "I understand."

Walter smiled and took her hand. "Yuriko should be done with her tests. Why don't we walk down there and get her so you can catch your transport back to EDEN."

Anja capped the test tube of blood and looked at SEAL Team 12 Petty Officer who sat on the table with no shirt. She had spent the better part of the morning drawing blood from the team members for studying, and doing quick but thorough exams. All of them bore the scars of countless battles over the years and these she noted and compared to their files, which were quite extensive to begin with.

"You're all done." She spoke to him. "Thank you."

Anja turned to make some notations on a data pad as the Petty Officer got up and put his shirt on as he walked away. She turned back around to conduct her next exam and came up short when she saw the sweat coated upper body of Martin's second in command, Daniel Simpson. She recognized him from this morning at the meeting.

"Sorry... I just came from the gym." Dan Simpson spoke as he settled onto the table.

Anja looked at him, her eyes narrowing. "You couldn't shower first." She spoke with some hostility.

"I was under the impression you wanted to do this quickly Commander." Dan replied in the same tone. "I wasn't going to interrupt my normal routine by waiting in line. I'm here now."

Anja shook her head, "Fine. Please stand up."

Dan stood in front of her and she realized her was considerably taller than her, at least the same height as Martin if not a couple inches more. His upper body was coated in sweat, the bright light in the lab reflecting off his caramel colored skin. Anja couldn't help but notice the extremely sculpted muscles of his abdomen and chest. All of the genomes in Martin's team were in superb physical condition, yet some of them, to include Martin, were exceptionally well defined. Anja took note of the many scars on his chest, and one particularly nasty scar along his lower abdomen. As her hands touched his skin to get him to move his arms or turn around, Anja felt her skin becoming flush and warm while the medic assisting her finished taking his blood sample and turned to the small table.

"How... how did you get this?" She asked, tracing the scar on his lower abdomen. "It doesn't seem to resemble any sort of knife or shrapnel wound."

Dan chuckled a little bit. "It's from the busted end of a steel pipe." He replied. "I got careless with a group of prisoners during a mission into Basra. We were supporting the Iraqi forces in a snatch and grab op. One of the prisoners happened to bust off a piece of plumbing and thought he'd use it to bash my head in."

“I’m glad... glad to see he didn’t succeed.” Anja said. She looked into Dan’s light brown eyes and saw a twinkle in them.

“So was I.” Dan answered. “Are you feeling ok?” He asked, noticing the flushness in her cheeks.

Anja nodded. “Yes... it just... it suddenly got warm in here.”

“That’s my fault. Sorry.”

Anja looked at him. “What do you mean?”

“Genome body temperatures tend to run higher than normal humans.” Dan told her. “I thought you knew that.”

“Yes! Yes... of course I knew that.” Anja turned quickly so he could not see her cheeks grow even more flushed. A vision of Dan’s sweaty body on top of hers flashed in her mind and she felt herself grow moist at her center.

“Doc... you sure you’re ok?” Dan asked again, concern in his voice.

Anja nodded quickly. “Yes. Yes... I’m fine. I need to go.” She said before setting the data pad down and leaving her lab.

“Is she ok?” The female voice asked.

Dan turned and looked at the stunning, short haired woman come up to him. Her skin was a little darker than his, like a deep rich caramel, her hair shoulder length. Her fatigues did little to hide her very curvy figure. She stepped up to Dan, her hand going around his waist, her chin resting on his shoulder.

“I guess so.” Dan told Petty Officer Julie Collins.

“You like her don’t you?” Julie asked her fingers stroking his shoulder.

“I don’t think she’s as bad as Marty makes her out to be.”

Julie smiled. “She seems like she is holding an awful lot of pent up emotions in?” Julie said gripping his arm. She and Dan had been an item for a number of years now, and they cared deeply for each other, but both knew that something was missing from their lives.

“I think she is in way over her head and is treading water pretty hard to keep her head above the surface.” Dan spoke thoughtfully. “The Senator and his druggie son have twisted her head pretty good.”

“Shame really.” Julie said. “She is irresistible to look at.”

Dan nodded slowly and looked at her. “You’re attracted to her too aren’t you?” He said.

Julie looked at him. “Who wouldn’t be? She’s gorgeous.” She told him with a smile. “I saw my little pet twitch when she touched you.”

Dan grinned as he draped the towel over his shoulder. “Ah well. You still have me.”

Julie smiled and nibbled his shoulder. “Yes... and that makes me very happy too.”

Admiral Wallace looked up from his desk as Senator Graham marched into his office without permission or welcome. He was turned out in an impeccable suit and tie, as was Kevin, who followed closely behind him. Richard came to a halt in front of the Admiral’s desk, as if waiting for him to offer him a chair. Wallace leaned back in his chair and smiled.

“Good morning Senator. To what do I owe this visit?”

Graham settled into the chair without being asked as if he owned the place. He smoothed out his pants and looked at William. “I believe we need to have a talk Admiral.” He said.

“Regarding what Senator?”

“I am on a fact finding mission Admiral. You are aware of the reasons for this visit, and also why Commander Peterson is here. I have the authorization from the Senate Armed Services Committee; and the Joint Chiefs. I’m confused as to why you are putting up barriers to everything I have requested.” Graham spoke.

“And what barriers are those Senator?” Wallace asked.

“The access to areas of EDEN granted to my son and I to begin with. The issues with Commander Peterson not getting the corporation she has requested. I could go on if need be.” Richard explained. “I only need to make a vid call Admiral... and I will get everything I want.”

Wallace chuckled. He reached across his desk and turned the flat screen monitor to face Graham. “Please Senator, by all means do so.”

“Admiral... we were promised your complete cooperation in this matter!” Graham spoke more firmly. “Do I need to call your superior officer?”

“As I said Senator... please do. You’ll have to route your call through White House Signals though. My direct superior is the President of the United States. I don’t believe he has anything on his schedule today.” William told Graham with barely a concealed grin. He got up from his desk and moved to the counter. “Can I get you some coffee?”

“I don’t drink coffee.” Graham retorted.

“Sorry... that is all I have to offer you.” William said. He poured himself a mug and then returned to this chair. “Allow me to give you some information Senator. EDEN is my base. The President selected me... I answer to him directly. Not to the Armed Services Committee and most definitely not to you. In regards to the Security Access granted to you and your son... well that was the decision of my Security Chief... which I fully endorsed. Your son has a criminal background Senator, whether you want to admit it or not. He will not be allowed access to any secure areas of this base for any reason. Period! Your clearance allows you access to most of the areas on EDEN... with an escort of course. If you are upset because you are not free to roam this base as you do the Senate Office Building... well I’m not losing any sleep over that. As for Commander Peterson... she will receive everything she asks for within reason, and I believe her exams have already begun on Team Twelve. She will not be granted access to areas that are not within her realm of influence. And since she is an active member of the US Navy, the US Navy decided to have her fulfill her commitment to the Navy actually doing something for which she was trained. Not working in your office as one of your personal hatchet agents. If you have a beef with that... I suggest you take it up with MILPERSEN. Now... if I’m not mistaken... your tour of the medical and training facilities is starting in twenty minutes. I wouldn’t want to hold you up.”

Graham came to his feet, his back ram rod straight. “This is not over Admiral Wallace.”

William looked at him. “Yes... I’m afraid it is Senator.”

Graham spun around and stormed out of the office, Kevin dragging along behind him like a dog. William shook his head as he lifted his coffee mug to his lips.

“I fucking hate politicians!” William muttered.

Anja walked through the corridors of SEAL Team Twelve quickly. Everyone she saw was doing something, whether it be working out, working on their weapons, a computer or relaxing in the spacious lounge. Not all of the Team members were present she knew, as there was a squad at the firing range. Some heads turned to watch her as she walked though the area heading for Martin’s office, but most just acted indifferent to her. She entered the office area and saw the door to Martin’s office and strode toward it. Ever since her examine of Commander Simpson this morning, she had felt warm and agitated. It was a sexual rush through her skin and it scared her quite a bit, but it also excited her intensely.

Anja could hear Martin talking as she got closer to the door and she slowed down to try and pick up who he might be talking to and what he might be talking about. She stopped just outside his door and saw him speaking to the incredibly attractive oriental female on his screen.

“They are not letting us depart Martin.” Yuri’s face was on the screen. “They are concerned we won’t make it back before the leading edges of that comet come into range. They want to wait until it passes before we return.”

“I know. I just got done talking with Tony, and he informed me. I was hoping we could be together tonight.” Martin answered her.

Anja saw the Japanese woman smile on the screen. “When I get back... we’ll stay in bed for an entire day to make up for it.”

“I’ll hold you to that.” Martin said.

Yuri chuckled. “That’s not something you could keep me from even if you tried.” Her face changed slightly. “Go secure Martin. Use our personal channel.”

Martin reached out and manipulated his console quickly. The screen fluttered then refocused on Yuri. “What’s wrong?” He asked.

“Walter gave me some news this morning.” Yuri said.

Martin immediately sat up in his chair. “Are you sick? Is something wrong with Yuriko?”

Yuri smiled brightly. “No nothing like that. It’s...” The screen went fuzzy and then refocused on Yuri’s face. Anja could see the look of confusion on her face and she watched as Martin tried to adjust the screen.

“It has to be the comet’s interference Yuri.” Martin said. “I’m losing you.”

“I’ll... tomorrow... I... you.” With that the transmission ended.

Martin slapped the screen in frustration and flipped a switch. “COM Officer?”

“COM Officer here Commander, go ahead.”

“My signal just fuzzed out on me in mid transmission.” Martin spoke.

“I know sir. It happened all over the station. Interference from the comet is disrupting all communications. Admiral Wallace has ordered all available power to be directed to one beam so we can maintain communication with EDEN control for as long as possible. I’m sorry sir.”

Martin sighed, “Very well. Let me know when station wide Coms is back.”

“Aye sir.”

Martin turned in his chair and looked back to the set of datapads on his desk. He picked one up as Anja composed herself and entered the office. “Do you normally eavesdrop on private conversations?” He asked not looking up from the data pad.

“Excuse me?” Anja asked.

Martin looked up at her and sat back in his chair. “Anja I smelled you coming down the corridor. Enhanced senses remember?”

Anja’s face turned crimson under the tan and she squeezed her hands together. “Why didn’t you say something?” She demanded.

“Last time I checked this was my office.” Martin replied. “And contrary to what you and the good senator believe, I have nothing to hide.” Martin got up and moved around to pull the chair out. “Have a seat.”

Anja sighed and moved to the chair, settling into it as Martin returned to his chair. She watched him sit down, the feeling of warmth and sexual desire returning to her even stronger than this morning in the Medical Center with Lieutenant Commander Simpson. “May I ask who... who that was?”

Martin looked at her. “Her name is Yuri Tanaka. She’s Japanese and a member of EDEN’s crew. She works in the Physics lab.”

“You... you seem to be much closer than just normal co-workers.” Anja inquired.

Martin sat back in his chair. “And why exactly would that interest you Anja?” He asked. “Are you jealous?”

Anja’s brow furrowed, “Certainly not!” She exclaimed.

“Then there is no need for you to know more.” Martin spoke. “What can I do for you?”

“I don’t want to be enemies Martin.” Anja said softly, the tone of her voice saying much more.

“Neither do I Anja, but your mission here does not equate to us being friends.” He told her.

“How do we change that?” Anja asked.

“Unfortunately I don’t think we can.” He replied honestly. “You... you have moved on with your life and in many ways so have I.”

“I never meant to hurt you Martin.” She said meeting his dark eyes and feeling a surge of desire for him sweep through her, as strong as it ever was on that night.

Martin nodded slowly. “I came to realize that after a year or so.” He told her, wanting to say so much more. “I don’t harbor any bad feelings towards you Anja, but right now we are on two different teams it seems. And neither of us likes to lose.”

“Did you recommend to Admiral Wallace that I get stationed here for an entire year?” She asked him.

Martin shook his head quickly. “No. I had nothing to do with that. That was entirely the Admiral’s doing. And that is the truth.”

Anja stared at him for a long moment before nodding her head. “Fair enough, I believe you.” She got to her feet. “You have not made an appointment for your physical, and I have a slot open right after lunch. I expect to see you there Commander. 1330 hours sharp!”

Martin nodded, “Fair enough.”

Martin watched as Anja turned, and he had to admire how she filled out her uniform and how her ass swayed when she walked. He remembered vividly every detail of her body, and how she felt in his arms. Martin shook his head silently and thought of how he felt about Yuri. There was no doubt that she meant a great deal to him, and she was a hellion in their bed, but did he love her? Yuriko had taken to calling him daddy, and though he didn't know how he felt about that, he allowed her to do so and even conducted himself in that manner at times.

Did he love them? That was a question he was unable to answer.

Anja pulled away from the microscope in her lab and realized it was getting late. She hadn't seen a patient in over three hours, and all of her staff had already gone for the day while she reviewed the results of the blood work. She had unbuttoned her uniform shirt due to the heat in the lab and looked around for the temperature controls. She slid off the stool and walked over to the console and her eyes widened slightly when the display told her the temperature in the clinic was a cool 72 degrees. Why was she burning up then? She had tried to suppress the fever building in her all day, even dismiss it, but she could feel her blood pulsing in her veins, and her skin was moist to the touch, not to mention that she was very damp between her thighs, and she could hardly withstand the urge to go back to her quarters and fuck Kevin's brains out. The only thing stopping her is that she hated him, and she didn't know what was happening to her. It had started almost immediately after being in the same room with Lieutenant Commander Simpson late this morning. She remembered the flashback of the vision she had this morning, his hard body wrapped around her and pounding his huge manhood into pussy. The vision had happened twice more during the day, but each time after that it was Martin pounding her silly not Daniel.

Anja went to the collection of blood samples taken from the Team members and quickly pulled the results of the tests she had for Dan Simpson. She had chosen a selective battery of tests to be run on the blood samples, all of which her staff had completed very efficiently. As her eyes swept down the results she could detect nothing out of the ordinary at first glance, and that led her to only one conclusion. Anja snatched the data pad from her desk and stormed from her office.

Dan answered the door chime to his quarters while trying to read the datapad in his hand. He didn't even look up as he opened the door and he never saw the open palmed slap that connected with his unprotected and unprepared cheek.

"You sonofabitch," The feminine voice yelled as he staggered back more from the surprise than the force of the blow. His dark eyes grew darker and he ground his teeth in anger as he turned to look at who had just hit him. His eyes grew wide.

"Commander Peterson!" He said with a stunned look.

"What did you drug me with you bastard!" Anja snapped.

"What? What the hell are you talking about?" Dan spoke befuddled.

"Don't take me for a fool!" Anja barked; her green eyes narrowed and alive with anger. She had stepped into the room now and the door closed behind her. "You drugged me with something and I want to know what it is!"

"What in the hell are you talking about woman?" Dan gasped for the second time. "What do you mean drugged you?"

Anja came up short at that and stared at him. "You... you didn't put something in your sweat?"

Dan looked at her shocked. "Why the hell would I put a drug in my sweat?"

"There are... there are drugs that are extremely powerful aphrodisiacs." Anja told him, moving her hand across her forehead. "They..."

Dan looked at her. "Are you ok Doc?" He asked.

Anja took notice for the first time of the way he was dressed. He was shirtless as he was earlier today, with nothing on but a pair of loose boxer shorts. Her eyes took in the finely toned arms and shoulders and the abdomen that rippled with muscles. Her eyes also took in the outline of what had to be an extremely large cock, and she felt herself become even wetter between her thighs. Her abdomen tightened as she felt a rush of sexual energy wash over her. She could see his face, and the sweat that was beginning to spread across his ebony skin. She blinked several times, feeling the sensation of desire become even more powerful. Dan stepped up to her slowly a small smile on his face. She backed up slowly as he advanced towards her, a lustful look on his face now.

“What are... what are you doing?” She stammered.

Dan reached up and touched her face gently, Anja’s eyes closing briefly as sensations of lustful desire washed over her. “I... I didn’t know.” Dan said softly, his dark eyes clouded over with the own lust that had suddenly surged through his body.

“What’s happening?” Anja asked as he stepped even closer to her, towering over her by a good eight inches. He was so close now she could smell him and the musky aroma of his body. It smelled faintly of caramel.

Anja felt him lift her into his arms as if she weighed nothing at all, and push her back against the wall, her face even with his. She could see the sweat on his face now, the desire for her in his eyes. And it was matched only by her desire for him. Anja surrendered completely to what she was feeling and dropped the pad she was holding to crush her lips against his. She wrapped her long muscular legs around his waist as her tongue sought out and found his. She kissed him forcefully, wanting to take what he offered her, and for a few moments she succeeded. Then Dan exerted himself and he deepened the kiss, his tongue driving further into her mouth, dominating her. His eyes opened wide when he realized Anja’s tongue was very long, and somewhere in his sexually charged mind he estimated the length of her delicious tongue at almost four inches. Anja groaned deeply in need into his mouth as her body came alive with feelings she had never experienced. She felt Dan reach for her white uniform blouse and rip it away easily, exposing her large breasts to his searching hands. She moaned as his ebony hands mauled her 36D tits, pinching her nipples until she was practically screaming into his mouth. She gasped when he broke the kiss and his lips descended to her right tit and took a good portion of her flesh into his mouth. Her head went back when he sucked hard on her nipple, his teeth grazing the sensitive bud and pulling on it. She could feel his hands pulling at her skirt, and she just held onto his broad shoulders as he ripped that away as well, leaving only her thin white thong panties.

Anja yelped in surprise when he dropped quickly to his knees while holding her against the wall. He draped her legs over his shoulders and took in the site of what he wanted. The front of her thong was damp with her juices, and Dan inhaled of her scent. He could see the outline of her incredibly excited pussy behind the fabric. The small triangle of red hair above her aroused and exposed clit only served to excite him more and he reached up, pulling the thong away in one yank, hearing her gasp in surprise and clutch his bald head.

Dan stared at the prize before him and decided that it had to be just as beautiful a pussy as Julie’s was. And the soft red hair above her engorged clit only made it all the better. Dan leaned his head forward, the tip of his nose brushing the outer lips of her soaked pussy causing Anja to nearly jump out of his arms. Her breathing was coming in short gasps, and she held his head with a strength that belied her size. She was trying to shove her pussy into his face and pull his head toward her at the same time. He inhaled her aroused sexual state one final time before doing what Anja so wanted him to do. He closed his mouth over her pussy and began sucking her clit hard.

Anja’s eyes flew open wide and her head went back as she screamed out her orgasm. Her stomach muscles tightened and her thighs quivered, locked around his head. Her body shuddered in the throes of passion as her juices flooded into Dan’s mouth and he drank her essence eagerly. His large hands still pawed her ample tits, squeezing and pinching her nipples, causing the sensations to continue to rock her as she came explosively. Her red hair had fallen from the tie she was using and now cascaded past her shoulders and was quickly becoming saturated with her sweat. Her head came forward, her breath staggered and so very near to hyperventilating. Anja hadn’t cum like that since Martin had eaten her pussy so long ago. Her mind asked if they had taken lessons from the same person, but she had no time to contemplate that thought as Dan stood back up while keeping her level with him again. He looked into her wide emerald green eyes and smiled. His lips were coated with her juices and Anja drew him down to her face for a deep hard kiss, surprising him with her eagerness, as she tasted herself on his tongue and in his mouth and didn’t care a wit.

Anja’s eyes popped open when she felt the probing at the entrance to her soaked pussy. Somehow he had removed his boxer shorts while he was sucking her pussy, and the head of his immense cock was begging for entry into her tight cunt. She broke their kiss and glanced down between her thighs in shock. She saw the huge black cock poised to enter her, the massive head pressing against her drenched pussy lips, the veins along its easily foot long length extended and pulsing in passion.

“God... Danny no... you’re too big!” She gasped. “I... Ahhhhhh,” Anja’s head flew back again, banging into the wall as the head of his massive ebony cock pushed into her.

Dan grimaced as he pushed just the head of his burning cock into her tight pussy and stopped. His powerful arms held her hips tightly, as he felt her velvet heat engulf his cock head. Anja’s breathing caused her chest to heave in exertion, her nipples now rock hard and protruding proudly. It was too much for Dan and he lowered his head to her right tit and took it into his mouth as he sank more of his cock into her. She was even tighter than Julie was and Julie had an enormously tight hot pussy.

“So... so fucking tight,” He gasped, his forehead cushioned between her breasts, his fingers digging into her hips.

Dan was barely able to control himself as her moist heat accepted him. He held her shuddering body as Anja shivered in orgasm, her sweet juices coating his thick cock. He had only three perhaps four inches in her and she was already cumming. Her orgasm provided more than enough lubricant for him as he felt her juices running down her thighs and onto his own legs, and he pushed more of his cock into her with a grunt, sinking nearly six more inches into her before stopping again. Anja’s head whipped back and forth, her fingers digging into his powerful arms, her legs locked tightly around his waist. Her red hair was soaked in sweat now from both their bodies and it stuck to his skin as she tossed her head from side to side.

Anja suddenly grabbed his head hard and stared at him with a powerful need. “All of you Danny!” She gasped. “I want all of you! Fuck me!”

Danny was not one to disobey an order and he gripped her hips and slammed himself forward while pulling her down towards him. Anja screamed in a mix of pleasure and pain as she felt him slam his twelve inches of pulsing black cock fully into her depths, his heavy balls banging against her ass cheeks. She wrapped her arms around his head and screamed into his shoulder as Dan reached a part of her that only Martin had ever touched. His massive ebony cock was buried so deeply within her, filling her as only one man had before him. She felt him tense in her arms and then his cock grew inside her, causing her eyes to go wide as she felt his cum boiling up through his length. She could feel his huge cock swell even larger as his cum raced up the length, Anja feeling everything inside her because her pussy was wrapped so tightly around his cock. His hands crushed her ass to him and he held himself there, as he unloaded a massive load directly into her depths. His explosive climax triggered another orgasm within her as he pumped his large load of cum into her belly and Anja cried out again in ecstasy as her burning body responded to his ministrations. They stayed like that, locked together for what seemed like hours until Dan’s cock stopped twitching inside her. Anja could feel his cum filling her belly and running down her thighs, her eyes wide at the amount he had unloaded into her.

Dan pulled his head away from her delicious tits, their bodies drenched in sweat and he met her gaze. Her jade green eyes were alive and bright, and the contrast in their skin color kept him as hard as iron deep inside her incredibly tight pussy. He looked down between their bodies, her soft triangle of red hair saturated with their combined cum, and pressed deeply against his hairless groin. He looked up again and looked into her beautiful eyes and leaned forward to kiss her. Anja responded to his gentle kiss, her tongue dancing joyfully across his lips and teeth, her hands clutching his hard muscular body to her. She reached up with her hands and pulled his head away, running her fingers over his bald head, his ebony skin shiny with sweat.

“Please Danny... please tell me we aren’t finished.” She gasped.

“Finished?” Dan told her with a smile. He flexed his huge cock inside her and his smile grew wider when she groaned in delight. “We’re just starting Anja. We’re just starting!”

Dan pulled her away from the wall, Anja grasping his shoulders too late as she bottomed out on his massive cock. She screamed in delight as Dan carried her into his bedroom, each step he took causing a mini orgasm inside her as his huge cock struck home time after time. When he lowered her to the bed she was gasping in unabashed glee, and that was before he started to fuck her with soul stealing deep strokes of his huge ebony cock. Anja was putty in his arms and she knew it.

Julie Collins moved down the corridor with a grace and confidence common to those who knew her. She had just gotten off duty and was looking forward to spending time with Danny relaxing in their quarters.

Julie was SEAL Team 12’s senior Communications specialist. If there was something she didn’t know about communications, then it hadn’t been invented yet. And she was also the alternate hand to hand combat instructor for the team. Her five foot nine body looked to be something carved from a woman's fitness magazine. She had long satiny legs and a slim waist that accented her full firm 34B breasts and flat abdomen. Her short curly dark hair fell to just above her shoulders, framing a lean beautiful face with full sensuous lips and light brown eyes. Her skin was a shade darker than Dan, almost the color of dark caramel, and she loved the contrast of their skin when their bodies were pressed together.

They had been lovers for as many years as she could remember, and she knew every intimate detail of his rock hard body and his huge cock. Whenever he bottomed out inside her tight pussy it caused her to quake with orgasms time and time again. He was not the only lover she had ever had, but he was by far the most attentive of what she wanted and needed. And while she knew he had had other lovers as well, none of them had ever been able to take his monstrous cock as deeply into their throat as Julie had. And she relished every inch of his thick pole with delight.

Julie stopped several meters from the door to their quarters as her enhanced sense of smell picked up something. Her eyes grew large when she smelled the scent of Dan's passion so strongly, but it was the other, sweeter smell that caused her eyes to go even wider. She recognized that smell from earlier in the day, and the scent was even sweeter now as it reeked of passion and desire and orgasmic explosions. She went to the door and quietly slid her card through the slot. The door silently whished opened and she stepped in quickly to the muffled sounds of a female in what could only be described as orgasmic bliss. She didn't need her enhanced sense of smell to determine that the room reeked of sweat and sex, but her sense of smell was able to separate the mingling scents. She knew Danny's scent without question, but the sweet scent of honey was mixed in heavily with his smell and she knew that smell from earlier today.

Julie walked noiselessly into the bedroom and stood in the doorway, her own supple body immediately becoming highly aroused at what she saw and smelled. Danny's back was to her, his skin glistening with sweat. His hands were gripping Anja's hips tightly as he pummeled her pussy with his huge cock from behind. Her body was also soaked in sweat, her face pressed forward into the bed frozen in a look of continual orgasmic release, her hands clenching and then unclenching the sheets. Julie knew that look well, as that is exactly how she looked whenever Danny plowed her from behind as he was currently doing to Anja. Her juices were soaking his hips, his thick ebony cock driving into her in long powerful twelve inch strokes. Julie inhaled the air in the room deeply, her senses coming alive. Anja smelled sweeter than any woman she had ever met, and that was after she had no doubt cum over and over again already. She could tell they had been fucking each other for at least three hours by the temperature of the room and the state of the bed, yet even now, Anja's cum still smelled sweet as it spilled from her extremely tight pussy. And judging by the look on Danny's face as he plowed his thick cock into her depths, Anja was very tight.

Julie had never entertained the thought of being with another woman, it just didn't appeal to her, yet now watching her lover plunge his massive ebony cock into the red haired pussy under him, and seeing her long flowing red hair splayed across the bed, images of the two of them flashed in her mind.

She walked up behind Danny and traced her fingers across his broad back, leaning close to him. His eyes opened from concentration and he smiled up at her as she kissed him deeply, her hands running over his chest.

"Hi baby." She whispered seductively to him. "This is a surprise."

"Jules... I..."

Julie shook her head and began to unbutton her fatigues as she looked down to where Danny's cock was pile driving Anja's beautiful pussy. The lips of her cunt were stretched around his thick veiny black cock and gripped him as tightly as her own pussy did when he was fucking her. Anja was thrusting her firm, tight ass back at him on every downward plunge he rammed into her, taking his entire twelve inch cock into her luscious body, her face blissfully unaware of Julie being in the room and watching them.

Watching Danny slam his thick cock home Julie suddenly recognized where that extremely sweet smell was coming from. It was coming from Anja.

She had spoken to Doctor Carson a few years before and he had explained to her that there was an aura that wolves projected to attract females to mate. Due to their wolf genes, it appeared Danny and Martin had developed this ability, yet they were unable to control how to use it. It would not happen to every female, only those the male consider worthy of mating with, and it did not necessarily mean they would stay together. Julie knew this aura well, as she had felt it flow over her on many occasions, and while Danny's aura could always get her ready and excited, their relationship had not progressed into something emotionally so deep.

Yet now, watching Danny fuck Anja senseless, Julie felt the effects of his aura again. Julie's body was becoming extremely excited by just watching Anja's lean muscular body as she fucked Danny's huge cock back with obvious enthusiasm and passionate need; the line of her back, and the curve of her beautiful ass, as well as her large firm tits. Julie felt her own excitement growing as she dropped her fatigues to the floor and moved to the front of the bed where Anja's beautiful face was locked in euphoric sexual bliss. Her eyes were closed tightly, her mouth open in a small circle as orgasm after orgasm was coursing through her. Julie leaned close to her ear.

"It's delicious isn't it?" She whispered softly.

Anja's green eyes sprang open in an instant and her head turned to look directly at Julie. She pushed her upper body up from the bed, exposing her huge tits to Julie's gaze and she reached back to placed her hand on Danny's powerful abdomen to try and get him to stop fucking her senseless. It was to no avail as he simply gripped her hips tighter and strengthened his plunges into her. Anja's eyes nearly rolled into her head, but through the fog of orgasmic pleasure she looked at Julie.

"Petty... Petty Officer... Ahhhhhh... I..." Anja was trying to speak, but Danny's soul robbing stokes into her pussy were making her see stars instead.

Julie smiled softly, looking at her face. "It's ok." She spoke. "I'm just going to watch."

Anja could only grunt in reply as Danny reached forward and palmed her firm tits, giving him leverage to stroke his huge black cock into her even more deeply. Anja could only watch as Julie settled onto the bed in front of them completely naked. Her own darker colored skin glistened with sweat, her breasts high and firm. Though not as large as Anja's breasts, they looked entirely delicious in Anja's eyes. Julie's legs were long and lean and muscular, and her waist was small. Her abdomen was flat and satiny and sported a pierced navel with a glittering diamond. Anja found her eyes drifting to Julie's pussy, and she was surprised to see the bald pussy with dark lips so wet. Watching Danny fuck the shit out of her was making Julie excited Anja noticed. Her pussy was leaking cum and Anja could tell it was becoming more and more aroused. Danny's hands were everywhere on her body, grabbing and caressing every part of her flesh.

This was not Kevin fucking her she realized in her enormously aroused mind. Danny was fucking her with an intensity that only Martin had surpassed. His hands and lips and tongue never stayed in one spot, as he licked and caressed and kissed every exposed portion of her supple frame. Anja closed her eyes briefly, and in her mind's eye it was Martin fucking her and not Danny. Danny's touch was exciting and passionate, but Martin's hands had made her sing in pleasure and desire even more powerful than what she was experiencing now. As she opened her eyes again and saw Julie's dripping snatch in front of her Anja surrendered to that desire once more.

Anja used surprising strength to pull Danny's hands from her tits as she fell forward on the bed. And again with surprising speed and strength she shocked Julie by pulling her long legs open and pulling her hips down towards her drooling lips.

"Anja... what... what are you doing!" Julie gasped her eyes wide, "Stop! I've never been with a woman! I've... you can't... oh my GOD! Ahhhhhh YES!"

Anja covered Julie's beautiful, oozing pussy with her lips and sucked hard on the passion and desire bloated clit. Julie immediately erupted in an intense orgasm, and Anja dug her hands into Julie's supple ass cheeks, holding her in place while she drank Julie's sweet tasting cum with no hesitation whatsoever. Julie's back was arched off the bed, her hands clenching the sheets in earth shattering orgasmic bliss as she came harder than she had ever experienced without Danny's hard cock ramming into her.

Dan took all this in with wide eyes and it was entirely too much for him to stand. The fact that Anja had her beautiful face buried in Julie's pussy and was obviously swallowing Julie's cum was too much for him. With a roar like a wild animal he rammed his huge cock home into Anja's well fucked but still unbelievably tight pussy one final time, his cum bloated balls seated firmly against the backs of her upper thighs and he exploded within her. Anja screamed into Julie's delicious tasting pussy as she felt Danny's cum blasting into her with more force than anytime earlier in the evening. Her body responded in kind, her own howl inducing orgasm as she coated his spurting and twitching ebony monster with her juices. Julie's clutching pussy was spewing sweet tasting cum all over her face and Anja again fastened her gasping mouth over Julie's cunt so that she could drink down her sweet cum, while her own orgasm carried her to new heights.

It was over in two minutes, all of them physically spent beyond what they had expected, and the three of them fell into a post orgasmic blissful moment. Dan fell forward onto Anja's back, his cock still firmly entrenched deep in her cunt, Julie had fallen back on the bed, her chest heaving in wonderment at what had just occurred, and Anja was between them. Her blissful face rested just above Julie's now glistening pussy and she felt Danny's huge cock still buried within her. Her mind told her it would be better only with Martin's arms around her.

EDEN COMMAND CENTER

"That's it Admiral." The tech spoke turning in his chair to face Wallace and Martin. "The interference from the comet has degraded all communications now. We won't be able to talk to anyone on earth for at least twenty-eight hours until the comet clears out of the immediate area."

William nodded. "The emergency beacons are still operating though correct?"

The tech nodded. "Yes sir. Most of earth's governments moved their satellites into new orbits to avoid the comet, but it cost them most of their fuel. We'll be busy after this sucker passes."

William nodded. "So it would see. How long before it passes between us?"

"Sixteen hours Admiral." The tech answered. "And at least another twelve before it actually clears up enough that we can talk to earth."

William nodded. "Keep me informed Ensign." He turned and motioned for Martin to follow him. They left the Command Center and headed for the small officer's lounge on this level. "Did Senator Graham give you any grief today?" Wallace asked him.

Martin shook his head. "No sir. Kind of makes me uneasy." He said.

William nodded, "Me too. Is that SWEEPER Team still being watched?"

Martin nodded. "I have someone on each of the nine members, yes sir. The rest of those we suspected were actual technicians."

"Good. I want to be kept advised of every thing they do." Wallace spoke. "I understand Anja came to see you today?"

Martin nodded. "She wanted to make peace." He told him. "I agreed but told her we were on different teams and we both hated to lose."

William chuckled. "She's a stubborn wench, no doubt about that." He said. "Someone needs to fuck her brains out and make her relax a little."

Martin laughed. "Don't look at me sir!" He said in mock fear. "I did that once and look where it got me."

William laughed and clapped Martin on the shoulder. "Perhaps you should fuck her again and fix what you obviously started."

"Me?" Martin gasped.

Wallace nodded. "She's got the hots for you Marty. I don't think that has ever changed. The arrogance and angry she projects at you is her way of dealing with what she doesn't understand."

"You're kidding right sir?" Martin asked.

Wallace nodded, "Nope."

"Admiral... it was only one night." Martin said.

Wallace nodded. "And sometimes one night is all you need to know that you were meant for someone." He looked at Martin. "You still have feelings for her Marty, that much is very obvious. Just don't dismiss anything just yet, ok?"

Martin nodded slowly. "Yes... yes sir."

"You and your team have proven yourselves to me countless times Marty. Never doubt that I will support you in anything that you do." Wallace said.

Martin nodded. "I know sir."

"Good. What are you going to do with yourself while this comet thing goes by?"

Martin smiled. "The Astrometric Chief told me it was going to be quite the display. I think I might wander over to the arboretum and watch."

"I'll be in my quarters getting some much deserved sleep." William said. "Unless that thing crashes in to us, I don't want to be disturbed until after it passes us by."

Martin nodded. "I make sure of it sir."

Anja was in the process of being disturbed, but it was the most pleasurable disturbance she had experienced in several years. She had woken only a short time ago to find herself entwined with two other dark skinned individuals. Her head rested lazily on Julie's firm medium sized breasts, one of her legs draped across her lower body. She could feel Danny spooning against her from behind, his huge cock flaccid, but still large enough to send shivers of delight coursing through her at the memories of the pleasure it had given her. He was sound asleep, and Anja took it upon herself to explore the new flesh under her. She had never even thought about having sex with another woman before, yet seeing Julie's beautiful dripping pussy so close to her face, and still gripped in the effects of Danny's aura, she had proceeded to lap at the first cunt of her life. And what an experience it had been. When Julie had exploded into her mouth, her juices had tasted almost like mocha coffee and Anja had drunk them down with relish. When she had awoken still stretched upon Julie's luscious body Anja slowly wiggled and squirmed and pushed Danny off her and then she began to explore the supple dark flesh before her.

Anja's gentle and intimate caresses had woken Julie. At first she thought it had been Danny, until she looked down between her thighs and saw the mass of Persian red hair. Just as she realized it was Anja sucking gently on her aroused clit and stroking her tight ass cheeks, Julie was blindsided by the orgasm. She cried out and entwined her fingers in Anja's soft lustrous red hair and held her head in place as Anja's lips and tongue danced across the now swollen lips of her pussy and her engorged clit and drank the cum spewing from Julie's pussy. As her orgasm subsided, she felt Anja slowly work her way up Julie's taunt ebony body, her tongue licking the sweat from between her firm breasts until Julie was looking into her bright jade green eyes. Julie pulled Anja's lips to hers in the most passionate and heated kiss she had ever given anyone, and she whimpered into Anja's mouth as she returned the heat and passion. It was then that she realized what Danny had discovered in the first moments of his first kiss with this red headed vixen. Anja had an incredibly long, yet delicious tongue and it sent shivers through Julie. It did not take them long to begin exploring each other's bodies, and soon Anja was flipping around and lowering her drenched pussy over Julie's waiting lips.

Julie stopped lapping at Anja's dripping cunt and paused to admire the firmness of her ass cheeks and the neatly trimmed tuft of red hair above her fully swollen clit. She groaned as she felt Anja's insistent tongue delicately probing the depths of her pussy. Julie was amazed at how long Anja's tongue was, and she now had every inch of that incredibly warm appendage stuffing her snatch while Anja fastened her mouth over her entire pussy. Julie stared at the swollen pink lips of Anja's beautiful pussy, her lips and mouth full of Anja's sweet tasting juices. An hour ago, she would never have even dreamed about this experience, but here she was eagerly lapping away at the most beautiful white pussy she had ever seen, and thoroughly enjoying every moment. Her hands grasped Anja's tight ass cheeks and pulled that beautiful snatch down to her face again, eliciting a groan of pleasure from Anja as she sank her tongue as far into that pink pussy as she could.

Though they were both inexperienced at eating pussy, they both chose to use the same techniques that got them off, and it succeeded. Anja cried out first, shoving her spasming cunt down hard on Julie's wonderful tongue as she erupted into Julie's eager mouth. Julie didn't miss a drop, her tongue working Anja's sensitive clit even more as her honey tasting cum poured out of her pussy into her mouth and throat. It was then that Julie's eyes went wide, and to her credit she didn't remove her mouth from Anja's pussy as she felt Anja's slim finger slip into her virgin ass just as Anja sucked hard on her swollen clit. Julie lost it then as she screamed into her lover's pussy and flooded her waiting mouth with more cum than she had ever produced before. It was so much that Anja could barely keep up, and some of her cum slipped from the corners of Anja's mouth and soaked her jaw and neck.

Their arms clutched each other's bodies tightly, their mouths never leaving their places as thighs quivered and firm abdomens clenched. They drank each other's essence until there was nothing left to give. They were both coated with sweat when it was over, the sheets of the bed soaked. Almost as if reading each other's minds they looked over to where Danny had been laying when they began. He had shifted to the far side of the large bed and was still sleeping soundly. With a soft groan Anja lifted her pussy from Julie's face and slowly turned to crawl back up her body. Julie's dark eyes were wide and very bright, and the smile that was on her face caused Anja to grin.

"Hi... hi there," Anja whispered; a very satisfied and seductive smile on her face.

"Hi... hi yourself," Julie answered. She reached up as her breathing was returning to normal and traced Anja's soft red lips with a finger, "That... that was incredible."

Anja's large green eyes were bright and seemed to become even more animated when Julie said that. "I... I thought so too." She spoke softly before plunging her face down for a toe curling kiss that made both of them shudder in post orgasmic delight. The kiss lasted for several long moments before it broke, and Anja simply rested her head on Julie's substantial tits as they both fell into a dreamy sleep curled in each other's arms.

EARTH

2546

Northern Uinta Mountains, Utah

The man stood beside the huge tree staring into the night sky, the full moon illuminating the entire area all around him. He wore a dark gray jumpsuit on his six foot frame with a flowing cloak over his shoulders, his long white hair falling around his shoulders. He held the six foot length of polished oak in his hand for support, his wrinkled skin pale even in the moon light. His deep blue eyes though were extremely bright and very alert, and belied his age. The old man turned slowly when he heard the soft footsteps behind him.

"Holy One, it is I?" The soft feminine voice reached out from the darkness.

"Come forward Tarifa." The man spoke. "You need not ask my permission."

He watched as the two figures appeared from the darkness of the forest around them, walking as if they were ghosts. He watched as they stopped in front of him and slowly dropped to their knees. They were both female and both looked to be in their mid twenties. The one on the right was the one who had spoken and was the taller of the two. Her name was Tarifa, and she was among the tallest of her people at five foot nine. Her flowing, shiny black hair fell almost to the top of her buttocks, framing an absolutely perfect face with high cheekbones and soft pouty full lips. Her face was oval in shape, and her flawless skin was evenly tanned from years of living in the sun and it gave her a distinctly exotic look.

Each of them wore tight, coal black jumpsuit like uniforms that allowed them to blend seamlessly into the night. The jumpsuits were of a design that added flexible body armor to their uniforms in critical areas, but did not hinder physical movement in the least. The uniforms fastened around their slim necks but split open in a "V" shape, and as you looked further down their enticing torsos, the tanned skin of their cleavages and abdomens was exposed for all to see as the uniforms strained against their high full breasts. The "V" ended just below their navels, and became normal again. The fabric that encased their legs was also very much skin tight, almost as if painted on, and both wore elaborate combat boots that extended up almost to their knees. The uniforms had no sleeves, and their tanned arms were exposed to the elements, but both wore fingerless black gloves and armored gauntlets that covered their skin, the gauntlets ending just below the elbows with wicked looking edges to them that could slice flesh as easily as butter.

The old man stepped closer to them and reached out with a wrinkled hand to push aside the soft satiny black hair on the side of Tarifa's head to reveal the slightly larger and three inch long pointed ears. He smiled gently.

They were elfin ears.

"Never be ashamed of what you are child." He spoke softly.

Tarifa lifted her delicate face to look at him with her dazzling sapphire blue eyes and used her hand to pull her hair around her other matching ear. She could see her Lieutenant Endith doing the same. She settled her sapphire blue eyes on the old man.

The Holy One had designed the uniforms and all of the High Elf female warriors now wore them, and had for centuries. The males wore similar uniforms, but since Elf society was not as concerned with modesty, nearly every female had modified their uniforms and clothes to enhance their near perfect figures, and they did so shamelessly. Tarifa however had altered her uniform to be unique, and her personal guard had copied her alterations in honor of their positions. The uniform did nothing to hide the perfect shape of her hips and the fullness of her high firm 34C breasts. The flowing black cape around her shoulders hid the view of a muscular and exceptionally formed tight ass. The female who knelt next to Tarifa was her Senior Lieutenant, and matched Tarifa's beauty in almost every way, the only difference being the long shiny red hair that fell to her shoulders, and the absence of the strangely exotic aura that surrounded Tarifa.

Tarifa carried herself with an almost regal air, as well she should. Tarifa may have looked to be only in her mid twenties, but she was in fact over a hundred years old, and had been Queen of the High Elves for nearly half that time. As with all elves, she was blessed with exceptional reflexes and strength, as well as heightened senses. Though she was the product of a mother and father, as were her three younger siblings, she could trace her heritage back to great-grandparents that were created by the man she knelt before now.

A man all Elves referred to as the Holy One.

"It is almost time Holy One." She spoke softly. "Marcus's forces are getting closer."

The old man nodded and settled to the large stone beside the tree, resting his frail form before looking at her again. "I am sorry Tarifa, Endith. I'm sorry for so many things."

Tarifa looked at him oddly and stole a quick glance at her equally confused lieutenant. "Forgive me Holy One, but sorry for what?"

"I'm sorry for bringing this upon you and the others." He told her. "As with so many of my creations, they have been misused and abused over the years. My only thoughts were to try and make things better."

"Holy One you created us all those years ago." Tarifa spoke. "If not for you, none of us would exist. It was you who allowed us to prosper and grow. Make homes for ourselves, and have families."

The old man nodded. "And look what it has wrought?" He continued softly, almost as if he was ignoring her. "My attempts at helping others has wrought endless war and fighting. I sought to create perfection in the elves by making all of you so desirable to man that they couldn't resist you. I sought to bury deep the century's old notions of hiding your sexuality by making the elves perhaps the most sexually free species to ever inhabit this planet. Now so many of your sisters and brothers are dead at the hands of those I wanted to help, and oppressed by those I thought long dead. So many more turned into slaves and pleasure toys for men and others. I meant for all of you to live free and be happy, not be slaves and toys to power hungry animals and beasts."

"The High Elves are free Holy One." Tarifa said. "We live free every day."

The old man smiled. "Events are coming to a close Tarifa my child." He spoke sadly. "You can not win this war you fight; not alone. You must seek help from those you shun."

"You have said this before Holy One." Tarifa spoke. "I know what you mean, and I agree with you, but the Council of Elders does not. They believe an alliance with the Wood Elves would be disastrous. The Wood Elves have betrayed us in the past."

"You are their Queen Tarifa." The old man spoke. "You must make them see that events are happening differently. The Wood Elves chose a new Queen over a century ago and the Elders still refuse to reach out to her."

"Holy One she has allowed her warriors to raid several of our camps and murder innocents." Tarifa spoke, her voice holding distrust and anger in it. "How can she be trusted? Rumor has it she is even working with Marcus and the Alliance to wipe us out."

"Do you believe this Tarifa?" The man asked.

"I do not want too Holy One, but the evidence is very nearly overwhelming." Tarifa replied. "Just yesterday I received word that one of our border towns was massacred by the Cadre's Sweeper Assassins. They struck like creatures from the night, slaughtering everything in their path. And it was said they were led to the town by a Wood Elf assassin."

The old man sighed heavily. "Yes I know." He reached out and placed his hand gently on her shoulder. "I created the Elves in the image of myths and legends from my time Tarifa. I took from those legends and stories and gave you your strength and speed and your other abilities. I wanted to ease the burden of mankind by giving them a race of men and women that could help them to rebuild. They took my work and twisted it into darkness, creating all manner of monsters and beasts. They turned you into slaves and beasts of burden to satisfy their sadistic pleasures. I created all of you to be beautiful and nearly perfect female physical specimens, but in my desire to do good I did not realize they would take advantage of your beauty in the ways they have done. So many of your sisters have been lost to slavery, transformed into nothing but drug addicted pleasure slaves that serve the whims of those in power. Having that knowledge within me these past four hundred years has been the bane of my existence.”

“You did not know that would happen Holy One.” Tarifa spoke. “No one could have predicted the depths to which humanity would fall after the Great Fire. And there have been some humans who we regard as friends.”

The man looked at her. “You speak of the ones in the mountains? You have not had contact with them in nearly three decades.”

Tarifa nodded. “This is true, but we have maintained good relations with those humans who live in the mountains Holy One.” Tarifa said. “But the Alliance has herded many of them to the cities now as they expand their empire. We can no longer rely on them for help.”

The old man nodded. “Those humans that live in the mountains are exceptions Tarifa. All Elves, High Elves and Wood Elves alike, were unique. Even the minor clans of elves that have been established over the years are unique. And over the years you have made them even more unique. You are warriors of the finest caliber, never doubt that.”

“Even still Holy One, we can not stand against the Alliance Cadre Assassins.” Tarifa spoke. “They are stronger and faster and crueler than we could ever be.”

The man nodded. “Yes that is true.” He said. “Have faith though. Help is coming.”

Tarifa looked at him quizzically. “What do you mean Holy One? Help from whom?”

The old man smiled. “I created your ancestors, yes. However they were not my first creations.” He told her, seeing the look of surprise on her face. “Before the Great Fire that plunged us into darkness I created others. They were the absolute personification of terror.” Tarifa watched with large eyes as he gazed into the stars for a moment and continued speaking. “They were bigger, stronger, faster and far more intelligent than the apes that exist now. They were human in a way, inhuman in others.”

“They were human?” Tarifa blurted out with undisguised astonishment. “Holy One please, I ask you to forgive my ignorance, but no human alive could match our prowess and strength.”

The old man smiled. “You are proud Tarifa.” He spoke kindly. “But do not let your pride cloud your judgment or what your eyes will show you. Time has come full circle now, and soon you will see for yourself what I speak of when I speak of them. Their leader will bear the same mark as you do on your neck Tarifa.”

Tarifa reached up slowly and traced the small tattoo on the side of her slim neck, the edges of it just poking above the collar of her uniform. She was given the tattoo at her birth and in the elfin language the symbol meant Arfanyarasse Cundo or High Guardian.

“Search them out. Search him out. I believe he is the one you are meant for.”

Tarifa’s sapphire eyes grew wide as she looked at him. “Meant for Holy One?” She spoke with a somewhat arrogant tone. “I am Queen of my people Holy One, and only I say who shares my bed.”

The old man smiled at her. “He is the one that will open your eyes to new things Tarifa, open your very soul to what you can not now fathom.” He told her softly. “You think I can’t see that of all the partners that have shared your bed, none of them have stirred your true passion. He will open your eyes to what it is to love. And you will return to him what he has sought for so long, but neither of you will be complete. By coming together you will set each other free. Go to the sacred site Tarifa my child. He will come there first.”

“Where will he come from Holy One?” Tarifa asked softly, this information stimulating her sense of curiosity a great deal.

Walter Carson got to his feet with a great deal of effort as an explosion in the distance announced that a battle had begun. Tarifa and Endith sprang quickly to their feet in response the echo of gunfire.

“They will come from the heavens. And he will be with them. It is almost time for the end game to begin.” Walter said softly.

Tarifa looked at Endith. “Take the Holy One to the rendezvous! I will hold off Marcus’s forces while you escape.”

“My Queen you can’t! If you are captured...!”

“Do as I instruct you Endith!” Tarifa snapped. “You must get the Holy One to safety!”

Endith nodded as she bowed her head. “I will do as you order my Queen.”

“Go now! And move quickly!” Tarifa told her.

Endith moved forward and took Walter’s arm. She turned back to her Queen. “I will wait for you at the entrance to the forest.” She spoke.

Tarifa nodded. “I will join you there.”

EDEN WEST ARBORETUM

Martin leaned against the tree in the huge arboretum. There were two such places on EDEN, most of them used for getting away and trying to feel like you were back on Earth. Martin held the tall bottle of cold beer in his hand, his eyes on the data pad. He was going over the training schedule for the next week when he sensed the additional person moving up behind him. The Master Chief was not trying to sneak up on Martin as he carried a six pack and plopped down next to his boss.

Martin grinned. “What’s up Chief?” He asked.

Master Chief Tony Brown held out the cold beer. “I figured you might like the company Skipper.” He spoke.

Martin smiled and downed the partially warm beer he had before accepting the ice cold one. He cracked open the bottle and took a long pull. “You smuggled this back from earth didn’t you?”

Tony’s face took on a look of innocence. “Skipper I’m hurt. Me smuggle back illegal booze?”

Martin couldn’t help but laugh as he took another pull of the beer. Almost all alcoholic beverages were banned on EDEN, but Martin knew many of his team smuggled back some stronger beverages from time to time. He and Tony had been together since the first day of their inception. Along with Dan and Julie, they were the very first genomes in their batch, and that fact alone made them very close friends.

“That the schedule for next week?” Tony asked.

Martin nodded. “I figure we’ll have to pull some transport duty to fix quite a few satellites after this comet passes, so I’m factoring that into our work load.”

Tony nodded and looked up to watch the huge comet that filled the clear plexisteel canopy over their heads. It was now almost all the way between the moon and earth, and its tail carried a myriad of colors and streaking lights to it. The actual comet didn’t appear to be any larger than the moon itself.

“Did you and Commander Peterson make peace?” Tony asked turning back to his friend and commander.

Martin nodded as he set the pad aside. “We know where each other stand in the scheme of things.” He said answered. “Admiral Wallace might be right. She could be a very good officer if only she wouldn’t be so damn arrogant and uptight. We’ll see if we can’t change that while she’s up here.”

“I hear she’s got a pretty wicked tongue. One of the med techs in the lab said she can cuss you in four languages if you piss her off.” Tony spoke.

Martin chuckled. “Yeah... well having a four inch tongue might give her a gift with languages.”

Tony’s eyes widened, “Four inches! Are you kidding me?”

Martin shook his head. “Not in the least Tony. I thought I was going to choke when she shoved that thing down my throat.”

“So you have...”

Martin nodded. “It was a long time ago.” He replied in a soft voice. “But it was definitely a very good night and one I would like to have again if the opportunity presents itself.”

“So Yuri isn’t the one then huh?” Tony asked.

Martin looked at him and shook his head. “We enjoy each other’s company and the sex is great but there is something about her that I can’t place. Her scent is weird and she holds back what’s in her head quite a bit.”

“You could probe her you know?” Tony spoke.

Martin looked at him. “We agreed not to do that unless it was absolutely necessary Chief.”

Martin, Danny and Julie had discovered at a young age that they were telepathic, and could communicate with their minds even over long distances. When they made the decision to save the rest of their team, a side effect of this action was that now the entire team could speak to one another telepathically. This was something that only they knew and they shared it with no one. It had taken many years for them to learn to control it and not abuse this skill, and Martin had beat down three team members for doing just that at one point. It was a skill that had saved their lives on more than one occasion, and as they got older and stronger with this skill they found themselves using it more and more.

“I was just kidding Skipper.” Tony spoke.

Martin smiled. “Even if I wanted too... she’s got some really strong shields.” He said, “Strong enough that I can detect them without trying to read her mind.”

“That’s odd.” Tony spoke.

Martin looked at him. “Well we ain’t exactly normal Master Chief Brown.” He spoke with a grin.

Tony chuckled as he looked into the sky again. He lifted the beer to his lips and it stopped halfway up when his keen genome eyes detected something. He lowered the beer and focused his eyes more intently.

“Skipper I thought all RAPTOR’s were grounded.”

Martin looked at him. “They are, why?”

“Then I must be seeing things Skipper.” Tony said getting to his feet. “Cause I see a RAPTOR heading directly for the east landing pad trailing smoke and flying like the pilot is drunk.”

Martin got to his feet and stretched out with his enhanced eyesight until he too saw the RAPTOR off in the distance. The RAPTOR was being buffeted by powerful unseen gravitational forces being exerted by the comet, smoke pouring from its rear section.

“What the hell!” Martin gasped reaching up and tapping the transmitter under the skin of his jaw. “Control this is Commander Hunter! I’m seeing an unauthorized RAPTOR trying to make an emergency landing on the east pad! Can you identify it?”

“No RAPTOR’s are currently up Commander.” The reply was immediate.

“You think I’m busting your ass?” Martin exclaimed. “I’m watching the damn ship right now! It’s... oh shit it’s going in! Sound General Quarters! Get damage control...”

Martin and Tony could only watch as the RAPTOR plowed into the east pad and skidded along the metal surface before smashing into the side of the control module. The resulting explosion sent huge gouts of flame rising into the air and Martin and Tony staggered from the shockwave that rippled through the station even from their distance a mile away.

“Holy shit!” Tony shouted as the floor they were standing on began to vibrate madly causing them to lose their footing.

“Command, what the hell is going on?” Martin screamed into the com unit.

The tech’s voice was nearly drowned out by blaring alarms in the background. “Station integrity has been compromised! The explosion destroyed the inertia dampening field over that section of the compound! We’re feeling the effects of the comet’s gravity as it passes between the earth and moon!” The tech screamed. “The explosion weakened grid thirty-seven and its losing power rapidly!”

“Can you reroute power to the grid?” Martin barked.

“Negative! All controls east of section thirty-seven have been severed! Who the hell was that Command Pilot? All our RAPTOR’s are accounted for!”

“Get damage control teams moving to their posts,” Martin ordered. “I’m heading to section thirty-seven!”

“Shit! There it goes! Fuck!” The tech yelled just as Martin and Tony were flung to the floor once more, only this time considerably harder. “Commander, it’s having a cascade effect! The next grid is losing power rapidly! It will fail completely in three minutes twenty seconds! We have to stop the cascade before it reaches the east power core or the whole station will go!”

“Talk to me!” Martin screamed, scrambling to his feet.

“Section thirty-four sir; we can stop it there if you can reach the power conduits and transfer power to the reactor core!”

“Section thirty-four,” Martin yelled. “We can’t stop it before that?”

“Negative sir; that last explosion took down all power to the next two sections! I’m activating emergency evacuation protocols for those two sections!” The tech replied. “Can you get there Commander?”

Martin looked at Tony. “We’re on our way!”

The first explosion jarred the three lovers awake, Anja's eyes opening dreamily. Her head was still resting atop Julie's chest, and as her eyes focused she discovered she was staring directly at Julie's very firm ebony tit, her nipple very prominently standing erect. Anja's eyes sprang open wider than they had ever been as she pushed herself up. She glanced down as she realized she was totally and completely naked, the soft red hair of her still very moist pussy pressing against Julie's thigh, her exquisite body equally naked. Danny had rolled over to look at them, his own eyes bright, as Julie looked up at her and smiled seductively.

"Hi gorgeous," She said, reaching up to caress Anja's cheek.

Anja leaped from the bed as if shot from a gun, pulling the sheet with her as she saw that both Julie and Danny were just as totally naked as she was. Danny's thick cock was still flaccid, but even soft it was an impressive sight to see. The memories of the night before came flooding back to Anja as she remembered Danny fucking her brains out with that huge ebony cock, and then her torrid pussy to pussy love session with Julie. Her face turned three different shades of red and she began to back peddle out of the room.

"Oh... oh my god, what... what have I done." She gasped.

"Anja what's wrong?" Julie asked, getting to her feet a look of concern on her face. Anja saw Danny begin to rise off the bed as well, his face narrowed in a worried expression.

"No!" Anja snapped. "Stay away!"

The next explosion sent all of them hurtling to the floor, and snapped them out of their confusion.

"What the hell was that?" Danny snapped as Julie scrambled to her feet, her nakedness forgotten as she went to the com panel.

"Ghost Six to Ghost One!" Julie barked into the com panel.

Martin's voice came back almost immediately and they could all hear the screams and the sounds of flames in the background. "Julie we are moving for section thirty-four! An unidentified RAPTOR smashed into the east command module and triggered an integrity breach! Tony and I are moving to try and stop it! Tell Dan to mobilize the rest of the team and start moving to my location! I need you to monitor Team Coms and direct us! It's really fucking hard to see! We got smoke and fire from sections thirty-one to thirty-two! Many wounded! If you see Commander Peterson, have her get her medical clinic ready to receive seriously wounded!"

"I copy that boss!" Julie spoke, as she was pulling on her fatigue bottoms, not even bothering with panties.

"Tell Danny to bring the team in from the west! It seems to be pretty clear! I want him loaded down with engineering equipment and spot welders! We need to get the breaches sealed!" Martin's voice sounded again, "When you get set up contact me, Ghost One out!"

Danny reached for Anja but she batted his hand away. "Don't touch me!" She snapped, clutching the sheet around her body.

Danny looked at her with wide eyes. "Don't touch you?" He spoke confused. "I thought you..."

Julie took his arm. "Danny... no," She said softly. "Anja... you need to go to the medical clinic and get it ready!"

Anja looked at her and nodded slowly before moving into the living room and beginning to gather her clothes, which were torn and scattered all over. Dan turned to Julie as Anja left his quarters without another word.

"What the fuck was that?" He asked her.

"It's difficult to explain Danny." Julie replied pulling on her fatigue top.

"Julie... she came in here and... we..." Dan stopped, his voice trailing off.

Julie stepped close to him and kissed him softly. "I'll explain it all once we take care of this little problem." She said.

"Jules I'm really confused here." He spoke, his voice almost pleading. "I... I thought what happen was very... very cool."

Julie met his eyes. "So did I lover, but it may have been unintended for Anja. Remember what Doc Carson said about that aura thing you and the others can project?"

Dan nodded, "Yeah."

"I think that may have caused her to act in a way she didn't really want too." Julie spoke.

“Jules I didn’t force her!” Danny exclaimed.

“I know that lover!” She answered. “C’mon we can’t worry about this now; we have a lot of work to do!”

Admiral Wallace staggered into the Command Center just as another explosion rocked EDEN. He was only half dressed, his shirt still open and his boots untied, and he had to grab the door railing to keep from being flung to the deck.

“Give me a report!” He screamed as he staggered toward where his Command Duty Officer stood behind the Senior Chief’s station. “What the fuck happened?” William’s face took in the nasty gash his CDO had above his left eye.

The man waved it off. “It will heal sir!” He spoke. “Approximately sixteen minutes ago an unidentified RAPTOR appeared from the comet’s tail sir. We tried to raise her on all COM channels but she didn’t respond.”

“Was it one of ours?” William asked.

“Negative sir, all our birds are accounted for.” The CDO answered. “Thirty three seconds after she appeared the bird plowed into the East Control Module. The RAPTOR must have been carrying a full load of fuel Admiral because she went up like a torch. The explosion took out the entire power grid and the outer hull breach destroyed the inertia dampers protecting that section of the station. We were able to sever the control module from the rest of the grid but not before follow on explosions weakened the next section’s grid. It’s cascading now Admiral. Section thirty-six is gone as well. We’ve diverted as much power as we could to section thirty-five, but it won’t hold unless Commander Hunter can get to the grid controls in section thirty-four and reroute power through the entire system.”

“Where is he?” William barked.

“He’s almost entirely through section thirty-three now sir. There are scores of injuries and fires and he’s had to detour three times already, but he’s almost there.” The CDO reported.

“How long do we have before the grid fails in section thirty-five?” William asked.

“Forty-nine seconds Admiral,” The CDO answered. “It was my call sir! I directed him to section thirty-four. I knew we wouldn’t be able to save thirty-five or thirty six based on the rate of grid declination.”

Bill nodded his head. “Did we get the crew out?”

The CDO nodded. “Team 12 just pulled the remaining wounded from the transport tube Admiral. They are taking it back into section thirty-four with heavy engineer equipment and welders.”

William looked at him. “They are going to try and seal the breach?” He asked.

The CDO nodded. “It appears that way sir. Three senior Engineers are already moving directly behind Commander Hunter and should arrive about the same time.”

“Wounded?”

“The closest clinic was Commander Peterson’s sir. She called in four minutes ago and reported she is already receiving patients. She sounded kind of harried Admiral.” The CDO told him.

“She can consider it on the job training.” Bill said. “She’s a doctor before she’s a scientist. Dispatch all the medics we have not on duty to her location. They are to report directly to her for orders. She’s on scene and will be in command.”

The CDO nodded, “Understood sir.”

“Admiral, Commander Hunter and Master Chief Brown have reached the grid controls for section thirty-four!” The female tech exclaimed.

“Put him on COMS!” Bill snapped.

Martin and Tony skidded to a stop in the circular control module for section thirty-four. The smoke had cleared enough for them to be able to see clearly, but the heat from nearby fires was very evident. Tony moved to a computer screen and punched in some commands.

“Integrity of the section is falling fast Skipper!” He yelled. “It’s down to twenty-three percent!”

Martin moved to another console. “I’m reading three breaches in the power coupling! One is...”

The shooting sparks above Tony announced where one of the breaches was as Tony leaped out of the way cussing a blue streak as he slapped at the red hot sparks bouncing off his body. “Fuck!” Tony cursed loudly. “I found one!” He spoke.

“The other two are in the connection corridor!” Martin moved to the hatchway and peered through the door. He saw two large cracks in the connection tube, which had sealed when the next forward section was destroyed.

“Raptor One to Ghost One,” Admiral Wallace’s voice filled his surgically implanted ear receiver.

“I’m here Admiral!” Martin spoke, his voice carrying to the microscopic microphone implanted in the skin of his jaw.

“Give me a report Marty!” William asked.

“It ain’t good sir!” Martin answered. “We have three breaches sir! There are two in the connection tube and one here in the control module that Tony is working to bypass!”

“There are three engineers that should be getting there shortly!” William spoke as Martin turned and saw the two men and single woman come to sliding halts in the control module, their eyes going wide.

“They’re here sir! Danny how far away are you with that equipment?” Martin called.

“We’re just about there boss!” Danny’s voice came back, “Coming around into thirty-four now!”

“Jules you copy?”

“Five by five Skipper!”

“I need you to direct the fire crews to sections thirty-two and thirty-three on the eastern end! They need to get the fires there under control first before the heat begins to melt the insulation on the power conduits!” Martin spoke, his eyes watching as Dan led six others of his SEAL Team into the control module, staggering with engineering equipment.

“I’m on it boss!” Julie answered.

“Admiral how soon before the integrity field goes?” Martin asked.

“There’s not enough time Marty!” William exclaimed. “Get everyone out of there and we’ll shut down the reactor from here!”

“Admiral if you shut down the reactor, all life support to this entire wing of EDEN will stop functioning! We’ll lose a quarter of the base!” Martin exclaimed.

“It’s better than losing the entire base!” William exclaimed. “Get your people out of there!”

Martin watched as Dan pulled the arm of one of the engineers. “Can you fix the breaches with what we brought?”

“Yes!”

Dan turned to Martin. “We can fix the breaches Skipper!”

Martin looked at the engineer. The man shrugged. “I’d rather die trying sir! There’s no way we’d make it back before life support quit. It’s too far!”

“Ghost One to Raptor One, we are going to try and fix the breaches Admiral! We’d never make it back before life support cut out! We die either way!” Martin said.

“Damn it Marty you and the other genomes can hold your fucking breaths for six minutes! You can make it back!” William snapped.

“Yes sir! But we ain’t leaving the engineers here to die alone Admiral!” Martin replied. “They aren’t genomes and they wouldn’t survive.”

“Martin I’m giving you a direct order to evacuate that section!” Admiral Wallace bellowed.

“Sorry sir, there must be interference from the blown power couplings! I didn’t make that out!” Martin’s reply was very clear and final, “Ghost One out!”

“Fuck!” Wallace screamed.

“He doesn’t follow orders very well does he?” The voice spoke from behind them.

Bill turned and saw Senator Graham and his son standing in the doorway of the command center. “One more word out of you senator and I’ll vent you out the fucking airlock myself!” Bill growled.

“Admiral I can extend the field of the next section’s integrity grid around thirty-four’s control module!” The tech spoke excitedly. “It will only be for forty-seven seconds, but it could buy them the time they need!”

William nodded to her quickly. “Do it!” He turned to the CDO. “I want every fire suppression team we have converging on thirty-two and thirty-three yesterday! Re-route the foam lines if you have too, but put those damn fires out!”

Martin and Dan led the two older engineers into the damaged connection tube. The interior of the tube was like stepping into a blizzard as the cold of space was leaking into the tube quickly through the two large cracks. Martin and Dan carried the two pieces of replacement titanium, as they were the ones who would have to hold the hundred and fifty pound slabs of metal in place while the engineers welded them.

“Fuck it’s freezing in here!” One of the engineers gasped.

“Ignore it!” Martin told him. “Once you start welding it will heat up soon enough!”

“Here! Right here,” The engineer with Martin barked, pointing to the cracked tube that was venting into the vacuum of space.

Martin lifted the titanium replacement patch and exerting his inhuman strength, pushed the metal over the hissing crack. The engineer with Martin was older and more experienced, and even before Martin had anchored the replacement slab he was igniting the welding torch and burning it into place.

The engineer with Dan was not as experienced, but he had more guts than brains it seemed as he had his torch already ignited before they had gotten to the cracked tube ten meters past where Martin was.

“Right there,” The man echoed his older partner, and he watched as Dan moved the slab into place. Once Dan had anchored the replacement slab he went to work welding.

“No not there,” Anja barked to her team. “He’s a condition three, he can wait! This one goes to trauma stat! He’s got third degree burns over fifty percent of his body! Which clinic has the burn unit?”

Anja’s senior medic looked at her, “Northwest section!”

“How fast can we get him there?”

“We have every transport tube standing by to move the wounded Commander!”

“Anyone with second or third degree burns goes now!” Anja made the decision. “We can support the major traumas but we can’t keep the burn victims alive here! We don’t have the chambers for them! Move them now!”

“That could very well kill some of them Commander.” The medic reminded her.

“They’ll die if we keep them here.” Anja spoke.

The medic nodded. “I’ll see to it!”

“And contact the next closest clinic!” Anja called. “I want every ounce of pain killer and all healing patches that they have brought here like yesterday! If they give you any grief, tell them I’ll have Commander Hunter crack someone’s head if they don’t follow my orders!”

The medic nodded with a smile and turned to follow her orders. Anja blinked, realizing what she had just said about Martin, and once more the vivid memories of the night before with Danny and Julie came rushing back to her. She shook her head to clear the thoughts just as one of her female nurses took her arm.

“They got the feed back Commander!” She said.

Anja looked at her. “What?”

“The Admiral ordered the entire wing evacuated because he was ordering the reactor shut down to avoid an explosion. Commander Hunter and Commander Simpson refused to leave because of three human engineers. They’re trying to seal the breaches before the integrity field collapses!” The nurse motioned to the monitor, which up until a few minutes ago had been dark. It now showed a live picture of what was happening in the connection tube. Anja could clearly make out Martin and Danny holding the large pieces of titanium in place while the engineers were using welding torches.

“Martin?” Anja spoke to herself, fear filling her heart. “Danny?”

“How are we doing?” Martin called, gritting his teeth through the pain of the sparks and the heat from holding the steel plate. Even with the fire resistant gloves on, the searing heat of the freshly welded steel was causing his gloves to slowly melt.

“Thirty more seconds!” The engineer called, not looking away from his work.

“Dan!”

Danny’s face was also clenched as the identical thing was happening to his glove covered hands. “We’re working on it!” He yelled back.

Martin turned to look back at the door they had come through. “Master Chief what is your status?”

“Just finished bypassing the breach here skipper,” Tony answered. “The tech head is welding the bypass now!”

“Got it,” The engineer barked, stepping away from the now securely welded patch. Martin stepped back as well, pulling the gloves off his hands quickly and tossing them to the floor. His hands were covered in red welts and blisters and pain shot through them as he tried to bend the fingers. The senior engineer looked at his hands and his eyes widened.

“Oh my god,” He muttered.

“Forget it!” Martin barked. “Help your man finish welding!”

“Done,” The younger engineer snapped as he stepped back.

Dan did the same thing as Martin tearing the gloves off to inspect the damage to his hands.

“Admiral what is the status of the integrity field?” Martin asked.

“It’s holding Admiral!” The CDO reported with what looked to be a huge sigh on relief. “The field is holding at sixteen percent!”

“Route whatever power we can to boost the field strength!” William ordered. “Bypass through the secondary conduits if you have too!”

“We’re on it sir!”

“And get a full damage control team into the area as soon as those damn fires are out!”

Anja’s senior nurse turned from the monitor. “Commander... we should send a team to that section! They looked to be pretty badly burned!” Her eyes widened when she realized Anja wasn’t behind her anymore. She snapped her head around and caught a glimpse of Anja racing from the clinic the senior medic right behind her.

The senior nurse nodded approvingly. “You heard Commander Peterson’s orders!” She barked. “All burn victims prep for transport! We have three doctors coming in from the South clinic to assist but this is still her clinic. Let’s get to work!”

Martin and Dan had slumped to the ground of the connection tube with the two engineers, sweat pouring from their bodies from the intense heat. Tony and the others from the control module opened the door as integrity rose to twenty-seven percent and the blast of cooler air was very refreshing.

“The integrity is coming back up Skipper!” Tony reported coming over to him.

Martin nodded and looked at the senior engineer. “You guys did real well.” He said.

The man met Martin’s eyes and nodded. He hadn’t had cause before today to get to know any of the genomes on the station very well, as he didn’t quite trust them. After today and what they had done, the man made a mental note to make sure he changed his mind.

“You could have left us.” He said softly.

Martin didn’t even blink at him. “And let you guys save the day, no way!” He said with a laugh.

The senior engineer chuckled and began to laugh heartily at Martin’s words. They would have died here if not for Martin and Dan. There was no way they could have sealed all three breaches before the section breached completely and killed them. Martin had disobeyed an order to evacuate, as they could have survived without life support for several minutes. Martin had instead chosen to remain and together attempt to save them all. It had worked, and now the senior engineer was going to be able to hold his wife and daughter again when this day was done.

Anja and her senior medic burst into the connection tube at a dead run and came to screeching halts, Anja's eyes seeking out and finding Martin immediately and then moving to where Danny sat. One of the other members of his team was attempting to treat his badly burned hands. Anja paused for a long moment, the events of the night before still vividly etched in her mind. Danny had fucked her silly giving her pleasure almost on a par to the night she had shared with Martin. The times with Kevin were already long forgotten, washed away with the countless times Danny had erupted into her clutching pussy. Unfortunately... now as she looked at Martin she felt regret and remorse for her actions and a sense of betrayal that she had never felt before gripped her. She felt as if she had betrayed Martin in some way and it made cold fingers grip her heart.

Anja went immediately to Martin and knelt in front of him, as he looked up at her. She saw his nose wrinkle just a tiny bit and she knew then that he could smell Danny all over her. She inspected his hands quickly careful not to touch the blistered areas. "Second degree burns." She commented. "The gloves saved your hands."

Martin nodded slowly the pain still fresh in his senses. Anja turned to the medic. "Give him four CCs of morphine and get him to the MED bay ASAP!"

"Roger that Commander." The medic replied.

Anja looked at him. "Martin I..."

Martin shook his head. "You don't need to explain anything to me." He said, his voice soft as he got to his feet.

Anja watched him follow the medic out of the tunnel and she turned to go to where Danny sat. Dan looked up as he felt the soft hands grip his burned ones and his eyes widened when he saw Anja's worried face. He started to pull his hands back, not knowing what to expect.

"Sit still!" She hissed at him, turning his large hands over in her smaller ones to view the damage to the same hands that had roamed her body freely and elicited numerous gasps of pleasure and contentment. Anja removed an injector spray and bandages from the small kit she had thrown over her shoulder on the way out of the clinic and she went to work.

"Anja..."

Anja looked at him. "Be quiet." She spoke. She needed to speak with Julie before anything else happened. She remembered hearing Julie say she would explain it to Danny as she was rushing out of the room. She needed it explained to her before things went further. And holding his large hands and treating them, Anja came to the realization that she did not know if she wanted things to proceed further.

THREE HOURS LATER

Admiral Wallace stood in the center of the clinic looking at the wounded that occupied the beds. He turned as Anja came up beside him. "What was the count Commander Peterson?" He asked.

"Thirteen remain here Admiral." Anja replied. "Forty-nine have been moved to other clinics. The most serious were eight burn cases and they were all transported to the burn unit in the first moments after getting here."

William looked at her. "That saved their lives I understand."

Anja met his gaze. "Keeping them here would have killed them sir. They needed immediate treatment."

"Moving them could have killed them as well." William told her.

"I made a decision sir." Anja spoke.

William nodded. "Yes you did. And it was the right one. I knew there was hope for you."

"It was only one decision sir." Anja said.

William nodded. "Yes it was, just so you remember that not all of your decisions will be correct."

Anja looked at him, her face genuinely curious. “And when they aren’t Admiral?” She asked. “What do you do?”

“Learn from your mistakes and go on.” William answered quickly and honestly.

Anja saw Julie enter the clinic from the corner of her eye and her heart quickened. “If you will excuse me Admiral, I need to see to someone?”

“Good job here Anja.” Bill said, “Excellent job.”

“Thank you sir,” Anja turned and started towards Julie who saw her and met her half way.

“Where’s Danny?” Julie asked concern in her voice.

“This way,” Anja said leading her to an office with blacked out windows. Julie looked puzzled as Anja closed the door behind them and turned to face her.

“Anja what is going on? Where’s Danny?”

“He’s fine.” Anja spoke. “Second degree burns on his hands that will heal in a matter of hours due to his genome healing process, the same for Martin.”

“I want to see him.” Julie said.

“I need answers Julie.” Anja said, only now her voice had taken a tone of pleading. “What happen to me, to us?”

Julie smiled as she remembered the events of the previous evening and how delicious Anja tasted. “I thought we were having an exceptionally wonderful time.” She said, folding her arms under her firm breasts. “And I don’t recall you being forced to fuck Danny back like you were doing when I first showed up, or grab me and start going to town on my pussy either.” She stepped closer to Anja, looking down at the shorter woman who Julie had to admit was incredibly sexy and easy to look at.

“Julie I’m not like... I need to know...”

“You taste like honey.” Julie said softly, reaching up to stroke her cheek.

Anja’s eyes closed at her touch and it sent shivers through her body. “And you... you taste like Mocha.” She said softly, opening her eyes and reaching up to hold Julie’s hand. “But I need to know how this happen.”

Julie sighed and nodded her head. “It happened to me too, seven years ago.” She said turning to go to the chair as Anja leaned against the desk. “It has to do with the wolf genes that we have grafted to our DNA. The thing is... and I asked Doctor Carson about this... it only affects one in ten billion women. It is like a feeling, a sense of well being surrounds you. The way Doctor Carson explained it to me is simple really. The Alpha male of a wolf pack uses this aura to attract females to mate with. It has something to do with the chemical composition of the female’s body and basically it removes all their inhibitions and makes them desire the male. It is not something that they can control... at least I don’t think so... and it doesn’t happen unless the female is willing. He doesn’t know the full extent of what it does; I don’t think any of them do. Maybe the Skipper... he discovered it a long time ago.”

“Several hours,” Anja asked. “But we... it was nearly...”

Julie nodded. “I know. The female wolves have it as well to a much smaller degree, but I wasn’t projecting that when we woke up. What happened between us was something we did.”

“We did?” Anja asked incredulous. “I’ve... I’ve never entertain the idea of sex with a woman before!”

Julie nodded. “Well neither have I.”

Anja looked at her. “But you are... Danny is...”

“We’re genomes.” Julie said without a hint of malice in her voice. “Yes we are... but does that make us any less human? I don’t think so.” Julie stood up and moved over to her. “You are an incredibly sexy woman Anja and without you I would never have discovered this other side to myself, and I gather neither would you.”

“But... you love him.” Anja said.

Julie nodded. “Yes I do. And I know he loves me, but that love is not all consuming. We both know that we are meant for different people. That does not mean we would not very happily wrap ourselves around your luscious body and share you. At the very least we can have some incredible sex!”

“I don’t... I don’t know if I...” Anja stammered.

“You don’t know if you can willingly have sex with two Genomes. Especially when one is a woman?”

Anja met her eyes. “I need time to sort out what happen last night.” She stated.

Julie leaned over and pressed her lips to Anja's and gave her a soft lingering kiss, her tongue dancing across her warm lips. She stroked Anja's cheek and smiled at her. "We'll be waiting if you want to give it another go."

Anja sat there and watched Julie walked out of the office. Her emotions were a huge mess and she did not know which way to go. Julie's words rang in her head however. It had been a very pleasurable evening to say the least, and part of her wanted it to happen again. However part of her still ached with a strong sense of betrayal of Martin, and that betrayal also was tinged with desire for him. Anja shook her head, her emotions very confused and she was not able to think clearly.

Her senior medic bursting into the office changed all that. "Commander Peterson! Admiral Wallace is calling an emergency meeting in the Command Shed. Thirty minutes!"

EARTH

Endith stood in the treeline of the immense National Forest, her keen eyes watching as scores of her fellow High Elves raced for the trees. Far behind them she could see the huge flying hover gunships, their massive chain cannons spewing out death beneath them and chopping dozens of her comrades to pieces. Endith blinked back tears as she and others ushered the wounded and walking wounded deeper into the forest. Many of the male elves carried wounded comrades by themselves, while the female elves assisted in groups of two or three. No one seemed to be without some sort of injury, and Endith's dread increased as she had yet to see any sign of the Queen or her personal guard.

Endith moved to the very edge of the forest and grabbed the first uninjured warrior that was heading towards her. The young female elf came up short at Endith's hand on her arm.

"Where is the Queen? I haven't seen the Queen!" Endith exclaimed.

"She led a small force south of our last position to draw Marcus's beasts away from us!" The young warrior answered. "That was several hours ago. No one has seen her since!"

Ice cold fear gripped Endith's heart and her eyes went wide. "There is nothing to the south except wasteland!"

"She ordered us to run Endith!" The young woman spoke excitedly. "She said she would lead them toward the sacred place and make a stand in the ruins there."

Endith's eyes grew even wider. "Quickly, you must gather a dozen uninjured warriors with as much equipment and weapons as they can move like the wind with. We can loop to the west through the forests and find the Queen."

The warrior looked at her as if she had gone insane. "Endith she has had hours to move ahead of us. We will never catch her before she reaches the ruins."

Endith gripped the woman's arms tightly. "The Holy One has been moved to safety! She is our Queen and we must try! Now go!"

The young warrior nodded and made her way into the forest at a run. Endith looked beyond the forest and the hills, looking south. "I will find you my Queen." She said softly. "I will find you."

EDEN COMMAND CENTER

William looked at the faces of the men and women in the room. Some of them were still dirty from fighting the fires or moving the wounded to other clinics within EDEN's compound, but they had come quickly and taken seats around the table.

"Sorry to bust up your satisfaction at solving our recent crisis, but I have been informed that we have a much larger problem." William told them.

“What could be larger than the station almost being lost Admiral?” Martin asked from his chair. His hands still wore a layer of bandages, but his genome healing ability was working quickly and the burns would be gone within another hour or so.

“This is Doctor Morrow from the Quantum Physics Lab.” William spoke, motioning to the older man with thin rimmed oval glasses propped up on his forehead. “He has some information that all of us need to be made aware of. Doctor Morrow.”

The man stood up to his full height of five and a half feet, looking pale and thin. He wore a long lab coat and carried several data pads as he moved around to the front of the table and went to the portable vid screen that had been brought in.

“Yes well... I will try to keep this as simple as I can.” He spoke activating the screen. It came alive with a graphic simulation of the comet that was finally clearing its way out of the space between the moon and earth. “When the comet was first detected several months ago, it was determined that it would pass harmlessly between the earth and the moon. For all intents and purposes it has. However, no one predicted the massive gravitational fluxes originating from the core of the comet. In layman’s terms, the moment the comet enter the gravity well of the moon, we stopped rotating around the earth.”

“And that’s bad?” Dan asked from his chair next to Martin.

Doctor Morrow nudged his glasses further up on his forehead and looked at Danny. “That’s very bad.” He replied. “While we stopped rotating around the earth, the same gravity fluxes that stopped us caused the earth to spin faster. This action disturbed the space/time continuum to such an extreme that major changes have taken place.”

“Major changes,” Anja asked as she came forward in her chair. While she was a genetic scientist by her schooling, she had kept up on many other fields within the scientific world. “What do you mean by major changes?”

Morrow lifted one of the data pads. “I’ve had our high resolution cameras taking pictures of earth ever since the comet began to clear our horizon.”

“And,” Anja continued.

“I’ll let you see for yourself.” He explained as he plugged the datapad into the screen and touched the control panel.

A view of the North American continent came onto the screen, but there was something very wrong with the way it appeared. There was a long wide stretch of water that began in the lower portion of California and extended up into Oregon that should not have been there. It effectively had created an island of sorts. Where Mexico should have been was now nothing but ocean, as if the Caribbean and Pacific oceans had come together. There were great swatches of what appeared to be burned out land in the central United States, and an entirely new mountain range that ran directly through Kansas and Missouri.

“What the hell!” Martin exclaimed looking at the screen.

“Is this some kind of joke?” Julie blurted from her chair.

Morrow looked at them. “I assure you, this is no joke. And it gets worse.” He told them. “It gets much worse.” He worked the console until the pictures were focused along the eastern seaboard of the United States. Morrow took a deep breath. “As you can see from these high resolution pictures, nearly every major city along the eastern coast is gone. Nothing remains except hulks of steel and concrete. It would appear most of them were burned to cinders.”

“Burned?” Danny asked.

Morrow nodded. “If the information we have gathered to this point is accurate, and there is no reason to doubt it isn’t, the comet’s gravity well pushed enough of its tail into the upper atmosphere of the planet, and it started what we call an Extinction Level Event. It set the atmosphere on fire.”

“Holy Jesus,” Frank Wilson muttered as he sat back in his chair.

Morrow nodded. “The burn patterns on the surface of the planet indicate that the fires swept across every major continent. There was nothing anyone could do to stop it. The large fissures you see along the western seaboard were where the San Andreas Fault line gave in to the tremendous heat being generated above and caused a cataclysmic earthquake. I estimate a quake at least 12.4 in order to cause the separation of the land masses as you now see. As the fire spread, it ignited refineries across the globe, which would account for the massive burn swatches along the lower portions near the gulf coast. There are signs of at least three major impact craters, which indicate that parts of the comet detached and slammed into the earth. One crater is located in the Atlantic basin, one in central Asia, and one in northern Canada. I would imagine the devastation caused by such impacts was also catastrophic.”

“Wait a minute!” Martin spoke up again. “Why isn’t the atmosphere still burning? This should be happening right now! Looking at these pictures you are showing us, at first glance the planet doesn’t appear any differently.”

Marrow nodded. “That is the much worse part.” He said slowly. “I’ve checked and rechecked all my calculations, and then my staff did the same thing. The numbers always come out the same.”

“What numbers?” Martin asked.

“As I stated in the beginning of this briefing the comet’s gravity wells disrupted the space/time continuum as we know it.” Marrow spoke. “The moon stopped rotating while the earth sped up. In other words, time stopped for us, while it continued on earth.”

“Excuse me?” Frank asked.

“The reason we do not see the planet on fire and why we don’t see these natural events occurring is quite simple really.” Marrow told them. “They happened in the past.”

“Wait a minute, in the past?” Anja asked.

Marrow nodded slowly. “There is really no way to say this, but for the sixteen hours and thirty-three minutes while the comet was passing between the moon and earth time continued to go forward on earth while it stood still here. By my calculations, for every hour that passed for us here on EDEN, twenty-nine point eight years passed on earth.” Marrow saw the stunned and shocked expressions on everyone’s faces.

“Ladies and gentlemen, we have come four hundred and seventy-eight years into the future.”

CHAPTER FOUR

EDEN

TEN DAYS AFTER DISCOVERY

All of them had been awake and active for close to thirty-six hours now, and it showed in the state of their uniforms and the drawn look of their faces. They had spent the last week repairing the damage to EDEN and trying to gather as much information as they could about what had happened to them and to earth. All of them had data pads strewn in front of them, coffee pots and mugs spread all over the large table. Portable computer modules had been brought into the room to run dozens of different scenarios, all of which gave them the same result. Hundreds of high resolution photos were scattered across the table as well, ranging from photos of every country, to deep penetrating photos of the earth itself. Data pads full of results from every major sensor and radar scan that they could run were stacked sometimes six high on the table. Everyone was still trying to come to grips with the reality that had blindsided them all. Family, friends, anyone they had ever gone to school with, dated, grew up with, they were all long dead; husbands, wives, parents, children, siblings, all of them gone.

The information had been made known to EDEN’s crew of nearly eight thousand, and as they were still trying to recover from the effects of the comet’s passing and the near disaster that had occurred when the still as yet unidentified Raptor slammed into the control module, many of them had not yet stopped to consider the implications of what they had been told.

Admiral Wallace had brought in every division head on EDEN, and against his better judgment, had allowed Senator Graham and Kevin to attend the meeting they were now all gathered together again for.

Bill banged his well smoked pipe against his coffee mug and silenced the conversations that were going on around the room. “Ok... let’s get started. Everyone grab a squat.” He waited while the officers and civilian scientists all settled into the chairs around the table. More chairs had been brought in for those that had not been included in their first meeting, and Richard and Kevin now sat on either side of Anja, who did not appear happy about that arrangement in the least.

“I’ll be honest,” Wallace spoke. “I don’t have a fucking clue where to begin, so let’s start with our status here. Frank?”

Colonel Wilson leaned forward in his chair. "EDEN is fully secure." He spoke. "Repairs are continuing on damage to section thirty-four, but the integrity field has been repaired, and all the personnel with quarters in the three destroyed sections have been relocated. Thankfully those three sections were mainly used for low end experiments and were mostly empty. Sixty-two casualties, including eight critical burn victims, all of whom will recover fully thanks to Commander Peterson's quick action getting them to the burn unit."

Julie sat next to Dan on the other side of the table and she watched as Kevin reached out to take Anja's hand and squeeze it. She smiled to herself when Anja withdrew her hand quickly and gave him a very dirty look. They had not seen her very often in the last week, and when they did she was treating a patient in the MED Center. She was intentionally avoiding them they knew, and even though they understood why, both of them were disappointed.

"If I may take a moment and interrupt Colonel?" Senator Graham spoke now. "I want to be sure that it is noted in the official Command Logs that Commander Hunter disobeyed his orders to evacuate the damaged section of EDEN so that Admiral Wallace could shut down the reactor. In my opinion he put the entire station at risk with his actions."

Frank glared at Richard as he began typing into the data pad quickly. He finished within a minute and still looking at Richard he held it up. "Marty... you and Danny want to sign this?" He spoke tossing the pad down to Martin.

Martin grinned and touched the pad with his thumb before handing it to Dan who did the same with a smile. He handed it back to Martin who then tossed it back to Frank.

Frank looked at Richard. "The log is duly noted Senator." He spoke before flipping the datapad onto a pile of others behind him. "I'll make sure it gets sent out with the rest of our four hundred and seventy-eight year old logs, just as soon as we find out where to send them."

William contained the laugh he wanted to let out before leaning forward in his chair. "I understand we are all under a lot of stress, but we need to work together. We've all seen Doctor Morrow's hard figures and facts. What we need to do now is decide what to do."

"We need to find out where the government is functioning from." Richard spoke again. "And then we need to contact them."

"Infra-red scans have picked up dozens of hot spots Admiral." The CDO spoke now. His forehead was bandaged, blood still on the collar of his uniform. "We can't get an exact count, but there are what appear to be population centers in quite a few cities across the country and the world. We're picking up high altitude contrails from aircraft, but not in any great numbers and the consensus of my team is that commercial air traffic is not what it once was. There does seem to be an extensive rail system, much more than what we... what we remember, especially within the cities. Our high resolution photos have determined that these cities are advanced, as they appear similar to what we knew in many ways, but the population does not appear to be what it once was." He finished his statement.

"My initial estimates have been refined somewhat," Doctor Morrow spoke up. "But the original figures are accurate. Taking into account what our instruments here have been telling us of the damage for the last seven days, my staff and I concur that the world's population has been cut in half if not more. The infra-red scans confirm this as well."

"Good Marcus!" Richard Graham exclaimed.

"We've been trying to raise EDEN Ground Command for the last thirty-nine hours, ever since we got the main transmitter back online, but we're getting nothing." Frank spoke.

"Doctor Morrow, do you know how long would this atmospheric fire have lasted for?" Bill asked, turning to the nerdy doctor.

Morrow shrugged his slim shoulders. "It's impossible to tell, but given the depth of the burn scoring on the Earth's crust, we estimate at least two to five years." He replied. "Anything on the surface would not have lasted more than a few days. Only men and women in deep bunkers and caves would have had a chance."

"So it's not unreasonable to assume that any surviving government officials would have deduced that EDEN was also destroyed and they would not have tried to contact us?" Bill said.

Morrow nodded. "It's very likely Admiral. There is no way they could have contacted us regardless. The fire and heat would have disrupted any type of communications they may have attempted, and given the fact that EDEN was a newly commissioned base when the comet came, it stands to reason that any survivors who knew of our existence would come to the conclusion that the comet destroyed EDEN as well.”

“The communications we have been able to pick up suggest we need to proceed with extreme caution.” Julie spoke now leaning forward. “The Raptor crash took out our most powerful receiver, but all of our secondary receivers are getting the same thing. There appears to be a conflict occurring in the Midwest part of the United States, as we are picking up a lot of traffic between military units. Nothing we have ever heard of, but they are using military call signs and speak with military precision. We are also picking up some low band transmissions that indicate unfriendly activity spread across a wide area. We’ve picked up the terms slavery and elves numerous times.”

“Elves,” Bill asked shocked. “You mean like in children’s books?”

Julie shrugged. “Nothing concrete Admiral, but those terms were used in the same sentences quite a few times. Maybe it’s a code of some sort.”

“I don’t like the fact that slavery is being thrown around like it is.” Bill spoke.

Martin nodded. “That fact alone screams that we should be careful.” He spoke. “If we are over four hundred and fifty years into the future, we have no idea what type of climate is persistent on Earth right now. We can’t just dial up who we think is in charge and say Hi we’re from EDEN, and we’re back!”

“Why not,” Richard spoke. “I am a Senator of the United States, and I’m quite sure...”

“Excuse me Senator, but did you miss the part where we came four hundred and seventy-eight years into the future?” Martin asked. “We don’t even know if the United States still exists anymore.”

“Nonsense,” Richard answered. “All we need to do is contact whoever is in charge and let them know who we are. I can do the rest.”

“What are you suggesting Marty?” Admiral Wallace asked.

“Let me take a team down sir.” Martin told him. “We’ve determined through high resolution photos that EDEN Ground Command is still there, and still intact. I’ll take a team there, and we can try and determine the current scope of what we are dealing with. At the very least we can get the needed equipment to repair our long range receiver. One Raptor and nine of my team would be sufficient. I can be back in three days time, four at the most.”

“How would you do it?” William asked.

“Hard drop right into the base perimeter; we travel light, get what information we can and have Tina and Ben come in to extract us.” Martin replied.

Admiral Wallace nodded. “That’s what we’ll do.” He said.

“Admiral I protest!” Richard began. “I don’t believe this is the best course of action.”

Wallace looked at him. “You’re not being asked for your opinion Senator.” He turned back to Martin. “How soon before you can depart?”

“I’d like to go in fresh sir. We can be loaded and flying in three hours and sleep on the flight in.”

“Then let’s make it happen.”

EDEN WEST LANDING PAD

Martin looked at Anja as she walked up the ramp of the Raptor carrying two duffels of medical equipment. He stepped in front of her.

“What are you doing?” He asked her.

Anja met his eyes, finding that very hard to do given the emotions she had running through her. “I’m coming with you.” She answered. “You need medical support, and since my primary duties have been placed on the back burner it seems, I’m available. I’m Hard Drop qualified and I graduated from BUD/S. I’m a fully qualified SEAL operator and you know that Martin.”

“You haven’t been on a Team mission since you graduated Anja.” Martin told her. “You aren’t as sharp as the rest of us. And you aren’t a genome.”

“No I’m not a genome, but I’ve stayed current in all my Quals.” She answered quickly. “I asked the Admiral for permission, but he said you had to approve it. I... I don’t want to stay here Martin.” Her voice was almost pleading him.

Martin sensed there was something about her desire to accompany them, and he also sensed she was being very honest with him. He smiled and held out his hand for her duffels. “Welcome aboard.” He spoke. “You might want to say goodbye to your fan club though.” He spoke motioning back into the bay.

Anja turned to see Kevin running up to the Raptor. She sighed heavily as he nearly skidded to a halt in front of her.

“What do you want Kevin?” Anja asked.

“What are you doing?” He asked.

“What does it look like?” Anja said. “I’m leaving.”

“My father wanted to speak with you. He’s waiting in the lounge.”

“Good for him.” Anja said. “I have things to do.”

Kevin stepped closer to her and took her arm tightly. “He did not give you permission to go with these... these people.”

Anja pulled her arm away quickly. “Don’t touch me!” She hissed at him. “I’m a Naval Officer and I have a job to do!”

“You work for my father!” Kevin snapped right back.

“I work for Admiral Wallace now.” Anja spoke. “And he gave me permission to be on this mission.”

“You requested to go on this crazy trip?” Kevin asked aghast.

Anja turned her head slowly and looked into the rear of the Raptor. Her eyes quickly found where Julie and Danny were stowing their gear, and both of them chose that moment to turn and make eye contact with her. She glanced at Martin then, who was staring at her with those beautiful dark eyes. She held his gaze for several moments before turning back to Kevin. “This is where I am needed.” She told him.

“Listen to me Anja, my father will be very upset about this! He’ll...”

Martin stepped up to them. “Are you coming with us pretty boy?” Martin asked.

Kevin looked at him arrogantly. “Certainly not, and we are having a discussion here, do you mind?”

Martin grinned. “Yes I do as a matter of fact! Unless you plan on coming with us, I need your ass off my ship!” Martin activated the ramp controls and pulled Anja back into the interior of the Raptor gently by the back of her shirt as the ramp started to come up.

Anja looked at him. “Thank you.” She spoke softly.

Martin nodded. “No problem. Why don’t you get...?” His eyes widened and Anja turned to see what he was looking at and they saw Kevin leap up onto the ramp and nearly have his head taken off as it closed behind him.

“Kevin what are you doing?” Anja barked at him.

“I’m coming with you! What does it look like?” Kevin replied looking back as he heard the ramp lock into place.

“You can’t be serious!” Anja exclaimed. She turned to Martin and saw the pissed off look on his face. “We can’t take him Martin.”

“Ben has already started pre-flight.” Martin replied looking at her. “And I want to get airborne. Danny would you find twinkle toes here a seat, and make sure he doesn’t puke on my clean deck! We’ll figure out what to do with him later.”

Dan came up to them with a small smile and took Kevin by the arm. “Right this way twinkle toes.” He spoke pulling him along after a quick look at Anja.

Anja turned to Martin, a look of disgust on her face. “I’m not going to baby sit him Martin.” She said. “He stays on the ship and out of my way.”

Martin looked at her intently. “You... you seem different Anja.” He spoke softly, stepping closer to her.

Anja held her breath for a long moment, not looking at him. His musky mint smell filled her nostrils. “We’re all different now.” She spoke quickly knowing Martin could probably still smell Danny and Julie all over her.

Martin smiled in a knowing way, and Anja felt herself blush slightly. “I don’t plan on having you baby sit him. You’re part of my team now.” He told her. “We’ll figure out what to do with him on the way.”

Anja's face became serious. "Martin... I'm sorry... I'm sorry about Yuri."

Martin's face changed quickly, becoming unreadable. He nodded slowly. "Yeah... well losing women seems to be one of my more prominent traits." He forced a small smile. "Grab a seat."

Anja turned and moved into the interior of the Raptor.

ONE HOUR TO INSERTION

The jarring of the Raptor woke Anja from her exhausted sleep, her green eyes going wide as she sprang to her feet. She saw the members of Martin's team already up and moving about, many of them were checking weapons and other equipment. She got to her feet unsure of what to do and saw Danny move around the center crate, adorned in full body armor and combat gear. His black nomex uniform had cargo pockets on the legs and additional padding and armor over every portion of his body except for his joints. His combat vest was loaded with several grenades and a large automatic in a shoulder holster. He carried the wicked looking HK74 assault rifle with what she recognized as a grenade launcher under the silenced barrel. She rubbed her eyes as he stopped in front of her.

"Good morning sleepy head." He said with a smile, flashing his perfect white teeth.

Anja looked up into the dark eyes and face of the man who had made her feel things she never thought possible only a few short hours ago.

"Danny..." Anja spoke softly. "I... I don't..."

Dan shook his head gently. "Jules explained everything to me." He told her, his voice just above a whisper so only she could hear him. "I swear to you Anja, I had no idea what kind of effect I would have on you, but I damn sure don't regret a single moment of anything that happened between us."

"Danny... you..."

"Hear me out." Dan said softly. "You may or may not believe me, but I'm going to say it anyway just so you know. I want it to happen again, and not for the reasons you may think. I'm a genome yes, but I am also a man. And I am not so stupid as to not know what I want and don't want, regardless of how I act. I have Jules... and she has me... but we both want you. And that's a fact. It's... it's not easy for me to explain it, Jules is better at words than I'll ever be, but you... you are incredibly sexy and I'd be a fool if I said I didn't want it to happen again. The decision is yours, whenever you make it, and as much as I would like you to say it's what you want as well, now is not the time." He held up the bundle for her to see. "The Skipper says you are qualified for Hard Drops, so here is your gear. Your bags have already been stowed in Julie's pod since you're riding down with her." He pulled the small hypo from his vest and handed it to her. "This is your receiver and transmitter. They are normal coms, but Jules added our personal channel to your implant chip. It's eleven. This is from her." He handed her the hypo and small pouch.

"Thank you." Anja said taking the gear, never taking her eyes off him.

Dan pulled something else from the pack he carried. "This is from me." He told her, holding out the small black automatic, and the cut down version of the silenced HK74 he carried. "I took a normal K12 and HK74 and reworked them a little. The weight and balance are the same, but they have more knock down than the standard K12 and HK that you are used too. I loaded three extra clips for the K12 for you and sized your thigh holster for the best fit."

Anja took the weapon while looking at him. "You sized it for me?" She asked.

Dan grinned in an almost embarrassed sort of way. "Anja I memorized every millimeter of your body in those few hours. I could pick your scent out of a crowd of thousands if I needed too." He told her, causing Anja to blush as well, but in the dim light of the Raptor no one else noticed.

"Thank you Danny."

Dan nodded. "Get suited up, we'll be entering the atmosphere in about twenty minutes." He told her before turning and heading forward.

“Altitude at twenty-seven thousand feet and we are in the pipeline.” Ben spoke from the left seat of the Raptor.

“Stealth systems are activated and operating at peak output.” Tina said from the right seat. “We are a ghost.”

Ben turned back to where Martin sat behind them. “Pretty standard Marty and we’ll be over the target in sixteen minutes. TOT puts you on the ground at 2045 local.”

“Nothing out of the ordinary Ben,” Martin asked.

Ben shook his head. “Aside from a slightly higher temperature when we entered the atmosphere, it was a standard flight.”

“I’m picking up a lot of com traffic.” Tina spoke adjusting her instruments. “I am marking what appears to be search radars scattered all over, mostly X-band stuff. Nothing directed at us, but from the patterns they are using I’d say they are looking for something.”

“Is there anything coming out of the target area?” Martin asked.

“Looks like two search radars well east of the base. They appear to be stationary though. I’m picking up intermittent infra red signals within four kilometers of the base, could be people or it could be animals, there’s no way for me to tell. I’ll try zooming the High Res camera in on one of the clusters Marty. I’ll patch the feed through to your station.”

Martin turned to his screen as the picture came up. It appeared to be nearing dusk, and the images were dim but very clear. He could see a small group of armed men and women running easily through the thinning trees as they neared the edge of the forest on the perimeter of the base.

“They look like soldiers.” He spoke softly. “Soldiers that are running from something and that ain’t good. Tina can you expand the view to ten kilometers.”

“Stand by.” Tina echoed, adjusting her instruments. “I’m picking up another larger cluster six kilometers behind the first. It looks like... holy shit! Is that a tank?”

Martin’s eyes had also grown wider as he viewed the metal monster moving methodically through the thin forest, knocking down trees and uprooting bushes. The tracked vehicle looked larger than a normal tank and sported a long tank gun that currently was pointed straight ahead. “That’s not like any tank I have ever seen.” Martin spoke, his eyes also taking in the soldiers that were marching on all sides of the tank. He estimated at least a company sized force. “Whoever they are, it seems they are chasing the first group we saw. And both of them are heading right for the base.”

“You want to abort Marty?” Ben asked. “We’re still thirteen minutes out.”

“No.” Martin answered. “We need to find out what is going on and...”

“Fuck!” Tina exclaimed. “Something just hit that first group! What the hell is that?”

Martin’s eyes were glued to the screen as they watched what appeared to be an armored creature similar to a bear tearing through the first group of soldiers. They were trying to track it and fire their weapons, but it didn’t appear to have any effect on the creature. Already four of their number were on the ground and looked to either be dead or have serious injuries.

“Marty that second group has juiced it!” Tina called.

Martin thought he saw a flash of long black hair under the trees and then the creature struck and the hair disappeared.

“Well I’ll be damned!” Ben exclaimed from his seat.

Martin turned from his screen. “What?”

“Just for shits and giggles I tried activating the base hanger controls by remote.” Ben spoke, his hand resting on the controls of the Raptor. “I never thought it would actually work, but take a look.”

Martin’s eyes went to the small screen between Ben and Tina and he saw the ground beginning to open slowly. Dust was rising into the air as several hundred years of dirt and leaves and branches collapsed into the underground structure, but the hanger doors opened fully.

“Power readings from the base?” Martin asked.

Tina shook her head. “Minimal.” She answered. “And I’m not detecting any infra red signatures near the landing pad either. But we don’t know about the rest of the base. Our instruments can’t penetrate the outer shell armor.”

Ben looked at Martin. “It’s your call Marty.” He said.

“Christ whatever that thing is, it’s tearing those troops apart!” Tina spoke from her seat.

Martin looked at her monitor. “Jesus!” Martin muttered.

“Is that thing a bear?” Tina asked.

“That ain’t no bear that I’ve ever seen.” Ben spoke from his seat. “Marty we…”

“Can we hit it from here with the Sabot Cannon?” Martin asked.

Ben looked at him. “Does a bear shit in the woods?” He asked.

“Do it!” Martin spoke. “Then take us in. I never did like Hard Drops but be ready for an emergency ascent.”

Ben nodded. “I like a man who knows what he wants.” He said with a smile.

Tina looked at him. “So do I… so where do I find one?” She said with a grin.

Martin and Ben both smiled at her comment. “Warm up the cannons.” Ben spoke. “Marty put one of your people in the belly turret just in case.”

Martin nodded. “I got you covered.”

TARIFA’S COMMAND PARTY

Tarifa’s head was ringing from the glancing blow of the Grizz beast. The monster’s huge paw had struck her at the full extension of a swing from one of its massive clawed arms and tossed her physically twenty meters away. The Grizz beast was a mutated creature designed to look like a bear and to hunt prey for the Alliance. The normal ones easily stood nine feet tall and almost two thousand pounds, and that was without the additional armor that the Alliance covered their hides in. Unprotected Grizz beasts would go down after being shot fifty or sixty times, but this one was in the employ of the Alliance and was heavily armored. Her weapon and the weapons of her warriors fired only small caseless 6.7mm rounds, and they did not even dent the armor of the monster. It was tearing through her party, ripping and slashing her warriors to death. Blood stained the ground around the fighting; seven of her party of nineteen already littered the forest floor, their blood seeping into the ground from horrible wounds that had disemboweled them.

Tarifa felt the terrible pain in her head and reached up to brush her armored hand across the side of her face. The back of her gauntlet came away coated in bright red blood, and suddenly Tarifa knew she was in trouble. Her vision started to blur somewhat as she slumped back to the ground on her butt, barely catching herself in time. The snarl very close to her caused her to snap her head around, her eyes going wide in terror.

The Grizz beast was only three meters away from her, rising onto its powerful hind legs and lifting its lethal clawed arm to strike her down and feast on her flesh. Tarifa could hear the screams of her warriors as they rushed towards her, trying to get the monster’s attention to no avail. All of them knew they could not reach their Queen before the beast struck.

Tarifa flinched when she heard the wet plopping sound and her eyes went even wider when the Grizz beast rose to its full height and howled in agony. She continued to watch as even over the sounds of the monster’s roars she heard another similar plopping sound and this time she was showered with the monster’s thick blood as a huge hole the size of both her fists blew out the front of its armored belly. Her eyes glanced up quickly only to witness the beast’s head explode in a shower of bone and blood, spraying her and the surrounding area with more wetness.

The Grizz beast collapsed to the forest floor, its large head blown completely off, leaving only its fang filled lower jaw hanging lifeless in the shredded mess. The monster landed only a few feet from her and Tarifa scrambled back just as her remaining warriors ran up to her.

“My Queen,” The man spoke, lowering his assault rifle and reaching for Tarifa, his hands pulling her away from the monster’s inert body and helping her to her feet.

The High Elf warriors crowded around the mangled beast; their eyes wide in complete astonishment.

“Something… something shot it!” Tarifa gasped. “It was about to… it was ready to rip me to pieces and something shot it.” She looked at the man with the smoking rifle. “You shot it?”

“I shot it many times my Queen.” He answered her, his face showing his own terror. “One of my bullets must have penetrated its armor.”

The High Elves suddenly became much more alert as their keen eyes began sweeping the darkening forest around them. Others moved to check on their fallen comrades, though it was far too late to save many of them.

“My Queen, you are injured.” The man spoke, reaching up to the side of her head.

Tarifa steadied herself with the man’s arm, as her eyes darted to where her fallen warriors lay. She moved to the first body where one of her soldiers grasped the hand of the female Elf. She was horribly wounded, her side practically ripped open, but she was alive.

“Marcus still pursues us.” Tarifa spoke now, her head clearing. “He will not follow us in the darkness however, and we must use this time to get further away. Give her a sedative to silence her and then pick her up.”

“Majesty she will only slow us down.” The man spoke from her side. “We can do nothing for her now, or any of the others. She is beyond our means to help.”

Tarifa whirled on the young warrior. “I will not leave her or the others for Marcus to find alive. He will heal them only to rape and torture them to death, if not worse. Now pick her up and let us go! We are not far from the sacred site and we will be safe there. Even Marcus will not enter the sacred site. We must hurry.”

EDEN GROUND COMMAND EARTH

The screaming of the Raptor’s engines was almost deafening within the small confines of the landing bay, centuries old dirt and dust and the recently disturbed debris from the surface blowing crazily in the man made tornado.

Ben’s hands gently caressed the controls of the Raptor as he brought the ship in slower than he usually would so that Martin could lower the ramp and members of his team could sweep the interior of the dark landing pad. The Raptor’s lights illuminated much of the landing pad, leaving only one area shrouded in shadows, and it was this area that the team member in the chain gun belly turret trained his cannons, his fingers ready to mash down on the triggers.

“Four meters,” Tina called out, her eyes glued to her instruments.

“Close the cover!” Ben called as he eased back on the throttles, the Raptor dropping even further until its landing struts touched the metal surface of the pad.

“Cover coming closed.” Tina spoke, her hand flipping another switch, which controlled the overhead door. They could hear the groaning of the steel as it moved for only the second time in nearly four hundred years. Tina looked at Ben. “That doesn’t sound good.”

Ben nodded. “I agree.” He spoke just as an enormously loud wrenching sound came from above and even over the roar of the engines it was obvious the doors had stopped closing.

“Damn!” Tina exclaimed. “They jammed up!”

“Are they fully closed?” Ben asked, not taking his eyes from his instruments as he set the Raptor down gently on the pad.

“Negative.” She replied. “It looks like they stopped about two feet shy.”

Ben shook his head. “Damn I should have thought of that. The control mechanism is probably full of rust and grit. I’m shutting down the engines. We’re stuck here now until we get the doors fixed.”

“I’m powering down internal systems.” Tina spoke. “If the doors worked then the base reactor must still be working. That means there is still power and we can plug in to recharge.”

Ben unfastened his straps. “I’ll let Marty know that the doors didn’t close fully, and start breaking out the chocks.”

Ben moved quickly into the rear of the Raptor and saw Martin and Tony standing on the edge of the Raptor’s ramp looking up at the stars that peered through the two foot wide gap in the overhead doors. The others were lined up behind them, waiting to disembark. Ben moved up next to Martin.

“Ben the overheads didn’t close all the way.” Martin spoke.

Ben nodded. "They shorted out, I know. I'm guessing it's because they haven't been used in over four centuries and they are kind of rusty. Not bad shooting with the sabot cannon huh; three shots from thirteen kilometers away?"

"So we're stuck here?" Martin asked looking at him.

"At least until we get the doors fixed." Ben answered. "There is still power to the base, and Tina and I can handle the doors. Infra red and motion sensors were blank, so unless you want to stay here longer then we planned; I suggest we start getting to work."

Martin nodded. "I agree." He said turning to Master Chief Brown. "Master Chief put Zippy and Tommy on security for Ben and Tina. Danny you take Pablo, Trina and Cody and head to engineering. See if you can get the generators online and running so we have power throughout the station. Tony, Anja and Julie are with me. We'll head to Command and see what we can find."

Danny nodded. "We're on it."

Martin pulled the hand held but powerful flashlight from his vest. He looked at the smiling pilot. "You should have killed it with one shot." He said with a grin. "Let's get moving."

"So this is the famous EDEN Ground Command?" Anja spoke as her eyes took in the expansive control room. She walked alongside Julie as they entered the command center, the massive room filled with computer consoles and chairs, as well as a huge wall monitor. It was very similar to the Johnson Space Center Museum that Anja had visited as a child.

Martin's eyes darted from shadow to shadow, his HK74 silenced assault rifle held at the ready. He heard Dan's voice fill his ear receiver.

"Skipper, we're at the generator room." He reported. "The reactor was set to the minimum setting to maintain coolant. I'm going to spool it up to one quarter power so we can activate the power grids. Stand by."

The four of them stood in the center of the control room and they could hear the low hum become just a little louder. All around them computer consoles began to flicker to life, and emergency lighting began to kick on. With the lights coming on, they could see the numerous human skeletal remains scattered throughout the huge control room.

"Skipper we are seeing human remains all over down here." Dan reported.

"Same here Danny." Martin told him as he watched Anja squat next to one skeleton. The bones were bleached almost white and covered in a thick layer of dust and she lifted the human skull into her gloved hands and looked closer at it. It was missing most of the facial bones and one entire cheekbone.

Anja got slowly back to her feet carrying the skull and she came over next to Martin. She held the skull out to him, her other hand gripped tightly around the pistol grip of her HK. "This person was shot." She told him. "It was a large caliber weapon, right through the back of the head."

"Skipper," Tony called.

Martin turned to face him and Tony lifted the dust covered .40mm automatic from the skeleton remains on the floor in front of him. "It looks like he executed the entire control room crew and then blew his brains out."

"Danny I want you to sweep the entire lower level!" Martin spoke. "Search every room, every corner. Then spool the reactor to seventy-five percent so we can bring the core online and find out what the hell happened here."

"You got it boss." Dan replied.

"Julie, you and Anja take the west wing, the Master Chief and I will cover the east. Meet back here in twenty and maintain an open com link." Martin spoke.

Julie nodded. "Will do Skipper." She said taking Anja's arm and leading her across the control center.

The man lowered the binoculars to reveal cold glittering red eyes against the pale dark gray almost chocolate color of his skin. His white hair hung down past his shoulders, the points of his elf ears sticking out from within the strands of hair. He stood next to the twenty foot long tank M100 Assault Tank, one of twenty in his command, the moon light casting him in an eerie light. He turned to the Corporate Alliance Officer standing attentively behind him.

“We will rest here tonight.” He spoke, his voice dark and menacing. “They have entered the sacred ruins. We will give them a few hours to relax, and then send the Alliance Assassins in to wreak as much havoc as they can. Tell them they can kill whatever males they find, the female elves they can use as their playthings until they tire of them, but I want the Queen alive and unhurt. I will have the pleasure of raping that Elf bitch myself.”

“Our scouts found the remains of the Grizz beasts Colonel Marcus.” The officer reported. “It was dead, missing most of its head. Two very large entry wounds in its back as well. A large and powerful weapon was used as it punched right through the beast’s armor.”

“Interesting, I didn’t think these Elves had heavy weapons with them. Perhaps I was mistaken.” The gray skinned man brought the binoculars to his eyes again, scanning the jumble of buildings eight kilometers distant from his location. “Place our M100s on the western edge of the Battalion flank, and have our heavy mortars set up to cover the mountain valley to our east. One company to cover the mortars, one company to our rear and the remaining two companies are to dig in to our front.” He sensed that the officer had not left and lowered the binoculars to look at him. “Is there something else Colonel?”

“I... I wish only to make you aware Colonel Marcus. I do not subscribe to the myths and rumors that filter among our troops.” The man spoke.

Marcus turned back to looking through the powerful binoculars. “Speak Captain.”

“Some of the men... they are concerned about our plans to attack the Elves sacred ruins.” The officer spoke. “Our forces have not entered the ruins in nearly two centuries after the last time we tried to attack them here.”

“Yes I have heard of that.” Marcus spoke with a grin. “The Alliance lost nearly a thousand troops to unseen weapons of incredible destruction. We have the advantage this time however.”

“We do Colonel Marcus?”

“I am leading these forces and not some incompetent fool.” Marcus growled. “If the men wish to persist with this ridiculous legend I will have them butchered as an example of what not to do in my unit. Make that clear to them if you would Captain.”

The officer bowed his head deeply, “As you order Colonel Marcus.”

Marcus turned back to the distant ruins and a cruel smile crept across his face. “Oh yes Tarifa, I will enjoy using you until you are my willing servant. I will have you in every orifice of your delectable elf body more times than you can imagine. And then I will cut out your heart and eat it while it still beats in my hands.”

The Drow elf in service to the Alliance grinned savagely in the night sky.

“...secure here Admiral.” Martin spoke to the screen while leaning back in the chair of the command center. “We’re transmitting on an encrypted channel. I don’t know if they can even detect the beam, let alone crack it. From what we’ve seen so far, it’s looks to be a dog eat dog world here.”

Wallace nodded from the command center on EDEN. “Would you mind telling me how Kevin Graham found his way onto your Raptor Martin?”

“We had already started pre-flight Admiral.” Martin answered. “He leaped aboard just as the ramp was closing. I couldn’t stop him.”

“I hold you personally accountable for his safety Commander!” Senator Graham’s voice and face appeared behind the Admiral. “I’ve already talked to him, and he told me you forced him onto the Raptor, as well as Commander Peterson. I intend to bring you up on charges when you return!”

Martin maintained a straight face and cut the audio feed from the transmission as Graham ranted. “Master Chief Brown, please go and find that little prick and strip search his sorry ass until you find his transmitter. He’s got to be broadcasting on an open channel and that could very well sink our dicks.”

Tony grinned, “With pleasure sir.”

“Skipper,” Julie spoke from the chair of another console, a smile on her face. “Anja and I don’t have dicks.”

Anja couldn't help but chuckle at the expression on Martin's face and she had to turn away as Martin reactivated the audio link.

"I have Danny spooling up the reactor gradually Admiral." He said. "Once we get it to eighty percent power I'll access the core and download all the files into the Raptor's onboard computer. Figure another nine hours to spool the reactor all the way up and download the core. Ben and Tina are working on getting the overheads repaired so that we can lift off, but Ben says they're jammed pretty tight and he's going to have to do some cutting. As it stands right now, we'll be here a little longer than we first thought. We'll shoot for an extraction no later than 0730 day after tomorrow."

"Are the overheads fully jammed open?" Wallace asked.

Martin shook his head. "No sir. They jammed about two feet open. Ben has all the tools he needs here sir, and the base is pretty much intact as well. A lot of human remains, but nothing is destroyed or damaged and that's a good thing."

Wallace nodded from his chair. "Keep me informed of any developments and stay out of sight. We don't know what the situation is down there and I don't want to get tangled into anything before we know what is going on."

Martin nodded. "We'll do that Admiral, Ghost One out."

Julie watched Martin shut down the transmitter. "You didn't tell him about what we saw coming in Skipper?"

Martin shook his head. "No need. We don't know what was going on, and I'm not one to guess."

"What is above this facility Martin?" Anja asked from her chair.

Martin swiveled his chair around and looked at her. "Nothing is directly above us except the Book Cliffs. An abandoned Reserve Air Force Base is three miles away via underground tram." He answered. "We took off from the same airfield eleven days ago."

"There is an underground tram on the base?" Anja asked curious.

Martin nodded. "We used the base as cover. It was a complete facility with personnel and families and such. The tram runs on a track from here to directly under the base head quarters building."

"Does the tram still work?" Anja asked.

Martin shrugged. "If there is still power I would imagine it does. We always used Hummers to get back and forth since the tram runs alongside the wall. The Hummers were faster." Martin's eyes lit up. "Hey that reminds me. We had surveillance cameras set up all over the base." He turned to Julie. "Julie can you activate the base surveillance grid. Let's see what it looks like up there."

Julie turned to her console and began to operate the computer. Martin and Anja moved their chairs over as the computer screen changed and Julie's hands deftly typed in commands.

"Ok, power grid coming online now!" Julie spoke. "We..."

SECURITY BREACH, SECURITY BREACH.
NORTH QUADRANT, NORTH QUADRANT.
SECURITY FORCES RESPOND.

"What the hell." Julie exclaimed. "The computer is saying there has been a security violation in the northern quadrant of the base. That would be the office complex."

"Is it picking up something from before maybe?" Martin asked.

Julie shook her head. "According to this, the breach occurred ninety minutes ago."

"Can you get a fix?"

"Let me try localizing the breach." Julie spoke working the console. "Looks like it's coming from the old administration offices in the E block area. Let's see if the cameras are still working."

The picture went fuzzy for several moments then the screen cleared and they had a picture of a long hallway. The dusty floor was evident even in the black and white video, and it appeared as if all the doors in the hallway were open.

"Hey I remember this hallway." Martin spoke. "The office at the end used to be the base personnel office."

“There!” Anja gasped pointing to the screen as three figures appeared from one of the offices. There were two women and a man, and they appeared to be looking for something, and they were all armed with small weapons that appeared to be sub machine guns of a kind that Martin had never seen before.

“Can they see the cameras?” Martin asked.

Julie shook her head. “All of them were inside light domes identical to the actual light fixtures.”

“Switch to the room they just came out of.” Martin spoke. “It looked like the procurement office.”

Julie typed in the commands on the computer and the picture changed quickly to a large expansive room, old filing cabinets and chairs scattered about and turned over. There were also twelve men and women in the room that they could see on the camera, as well as what appeared to be some injured ones as well.

“Fifty bucks this is the group of soldiers that was being attacked by that overgrown bear.” Julie spoke.

Martin shook his head. “No bet here.” He spoke, his eyes never leaving the screen. “Looks like they got at least four wounded.”

“They’re being awful relaxed for a group that was fighting not too long ago.” Julie commented.

“Maybe they think they’re safe.” Anja spoke.

Julie looked at Martin. “Or maybe they don’t know that second group was on their trail.”

Martin nodded, “Could be. Either way it doesn’t…”

“Look at that!” Anja gasped, her voice filled with genuine surprise this time.

Julie and Martin could only gawk at the screen as the camera zoomed in on a man and a women talking. Though the camera was black and white, you didn’t need color to see that the ears of both the man and women were considerably larger than normal ears, and they ended in pointed tips.

“What the hell.” Julie exclaimed. “Who the hell has pointed ears?”

“They look like… they look like Elves.” Anja spoke. She watched as both Martin and Julie looked at her as if she’d lost her mind.

“Elves,” Martin said with a grin. “You mean like Santa’s little helpers?”

“What was that children’s story, Snow White and the seven Elves?” Julie asked with her own smile.

“Asshole,” She barked at Martin, a small grin wanting to spread across her face. She turned to Julie.

“And it was Snow White and the Seven Dwarves Julie.” She spoke sweetly, her eyes gazing upon Julie in such a way that Julie’s stomach did little flips. “Elves were a huge part of Earth legend dating back several thousand years. They were part of many European cultures’s lore, including England and France.”

Martin looked at her, still with a smile on his face. “And how do you know so much about them?” He asked.

Anja ignored him, and continued speaking. “They were considered a very honorable race, and exceptional warriors. It is said they populated the entire planet at one point. I loved Elves when I was a little girl, and read hundreds of books on them.”

“But they are just a myth, right?” Julie said. “They are nothing more than just a fantasy and legend right?”

Anja nodded. “They are supposed to be.” She said. “But it appears they are not so fictional as I first thought. Julie didn’t you say some of the transmissions we were picking up mentioned elves?”

“C’mon!” Martin said exasperated. “You don’t honestly think they are really Elves do you?”

“I think we have to go based on what we see.” Anja spoke. “And without a complete examination, we shouldn’t assume anything. We’ve come almost five hundred years into the future. We have no idea what has happen.”

That statement sobered Martin up quickly, “Point taken.” He spoke. “As long as they remain on the base and don’t discover the entrance to the tunnel we leave them be. The Admiral ordered we avoid any contact with anyone, and that’s what we are going to do.”

Martin slid his chair back to the console he had been sitting at. “Jules why don’t you and Anja wander down to the galley and see if there is anything left that we might be able to eat.”

Julie got to her feet. “I like the sound of that idea.” She said slinging her HK74.

Martin waited until they had left the control room before moving back to Julie’s station and looking at the monitor again. He used the zoom mode on the camera to bring it in closer on the men and women who occupied the floor in the large office. They were eating and drinking and talking amongst themselves just as any soldiers would do. The movement in the background caused Martin to adjust the camera and pan it to the right.

He stopped it on the young woman that was peering out the broken window to the north. He used the controls to zoom the camera in, and his interest grew as he noticed the extremely long hair, and the fullness of the body, as well as the provocative uniform she had on. Martin moved the camera in closer, and even in the black and white of the video he took notice of the brightness of her eyes and the sensual curves of her cheekbones and face. Her long ears pointed up from her head, parting her black hair, but they appeared to be the most natural item to her face.

Martin continued to watch the video, unaware that Tarifa was the female Elf he was watching.

“Julie... what was Yuri Tanaka to Martin?” Anja asked.

Julie and she were going through galley’s cabinets looking for food that was not expired and looked safe to eat. Julie turned to look at her and leaned against the counter as Anja came up to her.

“Yuri and Martin are... were lovers.” She replied. “Why do you want to know?”

“The realization that we have come so far into the future and that she is dead does not seem to affect him as much as I thought it would.” Anja said.

Julie nodded. “Martin, Danny and I were among the very first genomes in the Batch program.” She told her. “Unfortunately for them, they did not attend some of the schools that the others did and did not associate with many outside the Genome Program. They have had less time to develop and understand the emotions they feel.”

“So they... they can’t feel emotions?” Anja asked.

Julie shook her head quickly. “No not at all. They can feel emotions. They just never learned how to process the emotions in the beginning, at least not the emotional boundaries for a relationship. They’ve come a long way believe me.”

“Danny... Danny seems to be able to express what he feels.” Anja said.

Julie nodded with a grin. “That’s because of me.” She answered. “I’m very expressive, Doctor Carson told me that I was based on a Hollywood actress he loved growing up, and due to our relationship, and Danny has been able to learn how to adapt more quickly. He still has trouble expressing how deep something is to him in words, but he will show you in his actions. The Skipper was learning. Yuri was good for him in a sense. He has opened up quite a bit in the last three years.”

Anja nodded. “Yes I noticed that.”

“I think Yuri loved him,” Julie continued. “And I think Martin cared for her a great deal, but I don’t think he loved her.”

“Why?”

“I don’t think she was the one.” Julie said.

“What do you mean the one?” Anja asked.

Julie nodded. “I would really like to be around when the Skipper falls.” She said. “It will definitely be a sight to see.” Julie looked at Anja for a long moment. “You care for him don’t you Anja?”

Anja looked at her, jade green eyes wide. “What? No... I... I don’t know.” She answered quickly.

“Then why ask the questions about him?” Julie asked.

Anja turned her back to the counter and lifted herself up to sit on it. “I... I think it helps me to better understand.”

“Understand what?” Julie asked clearly interested.

“I... after what happen between us I should feel awkward being around you and I don’t. I’ve never... I’ve never let myself let go like that. I’ve never even entertained the thought of being with another... another woman.” Anja said looking at Julie. “Yet with you... and with Danny it was different. It was so... so alive and real. I haven’t felt anything like that since...”

“Since the Skipper rocked your world?” Julie asked with a smile.

Anja looked at her stunned. “You... you know about Martin and me?” She gasped.

“You are all we heard about through the entire Central American War girl.” Julie answered with a chuckle. “Marty just about drove us all batty. No one has ever affected him like that, not even Yuri.”

“He... he talked about me?” Anja asked clearly surprised.

“Non stop,” Julie said with a smile.

“He hates me for what I did.” Anja said softly. “I can feel it in his eyes whenever he looks at me.”

Julie moved closer to her and reached out to touch her face. “Hate is a strong word Anja.” She said softly. “Marty is a very complex man... and the only one who truly understood him I think is now dead. Doc Carson was like a father to us all, but for some reason he was especially close to Marty.”

Anja looked at her. “So what do I do?” She asked softly. “I don’t know what to do.”

“I’ll be honest with you,” Julie said. “I would like very much to explore this thing we have discovered, and I know Danny would be thrilled with having two women lavishing attention on his big cock,” Julie chuckled when Anja blushed deeply. “And if you think I had thoughts about being with another woman you’d be wrong?” Julie asked softly moving even closer to her. “You were the first for me too you know. Danny and I are comfortable with each other Anja... but we both know that we’re not meant to spend the rest of our lives together. I think what we have makes us stronger actually, because not only do we share the same bed, but we are best friends too. Are you having regrets about what happened between the three of us Anja?”

Anja met Julie’s dark eyes and shook her head. “Not a single one.” She answered honestly and without hesitation. “And that is what’s strange. I... I can’t bring myself to admit it openly, but I want... I want it to happen again.” Anja looked directly at her, “With both of you.”

“Then follow your heart.” Julie told her.

“Just like that,” Anja asked. “What will Martin... what will Martin think?”

“There is nothing keeping you from enjoying yourself while you sort out what you and Martin might and might not have.” Julie said. “That may be selfish to say on my part, but it’s true.” Julie stepped between Anja’s dangling legs in a blink, using her genome strength to grab her tight ass and pull her close to her own body. Julie covered Anja’s soft lips with her own and kissed her hard and deep, driving her tongue between Anja’s lips in a passionate and needed soul stealing kiss. Julie felt Anja melt into her arms and groan and then her arms were sliding around Julie’s waist pulling her even tighter as she met Julie’s deep searching tongue with that incredible four inch honey tasting appendage that Julie and fallen in love with the moment it flicked across her pussy.

Anja dropped her hands to Julie’s own tight muscular ass and gripped it, pulling her even closer, her need of this gorgeous woman fueling her strength. Her action also elicited a groan of desire from Julie, and the depth of their kiss increased, surprising both of them with its intensity and longing.

After what seemed like several long minutes they parted, saliva trailing from both their lips, their tongues dancing together as if wanting and needing more. Their hands did not move as they stared at one another, feeling each other’s breathing and the beating of their hearts slamming into their chests. Julie dipped her head to Anja’s neck, her tongue flicking across the hollow of her throat, tasting her skin. Her hands urgently unfastened Anja’s combat vest and unzipped the top of the fatigues. To Julie’s delight, Anja had not worn a bra and as her large tits burst into view, Julie covered one of Anja’s nipples with her mouth and sucked hard.

Anja gasped in passion, her hands going to Julie’s head and entwining her fingers in her dark hair, thrusting her chest out to Julie’s soft lips and talented tongue. Julie pulled her closer by her firm ass, switching to her other nipple and coating that with saliva as well, pulling on the erect nipple with her teeth gently and hearing Anja groan in desire. Anja’s desire almost overpowered her common sense and she pulled Julie’s head up. She looked at her with glittering green eyes.

“You sexy bitch,” She spoke in a husky voice and then she kissed her hard, driving her tongue deeply into Julie’s mouth. Julie’s eyes went wide and then closed in blissful pleasure and she responded to the kiss with equal passion and desire.

It was a long moment before they broke the kiss this time, neither of them wanting to part, but knowing they had too. Julie leaned forward further, her lips going to Anja’s ear. “I’ve always found that if you follow your heart then things will eventually work themselves out.” She whispered. She pulled her head back and looked at Anja. “Do what you want Anja... not what you think someone else wants. If you and Martin are meant to be together... then it will happen. Live your life your way.” She looked at her and Anja detected the glint of mischievous thoughts in them. “Are your panties as wet as mine?”

Anja’s smile lit up the room and she nodded with a girlish chuckle. “God they’re soaked.” She replied.

“We better stop this before we end up on this counter screaming our heads off and the boys all come running to watch the show.” Julie spoke. She leaned forward and kissed Anja gently and with great feeling, caressing her soft cheek. She stared at her once more. “Do what you feel is right Anja and we’ll be waiting.”

She said softly. Julie reluctantly pulled herself from Anja's arms. "Let me see what I can find in the way of food. You know how men are when they don't have enough to eat."

Anja nodded and watched as she turned and walked into the pantry portion of the galley. Anja shifted her butt on the counter, feeling the wetness between her legs and knowing that Martin and Danny and the other genomes were going to be able to smell her excitement on her. Anja took a deep breath and nodded. She didn't yet know what she felt for Martin, but she did know she wanted to explore what she had discovered with Danny and Julie, and especially Julie. She had never imagined herself desiring another woman, but she did desire Julie in a big way. She wanted to explore that and she made the decision to do just that.

Anja nimbly jumped off the counter, zipping her uniform back up and refastening her combat vest, her decision made. She was about to take her first steps into a whole different world, and she could hardly stand the anticipation.

Tarifa stood by the window in the office building, her thoughts not at all good. She had hoped to lead Marcus and his Corporate Alliance dogs away from the Holy One, and then disappear into the forest. That had not been the case, as he had hounded her and her diminishing party ever since those first hours. They had come half way across the entire state, and to the only place she thought would be safe.

The Elf Sacred Ruins.

Her people were exhausted, both physically and mentally. Elves they may have been, but they were not inhuman. And Tarifa feared their plight was not over. She had always made it a point to never be caught out in the open, or trapped like an animal. Marcus had been after her for three decades, and her memories of the four days she had spent in his clutches before her warriors had rescued her forty years ago was still a vivid nightmare. He had raped her brutally and without regard for almost the entire time of her captivity. He was like a rutting bull, and he did vile things to her, and when he grew tired he gave her to his men to use while he slept.

Tarifa shook those thoughts from her mind. She would kill herself before allowing that to ever happen again. Yet now, she felt the noose was closing around her. She was without the usual massive numbers of High Elf warriors she traveled with since her capture so long ago, and she had brought them to a place where they could not run any further. The Book Cliffs were far too massive to try and climb down or go around, and the sacred ruins were sitting directly in the path of them. Tarifa knew that Marcus would attack the ruins looking for her, regardless of the legends of mass slaughter that had taken place when Alliance forces had attacked the ruins before.

Tarifa feared she had run herself and her followers into a death trap and there was no escape. None of her people looked hopeful, and the only one who seemed in the least bit relaxed was the male Elf who had saved her from the Grizz beast. He kept looking at her with a lustful stare, and Tarifa knew what was on his mind.

Tarifa let the tears come from her sapphire eyes, for she knew what lay in their future.

Martin turned from the monitor as Tarifa's tears began to fall and Danny and the others came into the command center. He casually flipped the monitor he had been watching off as he settled back in his chair.

Danny settled into the chair across from him and set his HK on the console while unzipping his fatigue top and removing his combat vest. "Reactor is running smooth at eighty-six percent Skipper. Cody has already started downloading the core information to a portable data storage unit so we can link it to the Raptor."

Martin looked at him. "Why couldn't we do a direct connection?" He asked.

Danny leaned back in the chair. "Tina didn't want to take the chance of corrupting the Raptor's systems with whatever the core collected over the past four hundred odd years."

Martin nodded. "I never thought of that. Do we have enough data storage units?"

Danny nodded. "I found four more in the computer lab. I checked them out and they work fine. That's going to be a lot of information boss. Time stamp on the last data entry is 2287."

They both turned as Julie and Anja came back into the command room followed by Pablo, Kevin and the Master Chief. All of them had their arms full of rations.

“We hit the jack pot!” Julie exclaimed. “I managed to crack the code on the galley’s locked warehouse and we found a veritable treasure of old rations that have a shelf life of... well forever.” She dropped the pile in her arms on the table, as did Anja and the others. “Some of this stuff is pretty good too.”

Martin and Dan came over and they all began sifting through the pile of rations. Julie stepped over next to Danny and held out the package. “Here you go lover.” She spoke.

Danny took the brown plastic container and read the contents, his face lighting up. “Beef stew! I loved these things in basic!” He spoke, beginning to tear open the package. Julie smiled and looked at Anja and winked. She didn’t see Dan’s head come up and look at her strangely.

“What’s that smell?” Danny asked.

Julie looked at him. “What smell?”

“I know that smell.” Dan said. “It smells like...” Dan’s eyes went directly to Anja, who did everything she could to maintain a straight face and keep from turning a bright red. After what seemed like a long, non-breathing moment Dan bent over and nuzzled Julie’s neck. “It’s you Jules.” He said. “You smell like honey.”

Julie smiled at his show of affection, and her eyes went to Anja at the word Danny used. They had both tasted Anja’s passion, and they both knew it was Danny’s way of telling Anja he could smell her scent all over Julie.

“I smell like shit in a barrel!” Julie popped with a smile. “Now eat your food big boy!”

Danny grinned and looked over to where Anja stood, and his eyes grew a little wider when he saw Anja wink at him. Danny looked at Julie, who also saw this display, and she smiled up at him her eyes bright as they realized that Anja had made her decision. Martin had witnessed the entire exchange, and he looked at a blissfully stupid Kevin Graham as he tried to figure out how to open the ration pack. Martin smiled to himself and went to sit in his chair, unsure of what he felt at seeing the obvious affection Anja was showing Danny and Julie.

The soft chirping alarm brought them all too full alertness, and Julie discarded her ration pack to move to the station she had been sitting at earlier.

“It’s another security breach Skipper!” She spoke as she took in the information from the computer screen, “Northwestern Quadrant! I estimate at least seven individuals by the number of motion sensors tripping.”

“Can you get any video?” Martin asked moving over to her side.

“Checking... It looks like they are coming in around behind the others we discovered earlier.” She said.

“Others...? You found other people on the base?” Danny asked.

“I’m switching to an exterior feed in that sector.” Julie spoke, her hands moving over the console. “I’ll put it up on the main screen.”

Martin and the others turned to look at the huge screen as it came alive with dimly lit buildings and an abandoned street. Rusted and twisted vehicle frames littered the street in both directions.

“It looks like they are headed for the Air Wing BAQ offices.” Julie spoke. “They can infiltrate into the main building from there.” She looked at the screen. “There... got them!”

They could all see the seven shadowy figures moving very professionally directly towards the building Julie had said they would.

“Can you get closer?” Martin asked.

“Working on it,” Julie spoke, adjusting the camera until they saw it moving in closer on the lead figures.

“What the fuck is that?” Master Chief Brown exclaimed.

All of them stared at the picture Julie had frozen on the screen. The man they were looking at was definitely human, but his face looked horribly misshapen, and two very large fangs protruded from beneath his upper lip.

“I don’t suppose they are dropping in for a friendly visit huh?” Julie asked to no one in particular.

“Do the Elves know they’re coming?” Martin asked, causing heads to turn in his direction.

“Elves... did you just say elves?” Kevin spoke.

Julie shook her head. “They’re fat dumb and happy Skipper! They got only two sentries out, and the first of these things is almost on top of them.”

They turned back to the screen and saw the first two creatures move with lightning reflexes around the corner and they fell upon the two Elf sentries before they were even aware they were dead. One of the creatures took the first Elf in his hands and simply twisted the woman's slender neck viciously until her head was torn from her body. The second one had used a savage looking blade, and was now watching with an amused expression on his face as the male Elf slowly slid further down the large blade, his blood splashing wetly on the floor below him in copious amounts.

They all were silent, and no one turned to the sound of Kevin falling to his knees and vomiting the contents of his stomach onto the dusty floor.

"Danny, is the Tram powered up?" Martin asked.

Dan turned to his friend and Commander, knowing what was going through his head. "Yes, but I got something that will get us there quicker. Pablo got three Hummers primed and running in case we had to make a quick exit. We can be there in four minutes."

"Skipper we aren't supposed to get involved." Julie spoke, attempting to be the voice of reason, but not doing a very good job.

Martin looked at her. "Anja, we might be coming back with wounded, can you make the infirmary workable?"

Anja nodded quickly. "I'm on it!"

"Jules stay here and give us a blow by blow. Danny, Trina, and the Master Chief are with me!" Martin lifted his silenced HK74 and headed for the exit.

Betrayed!

Tarifa was dazed, unable to focus her eyes through the blood that dripped into them. She could hear the screams of pain and battle from her fellow comrades, but was powerless to go to their aide. The Alliance Assassins had appeared like phantoms within their ranks, seven of the deadly genetically engineered killing machines falling upon them without warning. Tarifa had been about to leap into the battle when something smashed against the back of her head, dropping her to the floor. She had felt herself dragged into another room while her fighters died, and then she was flipped over and her uniform was forced open, exposing her perfect 34D breasts to the male Elf who now knelt above her, a vicious grin on his face. His fist slammed into her face again, dazing her even more as he pulled at her uniform, forcing it down past her sleek hips, exposing her tanned skin to the rough and dusty surface of the floor.

The Elf worked quickly, his lust at seeing her delicious body exposed to him, blinding him to all else. He finally pulled one leg of her uniform off, and he saw the thin strip of soft black hair above her small pussy.

"What are you doing?" Tarifa gasped, trying to push him away as her senses slowly returned to her. "I... I am your Queen!"

"You're a bitch!" The elf yelled, punching her in the face again, splitting open her lips and causing stars to renew their dance in her eyes. "Marcus is rewarding me well for helping him! The first part of that reward while the Alliance wipes out your precious soldiers is that I get to fuck you like the whore you are!"

Tarifa cried out in pain and humiliation as the male elf plunged his hard cock into her tight dry pussy. She could hear his grunts as he thrust deep with no regard for her pain or discomfort. He grabbed her arms as she attempted to strike him and he slammed them to the floor.

"This is your place Queen Tarifa!" He yelled, ramming his cock deeper into Tarifa's extremely tight cunt, and grunting with the effort. "You are nothing more than a street whore to be used!"

"No! Why... why are you doing this?" Tarifa gasped, tossing her head back and forth in agony and humiliation.

"Why? Credits of course," The elf grunted as he plowed forward. "And the chance to fuck my untouchable Queen senseless!" He laughed. "You like it don't you Tarifa?" He gloated, mistaking the glint now evident in her sapphire blue eyes.

Tarifa's eyes flared angrily. She had always had long legs for her height, and she had spent hours upon hours toning and building her leg and ass muscles, until now she was regarded as having the finest ass of any High Elf alive. The hours of training also gave her legs incredible strength, and with a savage glint in her eyes she locked them around the small of the back of the elf male raping her. His eyes went wide when he felt the painful pressure in his back and he looked down into her face and saw not the humiliated Queen of the High Elves, but the fanged snarl of a hellion.

“NEVER,” Tarifa growled, clenching her stomach muscles and squeezing her legs even tighter.

“What... what are you doing?” The man gasped, his face now filled with pain.

“Killing you dog,” Tarifa growled again, wrenching her arms free of his grasp and reaching up to rake his face with her nails.

Tarifa never had a chance to complete the action her mind was intent on conducting, and her eyes widened when she saw the Alliance assassin appear behind him. The assassin grinned savagely as he gazed upon her.

“She seems to be too much for you elf.” He spoke with a chuckle.

Tarifa’s eyes went even further when she heard the new screams from the other rooms, only these screams were not coming from her soldiers. She saw the Alliance assassin’s eyes widen and he turned quickly, only to stagger back just as quickly. When his body turned she understood why. Protruding from his misshapen head was the black hilt of a strange looking knife. It was firmly imbedded in the assassin’s skull and had killed him instantly.

Tarifa’s eyes grew even wider when she saw the black clad apparition appear behind the male elf who was still attempting to unlock the death grip her legs had on him. He was attired in black from head to toe, the only thing visible were his gleaming dark brown eyes. Tarifa watched as if events were in slow motion as he reached forward, grabbed the male elf above her by his jaw and the back of his head, and twisted viciously. There was almost no effort as Tarifa heard the snapping of the traitors’ neck.

Tarifa rolled to the right as the howl filled the room, dragging the body of the now dead officer with her as another Alliance Assassin charged the black apparition from behind. Tarifa watched as the man, it had to be a man, moved with speed unlike anything she had ever witnessed. He dropped into a crouch as the Assassin swung the heavy blood stained blade, and the assassin lost his footing when his blade connected with nothing but air. The black apparition straightened up to his full height, which had to be over six feet by Tarifa’s estimate, and snapped out with a powerful kick that connected to the assassin’s knee. She winced as she heard bone crunch and pop, and she watched as the apparition stepped in closer to the falling assassin and hit him with the heel of his palm directly in the chest area. Tarifa again winced as the blow crunched more bones and caused the assassin to stumble back.

“I smelled you coming from a mile away you ugly motherfucker!” The apparition spoke now, his hand filling with the strange looking hand gun. Tarifa heard two shots, both of the rounds from the K12 pistol striking the assassin between the eyes with deadly precision.

Tarifa managed to extract the dead elf from her body and was now staring at the man as he turned back to her. She watched his deep brown eyes gaze upon her lush naked figure with absolutely no emotion before he leaned down and picked up her uniform from the floor where it had come off in her roll. He stepped up to her and squatted down, his eyes never leaving her face she noticed.

Martin reached up and pulled the nomex hood back, letting it drop and dangle behind his shoulders. He heard Tarifa gasp and returned his eyes to her, being very careful not to gawk at her completely naked and utterly divine body. He let his eyes gaze upon her face, focusing mainly on her incredible ears, and the tattoo on her neck, which looked to be identical in every way to the tattoo he wore on the back of his shoulder. Though one of her ears was stained with blood from the blow to her head, they looked very real, and very delicious. Martin shook that thought from his head, surprised at where it had come from, but he reached out slowly to try and touch her uninjured ear. With reflexes he didn’t anticipate Tarifa slapped his hand away and pushed back from him. Martin looked at her face again, taking in the incredible sapphire eyes gazing upon him with a mixture of fear and bewilderment. He inhaled deeply and detected the scent of fear wafting from her pores, along with what he determined was her normal scent. That was what he focused on, and burned into his brain. She smelled distinctly of peach, even amidst the smell of blood and death all around them. His eyes once more went back to the tattoo and wondered how she could possibly have the exact same tattoo as him.

Tarifa held her breath in her chest as this man gazed on her. He was very tall, and taking in the way his black uniform fit him, incredibly muscular. She had never seen eyes like his before, liquid pools of dark brown that caught and held her. His lips appeared soft and delicate and they were slightly parted allowing her to see the tips of his canine teeth, which had lengthened to almost three quarters of an inch. Tarifa gasped as he moved with the speed of a striking pit viper, far faster than any Elf she had ever seen, causing her to press back up against the wall, as his face came within an inch of her. She closed her eyes, fearing the worst, and heard him breathe deeply almost directly next to her ear, then moving to her throat where his lips grazed her skin. Her eyes popped back open when she felt his face move away and she watched him as he held out her uniform. He set it on the floor in front of her.

“Skipper...?” Julie’s voice interrupted Martin’s thoughts from his ear implant.

“Go!” Martin spoke.

“Boss... the fighting must have alerted the others. Another group of those ugly things is moving on your location. Looks like about twenty of them.”

“How long do we have?”

“They’ll be all over you in five minutes, tops.”

“Copy,” Martin looked at Tarifa. “More of these things are coming. I am not here to hurt you, but if you want to live you need to come with us.”

“Who... who are you?” Tarifa asked softly.

Martin smiled, “The good guys.” He withdrew his K12 from the holster, causing Tarifa to flinch a little, and he set it on top of her uniform on the floor. “It’s got sixteen shots left and it kicks a little. Pull yourself together and follow me.”

Martin turned quickly and headed into the other room.

Tarifa entered the next room clutching the pistol Martin had given her in her small hand. She stopped when she saw three others dressed like him standing to the side of the windows, and only nine of her soldiers left, four of them seriously wounded. All of her people were watching the much taller and muscled members of Martin’s team, to include the brown haired female with fear and something akin to awe. Even Tarifa had to admit what she had seen was unbelievable. They had cut through a squad of Alliance assassins like a sickle through wheat.

“Skipper we can’t stay here!” Danny spoke from the far window.

“Jules is there another entrance to the tunnel?” Martin asked quickly, Tarifa looking at him oddly.

“There’s an emergency hatch eighty meters to your east!” Julie answered into his question. “Better hurry Skipper.”

Martin turned to Tarifa. “We need to go.” He spoke.

“Who are you?” Tarifa asked him again.

Martin stepped up to her, towering over her five foot nine height by a good six inches. “You have a choice. Stay here and die, or come with us. Make it now. We’re leaving.”

It really was no choice at all and Tarifa nodded her head. The reason why she felt she could trust this man escaped her, but for the moment it didn’t matter. They were no match for Alliance Assassins without these strange men and women.

“My wounded... I can not...” Tarifa began to ask, but seeing Martin and the others in his team pick up the four seriously wounded Elves stopped her. Martin met her questioning eyes.

“We don’t leave anyone behind.” He spoke. “Let’s go.”

Martin stood next to the ventilation shaft entrance disguised to look like a water fountain. The pool around the smashed fountain was filled with rancid water, the stench nearly unbearable. Julie had slid the large fountain aside by computer command from the control room, had already unlocked the hatch. Now, Danny and Trina were on the floor of the tunnel below helping as Ben and Martin lowered down the injured Elves as quickly as possible. Once all four of them were down, the other Elves simply began to jump into the hatch and drop the thirty feet to the tunnel below.

“Shit Skipper hurry up!” Julie’s voice sounded calm but Martin could detect the urgency. “They’ve cleared the building you were in and are spreading out to search. Two of them are heading right for you! Twenty meters and closing from the west!”

Martin looked at Tony and Tarifa watched as he used silent hand signals to communicate. Her small hand clutched the pistol, her keen eyes looking into the darkness for the approaching Assassins. She turned back to look at Martin but he was gone, as was the other of his unit. Her eyes met the lone female elf on the other side of the entrance, her weapon clutched in her hands. She shrugged in shock and exhaustion. Tarifa looked back out into the darkness when she heard the muted grunts, and her eyes caught the shapes of two others approaching. She brought up the K12 ready to fire, but her eyes widened when Martin and Tony appeared dragging the corpses of two assassins with them.

Her eyes were wide as she gazed from the dead bodies back to Martin.

“We can’t leave them to announce where we disappeared to can we?” He spoke, seeing her questioning look. “Danny, there’s dead meat coming down!” Tarifa watched him effortlessly haul the dead assassin into the air and drop the body into the hatch. Tony did the same with similar ease, and then he snatched the remaining female elf’s arm, gathered her close to his body and leaped into the hatchway.

“You like rides?” Martin asked pulling Tarifa to her feet.

“Rides... what... what do you mean?”

Martin gathered her into his embrace before she realized what was happening, and he stepped off into the darkness of the hatch.

Danny watched as first Martin landed on the tunnel floor and then the female with the long black hair. “Close it up Jules.” He spoke into his mic.

Martin looked at Tarifa, who had pushed away from him during their controlled fall, and landed with the grace and agility of a cat two feet from him. Martin watched her waver for a second, and he reached out to catch her as her eyes rolled up into her head and she passed out. His hand came away from the side of her head coated with her blood, her head wound from earlier obviously worse than she had expected. That she had made it this far without collapsing was incredible.

Martin turned to Danny who read his thoughts and pointed to the three Hummers coming down the tunnel at them.

“Our rides here Skipper.” He said.

Martin lifted Tarifa’s body into his arms as if she weighed nothing, and he got into the front of the Hummer, holding her close to him as the others got loaded.

The infirmary was not that large due to the hospital that was located on the air base not too far away. It was more a trauma center that could stabilize patients before moving them. There were six beds in the center, and five of them were now occupied. Anja had been able to set up what equipment she had brought, as well as clean up the infirmary to make it at least presentable. She had found plastic encased sheets for the beds, and after cleaning up as much as the dust as she could, she now had patients in the beds.

Martin stood with her by the door to the infirmary, the others watching from outside the glass window.

“They’re going to survive.” Anja told him. “All of them. Their wounds are healing rapidly, almost as if they have an accelerated healing system like you and the other genomes. Even the female with the torn up side will heal.”

Martin waved his hand by his ear looking at Tarifa on the bed “And what about the ears?” He asked.

Anja smiled. “They are very real.”

“You want to explain that to me.” Martin said.

“I can explain it with two words.” Anja told him, “Genetic Engineering.”

Martin looked at her wide eyed. “You mean they were made?” He spoke.

Anja nodded. “I ran some quick tests on the blood I drew from them. The results indicate that all of them are second or third generation and the high levels of red blood cells indicate they were born normally, but they all stem from genetic engineering.”

“So you’re saying that someone made them after the world fell apart?” Martin asked. “Who the hell would make Elves?”

“In many ways they are similar to you and the rest of the Team, albeit not on as large a scale.” Anja spoke. “Enhanced musculature structure, enhanced senses and reflexes. Look at them Martin, they’re all beautiful, even the men. I think they were designed for a purpose.” She said looking at him.

“They were made as slaves?” Martin asked knowing what she was hinting at.

Anja shrugged. "Anything is possible, but based on the scars I've seen on a few of them, and the transmissions we were picking up, I wouldn't be surprised." She said. "We really don't know anything about what is happening now, and so far from what we've seen it doesn't look very nice."

"Yeah I'll agree with you on that one, but who would make them to be slaves? That seems very... cruel." He said shaking his head. "I had Tony bring the bodies of the two uglies we dropped down the tunnel. And the other Elves that weren't injured are in the galley eating all of our rations. They love the things. Think you can take a look at them too?"

Anja nodded. "I'll finish up here and take a look. They'll be waking up soon at the rate their bodies are healing, what do we tell them?" She looked at him.

"I have no idea." Martin replied.

"Have you contacted the Admiral?"

Martin shook his head. "He's going to be pissed, that much I know. That's why I want to have as much information as we can get before I talk to him."

"I'll do what I can." She told him. Martin nodded and looked at her intently. Anja returned his gaze evenly. "What?"

"I'm not so dense as to not remember what you smell like Anja. I can smell you all over both Danny and Julie. And your scent is all over them." He said softly, watching her face.

"Martin... I... it's very hard to explain. I..."

"Anja," He spoke as he stepped up close to her, his musky mint smell very prominent in the enclosed space and it surprised Anja that she would be able to detect it so easily. "They... they are like family to me Anja. Please... I just don't want to see them hurt."

Anja met his eyes with and nodded. "Martin... I did not mean to hurt you. I was frightened by what you were."

Martin looked at her and smiled. "You don't know the half of it." He told her. "Just be sure this is what you want."

"What... what do you want?" Anja asked him.

Martin met her stunning jade green eyes. "I want you and them to be happy." He replied softly.

"What about you?" Anja asked.

"What I want is irrelevant." He told her.

Anja nodded slowly. "I am sure Martin." She said softly; regret filling her at what Martin did not say.

"Good." Martin said. "Then I won't mention it again. Get those reports to me as soon as you can."

Anja nodded as she watched Martin walk out and she turned to walk over to Tarifa's bedside. The stunning young female elf stirred and her eyes fluttered for a moment, but remained closed. Anja moved back to the counter and began running another test and didn't see Kevin come into the infirmary.

Kevin stood in the doorway, his eyes wide as he gazed upon the sleeping forms of the elves on the medical beds. He came fully into the room and Anja saw him then and turned.

"Kevin what are you doing in here?" She asked getting to her feet.

"I didn't believe it when I saw the others." Kevin spoke. "But it's really true. They are elves."

"Kevin you need to leave." Anja told him as he came closer to Tarifa's form, his eyes hungry at the way the sheet clung to her body.

"I heard you talking to Hunter." He said. "So someone made them to be slaves' huh?"

"You were spying on me?" Anja asked angrily.

Kevin looked from Tarifa to the other female elf and shook his head. "They... they all have the perfect model body, did you notice that?"

Anja rolled her eyes. "No Kevin, they were injured; it wasn't the first thing that came to mind. You really need to leave now."

Kevin looked at her, "Why Anja? Why are you so eager to get rid of me?"

"You shouldn't be in here. These people are injured and..."

"Elves," Kevin spoke.

Anja stopped. "What?"

“They aren’t people, they are Elves.” Kevin told her, turning to look at Tarifa’s sleeping form again. Anja knew what she saw in those eyes and she didn’t like it one bit. She stepped forward and got between him and the bed.

“You will leave now.” She told him more forcefully.

“Or you’ll do what?” Kevin asked with a smirk.

Anja’s hand closed around the butt of the K12 in her thigh holster, and her eyes took on a decidedly evil glare to them; a glare that Kevin had never seen before. “If you do not leave right now Kevin, I will physically toss you out of my clinic onto your pathetic ass!”

Kevin gazed at her in surprise. “Where is this coming from?” He asked. “We’re engaged Anja, you can’t treat me like this.”

Anja smiled at him. “No... we are no longer engaged Kevin. And you and your father will no longer get to fuck me whenever you want. We are done; finished; kaput!” Anja dug into her pocket for the ring she had worn up until a few hours ago. She flipped it at him, watching as he caught it awkwardly.

“It’s that black genome bitch and her boyfriend isn’t it?” Kevin spoke. “I’ve seen you talking to them! You were getting real close to them.”

Anja smiled. “You have no idea how close I’ve gotten to them.” She told him.

Kevin’s eyes grew wide. “You’ve... you’ve fucked them?” He asked incredulously. “You actually let them touch you?”

Anja smiled sweetly. “Not only touch me.” She said. “They fucked me senseless! Something you are incapable of doing. And I can’t wait to have Danny’s big black cock stuffing my pussy again; all the while I’m happily slurping away at Julie’s tight cunt!”

“That’s... that’s disgusting!” Kevin hissed.

“Maybe to you... but you don’t matter anymore.” Anja told him. “Now I’ll give you five seconds to turn your sorry ass around and get out of here.”

“Or what...?” Kevin barked. “You’ll have your new boyfriend come in and beat me up?” Kevin’s eyes grew wide when he was suddenly looking down the barrel of Anja’s K12 only an inch from his tip of his nose.

“He won’t have to.” Anja spoke coolly. “There won’t be anything left of you to beat up after I blow your fucking brains all over the wall behind you.”

Kevin Graham was only a bully when he could brow beat a person. The only reason he was able to treat Anja as he had the last few years was because of his father. He knew without a doubt that not only could she kick his skinny ass with ease, but he also knew she had killed before in a very cold blooded means. And looking at her now, he had no doubts she wouldn’t hesitate to kill him.

“This... this isn’t over Anja.” He said.

“Oh yes it is Kevin.” She told him.

Kevin glared at her but he turned slowly and left the infirmary. Anja exhaled deeply in relief, but she was proud of herself. She would have done exactly what she threatened Kevin she would do. Anja holstered her K12 and turned slowly to look at Tarifa. She saw her eyes flutter quickly and Anja smiled.

“He’s gone; you can stop pretending you are asleep.” Anja said.

Tarifa opened her dazzling sapphire eyes and looked at Anja as she sat up slowly holding the sheet to her naked breasts. She looked at Anja, who simply stared right back at her.

“Where... where am I?” She asked.

“You are safe.” Anja said, putting her hand on the young woman’s bare shoulder.

“Who are you? What is this place?” Tarifa shot the questions out rapid fire, and Anja smiled gently.

“I will answer as many questions as I can, but right now you need to calm down.” Anja told her. “No one is going to hurt you.”

“You are human!” Tarifa snapped, glaring at her. “Why should I believe you?”

Anja was somewhat taken aback, and she took her hand away. “I don’t know, perhaps because we are the ones that saved your life, and the lives of your friends.”

Tarifa’s eyes softened a little, and her face lost most of its hardness. “Forgive me.” She said quietly. “Our dealings with humans have not been so friendly in the past. Where... where are you from, the Western settlement?”

Anja looked at her. "Excuse me, the Western Settlement? What is that?"

"It is the largest city of humans on this side of the Big River. They are not part of the Alliance and maintain their independence from them." Tarifa spoke looking at Anja oddly. "How can you not know that?"

"I think you might be surprised at what we don't know." Anja spoke. "You... you don't get along with them I take it?"

Tarifa looked at her strangely, seeing how Anja was gazing at her "You... you have never seen one of us before?" She asked. "How is that possible? Elves make up over sixty percent of all the slaves on the planet. How is it you have never seen one of us?"

"That's a long story." Anja replied. "A very long story. Who were those creatures after you?"

"They were Alliance Cadre Assassins." Tarifa replied. "They are the most lethal of all the Alliance troops; pure killing machines." Tarifa looked at Anja, her eyes wide as if she had just remembered something. "That man... he... he killed two of them so easily. The others finished the rest. How... how is that possible? No Elf has the strength or speed to stand with an Alliance Cadre Assassin and live, let alone a human. How is that possible? Who are you people?"

"Perhaps you should get dressed." Anja said. "I cleaned up your uniforms as best I could. It might be easier to let you see and then try to explain."

"...out of your mind?" Admiral Wallace nearly yelled. "Marty this is a major fuck up."

Martin winced outwardly as he watched the Admiral on the monitor. He got up and paced his office, which he was in alone thankfully.

"Admiral I couldn't stand by and watch while they were slaughtered." Martin told him. "Whatever those things were, they would have torn through them like they weren't there."

"Elves...?" Wallace spoke, shaking his head. "This just keeps getting better and better." He returned to his chair. "We've been intercepting communications from something called the Alliance. From what we've been able to figure out, they seem to be the ruling government. We've intercepted video transmissions from some of the cities as well. They're talking about slave auctions and brothels, all having to do with these elves. And some other really nasty shit that I won't get into now."

"So they are the government?" Martin asked.

Wallace nodded. "It appears so. You should have seen the look on Graham's face when he found that out. I thought the man was going to blow a load in his shorts. He demanded I arrange for him to contact these people."

"Jesus, I hope you told him to go sit on a fucking screw sir!" Martin replied, coming forward in his chair. "Whoever these people are, they are some seriously deranged and cruel individuals if what we are hearing and have seen is any indication. There's a large force of these Alliance morons combing the air base as we speak. Some of the elves that weren't hurt in the attack told me they've been enslaving elves for decades."

"They have been doing it for centuries." The female voice spoke, causing everyone in the room to turn around.

Anja stood with the female elf that appeared to be the leader. She wore her uniform, and though Anja had been able to remove the blood and dirt from it, there were still several tears in the fabric. Martin looked quickly at the cleavage of her firm breasts, as well as the smooth skin of her flat muscular abdomen. His eyes took all this in within seconds and then his eyes went to her face. Her sapphire eyes were very bright, and looking directly at him.

"Admiral... this is... this is the leader of the group we stumbled across." Martin spoke.

"My name is Tarifa." She spoke confidently. "I am Queen of the High Elves."

Martin nodded and turned back to the screen. "She's Queen of the High Elves Admiral." He spoke.

"You are mocking me." Tarifa snapped, glaring at Martin.

Martin met her defiant gaze and shook his head. "I apologize if it seems that way, but a lot has happened to us the last few days, and it's all quite a bit to take in."

"Who are you people?" Tarifa demanded. She noticed that while Martin's canine teeth were slightly longer than normal humans she had met, they did not have the length that she had seen during the fighting.

“That would be exceptionally hard to explain young lady.” Wallace spoke from EDEN. “I can assure you though; we are not your enemies.”

“So you say.” Tarifa spoke almost arrogantly. “You are humans, why should I trust you?”

Martin looked at her, his gaze hardening slightly. “Gee, maybe because we just saved your asses!” He exclaimed.

“Do not speak to the Queen in such a way!” The second female elf appeared, moving up next to Tarifa.

“Great!” Martin spoke shaking his head. “Another country heard from.”

Tarifa held up her hand to the young woman. Voilal, they know nothing of our ways. She said in her native elfin language.

We should not trust them my Queen. They are human barbarians. They could be waiting to turn us over to the Alliance Assassins. Your capture would make them very wealthy my Queen.

Martin’s eyes went wide when he realized he understood every word they had just spoken, and he noticed Danny and Julie visibly react as well.

“I do not lie!” Martin snapped, causing Tarifa and the young woman to look at him in stunned surprise, as well as everyone else in the room with the exception of Danny and Julie.

“Marty... you understood them?” Wallace asked in shock.

“I understood every word Admiral.” Martin spoke, his eyes never leaving Tarifa’s stunned face.

“So did I sir.” Dan spoke up now.

“Me too,” Julie spoke

“They think we are lying to them Admiral.” Martin spoke, his eyes locked on Tarifa. “And that we are barbarians. That was a good one by the way; very original. They think we are going to turn them over to these Alliance idiots.”

“Marty this isn’t helping?” Julie spoke up from next to Danny.

Martin looked at her and took a deep breath. “Admiral I’m going to check on the status of the overheads. I’m sure you and the Queen here have much to discuss.”

“Young lady, if you don’t mind taking a seat. Marty we are back on a regular rotation it seems, and we have two hours nineteen minutes before we pass to the dark side. We won’t be able to contact you until you are enroute back here.” Wallace spoke. “Your extraction is still on schedule?”

Martin nodded. “Yes sir.”

Wallace nodded. “Then we’ll see you in twenty hours.”

Martin watched as Tarifa moved to the chair in front of the smaller screen to speak with Admiral Wallace.

“You alright Skipper?” Dan asked stepping over to him.

Martin nodded slowly. “This is a lot to absorb Dan.” He said.

“You got that right.” Dan spoke. “How do we know what the hell they were speaking? It didn’t sound like any language I’ve heard before, and between the three of us we speak ten of them.

“I don’t know, but the sooner we are out of here the better.” Martin muttered as he headed for the landing pad. “This place is starting to give me a headache.”

Marcus stood in the room, his cruel eyes taking in the carnage that had taken place. One assassin lay in the middle of the floor, the gaping hole in his forehead leaking whatever they had for brains onto the floor. Marcus knew it was a bladed weapon, but the strength to strike it through the reinforced bone plates of the assassin’s head had to be tremendous. The second assassin was slumped against the wall, very little remaining of its head. The right knee looked horribly twisted in another direction, his senior officer inspecting the body. The male elf informant was also dead, his head nearly torn from his body, his eyes open in pain and death and facing almost completely behind him. His pants were tangled around his ankles, exposing his shrunken male organ for all to see.

The next room was no better, as the bodies of Elf warriors and the remaining assassins were scattered all over. The Elves had fought well, but the assassins had cut through them easily. However, whoever had killed the Alliance assassins were not Elves, this much Marcus knew.

He watched as his senior officer rose and looked at the medical data pad before turning and walking over to him.

“It is most unusual Colonel Marcus.” He spoke.

“I’m sure it is.” Marcus spoke. “The Elves did not do this.”

The man looked at him. “No my Colonel Marcus they did not. This assassin’s entire chest cavity has been shattered. Medical scans indicate every rib and his whole breast bone were broken with a single blow. The bone splinters shredded all of his internal organs. The bullet to his head was not necessary.”

Marcus bent over the male elf that had been raping Tarifa. “The condition of this male elf’s body indicates he was killed with a great deal of rage. The fool was actually trying to rape the Queen when he was killed. I knew we should not have trusted him.”

“Our patrols can find no trace of the remaining elves Colonel. And two of the Alliance assassins that we sent in the second wave have disappeared.” The man reported.

Marcus stood back up and cocked his head to the side, “Interesting.” He spoke.

“Colonel...?”

“Their bodies were taken.” Marcus said turning to look out the broken window as the sun began to rise over the mountains. “Whoever killed these Assassins must have taken the bodies to cover any escape route they were using. The two missing assassins must have stumbled upon their means of leaving the ruins, and they were killed. It is a tactic I would have used.”

“Your orders Colonel Marcus...?”

“They will not be within the ruins.” Marcus spoke. “And given the ability of the Elves, and the way they can move, I would surmise they are long gone from here.”

“Yes Colonel.”

“Order our forces to withdraw to the west and set up an advanced base.” Marcus said. “We will rest there until full morning and then we will return to the capital.”

“You do not wish to pursue the Queen Colonel?” The Captain asked surprised.

“To what purpose...?” Marcus asked softly. “We are in High Elf territory, and their forces would conduct hit and run attacks against us until they whittled us down to nothing. Trapping her here was the best chance we had, but this idiot thought more with his dick than his brains.” He kicked the body of the male elf savagely. “We will have other chances. She can not hide forever, and if our Alliance with the Wood Elves is ratified, she will be dead in a few months.”

“We make an Alliance with the Wood Elves Colonel Marcus?” The Captain asked. “Why?”

“We have been pitting them against each other for years.” Marcus replied with a smile. “The Ministers have been very clever. We’ve conducted raids against both tribes and insured the other was implicated. The Wood Elves are worthy soldiers Captain, and there has always been a culture of mistrust between the two factions. We are just getting the help of the stronger of the two tribes for a time. When we have destroyed Tarifa and her followers, we can turn on the Wood Elves.”

The Colonel grinned. “And then we will enslave them Colonel?”

Marcus matched the smile, “Of course. No one stands against the Alliance for long, no matter how strong they are; no one.”

Tarifa sat in the galley of EDEN Ground Control with the remaining members of her detachment. She had spoken with the human officer Admiral Wallace, for nearly two hours, and to say she had come away very confused and even more suspicious would be a complete understatement. She sat with her back against the wall, her knees pulled up to her chest as the others of her detachment faded in and out of much deserved sleep. Tarifa however could not bring herself to close her eyes, for every time she did she replayed the same scene in her head; her attempted rape by the betrayer in her detachment and the subsequent rescue by the one she now knew as Martin.

The Admiral had told her that Martin had disobeyed his orders to remain unseen to rescue her and her troops. And in the few moments immediately after he had killed the second Alliance Assassin, Tarifa had been completely exposed for his eyes to see. Yet those eyes had never left her face for a moment. Tarifa remembered when he had pounced so fast she could not follow his movements and gotten so close to her she could feel his lips graze her throat, and even in that moment of terror, the touch of his lips on her skin had sent shivers through her.

Tarifa got to her feet slowly and after glancing at her sleeping soldiers she made her way out into the corridor. She followed it as she had earlier and came to the control room where she saw the dark skinned woman sitting at the console.

Julie didn't turn her head from the monitor, but she smelled Tarifa enter the room. "Are you going to stand there, or sit down?" Julie spoke.

"Forgive me." Tarifa spoke.

Julie turned and looked at her now. "Forgive you for what? I smelled you coming down the corridor sweetie. I'm just monitoring the action going on top side."

Tarifa came forward slowly, "Action?" She asked.

Julie nodded. "It seems the troops that entered the base after we snatched you and your friends are pulling back to the west." She explained.

Tarifa looked surprised. "They are leaving?"

"That's what it looks like." Julie replied. "We'll continue to monitor their movements, but they didn't leave anyone on the base that I can detect."

Tarifa lowered herself into the seat next to Julie. "I did not think Marcus would give up so easily." She spoke.

"Marcus?" Julie asked.

Tarifa looked at her. "He is a senior Commander in the Alliance; a cruel vicious man. I was his prisoner once, many years ago. I escaped. He relishes the day he captures me once more."

"Doesn't sound like a very nice guy?" Julie said.

"He is not." Tarifa replied. "He is a monster, just like those he commands." She watched Julie for a long moment, saying nothing. Julie finally turned to her with a smile.

"If you have something to ask, go ahead and ask." Julie spoke.

"You... you are not like your Admiral Wallace." Tarifa said.

"What do you mean?" Julie asked her, turning in her chair.

"Elves... all elves have increased visual insight. Humans... normal humans are seen by elves with a specific aura surrounding them; an aura that is light green in color. Your aura and that of your comrades is different." Tarifa explained to her. "It is darker, more earth tone in color. You and the others are not completely human like the red haired female."

Julie shook her head. "No we aren't." She said. "We are commonly referred to as Genomes. Ten of us here and another forty-two on EDEN were genetically engineered as soldiers. There was once thousands of us, but some issues came up with how we were created, and now we are all that is left."

"And that man... the tall one, he is your leader?" Tarifa asked.

Julie smiled. "You mean Marty? Yes."

Tarifa pointed to Julie's teeth. "Your teeth are similar to his, only not as long. Why is that?"

"When we were engineered, all of us had a very small portion of animal DNA fused with our cells. That DNA gave us our enhanced senses, speed and strength. One of the side effects was the teeth." Julie spoke grinning. "In moments of extreme emotion, they tend to lengthen, but for the most part they stay the same size. That animal was a wolf."

"And the one you... he is your mate?" Tarifa asked.

Julie chuckled. "Danny? I guess you could call him my mate in a manner of speaking."

"And your leader... what of him," Tarifa asked.

"The same as the rest of us, though I think they added large and grouchy traits to his mix." Julie answered with a laugh. "That's why he's always so grumpy."

Tarifa found herself smiling at the infectious attitude of this young woman. Julie leaned forward in her chair.

"Listen... we have been through a lot the last few days." Julie told her. "We are still trying to come to grips with the fact that we've come nearly five hundred years into the future. Everything, everyone we knew is gone. Just like that. Add to that, we come here to discover that there is a new species on the planet we called home, a species that in our time lived only in legend and myth. It's quite a bit to absorb. Martin is not usually as ill tempered as he is now. And you could stand to not be so arrogant yourself you know."

Tarifa sighed softly. "It is a trait that was passed to me by my grandmother, and one that I can't seem to get rid of. I do not like that part of myself, but when you are Queen to over nine million High Elves across the planet, it is a part that I need."

Julie nodded slowly. "Well I can understand that." She said. "I can also say that taking that tact with Martin is the short trip straight to his bad side. He disobeyed orders to come to help you, and I'll tell you something else." She waited until Tarifa was looking directly at her. "Martin has disobeyed orders only one other time in his life, and that was to save the lives of men he knew. I don't know why he decided to help you, but you obviously have some sort of pull on him."

"I do not understand how?" Tarifa spoke. "I do not know him, and I do not consider him to be an equal. He is nothing more than a soldier... perhaps a very good one, but a soldier none the less." Tarifa knew immediately that she had said the wrong thing.

Julie shook her head. "And that is why he doesn't like your tight ass!" She spoke forcefully. "Maybe you ought to consider that if it wasn't for him, you would still be getting raped by your boyfriend, and then gang banged by all of his friends, and maybe even worse. You know something, you may be drop dead gorgeous, but you don't have a lick of common sense about you. You don't know us! And we don't know you! But as far as I can tell, the only one judging anyone here is you!" Julie got to her feet.

Tarifa came to her feet as well, her face angry. "You have no right to talk to me that way! You know nothing of my people or me, or our... or our ways!" Tarifa snapped.

Julie nodded. "You're right about that. And so far I'm not impressed."

"I don't... I don't know him..." Tarifa spoke, her face a mass of confusion now. "Our... our law dictates I must... reward him for saving my life."

Julie looked at her. "That's why you are being such a bitch? You have to give him a reward?"

Tarifa shook her head. "You don't understand. I do not have a mate... therefore I must reward him... by allowing him to... allowing him to bed me."

Julie's eyes grew large. "Excuse me?"

"Our laws dictate that if the life of an unmarried Queen is saved by an individual, a man, she must allow that man to take her for a night." Tarifa explained.

"You're kidding right?"

Tarifa shook her head. "I wish I was. Several of my party has already asked if I planned on going through with it. They are younger like me, and do not agree with many of the laws that have been in place for centuries. Many of those laws were put in place to insure that our race never died completely, as barbaric as some of them seem. I have tried to change many laws, but my efforts have only been partly successful. As long as the Council of our Elders has as much sway over our people as they do, the old ways will continue."

"And that is why you act the way you do around the Skipper?" Julie said.

Tarifa nodded slowly. "He... he frightens me." She said softly, looking at her. "In... in the room, right after he killed Paler, the elf who was raping me, I was... I was exposed to him, yet his eyes never left my face. His eyes... I've never seen eyes like his. They were so expressive... so savage. He got close to me... so close to me... I thought he was going to hurt me... but he only took a deep breath. I still do not understand what happen, but in my experience... men do not just dismiss a naked female elf. We were made... we were made to be the ultimate pleasure slave for humans. It simply is not done. Men can not resist us."

Julie smiled. "Martin isn't just any man Tarifa." She said. "And as you have noticed, he is not totally human either."

"That is what frightens me." Tarifa said.

"Listen, why don't you just talk to him?" Julie told her. "You might be surprised at what you find. And I know for a fact that he will not do anything to you, regardless of what your law says."

"You sound so sure of that." Tarifa asked.

"I am." Julie replied. "Trust me on this. He's right down that corridor in the landing pad. Go talk to him."

"You will allow me to walk freely?" Tarifa asked.

“Why not? You are not prisoners here, and I’m too tired to guard you even if you were.” Julie answered. “Right that way. Now if you’ll excuse me, I’m going to grab some shut eye.”

Tarifa entered the landing bay quietly, walking with her usual Elf ability to be very stealthy. She saw Martin working at a table against one wall of the bay, his back to her. Her eyes took in the large overhead doors that looked to be jammed open above the strange looking flying craft sitting quietly on the large pad. Tarifa was no stranger to flying machines, as the Alliance had many of them, but none looked as this one did. Most of the flying machines were used to hunt her and her people, but this machine looked much more deadly.

Tarifa stopped where she was and continued to gaze at Martin. He had unzipped his uniform, and the top portion was now loosely tied around his waist. He wore a black tank top, and even from where she stood, Tarifa could see the definition of the muscles in his arms and shoulders. She was also able to see the lines of tattooed flame that extended from under the shirt, down his arms and across his shoulders. He was so unlike the male elves and other human men she had seen. The male elves were lean, but no where near as heavily muscled and the majority of the humans she had seen were in relatively good shape but nothing like the sort of body Martin had. Tarifa could remember the books she had read as a child, and the bodies of the ancient gods, and as she gazed at Martin that is what she saw. The most perfect male body she had ever seen in her life. And for the first time in her life, Tarifa felt a powerful sexual rush of warmth pass between her thighs as she gazed at a man.

Tarifa heard a man’s voice echo within the bay, and an older human walked down the ramp of the flying machine. He said something to Martin who spoke back to him. Tarifa watched the human then walk underneath the flying machine inspecting something under one of the short wings.

“You don’t have to hide in the shadows.” The voice said from next to her, causing Tarifa to yelp and whirl around, her hands coming up defensively. Her eyes went wide when she saw Martin standing only three feet from her.

“By the gods,” She gasped.

“Sorry about that.” Martin told her sheepishly. “I tend to walk rather softly.”

“Softly...?” Tarifa exclaimed. “More like a ghost.” Tarifa exclaimed.

“I smelled you the moment you came into the bay.” Martin said. “I would prefer you didn’t hide in the shadows. You look much better in the light.”

Tarifa looked at him with surprise in her eyes as he motioned to the table he had been standing next to working at. “I... I did not mean to disturb you.” She told him.

Martin shook his head. “You’re not disturbing me.” He said. “I was actually going to find you and apologize to you for the way I acted. We’ve had to deal with a lot the last few days, as I’m sure Admiral Wallace told you.”

“He thinks very highly of you.” Tarifa spoke as they reached the table.

Martin nodded and he pulled out the stool for her next to the table. “We’ve been working together for quite a while now.” He said as Tarifa sat down, her eyes never leaving his face. He was very easy to look at, as he was the most beautiful man she had ever seen. His features were solid and strong; his skin was deeply tanned, very similar to hers. His cheeks were starting to show a five o’clock shadow of growth that Tarifa found so appealing in men. Male elves never had facial hair unless they had it grafted on later in their lives, and to Tarifa it was something unique and sometimes incredibly soft. And Martin’s facial growth appeared to be at the incredibly soft stage. It was his eyes that Tarifa found so fascinating. Looking into them was like staring into a primeval forest that was daring you to enter and discover its forbidden secrets and pleasures.

And it’s most horrible dangers.

“What can I do for you?” Martin asked her.

Tarifa had to shake her head to clear her thoughts, which were decidedly un-Queen like as she had been imagining herself wrapped around Martin’s body and screaming in perverse delight.

“Hmmm... I’m sorry, what?”

Martin smiled. “What can I do for you?” He said again. “You wanted something?”

Tarifa looked at him, waves of feelings she had never before experienced washing over her. “I... I came to offer... I came to offer my apology.” She finally was able to blurt out.

“Well... that hurt didn’t it?” Martin said.

“My manner can be a bit terse at times.” Tarifa replied, not able to look at him.

“I’m guessing as Queen you don’t have to say you are sorry very often huh?” Martin said, looking at her.

The way he said that caused Tarifa to look at him. His words were not spoken in a hostile or aggressive tone, but one more of questioning. She shook her head slowly. “No.” She answered finally.

Martin had to grip the side of the bench he was standing next to in order to keep from taking the breathtaking elfin beauty in his arms and conquering her being. Tarifa was stirring sensations inside him that only Anja had been able to conjure, and it took every bit of will power Martin had to not let his animal instincts overwhelm him. Her peach scent was flooding his brain, and driving him nearly crazy with lust, and the way her sapphire eyes gazed on him made it even worse.

Unknown to Martin he was having almost the same effect on Tarifa, as she had suddenly become very warm, and her pussy was becoming wetter by the minute as she sat so close to him. The way his eyes gazed on her with a loving hunger caused shivers to course through her body. No man had ever looked at her as he did.

Martin took a deep breath and turned to the table in front of him. “I... I reworked some weapons from the armory for your people.” He spoke, motioning to the dozen HK74 assault rifles and K12 automatic pistols laid out on the table.

Turning away from her and telling her about the weapons saved both of them. Tarifa blinked her eyes several times as the sensations he had caused to course through her began to subside. “I’m sorry... what?”

“The weapons your people are carrying are not very good with stopping power or range.” He told her.

Tarifa took a deep breath and nodded. “We are only equipped with what we can buy from several human merchants and what we can steal. The Alliance has confiscated most of the other weapons, and they have factories to build more.” Tarifa told him. “The human settlement in the west has a massive armory, but what they ask for in exchange for weapons is too large a price to pay.”

Martin looked at her, “Slaves?” He asked.

Tarifa nodded. “They want female elves to work in their brothels and pleasure houses; something I am not willing to give them.” She answered.

“Good for you.” Martin spoke.

“You... you made these for us?” She asked, looking at him.

Martin nodded. “Did the Admiral invite you to EDEN?”

“You speak of your base on the moon? Yes he did.” Tarifa replied. “I’m sure it will be a site to see. I’ve looked into the stars many times at night and wondered if life existed off earth.”

Martin smiled gently. “I’ve asked myself that very question quite a few times.”

“Is the trip long?” Tarifa asked him, her eyes open wide in wonderment.

“Just under fourteen hours.” Martin answered. He looked at her, and seeing the way her eyes glowed in the dim light of the landing bay was too much for Martin.

Tarifa let out a soft female squeal when Martin lifted her into his arms, and covered her lips with his own. Her small hands went to his chest as his warm tongue drove past her lips to meet her own tongue in a blinding moment of delight. She felt a burning sensation ripple through her, as if every nerve in her body was lighting up, and her eyes closed slowly as she reveled in the blissful surges of pleasure that coursed through her. No man had ever kissed her before this moment, and Tarifa could not help the wetness that spread to her pussy. She was experiencing sensations that were unknown to her before now, all of them stemming from a kiss. Oh but what a kiss it was, as she clenched her fists in a fit of indecision on whether to wrap her arms around his shoulders and melt into his arms, or to beat him as hard as she could for taking her against her will.

Or was it against her will?

Martin made the decision for her. His eyes opened wide as he kissed her deeply, and he could smell her excitement. She did smell of peaches, and it was even sweeter smelling in her excitement, yet that was what triggered his mind to take over. He did not want to force himself on this stunningly beautiful woman, and if he allowed himself to swim in her scent any longer, the animal that he always kept in tight control would come out.

Martin took her face in his hands gently as he broke the kiss. He caressed the top ridge of her ear, tracing it up until it reached the point, drawing a sigh of bliss from Tarifa.

“I’m sorry.” He whispered.

Tarifa lowered herself onto the stool as she heard Martin leave the bay quickly. She could feel her drenched pussy even through her uniform, and she brought her fingers to her lips in shock. Her eyes were wide, not believing that a simple kiss had done this to her. She had come so close to responding to him with a wanton willingness that it frightened her. He had taken her breath away with a simple kiss, making her weak kneed and soaked between her thighs. She had never let any man kiss her before, as they usually smelled of alcohol or tobacco, yet Martin's tongue had tasted faintly of mint, and it had set her body ablaze.

Ben and Tina watched Tarifa from the ramp of the Raptor with large smiles on their faces.

"Wow! How come you don't kiss me like that?" Tina spoke with a mischievous smile.

Ben looked at her with a smile. "You mean the kind that leaves you weak kneed and dripping in anticipation?"

"Those are the ones."

Ben stepped over to her, pulling her close to him. "Then prepare yourself woman."

MEDICINE BOW MOUNTAINS NORTHERN COLORADO SEVENTY-SIX MILES NORTH OF DENVER

"We traveled only at night my Queen, to avoid detection." The male Elf officer spoke, bowing his head and reporting from one knee. "The Alliance forces pursued Queen Tarifa's forces from the battle in the North, while we escorted the Holy One here. Her senior Lieutenant met us with the Holy One, while the Queen's own unit led Marcus and his units to the south to cover our escape."

"She led these forces herself?" The female voice asked the tone of surprise clearly evident.

"It would appear that way my Queen." The male elf replied.

"You brought the Holy One here... but why?"

"I asked him too." Walter Carson spoke as he entered the cave chamber.

The chamber was large, and his voice carried a small distance, but the unmistakable tapping of his walking stick on the ground carried much further.

"Holy One," The female voice echoed quietly, and the long silky platinum blond hair of the Queen of the Wood Elves appeared from the shadows as she dropped to one knee.

As with Tarifa before him, Walter stepped up to her slowly and touched her head. "You need not bow to me Dysea."

The platinum hair didn't move. "You are the Holy One." She spoke softly.

Walter turned to the male elf that had been making his report and the three male guards near the entrance to the chamber. All of them had their heads bowed. "Leave us." He spoke as he moved to the small chair to the side of the glittering polished white marble throne chair. As he settled into the chair, he noticed they were finally alone. "Look at me Dysea." He spoke.

The platinum blond head came up, and Walter was looking into the deepest emerald green eyes he had ever seen. Dysea was Queen of the Wood Elves, and had been for over a century. She was born ten years before Tarifa, thus making them the closest in age of any ruling Queens before them. While Tarifa was a tanned dark haired goddess, Dysea was completely opposite with long flowing platinum blond hair that reached to the small of her back and softly tanned skin. Walter had to inwardly complement himself on the beauty that the female elves possessed. He had engineered them to be nearly irresistible to human men with their near perfect figures and seemingly submissive nature, but he knew that while the female elves were very submissive with the men they took as their mates, they were anything but submissive when it came to protecting those they cared for.

He had created the elves to be open in regards to their sexuality, not afraid to enter into relationships of any sort. He made them to be quite possibly the most sexually free species to ever inhabit the earth. He had not intended for them to be turned into slaves.

Dysea matched Tarifa's beauty in every way; they were just completely opposite in their looks. They were both the epitome of perfection, with the figures that drove human men mad with desire, and both Tarifa and Dysea had developed their leg and ass muscles to give them near perfect matching asses. Dysea wore a pure white dress that covered her shoulders and extended down her arms in sleeves, but from the fastened neck collar of the dress to just about mid way over her abdomen, she wore a black mesh like material that did nothing to hide the outline of her large and very firm 34C breasts. The dress had a thick white strip down the remaining portion of her abdomen that connected to the lower part of the dress that was nothing more than white panties and three floor length strips of white cloth. Her almost knee high white boots completed the very alluring outfit. While Tarifa was deeply tanned, Dysea was a beauty with only a light tan to her skin from her frequent trips to the surface.

Walter had to smile inwardly to himself once more. He had forgotten that the Wood Elves were much more open about their sexuality than the High Elves, even more so than he had intended them to be and the clothes they chose to wear reflected this.

“Your dealings with the Alliance will backfire on you.” Walter spoke.

Dysea’s green eyes flashed in surprise and she saw the man she knew only as the Holy One smile. “You... you know of our talks Holy One?”

“Did you think you could keep it from me child?” He asked in an amused tone. “I saw their representative basking in the attention of two elves in the next chamber when I arrived.”

Dysea’s mind was thinking quickly, but she could not come up with a statement before Walter smiled gently. “Tarifa and the High Elves are not your enemies Dysea. They are your sisters and brothers.”

“Holy One they raid and murder my people at any opportunity that arises!” Dysea countered with passion in her tone.

“The Alliance is turning you against them using lies and agents.” Walter told her. “You know as well as I that they want nothing but to enslave all elves to their whim. To be used in whatever manner they deem.”

Dysea nodded slowly. “Perhaps Holy One, but they will find that the Wood Elves are not so easily controlled and subjugated.”

Walter stood up slowly. “When I first created your ancestors, it was with the purpose of helping men; helping them to rebuild our shattered world. You could do things they could not, go places they could not. Your beauty and the beauty of your sisters and your brother elves were meant to inspire them and give them reasons to go on.” He shook his head. “Instead they enslaved you, and twisted my creations into monsters for their conquest. I do not want to see that happen to you nor any of the elves Dysea.”

Dysea got to her feet, standing to her full height of five foot seven, her platinum hair falling to the middle of her muscular and toned ass. “We would fight them to our dying breath Holy One.” She spoke.

Walter nodded. “Yes I know, but that is not what I want to see. It has already begun you know. They are hounding Tarifa and the High Elves mercilessly, hunting her and her people. When they are finished with them, they will come for you.”

“My pact with the Alliance will give us weapons and equipment that will allow us to fight them Holy One.” Dysea spoke.

“And in return, you will help them to destroy your brothers and sisters.” Walter spoke, turning to look at her. “Have you been raiding camps and murdering High Elves Dysea?”

Dysea looked at him wide eyed. “Certainly not Holy One! That is not something I would allow, regardless of what the Council of Elders desires!”

Walter nodded. “Ah yes, The Council of Elders.” He spoke returning to the chair. “Tarifa has the same problems with her Council of Elders. It seems that I made a mistake when I formed the governments of your societies. The Council of Elders for both you and Tarifa are part of the problem, and not part of the solution.”

“Yet they hold a large sway over my people Holy One.” Dysea spoke.

“So it would seem.” Walter spoke to himself. “I wonder why that is?”

“What do you mean Holy One?” Dysea asked, confused that he had not directed his last statement to her.

Walter met her gaze. “Events are changing Dysea.” He spoke, getting to his feet and walking up to her. He reached out and touched the tattoo on the side of her slim neck. “You bear a unique mark for a reason Dysea.” He said softly. “And soon you will discover two others with matching tattoos, and you will need to make decisions that you have never thought of. It will be those decisions that you and the others make that will decide the fate of the Elves and mankind. I ask that you explore what the Alliance has told you before proceeding further with your plans for a pact with them. Tarifa and the High Elves are not so different from you and the Wood Elves.”

Dysea snorted most unladylike. “Holy One they are beneath us! They smell different and they act different. They consider themselves above us in so many ways. The Wood Elves are much more expressive in everything we do, and the High Elves are repressive by their very nature.”

Walter smiled. “Do you know this to be true? Have you witnessed this yourself?”

Dysea paused for a long moment. “Well... no Holy One, but all the reports from the Council... and our scouts...”

“Are wrong,” Walter spoke flatly. He took her hands in his, causing Dysea to smile up at him with adoring eyes, the eyes of a child looking at their adored parent. “As I said, events are changing rapidly now. An individual has come to earth, another of my creations from a past long ago. He is a warrior unequaled Dysea, as are those that travel with him. Even your vaunted Wood Elf Rangers are but children to them. Tarifa has met him already; I can feel it. You must seek them out Dysea. Only the three of you will stand a chance of insuring that elves and all those that are enslaved will be free. Only the three of you can convince the humans not aligned with the Alliance that you are not possessions to be traded and sold like cattle. Only the three of you together stand a chance of changing the face of the world, as we know it. But you must seek him out.”

Dysea looked at him. “Holy One... do you suggest I leave and travel on the surface to find this strange man and the Queen of our rivals?”

Walter nodded. “Yes.” He told her. “If you do not, then all I have tried to build... all you have tried to build... will be lost forever under the boot heel of the Alliance.”

“The Council will never agree Holy One.” Dysea spoke. “You must know this.”

“I do. That is why I am coming with you, and why we must not tell them what you are doing.”

“You ask me to go against the will of the Council of Elders?” Dysea asked aghast.

“I ask you to seek the one you were meant for, even more than Tarifa, this man will call to you in a way unlike any you have ever experienced. It is he that keeps you from taking others into your bed while filling your dreams.” Walter spoke.

“Holy One... how do you... how do you know who I take into my bed and what I dream of?” Dysea asked somewhat surprised.

Walter smiled. “Do you think it is a secret that no man has shared your company or your bed in almost a hundred years?” He asked reaching up out to caress the tattoo on her neck again. “This is something you have to do Dysea, and you must use the intelligence I gave you to make your own decisions. Leave the Council of the Elders to me.”

“And if I refuse?” Dysea asked.

“Then we have already lost.” Walter spoke softly. “And no matter what you do, you and every Wood Elf that remains alive will become slaves to Alliance rule.”

CHAPTER FIVE

Tarifa’s Lieutenant Endith and the six remaining High Elf warriors with her lay on the forest floor, watching as the moon began to rise. They were on the edge of where the Book Cliffs met the timber of the Uinta Mountains. They had begun their journey three days before with thirteen in their party. At certain locations Endith had detailed an elfin warrior to remain behind, and return to report their progress. They had traveled quickly and quietly through the forests, looping far around where Marcus’s forces had camped. They had begun leaving this morning, and now their advance base was deserted. Endith had led her remaining force towards the sacred ruins, and they were coming in from the west. Endith knew that in another three kilometers they would be among the ruins of the old Air Base as the Holy One referred to it.

The timber around them now was scattered and tall, with the exception of the large clearing directly to their front. Endith used the infra-red binoculars she carried as she scanned the clearing, her mind racing. The ground showed recent signs of a huge heat source, scorched leaves and blown twigs lying all over around them, yet she could find nothing that indicated what had caused the heat surge. She lowered the field glasses one last time and turned to the male elf that was lying next to her.

“I can detect nothing.” She said softly.

“The heat pattern does not conform to anything we know the Alliance has. Their flying machines leave great swatches of burned ground all around them, but nothing this precise and targeted however.” The male replied.

“You think it was a flying machine?” Endith asked. “How could it land here, among the tress?”

“The pattern of debris indicates that whatever craft landed here were very large and using powerful thrusters. To scatter the twigs and leaves like they are... it...”

They both turned as the female elf settled to the ground next to Endith. “Senior Lieutenant we have discovered something you should see.”

“What?”

“We were sweeping the clearing for mines as you ordered but...” The female paused in mid-sentence.

“Well... but what?” Endith spoke becoming slightly exasperated. They had been moving for so long and even she was tired and worried about Tarifa.

“You should see this for yourself Senior Lieutenant.”

Endith looked at the male elf who shrugged his shoulders, “Very well.” Endith spoke getting to her feet.

The female elf led the two of them out of the treeline and almost halfway across the clearing where two more elves were kneeling. Endith stopped next to them, her blue eyes going wide as she saw the faint light coming from the two foot wide gap in the ground. It extended for nearly the entire length of the clearing and was a perfect straight line. She lowered her hand to the ground and brushed aside the first layer of dirt and leaves before her fingers brushed against something smooth and metallic.

“Metal.” She whispered quietly.

“There is a flying ship below us.” The female elf told her in a whisper. “And what appears to be some sort of hanger bay. We saw humans moving around this flying ship. Endith, it is unlike anything I have ever seen.”

Endith moved closer to the edge and peered into the dimly lit bay, seeing only the huge shadow that the Raptor was casting. Her trained eyes deducted how far it was to the surface of the floor that she could see.

“It looks like twenty-five feet.” She spoke quietly. She turned to the scout. “You saw humans?”

The elf scout nodded, “Two; a male and female. They seemed to be working on something near the back of the flying machine. They went inside the flying machine and have not come back out.”

Endith looked at the cloudy sky overhead before answering. “The acid storm will be here in less than an hour. We will drop down and subdue these humans. This hanger will provide protection from the storm.”

“You do not wish to kill the humans?” The scout asked.

Endith shook her head. “They may be able to provide us with information. I have not been able to pick up the Queen’s locator beacon in nearly fifteen hours, and they might be able to tell us something.”

“Endith are you sure the Queen was not taken by Marcus?” The male asked.

Endith looked at him and shook her head. “We would still detect her beacon.” She replied. “It is inside her, implanted into the skin on her hip. It is completely undetectable. It is something only a few others and I know of. It would not just stop working. Something is blocking the signal. And this hanger would be the right thing to do it with.”

“I will gather our force.” The male elf spoke.

“Quickly, we must get under cover before the storm hits.” Endith spoke. “It appears it will be a very large and deadly one.”

Endith sat on her elfin ass looking up at the business end of the large automatic, blood trickling from the corner of her lip, her blue eyes very wide and filled with a mixture of fear and shock at the human female that held the weapon.

Endith and her warriors had dropped soundlessly to the floor of the hanger below them, the twenty-five foot drop only a fraction of what she and her elfin soldiers were capable of. The dimly lit hanger bay was silent as she motioned two of her soldiers into the rear of the strange looking flying machine to subdue the two humans that were working as if they had heard and seen nothing.

That had been far from the case.

Her two warriors had taken four steps up the ramp of the Raptor when black clad apparitions appeared all around them, moving with a speed none of them had been prepared for, or had ever seen. Endith heard grunts of pain, saw two of her soldiers leave their feet, heard weapons hitting the metal floor and as she moved to react, a hand appeared from the side as if by magic. The open palm strike to her jaw sent her spinning, stars flashing before her eyes. When she didn't fall, a follow up blow to her midsection doubled her over in pain as all the air in her lungs left her. She went to her knees, gasping for breath and stars still dancing in her head. As her fingers closed around the pistol grip of the small sub machine gun that dangled from a strap on her shoulder she froze as she felt the cold steel of a large pistol pressed to the back of her head.

"That would not be wise." The female voice spoke calmly.

Endith lifted her head slowly to look into the calm serene eyes of the human female, who was crouched in front of her, the K12 never wavering from its point of aim between her eyes. Endith saw the human male, directly behind the female, another larger rifle also holding steady on her chest, a red laser cutting through the darkness of the hanger bay and centered above her heart.

Endith looked around slowly, seeing all of her warriors covered by either the black clad apparitions or unconscious upon the cold steel of the floor. Two of her fastest warriors were in the clutches of two of the strange soldiers, gleaming steel blades from knives pressed tightly to their throats.

Endith turned and her eyes went a little wider when she saw the tall heavily muscled human walking towards her. She blinked several times before realizing that this intimidating man was not entirely human as his aura told her. He squatted in front of her, his dark eyes apprising her carefully.

"It's not entirely appropriate to attempt to kill someone when you first meet them." Martin told her.

"Let's just whack them and call it a day Skipper!" Dan's voice echoed in the bay.

Endith's eyes darted to where Danny was kneeling on the back of one of her male elfin warriors, the large sub machine gun pressed to the back of his head, his face twisted in a grimace of pain. Slightly behind him, a dark skinned female held Endith's fastest scout by her throat, the blade of the knife against her tanned skin. She had kicked the scout in the leg, dropping her to one knee and effectively ending their battle in four seconds.

"I agree!" Trina spoke from the other side of the Raptor's landing gear, her HK74 jammed into the back of the head of the male elf beneath her boot. "I don't much like being a target!"

Endith's eyes went slowly back to Martin, who had never taken his eyes from her. "Who... who are you?" She finally was able to croak out the words.

"The better question here is who are you?" Martin spoke.

"Endith," The female voice echoed loudly across the bay.

Endith's eyes darted behind Martin and she saw Tarifa run into the bay, only to have the red haired female stop her with an outstretched arm, her other hand filled with another of the automatic pistols.

"My Queen, you're alive!" Endith gasped the relief in her voice very evident.

"Endith what are you doing here?" Tarifa asked, not willing to push past Anja's outstretched arm for fear of what Martin's men would do.

"We... we followed you my Queen." Endith spoke slowly. "There is an acid storm coming outside, and when we discovered this underground hanger we came to investigate. We lost your signal fifteen hours ago my lady! I thought these... I thought these humans might know something."

"Martin she is my Senior Lieutenant!" Tarifa exclaimed. "She only thought to protect me!"

Martin turned back to look at Tarifa, his eyes studying her face. He motioned with his head to Anja, and she dropped her arm from Tarifa's waist so that she could come forward. Tarifa walked directly up to him as he rose to his full height. She looked at him almost shyly.

"Please... they are my soldiers." She spoke, reaching out almost tentatively to place her hand on his chest. Tarifa could feel his heart beating against her hand, even through the body armor he wore. This did not go unnoticed by the others in Martin's team or Endith, yet their faces remained locked in stern snarls. "Please." Tarifa spoke softly.

Martin nodded slowly. "Let them go." He ordered. "Ben... is the overhead fixed yet?"

Ben looked at him from where he stood. "We finished it right before our guests showed up!"

Tarifa's eyes had never left Martin's face. "If it is an acid storm you must close the overhead doors to keep your ship from being damaged. They last for several hours and the acid they expel is very corrosive to metal."

"Ben!" Martin called.

Ben was already moving. "Closing them now Marty."

Martin turned from Tarifa's gorgeous sapphire eyes. "Anja, get your bag and make sure our new friends are patched up."

Anja had holstered her K12 and she nodded, "On it."

Danny helped the male elf to his feet, the male Elf's face a mixture of utter relief and confusion now that Danny's two hundred and fifty plus pounds of muscle was off his back.

"This acid storm; how long will it last?" Martin asked.

Tarifa looked at Endith. "Endith, how large was it?"

"One of the biggest I've seen this year my lady?" She answered, getting slowly to her feet. "This one is larger than the storm last month."

Tarifa turned back to Martin. "Normally they last for only a few hours, but the large ones, as this seems to be, could last up to ten hours. The storm we had last month lasted for twelve hours, so potentially this one could last even longer."

Martin nodded slowly before turning to head for the command center, Tarifa's hand falling away from his chest. Endith stepped up to her quietly.

"My... my Queen, what... what is going on?" She asked. "Who... who are these people? Their auras are not completely human, and they move with speed and reflexes that surpass even the Elfin Weapon Masters."

Tarifa looked at her and smiled as she embraced her Senior Lieutenant and her friend. "It is a long story Endith. The Holy One Endith; did you get him to the rendezvous coordinates?"

Endith nodded. "Yes my Queen. He is safe."

Tarifa nodded. "Good." She took Endith's arm. "I have much to tell you my friend."

Tarifa sat with Endith in the hanger bay as they shared one of the rations that Julie had provided to them. They had been speaking for close to six hours now, Tarifa filling her most trusted aide and friend in on everything that had happen since they had parted.

"...Council must hear of this Tarifa!" Endith spoke. "You must return and tell them."

Tarifa shook her head quickly. "No!" She said. "I have already accepted this Admiral Wallace's invitation. I will not back out of that now."

"Tarifa the Council will think you have been captured or killed. They will begin the process to select a new Queen within a week's time." Endith told her. "You must know that it will give them no greater joy then to have someone they can control as Queen. You must return!"

"Endith... Martin... these people can help us in ways we can not begin to imagine." Tarifa told her. "This is an opportunity I can not allow to slip by."

Endith looked at her without speaking, her eyes lingering on Tarifa. "You... you are taken by him?" She exclaimed.

Tarifa's eyes widened. "What? What do you mean? No I'm not."

"I have served you for nearly forty years Tarifa, and never once have I seen you gaze upon a man as you looked at him earlier." Endith spoke.

Tarifa looked away from her friend quickly. "He is... he is intriguing Endith" She said softly. "There is... there is something wild about him that draws me like no other."

"What did he do? Did he force himself on you my Queen?" Endith asked beginning to get to her feet.

"NO!" Tarifa exclaimed. She looked at Endith, grabbing her arm before she got too far. "No! Endith... he saved my life!"

Endith nodded. "As you have already told me, I know. And according to our laws you must submit to him as a reward, which I know you will not do because you think the law is just as ridiculous as I do. Now what else happened Tarifa?"

"He... Endith... he kissed me." Tarifa said looking at her.

Endith's eyes went wide at this knowledge. "He kissed you?" She gasped. "You mean with... with his lips?"

Tarifa looked at her sternly. "Do you know of any other way?" She asked
"He kissed you with his lips!" Endith exclaimed.

Tarifa grabbed her hands. "Endith please! Be quiet!"

Endith looked around quickly, embarrassed that she had spoken so loudly. She turned back to her Queen and friend. "He kissed you?"

Tarifa nodded. "I... I have never been kissed before Endith." She said softly. "It was... it was divine. It was almost too much. I could not stop the sensations that ripped through me. I became so wet he had to have smelled my excitement if his senses are as acute as the others tell me."

"What happen?"

Tarifa looked at her. "I... I don't know. He just stopped and rushed away."

"He... he just stopped?" Endith asked amazed. "Tarifa... no human is able to resist female elves."

"He is not entirely human." Tarifa told her. "He has incredible control over his emotions. I could feel the animal within him bursting to get out, to take me right here on the floor of this hanger bay. And I wanted him too. Oh... did I want him too Endith. The... I feel pulled to him sexually like no one before in my life. I've never felt this way for any man."

"You hardly know him Tarifa!" Endith spoke.

Tarifa nodded slowly. "I know, and that is the only thing holding me back." She replied honestly. "It is the only thing keeping me from throwing myself into his arms and submitting to him in any way he desires. I can't explain it Endith."

"Tarifa... the Holy One said... he said you would meet the one you were meant for." Endith spoke.

Tarifa looked at her and shook her head. "This is not him." She answered softly. "I feel drawn to him sexually yes, but he is very different Endith, and that is why I must go." She said. "I must go to discover who and what these people are and to see if Martin... if Martin is the one the Holy One said." Tarifa looked at her. "You must return and tell the Council what is happening."

Endith's eyes went wide. "I will do no such thing!" She exclaimed. "I am not going to leave your side. What would I tell the Council? That you are trying to discover if these non-humans are going to be allies? They would laugh me out of the chambers. I can send Domac. He can be trusted completely, and we need only tell him what the Council needs to know. Is there some way we could contact him if the Council proceeds without consulting you?"

Tarifa looked at her. "I will ask Martin." She spoke softly. "With their technology, I'm sure they have a transmitter that can reach the moon."

"Is it wise to trust this man Tarifa?" Endith asked. "This could all be an elaborate plot to capture you. To enslave you and parade you before our people in chains like some harem girl."

Tarifa looked at her for a long moment. Those very thoughts had gone through her mind quite a bit, right up until the time Martin had kissed her. That one breath stealing kiss had changed her outlook considerably. "I... I can trust him Endith. It's... it's almost as if I can feel him inside me. He would never harm me, and I sense he would never allow harm to come to me. It is very strange Endith, as if..."

Tarifa's words were drowned out by an alarm that began ringing in the hanger bay. She and Tarifa came to their feet quickly, ready for action.

"We must go this way, quickly!" Tarifa spoke taking Endith's hand.

Tarifa led Endith into the Command Center where they found Julie in the chair working the controls, while Martin and the others were gathered around.

"... three hundred meters and closing," Julie announced.

Martin picked up Tarifa's peach scent as she entered the Command Center and he turned to look at her. "I thought this was an acid rain storm." He spoke.

"It is." Tarifa replied.

"Does anything normally move in large numbers during these storms?" Martin asked.

"Only..." Tarifa's eyes widened. "By the Gods no, it must be Nomads!"

Martin's eyes narrowed. "Why do I get the feeling that I'm not going to like what you are about to tell me."

"Acid Nomads," Tarifa explained to him. "They are beasts that the Alliance discarded as failed experiments. Their genetic structure allows them to resist the rain. They are the only beings that can traverse these storms without having their flesh stripped from their bones."

"And why exactly did the Alliance attempt to create them?" Anja asked.

Tarifa met her eyes. "At one point last century, my people discovered a secret way into a lush valley in The Wastes."

"What a minute, The Wastes?" Julie asked. "What the hell is that?"

"It is an area that was made up of the states of Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Texas, Missouri and the lower half of Colorado before the Great Fire." Tarifa told them. "Due to the many nuclear weapons and power plants in those six states, when the Great Fire began, it literally saturated this entire area with poisonous radiation. My people found a very fertile valley within The Wastes, but the only way they knew to reach it was to cross The Wastes, and it is filled with Acid Storms that make the one above us pale in comparison. They attempted to create a monster that could survive the storms. They created the Acid Nomads."

"Why did the Alliance discard them?" Dan asked.

"We left this valley after a decade." Tarifa told them.

"Why?"

"The scientists among our people determined that the valley would surrender to the influence of The Wastes in a matter of months." Tarifa explained. "Six months after we departed, the storms began, and in a matter of weeks, the entire valley was gone."

"And these Nomad characters can travel around in this stuff?" Martin asked.

"They are impervious to the rain and the storms." Endith spoke now. "They are horribly deformed and some have said they are cannibals, and they eat the flesh of the dead."

"Gee... they sound like pleasant enough folk." Pablo spoke from the chair he occupied.

"They're moving into the vacant buildings on the southwest end of the base Skipper." Julie told them. "I have limited camera feeds from that section because it was mostly base housing and training rooms; nothing sensitive at all."

"How far does that put them from us?" Martin asked.

"There's an emergency escape tunnel a hundred and twenty meters from where they are setting up." Julie replied. "According to the databanks, it's listed as a five ton statue of a horse that sits in a covered courtyard. It puts them three clicks from the main tunnel, but it's a direct line shot."

"Have you or Tina been able to analyze this acid rain?" Martin asked turning to Ben where he stood next to Tina.

"It's composed mainly of sulfuric acid vapor." Tina answered quickly. "The Raptor's armor plating may or may not be able to withstand the vapor long enough for us to make the upper atmosphere, but unless we are in a pickle, I wouldn't want to try."

"And if we try and the vapor melts the armor?" Master Chief Brown asked.

Tina shrugged. "That depends on how high the storm is. If we are above ten thousand feet, we'll decompress and freeze to death. If we're below ten thousand feet we'll basically come apart at the seams and burn in."

"That's comforting." Danny spoke from where he sat on the edge of the table munching on the power bar.

"What are our odds?" Martin asked.

Tina looked at Ben and then shrugged. "My best guess is thirty/seventy." She answered. "It depends on how concentrated the vapor is."

"Jules... how many are you picking up?" Martin asked.

"I don't know if it's accurate Skipper, but sensors say at least a hundred, possibly more." Julie replied.

Martin nodded, his mind going over options in his head. "That gives them the advantage. Ok... everyone stay sharp. I want someone on the grid all the time monitoring the sensors. If they so much as get close to the tunnel entrance I want to know about it." He turned to where Trina and Cody were sitting. "Trina, you and Cody get down to that intersection and booby trap the shit out of it with whatever we have."

The young female and male nodded, picked up their weapons and headed out. Martin looked at the others. "Pablo, take one of the weapons I reworked for the Elf soldiers and do the same for the others. If push comes to shove I want them to be able to knock the bastards down, not piss them off with the weapons they have."

Pablo nodded and got to his feet heading for the armory.

"And if they get in boss?" Tony asked. "Then what do we do?"

"Then we load everyone into the Raptor and start praying." Martin answered with a grin.

HIGH CAPITAL NORTH OF DENVER

Dysea looked at the Alliance officer as he entered her receiving chamber with the pompous strut of a human. He ignored her guards, his eyes wandering lustfully over her body without regard for her position. He stopped much closer to her throne than any elf would have dared, perhaps to show Dysea that he was above fearing her position or status.

"Your guard told me you wanted to see me." He said casually, brushing the sleeve of his uniform.

"I need you to deliver a message." Dysea spoke.

"And what would that be?"

"I am postponing the signing of our treaty for a period of three weeks." Dysea told him, seeing his body go rigid and his eyes turn dark.

"May I ask why?" The officer asked, though Dysea could detect the hostility in his voice. "I was under the impression that your Council of Elders already approved the signing."

Dysea's emerald green eyes narrowed and she leaned forward in her chair. She still wore the same dress as when she had met with the Holy One, only now she had opted for a waist length jacket that hid her large tits from the hungry eyes of the Alliance officer, though she did note that his eyes kept drifting to where her legs were crossed demurely, but only the panties hid the thin platinum blond strip of pubic hair from his eyes.

"I am Queen of the Wood Elves Captain. And I will decide what is best for them. The Council of Elders may have approved the signing, but only I can sign the document. And I want three more weeks to review it." Dysea said.

"My superiors will want a reason for the extension." The Alliance Captain spoke. "What do I tell them is the reason for the delay?"

"You may tell them that the Queen of the Wood Elves wants more time to review the document to insure that her people are getting a fair deal." Dysea answered him sweetly.

The man looked at her. "You have had ample time to review the documents." He spoke. "Why choose now to delay the signing?"

"I wish it." Dysea told him, getting to her feet. "That is sufficient enough for your superiors. The Wood Elves do not take orders from the Alliance. That is what you will tell them. And in three weeks, if I decide there are no changes to be made, I will gladly sign the treaty and we will destroy the High Elves together."

The Alliance captain breathed an internal sigh of relief. The Elf bitch had no idea what they were planning, and she would not suspect the betrayal when it hit her. He smiled thinking of the blond haired Queen of the Wood Elves screaming out her pain and humiliation as he fucked her deep in her perfect ass. He nodded his head.

"I will so inform my superiors." He said.

Dysea smiled. "Excellent." Dysea watched him as he turned to leave, and she waited until he had reached the doorway, "Oh and Captain?"

"Yes your majesty?" He asked turning back to look at her.

"Your presence here is tolerated due to our future partnership." Dysea told him. "However, my warriors are not here to entertain you at your leisure. As of today, you will bed no more Wood Elves. Is that clear?"

The captain looked surprised. "Your majesty... I..."

"Touch another one of my elves Captain and I will cut your shriveled cock from your body myself and pin it to my wall!" Dysea growled.

The Alliance captain saw the look in her eyes, and the cruel smile that split her lips and he nodded slowly. "As you wish your majesty, but I will have to inform my superiors of your decision."

Dysea smiled. "You may do as you wish, but my warriors will serve under you no more."

The captain nodded, his jaw clenched tightly, and he turned and left the throne room.

Dysea waited for several moments, watching the doorway, relishing in the look on his face. She turned only when Walter stepped from the ante chamber and came towards her, as did her most trusted aide. The male elf was taller than most, and an extremely accomplished warrior with unmatched skills in unarmed combat. His blond hair was almost shoulder length, his brown eyes alert.

Dysea looked at him. "Leland I need you to select ten warriors; the best that we have. I want them in full combat equipment and standing by in an hour."

"As your order my Queen," He spoke. "I must say however, the Council of Elders will not be pleased with your decision to postpone the signing of the treaty."

Dysea nodded. "I know, and that is why we must move quickly. I want our two best forensic scientists to accompany us as well. Saddle fourteen of our fastest horses, and prepare them to travel."

"Where are we going Dysea?" He asked.

As Dysea's most trusted and closest aide and friend, he was one of only a handful that she allowed to refer to her by her name. Leland and she had grown up together, as close as any brother and sister, and while nothing ever became sexual between them, he was Dysea's first and only choice as her senior aide when she was chosen as Queen.

Dysea looked at Walter for a long moment before answering. "We are going to The Roan Plateau my friend. It is the location of the last attack on our people by the High Elves, only four days ago."

Leland didn't bat an eye and he bowed his head. "I will see to it my Queen."

Dysea waited until she was alone with Walter before speaking. "I hope you are right Holy One." She said softly. "If the Council learns that I am doing this, they will call for me to forfeit the throne."

Walter smiled. "I am right Dysea, and you believe me yourself, or you would not have ordered the trip." He held his arms out to her.

Dysea stepped up to him, folding herself into his embrace without blinking. "What... what are they like Holy One?" She asked softly.

Walter smiled as he stroked her head. "Tarifa is proud like you, with raven black hair and eyes the color of sapphires. She is an accomplished warrior, but she lacks your tempered and refined skill. She is naïve in many ways, but like you she is extremely intelligent. She will need your help and council in the days and months ahead, and you will need hers as well. She is the most gifted person I have ever known when it comes to being politically astute. I believe you will find you and she are very much alike, in more ways than you could possibly imagine." Walter finished that statement with a twinkle in his eye that Dysea did not see.

Dysea looked up into his wrinkled face, her emerald green eyes bright. "And the one you call Martin?"

"Martin... Martin is unique." Walter said with a smile. "Of all my original creations, he is the one who remains closest to the beast within himself, the raw unguarded emotions that he allows to flow through him unchecked. He can control that beast within himself with amazing clarity of mind. In battle... in battle he is the most frightening force of nature you will ever witness. He and Tarifa, along with yourself will be the pillar upon which you can build the future. Only together do you stand a chance."

"If we win," Dysea said.

Walter nodded slowly. "Yes... if you win."

"Will he believe me?" Dysea asked.

"He'll believe you." Walter told her. "I have left something for him that he will find. It will explain as much as I was able to learn by the time I left the message for him."

"And that will be enough for him?" Dysea asked.

"He will believe you because of what he will feel for you." Walter spoke softly, "Though he will undoubtedly be fighting that feeling because he does not understand. The message I left for him will help him. And he will believe, because I am going with you." Walter held up the data pad to her. "You should view this before we leave."

Dysea took the small pad from him. "What is it?"

"A message similar to what Martin will view." Walter spoke, "For you?"

Dysea looked at him. "Me? Why?"

"Of the two of you Dysea, you have seen far more than Tarifa, and with that you have experience she will not have. As I said, she is very naïve in many ways. I believe you will better handle this information than she will at this point. I'm hoping perhaps you will be able to help her with what she will discover." Walter explained. "Or perhaps she might be able to help you."

"In what way could she help me?" Dysea asked quickly, her tone of voice suggesting that she did not need Tarifa's help.

Walter smiled. "You will discover that when the time is right child."

"You have much faith in me Holy One." Dysea said softly.

"It is well earned child." Walter bent down and kissed her forehead. "I will wait for you with Leland."

EDEN GROUND COMMAND NINE HOURS INTO THE ACID STORM

"...don't know what it is Skipper." Julie spoke as Martin settled into the chair next to her. "I was doing a records search and it just popped up really. It's coded to you."

"Me?" Martin asked. "I never had any records in the core here."

Julie shrugged. "The encryption matches yours. Only you can open it."

Martin shrugged. "I'll check it out." He said. "Why don't you get some sleep? Tina has been watching this storm on the Raptor's passive radar, and she says it looks like it will break up in another hour or so, at least enough for us to leave."

Julie nodded and picked up her HK as she headed out of the center.

Martin worked the computer keyboard and the large monitor came to life with the symbol of the EDEN project. He entered in his encryption code and sat back in the chair lifting the mug of steaming hot instant coffee to his lips, as he scanned the computer screens in front of him.

"Hello Marty." The voice nearly boomed from the monitor, causing Martin's eyes to widen and freeze on the large monitor. The face of Walter Carson was on the screen, though much older than he remembered. Martin hadn't seen Walter in the two years leading up to the comet, and now the white haired man looked even more fragile than he did the last time Martin saw him.

"I bet this is a shock to you my boy." Walter's image continued. "My guess is you never expected to see me alive again. Of course, whether I'm still alive now is up for debate since I have no idea how long it will take Jules to find this file once you arrive. I know you better than anyone Marty, and I knew you would come here first once you discovered what has happened. I will try to explain, but know that I have encoded most of the history since the Great Fire, which is what we now call the passing of the Comet by the way, into four separate computer data files. Jules should be able to find them relatively easy enough once you tell her they exist. What I am about to explain to you is the short version. As I stand here and record this the year is 2546, and by my calculations, the moon will have regained its normal rotational cycle around earth. I'm guessing that it has only been a maximum of thirteen days since those on EDEN have returned to normal time, if that is what you wish to call the time we live in now.

"As you no doubt have already discovered, the comet caused massive destruction and loss of life on a planetary scale. No real numbers were ever recorded, but it is estimated that the planet was depopulated by more than half. There was a total breakdown of communication and every other service we had come to rely so much on. It was our Armageddon Day. I was among several thousand that were evacuated at the last moment by the remaining leaders of the government and dispersed to dozens of underground sites that would be able to survive the fires in our atmosphere. You are probably asking how I managed to survive as long as I have. During the five years that the atmosphere burned I designed and created suspended animation chambers, or SAC's as we called them. It was decided that enough would be built so that the senior scientists could jump forward in time so to speak as things began to improve. We would sleep for ten years and then remain awake for ten years trying to pull the world out of the abyss.

"My attempt at helping the human race turned into a colossal failure. I... I used my skill in genetic engineering and created a whole new race of beings. With the knowledge of what you and the others went through I thought I could create the perfect being. Of course I also threw in my own personal touch, and the results were Elves. Just like in the legends and fairy tales of our time, I created Elves. They were faster and stronger than normal humans, with a varying degree of higher resistance to diseases and the natural elements. My intention was that they would assist the human race in rebuilding our shattered planet. Unfortunately that did not turn out, as I had desired. I made them almost too perfect this time. The female Elves were the epitome of physical perfection in every way. They were all beautiful and extremely desirable. My hope was that the remaining humans would eventually turn to mating with them and produce children. A mix of their genes would insure that humans and Elves would be able to survive long into the future.

“Instead, the powers that be, those that remained of the government took to using the Elves as slaves. The more that I created; the more were bought and sold as slaves. It started among the Black Market and eventually wound up being the norm. They were used for everything from forced labor to common whores in brothels and on street corners. During my third sleep period, things became even worse. When I awoke again I discovered that a new government had formed, and it was their decision to mass produce the Elves as a commodity to be bought and sold world wide. I also discovered they had created horrible monsters from my work. Creatures unlike anything we have ever seen on this planet before. The politicians and scientists that raped my work while I slept reaped the rewards and not the common man. There was little I could do to fight this openly. I decided to become subversive and fight them in ways they could not discover. It wasn't easy at first, but once I discovered that the moon was continuing to spin faster than earth, and slowing down each year I decided I would prepare for what I hoped would be your return.

“You will meet many new species upon your return to earth Martin. The good ones were creations of mine, the bad ones created by evil men bent only on advancing themselves. By 2104, I estimated that the Elves outnumbered the remaining human population world wide, and that is part of the reason they were and are so persecuted and kept down. The Elves did not know how to fight back at first, and it wasn't until 2106 that I had the chance to change that. I was working on a new batch of Elves and in that batch I instilled the will to fight back. It started with only a few dozen, but soon it grew and grew and became large enough that the government began slaughtering those they did not control. Those that survived escaped into the mountains and the caves and became known by the name given to them in legends, High Elves and Wood Elves. Many more groups have popped up over the years, but the High Elves and the Wood Elves remain the largest of the groups.”

Martin watched as Walter took a long drink of water, his own coffee forgotten and cold on the edge of the console. So engrossed in the monitor as he was, Martin's mind did not register Tarifa's scent as she came into the command center and stopped. Her face wore an expression of shock as she recognized the man she knew as the Holy One on the screen.

“The government eventually formed itself into what is now called the Alliance, and they have ruled with an iron fist for the last three hundred and twenty years.” Walter continued. “Unbeknownst to the powers that be, I was able to give the Elves the ability to reproduce in their genetic makeup, something that I was unable to do with the first few batches. I knew that you and the others would be returning Marty. And I knew that given your nature, you would not allow what was happening to continue. You will have allies Martin. I did not want to play god Marty, but after seeing what was happening, and what it would lead to, I had no choice. Each genome on EDEN will have an Elf counterpart here on earth. They will be drawn to one another, and they won't be able to explain it. They will know it when they meet the elf meant for them. It will not be automatic Martin. I only instilled in the selected elves an urge if you will, that will make them drawn to each other. If a relationship forms, it will have to proceed as any relationship does. If the selected elf is in love with another, or already married, then a relationship will not form. I made them strong willed Marty, and completely devoted to whomever they choose to share their lives. I could not bring myself to force it upon them. Like you, they are all my children in a fashion. I am telling you because you are their leader, and you are my very first. Of all of them, you will understand the best of why I have done what I have done.

“I have left this for you in the files of what used to be EDEN Ground Command. I was discovered as working against the government about fifteen years ago, and with Tarifa's help I was able to escape. I have been on the run since, shuttling between the High Elves and the Wood Elves for protection and shelter. They think of me as some sort of Holy man, which you and I both know is not true, but I love them all just as much.

“Tarifa is the Queen of the High Elves Martin. It is my hope that you meet her first, as she leads the largest clan of elves in North America and perhaps even what remains of the planet. She is an extremely beautiful young woman Marty, and equally intelligent. She can be the rock you need to begin rebuilding what has been destroyed.” Walter paused once more and took another drink of water. “The Queen of the Wood Elves is Dysea. You will not mistake her for someone else when you see her Martin, for she is the one I hope you will begin rebuilding your life with. Tarifa and Dysea are Queens of their respective elfin people, but there is a Blood Feud between them that must be ended. It is a feud, which was started and is being controlled and manipulated by the Alliance, I’m certain of that. I am hoping to convince them that their brothers and sisters are not the enemy, but I have been unsuccessful so far. Only together can the three of you defeat the evil that abounds on earth before it plunges all of us into darkness. I am leaving in a few hours with Tarifa and her soldiers and moving north before the Alliance forces that are hounding us arrive. With luck we will make it. I can only hope I live long enough to see you and the others Martin, for there is so much we need to discuss. Find me Marty; find Tarifa and Dysea. It is the only hope for our planet; the only hope for our future.”

Martin watched as the screen went black and the recording stopped. He suddenly became completely aware again, and Tarifa’s scent was overpowering. He turned in his chair to see her standing only a few meters away, a look of astonishment on her beautiful face. Martin sighed heavily.

“How much did you hear?” He asked.

Tarifa looked at him. “I... I knew much of the history of our people.” She spoke softly meeting Martin’s eyes. “I did not know he knew you would come. Or that he... he manipulated my people in the manner he has admitted.”

Martin stood up and stepped over to her, Tarifa’s eyes watching him closely. “Look... this is...”

Tarifa’s hand closed around the K12 pistol in the holster and her eyes narrowed. “I will not submit to you!” She spoke firmly.

Martin looked surprised. “Submit to me?” He asked. “What the hell do you mean?”

“You... you are not human... and I will fight you with every fiber of my being!” Tarifa snapped. “I will not let you harm my people, I don’t care what our laws dictate!”

Martin moved faster than Tarifa could counter, and one of his hands grasped her hand that was palming the K12, while the other grabbed her jaw. Her eyes flew open in surprise when she realized she couldn’t move her head. Martin leaned close to her, his own eyes flashing in anger.

“I have no intention of taking you against your will!” Martin snapped loudly, his anger real. Tarifa’s eyes went wide when she saw his eyes blink and change right in front of her from the deep dark brown color to menacing orbs of intense yellow/gold outlined in black. She watched wide eyed as three quarter inch long fangs burst from his gums and lengthened into existence. “I don’t... I don’t even like you! I think you are a pompous spoiled bitch with a serious ego problem.” Martin’s hand left her jaw in a blink, pulling his own K12 from its holster and extending it out to the side. Tarifa followed the movement with her eyes, and they grew wide when she saw Endith frozen in the motion of swinging the metal bar because the barrel of the K12 was pressed to her forehead.

Martin looked at Endith, his yellow orbs wide and full of anger now, “Sloppy, very sloppy!”

“Release... you will release my Queen!” Endith barked.

Martin ignored her and turned back to Tarifa. “You are right Tarifa. I’m not human... I’m something Walter created more than five centuries ago. I am not your enemy, no matter how much you think otherwise. You have another choice to make Tarifa. You can return with us as you planned, or you can stay here and rot. I don’t care either way.” Martin released her and returned his K12 to its holster, his eyes and teeth returning to normal once more in a single blink. “Make up your mind quick, because when this storm breaks we are leaving.”

Dysea walked quickly past the two guards that stood watch by the rarely used entrance to underground caves. She had changed into a uniform similar to the one her soldiers now wore. It was a dull black jumpsuit of a design almost identical to the one Walter had made for the High Elves. Like Tarifa, Dysea had altered her uniform to more suit her personal style. The skin tight black pants were tied on with stitching that extended up her shapely legs. The top had only a small portion of flesh showing, but it was centered over the cleavage of her breasts, while all of her arms and shoulders were bare. The long black cloak she wore was draped around her shoulders and would protect her from the sun and the elements.

Walter watched her strode out confidently and walk directly up to him. She looked at him with her stunning emerald eyes before leaning up on her tip toes and kissing his cheek softly.

“Thank you Holy One.” She said softly.

Walter was somewhat surprised and his face registered that fact. “I... I did not expect this reaction from you Dysea.” He said in reply. “I was expecting anger... hatred.”

“How could I hate you Holy One? You are truly the father of us all, regardless of how it came to be.” She spoke calmly. “I understand your intentions, but I also understand the reasoning behind those intentions. Your actions have never been for personal gain or with malice in mind. I may... I may see you in a different light now that I know what I know, but as far as I am concerned, you are still our creator and our Holy One.”

“You don’t know how much that eases my heart Dysea.” Walter told her, squeezing her hands.

Dysea smiled brilliantly and kissed his hands. “We must go now. Before the Council of Elders discovers what the true purpose of this trip is for.”

Walter nodded. “Will you try to be objective and see things for how they may not appear?”

Dysea looked at him. “I would not be doing this if I was unprepared to accept what you are telling me.”

“Then we must hurry.” Walter spoke, moving for his horse. He stopped and turned back to her taking another data pad from within his robes. “Perhaps you are ready as well to see this.”

Dysea looked at him as she took the data pad. “More surprises Holy One?”

“No. Just some information you might find helpful in the days ahead.”

EDEN

NINETY-SIX HOURS AFTER RAPTOR TWO’S RETURN

Tarifa sat in the main officer’s lounge of EDEN with Endith. All of them had been in awe of what they had seen so far on the base, as none of them had ever expected to leave the millions of square miles of forests and mountains they called home. Tarifa immediately took a liking to Admiral Wallace. He was sincere, knowledgeable and he was honest. She took an immediate dislike to the man known as Senator Graham. She quickly learned he was a political animal, and the few hours she had spent with him and the Admiral around the table discussing what the situation on earth was, she began to not trust the man. His son Kevin was almost as bad, openly leering at her and making disgusting gestures. She had hardly noticed him while they were on the surface, but now it appeared he felt more secure and could do as he wished because of his father.

Tarifa and her elves were given free reign within reason in this section of EDEN, but most had chosen to remain in the quarters provided to them. Tarifa had no doubts as to why either. Even as she and Endith sat her in the lounge, the looks of lust and desire filled the eyes of every man in the room.

The item that bothered her the most was the fact that she had not seen Martin since they had arrived four days ago. Their departure from EDEN Ground Control had been orderly and quick. He had not spoken to her since their encounter, or during the fourteen hour flight to reach EDEN. Upon arrival, he explained the procedures for decontamination in a very businesslike voice, and while he and the others of his team went through the decon process together, Tarifa and the elves were allowed to go through one at a time to avoid embarrassment of any kind. Upon learning of the decontamination procedure, Tarifa was aghast to find she wanted to go through with Martin and his team. She wanted to see him naked in all his glory. She had dreamed of him the night before in her quarters, seeing herself screaming out her desire in his arms. Tarifa knew that part of the explanation for how she was reacting was because of what the Holy One had done, making certain elves drawn to these Genomes as he called them, but there was something else entirely.

Tarifa had acted arrogantly after seeing the message the Holy One had left for him. She had reacted in the way she would toward any human male who showed an interest in her. Yet Martin was very different. He could have taken her in the hanger bay that night. In her state she would have willingly submitted to him, as aroused as she had been, and done anything he asked. He had stopped his actions before his own animal instincts could take over. That is what endeared him to her more than anything did. That and the fact he treated her as an equal, unlike the Senator and the others she had encountered and even more so than her own Council of Elders.

“What are you thinking Tarifa?” Endith asked quietly.

Tarifa looked at her. “I’m thinking that this Senator Graham would like nothing better than to align with the Alliance. He is an evil man Endith, and I do not trust him.”

“But Admiral Wallace controls this base.” Endith spoke.

“But for how long?” Tarifa said. “You have seen the way we are looked at by many of the humans here. It is no different then back on earth. We are seen as playthings. Freaks to be used however they wish. I’m beginning to think coming here was a very bad idea.”

“Then what do we do?” Endith asked.

“We must...” Tarifa stopped when she saw the two armed humans come into the lounge and head directly for their table.

The two men stopped and looked down at her. “Miss we have orders to escort you to the Command Briefing room.”

“What? Why?” Tarifa asked. “I was under the impression that I would speak with the Admiral again tomorrow.”

“Senator Graham is ordering this miss, not the Admiral. Please come with me.” The man motioned to the door, and his voice made it clear he would brook no opposition. Tarifa and Endith got to their feet. “Your aide is to be escorted back to her quarters.”

“She is my aide.” Tarifa said. “As Queen she is entitled to go where I go.”

“You are not Queen here miss, and we have different ways of doing things.” The guard responded, taking her arm in his hand. “Please come with me now.”

Tarifa resisted the urge to send the man flying across the room and she gave an almost imperceptible nod to Endith before the guard led her out of the lounge.

ADMIRAL WALLACE’S PERSONAL QUARTERS

“What’s going on Admiral?” Martin asked as he settled into the chair.

Wallace followed him into the room and poured himself a drink at the small wet bar. He turned back to Martin and moved to the couch, sitting on the arm of it. “We have a problem Marty.” He said.

Martin leaned forward in his chair. “I’m listening sir.”

“Senator Graham has been very busy in the two weeks since we discovered our situation Marty.” William spoke. “While you were gone it appears he was able to go behind my back somehow and gain access to a secure communications array which he then used to contact this Alliance Dictatorship.”

Martin’s eyes went wide and he came to his feet when Wallace told him this. “Admiral, I mean no disrespect, but why didn’t you tell me this when we first got back?”

“I wasn’t absolutely sure until this morning Marty.” He answered. “Frank found out through his contact in the civilian research labs. That was the array Graham used. It was confirmed this morning when we got a transmission from a Minister Deval representing this Alliance government.”

“They contacted us?” Martin asked stunned.

Wallace nodded. “They insisted on speaking with Graham, and are implicit in their statement that this Tarifa and everyone with her are war criminals. They are demanding we return them to their custody.”

“Admiral you can’t seriously be considering this.” Martin said. “Can you?”

“It gets worst.” Wallace told him. “Apparently, Graham has spent the better part of the last six days politicking the entire base, and informing them of what has happened. He is also stating that this Alliance dictatorship is the legitimate government of the United States and that I am refusing to communicate with them.”

“EDEN is a military facility sir, why should what he says matter?” Martin asked.

“The day before you returned I had to have security break up a demonstration on the main promenade that was demanding we open communications with this Alliance government.” Wallace answered. “Graham organized the demonstration, and he was also clever enough to tell those involved that I would order security forces in to break it up.”

“He’s turning the civilian crew to his side.” Martin spoke softly.

Wallace nodded. “He sure is. And quite effectively I might add.” William sipped his drink. “I also discovered that the Sweeper Team he brought aboard has gone underground. We don’t know where they are, or what they are doing. Somehow they’ve managed to disable the tracking devices we put on them, and their quarters have not been used in several days.”

“Then you can bet they are mixed in with the civilian crew and doing whatever Graham tells them to do.” Martin said.

“No bet here.” Wallace replied. “I’ve ordered extra security on all sensitive locations, but since half our security force is civilian, I don’t know who we can trust.”

Martin looked at him. “Tarifa and the elves will be in danger Admiral?”

“They’ve been locked down in their Quarters and told to keep a very low profile.” Wallace answered. “I have Marines outside their quarters.”

“Admiral… he’s going to make a play for control of the base.” Martin told him.

Wallace nodded. “That’s what it’s looking like.”

“Admiral… you’ve seen my report.” Martin spoke. “This Alliance government makes Hitler’s regime look like girl scouts in comparison. Slavery, Genetic experimentation, do we want to be associated with that?”

“Apparently Graham does Marty.” Wallace said. “He’s power hungry. He’s been that way all of his life. He figures if he can hand EDEN over to these people he’ll get a whole lot in return.” Wallace held out the data pad. “You better read this.” He waited until Martin took the pad before continuing. “He’s planning on bringing you up on charges of kidnapping and assault in regards to his son. He’s also planning on having Danny and Julie arrested for imprisonment and rape.”

Martin looked at him, “Rape?” He gasped. “You must be joking, the rape of whom?” His eyes grew larger, “Anja?”

Wallace nodded. “Yes, according to the eyewitness account of his son.”

“Admiral, whatever happened between the three of them was not rape. I talked to Anja on the surface sir. She was a very willing participant in whatever took place, of that I can guarantee you.” Martin said.

“Are you sure Marty?” Wallace asked. “She came to EDEN with a completely different agenda. How can you be sure she has done this complete turn around? You’d better find out, and do so quickly. The arrest warrants will be issued this afternoon, and I have to act on them due to the seriousness of the charges.”

Martin came to his feet. “I’ll find out Admiral. Trust me.”

Anja was currently kneeling at the foot of the bed, her small hand wrapped around the base of the rock hard twelve inch, pulsing black cock in her face. The debriefing had been torture, six hours of endless questions, most of them from the Admiral and Colonel Wilson, all the while sitting between Julie and Danny. Anja could sense Martin’s eyes on her from the back of the room, and it was almost as if she could smell Danny and Julie so close to her. They had maintained a professional attitude throughout the entire briefing, never once looking at her with more than professional courtesy.

Julie had been right Anja thought as she made her way back to her quarters. She did not know what she felt for Martin anymore. So much time had passed since that night, and there was something different about him ever since they had gone to earth. Standing under the spray of the hot shower, Anja decided to let the chips fall where they may. She had discovered two people, who wanted her company, and together they had discovered a unique and very exciting way to entertain each other and as far as she was concerned there was no reason she could not explore that. And while having Danny was a pleasant side track, Julie was who Anja wanted to explore.

She had gone to Danny and Julie’s quarters and for the next three days and nights they had ravished each other to the point of exhaustion. She and Julie would simply use Danny in whatever way they could until he was spent and sleeping and then they would spend hours simply exploring each other’s body in an erotic and sensual experience that left them both trembling from the intensity.

Now Anja's green eyes were focused on the towering cock in front of her. She hadn't bothered with clothes when she had awoken sprawled across Danny's broad chest, and simply crawled her way down to the foot of the bed as Julie nimbly turned her body and lowered her already dripping pussy over Danny's face. Anja looked at Julie, her eyes filled with desire, and Julie smiled dreamily back at her.

"Go ahead... go ahead lover!" Julie gasped. "You've... you've wanted to suck his big cock for days. Do it!"

Anja leaned forward and extended her four inch long tongue, licking slowly around the shiny black head of Danny's cock. The towering pole was pulsing with heat in her small hand, the veins running the length of his cock standing out in all their glory. She heard Danny groan as she swabbed his cockhead with her warm tongue, and precum oozed from the slit in the tip, coating her tongue. Anja's eyes closed, as she tasted him, relishing the nutmeg flavor of his cum. It happened without warning, and the picture of her sucking Martin's thick cock that night sprang into her head, and then suddenly she was not sucking Danny's cock, but Martin's equally prodigious manhood. It was there for only a moment and then it was gone and she leaned forward more, her heels pressing into her naked ass, and her own pussy literally pouring juices out of her and down her thighs constantly.

Anja's soft lips engulfed Danny's cockhead, his legs stiffening considerably as she swallowed the first four inches of his thick cock with little trouble. Her small hand stroked the remaining eight inches slowly and lovingly, her other hand moving up to caress his huge cum filled balls, as she held the four inches in her mouth, bathing the thick shaft with her talented tongue. Her lips were stretch wide around the shiny black shaft, her eyes wide as she looked down the length of what remained outside her mouth. She had sucked Kevin's cock many times, mainly so she wouldn't have to let him fuck her, and she could swallow his small thin five inch cock with little problem, but she hated when her nose was buried in his pubic hair because of the faint odor his body had. His father was no better, though slightly larger in the cock department at roughly seven inches, but both of them had thin cocks, and no where near the huge girth of Danny's ebony monster.

Anja breathed deeply through her nose, extending her tongue along the pulsing shaft as she swallowed more of Danny's cock. Her nipples were painfully erect and hard, and tears were forming in her eyes, but there was no way she was going to stop now as she plunged her face forward another two inches until the huge head of his cock hit the back of her throat. Memories of sucking Martin's thick shaft flashed into her head again, causing her pussy to convulse and release her juices in a shivering orgasm. Martin had the same thickness of Danny, but she remembered easily the musky mint smell he had. She had measured his huge cock while he slept; amazed that she had gotten all but two inches of his cock into her throat. It had also been the first time she had ever wanted to suck a man's cock, and now that experience with Martin was paying off as she felt Danny's cock pulsing in her mouth.

Julie watched Anja with a mixture of awe and pleasure as Danny's tongue danced wonderfully over her pussy. Her red headed lover had over half of Danny's cock in her mouth, her small hands still stroking the exposed portion of his shaft and his huge balls. She was having quite an effect on Danny with her cock sucking, as his tongue would stop moving, his hands gripping Julie's ass cheeks tighter the more of his cock Anja swallowed. Julie knew what pleasure sucking Danny's thick monster could bring, and she smiled as Anja's excitement filled the room with her sweet honey aroma, knowing that Anja's pussy must have been drooling cum down her tight thighs. Julie reached out with her hand, placing it gently on the back on Anja's head.

"More Anja baby," Julie groaned. "Take some more! I know you can do it! He's delicious isn't he?"

Anja glanced over at Julie with intoxicated eyes, pushed herself higher with her knees and with a soft gagging sound and a deep breath, pushed downward even further onto Danny's thick shaft. Anja felt another orgasm slam into her when his huge cock entered her throat, and within seconds her pussy was pouring juices down her thighs in what seemed like buckets. Anja brought her head back several inches, her tongue dragging along the underside of Danny's cock and she heard him hiss in pleasure, his powerful thighs flexing. She could feel his cum filled balls in her hand begin to tighten and she knew he was nearing the point where he would feed her what she so desired. Anja wanted all of him however, she wanted him to blast his cum directly into her belly, and she wanted to feel her lips smashed against his groin. She took a deep breath once more and plunged her face downward and didn't stop until her lips mashed against his hard abdomen.

Danny nearly tossed Julie's dripping pussy from his face, his hands ripping at the bed sheets as he felt Anja's beautiful lips anchor around the base of his massive cock.

“Ohhh... fuck!” He nearly screamed.

Danny’s aroused mind was on automatic now as his large hands went to Anja’s head and he sank his fingers into her silky red hair, pulling her face tighter against his groin, the whole of his twelve inch black cock buried in his lover’s throat. He glanced up quickly to see the red hair and soft lips covering his cock, and then Anja looked directly at him with those dreamy green eyes and he knew he was done. The small hand that had been stroking his shaft reached quickly around to his powerful ass and squeezed his cheeks; while Anja’s other hand palmed his huge balls, milking them, urging the load of cum in them to come out. Danny didn’t see Julie slid off the bed and move quickly to where Anja knelt. Julie could smell cum pouring from Anja’s sweet pussy and she wasn’t about to waste it as she got on her back and slid her face under Anja’s dripping snatch. She grabbed Anja’s tight ass cheeks and pulled them down, her lips fastening onto Anja’s pussy as she hungrily drank her lover’s heavenly juices.

Danny’s eyes nearly blew open when he felt Anja’s finger slide up his asshole, and he lost total control then. His hips lifted from the bed, his muscles tensed to the breaking point, and his orgasm exploded out of him.

Anja’s mind erupted in joy as she felt Danny’s cock expand in her throat, and his cum begin racing up its length. She extended her long tongue out of her stuffed mouth and throat, her nose pressed tightly to his groin, and she lathered his huge pulsing balls with her hot tongue. This caused Danny to gasp even louder, and grasp her head tighter. Anja exploded in another more powerful orgasm just as Danny’s cock erupted in her throat. She vaguely felt Julie lapping away at her pussy, keeping her on the very edge of the pleasure abyss as Danny’s hot cum flooded her belly. Using what strength she had left Anja lifted her face from Danny’s groin far enough to taste his delicious cum. She clutched the six inches of ebony shaft soaked in her saliva that was no longer buried in her tight throat with her hand, pumping the thick shaft as she swallowed gleefully. She was right, his cum did taste like nutmeg, and she wasn’t about to let a drop of it escape her lips.

Danny’s eyes had rolled into the back of his head, his cock still pumping what seemed like quarts of cum into Anja’s sweet mouth. His chest heaved in exertion, his bald head sweaty and coated with Julie’s pussy juices. His hips heaved for the last time, as his drained balls finally stopped. He hissed in pleasure as Anja sucked hard for every single drop, her small hand continuing to stroke the length of his thick shaft that was not trapped within her lips.

Danny sat up quickly, his hands pulling Anja’s head away from his groin. With effortless ease he lifted her onto his chest and fell back onto the bed, pulling her surprised lips to his own for a kiss that caused her eyes to roll into her head, and her toes to curl in delight. He pulled her body tightly to his, her large tits crushed against his hard chest, her pussy dripping cum all over his lower abdomen. Julie worked her way up the bed slowly, a satisfied smile on her face as she kept licking Anja’s cum from her lips, as a cat would do. She lowered her body against the sweaty bodies of her two other lovers, blissfully watching them share the kiss.

Anja’s mind was far from thinking about anything at the moment, so charged with pleasure as it was, but she knew without a doubt that Martin flashing into her thoughts while sucking Danny’s cock was an omen. An omen of her future perhaps, but right now she just wanted to experience new things that she had never attempted before, and she had two very willing partners to try them with. She could feel Danny’s softening, but still incredibly huge cock resting against the insides of her thighs, her pussy still leaking cum all over his powerful abdomen as well as his cock. This was not where she belonged, Anja knew that, but for the moment and until she could fasten her mind around her relationship with Martin and what that would mean to her, this spot would do very nicely.

Tarifa looked at the smirking face of Senator Graham from across the table, but kept her face void of any emotion. He was going over something on a data pad, his son standing to his side and behind him, and leering at Tarifa with undisguised lust in his eyes.

“It appears Miss Tarifa... that you were not entirely forthcoming with us when we first talked.” Richard spoke finally, setting the data pad down and looking at her.

“I don’t understand.” Tarifa said. “I left nothing out.”

“Oh but you did.” Graham spoke. “You left out the part that you are a fugitive from the legal and recognized government of the United States.”

“There is no United States anymore.” Tarifa stated. “The Alliance was neither elected nor chosen as the government. They have gained power through fear and barbaric acts of slavery and oppression!”

“You and the other elves that you are supposedly Queen of, led a violent revolt against their government when you no longer wished to be participants. That makes you a fugitive.” Graham spoke calmly.

“We were slaves!” Tarifa nearly shouted. “We were beneath even the animals that live. We were used as forced labor and whores to fill their brothels and work farms!”

“That was the purpose of your creation, by your very words.” Graham continued. “To serve humans in whatever capacity we saw fit.”

Tarifa’s blue eyes flared. “That is slavery Senator! Your United States outlawed slavery several hundred years before the Great Fire!”

“The Great Fire as you call it apparently changed all that.” Graham told her. “You and every elf like you were created to serve us! To help humans rebuild! When you decided you did not like what we had you doing you decided to revolt! And if my information is correct, you killed several hundred civilians in the process; as well as countless soldiers of the Alliance over the years in brutal raids and savage attacks.”

Tarifa came to her feet. “We are fighting for our existence!” She yelled. “We are fighting to be free!”

“Which is irrelevant at this point,” Graham told her. “I have been in contact with a Minister Deval, who apparently knows you quite well. He has asked that we detained you and your fellow elves until such a time as we can arrange to have you transported back to them for punishment.”

“You can’t do this!” Tarifa pleaded. “You have only seen things for four days! Even Martin has told you what the Alliance is like! They...”

“So you are on a first name basis with Commander Hunter are you?” Richard said with a smile, “How quaint. Commander Hunter’s report has been disregarded by the new civilian council of EDEN. He is after all, no different from you. He is a tool, as all genomes of our time were. He is being brought up on charges of dereliction of duty as well as others, so he will have no say in this matter regardless. You and your fellow elves will remain under guard and will do as we say until such time as we meet with representatives of the Corporate Alliance to decide your fate. I have informed them of the small damage we have sustained here on EDEN, and they have given me permission to use you and your elves how I see fit.”

“I wish to speak with Admiral Wallace!” Tarifa exclaimed.

“He has no say in this matter. He is a military officer who follows the direction of the civilian leadership. Right now that is me.” Richard spoke getting to his feet. “Minister Deval was also kind enough to inform me of your so called elfin strength and agility, and also how to defeat those talents. He said most of you were too trusting.”

Tarifa saw the look he gave to one of the guards behind her and she whirled faster than any human could to face the man, but it was already too late. The butt of the rifle was already moving and crashed into her face, causing her knees to buckle. Tarifa felt hands catch and hold her as something crashed into the back of her head, causing stars to flash into her vision.

“Minister Deval also told me about the pleasure one can have with a female elf.” Graham’s voice filled her clouded brain as she felt hands ripping away her uniform. “He told me that all of you have very tight pussies, and with the proper instruction give the most incredible blowjobs.”

Tarifa felt herself being lowered to the desk in the room, the metal cold against her now bare skin, as the remainder of her uniform was stripped from her. Her legs were looped with some sort of rope and tied to legs of the desk painfully.

Richard Graham stepped between Tarifa’s silky thighs unbuttoning his pants. “I intend to see just how accurate the Minister was in his descriptions. I was also made aware that you are quite deadly with your legs, so as you can see I have taken proper measures.” Graham stepped up to her, his steel hard seven inch cock in his hand. He rubbed it against Tarifa’s dry pussy, feeling the incredible heat. “Oh yes... I think I’m going to enjoy this.”

Tarifa screamed as Richard Graham shoved his entire cock into her in one painful lunge, thereby sealing his fate and the fates of those in the room with him. He ignored Tarifa’s wails of pain and protest and proceeded to brutally rape her.

EDEN

NINETY-NINE HOURS AFTER RAPTOR TWO'S RETURN

Julie answered the chime on their door dressed only in a tank top and chewing the piece of apple that, moments before, had been grazing against Anja's soft cunt lips. They had moved into the living room of their quarters and were now enjoying coffee and fruit together. Dan now wore a pair of dark boxer shorts, while Julie and Anja each wore one of his tank tops, which left little to the imagination on either of them. Dan was sitting with his back against one of the arms of the couch, Anja curled up on the couch. Julie had been lying between Anja's legs, and none of them had been embarrassed in the least that their hands wandered over each others most private parts as any lovers would had they been in the same position.

"Skipper what's wrong?" Julie spoke in surprise as Martin walked into their quarters without asking, the K12 clutched in his hand. She swallowed the apple she was chewing and followed him into the room, almost walking into the back of him when he stopped and saw Danny and Anja. Julie saw him visibly relax as she moved around to the side, but she knew something was wrong. She could smell the anger and indecision pouring off of him in waves. Danny and Anja quickly noticed him, and saw him return the K12 to the holster. Danny came to his feet, while Anja leaned forward on the couch her green eyes wide and pulled the t-shirt past her knees, suddenly very embarrassed at having Martin staring at her in this compromising position, and with two of his best friends. That sense of betrayal swept through her stronger now as she averted her eyes from Martin.

"Marty?" Dan asked as he stood up, moving slightly to stand in front of Anja, his own alarm at being seen by his closest friend and the man that he considered a brother rising. Not to mention that it was quite possible Martin still had deep feelings for Anja. "What's going on?"

Martin was looking directly at Anja, the look on his face one she had never seen before. It was very menacing and promised pain and death. "Tell me one thing Anja." He spoke softly as Anja got to her feet slowly. "Tell me this is not all part of a very dirty game you and Graham are playing."

"Martin... what are you talking about?" Anja asked, stepping a little closer to Julie, not at all liking the tone of Martin's voice. "What game?"

"Senator Graham and his snot nosed punk son!" Martin snapped. "Tell me you are not involved with them."

"Skipper... what are you talking about?" Julie asked, also sensing and smelling the anger that was pulsing through Martin's body. She stepped closer to Anja in an instinctive move of protection. "Anja's been here with us since we got back."

Anja suddenly knew what was happening. Something had happen that had caused Martin to act this way, and she had a pretty good idea of what it was considering her experience with Kevin and his father. She drew herself up to her full height of five foot three and crossed her arms under her breasts. "I have no idea what you are talking about, and I wouldn't let that rat fuck son of a bitch touch me again if he was the last man on the planet. I've been here since we got back."

Martin didn't have to ask her what she was doing, as he could smell the scents of all three of them in the room, and it was thick with passion and heat. His body relaxed even more, yet his mind screamed betrayal. He beat that thought down, knowing he had no claim over Anja and his face softened as he heard Anja say what his senses were already telling him.

"We have a problem." He finally spoke. "Graham has filed charges against Dan and Julie for imprisonment and rape."

All of their eyes went wide, but only Anja could speak. And her voice was filled with undisguised rage and hatred. "That slimy... no good... cock smelling son of a bitch!" Anja nearly screamed, turning to look for her uniform.

"Skipper you have got to be kidding?" Julie asked.

Martin shook his head. "Senator Graham is making a play for control of the station. While we were gone he was rallying the civilian portion of the station against Admiral Wallace. He also established a line of communication behind the Admiral's back."

"He established a line of communication with who Skipper?" Dan asked knowing he wasn't going to like the answer.

“The people in charge of the assholes we met on the surface.” Martin answered.

This statement caused Anja to come up short from trying to pull on her uniform, and all of them stared at Martin. “That’s not funny boss.” Dan said.

“The same people who created those creatures I did autopsies on?” Anja commented. “That’s insane!”

“Skipper, he did this in only the four days we’ve been back?” Julie asked astounded.

“He may be a politician, but he for damn sure ain’t stupid.” Martin answered shaking his head. “He started the minute we discovered what happened. According to the Admiral, he’s established a temporary civilian council that is solidly behind him. He’s keeping the Admiral on a tight leash and the Sweeper Team has gone underground. He’s drafted his own security force of civilian men and women, all loyal to him, and he has slowly been taking control of the station. The only reason he isn’t fully in charge now is because the Admiral has EDEN’s security teams guarding all the sensitive locations. I doubt that will remain like that for very long.”

“Jesus, it’s a fucking coup!” Dan spoke.

“And you know what he thinks of us.” Martin said. “He’s got charges outstanding on me as well as you two. He’s going to take us down one by one. I think the man has snapped.”

“He was already a fucking loon!” Anja told them. “And his son is even worse! Trust me I know!”

“Yeah well we need to come up with a plan quick.” Martin said.

“A plan for what Skipper?” Julie asked.

Martin looked at her. “The Admiral is not going to be able to stop this. Graham already has his claws into the civilian population of the station. The Admiral told me that when they found out we were returning with Tarifa and the others, he got three requests to use the female elves in a brothel one of the new council members wanted to set up to relieve stress. And he wanted to put the male elves to work in the sections that needed repairs since the crash.”

“Oh man it’s coming apart.” Dan spoke.

“It sure is, and we are going to be right at the center of it.” Martin told them.

“What are we going to do Skipper?”

Martin looked at them evenly. “We’re leaving EDEN.” He said finally.

EDEN

ONE HUNDRED AND EIGHT HOURS AFTER RAPTOR TWO’S RETURN

Admiral William Wallace moved quickly down the corridor of EDEN, nodding and smiling to those he passed, even though he was sick to his stomach. He had just left the Senator’s office, and had to restrain himself at what he had seen. The smirking bastard was dressed only in a robe, and his son and two guards were dragging Tarifa’s limp, naked form from the lounge adjoining Graham’s office. Even the brief glimpse he had seen caused him to shudder. She was badly beaten, her uniform torn to pieces, her face and hair covered in what appeared to be drying cum. That she had been repeatedly raped was obvious, that Graham was so calm and relaxed about it was what made him sick.

“They are made for our use Admiral.” Graham had said. “You should try it. I don’t believe I’ve ever had a tighter piece of ass in my life.”

Wallace had listened to what Graham told him, agreeing to everything, trying to buy time for Martin’s escape. Now he was striding towards the genome training area under the false auspicious of informing the other genomes they were being ordered to stand down. Wallace had no intention of telling them to stand down.

He entered the code for the training room and stepped into the darkened space. As the door slid closed behind him, the bright lights exploded on, and he found himself staring at a dozen HK74 assault rifles. Wallace didn’t blink.

“Where’s Marty?” He asked.

The weapons came down instantly and several of the genomes pointed to the rear section of the room through the door. Wallace marched away, the genomes returning to what they were doing. In the small planning room, Wallace found Martin hunched over the table with Ben, Danny and the female elf he knew as Endith. They turned when he came in.

“Admiral?” Martin spoke.

“Graham has moved faster than we anticipated. Four of the Sweeper Team agents have taken down communications and primary access to the computer core and reactors.” Wallace spoke. “This is rapidly moving toward his total control. You need to get the Elves and your team off EDEN Marty.”

“We’re working on that now sir.”

“I’ve already spoken to Ben and Tina. None of the Raptor crews want anything to do with that asshole Graham. They are prepping all the Raptors for departure quietly. Some of the civilian ground crew has gone to Ben and let him know they are not happy about what Graham is doing, and that there are others who feel the same way. They know everything is about to explode, and they were telling him they are not involved.” Wallace said.

“Will they let us leave?” Martin asked.

“Marty they want to go with you.” Wallace spoke. “Ben is prepping two Mark Nine transports for departure as well.”

“How many people are we talking here Skipper?” Martin asked.

“Several hundred at last count according to Ben.” Wallace spoke. “You have to take them Martin; if you leave them up here they’ll end up getting hurt.” He held out the data pads. “These are the new Command Codes to EDEN’s primary weapons grid, and the Heavy Weapons Storage Site. You’ll have to use the secondary command access codes, but take everything Martin. You got about twelve hours before the shit hits the fan, and all hell breaks loose. I can’t be seen helping you if I am going to stay up here and keep him from doing as much damage as I think he will.”

“Admiral he’ll have you killed if he discovers you helped us in any way. Or that you are holding him back.” Martin spoke.

“The man has snapped Marty. He thinks he’s a god now, and someone needs to stay here and attempt to keep him in check.” Wallace said.

“They took Tarifa.” Endith spoke urgently.

Wallace looked at Martin. “She’s been raped Martin. I saw Kevin and a couple of his goons dragging her out of the office lounge when I went in to see Graham. I don’t know where they took her.”

Martin’s face tightened. “I’ll find her.” He said with barely concealed rage in his voice. “Julie is stripping the communications warehouse, and Anja is discretely taking as much medical supplies as she can get. I got six Raptor’s shuttling the team to the secondary command site in shifts to keep anyone from getting suspicious.”

Wallace shook his head. “It won’t last Marty. Get the elves and all your people to the secondary sight through the tunnel as soon as possible. I got a feeling that things are going to go bang within a few hours. I can lock down the tunnel to the secondary sight from Command, and Ben will get the Raptors and Mark Nine’s clear to pick you up. Find your friend and get the hell out!”

“Yes sir!”

Martin watched Wallace leave and turned back to the others. “Master Chief, get the teams moving. Advise Major Anderson that anyone who wishes to go better meet us in the pre-arranged areas or we leave without them. Have Bravo squad get to the Heavy Weapons Site and strip it bare. Anything we can’t take with us, have them disable it.”

“On it Skipper.” Tony spoke turning away and heading out into another room.

“Danny contact Anja, have her meet us at the junction of section nineteen and twenty.” Martin spoke. “Let Jules know that whatever she’s got will have to do, and to start heading for the secondary tunnel.”

Martin looked at Endith as Dan turned to speak into his implant. “I will find Tarifa.” He told her. “I will find her and get her back. And I will kill anyone who has harmed her. I need you to get your people armed and let them know to follow whatever instructions my people give them to the letter. We know this station and can get around blindfolded in the dark. They have to trust us Endith, or none of us will live through this day.”

Endith had to gasp at the look she saw in Martin’s eyes. It was one of murderous rage. It also stunned her that he knew her name and used it with respect and firmness. She reached out and touched his arm. “I will tell them.” She spoke.

Martin nodded and looked at Dan. “Anja’s on her way Skipper and Jules and Cody are almost finished in the Com warehouse and will move in five.”

“Danny you’re with me.” Martin spoke as he holstered the K12 and picked up the HK74 and headed for the door.

Anja came up behind Martin and Danny with Julie and two elves in tow and saw where they were squatting at the junction of section nineteen and twenty. It was a little used portion of the base, the dimly lit corridors attesting to that. Martin was squatting down slightly in front of Danny when Anja touched his arm and he turned to her. His eyes took in the two elves and he looked at her with questions in his eyes.

“They were helping Julie and came with her.” Anja answered his unspoken question with a low voice that was almost a whisper. “Danny what’s going on?”

“That asshole Graham raped Tarifa, and the Admiral saw his son dragging her away. Martin is tracking her.” Danny whispered back. “They came this way because no one uses this portion of the station anymore.” He turned back to where Martin was absolutely motionless in the corridor.

Martin remained completely still, allowing his senses to guide him. Tarifa’s scent he would never forget and he could smell her as if she was next to him. He could also smell the fear and anger that was coming from her pores, and that smell fueled the animal within him. There was a mission they had conducted in the jungles of Panama where Martin had tracked an assassin for fifty miles through the thick humid jungle, and did so with ease. Following Tarifa’s scent now was child’s play to him. He clenched and unclenched his fists, trying to keep his anger in check, but the closer they got, and the more her frightened scent filled his nose, the harder he found it to reign in his emotions.

Martin turned slowly and saw that Anja and the others had arrived. He motioned silently with his hand at Danny, who nodded.

“They’re in the section conference room.” Dan told the others quietly.

“How many,” Julie asked.

Dan met her eyes. “Eleven.”

“Danny... we should...” Julie began but stopped as she saw Martin move off at a dead run when the decidedly female scream filled the empty corridor. “Fuck!”

They all broke into runs to follow Martin.

Kevin laughed as if a man possessed as he slammed his hard cock into Tarifa’s extremely tight cunt for the third time in as many hours. He had watched as his father brutally raped her for nearly an hour, finally crying out as he filled her with his cum. He had beaten her during the entire rape to keep her compliant and unable to resist. Then it was Kevin’s turn, and he did the same as his father, brutally taking Tarifa. The guards followed, forcing her to suck their engorged cocks, and brutally taking her pussy. When his father had her a second time, he told Kevin to take her and use her, to break her in as their new slave. He had gathered another half dozen men loyal to his father and brought her here to continue to rape. Tarifa’s clothes had been torn from her completely now, and she was exposed for all of the men to see. Bruises covered her upper body, a particularly large one announcing that her shoulder was separated.

As Kevin slammed into her, one of his men was brutally raping her mouth, plunging his hard cock between her lips while viciously pulling her silky hair. She was covered in dried cum and blood, while the others in the room laughed and joked, pawing at her exposed breasts and nipples, making it a point to hurt her as much as possible. Her cries of pain had turned to soft whimpers now, as she tried to detach her mind from what was happening.

Tarifa’s time in Marcus’s rape chambers had been much, much worse than what she was enduring now her mind told her. She only had to hold out until they were done using her and then she could escape. Yet her mind kept going back to Martin’s face, so handsome and beautiful. Her only thoughts now were how badly she had treated him, and how this would not be happening if not for her own actions.

Tarifa did not become aware of the huge echo in the room, or the sudden rush of air announcing the door to the conference room being blown in until Kevin stopped his sadistic pumping into her sore pussy. Her head turned slowly, her sapphire eyes focusing on the figure in the doorway as the guard's cock slipped from between her bruised lips. A tiny smile split her bloody lips.

"Martin..." She gasped, though no one heard her.

Martin stepped through the haze of smoke and dust and came to an abrupt stop at what he saw. His dark eyes froze in the grasp of horror and Martin only had to look once around the room before he allowed the beast within him to burst forth.

Anja followed Danny into the room, Julie and the elves right behind her. She came up short instantly for two reasons and her blood froze. The first reason was what she saw, and the anger and hatred that flashed through her mind at what was obviously happening. The second reason was what she saw happening to Martin right before her eyes.

Martin's face had changed into a vicious snarl, his dark eyes becoming large yellow orbs outlined in black. His canine teeth had extended to nearly three quarters of an inch in length, his skin becoming even darker than the normal tan he had. His face lengthened, turning into a short snout. His body became much more thickly muscled and he grew nearly six inches in height as dark black hair burst out over parts of his body, covering his exposed skin with a thin layer of fur, and the howl that split the air caused her to cringe as she watched him leap across the ten meters between him and Kevin in a single blink.

"Berserker!"

Danny's voice echoed beside her and Anja's head snapped around, her eyes growing even larger as she watched the same transformation that had taken place with Martin overtake Danny. His face changed, lengthening into a longer snout, large deadly fangs sprouting from his lips, blackish brown hair bursting out from beneath his uniform. With a howl similar to Martin's, Danny dispensed with the weapons that had occupied his hands seconds before, and scooped up the nearest guard to him, the man's eyes wide in terror at the snapping jaws and massive claws that proceeded to rip into his flesh. A flash of more ebony skin to her left made Anja whirl and witness Julie leap onto the back of another guard, her fingers now sporting two inch long claws, her own face distorted and more savage in nature, short black and white hair covering her skin. Long white fangs protruded from her jaw, her eyes like Martin and Danny's, yellow orbs outlined in black. Those claws ripped out the man's throat with no effort, blood fountaining across the floor in front of him. Julie let out a softer more feminine howl, if it could be called that, and leaped from the falling body to the next nearest guard who was frozen with his pants half down. He fumbled for the pistol on his pants, looking up just as Julie landed upon him, her claws ripping his face to shreds.

Kevin Graham had time enough to step back from between Tarifa's legs before Martin was upon him. Kevin's eyes were wide in terror as Martin grabbed him by the throat with one clawed hand and lifted him nearly eight inches off the floor, his half naked body flying across the room before slamming into the opposite wall. Kevin squealed in pain as his shoulder and three of his ribs were crushed like dry twigs from the force of the impact and he slumped to the floor.

Anja could only watch in terrified awe as Danny swung one guard in his hands as if he was swinging a baseball bat. The man's head was already a crushed melon from impacting the unyielding steel wall, and blood flew in all directions as Danny used the lifeless body to pummel two more men to the floor. The two female elves stood behind Anja with the same look of disbelief at what they were witnessing. Anja watched as Martin stepped up to Kevin, his clawed hand now lifting him effortlessly by his throat, pinning him to the wall. Kevin stared into the yellow and black eyes that Martin now had with unabashed horror. The dark black hair covering Martin's face and neck gave him an absolutely terrifying look.

Martin leaned closer to Kevin, his fangs extended beyond his lips now in a wicked snarl that one would normally see only from an attacking wolf, and not from a human being.

"It's time to die little man!" Martin growled with undisguised rage.

"No! Wait! I'm sorry... I..."

Kevin Graham never finished his sentence as Martin's face snapped forward and the teeth filled snout tore into the flesh of Kevin's throat. Blood bubbled forth from his mouth, his eyes bugging out of his head, his arms and legs twitching. Anja watched as if in slow motion, frozen in her spot, as guard who had recovered his wits enough to pick up a steel chair slammed it across the back of Martin's head, paying the ultimate price as

Martin dropped the twitching body of Kevin Graham and spin around in half a blink. His clawed hand slashed out, ripping open the man's chest so deeply that blood showered across Martin's uniform. As he started to fall, Martin drove the palm of his hand into the man's face, crushing his nose and driving the cartilage deeply into his brain. The force of the blow also shattered his neck and tossed him across the room to slam into the wall. His body dropped to the floor, eyes open in death, with blood leaking explosively from his nose, mouth and ears.

Julie landed on the end of the conference table, her claws bloody as the body of the last guard she had ripped open fell to the floor behind her. Danny launched the now unrecognizable body of the man he had been swinging across the room, leaving four pulverized dead guards on the floor around him. The body hit the wall with a sickening crunching noise and fell to the floor.

Just as quickly as it had begun it was over, and Anja watched their features return to normal in a matter of seconds. She still wore an astonished expression on her face as Martin moved to the table where Tarifa lay. He tore off the top of his uniform without thinking, exposing the tank top he wore underneath, and delicately draped it over Tarifa's near naked form. He looked at her badly beaten body and face, his own face twisted in anguish, his hands gently lifting her head to look at him.

"Ta... Tarifa are you...?" He spoke softly.

Her beautiful eyes opened slowly and she looked at him. "I... I knew you would come." She spoke softly. "Somehow... somehow I knew."

"I will always come for you." Martin told her without really knowing why, but knowing it was the truth, "Anja!" He yelled looking up.

Anja snapped out of her stunned stupor and rushed to the table, her medical kit coming off her shoulder before she reached the edge. She passed the portable medical scanner over Tarifa's body quickly. "She has some deep bruising and lacerations, but no internal injuries!" Anja spoke looking at Martin wide eyed. "Martin... Martin what did I just see?"

"We have to go!" Martin spoke quickly and ignoring her question. "Danny is it clear?"

Danny had taken up position by the door, the HK74 now back in his hands and he turned instantly, "Clear Skipper!"

"Inform the Master Chief we are inbound from the tunnel!" Martin said, sliding his arms gently under Tarifa's body.

"We... we will carry the Queen!" The male elf protested; his eyes wide and his hands shaking as he stepped forward, his eyes never leaving Martin, and looking at him with a great deal of fear.

Julie got between him. "Now is not the time." She snapped. "The Skipper can move faster and longer carrying her than you. We need to go!"

Martin lifted Tarifa with no effort into his arms, her eyes fluttering open. "Where... where are you taking me?" She asked softly.

Martin looked into her eyes. "Someplace safe." He replied softly, breathing deeply of her peach scent. He closed his eyes and pressed his face to her hair, not caring that her hair was caked with the dried cum of at least five different men, all men who were now very dead in the most violent and savage of manners.

"Danny you lead us out!" Martin called finally. "Julie you got the rear! Kill anything that gets in our way!"

Anja shared a quick look with Danny before he disappeared into the corridor. She turned to look at Julie, who was watching her closely. She detected the questions in Anja's eyes, the fear and the hesitation to speak. Julie stepped up to her, lifting the HK to her hip.

"We are still the same people lover." She spoke softly. "No matter what we can do, never doubt that. We can talk later, but now we need to get out of here." She motioned Anja forward to follow Martin and the elves, and Anja grabbed her bag and fell in line.

SECONDARY COMMAND SITE

ONE HUNDRED AND TEN HOURS AFTER RAPTOR TWO'S RETURN

The Raptor's engines were idling at quarter power, the sound deafening even in the confines of the massive hanger bay. As they entered the bay, Martin and the others saw three Raptors lifting off and moving for the massive overhead doors that were opening above them to reveal another set of huge doors. Once above the first set of doors, they began to close until they came back together with a loud sealing hiss.

"Raptors Nine, Ten and Eleven are away." The voice echoed in the huge bay.

Endith and Ben came sprinting down the ramp of the single remaining Raptor and ran over to meet them. Martin stopped a little behind the group as Endith came up to him. Her face took on a look of horror as she stopped in front of him.

"My Queen," She gasped.

"Who is on the Raptor?" Martin asked looking at her. Endith reached out to touch her Queen's bruised cheek. "Endith look at me!" Martin barked, snapping her out of her horrified expression. She looked up at him. "Who is on the Raptor?"

Endith shook her head quickly. "There is... just... just... a small group of your technicians and those elves who came with Tarifa and I."

"Take off your uniform top." Martin directed her. "I don't want anyone to see her like this."

Endith did, as she was told without question; quickly stripping out of her top revealing that she wore nothing underneath, her breasts tanned and very firm. She draped the uniform top over Tarifa's legs as Martin held her. Tarifa's head was tucked into his chest, one of her hands pressed against Martin's abdomen. Anja did not think and removed her fatigue top, handing it to Endith from where she stood next to Martin. She at least still wore Danny's tank top.

Endith looked at Martin, her green eyes turning hard. "The... the monsters who did this? They are...?" She asked.

Martin met her eyes. "They are dead." Martin told her, looking at Ben as he came up slowly, "Status?"

"We're... we're ready to beat feet Marty." Ben said looking at him. "The Admiral... the Admiral didn't make it?"

"The Admiral is staying." Martin told him, causing the others to look at him. "He is staying to try and minimize any damage Graham may do."

"They'll kill him if they find out Martin." Ben spoke.

"Martin nodded. "The Admiral knows the risks."

"Well Graham's got security moving through the tunnel towards our location now. I ordered everyone up and the ships are already enroute to the surface. The Admiral was able to disable the weapons grid and tracking radar before they could bring them on line, but he wasn't able to seal the tunnel."

"Vent the tunnel." Martin ordered with no hesitation.

"Martin that will... that will kill those men!" Anja spoke from beside him.

Martin met her gaze evenly. "They should have thought about that before they did this!" He growled. He turned back to Ben. "Tell Tina to vent the tunnel and let's get the hell out of here!"

"Where are we going Marty?" Ben asked. "We have no friends down there, and the Mark Nine's are full of civilians; men, women and children. The Admiral said we needed to look out for them!"

"EDEN Ground Command." Martin said.

Ben shook his head. "The place is crawling with those Alliance assholes, and it won't hold thirteen hundred civilians!"

"Thirteen hundred," Martin gasped wide eyed.

Endith looked at him. "I will show you a place." She spoke. "It is large enough for all of your people and the Alliance does not know of it."

"Why should we trust you?" Ben asked.

Endith looked at Martin before answering. "You have saved our Queen that is why."

Martin nodded. "Let's go." He spoke moving for the Raptor.

Tarifa awoke with a start, her eyes popping open to the dimly lit interior of what she remembered to be the inside of a Raptor. She could see sleeping figures all around her, most of them human and elves, but the darker green of genomes scattered throughout. She lifted her head slightly and realized she was lying on several blankets that had been spread out on the web seats under her. She was extremely sore, and the memories of what had happened came rushing back, as well as the memories of Martin rescuing her yet again. She reached up to feel her hair, and was startled to find it slightly damp and smelling of strawberries. It was then she noticed she wore the dark uniform similar to what the genomes wore. Her keen eyes could see Endith slowly making her way towards where she sat, and she remembered the escape they had made from EDEN, or at least all that she could.

Tarifa looked at her as Endith settled onto the bench. "My Queen, how do you feel?" She spoke.

"Where are we Endith?" Tarifa asked.

"We have left the moon My Queen." Endith reported.

"What of our people?" Tarifa asked quickly, starting to rise but a wave of nausea swept over her and she sat back down.

"The human doctor Anja gave you something to help you sleep my Queen. She said it would make you nauseous when you first awoke and to remain seated for a few minutes." Endith told her, taking her arm. "Our people are safe, all of them. Martin... Martin's team got all of us out. My Queen... you..."

Tarifa looked at her, understanding in her eyes. "I have been raped many times before Endith, I will be fine." She touched her hair again. "Who bathed me?"

"Martin did my Queen." Endith replied, seeing Tarifa's eyes widen at this knowledge. "He refused to allow anyone to touch you in your condition, at least until you were clean. He carried you into the small shower and washed you before bringing you back here to us with the clothes you now wear. We dressed you my Queen."

"Martin... Martin bathed me?" Tarifa asked almost too quietly. "He did not..."

"My Queen... he was fully dressed the entire time. When he brought you from the shower his entire uniform was soaked. He ordered everyone forward until he was finished, and only then allowed them to return back here. Some of the human technicians arranged the bed you were sleeping on." Endith told her.

"What took place Endith?" Tarifa asked. "All I remember is Graham telling me he had contacted the Alliance, and that we would be his slaves until they had established a more direct means of communicating with them. He said he had spoken with Deval!"

Endith nodded. "He forcibly took control of the station my Queen. There were several battles, but the ones like Martin... the genomes... were able to escape along with over a thousand men, women and children who were against Senator Graham. We are heading back to earth. I have directed them to the ruins of Old Las Vegas Tarifa. The old military base the Holy One took us to when we were children. It is large enough to hold all of their people and the Alliance never ventures that far into our territory."

"He... he saved me again Endith." Tarifa spoke softly.

"My Queen I spoke with the two elves that were assisting the dark skinned genome called Julie. They were with him when he found you. They told me what happened. He... he became..." Endith looked at the floor.

"What Endith?"

"They said he changed into a monster." Endith told her. "The genomes Julie and Danny changed as well. They... they all changed. The men who were... the men who were raping you did not survive. They... they had become part animal, with claws and fangs. Their strength and speed was like nothing they had seen, even from a Grizz Beast. They said he was enraged over what was being done to you and it was as if he went insane. And they were able to change at will, for when the men were dead, they returned to normal immediately."

"I spoke with... Julie before we left. She said all of them had animal DNA genetically grafted to their own. It is what allows them to do what they do, and why they are not entirely human." Tarifa spoke. "I did not know they could actually change."

"My Queen... did I do the right thing?" Endith asked. "Should we fear these men and women? Their abilities far exceed anything we as elves could do. Just the few on these ships alone could destroy us all."

Tarifa looked at her. "They have risked all that they know to save us." Tarifa spoke. "They did not have to come to our aide the first time, and they most certainly could have left us on the station with that beast Graham. No... I believe we may have found the one thing that will help us in our battle against the Alliance. They will be hunted now too, and something tells me they will not like that one bit."

Endith looked at her and nodded slowly. "I see your point."

“Where is Martin?” She asked, her eyes searching the sleeping bodies all around them.

“I believe he went into the space where they fly this machine my Queen.” Endith spoke pointing to the cockpit.

Tarifa turned her eyes to the cockpit and got slowly to her feet, the nausea gone now. “I need to speak with him.” She said.

ROAN PLATEAU

Dysea looked at the remains of the village that occupied the entrance to the cave at the base of the mountain. The fast running creek moved past directly to the east of the village, disappearing into the thick forest all around them. They had arrived a few hours before, and her troops had set up a small camp, while the two forensic technicians went to work gathering any type of information they could. Blood still stained the walls of many of the one story structures built from rocks taken from within the cave. Dysea had seen only pictures of what had happened here, bodies of the men, women and the children slaughtered like simple hogs, lying scattered all around. Their bodies had been mutilated horribly; body parts severed from their limbs with edged weapons, or shot dozens and dozens of times.

Walter stepped up to stand next to her and she looked up at him. “It... it is hard to remain objective after seeing the pictures of what happen here Holy One.” Dysea spoke softly.

Walter nodded. “I know. I saw the pictures as well child, and that is precisely why I don’t believe this act was committed by Tarifa’s forces. You don’t know her as I do Dysea. She is a warrior yes, but in all the battles I have seen her in, never once has she committed or allowed to be committed the acts of savagery we saw done here.”

“Elf weapons were used Holy One.” Dysea said. “All the bodies were killed by either our caseless ammunition or by elfin edged weapons.”

Walter nodded. “Or it was made to appear that way.” He spoke. “You told me you would try to be objective.”

“And I will be Holy One.” Dysea said. “It is just very difficult when we are actually here.”

“I know child. I know.” Walter spoke.

They turned as one of the scientists walked slowly up to them, her face looking confused. She stopped in front of them, “Majesty.”

“What have you found Tomea?” Dysea asked.

“It is odd milady.” She answered. “I was one of the original team sent to investigate and collect the bodies of the dead. We were told by the Council only to collect the bodies and determine what weapons were used to kill them and nothing more.”

Dysea glanced at Walter before turning back to the young female elf. “Continue Tomea.” She said.

“Milady I have researched all the battles the High Elves have participated in against the Alliance. At least all of the battles we know about, and the information we have on those events indicates they fight very similar to us. They use their speed and reflexes to be precise and accurate.” Tomea looked at her now. “I brought the data pads from my lab milady, the ones that showed the positioning of all the bodies as we found them. The pictures do not match what we are finding.”

Dysea’s brow furrowed. “I do not understand.”

“The blood spatter and condition of the ground around where we found many of the bodies indicates they were not killed in the positions we found them in.” Tomea told her. “They were placed in the positions we found them but they were killed somewhere else.”

“You did not discover this when you were first here?” Dysea asked.

“As I said milady, the Council’s direction was explicit, to simply gather the bodies and discover what killed our people.” Tomea replied with an almost embarrassed look.

“Tomea!” The male voice echoed from across the village, causing them to turn toward the sound.

“Brator has found something!” Tomea spoke breaking into a run toward where the young elf stood. Dysea and Walter followed her and they covered the distance to the young elf quickly. His face was paler than normal and Dysea knew something was wrong.

“I... I found something.” He gasped, motioning them to follow him. Brator led them a short distance into the forest. “I discovered a blood trail from the nearest structure there. It appeared as if it had been covered with leaves and dirt. There has been no rain in this area for over a week and it was easy enough to follow.” He stopped and motioned with his hand. “I found this.”

There was an audible gasp from both Tomea and Dysea at what they saw. Spread out before them was an area that had been cleared out and used for what appeared to be an execution area. There was dried blood everywhere, on the leaves and tress all around them. Several large stumps had been dragged into the small clearing and their tops were saturated with blood and the marks of edged weapons.

Tomea shook her head slowly. “This is where they were killed.” She said softly. “It looks like... it...”

“An Execution Arena,” Dysea finished the statement for her. Dysea’s green eyes were burning in rage.

“Milady...” Tomea spoke again. “This act was not committed by High Elves.”

Dysea looked at her. “Concentrate your investigations on this area.” She ordered. “I want to know who killed our people.” She turned away quickly and started back to where they had established their small camp.

Walter followed her, sensing the seething anger that was pouring from her. “You must remain in control Dysea.” He spoke from behind her.

Dysea stopped and spun around to face him, her face a mask of anger. “Two hundred and nineteen men, women and children were butchered here!” She snapped.

“Tarifa and the High Elves did not commit this act Dysea; even you must see that now.” Walter said calmly.

“Perhaps not Holy One.” She answered, regaining control of her emotions. “It appears you may have been correct. If that is indeed the case, then I want to know who did. And then I will have vengeance.”

“You may not like what you may find Dysea.” Walter spoke. “Have you considered that?”

Dysea met his eyes. “Yes I have.” She replied. “And whoever is responsible for this atrocity will answer to me, no matter who they are!”

RAPTOR TWO THREE HOURS FROM EARTH

Tarifa entered the cockpit of Raptor Two slowly, her eyes wide in amazement at the myriad of instruments and advanced controls. She could see the stars out of the cockpit window, as well as the blue/green planet in front of her that was earth. She saw Tina turn in her co-pilot’s chair, Ben asleep in the pilot’s chair next to her. Tarifa came fully into the cockpit, Tina’s eyes watching her carefully.

“That... that is earth?” She asked.

Tina nodded with a smile. “That’s earth.”

“It looks... it looks so peaceful.” Tarifa said softly.

“Yeah... well looks can be deceiving.” Tina told her.

Tarifa looked at her now. “I was... I was looking for...”

“Marty’s up top,” Tina told her, motioning to the small circular stairway to her right, “The observation deck.”

“Is he alone?” Tarifa asked.

Tina smiled. “Last time I checked he was.”

Tarifa looked away almost shyly. “Thank you.” She said softly, before moving for the stairs. The stairs were similar to what she had seen in old pictures that the Holy One had given her about the large planes that used to traverse the skies. She wound up the stairs twice and found herself in a room where the top portion of the ceiling was nothing more than an open glass container that allowed you to see the billions of stars all around. There was a small table in the center of the room, with two couches along the wall. Another small door was in the back of the room as she stepped fully onto the observation deck. She saw where the glass window stopped and became metal again, extending back along the length of the top of the Raptor.

She froze when the small door in the rear opened and Martin stepped out toweling off his face. He was shirtless, and Tarifa felt a sexual rush course through her looking at his broad hairless chest, and the tightly packed abdomen of muscles. Black flame tattoos spread out from his abdomen to his encompass his chest, and spreading out under his arms. They were similar to the flame tattoos that extended down his arms and across his broad shoulders. When she was able to tear her eyes from his bare skin she found he was looking directly at her, and in the dim light of the observation deck his eyes appeared to be softly glowing.

“I thought you were still sleeping.” His voice interrupted her thoughts.

“I’ve... I’ve been awake for a short time.” She answered, moving closer to him. “I was talking with Endith.”

“Tarifa... I...” Martin began.

Tarifa used her elfin reflexes to cross the small room to stand in front of him in a single eye blink. Looking up into his face, she placed her finger on his lips to stop his words. “You... of all people... have nothing to apologize to me for. You have saved my life again. Why did you do this Martin? Endith told me what took place. You could have taken the others and left, yet you risked your life and the lives of others to come and rescue me. Why?”

Martin looked at her, her sapphire eyes nearly taking his breath away. Her peach scent filled the room, and he inhaled deeply, allowing it to course through him. “It... it was the right thing to do.” He spoke finally.

Tarifa smiled gently. “You are not a very good lair Martin Hunter.” She said.

Martin looked at her. “I... I didn’t want to lose you.” He said finally.

Tarifa looked at him and at that moment she knew what she wanted. She wanted Martin. She wanted him to purge all the vileness from her body, and make her feel like a complete woman again. “Kiss me Martin.” She said softly.

Martin’s eyes grew a little wider. He shook his head slowly. “I can’t.”

Tarifa stepped closer to him, her hands sliding down his broad chest and around his waist. “Kiss me Martin.” She said again, looking up at him, her eyes bright and clear.

“Tarifa... I can’t do that.” He told her, his voice almost pleading.

“Why?”

“I... I don’t know if I will be able... able to stop this time.” He told her honestly.

“You... you are the first man who has ever kissed me Martin Hunter.” She told him softly. “And I... I don’t want you to stop.”

Martin looked shocked at her words. “Tarifa... you were just... what they did to you? I... I couldn’t stop it in time. I... what you are asking...”

“What I am asking Martin, is for you to make love to me.” She told him, her voice husky with passion now. “Right here... right now... to purge them from me, from my soul. I’m... I’m asking you to... to make me whole again.”

Tarifa gasped in surprise when he lifted her into his arms, crushing her to him. She had no time to think as he covered her lips with his own and kissed her. Oh did he kiss her. Tarifa locked her legs around his waist, and wrapped her arms around his shoulders, her whole body igniting in burning heat and need.

Tarifa groaned into his mouth as her body shuddered in a soul conquering orgasm from just a single kiss.

EDEN

ELEVEN HOURS AFTER MARTIN’S ESCAPE

Richard Graham looked at the remains of his son and the men with him and tried not to vomit all over the room. It had taken them nearly eight hours to recover from the acts of sabotage that the genomes had committed to aide their escape. Only one of the remaining five Raptors was flyable, the other two Mark Nine transports also disabled. The entire weapons grid of EDEN had been taken offline and infected with a virus so the turret based lasers could not fire on the traitor’s ships as they fled. Admiral Wallace, who had been discovered in his private quarters beaten and unconscious, was livid with anger over what the men he thought he commanded had done. At first Graham had thought Wallace had been involved, until he was discovered beaten and bloody, his command codes stripped from him. When Richard had seen him again, he had not changed out of the bloody uniform and was directing the technicians in the Command Center with shouts of anger as they tried to get the weapons back on line. Graham considered himself an excellent judge of character, and he knew that Wallace was fully on his side now, and the sight of him squatting over the remains of his son and the other guards shaking in obvious rage confirmed it for him.

“...vicious brutal motherfucker,” Wallace finally spat as he got to his feet and turned to face Graham.

“What... what did this William?” Graham asked his own face ashen and pale.

Wallace stepped up to him slowly. “It was Hunter.” He said.

Graham looked stunned. “Hunter! But... it looks like... it looks as if they were torn apart by animals!”

Wallace nodded slowly. “They were... in a sense.” He answered slowly turning to face Graham and make the lie seem truthful. “Martin and his team have the ability to transform into versions of the animal that were grafted to their DNA. Martin and the others animal counterpart was a wolf; they can partially transform themselves into humanlike versions of these animals and do incredible damage, as you can see.”

“This... this is not something that was commonly known.” Graham spoke. “You knew this?”

Wallace nodded. “It was not made public knowledge because it was deemed that Hunter and his team had complete control over when they could transform, and to what extent. That decision was made far above my pay grade Senator.”

“I thought you trusted this man?” Graham asked him.

“I did Senator, until he came into my quarters and beat me senseless.” Wallace spoke heatedly. “He betrayed me, and nearly disabled the entire base in the process. All because of some pretty piece of ass!”

“I want charges of murder drawn up for his entire team!” Graham spoke. “Once we get the station repaired, how soon until we can go after them?”

Wallace shook his head. “We only have one Raptor capable of flying. The others need new avionics and a complete purging of their systems. Ben and Tina helped design the Raptors, and they knew just what to do to fuck them up good.”

“Can we contact the Alliance to go after them?” Graham asked.

Wallace looked at him. “Do we want to let them know how damaged we are sir?” He asked. “We can give them the transponders for the craft that have escaped, but we shouldn’t make them aware of what damage we have suffered up here. It might weaken our position to do so. And it would not allow you to negotiate with them from a position of strength.”

Graham nodded slowly. “Yes... I see your point Admiral.” He said. “And I agree with you. I have to say... you seem to have changed your tone where Hunter is involved.”

“To be honest Senator, I’ve only trusted him to a point. And now that he has fucked me over, I want him to pay.” Wallace growled.

Richard Graham smiled. “So do I. Stick with me Admiral, I’ll have you fully on my team in no time.”

“What about the body of your son Senator?” Wallace asked. “What do you want done?”

Graham looked at the bloody body of his only son and shrugged. “He was a fucking weakling anyway. Burn his body with the rest of these idiots.”

Wallace nodded. “I’ll have a full report of our readiness for you in two hours Senator.”

Graham nodded. “Excellent. I’m going to contact this Minister Deval and have a talk with him in regards to our future relationship.” He saw Wallace start to say something and held up his hand. “Don’t worry... I will say nothing about our condition or capabilities. As you said, negotiating from a position of strength is much better.”

“May I suggest you ask him to supply some of those elves to assist in the more dangerous repairs Senator?” Wallace spoke. “If they are as gifted as we have been led to believe, then we can use them to conduct the more dangerous repairs.”

“That is an excellent idea Admiral.” Graham said with a cruel smile. “Report to me when you have what you think you need.”

RAPTOR TWO

Tarifa’s eyes were open wide, her body flush and hot. Her shimmering black hair was spread across the end of the couch, her breath coming in deep gulps. She was completely naked; her firm, tanned 34C breasts standing proud. Her nipples were almost painfully erect and covered in Martin’s saliva. Her fingers were entwined tightly in Martin's dark hair, and she was in the process of experiencing something that was totally new and wondrous to her.

Tarifa could feel Martin's warm breath on her utterly soaked pussy, his warm tongue slowly licking up the outside of her cunt lips. She had protested at first as Martin's lips and tongue had left her breasts. Her tits were extremely sensitive, and he had driven her to the edge nibbling her burning nipples while his hands squeezed and cupped her breasts. No man had ever manipulated her tits as Martin had and his sharp fangs drew gasps of pleasure and delight as he dragged them softly over her nipples. Tarifa had protested when he descended lower down her abdomen, his tongue leaving a trail of soft kisses and nibbles on her skin. She had tried to pull his face back up, but Martin had pinned her arms to her sides with his strong grasp. A flash of fear had coursed through Tarifa, until that is, she felt his warm moist tongue drag gloriously across her engorged clit, and her entire world exploded.

Tarifa's cry of pleasure was muffled as she bit her bottom lip; the power of the second orgasm Martin gave her collapsing all her barriers, causing her supple body to arch off the couch as she erupted in orgasm. His soft lips had fastened over her spasming pussy and he had drunk her juices as if he was dying of thirst. He did not stop there once she had collapsed back to the couch her chest heaving in unimaginable bliss. His lips and tongue continued to dance across her sensitive pussy and clit, alternating between soft nibbles and licks, and his warm tongue plunging deeply into her dripping snatch. Tarifa had not even recovered from her first orgasm, before a second even more powerful one caused her to shudder almost violently in his grasp and reward him with more of her sweet juices which he hungrily lapped up.

Martin was nearly beyond control as he stared at the beautiful pussy in front of his face. It was open like a butterfly now, dripping with Tarifa's peach tasting cum, and one of the most beautiful sights Martin had ever seen. His mind was thrown back years to a similar sight of even more beauty in his eyes, the soft Persian red hair above the erect clit and proud pussy lips.

The thin line of perfectly trimmed black hair just above her erect and stimulated clit only added to the beauty of Tarifa's pussy, and Martin had buried his nose in that soft hair more than once since beginning his feast. He was ready now, having freed himself of his combat boots and pants, and his thick twelve inch cock was throbbing almost painfully. The single long vein that traversed the length of his pulsing shaft was standing out prominently, the head of his cock flared and leaking pre-cum. Slowly Martin dragged his tongue back up Tarifa's quivering body, tracing every contour of her abdomen and her perfect tits. He dipped his head to the side of her face, his tongue trailing along the edge of her elfin ear all the way to very point, eliciting gasps of pleasure from Tarifa, her hands clutching his shoulders. It was then he discovered that the ridges of her ears were an erogenous zone.

Tarifa's eyes grew large when she felt the head of his huge cock graze her erect clit and he dragged the entire length of his throbbing shaft slowly over her clit as he teased her ear. Tarifa wrapped her arms around his back, her eyes wide in astonishment and wondering if his huge cock would ever end, and hoping it never would. Her eyes finally closed in bliss when she felt his hot heavy balls press against her dripping pussy. And then he began to drag his thick cock back down her clit, and Tarifa had to grit her teeth as another orgasm ripped through her. Her nails dug into his powerful back, her elfin strength causing Martin to hiss in her ear until he was looking at her with blazing dark eyes filled with nothing but passion and want.

Tarifa kissed him hard, shoving her tongue between his lips to do battle with his own tongue. It was a battle she quickly lost, as his warm tongue possessed her. She took his face in her hands, pulling his lips away from her while she still had some semblance of control. She felt the huge hot head of his cock press against the entrance to her cunt, parting her pussy lips ever so slightly.

"Martin it's... you are too big!" Tarifa gasped as he lowered his face to her throat, his fangs nibbling her skin.

Martin raised his head to stare at her, his eyes now the same yellow and black orbs, as they had been when he had rescued her. Tarifa knew then he had allowed the animal in him to come out. He smiled at her, his fangs clearly evident. "I won't hurt you!" She heard him say as the huge head of his cock pressed against her slippery cunt lips. Tarifa's eyes grew huge, her mouth opened and her lips forming a circle as she felt him slowly push more of his massive cock into her.

The total wetness of her cunt allowed Martin to slide four inches of his thick cock into her blazing hot and velvety pussy. Tarifa's pussy clamped down on his cock with incredible strength and he gasped in pleasure, his mouth open and his fangs extended to their full length of nearly a full inch. The tightness and heat of her pussy brought back intense memories of another feeling and as those flash of that equally beautiful face burned its way across his brain it was entirely too much for him and with loud grunt Martin's cock erupted inside her. Tarifa eye's rolled back into her head as she felt him explode into her depths with a force unlike anything she had ever felt. His boiling hot cum flooded her belly, triggering an orgasm so intense it dwarfed the others before it. Her sweet juices splashed wetly over his erupting cock, and without any resistance at all, she felt Martin's entire twelve inch cock slid into her depths until his heavy spurting balls planted firmly against her ass cheeks. It was at that moment that Tarifa became whole. The rapes she had endured in her life, the slobbering idiots who had drooled over her, even the male elves that had tried to please her, all of them passed into nothing as Martin's cock reached into her depths and filled her with his essence. Tarifa felt no pain as the largest cock she had ever seen, let alone feel inside her, bottomed out within the depths of her clutching pussy and sent her into a land of pleasure she never dreamed could exist.

The only thing she was aware of at the moment was the continually erupting cock inside her and her own orgasm that was gripping her with such intensity she thought her muscles were going to rip through her skin.

And then Tarifa screamed in wanton bliss, no longer caring who heard her.

Martin joined her, an almost wolf like howl escaping from his throat as Tarifa's powerful legs clamped together at the small of his back and her arms went around his shoulders. The heat and tightness of her sweet pussy was too much for his control to bear, and when her cunt began to milk his thick cock he howled.

Endith burst into the cockpit of the Raptor at the sound of Tarifa's scream. No one else had awakened due to his or her own exhaustive sleep, and only Endith had heard the rapturous cries. She saw Tina pulling the door to the observation deck closed just as she entered a small smile on her face.

"The Queen," Endith gasped.

Tina looked at Ben, who was still sleeping soundly and then back to Endith. "Something tells me that your Queen does not want to be disturbed at this moment." She said.

"The beast is killing her!" Endith exclaimed.

Tina turned to a small screen on the console and activated it. "Tell me something. Does this look like he's killing your Queen?"

Confused Endith stepped to the screen and her eyes flew open. She saw her queen underneath Martin's naked body, her legs locked around his waist while her hands seemed to be trying to draw him closer to her. Her face was contorted into a blissful mask as she showered Martin's shoulder and the side of his face with kisses and bites.

"What... what is he doing to her?" Endith asked almost stupidly.

Tina smiled. "If I had to guess, I'd say he is banging the crap out of her." Tina turned the monitor off and took her arm. "I gather from your expression that you have never... you've never had a man make love to you?"

Endith looked at her shyly. "My duty has always been to protect the Queen. I... I never had time for such... experiences."

Tina's eyebrow went up in a thoughtful manner. She had never entertained the thought of sex with another woman, but this elf Endith was very hot looking, and she and Ben had always talked of spicing up their love life. "Let's talk Endith."

Martin was still as hard as steel buried deeply inside Tarifa's tight pussy as he lifted his head from where he had buried it in her hair when he had started to cum. He opened his eyes slowly to look at Tarifa, hoping not to see pain and anger. He had lost control and plunged into her depths more quickly than he had intended as he blasted his cum into her. When he looked at her face, she was looking up at him with a dreamy smile, her lips wet from his kisses and her own saliva.

"Hi." He said softly, unable to think of anything else at the moment.

Tarifa stared into his eyes and saw what she had always sought to see in a man's eyes. She saw an adoring love and passion, and all of it directed at her. "Hello." She answered him back with the sweetest smile she could muster.

"Tarifa... I..."

"I want more." Tarifa told him firmly, looking directly into his eyes.

"Ex... excuse me?" Martin said.

"I want... I want you to take... to take me again!" As if to emphasize her request Tarifa clenched her pussy muscles around his belly filling cock, and she grinned almost wickedly when Martin groaned loudly.

"Tarifa... you... I..."

Tarifa, using her elfin strength and taking him completely by surprise, pushed Martin off her chest and into a sitting position. His hands went instinctively to her ass cheeks and held their groins together as she pushed him back onto the couch. Tarifa groaned as his massive cock sank even deeper into her blazing hot pussy, and her head fell to his shoulder as she quivered in a tiny orgasm from just that small motion. She was impaled so deeply on his immense shaft that her tight ass was resting atop his equally large balls. She clutched his shoulders, sitting on his cock while the orgasm passed slowly, once more coating his thick shaft with her juices. Finally she brought her head up and gently took his surprised face in her hands, kissing him deeply. She made it a point to crush her firm tits into his powerful chest, her sensitive nipples pressed into his hot skin and sending small shivers through her.

Tarifa drew back from their kiss, trailing her moist tongue across his lips sensuously, relishing in the taste of her own pussy juices on his lips. She looked at him with wide sapphire eyes that projected her own hungry passion.

"You... you have purged me Martin Hunter." Tarifa told him. "You have purged me of all men who have ever taken me against my will."

"I... I just did the same thing!" Martin told her confused.

Tarifa shook her head quickly. "No... you did no such thing!" She spoke caressing his face. "You freed me from the fear."

Martin closed his eyes, partly from Tarifa's clenching pussy and the pleasure it sent crashing through his brain, and partly because he was ashamed he had lost control. "I lost control Tarifa." He said finally. "I let... I let the beast within me take over."

Tarifa smiled at him. "Do you honestly believe I would be... I would be sitting in your lap with your beautiful cock still inside me... if you had forced me?" She asked.

"I..." Martin could not put into words what was going through his head.

Tarifa saw his confusion and remembered the words of the Holy One in the transmission he had left for Martin. She can be the rock you need to begin rebuilding what has been destroyed. The Queen of the Wood Elves is Dysea. You will not mistake her for someone else when you see her Martin, for she is the one I hope you will begin rebuilding your life with Tarifa knew at that moment what the Holy One had meant. This man that had so possessed her, he was the future, and whether they would remain lovers or move on to others, they would always be together. Tarifa took his hands from where they rested on her ass and placed them on her tits, holding them to her firm melons.

"That beast inside you is what purged me Martin." Tarifa spoke, holding her hands over his on her breasts. "Now I want that beast to possess my very being and set me free."

Martin's eyes grew a little brighter at her words and he leaned forward slightly, flexing his cock inside her. Tarifa smiled at his action and moved her hands to his face where she stared into those eyes that had so enthralled her from the moment she had met him.

"Possess me Martin!" She gasped at him. "Make love to me until I am screaming in your arms. Fuck me until we can no longer move!" Tarifa saw his fangs begin to extend again his eyes changing color and she smiled as he took his hand from her tit and replaced it with his warm mouth, "AHHHHH... yes!"

Tarifa yelped in surprise when Martin flipped them over on the couch, keeping her impaled around his cock. She watched him with dreamy eyes as he brought her legs forward and in front of him, confusion on her face until she realized he was turning her around. Tarifa whimpered as she allowed him to rotate her body in front of him, his huge cock sending ripples of delight surging throughout her burning body. He turned her until she was on her knees in front of him, her pussy already leaking cum around his firmly buried cock. She clutched the back of the couch and turned her face to look at him, smiling when she saw his eyes had changed again to black with yellow pupils. She hissed in disappointment as he slowly withdrew his huge pulsing cock until only the enormous head remained inside her. She pushed back against him, trying to swallow his shaft again, and she moaned when he held her still. She felt him lean forward next to her head and his hand brushed her silky black hair from her pointed ear. She felt his warm breath next to her ear and she shivered when his tongue extended and traced her ear lobe. Tarifa would never discover how he knew that her elfin ears were an extremely sexual pleasure point, at least not this night.

“Take me Martin!” She gasped loudly.

“I will!” Martin whispered into her ear.

Tarifa felt him reach under her arms and grasp her breasts in his hands, her nipples crushed against his strong palms. Martin gasped into her ear before tightening his grip on her breasts and plunging into her depths in one powerful and soul stealing thrust.

Tarifa’s eyes nearly bugged out of her head as Martin slammed into her deeper than he had ever been before, and she screamed out her joy as the most powerful orgasm she had yet to experience erupted within her like a volcano bursting from the earth. His huge cock reached a place inside her that it had not yet touched, and when it did, Tarifa lost all control herself. She fucked him back as hard as her elfin strength would allow, their hips coming together in loud slapping noises and his now cum filled balls banging against her thighs. This was nothing like Tarifa had ever imagined. It was so powerful, so intense and so animalistic that it was driving her into a sexual frenzy.

Martin’s eyes were closed tightly, his mouth open and his fangs in full extension as he grasped Tarifa’s hips and stroked into her in powerful twelve inch plunges. He had never felt heat and silky wetness like this only once before, and her pussy was contracting around his huge cock in continual orgasms. He had only been thrusting into her for a few minutes and Martin felt that familiar surge through his balls and stomach. He clenched his teeth and pulled her up to him in one final will destroying plunge into her tightness. When Tarifa’s arms reach over her shoulders to clutch his head, Martin let go.

“Fill me Martin!” Tarifa cried out as she felt Martin’s cock grow impossibly huge inside her and erupt. Tarifa’s eyes rolled into the back of her head again when his first blast inside her clutching pussy triggered her own earth shattering orgasm.

The force of Martin’s strokes into her depths drove them both to the floor, and Tarifa felt his weight upon her back, his cock spraying his cum into her belly, their hips locked together. His hands took hers as they settled to the floor and Tarifa rested her head in his embrace as Martin continued to empty searing hot cum into her, and her own pussy spasmed in one raging orgasm after another.

It did not stop until Tarifa felt Martin bottom out inside her one last time, the last of his cum filling her. She felt Martin pull her tightly to him, his arm wrapping around her chest so that his hands could cup her breast. He curled up into almost a fetal position, Tarifa’s body mirroring his, his huge cock slowly softening inside her. Martin made no move to extract himself from her body, oblivious of their combined cum soaking both of their lower bodies, and only pulled her even closer to him. This action made Tarifa smile seductively and she felt his lips touch her ear.

“Are... are you ok?” He asked softly.

Tarifa’s smile grew even larger and she nodded her head without opening her eyes. “I am simply divine.” She told him in a whisper. She sighed in contentment as Martin pulled her even closer and it was then they drifted into a peaceful sleep.

Endith sat on the arm of Tina’s command seat, watching intently as Tina explained the controls of the Raptor to her. Ben had woken up to see this happening, and rose to get coffee for all of them, and allowed Endith to sit in his chair. She had sat wide eyed in the pilot’s chair until Ben had returned with three mugs of coffee, one of which he handed to a surprised Endith. She watched him closely as he returned to his seat, but quickly realized that he and Tina were not the same as the humans she had dealt with in the past. They joked freely with each other, and seemed to share a special relationship that Endith had not seen between a male and female human before. Ben did not treat Tina as an inferior or as if she was beneath him, but as an equal.

“How... how long have you known the... Commander?” Endith blurted out.

“Who Marty...?” Tina asked. “Jeez! What’s it been Ben, nine or ten years?”

“Eleven.” Ben replied. “Remember... we dropped them off on the Iranian freighter in the middle of winter in the Bering Sea. It almost froze the fuel lines it was so cold.”

Tina smiled. “That’s right! We’ve been working exclusively with Martin and his team for the last nine years. We take them where they need to go, and we bring them back.”

“It... it does not seem to bother you, knowing that he is not like you.” Endith said gently, probing for a response.

“You mean that he is a genome?” Tina asked, looking at her.

Endith nodded slowly. “I apologize if I have offended you.”

“There’s nothing to apologize for.” Ben told her. “You will find that most of the Raptor crews, and many of the humans on the transports are not like what you are used to Endith. Besides having someone save your life kind of over rules the normal reaction.”

“He saved your life?” Endith questioned.

“He saved both our asses.” Tina spoke. “We had just dropped them off for a mission in Saudi Arabia. Our bird took fire and we went down hard. Ben broke both his legs and I broke my arm and some ribs. We were in pretty bad shape. And the bad guys were bearing down on us hard. It was a black operation, so no one knew we were down, and no one was going to come for us.”

“They would have left you to die?” Endith asked surprised.

“That was the nature of our business back then.” Ben explained. “We accepted it.”

“What happened?”

“Martin disobeyed orders.” Tina told her. “When he found out we had gone down he disregarded his mission orders and came for us. He and his team carried us out of the country over two hundred miles of desert and rock. Took us almost two weeks, but he wouldn’t leave us behind.”

Ben nodded. “The powers that be were not happy at all. They tried to get Martin in a court martial, but that didn’t pan out. They busted him down a rank though, which he earned back in three months.” Ben finished with a chuckle. “Marty may be a genome, and not completely human, but there is no one you’d want on your side more than him. He’ll go right to the wall for you if he thinks you’re right. He doesn’t have many friends outside of the team, but Tina and I, and most of the Raptor flight crews, well we would follow him straight to hell if he asked us too. He’s saved many of them as well.”

“It does not bother you that... that he changes. That he becomes...” Endith stopped when they looked at her.

“You mean that he can change into something resembling a wolf?” Tina finished her question for her. Tina smiled and looked at Endith. “We are not like the humans you know Endith.” She said. “Martin has saved most of our lives at one point or another. We would do anything for him because he cares about his people. We had our differences sure, but the humans before... before the comet came were much more tolerable than they appear to be now.”

“Look at you.” Ben spoke with a grin. “You’re not human. You’re an elf! You are something that from where we come from only existed in books and movies. You hang around Martin long enough you learn to expect the unexpected. If everything you have told us is true, and we have no reason to doubt it one bit after what we have seen so far, then we aren’t going to be inviting these Alliance pricks over for dinner anytime soon trust me.”

“But elves... we were made for the purpose of serving humans. The Holy One created us to... female elves were created to be irresistible to human males. The Holy One hoped that if we mated and produced children, it would extend the longevity for the entire planet.” Endith told them. “You... don’t seem affected in any way.”

Ben looked at her. “How do you know that?” He asked.

“You have... you have not looked at me in... I mean...” Endith shook her head in frustration.

Tina smiled and placed her hand on Endith’s arm. “We are affected Endith.” She said softly, “Both of us.” This announcement caused Endith’s eyes to grow larger. “However, we have enough will power and self control to not act like humans you are used too.”

“Yes sir!” Ben spoke. “I think your ears are damn sexy, and the ways your eyes kind of catch the light, and you have a killer body that...”

“Ben!” Tina warned with a smile on her face.

“That’s almost as good as my lovely co-pilot here.” Ben finished his sentence quickly.

Endith couldn’t help but smile at their playful banter and she looked at Tina. “You... you both find me attractive?” She asked softly.

“Yes.” Tina answered her honestly. And for Tina it was quite a revelation as well. “But we are also nothing like the humans you are used to. Give us time and we’ll show you that. All of us.”

“That... that sounds very intriguing,” Endith told her. “I will...”

The quiet beeping caused Ben to sit up in his seat and turn fully towards his controls. “Well look at that... someone is trying to track us.”

Tina also turned to her controls, her hands moving quickly and efficiently over her consoles. “I’m picking up three search radars! They haven’t painted us yet, but our range is decreasing!”

“Type?” Ben asked.

“They look like old style X-band TA systems!” Tina spoke calmly.

Ben turned as another beeped sounded. “Shit! They’re trying to track our transponders!”

“Something isn’t right though!” Tina exclaimed. “They aren’t synching up!”

“Screw it!” Ben spoke. “Raptor Flight this is Raptor lead! Pull your transponders! Take them right out of the circuit boards!” As he spoke, Ben was reaching between their two seats where he flipped open a small panel and Endith could see the small box device with what appeared to be a handle on it. Ben took the handle and pulled. “Fuck! It’s jammed!” Ben snapped, putting both hands on the handle and trying to heave.

“Shit!” Tina spoke. “Ten seconds before the transponder locks us!”

Endith reached down and took hold of the handle on the box and used her elf strength to yank the box out of the panel it where it was being obstinate about coming out. Ben looked at her as she held it out to him with a small smile. Tina looked at her, then at Ben and they both smiled.

“Thank you.” Ben spoke.

“You’re welcome.” Endith told him.

“Why don’t you go upstairs and get Martin and your Queen.” Ben said. “We’ll be entering the atmosphere in about fifteen minutes.”

Endith nodded and moved to comply. Ben looked at Tina for a brief moment before turning back to his controls.

“What happens now?” Tarifa asked in a soft voice.

Martin sat on the carpeted floor with his back against the couch. They had gotten half dressed and Tarifa wore only her fatigue top, while Martin wore just his pants. She sat between his legs, leaning up against his chest. At Tarifa’s question Martin lowered his head and nuzzled her ear, inhaling her scent.

“I don’t have the foggiest idea.” He told her honestly.

“Your Admiral left you in charge of these people Martin.” She spoke, her hand stroking his bare arm. “You must protect them. If Graham contacted Minister Deval as he said, they will come looking for you.”

“This old base we are going to?” Martin asked. “Is it secure?”

Tarifa nodded. “It will be for a time. It is on the very edge of High Elf territory.” She replied, turning in his arms to look into his handsome face. “And very few people of any kind venture into the area. How long will you be able to last with the supplies from your ships?”

Martin thought about that for a moment. “Six months at the most.” He answered. “And that’s if we ration everything.”

Tarifa looked at him for a long minute. “I know of a place.” She told him finally. “It is close to our main community, hidden in a deep valley. The Alliance has been unable to find it because they fear coming into the Timber. My people are at their strongest in the deep forests and Timber. It has adequate requirements of food and water, and enough space to establish the beginnings of a colony, at least initially. Your people will need more however.”

Martin nodded. “I was going over the manifests of the people who left EDEN before you interrupted me.” He told her with a smile. Tarifa blushed even under her dark tan, and she snuggled closer to his chest. “Many of the men and women who left were tops in their fields, all kinds of scientists and research people.”

“There are dozens of human settlements west of the Zone.” Tarifa spoke. “Some of them are more open than others, but none of them have dealings with the Alliance.”

“Yet they all have slaves?” Martin asked.

Tarifa nodded her head slowly. “It is what... it is what we were created for Martin.”

Martin shook his head. “No... you were created to help the human race survive.” He said. “Not become slaves to their every sadistic whim.”

“Will you allow me to help you?” Tarifa asked him.

Martin looked at her surprised. “Of course I will.” He answered. “I have never been in charge of so many people. This type of position is very new to me. You are a Queen to millions of elves. I would be foolish to not accept your help and council.”

“It will bring you against those that are our enemies Martin.” Tarifa spoke softly. “There are people who would not normally be against you.”

Martin took her face in his hands and looked deeply into her eyes. “I do not believe in what the Alliance has done, nor do I have sympathy for those who accept that way of life. If they are your enemies, then they are my enemies.”

Tarifa kissed him hard, her hand reaching up to stroke his face. They both heard the door slid open and Martin detected Endith’s scent come up the stairs.

“My... my Queen,” Her voice reached out tentatively.

Tarifa closed her eyes in disgust at the interruption and turned. “I am here Endith.” She spoke.

They watched Endith walked fully onto the deck, but neither of them made any move to cover themselves, or the fact that they had obviously been having sex. To Endith’s credit, she didn’t bat an eye.

“Tarifa... Ben asks that you and the Commander join us on the flight deck.” Endith spoke. “We will be entering the atmosphere in a few minutes.”

Tarifa nodded. “We will be down in a few minutes.” She said.

Endith nodded, and turned quickly making her way back down the stairs in a rush. Tarifa looked at Martin, his eyes bright.

“There is no way we could just fly off into the stars I suppose?” She asked.

Martin smiled and got to his feet pulling her with him. He enveloped her in his arms and kissed her deeply.

“One day we will have what we both seek, no matter what it is or with who.” He told her. “I promise you that.”

Tarifa smiled. “I will hold you to that Martin.”

CHAPTER SIX

ROAN PLATEAU

Dysea’s guards had cleaned out the small structure for her to use, washing down the blood stained floor and ventilating the smell of death from the home. Dysea now sat at the main table, her eyes focused on the small screen of her mobile data receiver. Plugged into the data slot was the pad the Holy One had given her just before they left. Dysea had spent the last two hours reading all the information on the pad, almost all of it relating to Martin. The last portion of the data chip was information on Queen Tarifa of the High Elves, and her rise to position of Queen. Dysea now had a small picture of both of them up on the screen side by side and she gazed at the photos as she sipped the steaming mug of tea.

Dysea had only seen pictures of Tarifa that were taken from a distance, but she was always able to recognize her due to the billowing raven black hair she had. Now, seeing the close up photo the Holy One had given her, she could put an actual face to the name. Dysea had to admit, Tarifa was exceptionally beautiful, even for an elf. Her face was exotic looking, and her sapphire colored eyes were large and bright. She had an almost identical figure to her, but Dysea estimated her breasts were slightly larger than Tarifa’s. They both had the elegant and supple curves that human men and even elf men found nearly irresistible. Dysea suddenly found herself wondering what Tarifa looked like without clothes on, and that thought stunned her. Looking at Martin’s photo caused Dysea to fidget in her seat. She could tell he was tall, and his bio said he was over six feet and over two hundred pounds. He looked heavily muscled, even wearing the dark uniform that he was wearing in the picture, yet it was his eyes that caught her. She had never seen such deep brown eyes before. They shimmered in the light of the picture as if they had a life all their own.

“Milady...?” The male voice broke her concentration and she turned to the doorway of the home to see Leland.

“What is it Leland?” She asked, casually shutting down the portable computer.

“Milady we have word from one of our agents in the Alliance capital.” Leland told her coming forward into the room and holding out the datapad. “A messenger delivered it to us a few moments ago. He came directly here, per your orders that the Council not be informed of your whereabouts.”

Dysea took the pad and activated it reading the report as the information came up on the small screen. Her eyebrows furrowed slightly and she looked up. “Send for the Holy One Leland.” She ordered.

The male elf nodded and stepped out of the house as Dysea continued to read. Within three minutes Walter was entering the house and she turned to face him. Walter saw the look of confusion on her face.

“What is it Dysea?” He asked.

“I just received a report from one of our agents within New Richmond.” She told him. “He is a high placed mole, and would not have risked this transmission without cause. What does it mean Holy One? EDEN discovered and active, Alliance has established contact with human named Graham. Intercepted coded transmission containing the phrase Genomes have escaped with Queen Tarifa. Will attempt to clarify and informed you of additional information.”

Walter took the pad and read the contents quickly. “This is not good.” He spoke. “EDEN was the name of the base on the moon that you saw in the cube I gave you. It appears the Alliance has discovered it exists and is active. Graham is the name of a Senator from my time that was on the station at the time of the Great Fire.”

“And Genomes have escaped with Tarifa?” Dysea said. “That is what Martin and the others were called isn’t it?”

“Yes.”

“And it appears Tarifa is with them, whatever that means.” Dysea spoke. “Escaped? Escaped to where?”

“Somehow Martin must have already contacted her, and she accompanied him back to EDEN.” Walter spoke. “It would have been Martin’s first plan, to come here and discover what they could once they returned to normal time.”

“There were reports of Tarifa’s forces clashing with Alliance units led by Marcus in the west.” Dysea told him.

“That was us. She sent me on ahead and took a small force to lead Marcus and his animals away from our location.” Walter spoke. “Somehow she must have come in contact with Martin and his team while they were on the surface.”

“It would help to know what it is they were escaping from.” Dysea spoke. “We will have to wait and see if my agent can obtain any further information.” Dysea looked as Leland led the Tomea into the house.

“Leland?”

Tomea stepped forward before Leland could speak. “Milady I have finished a preliminary investigation into the clearing we found.” She spoke.

“And what have you discovered.”

“I don’t know who or what killed our people milady, but I can tell you one thing with the utmost certainly... this act was not committed by High Elves.” Tomea told her confidently.

SALMON RIVER MOUNTAINS IDAHO 300 MILES NORTHEAST OF BOISE SIX HOURS AFTER LANDING

Martin knelt on the ground at the edge of the large clearing that held the two massive Mark Nine transports and seven of the nineteen Raptors that had escaped EDEN with them. The other twelve Raptors had landed in a similar clearing a quarter mile to their west near a fast moving stream. Tarifa stood respectfully behind him while kneeling or sitting on the ground in front of him in a semi-circle were three dozen human men and women who had held seniority while on EDEN. Tarifa and the elves with her party had assisted in offloading enough equipment for Anja to establish a small trauma center that was now being used to give medical check-ups to the civilians. The elves had been surprised at the reaction they received from the mostly human refugees. They were accepted almost without question, and it was not a feeling the elves were used too. There were the looks of desire from many of the men and even some of the women when they gazed upon the male and female elves, but from what Tarifa and the elves could determine, these men and women, even though they knew what the elves had been designed for, respected them enough to not act on any urges they might have had. It also helped that a female elf had shown the amazing reflexes and speed of her species when a mother was carrying her children down the tall stairs of the transport. While wrestling with several items, her three year old son had slipped from her grasp over the railing, and it was only the speed of the female elf that saved the boy's life. She had leaped from the stairway and got under the small child in time to catch him.

Hundreds of men and women had witnessed this act, and it only confirmed to the elves that these men and women were different. They were treated with respect and as equals before, but they were kept at arms length because most people were not curious enough to come forward and speak with them. When the female elf had saved the child's life, the floodgates opened, and greetings and handshakes were exchanged among hundreds of them.

"...don't know how long we are going to be here." Martin was explaining to the gathered men and women. "Some of you know me, many of you do not, and for those who don't my name it is Martin Hunter and I am a Genome." He saw the looks pass between some of the civilians, but nothing that was openly hostile. "Apparently we all felt the same way," Martin continued. "Or you would have stayed on EDEN and watched Senator Graham turn it into a dictatorship. We will work on finding permanent living quarters for everyone, but right now, this is going to be the safest place for us. This earth is not the same as we once knew it, and we all need to be extra careful. I have three points where everyone can be issued a weapon for protection." Martin saw the looks on some faces and held up his hand. "I know many of you are scientists and civilian techs, but as much as I would like to be able to protect all of you all of the time, I'm not superman." Martin looked at them and flashed a smile. "Ok... maybe just a little."

Tarifa noticed that his easy going manner and the small joke had the desired effect and many of the men and women began to relax. She stood behind Martin and simply watched him. He had confidence in what he said and he always conveyed a positive attitude even though he knew they were in a perilous situation. Tarifa could not help how her eyes followed the outline of his muscular arms and back, and she remembered how they made her feel when she was wrapped in those same arms.

"Commander Peterson has set up a small trauma center near Raptor Two. That's my bird." Martin was telling them. "I suggest you all get to see her within the next day or so just to be safe. This beautiful young lady here," Martin motioned to Tarifa behind him, "is Tarifa. She is the Queen of the High Elves, and she will be leaving in a few hours to try and get us some better accommodations. It seems they weren't expecting guests."

This brought another round of soft chuckling and laughter. A hand went up in the back of the group and Martin looked at the nerdy scientist. "Yes?"

"So it is true what we heard on EDEN? There is a population of real live elves here on the surface? Just like in the books we all used to read as children." The young man asked.

Martin looked at Tarifa, who up until this point had allowed her flowing raven black hair to cover her ears. She now drew that hair back and pinned it behind her very elfin like ears, as she stepped up next to Martin. "It is true." She spoke. "We were created after the Great Fire, which is what you know as the comet passing between earth and the moon. The man who created us modeled us after the elves of his time and legend." Tarifa took a breath before looking at them. "Forgive me... I have only just discovered how we were truly created, and it does take some getting used too. Our... our purpose, as our creator meant us to be, was to assist the survivors of the Great Fire by doing things humans were not capable of. We were made with increased strength and endurance, allowing us to work harder and longer to ease the burden on humanity. Somewhere along the decades that followed, we became seen as possessions and slaves. When the existing government decided it was ok to enslave my people, we decided we would not let them. We have been fighting ever since."

"How many elves are there?" A woman asked.

“There are elves of all kinds across what remains of the planet. It just so happens the two largest factions are here in what was once the United States. I am Queen of those referred to as High Elves. The man who created us, we refer to him as the Holy One, he established our form of government to be similar to what the elves in your books and legends had. It is not exactly the same, but it is similar as I said. We make our homes and villages in the mountains and forests. It is mainly for our protection, as the ruling government does not often venture into the deep timber and mountains. It is here where we are strongest. The other faction lives mainly in the plains and uses caves as well as forests to live. They are referred to as Wood Elves. Our relationship with the Wood Elves is tenuous, as we do not see eye to eye on many things, but they fight the same battle we do. We do not want to be slaves. There are dozens of elfin breeds if you will, across the globe, and some have been brought here to this land as slaves.”

“Are all elves as gorgeous as you baby?” A man called out.

Everyone noticed Tarifa’s eyes darken just a little bit, but the smile remained on her face. Tarifa did see many of the men and women present roll their eyes and shake their heads at the comment from the man, which again showed her that these people were different. The men and women noticed that Martin had begun to rise from his kneeling position, but Tarifa’s small hand on his shoulder stopped him.

Tarifa looked at the man from where she stood. “Female elves were created to be perfect in every way.” Tarifa spoke looking at the man. “The Holy One had hoped that humans would take us as wives and we would have children. In his mind this would make our children stronger and better able to adapt to the world we now lived in.” Tarifa bent over and picked up the small stone almost casually. She moved it around in her hand as she continued, looking directly at the man who had asked the question. “What he failed to account for was the seemingly inbred arrogance of some humans. Unfortunately, those in charge saw a way to gain the upper hand over others and decided they would make us slaves instead. They now force female elves to live in squalor in brothels and whore houses that are used and regulated by the government. Even those who are not part of the Alliance government regard elves as nothing more than property.”

Tarifa’s hand flashed out with elfin speed and the stone she had been holding whizzed through the air with deadly accuracy. The man who had called her baby staggered back as the stone impacted his jaw, snapping his head around and making him see stars.

“We are not however, the property of anyone!” Tarifa snapped. “All we want is what you want, and that is a chance to live in peace and raise our children. And we do not take kindly to disparaging remarks, as I’m sure you do not as well.”

“Can you tell us numbers?” The nerdy young man asked.

Tarifa smiled and shook her head. “I’m sorry... that is not something I will reveal.”

“You have children?” Another woman asked.

“Do I have children personally?” Tarifa smiled and shook her head. “No, but that will change someday, but to answer your question, yes there are many children among my people. And I imagine among the Wood Elves as well.” Tarifa answered. “They have a Queen like the High Elves, but I have never met her.”

“How old are you?” Another question was tossed out.

Tarifa blushed at the question. “I am considered very young by elf standards.” She replied.

“You look like you are in your mid twenties.” The woman who had asked about the children spoke from the front row.

“I am one hundred and twenty-seven years old.” Tarifa told them, seeing the looks of astonishment on their faces. “The oldest among my people is nearing four hundred years old.”

Martin got to his feet. “Ok... I’m sure you all have lots of questions, but Tarifa needs to return to her people soon. You are the senior men and women in the group, and I expect you to lead by example. My team member Julie is waiting to give all of you assignments that you can distribute and handle yourselves. Do not take it upon yourselves to suddenly become gods in a new land, because that is not something I will tolerate. We need to work together in this, or none of us are going to make it. That’s it... let’s get to work.”

Martin turned to look at Tarifa as the men and women began to get to their feet and break up and he spoke softly into his implant. “Cody there is a Sweeper moving away from the gathering here; kind of nerdy looking with glasses and brown hair.”

Martin heard his ear piece cackle. “I got him boss.” Cody’s voice responded.

“Mark him and take him out earliest.” Martin spoke.

“I copy that Skipper.”

Martin looked at Tarifa, her eyes full of questions. “Is there trouble?” She asked.

“Someone who would like to cause trouble I’m sure.” Martin told her. “He won’t be around long enough to do anything however.”

Tarifa nodded her head in agreement. “Good.”

“How far do you have to go?” Martin asked.

“Our city is in the next valley over.” She answered stepping closer to him as they moved behind some stacked crates. “Technically, you are in our territory already and I’m sure our own scouts have no doubt reported back seeing the ships land. That is why I must go.”

Martin reached up and caressed her face. “When will you be back?” He asked.

Tarifa looked up at him, her hands pressed to his chest and her eyes gazing at him with undisguised desire. “I will return as soon as I am able Martin. I wish to continue what we have discovered as well.”

“So you want children huh?” He said to her with a smile.

Tarifa looked at him shyly and kissed him. “There will come a day when I will have children, yes. But do not worry... one of the advantages the Holy One gave to female elves is the ability to regulate our systems very well. I will not become pregnant.”

Martin took a small silver coin like object from his vest and gave it to her. It resembled a medallion and glittered in the sunlight. “It’s a waterproof transmitter and receiver. It has a twenty kilometer range. If you need to talk to me, press the red button. It’s already set to a channel in my implant and as long as I am in range I will pick it up.”

Tarifa smiled and closed her fingers around it tightly, reaching up on her tip toes to kiss him again. Martin lifted her into his arms easily and Tarifa wrapped her arms around his shoulders as the kiss deepened.

“Ahem!” The voice interrupted their moment.

Martin lowered her back to the ground slowly and they saw the male elf smile gently and bow his head. “Forgive me milady, but we are ready.”

Tarifa nodded and squeezed Martin’s hand. “I will see you soon. I promise.”

Martin nodded with a smile and watched as she turned to the male elf and they began sprinting into the forest with the other elves spread out around them. Martin felt a strange emptiness in his chest as he watched her disappear into the trees, but then he turned and saw the massive job ahead of him. He looked at the Master Chief who walked up next to him.

“Let’s get busy Master Chief.” Martin exclaimed.

Martin didn’t noticed Anja standing by the ramp of the Raptor and watching him. She had seen everything, and had also felt the sliver of jealousy course through her.

ROAN PLATEAU

“I have determined that all of our people, with a few exceptions were killed in this clearing Milady.” Tomea told her. “We discovered drag marks that had been covered up, but due to no rain for several days, once we removed the top layer of leaves, they were easy to discern. The exceptions were the patrol guards Milady. They were killed with 6.7mm rounds, the same as the High Elves weapons, but the bullet strikes were careless and random.”

“Random?” Walter asked.

“We have known for some time that the High Elves have been running low on ammunition for their weapons.” Tomea spoke. “The human settlements will only accept elf slaves in exchange for ammunition, and that is something Queen Tarifa will not barter. They have learned to become precise and absolutely perfect shots with their weapons. High Elves would not shoot a target fifteen times, as one of the guards was hit.”

Dysea lifted her tea as she listened in silence. “Go on Tomea.” She spoke.

“The one other thing that I found is quite possibly the most important Milady.” Tomea said. “I took shavings from the stumps that were found to dismember our people. In the shavings I found shards of metal. As you know, all High Elf bladed weapons are forged with a titanium/iron alloy. Their weapons are extremely sharp and rarely lose an edge, since they are refined with lasers, and they are almost impossible to break.”

“Their blades would not leave shavings.” Leland spoke from where he stood against the wall. “I have used High Elf blades Milady; they are perfect in every way. We have even begun to retool our own Smiths to use their process.”

Tomea nodded. “Leland is correct my Queen. The composition of the steel consisted of aluminum and nickel. This act was not committed by High Elves Milady. Someone else attacked this village and attempted to make it look like Tarifa’s forces. They did an outstanding job of it as well, which means they were well trained, but they expected rain to wash away most of the evidence before anyone discovered what they did.”

“And the Council directed that only the bodies were to be recovered.” Dysea said softly. She looked at the Holy One for a long moment. “Thank you Tomea. Continue gathering any evidence you can, and catalog all of your findings.”

Tomea bowed her head, “As you order Milady.”

Dysea watched her leave the small home and then turned to where Walter sat. “The Council knew!” She hissed.

“We don’t know that Dysea.” Walter spoke.

“There is no other explanation. Why order that only the bodies be recovered? Why not investigate the scene as we have done?” Dysea’s emotions were coming to the surface, and Walter knew that of the two Queens, Dysea was the more emotional one, at least when it came to anger. “There is something else at work here Holy One. I can feel it.”

“That is the answer we must discover.” Walter spoke.

Dysea looked at Leland. “Where was the last attack prior to this one Leland?” She asked.

“It was three weeks ago just north of Jackson Wyoming Milady.” He answered almost immediately. “It was on the very edge of High Elf territory. It was nearly identical to this attack Dysea, in every way.”

“Where is our nearest storage site with Hoppers?” She asked.

“There are three captured Hoppers at our site in Grand Junction.” Leland replied.

“Contact them. I want one of the Hoppers here in the morning to pick up half our party. Tomea will accompany us. The others will return to the Compound and say nothing to no one about where they have been.” Dysea spoke.

Leland nodded. “We will be going very close to High Elf territory Dysea. Is that wise?”

“What are you thinking Dysea?” Walter asked.

“I want to investigate one more site where our people were butchered.” She told him. “Now that Tomea knows what to look for, we can do so quickly and spend as little time as needed so close to High Elf territory.”

“Then what will you do?” Walter asked.

“I intend to find out who is behind these attacks and why they are pitting us against Tarifa’s forces Holy One. And I want to know who on the Council knows what is going on.” Dysea answered. “For when I discover them, I will personally flay them until they are on the verge of death before I give them to the elements.”

They turned as Leland motioned the young elf into the home. “It is another transmission from our spy in the capital Milady.” He spoke holding out the pad.

Dysea read the pad before handing it to Leland and looking at Walter. “Our spy has discovered that there has been some sort of coup on this EDEN base. Commander Hunter escaped with almost two thousand men and women. He is now wanted by the Alliance for the brutal murders of this Senator Graham’s son and nine other men. Apparently Tarifa was with him, and their ships were last detected entering the atmosphere before they were lost.”

“Wanted by the Alliance?” Walter asked.

Dysea nodded. “According to this, the Alliance has open negotiations with this Senator Graham and they have established a temporary treaty. Commander Hunter and the genomes are wanted alive, as well as Tarifa and a dozen elves that were with her. If they were lost entering the atmosphere...”

Walter shook his head. “They deactivated their transponders so they could not be tracked.” Walter told her. “Martin and those with him are not fools. They are all combat experienced men and women, forged in some of the most vile hell holes of the time they came from. What you and the other elves have seen pales in comparison Dysea. We should try to contact him.”

“Holy One we don’t even know where they are.” Leland spoke.

Walter nodded. "Yes I know, but we should use some assets that we do have to try and discover his location."

"I will direct two technicians to begin monitoring all unused communications traffic, but until we know what is happening here, I can spare no more." Dysea spoke.

Walter nodded. "Direct them to scan the low band frequencies Dysea." He told her. "If Martin communicates with anyone, it will be very low band and highly encrypted."

Dysea looked at Leland and nodded. He returned the nod and headed out of the home. She returned her gaze to Walter. "Can he help us Holy One?" She asked.

"We need to find him first." Walter spoke.

SALMON RIVER MOUNTAINS HIGH ELVES RULING CAPITAL MOUNTAIN CITY

Two days later

"...have to tell me sister!" The dark haired female elf spoke as she waited for Tarifa to come out of the adjoining room where she was drying off her body from the steaming spring shower. "The rumors are spreading like wildfire through the entire city. They've even reached as far as Pacifica."

Tarifa stepped out of the shower room, her sapphire eyes wide. "Pacifica!" She gasped, holding the towel around her body and gazing at her younger sister. "You jest!"

Tarifa's youngest sister Zaala shook her head, her dark eyes bright and animate. That they were related was easy to determine as Zaala had the same hair and figure of her older sister, with the same facial features and contours. "It is the truth!" Zaala exclaimed.

"What are they saying?" Tarifa asked as she began to dress.

"That you were saved twice by a man who is half Wolf, and who came from the moon. That he is nine feet tall, and that he claimed you for his own." Zaala spoke. "Even mother and father are coming from Salem to get the real story."

"No!" Tarifa spoke looking at her sister.

Zaala nodded. "It is the talk of our people. You will not be able to deny it for long. Too many of those who were with you have spoken about it."

Tarifa sat on the edge of the bed next to her sister. "What have they said Zaala?" She asked softly.

"That this man and the people with him are different." Zaala replied. "That they are even older than the Elders, and they sheltered you and the others. Rescued you and returned you to us." Zaala looked at her sister. "They say he looks at you with unabashed love and desire in his eyes, and that he killed nine men in seconds to save your life. That he wiped out a full squad of Alliance Assassins as if they were children. They... they..."

"What?" Tarifa asked.

"They also say they heard you screaming out his name in passion." Zaala told her.

Tarifa blushed quickly even under her dark tan and she looked away from her sister, her hand going to the silver medallion that Martin had given her. She had added a glittering silver chain to the medallion and had not taken it off since she had returned. Zaala saw this and smiled. "So it is true." She said. "Oh don't torture me sister. Tell me!"

Tarifa looked at her with a small smile. "They are called Genomes." She told her, taking her hands. "They were genetically engineered to be the finest soldiers in their time before the Great Fire. Martin and his team were feared by many for their skill and prowess."

"His name is Martin?" Zaala said smiling. "Tell me of him Tarifa. Did he make you scream his name in passion?"

Tarifa grinned. "You have a one track mind Zaala."

"I've never screamed any man's name in passion." Zaala told her. "Most of the elves I've bedded were terrible lovers anyway."

"Zaala you are so bad!" Tarifa exclaimed.

“Don’t change the subject sister!” She said with a smile. “Tell me! Is he very large?” She asked with wide eyes.

Tarifa smiled and shook her head. “He is not nine feet tall.” She said. “I’d say he stands about six foot two or six foot three. He is...”

“That is not what I meant Tarifa!” Zaala spoke, playfully grabbing her hand.

Tarifa looked at her with a girlish smile and she lifted her hands palms facing towards each other until they were about a foot apart. “He is this big.” Tarifa said.

Zaala’s eyes grew wide. “Tarifa now you are jesting with me!” She looked at her sister. “Aren’t you?”

Tarifa shook her head slowly and with a dreamy smile as the memories of what Martin’s cock had made her feel caused her skin to feel warm. “He is so thick Zaala. I thought I was going to split apart.”

“It did not hurt?” Zaala asked amazed.

Tarifa shook her head quickly. “He... it...”

“What sister? Tell me!” Zaala asked urgently.

“He kissed me Zaala!” Tarifa said.

“Kissed you? That is all?”

“Zaala... I... I have never kissed a man.” Tarifa told her. “It was so powerful, so passionate. He... he possessed me with his kisses.” She looked at her sister. “He also... he used his lips and tongue... on my...”

Zaala’s eyes grew even wider. “He licked you? Down there?”

“Zaala I was so wet when he finally entered me... all I felt was this blissful sensation as he filled me completely.” Tarifa told her. “It was divine.”

“He didn’t force you?”

“No!” Tarifa told her. “Zaala I wanted him from the first moment I saw him. When I look at him, it is almost as if I need him to live. When I was wrapped in his arms I never felt more loved and protected. He refused to even allow me to clean him. When he caresses my skin he ignites fires within me that I am powerless to control, fires that only he can extinguish.”

Zaala held up her hand. “Enough!” She spat with a smile. “I hate you! Does he have a brother?”

Tarifa laughed and squeezed her sister’s hands. “You are so bad!”

“You must know that mother and father will demand to meet him Tarifa.” Zaala said. “He is the first man to share your bed that they have not approved.”

“I am a hundred and twenty-seven years old.” Tarifa said. “I can decide for myself who shares my bed and who doesn’t. Martin will share my bed as often as he likes, at least until the time fate takes us in different directions.”

Zaala looked at her. “What do you mean sister?”

Tarifa looked at her. “He is different Zaala.” She replied softly. “There is a beast inside him, a beast desiring to get out. I do not think... I do not think even he knows who and what he truly is.”

“How can he not know what he is?” Zaala asked.

Tarifa looked at her sister. “I saw him change into something up there that was fearful and frightening Zaala, yet it is something he controls with his will alone. I do not know if the others with him besides the ones I saw can do this as well, but something inside me tells me I did not see everything.”

“Yet you let him have you?” Zaala spoke. “Why?”

Tarifa smiled. “Because he is very handsome... and I wanted to.” She replied. “That is usually how it is done.”

Zaala’s face turned serious. “There are some on the Council that are not happy you led them here and allowed them to remain in the next valley.”

Tarifa nodded as she took the dress and started to pull it on over her naked skin. “Those humans among his group are not like any we have ever met.” She said. “They accepted us without question and helped us to escape imprisonment and worse. They come from an age where slavery was not allowed, and it disgusts them that humans have resorted to it once more. Elves existed only in their legends and myths, so it is understandable that they view us with curiosity, but many of them have known Martin for years and they seem to expect the unexpected.”

“What will you tell the Council?”

“That Martin and those with him could be powerful allies in our war with the Alliance.” Tarifa said. “And we should make every effort to see that we extend to them the hand of friendship.”

“Do you think they will listen to you?” Zaala asked.
Tarifa looked at her. “We shall see.”

The chamber was well lit with nearly three dozen glowing orbs all around the large room. Twelve high backed chairs occupied one side of the massive polished granite table, with water pitchers and data pads neatly stacked beside the five male and four female elves that occupied the chairs. They were the oldest and wisest of the High Elves, and as such had seats on the Council of the Elders.

The Council of Elders was a body of government for the elves that made the laws and sat in judgment of those who broke the laws. All of them wore elaborate robes, the female members wearing provocative dresses that left little to the imagination. Many of them were over three hundred years old, yet none of them looked older than fifty. They were elected to the Council of Elders for life appointments and aside from the Holy One himself and Tarifa, they were considered central to the High Elves way of life. They were also very controversial, as many of the younger elves that were Tarifa’s age and younger had begun to rebel against many of the laws that had been in place for centuries.

This was Tarifa’s realm. She was an accomplished warrior without a doubt, but her skill in politics far surpassed her fighting skills. She had been elected Queen with the highest popular vote of any Queen in history, giving her unprecedented influence and power. She had instituted many changes that had been looked on warily over the years, but had made the High Elves even stronger in the long run. Most knew her as someone of unquestionable honesty and integrity, but she was also considered to be someone you did not wish to cross. In her reign as Queen, the High Elves had increased their number by three fold, building eight new cities and opening diplomatic talks with many of the free human cities. While they traded supplies and equipment, Tarifa never once would consider trading her people’s freedom for more advanced weapons to fight the Alliance. The autonomous human cities were too powerful for the Alliance to defeat with direct military confrontation without taking massive losses in men and equipment, so they allowed them to go about business as long as it didn’t interfere with any Alliance controlled territory east of the Big River.

The Elves however were a different story, and the Alliance routinely conducted military operations against High Elf strongholds. Tarifa knew that her feelings for Martin aside, an alliance with those that followed him would only make the High Elves more self sufficient and provide them the tools to better defend their homes and strongholds. She only hoped that the Council felt the same.

Tarifa watched the senior Council member and Chief Minister set the data pad on the table and turn to look at her.

“We have reviewed the reports you have kindly given to us Majesty.” The Chief Minister spoke. “We do have some questions, but first allow me to say we are all extremely pleased that you have returned to us safely and unharmed.”

Tarifa nodded at the man. “Thank you Chief Minister.” She answered. “It is good to be home.”

“I must say, we were all a bit distressed that you took it upon yourself to lead Marcus’s forces away from the Holy One. You could have allowed a Lieutenant to do this you know.” The Minister spoke.

“I could have.” Tarifa nodded. “However Marcus would not have followed unless he knew he had an opportunity to capture me. The Holy One’s safety mattered more than my own.”

The Minister nodded. “Of course you are right.” He said.

“And you encountered this...” He made it a point to look at the pad before continuing. “You encountered this Commander Hunter at the sacred ruins?”

“As my report indicates Minister, there was a traitor among my party. He was able to signal Marcus’s forces and they sent an Alliance Assassin unit who subsequently attacked our position within the ruins yes.”

“And that is when this Hunter person appeared and dispatched the Assassins. Rather easily as your report indicates.”

Tarifa nodded. “There were others with him, but yes.” She told them.

“And it was shortly after this that you discovered Commander Hunter and the others came from a base on the moon that was thought destroyed during the Great Fire?” The Minister spoke.

“I do not understand the physics of the incident, but apparently when the comet passed between the earth and our moon; it caused the moon to essentially stop spinning as it orbited the earth, while our planet went faster. This in some way caused time to move much slower on the moon than it was here on earth.” Tarifa told them, trying to explain it to them as Admiral Wallace told her. “The moon’s rotation did not come back into sync with the earth until recently, and that is when Martin and the others came to earth.”

Tarifa noticed that several of the Elders gave her odd looks when she spoke Martin’s name with such familiarity, but she had already decided she would not hide her relationship with him in any way.

“And this is also when you took it upon yourself to return with him to this base on the moon.” The Chief Minister spoke.

Tarifa nodded. “Yes.”

“You do realize your Majesty that any new political contacts must be approved by this Council.” The Minister spoke.

“I was not in a position to inform the Council of my actions. You received the messenger we sent back before leaving informing you of my decision to go.” Tarifa said. “I determined that Martin and his superiors could very well turn out to be allies against the Alliance.”

“A prospect that did not go as you had planned.” The Minister spoke almost arrogantly. “This alone should tell you that the Council of Elders should have made the decision and not you.”

“Chief Minister I am Queen.” Tarifa spoke, her words firm. “The last time I read our constitution; military decisions are the arena of the Queen and not the Council of Elders. At the moment I made the decision, I was in a military situation and not a political one. I was well within my rights to do as I did.”

“And yet that decision almost cost you your life as well as the lives of the others within your party.” The Chief Minister replied, his words just as firm. “And it resulted in you being sexually assaulted by half a dozen humans at least. This is all in your report to us your Majesty.”

“I am well aware of my report to you and this Council Chief Minister Raloo!” Tarifa snapped. “I wrote it! If you have some issue with me Chief Minister, may I suggest we get it out in the open now so that it does not fester?”

The attractive female elf leaned forward. “Please your Majesty, the Chief Minister is only attempting to express the worry and concern that we all had for your safety.”

Tarifa looked at the woman. The Council of Elder’s Minister of Justice was known to be a supporter of Tarifa’s and a friend to her father. She was also fair and impartial to everyone, regardless of his or her status. She was a tough woman who had fought for decades before being elected to the Council. She had sided with Tarifa on many issues, and also sided against her on some others, and it was one of the reasons that Tarifa respected her so much.

“Minister Thalami speaks with great wisdom your Majesty.” Another of the Elders spoke. He was the youngest of the Council at three hundred and fourteen years old, but he was also an avid supporter of Tarifa and all her policies. “All of us were greatly concerned for your safety. Minister Raloo only wishes to see you safe.”

Tarifa took a deep breath and nodded her head. “I understand that.” She said.

“Then you must understand our concern for what you were thinking when you allowed this Commander Hunter and those with him, including over a thousand humans, to set up camp so close to our capital?” The man continued. “This action, after the events on the moon dictates that we question what you were thinking.”

Tarifa looked at him closely and saw in his eyes only the honest concern she had always known him for ever since joining the Council. “I do understand your concern and questions Minister Treblar.” She spoke. “I supplied you with the information given to me by the human Admiral Wallace, as well as a copy of the message the Holy One left for Martin.”

“Yes we have reviewed it extensively.” Treblar spoke. “All of us are concerned as to why the Holy One himself did not tell us this. Why would he not inform us of beings he created before the Great Fire? Especially beings that have the obvious skills and abilities you have described to us. They are able to alter their very bodies to take on the forms of animals that are still considered to this day to be extremely dangerous. Their strength and speed far surpasses that of any elf, and we are generally considered to be superior to humans in every way. They are soldiers with a skill that surpass even those of your father’s own Elite Dragoons.”

“I do not presume to know why the Holy One does what he does.” Tarifa said calmly and with no hostility. “And neither should anyone on this Council. It was the Holy One who created us, and it was the Holy

One who started this war on our behalf against the Alliance. I can only guess that perhaps he thought them to be dead and there was no reason for us to know about them.”

“They are not dead however.” Ralao spoke looking at Tarifa. “And now we have made a new enemy, and potentially a more deadly enemy than even the Alliance.”

“Commander Hunter is not our enemy!” Tarifa spoke. “He saved the lives of not only me, but all my soldiers with me. And he did so without question or regard for what would happen to him.”

“He could also prove to be a new ally perhaps?” Thalami spoke from her chair. “Dismiss this we can’t.”

“We have only the Queen’s word to prove that.” Ralao spoke. “And if what the Holy One says in his message is true, then the Queen could very well be bias. It is written in her own words that she felt pulled by this Hunter. Draw to him.”

Tarifa’s eyes flared briefly and she opened her mouth to speak but never got the chance.

“Does this Council now challenge my daughter’s integrity?” The male voice bellowed from the back of the room.

Tarifa’s mouth snapped shut and she watched the shadowy figure come into the light and all the heads at the table turned. Tarifa hid the small smile that split her lips when she saw the male elf step into the light, the very attractive and much shorter female elf beside him.

“War Master Tareif!” Thalami exclaimed as she came to her feet. “Mistress Palina! We were not aware you had come to the capital.”

The male elf stepped even further into the light, his uniform bearing gold shoulder boards, and glittering silver clusters on them. His cloak was dusty from traveling, his dark hair hung almost to his shoulders, and braided tightly in three rows on either side of his face. His face was deeply tanned from years of exposure to the sun and elements, but his sapphire eyes were blazing points of light. He was tall for an elf, at five foot ten, and the resemblance and height Tarifa inherited from him was uncanny.

The female elf stood proudly beside her husband, and one had only to look at her mother to see where Tarifa got her exceptional looks. She had the same enticing figure as her daughter, and it was not hard to see why she had given birth to nine children during her two hundred year marriage to the man she still looked at with love every day.

“I do not need to announce where I go to anyone!” Tareif’s deep voice spoke. “When we learned our daughter had returned safely to the capital, I gathered my finest Dragoons and came to see her. What I find is the Council of Elders questioning my daughter’s integrity. When did it become commonplace for the Queen of our people to be questioned in such a way?”

“War Master... it is not as it seems.” Thalami spoke.

“Isn’t it? Perhaps you should explain it to me then.”

Tareif was a legend among the High Elves and a man not to be trifled with. He had trained over half the High Elves army personally, and many of the senior officers had served under him at one point or another. He had won countless battles against the Alliance, even when he was heavily outnumbered. It was well known that he had taken it upon himself to school his daughter in the arts of war, and it was one of the reasons she had been elected Queen with such a margin of victory. There were only four officers with more knowledge and experience in war than Tarifa, and all of them served her father.

“We were only expressing to the Queen our concern for her safety and her actions in the last few days.” Thalami spoke.

“If even half the rumors that are spreading among our people are true, then the allies we have waited so long for have finally appeared.” Palina spoke softly next to her husband. “Are we in such a position of power that we can simply dismiss them?”

“We do not dismiss them.” Ralao spoke now getting to his feet. “We question the way they have been obtained. We know nothing of these... Genomes they are called or the humans with them. The Queen has admitted in her own words that she allowed one of these Genomes to bed her!”

Tareif moved with a speed that belied his age, and in a blink he was standing in the Chief Minister’s face, a scowl etched into his features. “Tread carefully with your words Chief Minister, for it is my daughter and your Queen about which you speak!” Tareif growled. “It is my understanding of our law that she must submit to any man who saves her life. A law that you started centuries ago I might add, and a law most of our younger people and many of our older citizens see as no better than how the Alliance conduct themselves. It is also obvious to me that you failed to read her entire report. When this Hunter person saved my daughter the first time, he had an opportunity to take my daughter by force and he did not.”

“He did not know of our laws at the time!” Ralao spoke.

“That is of no matter to me, and if what my daughter has said is true, and I do not doubt my daughter, this man would have refused even had he known.” Tareif spoke. “That he did not act like the animal you seem to think he is speaks volumes of his honor. That he could have escaped this EDEN station and left my daughter at the mercy of those pigs and he did not says even more. And the fact that he killed every single scum who violated my daughter and our Queen is all the information I need to make a decision.”

“She led him here to Mountain City!” Ralao nearly yelled, “To our very capital! They have set up a compound in the next valley! The Alliance has declared them enemies and his presence here threatens us! We do not even know what he and his people are doing right now because she left him alone.”

Tareif shook his head. “Your lack of military knowledge and Intelligence gathering never ceases to amaze me Ralao, even after all these years. Tarifa contacted me within four hours of landing in the valley, with this Commander Hunter’s permission. Regardless of what she may feel for this man, using coded words that only she and I know, she ordered me to dispatch our best scouts to maintain a constant vigil on the newcomers. I did so immediately, and they have been watching this Hunter and the humans for two days now. And that does not include the three elves from her own command that she left with them. Do you think my daughter is a fool?” Ralao looked stupefied, and he was unable to speak. “The Holy One’s reasons are not for us to question and Tarifa knows this. It is she that the Holy One confides in and she alone. If there was something we should have known, he has always told us. Nothing he has done has ever put our people at risk. To question him now is heresy.”

“And yet he is now with the Wood Elves.” Ralao spoke, though his words were much more subdued.

“This is the order of things and has been for centuries. The Holy One travels and spends equal time with all his creations.” Tareif said softly. “That Tarifa arranged for him to be spirited to safety with the Wood Elves means nothing. Or would you rather he now be in the hands of the Alliance?”

Treblar stepped forward next to Tareif. “War Master Tareif I believe the experience of almost losing our Queen has shaken us somewhat. Please... perhaps we should recess for now until tempers cool.”

“Father, Minister Treblar is correct.” Tarifa spoke, stepping forward and taking her father’s arm. “We can adjourn until later today, and at that time I will suggest to the Council that they appoint two members to accompany me back to Martin’s camp and they can determine for themselves if he is a friend or foe.”

Tareif looked at his daughter and nodded, “A fine idea.” He said.

Treblar nodded his head, a new respect for Tarifa in his eyes, “A fine idea indeed.” He spoke. “Your majesty... you have not seen your parents for some time, may I suggest you visit with them, and the Council will select two members to accompany you when you return. We will do nothing without your consent except decide who will travel with you.”

Tarifa nodded and slid her arm around her father’s waist. “Thank you Minister Treblar, I believe I will take you up on that offer.” She looked at her father, “Papa?”

Tareif looked at her and smiled. “Lead away! I’m starving! Politics make me hungry!”

Ralao didn’t see the smiles from several of the Council Elders at Tareif’s words, but neither did they notice that his eyes burned with hate as Tarifa led her parents out of the meeting chamber.

“Ugh! Papa you’re crushing me!” Tarifa croaked with a smile as her father gripped her in a bear hug embrace, lifting her from her feet.

Palina watched smiling, her arm around the waist of their youngest daughter. Tareif set his oldest daughter down and held her at arms length, as if searching for injuries of any kind.

“Papa I am fine.” Tarifa spoke squeezing his arms, “Really.”

Tareif looked at her now. “That was the craziest stunt you have ever pulled!” He scolded her now that they were alone and in private. “Have you completely lost your marbles?”

Palina cluck clucked and pushed her husband away hugging Tarifa just as tightly. “Quiet Tareif, you’ll make a scene.” She said, kissing her daughter’s cheeks and looking at her with her dark eyes. “You are truly fine?” She asked.

Tarifa smiled and nodded. "Yes mama, truly."

Tareif looked around Tarifa's small living quarters. "Bah! Where is the wine? Don't they have wine in the capital?"

Tarifa smiled and squeezed her father's arm. "I keep it in the next room Papa!" She said. She smiled and watched her father stalk off in search of a glass of wine. She turned back to see her mother staring at her. "What?"

"You are not injured Tarifa? He did not hurt you?" Palina asked again.

"She's in heat mama." Zaala spoke with a sly grin. "But definitely not hurt."

"Zaala!" Tarifa exclaimed looking at her sister but blushing red.

"So the rumors that we have heard are true?" Palina asked her. "Tarifa... did this man... force you to..."

"No!" Tarifa spouted. "By all that is holy... I gave myself to him! I practically had to assault him to make him come out of his shell!"

"Tarifa... you hardly know this man." Palina said.

"No... that is not true." Tarifa said speaking softly. "I feel like... I feel like I've known him all of my life. It's as if he and I have always been together in some way. It is... it is something the Holy One did to all of us."

"But to let him bed you...?" Palina spoke.

Tarifa smiled as she looked at her mother. "It was exquisite mama." She said.

Palina grinned. "You will have to tell me when your father is not around." She said softly. "The Holy One... what..."

"The Holy One," Tareif asked coming back into the room a large goblet in his hand. "What do you mean, what about the Holy One?"

Tarifa looked at her father. "I will explain everything." She said. "But first papa, I never contacted you to send scouts to spy on Martin."

Tareif looked at her sheepishly. "No. I sent them immediately after discovering you had returned to the capital."

"Papa!" Tarifa spoke firmly. "You had no right!"

"I am your War Master Tarifa! I had every right." He replied.

Tarifa sighed heavily. "You... you are right. I am sorry. I could have handled Raloa though." She said.

Tareif nodded. "Of that I have little doubt!" He told her with a smile. "But ever since I stole your mother from him all those years ago I have always relished the opportunity to spar with him whenever I can. He is so predictable."

Tarifa chuckled and hugged her father again. "You are a bad man papa." She said shaking her head.

"Yes... so your mother continues to tell me even after two hundred years of marriage!" Tareif said wagging his eyebrows.

"Papa," Tarifa nearly yelled.

"Tareif...!" Palina exclaimed, stepping forward to slug her husband in his shoulder. "Our children do not wish to hear of our escapades! You hush now!" Palina took her daughter's hands and directed her to the couch. "Tell us Tarifa. Tell us everything."

"There was really no need to dispatch scouts papa." Tarifa told him as she settled onto the couch next to her mother. "I left Endith and two others with Martin's group and I have talked to them each evening."

Tareif grinned. "That's my girl." He said pulling up the chair.

"I am less concerned about the political as I am about this fellow Martin." Palina spoke. "I want to hear about him."

Zaala laughed from where she sat. "And what a story it is!" She said.

EDEN REFUGEE COMPOUND

Anja looked up when Martin entered the make shift clinic they had set up in the belly of one of the Mark Nine's. Anja had spent the better part of the last two days treating minor injuries and making sure that the men, women and children were inoculated against every known disease. She had no idea what sort of diseases roamed the world now, but it made her feel a little better knowing that the people with them were protected against what they knew about. The small clinic was empty now, as Anja was simply compiling the information onto several data pads for filing and storage. She watched Martin come in and pull up the chair next to her where he promptly sat down and just stared at her.

Anja tried to ignore him, and she succeeded for a few moments before tossing down the pad and looking at him. "What?"

"How are you doing?" He asked her.

"I'm fine." She snapped. "I've done over seven hundred physicals in the last three days and my eye balls are about to start shriveling up, but other than that I'm just ducky."

"Doesn't sound like it." Martin said.

"Martin what do you want?" Anja asked.

"It's eating away at you Anja." He said softly. "I can see it written all over your face."

"They... they should have told me!" She finally retorted.

"And how exactly do you tell someone you are sharing a bed with that you can change into a humanoid version of the animal whose DNA was grafted to yours?" Martin asked her.

"What... what they did..." Anja began.

"What they did is what they have always done and that is back me up." Martin told her. "If you want to blame someone blame me. I'm the one who lost it and initiated my change first. Listen... it is part of who and what we are Anja. We don't change often, but yes when we do it is not a pretty sight what we are capable of doing. Our ability to change has saved our lives on countless missions, and is the reason we are still here now." He explained to her. "I am not ashamed of what I am, and neither is Danny and Julie or any others of my team. They are not any different than they were three days ago Anja?"

"That is why your team wasn't affected by the Purge." Anja said looking at him. "The other teams couldn't change like you."

Martin chuckled softly. "You don't know the half of it." He said.

"Then tell me." Anja told him.

Martin looked at her. "Initially it was just me, Danny and Julie. And yes... we made it so the others would not be affected by the disease that ravaged the Genomes."

"How...?" Anja asked quickly.

"That doesn't matter now." Martin said. "What matters is the here and now. And you are avoiding them like they have the plague. They are the same people Anja. They haven't changed have they?"

Anja looked at him and slowly shook her head. "No."

"You have changed though." Martin said. "You aren't the Anja Peterson who came to EDEN."

"Did they send you here?" She asked quickly.

Martin shook his head. "I sent them out on patrol so we could have this little talk." He told her. "You've become a fine officer and a good friend. I don't like seeing my friends in pain. We live in a different world now Anja, one that we are new to. A world where we are going to see a lot of strange things if what we've seen so far is any indication. It's time to let go of what you know and embrace what you don't know."

"When did you suddenly become a shrink?" Anja asked.

Martin shrugged. "I had a talk with Tina. She told me what to say." He said with a smile.

Anja burst out laughing at the expression on his face and felt all the unease of the last three days simply evaporated into nothing. After a long moment, her face became a little more serious and she looked at Martin. Familiar feelings rushed through her being so close to him, and they were not at all unpleasant. In fact they were down right wonderful. "What... what do you want Martin?" She asked.

Martin looked at her. "Me? We are talking about you."

Anja shook her head quickly. "Um... I mean what do you think I should do?" She said.

Martin met her jade green eyes and fought down the urge to crush her to him and take what he so desired was his. "I... I think you should do what you want." He spoke finally.

"And... and you don't have a problem with me sleeping with them?" Anja asked him, mentally kicking herself for asking that stupid question.

"That... that is none of my business Anja." He replied not able to meet her gaze. "They are good people... and if you are comfortable... if they..."

“Thank you Martin.” Anja said smiling, reaching out to touch his cheek and feeling the stubble beginning on his skin. Anja suppressed the shiver that rocketed through her just by touching his skin. “I... I saw you with... Tarifa. She’s... she’s very beautiful.”

Martin nodded. “So are you Anja.” He told her.

Anja’s eyes grew a little wider at his comment and then he got to his feet quickly. “I need to check the work logs.” He spoke. “Just remember what I told you ok. We might just be out of the war business.”

Anja laughed softly and shook her head. “Don’t quit your day job. I wouldn’t count on that.” She told him.

Julie lowered her combat vest to the ground outside the tent she and Danny shared, but her eyes were fixed on the duffel bag and vest leaning against the pole of the tent. She reached over to it and turned it over to see Anja’s name stenciled into the fabric.

“Danny?” She called softly.

Dan turned to look at her as he lowered his gear to the ground and saw her holding up Anja’s vest. They both looked at the entrance to the tent and moved closer to the opening. Danny pulled back the flap and what they saw made both their hearts sing. Anja was lying across their sleeping bags, wearing only a t-shirt and her panties. She was clutching the large blanket they used tightly to her chest, her face peaceful as she slept soundly for the first time in three days.

“It took her some time to accept it.” Martin’s voice spoke from behind them.

They turned and saw Martin squatting on the ground a short distance away. “Marty?” Julie asked.

“What we are capable of doing frightened her a little. It wasn’t something she expected to see. She’s good people guys.” Martin said. “Make sure you don’t hurt her.”

They watched Martin stand back up and then walk off into the night around them. Julie looked at his back until she could no longer see him even with her wolf vision. He still loves her, Julie thought to herself. She turned at the movement and followed Danny into their tent and quickly removed their fatigues. Danny stretched his body out on one side of Anja as Julie lay behind her. Anja stirred and her eyes fluttered open.

“Danny?” She said softly, looking into his face.

“I’m here Red.” He spoke settling next to her.

“Julie?” Anja turned her head looking for Julie.

Julie spooned against Anja from behind and lowered her face over Anja’s shoulder. “I’m here lover.” She whispered into her ear.

Anja’s eyes blinked rapidly. “I’m... I’m so sorry. I...”

Danny put a finger to her lips silencing her words. She looked at him, her green eyes blurry with forming tears but so very bright. “We should have told you.” He said softly.

Julie draped her long legs over Anja and kissed her neck gently as Danny enveloped them both in his arms. “Tonight we sleep.” Julie spoke. “Tomorrow we can talk. Right now we just want to enjoy smelling you back with us.”

Anja’s face beamed as she smiled. She nuzzled her head against Danny’s chest and closed her eyes again. Danny looked at Julie and saw the single tear rolling down her cheek as she smiled in happiness. Danny smiled as well and the three of them fell into a contented sleep.

WOOD ELVES CAPITAL

The Alliance captain leaned casually against the cool wall of the cave while smoking the foul smelling cigarette. His eyes kept going to the bevy of female Wood Elves who were sitting at several tables outside the small café shop that had been built directly into the side of the mountain. This level was closest to the surface, and he could feel the wind moving through the tunnels and hitting his face. He hated staying underground with these savages, yet his orders were clear, and the blond haired Wood Elf Queen would be his reward. The captain didn't turn his head as he heard the figure move up on the other side of the wall. That side was shrouded in shadows, and it was impossible to tell who was standing there.

"Have you discovered her location yet?" Roger Thorn asked.

"One of the soldiers she sent back had an unfortunate accident when he returned and broke his neck." The voice said. "We attempted to treat him, but there was nothing we could do."

"And this is of importance to me why?"

"He was sworn to secrecy, but with the right drugs he told us everything." The voice spoke. "The rider returned from the Roan Plateau, the sight of the last attack by your special unit. He said she departed two mornings ago for the village on the border of High Elf territory that your unit attacked last month."

"For what purpose...?" Thorn asked. "The sites were purged and the only clues left were the ones we left implicating the High Elves in the attacks."

"Dysea found something." The voice continued. "Something she was not happy about, and that is why she has gone to the village in Wyoming."

"She will find nothing." Thorn said again.

"The soldier indicated it was some information that exonerated the High Elves. He was not privy to the information, but it was enough for her to go to Wyoming." The voice said. "You give Dysea too little credit my friend. She is as cunning as she is beautiful. The Holy One told her something, and she is acting on it."

"So... the good Doctor Carson is traveling with her?"

"He is... and our mutual employer has suggested an accident now would be perfect so that we may elect a Queen more amiable to the Alliance. And it will also eliminate a certain doctor that has been a thorn in both our sides for quite a number of years." The voice said.

"Does our employer have any suggestions as to how he wishes it to appear?" Thorn asked.

"Only that she was killed by the High Elves. You may fuck her as often as you like, but she must not be found under any circumstances."

The Alliance officer nodded again. "I think I can arrange that." He said with a wicked grin, "How soon?"

"Our employer would like to see it done within the next week if possible." The voice told him softly. "I can provide data if she moves again. She is using one of our Hopper craft now for transport."

"Excellent. Consider it done." The Captain said.

"Very good, text me with any information you may need. The usual frequency will suffice."

The Captain smiled and didn't bother checking to see whom the voice belonged to. He was too good an agent for childish stunts like that. He had a mission now, and a mission he was going to enjoy.

WYOMING

THIRTY-NINE MILES NORTH OF JACKSON

SOUTHERN TIP OF JACKSON LAKE

Dysea stared across the calm surface of the lake as the sun began to set in the horizon. It cast a red glow across the sky, which reflected brilliantly over the water. They had been here in this place for the past day, Tomea collecting evidence while her remaining five soldiers and Leland apprehensively stood guard. None of them had ever been this close to High Elf territory before, and it was trying their nerves. It had taken Tomea only six hours on the site of the village to know that the High Elves had not committed this attack either, and now all she was looking for was some sign of who would do such a thing and try to blame elves. Dysea already had a good idea in her mind, and it did not please her in the least.

Dysea felt the Holy One approaching her from behind and she turned to watch him come up next to her.

"It's beautiful." She said softly.

Walter nodded. "Yes it is." He agreed.

"This is what my people are missing." She said to him. "They are missing the beauty of such simple things as sunsets and the fresh air blowing against our skin."

"You could always change that Dysea." Walter told her. "There is no need for the Wood Elves to remain underground and hidden in the forests. Half of your villages are built above ground, and all you need do is move them all out of the caves. I never intended you to be different from Tarifa and the High Elves. And now I can't even remember how it all came to be."

"Leland told you?" She asked.

Walter nodded. "He did." He replied. "What is going through that head of yours Dysea?"

"Why would the Alliance conduct attacks in such a manner? Why go through all the effort to destroy our villages and make it appear as if the other did it?" Dysea asked.

"I think you know the answer to that." Walter spoke.

"They're using us aren't they?" She said looking out over the water. "They are using us to destroy the High Elves by offering us a false treaty."

"They know that only the Wood Elves can go into the deep timber, to the heart of the High Elf domain and be victorious." Walter spoke. "And they will not simply bombard the cities because of the high concentration of natural resources Tarifa had the cities built on. They know the Wood Elves are more militaristic and their training superior to the High Elves. If they supply you with the weapons needed, there is a strong possibility you would defeat them."

"And then they would turn on us despite this foolish treaty the Council of Elders wishes me to sign." Dysea spat.

Walter nodded. "That is my guess." He answered. "The Wood Elves are smaller in number than the High Elves, and even though you would no doubt gain victories against them, in the end they would overwhelm you."

"And we would all be slaves again." Dysea said with a snarl. "And the cycle would be repeated once more."

Walter nodded solemnly. "Yes."

"Some of the Elders must be entwined in this plot." Dysea spoke heatedly. "There is no way the Alliance could do this without some support from the Elders."

"I'm afraid the possibility of that is also very real." Walter told her. "And if the Alliance has penetrated the Wood Elves Council of Elders, it is safe to assume they have done the same with the High Elves."

"Would Tarifa see this?" Dysea asked looking at him.

Walter nodded. "I believe so yes. Both of you have unique skills Dysea. Tarifa's skills reside mainly within the political realm, while yours are more military related. She is an excellent warrior, and you an excellent politician don't doubt that, but each of you has your strengths. I would imagine she has her suspicions."

Dysea turned back to the lake surface. "The Hopper's sensors can detect infra-red signatures twenty kilometers away. We will remain here until Tomea is able to determine with no doubt who conducted these attacks." She looked at him. "When I return to the capital, I want to have proof, and then I will find the traitor on our Council. And they will pay."

REFUGEE VALLEY SALMON RIVER MOUNTAINS

Tareif and Palina watched with wide eyes from the backs of their horses as their daughter led them into the refugee camp. It had taken them only three hours to traverse the distance to where Martin had established the compound, and even Tarifa was amazed what he had accomplished in that time period. They could see the neat rows of large tents that had been staked into the ground, with quiet running generators powering the lights and computers that men and women had set up. Tarifa had forgotten that most of the men and women who had escaped with Martin were the best minds of EDEN's crew, and they had used their minds and their hands to put together this temporary base. The Mark Nine transports were the center of the compound, as that is where Anja had set up the lone medical clinic. Spaced at even intervals all around the huge diameter of the perimeter were the Raptor transports and at least one heavy weapon. They covered the two layers of triple strand razor wire that surrounded the compound. At one end of the compound they could see sixty or seventy men and women training under the watchful gaze of three of Martin's team.

They had not been challenged when they got close to the compound, and the six of them and twenty Dragoon soldiers had been able to ride directly into the camp through the wide opening in the wire fences. There was a large stump by the entrance and the three genomes guarding the entrance nodded to Tarifa as they rode by, but ignored the others. They passed dozens of humans as they made their way toward the two Mark Nine's, and received smiles and waves.

Tareif nudged his horse closer to his daughter's and leaned over. "I had imagined a huge sprawling mess with no organization." He spoke quietly. "And they... they are not gazing upon us as if we are freaks."

"I told you Papa, these men and women are different." Tarifa said with a smile.

Tareif dropped back to ride next to his wife who looked at him, her eyes wide. "I've never seen anything like it." Palina spoke.

"They have no security! No guards!" Tareif spoke. "This Martin Hunter character does not appear to be the military mind that our daughter led us to believe."

"Behave Tareif." Palina spoke turning her head as the horses came to halts because Tarifa had reined her mount in.

They followed their daughter's action and dismounted from their horses as the red haired young woman in black fatigues came walking up to her. An automatic pistol was strapped to her thigh, and the large assault rifle was slung across her back.

Anja forced a smile at Tarifa as she saw her eyes searching the area for Martin. "He's on the other side of the transport." She spoke keeping her voice even. "They are rigging a long range transmitter."

Tarifa smiled and took her hand without thinking or noticing the look Anja gave her, motioning to the half dozen horses loaded with equipment. "I was able to bring most of the items you requested, but many of the medicines we do not have access too. Our chief physician suggested herbal remedies and gave me a list of what you can use and how to mix them. He said they are not as powerful, but they do the same thing."

Anja nodded. "Thank you Tarifa. It will fill out our stocks."

Tarifa took her mother's hand. "Anja this is my father Tareif and my mother Palina. I have brought two members of our Council of Elders, and that smirking dark haired girl is my youngest sister."

Anja nodded. "I am Commander Anja Peterson." She spoke looking at them. "Welcome to... well welcome to your valley."

Palina smiled and took an immediate liking to Anja. "You... you are human?" She asked softly, seeing the aura Anja projected but detecting something faint and almost unnoticeable.

Anja nodded. "Yes."

Treblar stepped forward. "You have built all this in only three days?" He asked.

"Many of the men and women who left EDEN with us were tops in their fields, Scientists and researchers and inventors. They know how to get things done." Anja answered. "And Martin likes to be prepared for everything. Come with me and I'll take you over."

They fell in behind Anja and began to traverse the distance to the transports, which towered above them. None of them had ever seen such a massive flying craft, the front of the transport was flipped up revealing the cavernous interior of the ship, easily two hundred meters long, and the rear of the craft was also opened to the sunlit sky.

As they came around the front of the transport all of them stopped at what they saw, their eyes going wide.

"We should stop here until they get it anchored." Anja told them. "It has already fallen twice."

There were six Genomes holding thick ropes tied to the hundred foot high steel pole as they lifted it into the air. All of them were shirtless, their skin glistening in sweat, and their muscles rippling in effort. In the middle of the six was Martin, easily discernable by the black flame tattoos that decorated his chest and back. They could see the ropes stretching out from the top of the transport and Tareif looked surprised to see the shirtless male elf, one of the soldiers his daughter had left, holding one of the ropes, while two male humans were anchoring him on top of the transport. Standing near the bottom of the pole was the short female elf, another of the soldiers Tarifa had left no doubt, and she was holding the long black cable and waiting to pounce.

Palina stepped closer to her daughter, who was gazing at Martin's sweaty body with desire. "Which one is he Tarifa?" Her mother asked, "This Martin Hunter?"

"He is in the middle." Tarifa replied. "He has the tattoos on his chest and back."

Palina followed her daughter's motion with her eyes and her breath caught in her chest when she saw him. He was huge, easily over six feet tall, and the muscles in his arms and shoulders were bulging in effort, the rope looped around his arm several times. His abdomen could be described only as perfection, the "six pack" clearly defined and ripped in a way Palina had never seen before. Zaala had come up next to her sister and mother, her eyes also focused on Martin.

"By the gods Tarifa, he's... he's... huge!" Zaala spoke with a large smile. "And so very dreamy."

Palina looked at her daughter, her dark eyes scolding her. Zaala became quiet but continued to watch while Anja stood to the side and could only smile.

"Go!" Martin's voice barked out, drawing their attention back to what was going on, "Now!"

He had been yelling to the female elf with the black cable in her hand, and she sprang into action milliseconds after Martin had yelled for her. She gripped the bottom of the pole and began to scamper up the smooth surface with no effort in the least. It took her only a few seconds to reach the top of the pole, and she secured the black cable to the top before turning and using her elfin strength she heaved it to where the human female and Endith stood on top of the transport. They caught it easily, and the female elf slid down the pole quickly.

"Anchor it!" Danny bellowed from where he stood next to Martin, his own arms and shoulders rippling in effort.

A dozen human men and women rushed forward with long stakes and heavy hammers to anchor the ropes that the Genomes were holding. In less than three minutes, the steel pole was solidly anchored into the ground, and the gathered elves, humans and Genomes shared a shout of victory as Anja motioned Tarifa and the others forward.

Martin turned quickly when he detected Tarifa's peach scent and his dark eyes lit up. He gazed at her for a long moment, taking in the way the light blue shirt she wore tied just underneath her beautiful breasts, leaving her abdomen bare, and the way the black pants clung to her hips and long legs like a second skin. Martin also saw the others with her, and quickly deduced by their similar scent that they were related to Tarifa in some manner, as was the tall male elf with full body armor on. Martin also realized that this was not a social call, and he straightened his pants as best he could, brushing off the dirt and leaves and looked around for where he had tossed his t-shirt.

This did not go unnoticed by Tarifa or her mother, and Palina hid the smile she wanted to express. This young man was not just muscles and good looks, she concluded. He somehow knew that this was an official meeting and was now trying to at least make his appearance presentable. She watched as he failed to find his shirt, took a breath and simply stepped up to them his broad chest glistening in sweat.

"Good day Commander." Tarifa spoke, forcing herself to use her most professional voice. Her mother was the only one who noticed this and she saw Tarifa clenching her hands behind her back in an obvious attempt to not throw herself into this young man's arms. Palina was very surprised at this, as she had never seen any man affect her daughter as apparently this Commander Hunter did.

Martin bowed his head slightly to Tarifa. "It is good to see you again your majesty." Martin spoke, controlling his own voice Palina saw.

"Allow me to introduce Chief Minister of Justice Thalami, and Chief Minister of The Interior Treblar, of the Council of Elders." Tarifa spoke motioning to where Thalami and Treblar stood slightly behind and to her right.

"I hope you'll forgive my appearance." Martin told them. "We have been attempting to put up our long range transmitter all morning."

"There is no need to apologize." Thalami said with a friendly smile. "We understand you have duties."

Treblar stepped forward and looked at the towering steel pole. "I noticed you were using the elves that the Queen left with your group."

Martin nodded. "Yes sir. I needed someone to scale the pole to attach the cable to the top, while someone held the pole steady from the top of the transport. Lieutenant Radama offered to steady the pole from above and Lieutenant Vowel offered to attach the cable."

Treblar looked at him. "And your people could not have done this?"

“We could have, yes.” Martin spoke calmly. “However, Vowiel is considerably lighter than any of my team, and her agility on the pole was perfect. Radama did the work of four humans by holding the pole steady from the top with his strength.”

“The Queen told us there were close to sixty of your kind... Genomes I believe she called you... in your team.” Treblar said turning to face Martin. “Would you mind if I asked where they are if you are using elves to assist you?”

“They offered to help, I accepted their offer Minister.” Martin said calmly.

“That does not answer my question.” Treblar spoke.

“No sir it doesn’t.” Martin replied. “I have fifty-three Genomes in my team sir. Six of them have been tracking you since you left your city gates, and the others are on different patrols throughout the area.”

“You’ve... you’ve been tracking us since we left the city?” Thalami asked shocked. “How is that possible? We were at a gallop for a full third of the trip here.”

“He is bluffing.” Tareif spoke from behind his daughter.

Martin turned his head to look at the grizzled elf. He was a soldier by anyone’s standard with the way he carried himself. “You stopped to relieve yourself approximately thirteen miles from the city sir. When you did you pissed on one of my people. She was not at all happy about that. Would you like me to tell you how big your dick is as proof?”

Tarifa and her mother could barely contain the laughter that threatened to escape their lips, and Zaala simply stared at Martin in disbelief. She had never heard anyone talk to her father in such a way.

Martin stepped up to Tareif. “You are Tarifa’s father. It’s an honor to meet you sir. I see where she gets her eyes.” Martin turned to Palina and bowed his head to her, holding out his hand. “And you are her mother. I see where she gets her beauty.” Palina took Martin’s outstretched hand with a shy smile and he brought it to his lips where he softly kissed the back of her hand, “An honor to meet you ma’am.”

“My daughter, the Queen...” Tareif spoke putting particular emphasis on Queen, and causing Martin to turn back to him. “She spoke highly of you and your skill. I have seen nothing to substantiate her claims.”

“Papa...!” Tarifa snapped, her eyes growing angry as she glared at her father.

“Tareif...!” Palina followed suit.

“It is the truth!” Tareif barked. “They have no security out! We rode into their camp without challenge! If I was an Alliance Assassin I could have wiped out half their force before they knew what hit them. As it is, he leaves himself undefended to the point that my small force of twenty Dragoons could easily take this entire compound.”

“Martin this is War Master Tareif.” Treblar spoke. “He is our most senior Commanding Officer, and he is also the Queen’s father as you have already noticed.”

Martin smiled and clasped his hands behind his back. “With all due respect sir, if you were one of those ugly fuckers we ran into a few days ago, you would have been dead six miles ago. Master Chief!” He called.

“Target!” The Master Chief spoke into his implant.

Martin stepped closer to Tareif. “There is a little red dot between your eyes right now. A dot that tells exactly where the 20mm sniper round will impact when it is fired. All of you with the exception of Tarifa have the same dots. Look around if you like.”

Tareif allowed his eyes to travel to where Palina stood and he saw the small red dot centered between her dark eyes. Thalami and Treblar, as well as the twenty Dragoons with them all had similar dots as well. He looked back to Martin.

“I said my people were on patrol, sir. I did not say where.” Martin told him with a smile.

“I see no defenses here except for the wire. A true leader would defend his base and make any enemy pay for it with blood.” Tareif spoke, though his confidence was slightly shaken.

“Yes they would.” Martin said. “Deploy!” He barked into his implanted radio mic.

Tareif and the others watched with amazement as men and women appeared from almost everywhere and within ten seconds the entire perimeter was manned and every heavy weapons platform was warmed up.

“Shield!” Martin snapped.

They again watched in amazement as the shimmering blue field sprang to life from the top of the two Mark Nine transports and extended to encompass the entire diameter of the compound. Tareif looked at Martin.

“A level two Force Shield.” Martin spoke. “It is strong enough to repel all types of shrapnel, and disable any type of electronic device when passed through. One of my tech heads came up with the idea and it took him four hours to install. Pretty shade of blue isn’t it?”

Tareif only grunted in reply and Palina stepped to her husband and took his arm. “We are impressed Commander.” She said.

“We are not in any way shape or form like the humans and other people you have dealt with in the past sir. All I ask is a chance for us to prove it to you. I put together a place where we could talk with some refreshments.” Martin said, motioning to the closest Mark Nine. “We have only rations at the moment, but the coffee and tea is fresh.”

“You knew we were coming?” Treblar asked surprised.

“As I said sir, we’ve been tracking you since you left your city.” Martin replied. “When I was informed Tarifa was with you I assumed one of two things was going on. You were either coming to meet with me, or you were using her to gain entrance to our compound knowing I would not harm her.”

“And what if it was the latter?” Treblar asked.

Martin smiled and they all noticed the slightly extended fangs protruding from his mouth. “Well sir, then you would be dead and Tarifa would be with me, and it really wouldn’t matter would it?”

Treblar couldn’t help but laugh and nod his head. “You are very right Commander, very right indeed.”

“Please... I don’t much care for pomp and circumstance. And considering the situation I find myself in, my rank no longer applies now does it? My name is Martin.”

“With the Queen’s permission I humbly accept your invitation.” Treblar said.

“Minister Treblar has my permission of course.” Tarifa spoke, taking Martin’s arm and glaring at her father with a look that would have dropped a Grizz beast in its tracks.

“This way please.” Martin said.

“...so your Admiral Wallace remains on this station on the moon?” Thalami asked Martin.

They were sitting on the top deck of the transport in the small conference room. Martin had washed quickly and put on his fatigue top, much to Tarifa’s disappointment, and he now sat at the table with them. They had been talking for nearly four hours, with Martin telling them everything that had happen since coming to earth. He left out the part about him and Tarifa on the Raptor however.

Martin nodded. “He was able to insinuate himself within Graham’s trust, and he still continues to feed us information on a low frequency band every few days.” He told them. “His last report spoke of a meeting with this Minister Deval of the Alliance. They have been able to repair three of the five Raptors we left and are bringing him up to EDEN.”

“And you trust this man?” Treblar asked.

“We would not have gotten off the station without his help.” Martin replied. “Yes I trust him.”

“You realize that your actions have made you a wanted man by the Alliance.” Treblar told him.

Martin looked at him with a smile, “Really?”

“They are offering five million credits for delivering you to them.” Treblar said.

“Only five million...? Jeez... I feel unwanted.” Martin replied sipping his mug of coffee. “I guess I’ll have to work on that.”

“You don’t seem concerned.” Palina asked genuinely curious as to why.

Martin looked at her. “I have been at war for the majority of my adult life ma’am.” He answered slowly and with great respect everyone noticed. “In the time we came from I had prices on my head from nearly every major terrorist organization on the planet, not to mention several countries. It doesn’t really bother me in the least.”

“Your actions however have broadened the intensity of the Alliance’s attention on our people.” Treblar told him.

“Would you have preferred I let those Alliance fuckers have Tarifa?” Martin asked with more heat in his words than he intended.

“Well no of course not!”

Martin nodded. "I didn't think so." He said. He got to his feet slowly. "Forgive me but I am not a diplomat in any way. What I have seen and heard in the last few days leads me to the conclusion that I want nothing to do with this Alliance government. They are lower than even cockroaches as far as I am concerned. If remaining here puts your people at greater risk, then all I ask for is some information about areas that I can take these people and be able to protect them and I will gladly leave. I've never commanded this large a group of people and many of them are not fighters. I'm learning as we go."

"You... you would just leave?" Palina asked surprised and seeing the look on Tarifa's face.

"I had thought we could teach each other quite a bit." Martin replied. "But if by us being here, Tarifa and your people are in greater danger, yes we will leave."

"Please Martin do not be so hasty." Treblar told him. "This is a matter for the entire Council of Elders to decide, and it can not be made overnight. Would you accept an invitation to our city so that we can discuss this more fully?"

Martin nodded. "I suppose it wouldn't hurt."

"Excellent! Would we be able to remain here for this evening and we can return to our city early in the morning?"

Martin turned to Danny. "Dan... we have anymore tents?"

"We can put one up in no time Skipper." He answered getting to his feet. "We can strip a few cots from the transport so the ladies don't have to sleep on the ground."

Martin nodded. "Take care of it Danny." He turned back to Treblar. "We have set up one tent and turned it into a galley of sorts. Some of my techs are pretty good cooks and they have offered to cook for everyone. I believe they are serving dinner at seven this evening."

"You seem to have things very well organized Martin." Palina told him.

Martin chuckled. "I have good people, and they do the most work. Please feel free to talk to anyone you wish. I need to contact the teams I have on patrol, so if you'll excuse me."

"You really have men patrolling the mountains?" Tareif asked, his surprise not completely hidden.

Martin nodded. "They are patrolling the mountains north and west of here. I assumed since your city was east I would keep them away from the area to avoid any accidents."

"Why not keep everyone inside the perimeter?" Tareif asked.

"You should know as well as I do War Master that you should always remain vigilant if you wish to survive." Martin spoke.

Tareif nodded grudgingly. "This is true." He finally said.

Martin smiled and looked at Tarifa for a long moment. Palina saw the look that passed between them, and then Martin turned and headed down the stairs.

"...believe we can trust them." Thalami spoke, looking at the others who sat around inside the large tent. "Does anyone disagree?"

All of them had spent the rest of the afternoon and early evening mingling among the humans and Genomes within the perimeter. It was a new experience for all of them. There was not one instance that any of the humans had been anything other than polite and down right friendly. It was not something they were used too, and only Endith, Radama and Vowiel seemed to be at ease with it. Tareif would admit it to no one, but after viewing the defenses of the compound, and seeing the very businesslike manner of the Genomes he encountered and talked with, he concluded that these Genomes would make powerful allies, and the humans with them could prove invaluable in their expertise.

Thalami and Treblar spent most of their time asking questions of any human they could find, and not once was any question refused. They had been offered refreshments and even food from men and women who did not even know them, yet extended the hand of friendship.

Treblar sat back in the chair he occupied. "I admit I was very wary when we first arrived, but after what I have seen, I am leaning very strongly towards agreeing with you Thalami."

"I've been trying to tell you that." Tarifa spoke, exasperation in her voice.

"Milady, our visit here only strengthens your argument." Thalami told her. "For my part it was not because I didn't believe you Milady... it was because I wanted to see it for myself."

“We must remember that these men and women are from a different time.” Palina spoke now. “Slavery to them is just as abhorrent as it is to us and with the skills that some of them have, they could make powerful allies indeed.”

“War Master Tareif?” Treblar asked looking at him. “What is your assessment?”

Tareif looked at him as he sipped the tea. “I can not speak for the political side of things, but militarily... I could hit this compound with four legions of my Dragoons and artillery support, and we would still not win. Did you look at their eyes? The Genomes especially, have an almost fanatic loyalty to Hunter. The humans... the humans may be the lynch pin. Hunter did not have to follow his Admiral’s orders and take these people with him. They know that. He and his Genomes could have survived anywhere on this planet had they chosen. He brought these people with him because he knew it was the right thing to do. They have no idea what their future holds, but as long as Hunter leads them, they know they will prevail.” He looked at Treblar, “My assessment? We would be fools to turn them away.”

Tarifa could stand it no longer and got to her feet. “Did I miss something here?” She snapped. “I was elected Queen! Does anyone care to hear my assessment, or does anything I say matter anymore!” She turned quickly and ran out of the tent, tears forming in her eyes.

Zaala moved to follow her sister but Palina shook her head. “Zaala let her go!” She spoke rising to her feet. She looked at the others who had surprised expressions on their faces. “She has been through a lot these last few days.” Palina said. “She will be fine. I will see to her.”

Palina moved to the front of the tent and stepped outside into the cool night air. The stars were out in full force, casting their brightness through the trees and into the huge clearing that was now the compound. Palina’s eyes went wide when she realized Tarifa was not outside the tent. Her sharp ears caught the sound of a female voice and she reached out into the night with her keen elf vision to see Tarifa holding the hand of Martin as they ran towards the transports with a speed no human could match.

Palina smiled gently to herself and realized that this was what her daughter needed right now. To be a woman and let desire and lust take control. She turned as the Dragoon Guard appeared from the darkness.

“Is everything alright Mistress?” He asked.

Palina nodded. “Yes Captain, everything is fine. Have you seen anyone nearby?”

“No one Milady,” The Dragoon replied. “The Genomes raised the shield around the compound and I doubt even a full brigade could get past their perimeter.”

“So a walk under these beautiful stars is safe?” She asked, already knowing the answer. If Martin was able to come this close to their tent and take Tarifa from under the noses of the finest troops her husband commanded, they had nothing to fear.

“Very safe Milady, I just came out to share a pipe. The rest of us are already bed down.”

“Thank you Captain.” Palina did a slow count to sixty and then began walking a slow path towards the transports.

“Ahhhhhhh!” Tarifa gasped softly as she sank completely down on Martin’s pulsing, rock hard twelve inch cock. She grabbed Martin’s head, entwining her fingers in his hair and pulled his face away from where he was sucking hard on one of her sensitive nipples.

“I... I have missed... missed you so much Martin!”

Martin gripped Tarifa’s perfect ass in his hands and pulled her down tightly on his cock, flexing his buried meat inside her while clenching his teeth. This action caused her to dig her sharp nails into his shoulders almost painfully as her eyes fluttered, “Almost... almost as much as I... have missed you.” He hissed.

Tarifa looked into his gorgeous eyes, her face contorted in pleasure. “More!” She nearly screamed before covering his lips with her own and plunging her tongue into his mouth. She rocked her hips forward as she kissed him, wrapping her arms around his head. The base of his huge cock was rubbing abrasively against her engorged clit and it was driving her mad. Martin lay back on the soft blankets he had spread over his small lean-to, pulling Tarifa with him and feeling her breasts flatten against his bare chest. Her hard nipples burned against his skin, the velvety warmth of her pussy exactly as he remembered. He took her face in his large hands, stroking the tips of her elf ears and seeing her face smile and her body shivered at the sensations it caused when he did that. He pushed her silky hair from her face and ran a finger over her soft moist lips.

“You are so beautiful.” He said softly.

Tarifa looked at him, feeling his throbbing cock so deeply inside her it made her head pound. She still could not believe she could accept all of his enormous size within her. Even the smallest of motions when he was buried this deep caused orgasm after orgasm to course through her. She had practically thrown him to the ground in his lean-to and pulled his pants from him before he had time to speak. She tore her own pants from her body and grasped his hot, steel like shaft in her small hands and poised her already soaked pussy over the huge head. When she felt her cunt open to accept the large head, it was as if her pussy had conformed to his exact dimensions. As she sank onto his pole she felt every thick inch and pulsing vein against the walls of her overheated pussy and she knew then she could not survive without Martin. The sex between them was unlike anything she had ever imagined yes, but she knew theirs would not be a lasting relationship. Something pulled at Martin... something or someone far stronger than her.

She looked at him, stilling her hips on top of his, his cock anchored inside her. “You... you said you would leave me Martin! Why?”

Martin gripped her face tighter, his own expression becoming more serious. “I... I can't lose you Tarifa.” He spoke. “If... if my presence here puts you in danger, I don't... I don't want that.”

Tarifa nearly began to cry at his words, and she shook her head quickly. “Let me decide what puts me in danger Martin. I am quite capable of handling myself.” She told him. “I have practically a full company with me even when I go to clean myself.” She said with a grin.

Martin chuckled and pulled her face to his and kissed her quickly. “I bet that is something to see.” He said.

Tarifa looked at him her eyes darkening. “I'll give you something to see.” She said and lifted herself from his chest. Her hands pushed against his chest keeping him from sitting up. “No!” She gasped. “I am Queen... you will stay there!”

“Tarifa I... Uhhhhhhh,” Martin grunted and his hands slapped onto the ground next to them when Tarifa clenched her pussy muscles around his shaft, her silky thighs pressing tightly to his naked hips.

Martin looked up into her face and saw her sapphire eyes alive with passion and desire. She smiled down at him and reached up to cup her 34C breasts in her hands, lowering her head slightly and extending her tongue to lick her own nipple. “Be still Martin.” She told him seductively. “Tonight I will show you why female elves are so desired.”

Tarifa laid her hands along his powerful abdomen and began to ride Martin for all she was worth. She lifted her hips until only the tip of his massive cock was inside her and then drove herself down upon him, impaling herself deeper and deeper each time. Sweat began to pour from her face and trail down between her breasts, and her breathing was coming in short gulps as she used all of her strength to draw out their pleasure as much as possible. She squeezed her pussy muscles every time she withdrew, her mouth open in delight as she felt every pulsing vein on his thick shaft. She was shuddering in a continual orgasm, her pussy juices pouring out of her, drenching his manhood and lower abdomen in her sweet cum. She looked at his face, seeing his eyes closed tightly, the muscles in his neck extended as he tried to control himself and give her as much pleasure as she could stand.

“No... no Martin,” She gasped between clenched teeth. “Don't... don't hold back! Fill me... fill me with your cum! Fill me!” She almost screamed, moving her hips faster, slamming them down on his huge cock in almost a blur.

Martin's eyes popped open and Tarifa was momentarily shocked enough to stop plunging her pussy down on him. His eyes stared up at her and she watched them change from liquid dark brown color to the yellow and black orb. She gasped when she felt his huge cock expand within her, its pulsing heat penetrating her even deeper. The massive head of his cock ballooned and Tarifa felt his boiling cum racing up the entire length of his cock. Just as Martin erupted into her pussy with a force greater than their time together on the Raptor he sat up, driving his cock far up into her belly. Tarifa's eyes rolled into the back of her head as her pussy lips spread and wrapped around the base of his massive pole and she felt the first explosion from his cock blast deeply into her womb. His lips covered her left nipple and he sucked painfully hard, his fangs biting down, but not enough to break the skin, and that sent Tarifa into her own explosive orgasm.

“Yes!” She cried weakly. “Yes!” Leaving one arm wrapped around Martin's shoulder, Tarifa reach down behind her to find his seething balls, bloated and planted snugly against her firm ass cheeks. She cupped his balls in her hand and felt cum erupting from them in spasms. She dragged her manicured nails across the tight skin on his large nut sack and heard Martin hiss in delight. His next eruption into her pussy caused her to squeeze both her arms around his shoulders and clutch his sucking mouth to her breasts as her orgasm ripped through her very being, taking her breath away.

It was over far quicker than either of them desired and Martin nuzzled her throat, his fangs nibbling her skin in delightful nips that made Tarifa smile in contentment and hold his head even tighter. His hard cock was still buried within her, but it was slowly softening. Martin's hands clutched her ass, with no intention of letting her rise from him, not that Tarifa had any desire to change their position in the least. She milked his thick cock with small squeezes of her pussy, eliciting small gasps from Martin whenever she did that.

"I... I don't suppose we could stay like this forever?" Tarifa whispered to him.

Martin looked up into her face; his eyes now back to normal and his fangs only slightly longer than normal. "Nothing would make me happier." He told her, burying his face into her sweat dampened hair and inhaling deeply.

"We can't do that can we?"

Martin looked at her again, taking one hand off her ass to push some long strands of her black hair from her face. "No."

"I've had a dream Martin. It is a strange dream. I see you and me, and a beautiful blond elf. And I see children; many children." Tarifa told him softly. "I can feel her love, for you. Ever since I met you I can feel her almost as if she is a part of us." Martin looked at her oddly and she reached up to stroke his face, her sapphire eyes bright. "What is it?"

"I have had the same dream Tarifa." He told her. "Every night since we first met it is the same dream."

"That is no coincidence Martin." She told him. "We are having the same dream for a reason. The... the Holy One said there is another for you; and that together we would set each other free."

"And that frightens you?" Martin asked.

Tarifa shook her head. "Strangely, no it doesn't. There is someone for me out there. I have not found them yet, but if by being with you, helping you to find this blond elf brings to me what I desire, we both win in the end don't we?"

Martin nodded slowly, "And until then?"

Tarifa grinned. "I suggest we continue to share these wonderful meetings."

Martin grinned and chuckled softly once more. "I kind of like that idea too." He said.

"Martin... what if the Holy One made another for the both of us?" Tarifa said.

Martin took her face in his hands. "We'll cross that bridge when or if we ever come to it. Agreed?"

Tarifa nodded slowly, her fingers caressing his shoulders. "I must get back before I am missed." She said disappointment clearly in her voice. "If my mother or father discovers I came here to be with you they would be very upset. I am supposed to be a Queen... not some sex hungry vixen."

"Hey... there is nothing wrong with sex hungry vixen!" Martin said, causing her to look at him.

"With you... no there is not." She said with her own smile as she began to extract her body from his.

Tarifa kissed Martin deeply outside his lean-to as he held her suspended in his arms. She had taken one of his fatigue tops because Martin had shredded her blue shirt trying to get it off her. He lowered her to the ground slowly and smiled sheepishly.

"I'm sorry about your shirt." He said.

Tarifa smiled and kissed his nose. "I like yours better anyway. I can smell you on it, and it soothes me." Tarifa saw his eyes change quickly, and then return to normal. His smile had faded as well. "Martin... what is it?"

"Your mother is not far away. She's watching us." Martin told her quietly.

Tarifa made no move to remove her hands from where they rested on Martin's bare chest, and she leaned forward to place her head there as well, a sigh of disappointment escaping from her lips.

"You can come out of the shadows mother." Tarifa spoke loudly. "We know you are there." Palina's figure took shape as she walked from the front of the transport slowly. "How long have you been there mother?"

Palina stopped and looked at them. "I've been here long enough to hear what I needed to hear." She replied. She stepped forward and removed the shawl she wore from around her shoulders. "Come Tarifa, we must get you back before your father realizes you are gone." She draped the shawl over Tarifa's shoulders effectively hiding Martin's fatigue top in the dim light.

Tarifa turned to look at her. "Mother I..."

Palina shook her head. "You do not need to explain anything to me Tarifa. I have been and still am a female elf and I am not unknowing of the desires that run in your blood daughter. Your secret is safe with me child."

"Mama..."

"Go on now! Before your father notices you. Zaala waits for you by the side of the tent." Palina spoke. "Go!"

Tarifa turned and kissed Martin softly one last time before turning and moving quickly off into the night. Palina watched her daughter until she was gone and then turned slowly back to Martin. He was watching her with those eyes, his face unreadable.

Palina looked at Martin and spoke softly. "Her position does not grant her very much freedom, and even less emotion Martin Hunter. I...you have given her back her virtue and her inner strength. I thank you for that."

Martin stepped up to her and looked down into her face. "I can not begin to explain what I feel for Tarifa ma'am." He said softly. "It has taken me all of my life to begin to understand the emotions that I feel." He saw Palina look at him.

"I do not understand." She said.

"The Holy One as you call him, he was like a father to me." Martin said. "I was the first of my kind, and some things were left out when I was born. The ability to understand emotions was one of those things. It wasn't done on purpose, it was simply forgotten. My interaction with others throughout my life has taught me to understand what I feel. I can not put into words what I feel... but I can tell you this. I would gladly give my life without a second thought if it meant Tarifa would be safe. I do not know what the future holds for either of us... but I do feel that we will always be there for one another."

Palina gazed at Martin for a long moment, knowing he meant every word he had just spoken. "I believe you would Martin Hunter. I believe you would." She said. "You must hide your liaisons with Tarifa for now. It would seem you need each other now, if for nothing else than the touch of another."

"Palina... I did not..." Martin started to say.

Palina shook her head. "Your words are not needed Martin. I have seen for myself what type of man you are. And you are not entirely human either. We are elves Martin... and the Holy One created us to enjoy sexual relations with another who stirs us, not hide them or be ashamed of them. At this moment in time, the two of you have found a rock of sorts anchoring both of you, and that rock is each other. The physical pleasure is merely a way for the two of you to deepen that relationship."

"I will never hurt her." Martin said.

"I know. I must get back before Tareif sees that I am gone as well." Palina spoke. "I hope we see more of you Martin Hunter." Palina turned and headed back quickly towards their tent.

Tarifa and Zaala were still outside the tent when she returned and Tarifa came up to her immediately. "What did you say to him mother?" She asked.

"Now is not the time." Palina told her.

"I want to know what you said to him mother!" Tarifa asked again, her voice a little louder.

"What's going on out here?" Tareif's voice interrupted them. He pushed aside the tent flap and looked at them.

Palina stepped in front of Tarifa and looked at her husband. "Is it so difficult to understand that I am having a mother to daughters talk with my children Tareif? Go back inside husband, we will be in shortly."

Tareif grunted and did as Palina told him. Tarifa gripped her mother's arm.

"Mama," She pleaded.

Palina looked at her and touched her face with a warm smile. "You must hide your meetings with Martin Tarifa." Her mother told her. "It will cause problems with the Council. They will think he is using you."

"Mother he is not!" Tarifa insisted. "I go to him because I chose too. He makes me feel... he makes me feel..."

“He makes you feel normal. Like a woman again?” Palina said with a smile. “Your soul mate will come in time daughter. For now... enjoy your liaisons with Martin. You deserve to be normal as well.”

Tarifa looked at her surprised. “I... I did not think you would tell me that mama.” She said.

Palina smiled. “I was your age once Tarifa and I have not always been married to your father. And he is very handsome.”

Tarifa looked at her mother stunned, “Mother!” She exclaimed.

Palina chuckled and tucked her arm under Tarifa’s. “So tell your mother... how is he in bed?”

MOUNTAIN CITY

To call the capital of the High Elves enormous would be an understatement. As Tarifa led Martin and the others up to the front gate, they could clearly view the city stretching as far as they could see. Much of the city was built into the trees themselves, while a good portion also occupied the ground. There were massive bridges spanning hundreds of feet across, and huge walkways that circled upwards around the centuries old trees. There were parts of the city that had metal and concrete foundations, and others still that appeared built from the very roots of the trees themselves. Impressive would not have been a word that described it well enough and it showed on their faces, making the Dragoon soldiers smile to themselves. The Dragoons had seen many impressive things at Martin’s compound, and seeing his reaction to their city told them he was not as arrogant as they had first thought.

Tarifa, her mother and half the Dragoons went in one direction, with Tarifa casting a longing look back at Martin. He smiled to her, and did not pay attention to where he was going. The thick low hanging branch hit him square in the face and knocked him backwards out of the saddle to land on his back. Tarifa and her sister had been watching and they both burst into laughter, as well as the Dragoons that had remained with them. Even Martin’s team could not contain their laughter, and watched their Skipper sit up on his ass, a very embarrassed grin on his face.

Martin looked up at them. “Not much of a horseman I guess.” He spoke a huge smile splitting his face and then he was laughing along with the others.

This did not go unnoticed by the Dragoons or the elves that had seen his mishap, and it showed them that Martin could joke about himself easily, and did not think of himself superior.

Martin had brought eight members of his team, including Anja. They had been the first to come to earth, and they almost always worked together. Anja had become their defacto medic, and by now everyone knew she was sleeping with both Danny and Julie, and while that did not bother them in the least, to a man and women they all knew she was still madly in love with the Skipper. All of them wore complete body armor and carried their weapons slung across their shoulders. It apparently was not uncommon to move about on the planet heavily armed, and the elves did not seem at all bothered by the fact they were all very heavily armed.

Their horses were led away by half a dozen elves and they entered into a large lift near the main entrance. Martin’s eyes expertly took in the defensive positions and the weapons emplacements that were set up, his face showing no emotion. He knew his team was doing the same. One of the very first things they had been taught was how to survey an objective and how to make it more defensible. The lift carried them straight up at incredible speed, and they realized it was powered by what sounded like a hydraulic platform. Radama had returned with them and he saw Martin’s surprised expression as they ascended.

Radama had learned a great deal in the three days he had spent with Martin and the Genomes, as well as the humans. He was a Lieutenant in the Queen’s Royal Guard, and one of the most highly trained elfin warriors within their ranks. He realized three things in the first few hours walking with Martin around the compound. He learned that Martin abhorred any type of pomp, and most of his team and many of the humans called him not by his rank, but by his name. He learned that the man he walked with was the quintessential warrior, and Radama learned that his combat training was completely inferior to what these Genomes knew and were capable of doing. Knowing that Radama had set out to learn all he could, and he was ecstatic when he realized the Genomes were more than willing to teach him.

“The lift is controlled by a central control computer located on the third level.” He spoke, stepping up beside Martin.

“How many levels are there?” Martin asked.

“Nineteen total, but that includes the very top level which extends above the trees and is nothing more than observation and landing platforms for the air ships we have. We can raise and lower them if Alliance aircraft are detected by our radar.” Radama answered.

“Your defensive arrangements are excellent.” Martin told him honestly. “Who designed them?”

“I did.” Tareif answered gruffly from behind them.

Martin turned to look at him. “Impeccable sir.” He said.

“Lieutenant Radama, you will reveal nothing more to our guests unless specifically given instructions to. Is that clear?” Tareif spoke.

Radama bowed his head to Tareif, “As you order War Master.” He spoke.

Martin met Tareif’s glaring eyes with a calm gaze of his own, completely unafraid of the man. “It was meant as a compliment sir.” He said.

“I do not need your compliments on my defensive positions Commander.” Tareif barked. “You know nothing of me or my people and their capabilities. You are an outsider!”

Martin nodded slowly. “Yes I am. An outsider who can tell you if you trim back the branches on some of the trees you can set up the mortars you have to cover the entire valley as well as a three mile perimeter around this city.”

Tareif’s eyes widened, as did the eyes of several Dragoon soldiers and Radama. “How... you know nothing of our defensive capabilities! What you say is nonsense!”

Martin smiled. “The markings of a 120mm mortar make very distinct marks in any surface where they sit, sir.” Martin told him. “So far I’ve seen nine...”

“I’ve marked six.” Danny spoke.

Martin smiled again. “That’s fifteen mortar positions we have detected and we’ve only been here twenty minutes. I assume you use them for direct fire support of the wall, and that you have enough of them to circle the city. As I said... if you cut some of the branches from above say a third of the positions, you can cover the entire valley as well as a three mile perimeter around the city and triple your defensive capabilities.” Martin shrugged. “But that is just an observation from an outsider.”

Martin turned back around to face away from Tareif, his face emotionless to everyone. Tareif could only stand there, his eyes still wide but growing angrier by the minute.

Martin looked around the quarters he and his team had been provided and he could only smile. The large central room was very well furnished with several couches and chairs and a small counter bar in one corner. There were half a dozen smaller doorways off the main room that led to small but comfortably furnished sleeping rooms. There were four windows, and a door that led out to a balcony. The room was circular in design, and was built into the tree they were in, but also equipped with very modern amenities.

Martin looked at Radama as he stood in the doorway with a smile at the reaction of the others of Martin’s team as they set about exploring the room. “Thank you Radama.” He spoke.

“The Queen apparently does not share her father’s distrust of you Martin Hunter. She ordered you be escorted here. These are the finest guest quarters that we have in the city, and only the most honored of elves have ever stayed here.” Radama told him.

“What about you Radama?” Martin asked.

“I have seen first hand what you are capable of Martin Hunter, as well as saving the life of the Queen I am sworn to defend. You earned my trust the moment you killed those who assaulted her on your station.” Radama told him. “Milady asked that you be allowed to settle in and then she requested that I escort you to the Grand Chamber to meet the Council of Elders.”

Martin dropped his pack and nodded at Radama. “Let’s go.” He said, “Master Chief, will you make sure the children don’t break anything?”

Tony smiled from where he stood and nodded his head, “Got it Skipper.”

Martin left his HK leaning against his pack, but still had the K12 strapped to his thigh, as well as a large fighting knife strapped to his other leg. Radama motioned him out into the corridor and they began walking towards the sunlight at the far end.

“Do you have relations with any of the human settlements Radama?” Martin asked.

Radama shook his head. “There are several smaller human settlements that do not agree with the way elves and others are enslaved and used, but they are powerless to stop it. They sit in the shadow of more powerful settlements and are protected by them, and so must conform to their laws.” Radama replied. “The Queen has forbidden all contact with human settlements for this reason. She will not trade our people or any elves into servitude or slavery just for arms and ammunition. We have learned to become expert weapons masters, with blade and guns.”

“This forest and these mountains must be overflowing with natural resources.” Martin said.

“They are.” Radama told him. “There is gold and minerals and all types of resources that the humans need. They are becoming bolder in their forays into our land, taking what they can not produce themselves. We beat them back when we find them, but our territory is vast, and what many do not know is that not all of our people are warriors.”

Martin nodded. “That is usually the case.” He spoke softly.

“The Alliance will not come into the deep timber and mountains after us.” Radama spoke. “Every time they have we have slaughtered them. But each battle has losses, and slowly our army is shrinking in size until we can no longer cover all of the human excursions into our lands.”

“What do they do to your villages if they are discovered?” Martin asked.

“Those they do not kill are sold into slavery after they are broken.” Radama answered.

Martin looked at him. “Broken?”

“The females are raped repeatedly until they are near insanity. Then they are injected with a very addictive drug that keeps them submissive. They use this drug to then control the females, most of them ending up sold to slavers in the large cities of the Alliance east of the Big River.” Radama answered.

“And what happens to the men?” Martin asked.

“They are beaten and whipped and subjected to even more horrible tortures.” Radama answered. “Some are raped as well and turned into sex slaves for the Alliance citizens who prefer men over women. Most are sold into forced labor camps and relegated to working the most dangerous mines that are left and they are used as beasts of burdens on the Western Island.”

“The Western Island... what’s that?” Martin asked.

Radama nodded. “It was once called California, but after the Great Fire caused a massive earthquake, a chasm was created and the ocean rushed around the land and formed the Western Island.”

“What’s on the Western Island?” Martin asked him.

“It is where all of the slaves are processed.” Radama answered. “From the Western Island they can be sent anywhere in the world on the big ships or flying craft. It is maintained by the Alliance, but everyone uses it. At any given time there are thousands of elves and other new species waiting for shipment.”

“Wait a minute... new species?” Martin asked him surprised. “You mean like that thing you call a Grizz beast?”

“Yes. They were designed to hunt whatever they are programmed to hunt.” Radama answered. “There are rumors that some escaped the genetic facility due to their intelligence. They supposedly escaped into The Wastes and were never heard from again. The radiation that saturated The Wastes denied access to it for hundreds of years. It is only recently, the last sixty years or so, that anyone has been able to go into the area. It is here that the Alliance discovers some of their fiercest monsters, mutated by the radiation”

“Exactly how old are you?” Martin asked him.

Radama smiled, “One hundred and fifty-three.” He replied. “But I am young by elf standards. The oldest among us has four hundred and forty-one years. He was one of the first created by the Holy One. He served on the Council of Elders until he stepped down last year due to illness. It appears however, Martin Hunter, that you and your team are now older than even our oldest Elder.”

Martin grinned. “Yeah... I kind of guessed that.”

Radama motioned through the double doors they had arrived at. “Inside you will find the Council of Elders. They are similar to what in your time would be called a Senate.” Radama grinned when he saw Martin roll his eyes. “Each one represents one of our twelve major cities, as well as the surrounding smaller villages and towns. Ministers Treblar and Thalami you have already met. Some of them you will find to be openly friendly, others not so friendly.”

“I get that a lot.” Martin told him with a smile. “Is Tar... the Queen with them?”

Radama did not allow the smile he felt show on his face. Radama had heard the howls of pleasure from his Queen on the Raptor, and he had seen flashes of the incredible attraction between them as well. He nodded. “The Queen presides over every meeting of the Elders. She will be present.”

“Ah... cool.” Martin said turning as the doors opened and another Royal Guard came out dressed very similar to Radama.

“The Council will see you now.” He spoke.

“We will talk again Martin Hunter.” Radama said.

Martin nodded. “I’d like that.”

Martin watched him turn and head back down the corridor, and then he looked at the new guard who was directing him inside the room. Martin shook his head.

“Man I hate politicians.” He muttered to himself before walking into the room.

EDEN

She opened her eyes to the glare of false light and the feel of soft clean sheets against her skin. As her eyes focused she was able to make out more detail of the room she was occupying. There were pictures of strange men on the wall, as well as a long bookshelf filled with what appeared to be ancient copies of writings in pristine condition. Her oriental features were quite obvious due to the darker color of her skin, and the slight slant of her brown eyes. Her shiny black hair had been washed and now smelled slightly of cinnamon, and was splayed across the pillow. She was naked underneath the full length white sheet, and she clutched the sheet to her very firm breasts, the coolness of the room causing her nipples to stand out prominently against the fabric. She sat up quickly, her mind clearing even more and she remembered the strange looking flying craft that had picked up her and twenty of her fellow elves from the Alliance’s finest brothel in New Richmond. They had flown into the sky and landed many hours later at an unknown place. The Alliance Minister Deval had been traveling with them, and all they knew was that they were being offered as gifts to new allies.

Anisa turned her head quickly when the door to her right opened and the tall human exited what appeared to be a bathing room. He was clad in Khaki pants and black boots, his upper body bare. She took in the graying hair on his chest and his almost entirely bald head. He was lean for a human, not overly muscular, but Anisa could tell he was in superb physical condition. He lowered the towel from his face and she saw his eyes settle on her. Anisa had to hold back the gasp, as his eyes were the deepest blue she had ever seen.

“You’re awake?” Admiral William Wallace III spoke tossing the towel over a chair and moving to the side of the bed.

Anisa scampered to the far side of the large bed as he sat on the edge and held up his hand.

“I am not going to hurt you.” Wallace spoke softly. “I know the hatred and mistrust you have of humans, and I now know why, but I can assure you I will not hurt you.”

Anisa bowed her head, “As you say Master.” She spoke timidly.

“My name is William Wallace or Bill for short. My name is not Master.” He told her.

Anisa looked at him, sensing something very strange about this human. His weathered hand reached out slowly and gently took her chin, lifting her face to look at him.

“Don’t do that.” He said to her.

“You... you are my Master. It is forbidden to look at you directly!” Anisa spoke quickly, casting her eyes downward again. She heard him sigh heavily. “May I ask... may I ask where I am Master?”

“These are my quarters on EDEN.” Wallace replied. “You arrived two days ago with that sick Alliance bastard Deval.”

“My Lord you must not speak of the Minister in such a way!” Anisa spoke quickly, expecting the slap at any moment.

“I’ll speak about that perverted sonofabitch however I like.” Bill responded. “He makes me sick. What is your name?”

“I am called Anisa Milord.” She answered.

“Are you hungry?”

Anisa felt her empty stomach begin to growl with hunger. It was unlike anything she had felt at any time in the past fourteen months of her captivity. She reached up to a spot on the back of her neck where the drug dispenser was, only to discover it was missing. The dispenser was something all slaves had implanted upon their capture. The drug that was pumped into their system made them more docile and unresisting, but it also acted as an appetite suppressant, and Anisa had grown accustomed to it.

“It’s gone.” Bill spoke softly, getting to his feet. “I had it removed. I also had you pumped full of a detox solution to purge the drug from your system. That’s why you are still groggy and weak. Your natural elf healing ability will begin to assert itself soon enough.” She felt him settle back to the bed and hold out the shiny red apple. “You need to eat to regain your strength, but you need to start slowly.”

“Milord... I... I don’t understand.” Anisa told him, her voice quivering in fear.

“You came here two days ago with Minister Deval. This facility is called EDEN and it is on the moon. He brought you and twenty others as gifts to the man who now controls this station. You were offered to me as part of that gift.” Will told her. “I accepted as a way to earn and keep his trust.”

“You... you are my Master then.” Anisa said.

“No I am not. I don’t own you! Nobody owns you.” Bill said. “Look at me.”

“It is not allowed Milord!” Anisa said.

“Look at me!” Anisa took a deep breath and slowly lifted her face towards him; her eyes closed tightly, expecting the blow to come from any direction. “Now open your eyes.”

Anisa felt the tears well in her tightly shut eyes. “Milord... please, it is... I...”

“Open your eyes Anisa.”

Anisa dropped the sheet, exposing her firm breasts and smooth flat abdomen. “Please Milord... I will do whatever you wish. I will suck your cock! I... I am considered an expert at sucking cock Master! Or you can fuck me! Whatever you desire, but please...”

“Open your eyes!” Bill spoke more forcefully now. “And stop talking like that!”

Anisa’s eyes popped open at the obvious command tone of his voice, and she saw him holding something in his arms. It looked like a bundle of clothes that rested in his lap and his blue eyes gazed at her. She watched those eyes take in her nakedness; saw the flash of desire in them, and then it was gone. He leaned over and brought the sheet back up over her nakedness.

“Listen to me. I am playing a role.” Bill told her. “You are now part of that role. I will not hurt you, or force you to do anything. That part of your life is over now. I got these clothes for you. I understand that slaves are not allowed to be fully clothed, but I did the best I could in trying. I hope you like them.” Bill set them on the bed in front of her, and drew back his hands. “I had a female friend bath you, but if you wish to shower, it is through that door. I’m going to make you some breakfast so that you can regain your strength.”

“You... you don’t wish to take me?” Anisa asked with clear surprise in her eyes.

“No. Breakfast will be ready in about twenty minutes.” Bill answered her. He smiled at her before getting to his feet and walking out of the room without a second glance back at her near naked form.

Anisa sat on the bed dumbfounded and staring at the door as it closed behind him.

MOUNTAIN CITY

“I would personally like to extend to you the gratitude of this entire Council for your actions in saving the life of Queen Tarifa Commander Hunter. On two separate occasions I might add.” Treblar was speaking from his chair.

Martin was shown into the Council of Elders Chamber and offered the single chair on the end of the table. The row of twelve Ministers sat along the right side of the table, while Tarifa occupied the single seat on the left side. Martin had to force himself to look away from Tarifa due to the dress she was wearing. It was a floor length white mesh dress that hugged her body like a second skin. The dress ended at her neck in a choker collar, and the brief glance he had before sitting down told him it was split very high up on her lean muscular thigh. The dress also did not do much to hide her firm breasts, and only a small patch of material hid her sweet tasting nipples from plain view. The same nipples he had sucked and nibbled on the night before. Tarifa had smiled inwardly to herself, knowing the reaction she was having on Martin, yet she admired his control.

Martin looked at Treblar and nodded his head. "I am glad I was able to help sir." He finally spoke.

"As Minister Thalami and I explained to you yesterday during our visit to your encampment," Treblar went on. "This Council is willing to hear your petition for remaining within High Elf territory."

Martin looked at him puzzled. This was not discussed yesterday. "Excuse me sir, my petition?"

"Minister Treblar, as well as others of this Council, wants to know why we should allow you, a human, and nearly two thousand other humans, permission to remain within the safety of our domain." Raloa spoke now, the tone of his voice undoubtedly hostile.

"We escaped EDEN, as Queen Tarifa has no doubt told you. I am now responsible for over a thousand men, women and children." Martin said. "I need to insure their safety."

"You are humans!" Raloa spoke the word as if it was a vile thing. "Who are residing in the next valley, only six hours riding from this very city? Very convenient if you ask me."

Martin stared at the man. "I understand the situation that you and you people have had with humans in the past sir, but I don't understand where your distrust of my particular group comes from. We have only just arrived in this time period, to discover that a race of beings we thought to be only myth and legend now existed. We have seen some things that none of us could have possibly imagined, and we are still in a state of shock. What exactly have we done to earn your distrust?"

"You are human!" Raloa spoke. "That is enough."

"I and the other members of my team, we are only partially human sir." Martin told him. "As you no doubt already know from the Queen and two of your own Ministers who visited us, and I'm quite sure have already discussed with you. We are genetically engineered humans, all of us designed as soldiers during my time period. And all of the men and women who came from EDEN with us are non-combatants; scientists, doctors, researchers."

"We know what you are Commander." A female elf spoke now. She was lighter in skin tone, with flowing brown hair and shiny brown eyes. "That is what concerns us."

"And you are?"

"I am Chief Minister of Medicine Carina, Commander Hunter." She answered.

Martin nodded his head to her in a show of respect, which did not go unnoticed. "Ma'am if you will forgive me, I am not a politician. I'm what we used to call an Operator. I was Chief of Security for EDEN, an International base on the moon, when the comet came. I understand you call it the Great Fire, but to me it is just a frigging comet that ended up tossing us over four hundred and fifty years into the future. I don't know the mechanics of how... and to be honest... I don't want to know. Quantum Physics gives me a headache." That statement caused several of the Elders to smile. "I am a soldier ma'am... I came down here with my team, looking for some answers and lo and behold, we find that things are really fucked up. We discovered that people who like to play god have invented some really nasty critters that just happen to smell as bad as they look. We discovered that there is now a large population of Elves across what remains of the planet, a race of men and women that as I said existed only in children's books in our time and they are now used for any number of reasons to include slavery and forced labor. Things that did not exist where we came from, and were not tolerated. We also discovered that the government we used to serve has evolved into these Alliance idiots, and they have helped the one political asshole we had on EDEN to gain control of that station and force us to leave." Martin took a deep breath. "Now I find myself in command of more men and women than I have ever been asked to command, men and women I might add who do not agree in any way with the assholes in charge of this Alliance government, and I need to keep them protected at all costs. With all due respect, the least of your concerns is what I am."

"Do you think us fools Commander Hunter?" Raloa asked.

Martin looked at the man. "I don't follow sir."

"Do you think that we do not know what you are?" Raloa pulled the data pad from his robe. "We have an extensive library Commander, a library that I have spent the last two days in researching records, records that date back five hundred years. Do you want to know what I discovered?"

Martin folded his arms across his chest. "I'm sure you are about to tell me." He said.

“The Holy One... the man you know as Doctor Carson... the man who created the elves, left us an extensive library as I said. In those records were the unrestricted files on every member of your team, yourself included, as well as the entire history of the Genome program.” Ralao spoke.

Tarifa looked at Ralao, her sapphire eyes suspicious. The Holy One had never told her about any such records, and he would have shared this information with her.

Martin shrugged his broad shoulders. “I don’t see what relevance that information would have now. That’s ancient history it appears.”

“It is relevant Commander, because it shows what you and your team truly are.” Ralao said.

“What are you getting at Chief Minister?” Thalami asked, leaning forward in her chair.

“I’m trying to show that we can not trust this man, or any of those with him.” Ralao spoke.

“By doing what exactly Chief Minister,” Tarifa asked calmly. “Commander Hunter has shown he is no friend of the Alliance. They have a price on his head of five million credits, and a price on the head of all the men and women in his team. Whatever history you have discovered has no bearing on why we sit here now.”

“I believe it does your Majesty.” Ralao spoke. “Commander Hunter... how many men have you killed in your lifetime?”

Martin met his eyes. “Why does that matter?”

“It matters a great deal.” Ralao said. “Please answer the question.”

“I don’t keep count.” Martin told him.

“According to these records you are personally responsible for the deaths of seven hundred and nineteen men and women.” Ralao told him. “How does that make you feel?”

“I was genetically engineered to be the best soldier the United States government could produce.” Martin said. “I did not choose my way of life, it was forced upon me by others. From the day I was sixteen years old I was fighting in one war or another because there were people who did not like our way of life.”

“Did you enjoy killing them Commander?” Ralao asked.

“Chief Minister you are out of line!” Treblar snapped from his chair.

Martin smiled at the man, and the smile sent shivers down the backs of many present. “Chief Minister Ralao is it?” Martin asked. “You have a hard on for me, that much is obvious. I don’t particularly care why you dislike me so much since I have never met you before today, and that fact by itself tells me you are not the person you want everyone to think you are. My past does not matter sir. What matters to me now are how do we make a life for ourselves now, and how do I take care of the people that have been entrusted to me.”

“Commander Hunter, I believe what is the foremost concern of everyone at this table is how do we know we can trust you?” Carina spoke again. “There have been many times in the past that we have offered humans and others safe haven within our lands, and they in turn have betrayed us. It is not something we take lightly.”

“As well you shouldn’t.” Martin said calmly. “But what you should consider is this. Put yourself in my position for a moment. You have been warped forward in time to find everything and everyone you ever knew is gone. The environment has changed... the people have changed, and the one place you thought was safe is now in the hands of a seriously deranged shit head that seems to think he fits right in. You discover a race of people who seem to have their shit together and are organized and discretely friendly, not to mention they outnumber you five hundred to one. You have technology you can share as a way of showing them that you are friendly, but they just want to lump you into the same category as the rest of the assholes they have dealt with through the years.” Martin got to his feet to the surprise of all the Ministers. “You should consider that.” He said. “As I told Ministers Thalami and Treblar... if you don’t want our friendship... then all I ask is for information on an area where I can take my people and try to live out our existence. You want to judge us... then judge us for who we are... not for who you perceive us to be based on bad experiences. You never know... you might be surprised.”

Martin turned to the shocked expressions on their faces and headed for the door. Ralao leaned forward. “We are not finished Commander.” He stated.

Martin stopped and looked back at him. “Yes we are Chief Minister.” He turned back around and looked at the guard by the door. The man nodded his head to Martin in a show of respect and pushed open the door.

Tarifa watched Martin walk out, pride swelling her chest at his words. He had spoken the words with deep feeling and honesty and she could tell they had shaken all the Ministers right to the core.

EDEN

Wallace could not help but smile as he watched Anisa put away five eggs and six slices of bacon, along with three large pancakes and four slices of toast with butter. He had heard the shower running for a long time, while he cooked her breakfast and she had finally appeared dressed in the clothes he had gotten for her. The outfit was a dark blue floor length dress that was practically transparent. The dress did nothing to hide her very firm upturned breasts, her nipples pushing against the fabric. Wallace would not admit to her that he found her almost irresistible, and it had taken all of his will power to not accept her offers to him while she sat on his bed naked from the waist up. He could not bear the thought of having her completely exposed underneath the sheer dress, so he had obtained several pairs of panties from Commander Peterson's old quarters because he thought them to be nearly the same size, the lone exception being that Anja had much larger breasts. The panties Wallace saw seemed to fit her perfectly.

Anisa finally had to stop eating because she felt as if she would explode. She had spent quite a bit of time in the shower scrubbing her body in the steaming hot water, attempting to purge herself of the vile stench of the men that had raped her over the last fourteen months. Now that she was no longer being fed a constant stream of the addictive mind drug, she had regained many of her elfin talents as her normal metabolism began to reassert itself. When she finally looked up from the plate, she saw the human man watching her with a gentle smile and holding a mug of coffee in his hand.

"Forgive... forgive me." She said quickly wiping her mouth with the cloth napkin.

"Forgive you for what?" Bill told her. "You were hungry."

Anisa looked cautiously around the room and she heard Bill chuckle to himself. "No one is watching you Anisa, of that I can assure you."

"Who... who are you?" She asked haltingly. "What is this place?"

Bill smiled and got to his feet. "Let me show you."

Anisa watched him walk to the bare wall across the room and touch several buttons. She heard a soft humming sound and a three meter section of the wall lifted, revealing the blackness of space, the gray color of moon landscape, and the blue green colored planet in the distant background. Anisa got to her bare feet slowly, her eyes wide as she came over to the wall.

"Is... is that earth?" She asked in a soft voice.

Bill nodded. "It sure is. It's beautiful isn't it?"

Anisa nodded slowly. "It's... it's breathtaking."

"Until you remember what is happening down there." Wallace spoke softly, turning to go back to the table.

Anisa turned to watch him sit back down. "This... this is a test isn't it Master?" She asked softly.

"I asked you not to call me that." Wallace spoke, taking another sip from his mug.

"I... I was given to you. You are my owner now. Of course you are my Master." Anisa said, moving closer to him. "I am your servant. I will do whatever you ask of me Master." She got down on her knees next to him. "What will you have me do?"

"There is something I want you to do." Wallace told her.

"Anything Master... do... do you wish me to please you with my mouth? I... I have been told I am very good at that as I said. I will do anything." Anisa said.

Bill took her by her arms gently and prodded her to her feet, standing in front of her. He was easily eight inches taller than Anisa, and he estimated she barely topped five foot three. "What I want you to do is think." Bill told her.

Anisa looked up at him slowly, her dark eyes filled with questions. "My... My Lord... I don't understand." She said. "Please... I do not want to be punished. Tell me what it is you desire of me."

"I want you to think." Bill said again, moving her to the chair and gently making her settle back down while still looking up at him. He pulled his own chair closer to her as she watched him. "Have you stopped to wonder why I removed your drug dispenser?"

Anisa looked at him and shook her head slowly, realizing for the first time that she was actually free of the mind controlling drug. She could feel her elfin system rapidly regaining her normal strength and abilities. Realization slowly appeared in her eyes and she looked at Wallace.

“Who are you?” She asked.

“I told you... my name is William Wallace the Third. I was once commander of this station until a certain Senator Richard Graham led a coup of sorts against me. I helped some of my people rescue a young lady named Tarifa, and they escaped...”

“Tarifa,” Anisa spoke quickly. “She... she is the Queen of the High Elves. She is very well thought of by all elves across the planet because she fights the Alliance.”

Bill nodded. “Yes she is. I assisted my people in getting her off this station, and I made a decision to remain behind. I have been acting a part since that first day, so that I could gain the trust of the man in charge. When you and the others were brought aboard, your Minister Deval gave you to me as a gift in the hopes of furthering our relationship.”

Anisa’s eyes narrowed slightly. “He is not my Minister!” She spoke softly.

“Yes... well he has a position of power within this Alliance government.” Wallace told her. “And I intend to use that to regain control of my base.”

Anisa’s eyes filled with understanding now and she looked at him clearly. “You... you want me to help you?”

William nodded slowly. “Yes I do. That is the reason I had the dispenser removed and your system purged of the drugs. I may not be in command anymore, but I still have many friends here on EDEN who follow me and think the same way I do.”

“Why... why should I trust you?” Anisa asked. “You are human! They have done nothing but enslave my people for centuries; used us as nothing more than sexual objects or expendable labor! For that matter... why should I believe anything you are saying? This could all be an elaborate plan to speak out against the Alliance, and then I would be given to the Alliance Assassins to be endlessly raped and beaten.”

William nodded. “It could be... but it isn’t. In your drugged state I could have raped you myself, countless times in the last two days. I did not. Instead... you are rapidly regaining your strength and your mind is becoming clearer as your system recovers. If I was trying to do as you say, why would I remove the drugs from your system? Even for your small size, your elfin strength is far greater than mine is. You have the speed and reflexes I could never have. Why exactly would I want a fully healed female elf helping me if I wasn’t telling you the truth?”

William got up and went to the small counter and took the red disc from the case. He held it up for Anisa to see. “What is this?” He asked.

“That... that is my ownership disc.” She answered.

William nodded. “Yes it is.” He spoke. Anisa’s eyes went wide as Wallace crushed the disc in his hand, breaking it into three pieces. One sharpened edge cut his palm deeply and blood rushed out over his skin to drip to the floor.

Anisa sprang to her feet, taking the cloth napkin from the table and going to him, wrapping it around his hand tightly. “What... what are you doing?” She gasped at him.

“I’m trying to prove to you that I need your help.” William said. “I am not your Master, or your owner. I’m asking you to play a role, just as I am so that we can drive the bastards from my station. When I have control of my base back, I will insure you can go wherever you wish, and I will take you myself.”

“You... you are asking me to fight the Alliance.” Anisa said.

“Yes I am.”

“Many have died attempting the same thing.” She told him.

Wallace nodded. “I have no doubt about that.” He said. “But they have never met a man like me. I don’t like to lose. In fact, I fucking hate it. You have a choice to make... you can decide to help me... or you can attempt to escape, in which case I will help as much as I am able without cutting off my own arm. If you manage to escape, and they recapture you, you will be a slave again. And I don’t want to imagine what they would do to you.”

“If you are discovered... if I am discovered helping you, it will be no different.” Anisa said.

Wallace nodded. "Perhaps, but at least if you help me, together we might be able to save hundreds of others, your people as well as mine."

"You are either very brave or very foolish." Anisa spoke looking at him.

William chuckled. "Yeah well I guess coming four hundred and seventy eight years into the future kind of makes you a little crazy; or senile; or both."

Anisa looked at him, her eyes confused. "I don't understand. What do you mean you've come into the future? How is that possible?"

"It's a long story." William said.

"It appears we have nothing but time, since I have decided to help you William." Anisa replied.

Wallace nodded. "Good... for a minute there I thought you would consider me a crazy fruitcake."

Anisa allowed the small smile to split her lips. "That is still a distinct possibility." She told him.

William laughed as he moved back to his chair. "Sit down. This is going to take a while."

Anisa did as he asked and moved to the chair next to him.

CHAPTER SEVEN

HIGH ELF CAPITAL MOUNTAIN CITY

Tarifa entered her private office with several aides behind her, to include her father and mother. She was not happy, and it showed in her walk and the set of her jaw.

"I want to know where Raloo obtained those records." She stated firmly.

"Milady... he has stated they were in the library archives." The female aide told her.

Tarifa settled into the chair behind the large desk and shook her head. "I am Queen." She said. "I have been through every archive in the library and never once have I ever come across records such as Raloo presented today."

"Tarifa he did say that he was given the records by the Holy One." Palina said.

"And that is how I know he is lying." Tarifa said. "In all the years that a Queen has ruled our people, the Holy One has never left records for anyone but the Queen. It is the way he set it up mother. Any information he wished to pass on to our people he gave first to the Queen. Then she would take it to the Council of Elders. Never in nearly five hundred years has he done it any other way. He has told me that himself. It was his way of ensuring the Queen never lost her appeal or power."

"What are you suggesting?" Palina asked her.

"I'm not suggesting anything." Tarifa said. "Raloo takes me for a fool. He has been on the Council for so long he thinks he should rule, and that he is so much smarter than everyone else, especially some silly female like me. He got those records from somewhere, and it wasn't from our archives."

"His logic does appear twisted." Tareif said, settling into the chair across from his daughter's desk.

"Why would he outright turn away an ally that could prove decisive in our war with the Alliance?"

"It makes no sense." Tarifa said turning to one of her aides. "I want discrete inquiries made. I want to know the whereabouts of Minister Raloo the entire time we were at Martin's encampment. Whom he spoke to, and what he did."

"How far do we press Majesty?" The male aide asked.

"Go as far as possible without exposing yourself or any others to him." Tarifa replied. "He has been acting very strange these past few months and I'm beginning to tire of it."

"What do you suspect daughter?" Tareif asked.

Tarifa looked at her father. "I suspect something, but until I have facts to prove me right, I will say nothing." She answered.

"Tarifa you don't actually believe an Elder on the Council is plotting against you do you?" Palina asked.

Tarifa looked at her mother. "Yes I do, maybe more than one mother." She replied. "Many of them have not been happy with the bills I have gotten passed. They have vetoed some of them, only to have a referendum by the people reverse their veto."

“You are talking treason Tarifa.” Her father told her.

“I don’t know what I’m talking about.” Tarifa spoke. She looked up as the military aide knocked and entered the office. He marched directly to her desk, not even pausing to honor Tareif. He carried a data pad in his hand.

“The report you requested Majesty.” He spoke.

Tarifa took the pad from him. “No one knows?” She asked.

“We conducted the investigation in complete secrecy Milady.” The officer replied. “Only five of us know its purpose.”

“Thank you Captain.” Tarifa spoke turning to read the pad.

“Tarifa what is it that you are doing?” Palina asked, her eyes going to the young officer and then back to her daughter.

Tarifa looked up at the man. “This information is accurate?” She asked disbelief in her voice.

“Our senior forensic scientist confirmed the results himself Milady.” The officer replied.

“The results are completely accurate.”

Tarifa turned to look at her mother and father her face ashen white, “By the gods.” She spoke softly.

“Tarifa what is wrong?” Palina asked, leaning forward in her chair.

“The attacks on our people this past year,” Tarifa told them. “All this time we have thought it was the Wood Elves.”

Tareif nodded. “It was the Wood Elves.” He said. “We have found evidence of Wood Elf weapons and tactics used.”

Tarifa got to her feet and looked at the military aide. “Tell them.” She said softly before going to the small counter behind her desk and pouring herself a glass of wine.

The Elf Captain looked at Tareif. “All the outward signs indicated that the villages were hit by Wood Elves War Master Tareif. It was all left for us to see. Wood Elf weapons, footprints, even portions of their uniforms, left in plain sight so that we would not need to suspect anyone else.” He told them. “After the attack in Billings, the Queen secretly ordered me to lead a team of forensic scientists to the village there.”

“The attack on the village in Billings was done over a month ago.” Tareif spoke. “There have been three attacks since!”

The Captain nodded. “We visited each site after the attacks War Master, after the bodies of our people were taken away by the advance patrols and the Hoppers. We returned from the last site only this morning, our mission done all in secret.”

“But why do this?” Tareif asked, “For what purpose?”

Tarifa looked at her father. “Papa... what if I told you that the Wood elves were not responsible for those attacks.”

Tareif’s eyes went wide and he came to his feet. “These attacks on our people were brutal and savage daughter. To stand there and say they were not committed by the Wood Elves is bordering on treason itself.”

“They weren’t.” Tarifa told him confidently.

“War Master, our team went over every site.” The Captain spoke. “We put together the finest forensic people we could find, a team drawn from Pacifica and right here in Mountain City. These attacks were made to appear they were committed by the Wood Elves when they were not. Whoever conducted them were very good at what they do, hiding their true identities, using only Wood Elf weapons and tactics, fighting as the Wood Elves do. They wanted us to think it was the Wood Elves War Master.”

“But why...?” Palina asked.

“To initiate a war between the Wood Elves and ourselves mother.” Tarifa answered.

“What would a war between us and the Wood Elves accomplish for anyone else?” Palina asked. “It would...” Palina stopped talking, as the answer came to her and her eyes grew wide.

Tareif was much quicker on the uptake when it came to matters like this, and his face was angry and he clenched his fists tightly, “The Alliance.” He hissed.

Tarifa nodded slowly. “They want to start a war between us and the Wood Elves.”

“To what end?” Palina asked again.

“They know that while we outnumber the Wood Elves, Dysea’s warriors are much better trained than the majority of our forces.” Tarifa said. “And while the Alliance has never been able to come into the deep timber and defeat us, they know the Wood Elves can. They can infiltrate our cities and wreak havoc on our defenses and our military. Humans we would detect easily, but Wood Elves disguised as High Elves we would not.”

Tareif nodded slowly. “While it pains me to admit it, Tarifa is right. The Wood Elves are exceptional warriors, and only my Dragoons would be able to match against them. They could cripple us in a matter of weeks. And then the Alliance could march right in and destroy us.”

“We must inform the Council!” Palina spoke up. “They must know!”

Tarifa shook her head quickly. “No!” She exclaimed. “It was the Council that ordered the sites of these attacks cleared so quickly. They ordered that only the bodies were to be gathered and returned. They specifically instructed that no other action was to be taken.” Tarifa sipped her wine. “No mother... I don’t intend to inform the Council. At least not until I find the traitor or traitors on that Council and make them beg me for death.”

Tareif grinned at his daughter. “And then I will spread their remains across several hundred miles of land to be devoured by the animals of the mountains.” He growled.

Dysea sat up quickly instantly awake, her hand curling around the blade that always rested beside her when she slept. Her eyes found Leland as he entered the abandoned house. The men and women who had lived here were long dead, their blood staining the ground outside.

Leland approached her quickly but silently, his eyes wide. “We have company.” He whispered to her.

Dysea reached for her rifle as she stood up. “Is it High Elves?” She asked.

Leland shook his head. “They are too noisy. I suspect Alliance troops.”

Dysea looked at him, “Alliance troops! Here?”

“We have been discovered my Queen.” Leland told her.

“How many are there Leland?” Dysea asked quickly.

“I estimate at least a company.” He replied gravely.

Dysea shook her head to clear the remaining thoughts of the dream she was having from her head. A dream of her nestled between Tarifa’s satiny thighs eagerly lapping away at her peach tasting pussy, while Martin pounded his huge cock into her from behind. Her dreams were becoming more and more vivid, and she found that she was not at all appalled at the idea of sleeping with another woman. She squeezed her thighs together feeling the wetness there as she reached for her weapon.

“Why did we not detect them?” Dysea asked, chambering a round into her rifle. “The Hopper’s instruments should have detected any approaching craft.”

“Not if they landed outside its twenty kilometer range and walked here Milady.” Leland replied.

Dysea looked at him, “Alliance Assassins! It has to be! Only they could cover that much territory in such a short time.” She gasped. “Get the Holy One! We must withdraw!”

“Withdraw to where?” Leland asked. “We can not go east or south. The Holy One will never make it through the mountains to the north. The only way we can go is west, and that takes us directly into High Elf territory. And the mountains there could very well kill us all!”

“It’s that or we die here Leland!” Dysea spoke. “Quickly, if they are Alliance Assassins, they could be on us at any moment!”

HIGH ELF CAPITAL MOUNTIAN CITY

The objects of Dysea’s dream were currently in a situation themselves, though their situation was considerably much more pleasurable.

Radama had quietly escorted Martin to Tarifa’s private residence high above the main portion of Mountain City. Her home was large and built securely between six towering oak trees that reached hundreds of feet into the air and had bases that were easily forty feet in diameter. A private lift was the only access to her home, and the entrance was guarded by two elves of the Royal Guard that were quite large for elves, and very stern looking.

Tarifa's bed was a mass of tangled sheets and pillows now, as Martin had spent the last two hours causing her to shriek in passion. Her naked body was stretched out on her bed, the satin sheets cool against her skin, but the throbbing cock in her small hand was extremely hot and rapidly getting harder. Martin lay on the bed, his hands folded under his head as they gazed at each other.

"You're insatiable." He told her with an adoring smile.

Tarifa smiled and ran her tongue along his neck and jaw. "I can't help it." She told him softly. "You are addicting."

Martin used one hand to smooth back her wild hair and he kissed her softly. "You are addicting, and intoxicating and exceptionally delicious."

"I want to taste you Martin." Tarifa said her voice husky as she gazed at him with her smoldering sapphire eyes.

"I'm at your mercy Milady." He told her with a smile.

Tarifa squeezed his thick shaft and grinned wickedly as it throbbed in her hand. "You are ready for more I see. I will have to fix this for you."

"Well... I'm not going to stop you." Martin said.

Tarifa's eyes were wide in renewed sexual energy, and she lowered her head to his broad chest, her lips teasing his nipples as she slowly nibbled and licked her way down his rippled abdomen. She twisted her body opposite of his on the bed, stretching her legs out alongside his head until she was gazing at the now pulsing and fully erect cock in her hand. She could not even get her entire hand around the shaft because it was so thick, and as she moved her face closer to his cock she could only feel awe at its size and wonder again how she was able to take Martin's cock so deeply inside her.

Tarifa stretched out her tongue as her hand gripped the base of his huge pole and she used just the tip to trace up the entire length of his thick shaft to the flared and engorged head. She heard Martin hiss in pleasure, and his hands came from underneath his head to grip the bed on one side, and begin stroking her long leg on the other. Tarifa smiled and inched closer to his cock, inhaling the musky mint aroma of his pulsing meat. She pressed his cock to her face, closing her eyes in bliss as she gently stroked his pole. The pleasure she was getting from sleeping with Martin was beyond anything she had experienced up until this point in her life. Her mother had been right... she had denied herself for so long because of her duties as Queen; and now all that frustration she was working out with Martin. She was going to savor every thick inch of his cock and sink as much of his huge shaft into her throat as she could without passing out.

She started at the base of Martin's cock, using her tongue to lather his apple sized hairless balls until her saliva coated them completely. She brought one of her hands up to cup his soaked nuts, her nails delicately tracing the outline and tight skin. She switched to his throbbing shaft and again used her tongue like a cat, licking the entire length of his cock, up and down, soaking it with her saliva. On her last, long torturous lick she came to the flared cockhead and slipped her warm mouth over it.

Tarifa felt Martin's leg stiffen and she heard his gasp of delight as her hot mouth engulfed the head of his pulsing cock. Tarifa's eyes were wide as she looked down the thick shaft and realized just how large Martin was. Twelve inches did not seem that big, at least not until you had the large cockhead between your lips and you were staring down the length of his thick shaft. Using her tongue, Tarifa bathed his cockhead in her saliva, as she inched more of his cock between her lips. Her own body was on fire, her nipples burning into the skin of Martin's muscular thigh, and her pussy beginning to get very wet. Tarifa jacked his cock with one hand while using her other to manipulate and squeeze his balls. She could feel them expanding as they churned and readied the prize she so desired. Tarifa tossed her head from side to side, her raven black hair splaying over Martin's lower abdomen as she forced another three inches of his huge cock into her mouth. She could feel every vein of his thick pole, and her tongue never stopped working, stretching out in front of her lips, lapping at the ridge on the top of his cock, as her face descended further down.

Tarifa fought down the overpowering urge to gag when the huge head touched the back of her throat. She gripped the base of his cock tighter, holding him still as she breathed deeply, small tears forming in her eyes. She strained her head upwards, and inhaled deeply through her nose before forcing her lips further down on his cock. As another two inches of Martin's throbbing cock slipped between her lips and into her tight throat

Tarifa felt him grab her legs and lift her hips slightly. She gagged as this action caused another inch of his steel hard pole to further invade her tight throat and she was about to pull back until she felt his lips close over her dripping pussy tightly and suck hard on her enflamed clit.

Tarifa started to cum, her orgasm ripping through her unchecked. Without thinking she pushed her head forward and down and engulfed the last four inches of his thick cock into her tight throat in a single breath and gulp. She didn't stop until her soft lips spread out at the base of his cock; her small nose buried his nutsack. Tarifa wanted to drink his essence, to suck it completely out of him. She had his cock so far down her throat she could feel the throbbing head nearly ready to explode. Her thighs quivered and her toes curled as she felt his thick cock expand within the confines of her velvety throat. She felt the thick veins that extended the length of his cock begin to pulse madly, and her hand that cupped his huge balls felt the surge of boiling cum as it began its rise through his massive pole.

Tarifa was cumming continuously now, her sweet juices running into Martin's lapping mouth and across his face. As she felt the boiling cum rise through his thick shaft she exploded again, whimpering loudly with his thick cock buried so deeply in her throat. Martin suddenly went completely rigid, his hands reaching for and finding her head. Tarifa closed her eyes in sexual ecstasy as his hands held her head tightly against his groin while he came deep into her mouth and throat. His first eruption of blast furnace hot cum unloaded directly into her belly, spreading a warm sensation throughout her entire being. She felt his hands lift from her head and grasp her tight ass cheeks as he continued to lap away at her drenched pussy. Tarifa wanted to taste him and she pulled her head off his cock a few inches, keeping her lips tightly sealed around the madly twitching pole. The next blast of cum hit the back of her throat and tongue, and Tarifa's eyes closed dreamily as she swallowed. That his cum was so sweet and thick flashed through her mind before the third eruption caused her to swallow quickly to keep up with the massive flow. Tarifa knew Martin came powerfully, his cum filling her to overflowing every time he emptied into her pussy, so she kept up her swallowing so as not to lose a single drop of his delicious load.

Tarifa's eyes sprang open wide and she cried out around the huge shaft between her lips as she felt Martin's large finger slip easily into her virgin ass and his lips clamped tightly around her battered clit. Her lower body shuddered in his hands as she experienced one of the most powerful orgasms he had yet given to her, and some of his cum spilled from her lips to leak down his shaft. Tarifa dug her nails into his thighs as she moaned loudly in pleasure, but she kept her lips locked around his pulsing cock until she felt the last surge of his cum splash onto her tongue. She savored the flavor before hungrily swallowing it down, allowing it to fill her warm belly. She quickly pulled his cock from between her lips and let her face drop onto his groin, his softening cock resting against her cheek as she clenched her pussy in the throes of her own extremely powerful orgasm.

As her orgasm subsided Tarifa felt Martin pulling her body back up to him. He got her turned around and rolled over atop her, kissing her deeply much to Tarifa's surprise as she still had traces of his cum on her lips. It didn't seem to bother him in the least, and Tarifa tasted herself on his lips as well as they shared the kiss. When they parted, Tarifa wasted no time in using her tongue to lap up the remaining traces of her own cum from Martin's face, truly tasting herself for the first time and finding it not at all unpleasant.

"You... you are incredible." He whispered to her as he nibbled her neck, his fangs slightly extended.

Tarifa smiled happily, her nails dragging gently along his powerful back as she stretched out one of her long legs to curl around his hip.

"You taste quite good Martin." She whispered in his ear, licking her moist lips to emphasize her words. "I will have to do that much more often. It's very filling."

"But only if I can have you as well." He told her, rolling over until she was on top of him. Her silky hair spilled across his shoulders, her breasts crushed against his hard chest.

Tarifa dropped her head to his chest, her fingers caressing his rib cage in long strokes, and she sighed contently. "That is an arrangement I would be most satisfied with." She said.

Martin pulled her even tighter to him, his arms completely engulfing her body, and Tarifa smiled dreamily in response as she slowly drifted into a wonderful sleep. Martin kissed her head gently and followed her moments later.

Dysea and the six soldiers with her ground to a halt near the base of Thor Peak. They had traveled fast and as quietly as they could for the last two hours, abandoning the Hopper near the village. To take the short range hover craft would have been suicide, as the Alliance would have either shot them with a missile, or followed them to wherever they eventually stopped. All of the elves with Dysea were sweating and drawing deep breaths. This had been the longest run any of them had ever made with the exception of Dysea and Leland, and while most of the terrain was clear enough to navigate; it was very mountainous in the area.

Dysea settled next to Leland at the rear of their small group, tightly gripping her assault rifle. "Are they still on us?" She asked.

Leland nodded. "No more than two miles back. They are not pressing, just moving along at a rapid pace."

"They are toying with us," Dysea spoke. "Herding us until we are too tired to fight them; and then they will attack."

Leland lowered the wrist mounted map locator he wore. "The Holy One can not continue Dysea." He said softly. "He is not an elf. In excellent physical shape he may be for his age, the fact remains he is old and can not move like us."

Dysea's eyes narrowed. "Are you suggesting we leave him?"

"He would understand Dysea." Leland spoke. "He knows this very thing. If we have to move at his pace, they will catch us and we will die."

"Never...!" Dysea hissed loudly. "I will not leave him for the Alliance animals to find! Never...!" She whirled away from him before Leland could continue and went quickly to where Walter was thirstily downing a full canteen of water. He looked at her as she came up to him.

"Dysea..." He started.

Dysea took a cloth from her belt and bathed the sweat from his forehead, "Rest Holy One." She said softly.

"You have to leave me child." Walter spoke. "I am slowing all of you down. They will catch up to us."

"I will not leave you to those barbarians Holy One." Dysea spoke. "I will carry you if I have to."

"Child... you must survive. You have greater things still to achieve in your life." Walter told her.

Dysea shook her head. "I do not care about what you say of this Martin and Tarifa!" She spat. "I will not leave you to die at the hands of our enemies, and something tells me that they would not either! The Alliance would torture you until you begged them for death. I could not live with that Holy One." She looked into his face to see his eyes wide. "Holy One... what is wrong?"

"That's it." Walter spoke.

"What is it?"

"Martin." Walter replied. "I need to contact Martin."

"Holy One, we don't even know where he is?" Dysea spoke. "How could you contact him?"

"He had Tarifa with him when he escaped EDEN." Walter spoke. "He would have returned her to Mountain City."

"The High Elf capital, are you sure?" Dysea asked.

Walter nodded. "Yes. His first priority would have been to set up a secure encampment for the men and women he had with him. He would not abandon them."

"How does that help us Holy One?" Dysea asked.

Leland had moved over to them now and was listening closely. "Mountain City is deep in the Salmon River Mountains Holy One. That is hundreds of miles away." He said.

Walter nodded. "I know... but if I know Martin he would have set up some sort of long range transmission tower by now. That tower would extend the range of his team's implants and radios by a factor of twenty. I have the same type of implant... I just haven't used it in many years. We would be at the extreme range of the tower, but it's worth a shot." Walter cocked his head slightly and turned to Leland. "Your locator antenna Leland, attach it to my vest. The implants were designed to use our body's own electrical currents to boost the signal's power."

Leland did as he was told without question. It took him only ten seconds before kneeling back in front of Walter.

Walter touched his jaw and took a deep breath. "This is The Creator to The Prodigal Son. Respond."

REFUGEE ENCAMPMENT

“...know you wanted to spice up our love live Tina, but are you sure this is the right way?” Ben asked. He and Tina sat in what was now the Communications center aboard one of the Mark Nine Transports. He held the mug of coffee in his hand and looked at the blond head of the woman he had been together with for going on ten years now. Ben looked at her for a long moment, and realized that even though she was ten years younger than his forty-five years; she had never even shown an interest in another man.

Tina turned from her seat and looked at him with a smile. “It’s not another man Ben.” She told him. “I don’t need another man.”

Ben looked confused. “Ok... you lost me.” He said. “What are we talking about then?”

“Endith you bone head!” Tina spoke.

Ben’s eyes sprang open, “Endith?” He exclaimed. “You’re joking right?”

“What? You don’t find her attractive?” Tina asked.

“That... that’s not it! I... I’m very confused here.” Ben said.

Tina turned in her chair. “Why do you think she was helping us so much the past few days? She stuck her tits in your face enough times! She likes us Ben!”

“Us?” Ben asked.

Tina nodded. “I talked with her quite a bit while you were playing tough guy with the boys! She’s attracted to both of us. Her position as Tarifa’s senior lieutenant has not allowed her to explore her own sexuality, and when she saw Marty banging the crap out of Tarifa on the observation deck, she almost went into heat right there.”

“And... and you are ok with this?” Ben asked.

Tina shrugged. “I’d be lying if I said I never thought about being with another woman.”

“Tina... I’m old enough to be her dad.” Ben said.

Tina laughed. “She’s an elf Ben. She may look twenty-one... but she’s really a hundred and seventeen years old.” She said. “And if you want to get technical... you’re over four hundred years old, and I’m close to that mark.”

“Wait a minute... have you and her...” Ben asked.

Tina blushed slightly, her blue eyes gleaming. “We... kissed.” She said. “It was very nice.”

“I don’t need another woman Tina.” Ben told her seriously. “I’m very happy with you.”

Tina moved next to him and knelt next to his chair. “I know that silly.” She said. “And I am very happy with you, very happy Ben. I just thought it might be something different for the both of us. I know Endith is very up for the experience.”

“She told you that?” Ben asked surprised.

Tina laughed. “Yes she did.” She replied. “I get the feeling that these elves we have met are considerably more open about their sexuality. You can’t tell me the thought of two beautiful women sucking your big cock doesn’t turn you on baby. I know you to well for that.”

Ben looked at her. “So now I’m big?” He asked.

“I didn’t want to stroke your already overly large ego dear.” Tina said. “But you are the biggest I’ve ever had.” She said sweetly.

“What about surfer Joe in Maui?” Ben asked. “You know, before we got together. I heard you talking to the other female pilots and you said he was huge.”

Tina laughed and sat herself in Ben’s lap. “Yeah he was; a huge bore!” She told him, kissing his cheek.

Ben looked at her, his eyes turning into mock anger. “I should punish you for lying to me all these years.” He said.

Tina waggled her eyebrows. “Is that a promise?”

“You are a very...”

“This is The Creator to The Prodigal Son! Respond.” The words burst out of the radio console, causing both their heads to jerk around toward the panel.

“What was that?” Tina asked climbing off Ben’s lap and going to the console. Ben moved to another station next to her.

“It’s a weak signal!” Ben spoke, his hands moving over the panel.

“This is The Creator to The Prodigal son! Respond Please!” The male voice blasted from the speaker again.

“Juice the power.” Tina snapped, her fingers typing furiously on the keyboard. “I’m trying to triangulate the signal.

“We’re at eighty percent power!” Ben spoke. “I’m searching the databanks for those call signs!” His fingers were flying over his keyboard with incredible speed, and his eyes widened when the reply came back. “Tina will you take a look at this!”

Tina turned from her screen and looked at what Ben was pointing to. Her own eyes grew wider.

“Marty?” She spoke. “I’ve never heard Marty go by The Prodigal Son.”

“The Creator to the Prodigal Son, please respond! It is Alpha Gamma Three nine one! Repeat, Alpha Gamma three nine one! Respond please!”

Ben looked at Tina, “Contact Marty now!” He ordered.

Tarifa’s body was stretched out on top of Martin’s, her hands slowly wandering over his hard muscles as she traced the tattoos on his chest and rippled abdomen. She felt his fingers caressing the back of her shoulder and down her spine with a gentleness that she had come to love. They were both resting and simply enjoying what time they had left before Martin had to leave. Tarifa knew this time together with him had been what they had both needed to keep from going crazy with all that had happened in the last few weeks. They both needed someone to reach out to and be with, and discovering each other was a godsend. They needed no words to express to each other what they both felt, and words would have only ruined the peaceful moment for them both.

It wouldn’t last.

Tarifa felt Martin sigh heavily and take a deep breath, his chest rising and falling. She turned to look at his face as he spoke.

“Raptor One here! Go!”

“Martin its Tina,” Her voice filled his ear implant. “We’re picking up a low band transmission from the border of Wyoming and Idaho in the Teton Mountain range. Originating call sign is The Creator! They are trying to contact The Prodigal Son! We looked it up Marty and that is you.”

Tarifa saw Martin’s face freeze in place and he sat up quickly. “Martin, what is wrong?” She asked, rising up in the bed next to him.

“The Creator, are you sure?” Martin gasped. “What else?”

“Positive Marty, and there was something about an Alpha Gamma three nine one.” Tina replied. “We can’t find that code anywhere in the data banks Marty.”

“That’s because it’s not in the data banks!” Martin told them. “It’s an emergency code that only one other person in the world knows. Patch it through Tina, quickly!” Martin climbed from the bed heedless of the fact that he was completely naked. Tarifa gazed at his body quickly feeling a renewed surge of desire, but knew that something was happening and they did not have the time. “A map Tarifa, I need a map!”

Tarifa’s eyes were wide, but she clutched the sheet to her body as she moved to get the computer map chart from her living area.

“You’re patched through Marty!” Tina’s voice rang out in his implant.

“Creator this is The Prodigal Son! Responding to Alpha Gamma three nine one! Repeat! Creator this is The Prodigal Son!”

Walter shook his head as Leland and Dysea looked at him. “I’m sorry... I thought for sure he would be monitoring all the low band frequencies. I’m sorry!”

“Leland we must establish a defensive perimeter around that large rock!” Dysea spoke quickly. “If we are to die, let us take as many of them with us as we can.” Her head snapped around when the Holy One grabbed her arm.

“Creator this is The Prodigal Son! Responding to Alpha Gamma three nine one! Repeat! Creator this is Prodigal Son!” Martin’s voice echoed in Walter’s ear implant.

Walter grabbed the small team radio on Leland’s vest and turned the knobs on it quickly. The radio crackled with static and then they heard Martin’s voice as well.

“Creator this is The Prodigal Son! Damn it Walter will you respond!”

“Martin my boy, you don’t know how good it is to hear your voice.” Walter spoke.

There was a pause and then the voice came through again. “Tina, lock onto this signal and jack the power to full! Walter, are you there?”

“Martin can you hear me?”

The third time was a charm as Martin’s voice came through as if he was standing next to them on the radio. “Walter! Where are you?”

Walter’s face showed an enormous amount of relief on it. “Martin there is not much time to explain my boy. We are being pursued by some rather unpleasant individuals with an assortment of rather nasty things on their minds. Is there any way you can assist us?”

“How many are in your group?” Martin asked.

“There are seven of us total!” Walter replied.

“Tina, are you and Ben monitoring?” Martin’s voice spoke.

“Copy that Skipper!” The strange female voice replied.

“Warm up two Raptors! Have Beta Team load out and you and Ben pick me up here on the top platform! Make it happen like yesterday Tina! Yesterday!”

“We’ll see you in ten minutes boss!” Tina replied.

“Walter is there anyplace you can get to that will provide you protection?” Martin asked.

Martin looked at Tarifa as she brought the computer map chart back into the room. “Lock onto frequency 69387.2.” Martin told her. “It’s low band.”

Tarifa settled onto the bed next to him and began punching in the coordinates. Her eyes grew wide. “That’s our territory!” She said. “Walter is the Holy One’s given name isn’t it Martin?” She saw Martin nod at her words. “How is he back in our territory? Endith told me she made the transfer to the Wood Elves with no problems.”

“Martin... I’m not even sure where we are.” Walter’s voice replied.

Martin leaned over Tarifa’s shoulder, looking at the chart. He could see the small red dot, which signaled their position on the map. “Can you enter the frequency so you can hear and talk too?” Martin asked her.

Tarifa nodded and her small fingers keyed in the numbers on the small control panel. Static burst from the map chart and then she heard Walter’s voice come through.

“Martin did you copy that?” Walter asked.

“I copied sir. We’re trying to find a safe place for you to be picked up.” Martin explained.

Tarifa pointed. “Here!” She exclaimed. “Holy One you must get across Moran’s Canyon and down the other side. We have a small defensive encampment at the base of Traverse Peak!”

“Tarifa my child, is that you?” Walter’s voice asked.

“Yes Holy One! You must hurry!”

“Tarifa I have six Wood Elves with me!” Walter spoke. “We were investigating the attacks on Wood Elf villages and discovered some very interesting things! The short version is that the Wood Elves did not commit the attacks on the High Elf villages. I need to know if they will be safe!”

Tarifa didn’t hesitate. “I have already made that same determination Holy One. I give you my word Holy One!” She replied. “Where you are concerned, we are brothers and sisters all, no matter Wood Elf or High Elf! They will be safe!”

“Martin how soon can you be there?” Walter asked.

“It looks like it’s a little over two hundred miles sir! I’ll be there guns blazing in less than an hour!” Martin answered. “Can you hold?”

Dysea looked at Walter, a new set to her beautiful jaw. “We will hold!” She barked.

“Then get moving whoever you are!” Martin ordered. “And if he dies... I’m coming for you! I’ll contact you when we are in the air!”

Martin looked at Tarifa. “I have to go.” He said, searching for his clothes.

“Martin... I will go with you.” Tarifa spoke, setting aside the map chart and taking his arm. “This could be what I have been seeking. I am coming with you.” Tarifa said, getting to her feet and moving to the control panel on her bedside table. She pressed a button.

“That isn’t necessary Tarifa.” Martin said, pulling on his pants.

“Yes my Queen?” Radama’s voice came over the com almost immediately.

Tarifa looked at Martin as she spoke. “Radama, the Holy One is in danger! Have my father prepare,” Tarifa saw Martin hold up ten fingers before continuing to dress. “Have my father prepare ten Dragoon soldiers. His finest, with full armor and weapons and then meet us on the north platform.”

“At once Milady,” Radama replied.

Dysea looked at the small radio in stunned surprise after hearing Martin’s threat. She glanced up to Walter.

“I see we are not the only ones who care deeply for you Holy One.” She said. “He threatened me.”

Walter smiled as he got to his feet. “He is stubborn and brash. And he absolutely hates to lose.” He told her. “You will like him.”

Dysea felt the smile cross her face. “I think I just might.” She said turning to where Leland looked at her. “Quickly, Leland lead us out! We must get to Traverse Peak within an hour!”

Tareif led his Dragoons onto the platform high above the city. They were all heavily armed and wore full body armor. He spied his daughter as they sprinted from the elevator lift and he headed for her.

Tarifa had changed into her own combat uniform with full body armor, but she now wore a K12 holstered to her thigh, and was holding an HK74. She had tied her raven colored hair into a tight pony tail that came around her left shoulder to curl under her throat. Tareif came up to her, a confused look on his face.

“Tarifa what is happening? Radama said the Holy One is in danger.” Tareif spoke.

“Yes papa.” Tarifa answered. “Martin received a transmission from the Holy One saying he and a small group of Wood elves were fleeing from Alliance troops. They are in High Elf territory! We are going with him to rescue the Holy One.”

“Hunter received this transmission?” Tareif asked, “Where?”

“That is not important.” Tarifa answered, looking at the Dragoons as they approached. “The Holy One has requested our assistance. There will be at least six Wood elves in his company. They are currently fleeing from what appears to be a company of Alliance troops, probably Alliance Cadre Assassins. The Wood Elves are not to be considered hostile, and you will treat them all with respect! Is that clear?”

Tarifa saw the nods from all the Dragoons. “Our weapons will be ineffective against Alliance Assassins daughter.” Tareif said softly. “You know this.”

“Our weapons yes, but not the weapons that Martin had made for us.” She replied. “When we board their flying craft, we will be given weapons that are very effective against Alliance assassins. I have seen them myself.”

“Tarifa... I understand you trust this man.” Her father said. “But I still have my own suspicions child. We need to...”

“Tarifa we go in two minutes!” Martin yelled to her from where he knelt with Danny and Julie and the others in his team, as well as Radama and Endith.

Tareif's eyes went wide when he heard Martin use her name so casually, and he went from looking at Martin to where Tarifa stood quite proudly and completely unashamed. "I have no suspicions Papa." She said softly. "And you should trust me on this."

Tareif watched his oldest daughter turn and head back to where Martin knelt. He looked at his Dragoons who also had heard Martin speak so familiarly. "This goes no further!" He snapped. "Speak to no one of what you heard or will hear. If you do I will kill you myself. Is that clear?"

The Dragoons nodded instantly. Their heads turned as they heard the low roaring come from beneath them, and suddenly one of the black insect looking ships called Raptors appeared menacingly from the side out of the clouds and slowly settled to the platform.

"We go now!" Tareif yelled over the roar, and he and his men followed Martin and the others into the belly of the Raptor.

Anja walked along the center of the Raptor's main aisle among the elves and Martin's team. "...cut two of these ugly bastards open!" She was saying. "They are hard to kill... but not impossible. The HKs will take them down like anything else, but if you get in close it's another story." She looked at Tareif and the other elves. "They are stronger than you, so don't try to go one on one. You have the advantage of speed regardless of what you think. Your reflexes will save you. If you get in close to them, switch to your bladed weapons." She held her hand out to the nearest Dragoon soldier motioning for the large knife at his side. He removed it from the sheath and handed it to her. Anja held it up. "Your bladed weapons are finer than anything any of us have ever seen, we all agree on that, including Martin, and trust me when I say he has used almost every bladed weapon known to man. If you get in close, find a way to get behind them and strike for the back of the head. Their armor is weakest there, and any of us could drive a blade into their skulls. Hit them there and they'll drop like sacks of shit!"

Anja saw many of the Dragoons look to where Martin was standing near the front of the Raptor looking at the monitor with Danny and the Master Chief. She handed the knife back to the Dragoon soldier with a nod.

"You are human." The Dragoon said his statement not a question.

Anja nodded. "Yes I am."

"You will fight beside us on the ground?" He asked.

"I will fight right next to you." She replied. "All of us will."

"Why?"

Anja looked at him, "Because it's the right thing to do." She answered.

"War Master Tareif!" Martin spoke from the front.

Tareif turned and saw Martin motion him forward. Tareif looked at his daughter as he got to his feet and they both moved forward to where Martin was standing.

"You know this area?" Martin asked, "this encampment?"

Tareif nodded. "Very well." He answered.

"We have two teams and your detachment of Dragoons War Master," Martin told him. "Walter... the Holy One... they are at the encampment and digging in. What is the best way to spread our forces out for maximum defensive capabilities?"

Tareif looked at the map on the large monitor and fell immediately into his role as a commander of troops. "The east side is the most heavily fortified. Tell the Holy One to move his group to the bunker there." Tareif spoke confidently. "I recommend we put one force down on the south perimeter and one in the northeast. The heavy weapons will cover each corner, and we can move to reinforce the east from either position."

Martin nodded. "Ben!" He spoke into his implant. "Have Raptor Three put down in the northeast of the encampment! Deploy north and south from there!" Martin looked at Tareif as he spoke and saw the man nod in agreement. "Take us in right over the south end."

"Copy that Marty," Ben's voice sounded.

Martin looked at the Master Chief. "Spin it up Master Chief. It's time to bust some heads." He spoke.

Tony and Danny grinned, "Aye Skipper!" He turned to the back of the Raptor. "Pablo! Spin it up!"

Tareif turned and watched the dark skinned genome get to his feet and reach behind him to a panel. He flipped some switches and Tareif winced quickly when music began to blare from speakers situated all around the interior of the Raptor.

Tareif and his daughter watched with smiles slowly creeping across their faces as the Genomes in Martin's team began to move with the beat of the music as they prepped for the mission. There were no vocals to the music, but the tempo and pitch of the instruments indicated it was a song meant for heading into battle, which was what they were about to do. Tareif watched his Dragoon soldiers as they simply viewed the genomes prep their equipment, all of them moving in sync with the music. Soon he saw their own bodies begin to soak in the high pitch rhythm and loosen up. Some of his finest troops began to move their heads in tune to the music, smiles forming on their faces as they carefully inspected and got familiar with their new weapons.

Tareif turned to Martin who had a very large smile on his face. Martin met his eyes and bobbed his head. "This is our war cry!" Martin told him.

Tareif turned back to look at his soldiers and he saw Anja going to each one of them, issuing out injectors, explaining to them and pointing to their ears and jaws. He turned again when the attractive dark skinned genome female tapped him on the shoulder. She held out the injector to him and one to Tarifa.

"These are microscopic communications implants!" Julie spoke loudly. "The receiver is for just inside your ear, the transmitter for your jaw. They are painless when injected. It will allow you to communicate with all of us. We'll be using channel ten for this op! Just speak out loud and tell it what channel and you will go to that one automatically."

"Is this necessary?" Tareif asked.

Julie looked at him, her eyes bright. "When we go to war sir, we move fast and hard. Anyone in our way gets cut down, and anyone who can't talk to us gets left behind." She smiled. "I can remove them after the mission if you want sir, but you might be surprised."

Tarifa did not hesitate and took the injector. She lifted it to the inside of her ear and pressed the trigger. There was a slight hiss and her face winced quickly, but then it was gone. She loaded the transmitter and then did the same, with the exact same results. Tarifa looked at him, "Papa?"

Tareif sighed and then did exactly as his daughter had done. In ten seconds the small communications implants were inside his body, and his eyes opened wide as the voice traffic on Channel ten came into his ear as clear as if he was standing next to every one on the Raptor. He could hear his troops talking and he could hear the genomes as they prepped. He looked at Tarifa who wore the same amazed expression as the rest of his troops and himself.

"Papa... this is amazing." Tarifa echoed as she stood next to them.

"War Master... our command channel is nineteen." Martin told him. "That is reserved for you and I alone."

Tareif looked at him. "All I need do is speak the channel number and it will change?" He asked.

Martin nodded. "Yes sir, pretty neat huh?" Martin waited for Tareif to turn back around and he stepped up close behind Tarifa and bent next to her ear. "Our channel is twenty-six, you delicious tasting she-elf you."

Tarifa smiled at Martin's words and felt him step back as her father turned around to face her. He saw the smile on his daughter's face and glanced at Martin's back. He gently took her arm and pulled her off to the side. "You have told no one he speaks our language Tarifa. Why?"

"I didn't feel it was necessary." Tarifa replied.

"He called you by your name Tarifa." Her father spoke softly. "You are Queen of the High Elves child... you can not have a relationship with this man."

Tarifa looked at her father as her eyes narrowed. "I will have a relationship with anyone I choose father." She said firmly. "Martin... Martin and I enjoy each other's company. There is nothing wrong with that."

"Tarifa... I... I have already promised your hand in marriage," He stated bluntly. "His name is Telan, and he is an officer in my Division. He is a fine young man Tarifa and he has risen up through the ranks quite easily. His family is one of the more powerful families in Pacifica. You will like him."

Tarifa looked at her father, her eyes wide and suddenly becoming very angry. "Papa you had no right!" She exclaimed in as low a voice as she could.

“You are my oldest daughter!” Tareif hissed. “I had every right. It has been the custom of our people for centuries. He will be arriving in Mountain City tomorrow to greet you.”

“I will not allow you to do this Papa.” She stated.

“You have no choice!” Tareif spoke. “You may be Queen... but you are still my daughter, and you will abide my authority in this.”

“Does Mama know what you have done?” She asked.

“Your mother knows our customs and will abide by them as well.” Tareif told her.

“I will not...” The bouncing of the Raptor caused Tarifa to stop talking and turn.

“Six minutes people,” Martin called out.

Tarifa turned back to her father. “This discussion is not over with War Master Tareif!” She hissed mightily at him, surprising her father with the venom in her words.

Tarifa turned her back to him and walked to where Martin stood viewing the monitor. He looked down at her and smiled warmly, and she returned the smile.

“Three minutes!” Ben called from his pilot’s seat. “I’m reducing power to two thirds! Spool up the Sabot Cannon! Extend rocket pods!”

“Copy that!” Tina spoke from her left seat. “Sabot cannon coming online now, and the rocket pods are extending and locked!”

“Tina?” The female voice called from behind them.

Tina turned in her chair and her face grew brighter, “Endith!” She called.

Endith came fully into the cockpit and came right up to Tina’s chair. “The Queen has suggested I remain onboard and facilitate the coordination between our groups.”

“Sounds like a good idea to me.” Tina replied with a genuine smile, her blue eyes bright. “I missed you the last couple of days.”

Endith smiled shyly, her tanned skin blushing ever so slightly. She leaned over quickly and planted her soft lips on Tina’s in a warm and passionate kiss. Tina’s eyes went a little wider at Endith’s boldness, but they closed quickly in joyful bliss as she felt Endith’s tongue push into her mouth and tease her own quivering tongue.

“Ahem!” Ben’s voice interrupted them. “Ladies... excuse me; I’m trying very hard to fly my ship here.”

Endith smiled and looked at Tina as they parted; both of their lips moist. “I have missed you as well.” She said softly. She turned quickly to Ben and leaned over, pressing her firm breasts into his shoulder as she kissed his lips, surprising him with her boldness and the softness of her lips. “I have missed you too Benjamin.” She told him softly.

Ben looked at her quickly and saw her radiant face and bright blue eyes. “Take... take the engineering chair.” He managed to stutter out the words.

Ben looked at Tina as Endith moved behind them and settled into the engineering station. Tina smiled at him and turned back to her controls.

Dysea and Leland searched the skies above them for any sign of the approaching craft, but all that greeted them were the usual noises of the night. Dysea turned back to where Walter sat at the back of the small building, away from the windows and the two doors.

“Holy One... you are sure they will come?” She asked him, the tone of her voice almost desperate. “The Alliance is almost upon us!”

Walter looked at her. “Have faith Dysea.” Walter said with a smile. “Have faith. They will be here. Martin does not give his word and not keep it.”

Leland looked at his wrist mounted motion sensor chart and shook his head. “It’s too late!” He snapped. “The Alliance is here! They are entering the outer perimeter! They’ll be on us in...”

The loud buzzing noise shook them out of their thoughts and they whirled to see dozens of Alliance Assassins being chopped to little pieces not a hundred meters from them. The monstrous roar that followed announced the entrance of Raptor Three into the battle, and they watched in awe as the insect looking craft flared briefly over the clearing to the north of them, its noise belching gouts of flame that coincided with the buzzing noise. More of the Alliance Assassins were mowed down in the three second burst, their blood seen splashing wetly all around the bodies as they did a macabre dance of death in the flash of light from the Sabot Chain gun. They watched in stunned silence as the ramp in the back came down and ten figures dressed all in black leaped from the end of the ramp even though it was still twenty meters high in the air. All of the ten figures landed cat like on the ground below them and brought weapons up to their shoulders, squeezing off bursts from their HKs even as they dashed for their positions.

Another roar turned their attention away from the new arrivals as a second Raptor came in impossibly low over their building, its ramp already open, and the nose of this ship also flaring brilliantly, filling the air with the distinct buzzing sound and mowing down even more Alliance troops.

Walter smiled from the back of the room. "Martin does know how to make an entrance into battle." He spoke with a small chuckle.

Dysea had no time to reply as bullets began to slam into the wall of the building they were in, and all of the windows shattered.

"Go! Go! Go!" Martin screamed as he led his team and the Dragoons charging from the ramp the second Ben set them down in the clearing.

Ben held the controls of the Raptor tightly, keeping the engines throttled at full power. Bullets began to bounce off the light armor of the Raptor, causing them to flinch. Ben turned his helmeted head to the side with clenched teeth.

"You want to fire at me you ugly fuckers!" He screamed. "Eat this!"

The Sabot Cannon tracked with Ben's helmet, and he mashed down on the trigger of his control stick only six feet off the ground. A three second, one hundred round burst was all it took to shred the four Alliance Assassins that made the mistake of firing on the Raptor.

"Got you, you ugly bastards!" Ben screamed. "Ha! Stick your head up again you stupid motherfucker! I send you straight to hell!"

Endith could do nothing but look at Ben's back and smile in unabashed adoration.

"Empty!" Tina snapped; her helmet glued to the monitors between her legs. "We're empty!"

"Pulling up," Ben announced as he yanked back on the stick, pulling the Raptor into a gut wrenching climb. "Raptor Three this is lead. Establish a rotating perimeter flight! Five hundred feet! Anything that is not radiating... kill it!"

"Affirmative Lead," The pilot of raptor Three answered.

"Endith... all our people should have small infra red patches on their uniforms. Switch your cameras to night vision and track any enemies you see. Our people will show up as orange dots. I'm releasing the Sabot Cannon to your control." Ben spoke.

"The Dragoons are not wearing your uniforms!" Endith spoke with fear in her eyes.

Tina shook her head. "No worries! All the weapons we gave them have the same patch. Anything that does not appear orange on your scope and it's moving... it's a bad guy!"

Endith grinned savagely and she flipped up the secondary trigger grip for the Sabot Cannon. "I will enjoy this." She muttered to herself.

Alliance Captain Roger Thorn ducked behind the thick tree as another hailstorm of large caliber rounds punched into the tree and the ground all around him. He looked calmly at the Alliance Assassin officer that lay next to him.

"They have received support!" The Assassin reported his fanged face deformed and particularly ugly.

"So I see." Thorn replied almost nonchalantly.

"We estimate one squad of Dragoons and at least twenty of these strangers."

"Not to mention the two air ships ripping us to ribbons!" Thorn nearly screamed now.

“They have different weapons!” The Assassin yelled back. “My men are being killed!”

“You fool!” Thorn yelled. “Bring up the anti-air rockets! Have your men charge the building where Dysea is! They will not fire on us if we hold her and Carson!”

“As you command,”

Thorn watched the Assassins roll off to his right and bolt to his feet to relay the orders. “Fucking stupid beasts,” He swore, looking at the four human officers who crouched with him. “I will never understand why we utilize these beasts! They are all dumb as rocks!”

The four officers grinned at his words.

Martin was on one knee, his HK ripping out three round burst after three round burst, every burst ripping into an Assassin soldier and bringing them down. The Dragoon soldiers under Tareif were firing madly; suddenly caught up in the fact they had weapons that could kill these monsters. While their shots were not as accurate as the genomes, they were bringing down the assassins at a steady rate.

Martin’s wolf like eyes detected movement to his left front and he came to his feet quickly to get a better look. Tarifa had been laying only a few meters away and saw him stand, her eyes going wide.

“Martin!” She screamed. “What are you doing?”

Tareif heard his daughter’s voice and turned from directing his men to see Martin standing perfectly still, Alliance rounds whizzing by his head and impacting tress and the ground all around him. His eyes opened wide at this display of courage.

“Tareif they’re flanking the Dragoons!” Martin screamed, looking at Tarifa’s father now. “Danny you take half the team and hit them before they can get into position!” He snapped into his implant.

Tarifa turned to see this and saw movement of her own, headed directly for the building where the Holy One was hiding in.

“They are charging the Holy One’s position!” She yelled, rising to her feet and sprinting toward the building.

Martin whipped his head around in time to see her, and saw why she had headed toward the building. “Shit! Beta leader, looks like about forty are charging the target building! I’m moving to intercept, provide cover fire!”

“Beta Leader copies Skipper!”

Dysea and Leland watched as the team that had landed to their north altered their fire and began to pour down a rain of death upon the Alliance troops that were charging from the front. She and her team fired as well, but their weapons were of little good against the heavy body armor the Assassins wore, causing only a few to lose their balance and fall, but not kill them. A last ditch fusillade of fire dropped at least a dozen of the Assassins, but Dysea counted five that had made their way into the trench that ran directly to the building they occupied. She whirled around and looked at Walter who clutched the handgun in his hand.

“Forgive me Holy One!” Dysea spoke. “We have failed!”

The reinforced heavy wood and steel door splintered under the impact of two Assassin boots and Dysea screamed, leaping at the first one to enter the room, her twin fighting blades appearing in her hand.

Thorn entered the bunkered building quickly and spied Dysea on the ground at the feet of the Alliance assassin. She was barely conscious, her face bloody from a vicious backhand by the soldier she had attacked. Both of her blades protruded from his upper body as he stood there, but they did not seem to bother him in the least. The other elves in the room lay about, broken and bloody, Leland lay in the corner, unconscious and bleeding from several tears in his flesh. Two Alliance Assassins held Walter between them, their fanged grins apparent in what they saw as a victory.

Thorn bent over and viciously pulled Dysea up by her platinum blond hair, jolting her back to full consciousness. She screamed in pain, reaching for where his hands held her hair. Thorn punched her savagely in the stomach before she could react and then hit her again in the face, cutting her flawless cheek with a rough knuckle.

“Hello Queen Bitch!” He growled yanking her head back even further. “I’m going to enjoy fucking you in your tight ass until you beg me to stop!”

Dysea’s eyes flared and she spit into his face. “Fuck you!” She screamed.

Thorn wiped away the spittle mixed with blood and smiled. “No! Fuck you!” He shoved her to the floor and kicked her viciously in the side, smiling in cruel satisfaction as he heard at least two of her ribs break.

“Captain behind you,” One of the Alliance Assassins yelled.

Thorn didn’t hesitate and ducked quickly as the body flew over the top of his back. He caught a glimpse of raven black hair as the female elf executed a graceful leap over the prone body of Dysea, dropping to the ground and rolling cat like back to her feet to face him. Thorn stood back up and turned to see Tarifa squatting three meters away, clutching the small handgun in her fist. He raised his hand to stop his Alliance Assassin from killing her with his rifle and he laughed.

“Oh now this is poetic.” He spoke. “The Queen of the High Elves has come to try and save the Queen of the Wood Elves!”

Tarifa’s eyes widened at his words and her eyes went to where Dysea lay. Her emerald green eyes were focused on her, her lips and face bruised and bloody, but there was no mistaking who she was. She was the female elf from hers and Martin’s dreams, and there was no mistaking it. Tarifa tore her eyes from Dysea’s and glared at Thorn. “You will pay for what you have done!” She barked at him. “I know what you have done!”

“Do you now Queen Tarifa?” Thorn spoke. “And what is that?”

“You and your creatures have been butchering our people, and blaming the other! You have been trying to start a war between our people!” Tarifa spoke firmly, without an ounce of fear in her voice or her eyes.

This briefly registered in Thorn’s thoughts before he answered. “So you have figured out our little plan I see.” He told her. “That’s shame for you really, a plus for me. This is my lucky night, I capture the Queens of both the Wood Elves and the High Elves and I can fuck you both until my hearts content. How grand is that?”

“You will not have her! Or me!” Tarifa hissed. “I promise you that?”

Thorn laughed, “A bold statement from someone in your position, since I have the both of you and the so called Holy One.”

Tarifa smiled at him in the dim light. “Shoot the Assassin to the Holy One’s right Queen of the Wood Elves.” She spoke loudly, not breaking her eye contact with Thorn.

Dysea looked at her, and blinked her green eyes in response. Her fingers closed around the handgun that Tarifa had placed in her hand when she had leaped over the top of her. Her quick movement had hidden the transfer from the eyes of Thorn and the Alliance soldiers in the room.

Thorn laughed the sound hideous in the small room. “Shoot my men with what?” He asked laughing. “She is beaten and broken!”

“Dysea of the Wood Elves did not become Queen by allowing a pig like you defeat her so easily!” Tarifa said with an evil smile. “Now!” Tarifa barked. She dropped even lower into a crouch and brought up the K12 in her fist, just as Dysea rolled over and ignoring the searing pain in her chest brought the K12 up in her hand.

Thorn’s eyes went wide as the two shots thundered in the confines of the small room, and the heads of both of his Alliance Cadre troops holding Walter exploded like over ripe melons, showering the wall and Walter with bone and brain matter. Thorn could only stare in awe as Tarifa dropped the K12 and withdrew the High Elf fighting knife from her belt. She leaped at the surprised Alliance Assassin, catching hold of his armored shoulder and using her momentum to pivot around behind him. Thorn’s mouth opened in warning, but it was far too late as Tarifa drove her blade into the back of the Assassin’s head with all of her considerable elf strength. Thorn watched as the point and at least an inch of the now bloody blade exploded from the Assassin’s left eyeball, and he slumped to the floor dead.

Thorn brought up his weapon and leveled it at Tarifa, while savagely kicking Dysea in the shoulder. He grinned with cruelty as the kick dislocated her shoulder and the K12 dropped from her now useless hand as she cried out in agony once more.

“Can you beat a bullet Elf Queen?” He growled looking at Tarifa. “I think not.”

Tarifa smiled just as cruelly. "I don't need too." She spoke, "Goodbye Captain! May your corpse rot in Hades for all that you have done in your pathetic life?"

Thorn saw her eyes look behind him and he began to turn, bringing his weapon around. He was far too slow.

Martin brought his large fighting knife up in a one handed grip, the tip of the blade piercing Thorn under his jaw and ramming through flesh and bone to impale his brain. Martin picked up the human officer and stepped close to his face, Thorn's eyes already closing in death. Martin bared his fully extended fangs in a vicious snarl.

"I can't say it's been fun asshole." He growled. Martin lifted his K12 and shoved it into Thorn's chest and pulled the trigger seven times, each large bullet tearing a chunk from Thorn's already limp body.

Martin yanked his knife free and allowed his last three rounds to literally send Thorn's body flying across the room to impact the wall, his blood staining the concrete as he slipped to a sitting position.

Tarifa dashed to Walter as he lowered himself slowly to the ground. "Holy One, are you injured?" She asked.

Walter looked up at Martin as he saw the first of his "adopted" children walk over to him slowly. He had changed Walter thought quickly, and he felt the strange aura Martin was projecting outward. He will soon discover his past, Walter thought. And then events will begin to shape the future. Walter did not know what to expect from Martin; surely anger, hatred and confusion. He saw Martin's fangs begin to shorten until they were only a quarter of their full length and Martin looked at him with his dark eyes and smiled. Tarifa moved away from them and went to the unconscious form of Dysea.

"Hi ya Doc...!" Martin said with a smile, holding out his hand to Walter. "We need to have a beer and cover a lot of ground!"

Walter smiled in relief and gripped Martin's arm tightly. "Indeed we do my boy. Indeed we do." He said as Martin pulled him easily to his feet. "I suggest we depart this place first. How is Dysea?"

"She is badly injured Holy One, but she is alive." Tarifa spoke, gently brushing Dysea's blond hair aside. She looked up and her eyes went to Martin. "Martin it is her." She spoke.

Walter looked at Tarifa after her words, and then to Martin as his face changed to one of worry as he moved to where Dysea lay.

"She is the one from our dreams Martin." Tarifa told him. "The one meant to be with you. She is the Queen of the Wood Elves."

"You've... you've been having dreams of her?" Walter asked, rising to his feet slowly.

Tarifa looked at him. "Yes Holy One, both of us. Ever since we..." She looked embarrassed, but that passed in an instant. "We've been having dreams of her ever since Martin and I became lovers." Tarifa finished proudly, looking at Martin with respect and desire in her sapphire eyes.

Walter's face looked surprised, but the sounds of gunfire shook him out of it. Martin needed no urging and he quickly scooped Dysea into his arms. "We aren't out of this yet. C'mon!" He moved to the door of the building. "Raptor Lead this is Raptor One. I have the package and we are ready for pick up."

"Copy that Raptor One." Ben's voice filled Martin's ear implant.

"All teams converge on my location!" Martin ordered. "War Master Tareif... provide cover fire as the Dragoons pull back, we'll cover you from our location."

"We have shifted positions Commander!" Tareif's voice came back. "Half my Dragoons are closer to you. It would be better if we retreated on the second flying machine. It hovers above us. The other half can retreat with you."

"Raptor Three you copy that?" Martin asked.

"Aye Skipper, I'm right above them... and we'll be more than happy to give them a ride home."

"War Master, I'll bring your boys and girls home safe. You do the same for mine." Martin said.

"It will be done." Tareif answered quickly.

"Ben why don't you bring it in baby, right in front of me if you would," Martin spoke as he cradled Dysea's body in his arms and headed for the door.

"Stand by Marty, we're inbound!" Ben's voice replied.

“Everyone is aboard!” Tina called out.

“Give me power!” Ben called as he pulled back on his control yoke and the Raptor began to climb into the sky.

“We are passing through seventy percent!” Tina called, advancing the throttles forward.

“What’s the status of Raptor Three?” Ben asked.

“The second ship is climbing away already.” Endith replied. “They have cleared the trees and... wait... by the gods... missiles! I have missiles coming right at us!”

“Fuck!” Ben yelled. “Give me full power Tina! Countermeasures! Fire the damn countermeasures!”

“Where... I don’t know where they are!” Endith screamed, turning to look at Tina, “Where?”

The Raptor slewed violently to the right, throwing Endith out of her chair and into total blackness.

The Alliance Assassin lowered the launcher and looked at his partner doing the same. “One still climbs!” He spoke.

“The missile only struck its wingtip.” The second missile launcher Assassin replied in disgust.

“We must track the second ship! How many of our brethren live?”

“Only thirteen,” The second replied.

“We attacked with nearly a hundred!” The first spoke in disbelief.

“They were not using Elf weapons! And they did not run when we closed to hand to hand range! They attacked us like wild men. The strangers were not elves! They were too strong and fast to be elves.” The Assassin spoke. “They struck down almost half our brothers fighting in close. They knew where our weak spots were. I saw an Elf War Master dispatch four of our brothers himself with only his blade.”

“We must return to the ship! We must track that wounded craft. Issue the orders quickly!”

“What of the Captain?”

“Fuck that human scum. I never liked him anyway.”

Tina groaned and reached for her head, her helmet almost coming apart when she touched it. Her eyes began to focus and she saw the shattered glass of her side cockpit window where her head impacted. Her helmet had saved her life.

“Ben?” She called weakly, hearing the strain on the Raptor’s engines, and the alarms blaring all throughout the cockpit. She turned her head slowly seeing Ben’s bloody hand on the throttles. As her eyes followed his arm up they grew wider, “Ben... oh my god Ben!” Tina began fighting with her straps to unfasten herself from her seat.

“Stay there!” Ben’s voice stopped her.

His helmet was shattered, his face a mass of blood and cuts where the cockpit had imploded. His left hand was gripping the control stick tightly, the left side of his body also cut and bleeding profusely.

“Ben you’re hurt bad!” Tina barked, still trying to get her straps unfastened.

“Stay there!” Ben snapped, blood spraying from his lips. “I got her steady right now! I need a damage report Tina and fast!”

“Ben!” Endith’s voice screamed, “By the Gods no!” She sprang up from the deck, a nasty cut on the side of her head leaking blood. “It’s my fault! Ben I’m sorry!”

“It’s not your fault!” Ben spoke as firmly as he could. “Countermeasures would have been for shit! The missile was locked on us the second it cleared the launcher! Forget it! Endith... I can barely see!”

Endith looked around for a cloth or something, and finding nothing she ripped off her combat vest and body armor to tear a piece from her uniform. She leaned over in front of Ben and gasped at the sight.

Ben smiled. “It looks worse than it is.” He said. “My eyes, wipe my eyes.”

Endith did as he told her, dabbing gently around his eyes soaking up the blood from his eye lashes and eyebrows. When she pulled away the blood soaked rag, his blue eyes were almost clear. He looked at her and even through the pain he forced a grin and winked.

“See... no problem.” He told her. “Check the back.”

Endith nodded and touched his cheek gently before moving for the door into the rear of the Raptor. She stopped at the door, her eyes wide in horror. The entire rear section of the Raptor was gone, and she could see jagged edges of where the ramp and doors used to be. She could just barely make out the tops of the trees far below them. The bodies of elf and genome were scattered all over, bracing against the wind whipping through the ship. Her eyes found Tarifa near the front, her arms wrapped around the body of the Wood Elves Queen. Martin was closest to her, pulling Walter into the command seat and strapping him in. Endith turned back to the front of the cockpit.

“Ben... the... the entire back of the ship is gone.” She said in disbelief.

Ben grunted from his chair, “Figures.” He commented. “That explains the play in the pedals. There’s nothing there.”

“One engine is gone!” Tina reported. “The other is holding at sixty percent power! I got no instruments Ben! None! The entire electrical system is fried! Even the fucking compass is gone!”

“What about the radio?” Ben asked.

“It’s wasted.” Tina replied.

Tina turned as Martin scrambled into the cockpit from the rear of the Raptor. His face was cut in several places, with a deep laceration on his shoulder. He stopped when he saw the condition of the cockpit, the blood splattered over the instruments and Ben trying to keep them flying.

“Fuck!” He swore turning into the rear. “Anja get up here fast!” He screamed.

He looked at Endith, who was very pale, and squatting behind Ben, using a blood soaked cloth to keep his eyes clear.

“Ah Ben... I don’t know if you are aware... but I should probably tell you we are missing the last two feet of the ship.” Martin spoke.

Ben chuckled. “Yeah... we got a hole in us as big as my ex-wife’s ass!”

Anja scrambled in behind Martin, her arm and shoulder cut up, but not bad. She took one look at the blood and moved immediately to the space between the seats. She looked at Ben as she began pulling items from her bag. “How are you doing Ben?” She asked.

“You know me doc! Got to do everything the hard way.” Ben answered.

“Anything feel broken?” She asked.

Ben shook his head slowly. “My left shoulder hurts like a bitch, but I still got all my fingers and toes.”

Anja motioned Endith out of the way with her head and moved to the back of his chair. She reached up over the jagged edges of the side of the cockpit and looked at his blood soaked shoulder. Slowly and carefully she pulled aside the sliced flight suit and winced.

“Bad huh,” Ben asked hearing her soft intake of breath.

“It’s pretty deep. I won’t lie to you.” Anja said, “Any numbness?”

Ben shook his head. “Feels like I got a piece of metal stuck in there though. Pinching a nerve maybe.”

“I can’t see anything Ben. And if I go poking around and there is something in there, you could lose the use of your arm while we’re still in the air.” Anja told him.

“Well shit that wouldn’t be good! Pack it with bandages and we’ll go from there.” Ben spoke.

“I can stick you for the pain.” Anja said.

Ben nodded slowly, “Not too much though, just enough to take the edge off.”

Martin’s ear piece crackled on the command channel. “Raptor One! Go!”

“Skipper, you guys took a bad one there! What’s your damage?” The voice of the pilot from Raptor Three asked.

“Bad. What’s your status?”

“Minor damage to one wing, but we are losing fuel pretty quick.” The pilot replied.

Ben shook his head as he heard the pilot’s report. “Kenny, we’re crippled and flying blind!” Ben spoke now. “We got no instruments and no ass end to our ship. I’m barely keeping her up as it is. How much fuel you got?”

“Enough to stay with you for another forty minutes at this speed Ben.” The pilot replied. “I’m only leaking below three hundred knots.”

“No good Kenny. You won’t make it back unless you leave now.” Ben said.

“We can’t just leave you boss.” The pilot spoke.

“Yes you can.” Ben told him. “Once you clear our wake, contact the encampment and have another bird take off and head our way. What’s my heading?”

“You’re heading southeast boss; away from the elves’ city. On your current heading and speed you’ll cross into Nebraska in about fifteen minutes.”

“It can’t be helped.” Ben spoke. “If I try to turn her, I might lose her. I’ll keep her as straight and level as I can and I’ll try to stay above a thousand feet. They should be able to pick me up pretty easily once they are up. My radar cross section has to be as big as a jumbo fucking jet by now.” Ben said.

They heard Kenny chuckled from his cockpit. “That it is Ben. What are your casualties?”

Ben looked at Anja who shook her head. “Some cuts and scrapes... but we didn’t lose anyone thank god.” Ben spoke. “Start heading back Kenny. Once they link up with me, I’ll set down and they can pick us up immediately. I’ll see you soon.”

“Kicking it Ben,” The pilot replied. “Stay loose.”

They saw the second Raptor pull up alongside them and then speed ahead. They watched it until they could no longer see the flame from its engines as Kenny turned and headed back to Mountain City.

Anja pulled the injector from Ben’s neck. “That should dull the pain to a throb Ben.” She spoke.

“Good.” Ben said. “Tina... cut all non-essential power and route it to the engine. Use the back up generators to go through the shut down procedures.”

Tina looked at him. “Ben if I do that, we’ll go dark.”

Ben nodded. “We’re already lighting up any radar scope within six hundred miles.” He said. “If we don’t reduce our cross section... we’re going to have company real soon.” He looked out what remained of his cockpit window. “What’s our fuel?”

Tina looked at Endith. “The right gauge on the engineer’s panel Endith. What does it say?”

Endith turned and looked at the panel. Her eyes narrowed and she turned back to Tina, “Two thousand pounds.”

“Fuck!” Ben barked. “Get me a mirror or something metallic!”

Endith looked on the deck and found the shiny piece of metal that had once formed the inner shell of the cockpit. “Here.” She said.

“Endith... ease it out the side here real slow.” Ben told her, motioning with his head.

Endith eased over alongside him and did as he instructed, fighting the push of the wind. Ben squint his eyes as he tried to see the left side of his aircraft.

“Sonofabitch,” He swore. “The entire fuselage and engine housing is gone. The missile not only ripped off our engine, but it took half the wing and all the fuel in that tank.”

“What does that mean Ben?” Martin asked.

“It means Skipper that we got about another twenty minutes of flying time at the rate we’re burning fuel.” Ben answered him.

Endith looked at Martin, her eyes wide. “That will put us inside The Wastes.” She gasped.

“Ah fuck!” Martin barked. “Can this night get any better?”

“Look on the bright side Skipper!” Ben said with a laugh. “We could be back there with the uglies.”

Martin reached forward and touched Ben’s right shoulder. “Can you set us down?” He asked.

Ben nodded. “I’ll get us down in one piece Martin.” He spoke. “There won’t be much left, but I’ll get us down in one piece.”

Martin nodded. “Good enough.” He turned and headed into the back, Anja on his heels.

Endith moved between the two seats and looked at Ben, feeling responsible for his injuries and their entire predicament. Her eyes began to tear up just as Ben looked at her.

“Hey! This isn’t your fault.” Ben spoke.

“I wasn’t fast enough.” Endith spoke, her voice shaky.

Tina looked at her. “There’s no way we could have beaten that missile Endith.” She told her. “This is not your fault.”

“We’re going to need your help to land this heap.” Ben spoke smiling at her. “Besides... we’ve been in tighter spots haven’t we Tina? Remember Iraq?”

“I try not to.” Tina answered, her eyes glued to the ground below them.

Palina greeted her husband at the base of the ramp when Raptor Three landed on the platform and Kenny killed the engines. Standing with her were two dozen more Dragoons and the officer from Tareif's Division that he had promised Tarifa too. Telan stood at attention next to his wife who wore a worried expression on her face, her eyes searching for Tarifa.

"Tareif what happen? Where is Tarifa?" Palina asked.

"The Assassins had missiles." Tareif replied. "One of them struck her craft and did heavy damage. Our pilot had to return or we would have run out of fuel as well. Another craft is meeting us here and we are going back."

As if on cue, another Raptor roared out of the night sky and started its approach to another platform.

"I will come with you." Palina spoke.

Tareif looked at Telan. "You were not due here until tomorrow Senior Captain." He spoke.

"The Queen is my future mate War Master, and your daughter. It is my duty to be here." The young officer answered.

Tareif caught the look from his wife out of the corner of his eye, but said nothing. He nodded at Telan. "As soon as their craft lands have the men board Captain."

"Shall I have the half breeds arrested War Master?" Telan asked arrogantly.

Tareif looked at him, as did the five Dragoons that had exited the Raptor with their War Master. They had fought beside the half breed Genomes on the ground, shoulder to shoulder and been accepted as members of their team. The Genomes had even taken orders from Tareif himself when he had split their forces and conducted a small counterattack. "Arrested for what?" He asked.

"Chief Minister Raloo is saying the mission was a failure because the half breed Genome Hunter commanded the mission and not yourself." Telan told him.

Tareif turned as the Raptor lowered to the platform and its ramp came down. "Get the men on board Senior Captain. And you will do nothing unless I order it."

Telan nodded, "As you order War Master."

Palina waited until the young elf was out of ear shot before turning to face her husband. "You promised our daughter to that fool?" She hissed at him.

"He is a fine officer!" Tareif hissed back at her.

"He is a pompous fool Tareif! Just like his parents and his entire family!" Palina barked. "They are all pompous fools who crave nothing but power. And this is the man you wish to be your daughter's mate?"

"Palina... you must understand I did..."

"What you did was wrong husband!" Palina told him. "I thought we had decided long ago to never direct our children's fates. We agreed on that Tareif did we not? We promised each other we would not meddle in our children's lives or their decisions. Tarifa will not allow you to do this."

"She will do as I tell her." He said.

"You would force her?" Palina asked her eyes wide. "How... how could you do such a thing?"

"Palina..."

"You lied to me husband." Palina said. "You lied to me."

Tareif watched her turn away from him and she marched towards the Raptor, its engines at full power and screaming for release.

War Master Tareif of the High Elves was in for a very long night.

NEBRASKA EIGHT MILES SOUTH OF CRAWFORD

Dysea's green eyes fluttered open slowly, her vision blurry. It was bright outside, that much she could tell, and she blinked her eyes several times in an attempt to clear and focus them.

"Do not attempt to rise." The female voice spoke to her from the side. She turned her head, and saw the face of Tarifa close to her. She was a little blurry, but Dysea knew who she was. "Your injuries have been treated Dysea, but it will take a few more hours for your body to fully heal."

Dysea's eyes cleared now, and she saw Tarifa's beautiful face looking at her with those sapphire eyes. She had what appeared to be a nasty cut on her forehead, but it seemed to be slowly healing. She tried to sit up and move away from her, but a wave of pain swept through her head, and she felt Tarifa's hand touch her arm.

"You are safe Queen of the Wood Elves." Tarifa spoke softly. "I will allow no harm to come to you."

"Where... where am I?" Dysea asked softly.

Tarifa smiled somewhat awkwardly. "That is another story." She said. "I accompanied Martin and the others to rescue you and the Holy One. Your men were all killed, I'm very sorry. As we were departing the Alliance Assassins fired an anti-air missile at us and we were badly damaged. We have crashed just inside the edge of The Wastes."

"The Wastes," Dysea gasped.

"We are safe for the moment." Tarifa told her.

"The Holy One," Dysea asked.

Tarifa nodded. "He is safe as well." She motioned to the side and Dysea followed with her eyes, seeing Walter sitting and talking to two men, one a tall black man and the other the handsome man from her dreams. Her eyes grew a little wider at this, something Tarifa noticed right away. "You have seen him before haven't you?" She asked.

"In... in my dreams," Dysea answered softly her eyes returning to Tarifa, "Ever since the Holy One told me of him."

"You were investigating the attacks on your people." Tarifa said. "Tell me... what did you discover?"

Dysea looked at her suddenly wary. "Why... why should I tell you? You... you are my enemy."

"Am I?" Tarifa asked. "I too had an investigation conducted. My investigation concluded that the Wood Elves had nothing to do with the attacks on our villages. I believe it was the Alliance. I suspect you discovered the same thing, and that is why you were in our territory. The Alliance is attempting to pit us against one another Dysea, surely you can see that."

"I see that I am your prisoner." Dysea snapped, more harshly than she had intended too. She saw the look of hurt flash across Tarifa's face and then it was gone.

Tarifa shook her head. "You are not my prisoner." She said softly. "We are however in the same bad situation. We should at least attempt to work together."

"Why should I trust you?" Dysea hissed. "Why should I trust any of you? For all I know one of your flying ships could be on its way here right now, and you intend to return me to your capital to stand trial."

Tarifa nodded and got to her feet slowly. "Anja is the doctor in Martin's team. She will be over to check on you soon. I don't know how much longer we will be here. There are two teams out now scouting the area to our north and south. They should be returning shortly. There is not much water..." Tarifa set the small container thermos next to her. "Drink it sparingly. There are some rations next to you if you are hungry. I will trouble you no more."

Dysea watched her walk slowly over to where Martin and the large black man were squatting next to the Holy One. She watched as Tarifa settled between Martin's legs, his hands automatically going to her shoulders. She glanced up and saw that his eyes were gazing upon her intently, and she looked away quickly.

Walter shook his head slowly. "I don't know what I was thinking." He continued. "I should have seen what they would do right away." He looked at Martin as Tarifa settled between his legs and Martin's hands dropped to her shoulders in an almost brotherly type action. Walter shook his head slightly and continued.

"They waited until I was in my third sleep period before beginning the changes. By that time, there were already thousands of elves across the country. One of my assistants decided while I was sleeping that he would make a deal with the powers that be and he began mass producing the elves by the thousands. When I awoke again, there were millions across the planet and this Alliance government had been formed. The young assistant had an unfortunate accident a year after I woke up though, the poor fellow." That Walter had arranged for his death was obvious and something that Martin intended to question him on later. "I knew the only way I could change things was to continue in my position and attempt to effect change within the elves themselves. They did not discover what I was doing until sixteen years ago, and I have been running ever since."

They were sitting in what remained of the Raptor that Ben had landed. The landing struts had snapped when they touched down, burying the nose of the Raptor into the soft earth, but the ship was never going to fly again regardless.

“When did you discover that the moon was no longer spinning around the earth?” Martin asked.

“I discovered that quite by accident.” Walter spoke. “I was having lunch with a colleague one day, an astronomer actually, and he told me about it. When he mentioned it to me I knew then what was happening, and I began planning, after figuring out when the moon would return to its normal rotation.”

Danny shook his head. “Jeez! Just listening to this gives me a headache.” He said.

Walter chuckled and turned to look at Tarifa. “It was never my intent for any of this to happen child.”

“I know that now Holy One.” Tarifa replied softly. “I also know that if it wasn’t for you, we would all still be slaves. We would not be fighting the Alliance; we would only be slaves to them and the humans.”

“How did you make it so I would understand their language?” Martin asked him.

Walter smiled. “I encoded it into your DNA.” He answered. “I was always a very large fan of Elfin lore and history, and though I never thought it would be so important back then, I added it to your DNA strands more for fun than anything. There were many different kinds of Elves, but I used the two I knew the most about to create Tarifa and her people; The High Elves and Wood Elves.” Walter’s face became serious. “Martin my boy... I never...”

Martin held up his hand to stop Walter’s words. “I have never blamed you for how the government sought to use us Walter. I don’t think any of us do.” Martin looked at Danny who nodded in agreement. “You have and always will be who we consider to be our father.”

“And look where we are because of what I have created.” Walter said.

“This is not because of you doc.” Danny said. “What is going on is happening because of a few assholes who think they are gods.”

“I gave them the tools to think that.” Walter said.

Martin nodded. “Yes... but you did not make them choose that path.” He said. “They did that. We are not our brother’s keeper Walter.”

“Aren’t we?” Walter asked looking at him.

Martin shook his head. “No. We are not.” He said. He stood up to his full height, pulling Tarifa with him as they all got to their feet. “I have to check the status of our patrols. We can continue this discussion at another time.”

Walter watched him lean over and hug Tarifa gently before motioning to Danny with his head and they moved off to the destroyed rear of the Raptor. Walter looked at Tarifa as she watched him go and he smiled.

“I’ve never seen him display the emotions that he has in the last few hours Tarifa.” Walter said quietly. “He is changing.”

Tarifa looked at him and smiled. “He is becoming more and more expressive as well. Even in the short time we have known each other he has evolved.” She said. “I must thank you Holy One.”

“Thank me for what?”

“For Martin,” Tarifa replied turning to watch him go out into the sunlight. “I have discovered a part of myself I did not know existed thanks to him.”

Walter shook his head. “All I did was to place a small attraction there Tarifa. You told me you saw the message I left for him. Had one or the both of you decided not to explore that attraction, nothing would have ever come of it.”

Tarifa smiled turning back to him. “Perhaps you are right. I think I understand what you said to me that day Holy One. I don’t believe Martin and I are fated to be together in that way Holy One... I can sense him holding something back, and he is unwilling or unable to share it with me. I believe it is the part of him that only Dysea is to see.”

Walter looked at her. “What has happened between you and Martin was not what I intended Tarifa.” He said. “It was never my intention to have the two of you become intimate.”

Tarifa nodded. “I know that now Holy One.” She answered. “I believe it was something that both of us needed however, and I have no regrets. Our times together have allowed me to explore a very part of my soul that I had no idea was there. What I have discovered I like very much.”

“What have you discovered child?” Walter asked her keenly interested.

“I have discovered that I have denied myself too long the simple pleasures in this life.” Tarifa answered. “The touch of another person that stirs me; stimulates me in ways I have never experienced. It is something I will no longer do.”

“And Martin does this?” Walter asked.

Tarifa smiled, “Very much so.” She answered. “I also know that I am not the one meant for him. As I said... he holds something back even from me. I... I believe Dysea might be the one, as you said in your message to him. And it would explain our dreams.”

“You said something about that briefly.” He said. “What did you mean?”

“It started shortly after we became lovers.” Tarifa told him. “We began to have dreams of Dysea; the same dream for both of us. I feel a similar attraction to her not unlike Martin does. Mine is more... it is a more physical thing. I have never looked at another... another woman as I look at her. Is that something you did?”

Walter shook his head. “No Tarifa. If you feel an attraction to Dysea, it is because of your feelings, not something that I placed in you.”

“It matters not.” Tarifa said with a gentle voice of disappointment. “Dysea does not share the same feelings. She thinks of me as her enemy still, though I can see her attraction to Martin in her eyes.”

“Do not hate her Tarifa.” Walter said.

“Hate her?” Tarifa spoke quickly looking at him. “Holy One I don’t hate her, I desire her; just as completely as I desire Martin. And I can not explain that.”

Walter smiled and took her in his arms. “Then do not try. Allow what you feel to control your actions and they will be the correct ones.” He said. “Dysea has been through quite a bit the last few days. I will speak with her.”

Tarifa smiled in his embrace and nodded.

RAPTOR FOUR

The Raptor did a high slow circle over the battleground of the night before, all of its ground sensors directed at the encampment below. Tareif stood beside the genome Kenny as he used the cameras on the belly of the Raptor to try and determine if the ground below them was clear. They had started at an altitude of 40,000 feet and now circled at three.

“Kenny... I’m still not picking up any locator beacons.” The pilot’s voice spoke from the Raptor’s cockpit.

“Extend the sweep to four hundred kilometers.” Kenny ordered sitting at the ground monitoring console in the rear. “Their ship was missing its tail and limping on one engine Billy. They couldn’t have gotten that far.”

“Kenny we’re talking about Ben and Tina here. I’ve seen them keep a crippled bird in the air for five hours.” The pilot answered.

Kenny sighed heavily. “How’s your fuel?”

“We’re good for another two hours.” Billy replied.

“Ok... extend the sweep to four hundred kilometers. That puts them just over the Nebraska border.”

Tareif pointed to the chart. “This is The Wastes.” He spoke. “Communications will be impossible if they are in there. The residual radiation causes all signals to bounce randomly.”

Kenny shook his head, his radar picking up another Raptor approaching. He looked at Tareif. “The recovery bird is here sir. You still want them to land and collect the bodies?”

Tareif nodded. “They are Wood Elves ... but they fought well and deserve to be returned to their people in honor.”

Kenny nodded in approval and flipped a switch. “Raptor Seven... you are instructed to land at the encampment and recover all fallen elf bodies.”

“Copy that Four.” The voice replied.

Tareif was becoming more familiar with his ear implant and he switched channels. “Their remains are to be treated with the utmost respect soldier.” He ordered.

“You don’t have to worry about that sir.” The voice replied. “They died so that our Skipper could clear this AO. As far as we are concerned they are part of our team now.”

Tareif nodded turning to look at the pilot. "You and the others think much of your leader." He said to Kenny.

Kenny looked at him. "He's got our asses back home more times than I can count sir. He's our Skipper and our pack... and our Commander." Kenny quickly corrected what he was going to say, something that did not go unnoticed by Tareif. "You and he are a lot alike."

Tareif looked surprised at this comparison. "Alike?" He asked.

Kenny nodded. "Yes sir. You care for the men under your command as if they were your family. That's the same way the Skipper thinks."

"Kenny! I'm picking up airborne targets, two hundred miles and closing." Billy's voice spoke.

"Alliance flying craft," Tareif said. "They are slow but heavily armed."

"Billy... Ben was on a Southeast heading, and he said he had too much damage to do any turning. Drop us to the deck and head southeast until you have to bingo for fuel." Kenny spoke. "There's no way he could have set down anywhere in this area with the damage he had. They had to have made it to this Wastes area if they aren't responding to transmissions."

"Copy that." Billy said.

Kenny and Tareif felt the Raptor dip and drop for the treetops. "I'm signaling our base by your city to have another Raptor on standby to pick up where we left off." Kenny told Tareif. "We'll find them sir."

Tareif turned at the touch of his wife's hand on his arm. He turned to look at her. "We are following the heading they were on last night. We believe they may have gone down in The Wastes."

Palina's eyes widened, "The Wastes?" She gasped.

Telan stepped up to them. "We will find them Lady Palina." He spoke.

Palina looked at him with an evil glare before turning back to her husband. Tareif nodded and motioned for her to return to her seat.

Telan waited until she was out of ear shot before speaking. "You are recovering the bodies of our enemies War Master?" He asked. "May I ask why?"

"My daughter ordered that the Wood Elves with the Holy One were to be treated with respect Captain. I intend to do just that, even if they are dead." Tareif replied.

"Was that a wise decision on her part sir? It is obvious they were unable to protect the Holy One." Telan asked.

Tareif glared at the younger officer. "Do you question your Queen's orders Telan?"

"No sir. Forgive me." Telan spoke quickly.

"Please insure the Dragoons are ready to deploy at a moment's notice Captain." Tareif said before turning back to where Kenny was scanning the area below them.

"As you order War Master," Telan spoke to Tareif's back before turning and heading to where they sat in the rear of the Raptor. He kept his thoughts to himself, but knew this was something his father needed to know upon their return.

He did not hear the voice come over the radio that caused both Tareif and Kenny to look up.

"We got live ones down here!"

Radama lowered the binoculars from his eyes and nodded his head slowly. "They are Acid nomads." He spoke softly looking at Cody.

Martin had sent a genome and a Dragoon in each of the patrols. Radama and Cody seemed to mesh pretty well, and they had covered nearly five miles in this patrol alone. They had moved north while Pablo and another Dragoon had gone south.

"I make six of them." Cody said.

Radama nodded. "It is a standard patrol size for them." He said. "I would imagine they have a much larger group nearby."

Cody looked at the small map chart on his wrist. "I know our maps are not up to date, but there's suppose to be a small town just over that rise. Looks like a population of about three thousand from before the comet."

“It is possible they have taken over the town. The little we know of them indicates they are nomadic, but they do stay in one location for a time before moving on.” Radama answered.

“Is that a vehicle they have with them?” Cody asked looking through the binoculars.

Radama nodded. “It’s called a Hopper, a hover craft of sorts. The one they have is very old, but it appears it still runs.”

“How fast are they?” Cody asked.

“That model there... in its condition... I’d be surprised if it could top fifty miles per hour. The newer models within the modern cities can reach two hundred miles per hour.” Radama replied. “Many of the newer cities are designed differently than what you remember. They are much more spread out.”

“Yeah... well we don’t want to tangle with these boys anyhow.” Cody spoke. “Ben is still pretty banged up, and your two Dragoons took some hard hits when we landed. We’re down to nine effective fighters.”

Radama nodded. “I agree. We could sure use that Hopper though.”

Cody nodded, “That we could. Let’s get back and see what the Skipper says.”

The two of them inched off the rise of the hill back down below the horizon and began to run in the direction they had come. Radama however stopped and reached out to hold Cody. He looked at him.

“What’s wrong?” Cody asked.

Radama pointed to the sky in the distance. “It’s an acid storm.” He said.

“Fuck you’re kidding right! How far out?” Cody asked.

“Two... maybe three hours away.” Radama replied.

“Come on! We need to get back and get the others to those caves we saw!” Cody spoke pulling on Radama’s arm.

Radama took one last look at the incoming storm and turned to follow Cody.

Walter settled his frame on the mangled bench next to Dysea as she nibbled the bar of chocolate she had found in the ration pack. She was gazing at where Tarifa and Martin were standing just at the edge of the rear of the Raptor speaking with a High Elf Royal Guard by his dress, and one of Martin’s team.

“How do you feel child?” He asked her.

Dysea looked at him. “I’m very sore Holy One.” She answered.

Walter nodded. “I’m not surprised. Thorn beat you brutally.”

“He will not live long once I return.” Dysea snarled.

Walter smiled a tight smile. “He’s already dead.” He said.

Dysea looked at him, “Dead? How...?”

Walter motioned with his head to where Martin stood. “Martin killed him.” He said. “It was not the most pleasant thing to watch, but he will not be returning to bring anymore harm to you. They saved our lives you know.”

“I remember vaguely what happen.” Dysea said softly. “She gave me a weapon. We killed two Alliance Assassins and then Thorn hit me again.”

“You’ve been having dreams about Martin haven’t you?” Walter asked her, “About both of them.”

Dysea’s head came around quickly and she looked at him. “How... how do you know that?”

“They have been dreaming about you for almost a week now.” Walter answered. “She didn’t leave your side you know. From the moment we took off until the moment we crashed here, she held you in her arms. Once we came here she sat with you until you woke up, nearly five hours. She didn’t eat... didn’t sleep. Martin would do the same as he checked everyone. They sat with you instead of resting like the others.”

“She said that she has been investigating the attacks on High Elf villages.” Dysea said. “She told me she had discovered that the Wood Elves were not killing her people.”

“Just as you discovered that the High Elves are not killing your people.” Walter spoke. “I told her what we were doing. And what we had discovered.”

Dysea looked at him. “You told her?” She said. “Why did she question me about it then?”

“I would say perhaps because she wants you to trust her.” Walter said.

“Holy One how is it possible that I can feel what I feel for him? I have never met him, yet I am drawn to him like no other I have ever met.” She asked. “Is this... is this something that you did?”

Walter shook his head. "I only placed an attraction inside you for him Dysea, in your genetic code. As the data pad I gave you explains... nothing would come of it without you and him pursuing it. As for the dreams... no... that is not something I did."

"I see strange things Holy One." Dysea spoke softly meeting his eyes. "And always he is at the forefront. Ancient battles..." She shook her head, "Amazing things."

"Why is that wrong?" Walter asked her. "I created the elves to be open and not shy about physical relations. It has been passed down through your parents and grandparents genes to you. As with Tarifa, I believe your positions as Queen, and the continuing crisis with the Alliance has forced you to block that part of yourself. After speaking with her just now... I believe it even more."

"She is my... she is my enemy!" Dysea said.

Walter smiled at her. "If she is your enemy, why do you not sound convinced of your own words?" He said as Martin and Tarifa came back into the covered portion of the Raptor.

"We got trouble folks." Martin said.

"Shit... that's new Skipper?" Julie asked rising from her seat next to Anja.

"There is an acid storm approaching." Tarifa told them, "A very large one and it is heading directly for us."

This got everyone's attention and they all came to their feet. Danny shook his head and looked at Martin. "Skipper, do we have 'fuck with us' written somewhere on our bodies?" He asked.

Martin grinned. "We just might. Cody and Radama have found a set of caves about a half mile north of here. We need to pack everything we can haul out of here and get to those caves before that storm hits."

"How long do we have Martin?" Walter asked.

"Radama says an hour, maybe more maybe less. I'm not taking any chances so we are cutting out of here in five. Grab everything you can stagger with and meet outside." Martin answered. "Danny you get to carry Ben."

"I can fucking walk damn it!" Ben yelled from the cockpit.

"Not on my watch!" Tina's voice yelled.

"This bird is toast when we leave, so get all the weapons and ammo from the spare locker." Martin spoke. "I'm not leaving anything for anyone to scavenge. Let's do it!"

Dysea watched as Martin's team and the Dragoons sprang into action quickly and efficiently. She felt like a fifth wheel as they scampered all around her, until she turned and was looking into the very broad chest. As she lifted her eyes, she found herself gazing into the deepest dark brown eyes she had ever seen, and suddenly she wanted to immerse herself in those eyes. Dysea felt herself grow warm inside as he gazed at her. It was the first time she had seen those eyes close up, and as with Tarifa, they caught and held her attention like no man ever had.

"You feel up to carrying a small pack?" Martin asked her.

Dysea nodded quickly, "Of... of course." She stuttered out the answer, tearing her eyes from Martin's. Her lightly tanned skin showed her embarrassment as her cheeks blushed.

Either Martin didn't notice, or he chose not to embarrass her further as he set the pack down next to her feet. He held out the K12 in the thigh holster to her and she looked at him with wide eyes.

"You are arming me?" She asked in disbelief.

"It would be foolish of me not too." He replied.

Dysea took the weapon slowly. "You trust me?"

Martin stepped up very close to her and Dysea gasped, unable to back up without falling. Martin leaned over and put his face close to her neck and inhaled deeply, while Dysea stood there frozen and unable to do anything. Her wildflower scent flowed into his veins, and unlike Tarifa, Dysea's scent joined Anja's honey scent as it was burned into his brain. Martin drew back his head slowly, allowing his lips to softly caress the ridge of her elf ear. He felt her body tense and looked into her wide emerald green eyes. Dysea found herself enraptured by his eyes, and she could barely draw a breath as his animalistic gaze held her very bring.

"Trust you?" Martin spoke softly. "Why would I not trust you?"

"We... we are... we are enemies." Dysea finally managed to spit out.

Martin turned his head to the side and Dysea saw Tarifa step up next to him and gaze at her with her huge sapphire eyes. “You are many things to us Dysea of the Wood Elves.” Tarifa spoke softly. “An enemy you will never be.”

Dysea looked back to Martin who smiled at her warmly, a smile that surged through her body and caused warmth to spread in her stomach. “I guess that answers your question huh?” He said with a smile.

The moment was broken as the first clap of thunder could be heard in the distance. Martin stepped back from her then and smiled.

“Time to go folks,” He spoke.

Dysea bent over and lifted the pack, turning as she did so and catching the gaze of the human female who was staring at her. Her Persian red hair framed an angelic face, and stunning jade green eyes, and she looked at Dysea in such a way as to make her blush slightly under her tan. Then she turned as well and followed the dark skinned woman out of the crippled Raptor.

RAPTOR FOUR

“Can you get above it?” Kenny asked.

“I can try.” Billy answered. “But we’ll never be able to fly in it, and we’ll burn through our fuel three times as fast staying in the rough air.”

Kenny was looking out the cockpit window at the angry dark clouds forming ahead of them. “Damn thing moved in quick.” Kenny spoke.

Tareif nodded from behind him. “Acid storms can appear almost instantly.”

“Is there any place we can set down to wait this thing out?” Kenny asked.

Tareif shook his head. “We are out of High Elf territory. What is below us is free space. We know where the human settlements are, but nothing beyond that.”

“Shit!” Billy snapped.

“What about those Alliance ships Billy?” Kenny asked.

“They hauled ass about twenty minutes ago; as soon as this thing showed up.” Billy answered.

Tareif nodded. “Their flying craft are slow and heavily armed as I said, but they could never stay as long as we have.”

Kenny looked at Tareif. “Can your people monitor this storm from your city?” He asked.

Tareif nodded. “I will have our weather watchers inform us the moment it begins to break.” He replied. “It is safest if we return to Mountain City. We can talk with the survivors from the Wood Elf unit and find out what they were doing in our territory.”

Kenny nodded and looked at Billy. He twirled his hand in the air quickly. “Take us back Billy. Refuel and stand by.”

The pilot nodded and they felt the Raptor begin to turn.

The acid storm hit within minutes of them reaching the cave, and as they moved deeper into the main tunnel they discovered it was significantly larger than Radama and Cody had first thought. They moved down the main tunnel until they reached the first expansive area, roughly two hundred meters from the entrance, and it was here that they set up their camp. Small but powerful lights were set up in a small perimeter. The immediate area was checked and cleared, and then a two person outpost was set up a hundred meters from the entrance to provide security. There did not appear to be any other exits to the cave, and everyone began to relax after almost two full days of constant stress.

Radama stood next to Martin and the Master Chief near the entrance as they watched the rain fall.

“How long do you think this will last Radama?” Martin asked.

“It appears to be a very large one.” He answered. “I would think at least ten to twelve hours based on my experience with these storms.”

“And those Acid Nomads you and Cody saw?” The Master Chief asked.

“While they are the only ones able to move within these storms, they don’t like too.” Radama replied. “Anything living has already gone to ground, and unless they are moving their encampment, I don’t they will even come out in a storm this large.”

“So we should be pretty safe?”

Radama nodded. “I would think so.”

“Let’s keep the security post out anyway Chief, just to be safe.” Martin said. “Two hour shifts to keep everyone sharp.”

Tony nodded. “You got it Skipper.” He answered.

“This cave is considerably larger than Cody and I first thought. It might be advisable to see just how large it is.” Radama said.

Martin nodded. “Anyone who goes outside our perimeter goes in pairs. If they want to explore make sure they are armed and have fresh batteries for their lights. I don’t want any surprises.”

The Master Chief nodded and headed back for the perimeter. Radama looked at Martin for a long moment as he gazed into the storm.

“If you have something to ask Radama, just ask it.” Martin finally said to him.

“Forgive me for staring.” Radama replied looking away. “It’s just that... we... elves I mean... we do not get the type of immediate acceptance for what we are by humans as quickly as you and those who follow you have accepted us.”

Martin looked at him. “We are not entirely human Radama.” He told him.

Radama nodded slowly. “Perhaps, but it is something else as well. You and the others... you have gone through the same thing haven’t you?”

Martin nodded. “We were not accepted when we were created either. We had to fight for every piece of respect that we gained, every ounce of trust. We know what it’s like to be persecuted I suppose, but not in the way the elves have had to experience.”

Radama nodded. “No, but it is very similar.” He said. “I have been a member of the Queen’s Royal Guard since I was forty-nine Martin Hunter. I am a hundred and forty now. It has been an honor to serve Tarifa, ever since she became Queen. We all knew she was different, and she has proved it time and time again. If not for the Council of Elders, I believe things would be very different. I have... I have also never seen her as alive and in control as when she is with you.”

Martin smiled. “Well... she’s an incredible woman.” He replied. “I just don’t know if it’s due to what Walter did, or to our own feelings.”

“What I see... what all of the Royal Guard see... it may have been due to the Holy One’s actions in the beginning.” Radama told him. “Now that the two of you are working together, no... that is not something the Holy One had any part in.”

Martin looked at him and chuckled softly. “No... I suppose not.” He said. “I suppose not.”

Dysea sat alone, mindlessly chewing on the piece of ration bar. Her emerald eyes were gazing on Martin’s back as he stood talking with the High Elf Royal Guard, and she didn’t notice Tarifa standing in front of her until she cleared her throat.

Tarifa held out the small data pad in her hand. “I thought you might like to review this.” She said.

Dysea took the pad, her eyes never leaving Tarifa’s beautiful face. “What is it?” She asked.

“It is all the information we were able to gather in regards to the attacks on our villages.” Tarifa told her. “I thought you might want to compare it to whatever you discovered.”

“Thank... thank you.” Dysea told her.

Tarifa nodded with a smile, her sapphire eyes bright and alert. She began to turn and go back to where she had been sitting, and Dysea suddenly found herself not wanting her to leave.

“Wait.” Dysea spoke softly.

Tarifa turned her head and met her gaze. Dysea’s emerald green eyes held her, as only Martin’s eyes had done. Tarifa felt her heart pounding in her chest as she gazed at the stunning Queen of the Wood Elves. She noticed how her platinum blond hair was tied almost identical to hers, in a long pony tail, decorated with an elaborate silken tie. She noticed how Dysea’s hair was draped over one shoulder and curled under her neck.

Tarifa noticed the contours of her lips, and how her thin eyebrows highlighted her green eyes. She noticed the slope of her heart shaped face and how her neck curved down to her very full, firm tits that were straining against her uniform. Tarifa found herself imagining what her skin tasted like, what her lips tasted like, and what it would feel like to nestled between this beautiful woman's thighs and feast on her sweet pussy.

"Thank... thank you for saving my life." Dysea spoke.

Tarifa turned back fully to face her. "You have my sincere apologies that we could not save the lives of your Guard. I know what it is like to lose men and women that are close to you."

Dysea looked at the ground. "Leland... he was my Guards Captain." She said softly. "He was my most trusted friend and advisor, ever since I was a young child."

"Was... was he your lover?" Tarifa asked.

Dysea shook her head. "No, though there are times when I thought he wished that was also the case." She said. "I... I never felt for him that way. And I believe he was content enough just being around me."

Tarifa settled slowly to her knees in front of Dysea, watching her carefully. "Are you sure that he was dead?"

Dysea nodded. "I watched the Assassin shoot him five times." She replied. "Without medical attention immediately, there is no way he could have survived."

"You must never give up hope Dysea." Tarifa told her. "There is always a chance."

Dysea looked at her and Tarifa saw small tears forming in the corner of her eyes. "I do hope." Dysea spoke firmly. "I hope that I am able to return to my home and take vengeance on the murdering scum who did this, and the Elders who took part in it!"

Tarifa's eyes grew a little wider, "The Elders?" She spoke.

Dysea nodded, wiping away the tears from her eyes. "There is no way the Alliance could have deceived me for this long without one or more of the Elders knowing about it. I believe they have been plotting with them all along, but for what reason, I do not know."

Dysea found herself staring at Tarifa now. The sapphire eyes and the soft curve of her cheeks, the way her moist lips reflected the dim light of the lanterns. Dysea also noticed that her shimmering black hair was worn identical to hers, curling under the exact same shoulder as her own, to curl under her neck. Dysea dropped her eyes lower from her shoulders and found herself gazing longingly at Tarifa's deep cleavage, and how her ample breasts pushed against her own uniform. As she brought her eyes back up, she noticed that Tarifa was staring at her with an odd look on her face, a look that Dysea suddenly understood.

"You... you are experiencing the same thing." Dysea spoke, her words not meant as a question.

Tarifa nodded her head slowly. "My... my investigation leads me to that very same conclusion."

"The Holy One... he told me not to trust the Elders completely." Dysea spoke.

"He told me the same thing." Tarifa echoed.

Dysea turned and dug into the small pack she had brought with her from the sight of the encampment. She pulled out the small data pad and held it out to Tarifa. "Perhaps Queen of the High Elves... perhaps we have more in common than I first wanted to believe."

Tarifa took the pad from her and watched as Dysea made room for her on the ground beside her. Tarifa did not hesitate, and immediately moved next to her and they began to read the data pads they had exchanged.

EDEN

"More elves you say Admiral?" Senator Graham asked from behind the desk.

William nodded his head confidently. "Yes Senator. More." He leaned forward in the chair and fought down the bile he felt rising into his throat every time he had to sit in the same room with the man.

Richard Graham had become a very twisted man in only a few short weeks, or perhaps he had always been this twisted and had hidden it well Wallace thought to himself. In the very next room, tied face down to the large bed he had moved into the room was a browned hair female elf who was currently being raped by two of Graham's men. The young female elf would have cried out in agony from the cock being rammed into her tight ass if not for the cock that was causing her to gag and choke as it was pounded deeply into her throat.

“We can use more for labor Senator.” Wallace explained. “The majority of the Elves that Minister Deval kindly gave to us are being used as prostitutes. While I do not disagree with that in the least, the females are more often than not fucked silly, to be blunt. They have to service thirty to forty men a day, every day, which leaves them little time to accomplish any work. Not counting the two you very graciously gave to Colonel Wilson and I, there are only eighteen on EDEN. We need more.”

Richard thought about that for a moment. “Your proposal does make sense.” He said. “However I do not want to become too cozy with these Alliance idiots.”

Wallace smiled. “I was hoping you were thinking like that sir.” He said. “I’ve been reviewing the information that they provided to us, and we do have one commodity that they would very well like to have.”

“What is that?”

“The technical schematics to our Raptor’s,” Wallace answered.

Graham’s eyes narrowed slightly. “You are suggesting that we give them the blueprints to one of the things that give us the advantage? I’m surprised Admiral... as a military officer you are making suggestions that make me want to question your motives.”

“My motives are right where you have shown me they ought to be.” Wallace replied. “All I’m talking about are the bare bones blue prints Senator, none of the advanced hardware that we have added to them. Not even the avionics package. I’m talking about the blueprints to the aircraft frame and the engines. That is all.”

Graham sat forward in his chair now his interest peaked by this. “I’m beginning to see where you are going with this Admiral Wallace.”

“We have the brains Senator. All we need now is brawn. With say two or three hundred more elves, we can easily keep the men happy, and still have the brawn needed to bring our other abilities online.” Wallace spoke. “It would take time... but in six months, we could be making our own ships and more advanced weapons. As time passes, we can review other requests that they make. With Hunter and his scum gone, we will need to outfit our own army. Who is to say we can’t turn the elves he gives us into that army?”

“I do see where you are leading with this.” Graham spoke.

William nodded. “Our people can break down this drug that the Alliance uses on the elves in a few days. We can then make our own drug. The more they ask from us, the more slaves we ask for in return. And then we use our drugs and turn them into our soldiers. In a year, we could take over control of two of their main distribution points for slaves, and then we wouldn’t need the Alliance.”

“And where does that leave us?” Graham asked.

“Well sir... since I have no aspirations in the least for any type of political office; that would leave you as the new President of the Alliance, and me in charge of its military.” Wallace explained. “I do believe that is something that might be of interest to you correct?”

Graham smiled. “Indeed it is.” He said. “You could have done this on your own Admiral... why would you bring me into it?”

“I’d rather have you as an ally sir.” William replied. “It would be much easier if we worked together on this, then neither of us have to be concerned with looking over our shoulders.”

“That is very true.” Graham said. “I must admit Admiral Wallace, I am a little surprised at how easily you seem to have accepted my new position here on EDEN.”

Wallace nodded. “Having Hunter stab me in the back made me realize that perhaps everything you have been saying about them is true. And besides... my elf bitch has the tightest pussy I have ever fucked... and I’d rather fuck than die any day.”

Graham burst out laughing at that statement and nodded his head. “These elf women are perpetual virgins aren’t they? No matter how many times you bang their holes, they always manage to stay extremely tight.” Graham stood and went to the bar that he had put into the office. “I agree William. Let’s extend the hand of friendship a little more and see if we can get something out of it. Draw up the proper paperwork and I’ll sign it.”

Wallace got to his feet and nodded. “I’ll have it to you in the morning sir.”

“Excellent.” Graham watched him leave his office and turned to his most senior aide, who stepped from the adjoining room. “Do you believe him?”

The aide nodded. “If the sounds coming from his quarters every night are any indication, he is becoming more like you every day Senator.”

Graham chuckled. "It's amazing what a little pussy and power will do to a man."

"Yes sir."

"We do need more females for the whore house too. I'm becoming bored with the selection that we have." Graham spoke, untying the robe he wore and heading for the next room. "Let him know to have a much larger selection of elves chosen, preferably ones that he picks out."

The aide nodded. "Yes sir."

"Make sure I am not disturbed for at least four hours." Graham said before closing the door.

The aide nodded slowly, his stomach threatening to empty right there on the floor at what he knew would be four hours of hell for the brown haired female elf in the next room.

Wallace watched the door close to his quarters nearly six hours later and breathed a sigh of relief. He dropped the few data pads he carried onto the table and turned, looking for Anisa.

"Anisa...?" He spoke, unbuttoning his jacket and tossing it over a chair.

Wallace walked into the main living area of his quarters and froze, his hand instinctively drawing the K12 he carried in the belt holster. He took two large steps and jammed the barrel of the K12 into the forehead of Senator Graham's aide's head.

"One twitch you sick motherfucker and I'll ventilate your brain cavity where you stand!" Wallace hissed at him.

"Admiral please... wait, I...!" The young man spoke, his hands in the air, and his eyes wide in fear. "This is not what you think!"

"What is it then? Is Senator Graham checking up on me?" Wallace growled reaching forward and pulling open the young man's coat, then ripping open his shirt looking for a hidden microphone or anything that he could be using to record their conversation.

"The Senator does not know I am here." The aide spoke quickly. "I give you my word!"

"Why should I believe you?" Wallace hissed.

"He's telling the truth William." Anisa's voice spoke from the side. She moved quickly, putting herself between Wallace and the aide, one hand going to Wallace's chest, the other she placed gently on the hand holding the K12. "He has put himself in great danger by coming here William."

"He's the Senator's aide!" Wallace barked. "He's in no danger."

"He is now." Anisa told him quietly. "Look in the bedroom."

William looked at her. "What?"

"The bedroom William; look in the bedroom William and you will understand." Anisa told him.

"Anisa you can't..."

"Do you trust me William Wallace?" She asked him.

"Of course I do."

"Then for me, look in the bedroom." Anisa said.

Wallace glared at the aide and while he dropped the K12 ever so slightly, he kept it leveled on the young man's head, as he moved to the doorway of his bedroom. Wallace glanced into the bedroom to see the small form lying in his bed and curled up into a fetal position under the white sheets.

"That's... that's..." Wallace lowered the K12.

Anisa nodded. "Her name is Neara." She said.

Wallace looked at her. "She's the young woman that was in Graham's office earlier today." He spoke.

"Thomas brought her here an hour ago." Anisa spoke. "He carried her here through the vent shafts William."

Wallace turned to the young man, "The vent shafts?" He asked. "What the hell for?"

"I don't want her to go through anymore of what she went through today." The young man answered. "After... after you left, the Senator... that bastard beat her within an inch of her life as he and his cronies raped her. She begged him... she begged him to stop over and over. And he wouldn't... until she passed out."

"And why exactly would you care what happens to her? She is an elf." Wallace asked with considerable heat in his voice.

"He's in love with her William." Anisa said.

Wallace looked at her. "What?"

Anisa nodded and looked at Thomas. "He's been with her. And he's fallen in love with her. Isn't that true Thomas?"

Thomas nodded his head slowly. "I... I knew after the... after the fourth time I saw her." He answered.

"You expect me to believe that you rape her four times and suddenly you are in love with her?" Wallace almost yelled.

"I... I didn't rape her!" Thomas spoke looking at him, his eyes flaring wide. "I did not rape her! I asked her!"

Wallace chuckled out loud. "You asked her if you could rape her. Jeez that's princely of you."

"That's not the way it was!" Thomas yelled. "We... we talked most of the time! She asked me... she asked me if I wanted her and I said yes! But I told her not unless she wanted me too!"

"You expect me to believe that shit!" Wallace snapped, bringing the K12 up again and jacking back the hammer.

"It's the truth." The soft voice said.

They all turned to see the young female elf standing in the doorway holding the sheet around her battered body. There were several bruises on her face and her bottom lip was cut, but due to her elf healing powers, the wounds were fading fast.

"Neara, you need to be in bed resting." Anisa spoke.

Neara watched Wallace as she moved slowly to stand very close to Thomas, holding the sheet around her with one hand while sliding her other arm around his waist. "He... he is telling the truth Admiral Wallace." She said. "I will not allow you to take from me the only moments of peace I have had since coming to this place."

Wallace lowered the K12 quickly. "He... he raped you." William said softly.

Neara shook her head. "No. If... if anything I assaulted him."

William shook his head. "Ok... now I'm confused." He said.

Anisa took his arm. "You should not be." She said. "You are in love with me are you not?" William looked at her, his eyes wide. Anisa smiled softly. "You do not think I see the way you look at me? You think I don't sense you watching over me when I sleep William? We may be slaves William, but we have had enough experience with men to know the difference when a man... a human man... looks at you with love or with lust."

Wallace gazed at Anisa's beautiful face unable to say anything. He had fought his feelings desperately over the last few days, unwilling to say anything to her for fear she would think he was crazy. "You... you can tell that?" He asked softly.

Anisa nodded her head and stepped even closer to him. "Yes I can tell those things. Did you think I have worn practically nothing at all the last three days because it was hot in your quarters?" Anisa asked with a smile. "You are so engrossed in proving to me that you are different, that you failed to notice I figured that out the first hour after I woke."

Neara groaned and clutched her stomach, doubling over in pain. Thomas caught her quickly and lifted her into his arms, "Neara?" He exclaimed.

Anisa knew immediately what it was and she went to her. "The drug is gone from her implant and she is going into withdrawal. William... the solution you gave to me, do you have more?"

Wallace nodded. "I'll get it." He spoke heading for the kitchen.

Anisa looked at Thomas. "Take her into the bedroom Thomas. We have to purge her system of the controlling drug and she will need the heat from your body."

"What?" He said as Wallace came back into the living area.

Anisa looked at him as he handed her the small container and the injector. "Another item you don't think I remember." She said. "This solution causes the elf body temperature to drop dangerously low. You kept me warm with your own body heat the entire time didn't you?"

William nodded slowly. "Yes."

Anisa smiled. "Go Thomas. Put her in the bed, and then get undressed and under the covers with her."

Thomas looked cautiously at Wallace and saw him nod slowly. He headed for the bedroom as Anisa turned to Wallace.

“You and I have a lot to discuss William.” She said before leaning forward on her tip toes and kissing him directly on the mouth with incredible feeling.

Wallace watched her turn and follow Thomas and Neara into the bedroom.

Wallace set down the mug of coffee he had been drinking got up from the couch in the living room when Anisa came back in an hour later. She smiled at him as she walked right up to him.

“They are sleeping.” She said softly. “The boy was so filled with fear; he was running on pure adrenalin and was asleep almost before Neara.”

“Anisa... I’m sorry.” Wallace spoke.

“Sorry for what? For thinking you were protecting me?” She asked. “That is nothing to be sorry about William.”

“I didn’t... I didn’t want you to think I...”

“That you were like Senator Graham?” Anisa finished his statement. “I already knew that William.” She reached up and stroked his weathered cheek. “You are unlike any human man I have ever met.” She said softly. “When you look at me I can see the desire and the love for me in your eyes, yet there is something else. We were created to be... we were created to be the companions of humans, and to help them rise from the ashes of The Great Fire. The Holy One intended for us to be their partners, in all things and not just sexually. We ended up as the playthings of humans. I am a hundred and seventy-three years old William and you are the first man, human or otherwise, to ever look at me as an equal.”

“Anisa... you have only known me for little more than a week.” Wallace said.

“I do not know you well that is true.” She answered honestly. “But there is something about you that... it draws me to you. It stirs my blood.” She looked at him with her dark eyes. “I can not tell you that I love you William; that would be a lie. I can tell you that I wish to give you pleasure and what I feel for you makes me want to do this more than anything.”

Anisa wrapped her arms around his head and crushed her lips to his with such force Wallace lost his balance and fell back on the couch. His arms reached out for her instinctively, to protect her as they fell, and they ended up pulling her tighter against him, her firm tits pressing into his t-shirted chest. His head swam with wild and long forgotten sensations and thoughts as her hands held his face still and he pulled her closer still returning the kiss with equal passion.

Anisa groaned against his lips, and her hands dropped from his face to rip open the shirt she wore, exposing her jutting light brown tits to his hungry gaze. Wallace broke their kiss and dropped his eyes to her firm breasts, her light brown skin a sign of her Asian descent. Her dark nipples were erect and stood out proudly from her firm tits. They were easily a quarter inch long. Wallace estimated somewhere in his charged mind that she was easily a 34C in size, and they were the most delicious looking tits he had seen in his nearly fifty years. He did not need any further encouragement and he took one of her proud nipples into his warm mouth and he sucked hard.

Anisa’s head rolled back, her eyes closing in bliss as she held his head tightly to her chest. After a moment she used her elf strength to pull his head from her now salvia coated tit and she pushed him back onto the couch. Her hands dropped to his pants and frantically she worked at his belt wanting to free his cock. She needed him; needed to feel him inside her. She dropped from her position in his lap to between his legs, working his pants from his long legs. Her eyes grew a little wider as she saw his thickening cock stretch from under the boxer shorts that he wore. She lowered her face to his groin and inhaled deeply of his musky aroma, smelling his excitement as she took the waistband of his underwear in her hands and yanked them down.

Anisa gasped when his hard shaft sprang up and hit her in the lips. She heard him hiss in excitement as she took the thick cock in her small hand and let her wide eyes wander over the prize she coveted.

Anisa had been a pleasure slave for nearly fourteen months, and in that time many men had taken her against her will. Men with small cocks, men with large cocks, but never had she seen a cock so thick as William’s. The pulsing shaft in her small hand she estimated at no more than seven inches long, but the base of William’s cock had to be nearly six inches in diameter, and her fingers came nowhere near coming together as she gripped it tightly. The vein along the underside of his cock was thick, his shaft thinning to a smooth tapered head that was now red with inflamed passion. Anisa found herself licking her sensuous lips with the tip of her tongue as she gazed at the monster in her hand. William's balls were not overly large, but they were definitely swollen with cum, and completely hairless. There was only a small patch of dark hair around the base of his cock, gray just beginning to mingle into the hair. Anisa closed her eyes in joy, extending her lips over the flared head and taking William within her warm mouth. Wallace breathed heavily through clenched teeth as Anisa's lips encased his throbbing cock within the satiny warmth of her mouth. "Ahhhhhhh... fuck!" He rasped as his hips involuntarily lifted off the couch. He heard Anisa gag quietly as his motion caused four inches of his raging cock to slide between her soft lips. He looked down between his thighs and saw her shiny black hair tossed to one side, and half of his blood engorged cock firmly seated in her beautiful mouth. Anisa looked up at him with her dark eyes, and William could have sworn they were smiling at him as Anisa pushed her face forward, taking another inch of his massive pole into her mouth. He felt the head of his cock strike the back of her throat and it was too much for him.

Anisa felt William's hands grip her head gently and pull his cock from between her lips. She looked at him as his saliva coated pole slapped against his hard abdomen.

"William... what..."

Wallace did not give her the opportunity to continue speaking and he pulled her onto his lap once more, covering her lips with his own. Anisa whimpered as his hands clutched her tight ass and he ground his huge cock against her dripping pussy. She groaned loudly as her sensitive clit was dragged over the entire length of his pulsing cock, soaking it with the juices that were pouring from her in what seemed like an endless flow. She did not resist as she felt his fingers find the edge of her soaked panties and pull them aside. This man knew what he wanted Anisa discovered quickly as she felt him rub the flared head of his cock against her dripping pussy lips, and then ease her down. Anisa's eyes opened wider as she felt the head slip inside her, followed quickly by four inches of his thoroughly slick cock. She took his head in her hands, and looked down between their bodies. Her mouth opened slightly, her eyes wide in excitement and passion as she saw the last three inches of his cock poised to enter her. She gasped as he pulled her down more, and another inch of that incredibly thick shaft entered her with little difficulty.

Anisa could not help herself impaled as she was on his cock, and she shuddered in a pleasant orgasm, her nails digging into his shoulders. Her thighs quivered in anticipation, her stomach clenching for what she knew would be a very fulfilling experience. She felt him lean forward slightly, and his hands gripped her tight ass as his mouth once more engulfed her tit. Anisa quickly gripped his head just before her world exploded. William held her ass in both his hands and pulled her down powerfully onto his pulsing cock. Anisa's eyes rolled into the back of her head and her back arched as she screamed out her pleasure, feeling her tight pussy filled with his cock.

Wallace held Anisa's hips tightly as her upper body bent back away from him, her firm tits reaching proudly into the air and her head tossing from side to side as he felt her juices soak his burning coat in a waterfall of sweet liquid. He clenched his teeth, feeling the incredible warmth and tightness of her pussy encircling his thick cock, every nerve ending on his underused pole alive in excitement. Wallace was no stranger to having women in his bed, once having boasted of having pussy in every country in the world, yet none of them had a cunt like Anisa. Her pussy was super hot, and it gripped his thick shaft tighter than anything he had ever experienced. The muscles in her pussy were milking him powerfully, and he knew he wasn't going to last long. It had been several years since he had bedded a woman, and he was going to fill Anisa's tight cunt with more cum than she had ever had before.

Wallace lowered Anisa to the floor, stretching out his body on top of hers slowly. Walter Carson had done almost too good a job in making his elves. Anisa's satiny legs curled up along side his hips and her eyes opened slowly to gaze at his face. She reached up to caress his face, his neck muscles bulging out as he tried to hold back his orgasm. He wanted Anisa to feel every ounce of pleasure he could give her. He wanted to show her that not all humans were like the animals that had raped and beaten her in the past.

Anisa smiled dreamily at him. She could feel every thick inch of his cock buried within her depths. "Do... do not hold back William Wallace!" She gasped, feeling his thick cock quiver inside her. "Fill... fill me with your cum! Fuck me!"

Her words were too much for Wallace and he withdrew his cock from her until only the head remained. Her lips curled back in a grimace of disappointment and expectation, and then they flew open wide as he rammed his cock completely within her in one plunge. Anisa felt his burning hot balls come to rest against her tight ass cheeks as his cum rocketed up the length of his cock.

“By the Gods... Yes!!!” Anisa screamed as she felt his cum erupt from his cock into her belly. She smiled as she felt his cum blasting into her, her hands stroking his back gently as she held him in her arms. She did not love this man, but his kindness to her needed to be rewarded, and he had to know that she did care for him.

MOUNTAIN CITY

Tareif marched down the corridor high above the ground, half a dozen Dragoons and members of SEAL Team Twelve flanking him. He rounded the corner to see Ralao and four other members of the Council of Elders standing outside the infirmary doors, including Thalami.

Ralao was the first to turn his anger upon the stressed elfin War Master. “What have you done?” Ralao hissed at him.

Tareif stopped and looked at the man. “What is it that you are referring to Chief Minister?”

“At this very moment there are three members of The Wood Elves High Guard being treated by our medical staff?” Ralao barked, “Using our medical supplies! Who gave this order?”

Tareif’s eyes narrowed. “I did.” He told him. “It was my daughter’s directive.”

“What?” Ralao asked. “I want to know what is going on! Why are half the Royal Guard at full readiness and why are these flying machines of the humans coming and going at our platforms as they please? Who allowed this?”

“We received a transmission from the Holy One.” Tareif told him. “He was in the company of six Wood Elves and they were being chased by a full company of Alliance Assassins. Tarifa ordered a rescue operation be executed immediately. Commander Hunter’s flying machines were available, and he offered the use of them to Tarifa. Two of his teams and a complete squad of my Dragoons accompanied the Queen on the mission.”

“Tarifa went with you?” Thalami asked somewhat surprised, yet Tareif could detect the respect and awe in her voice as well.

“The Queen led the assault. We were able to use weapons provided to us by Martin’s Weapon Master, and we routed the Assassins.” Tareif explained. “We got them off the ground, but they had anti-air teams in the vicinity. One of these missiles struck the flying machine the Queen was on and was badly damaged. One struck our machine, and did enough damage that we had to return and replace the craft. When we returned I ordered the recovery of the remains from the battle site and we searched for the other ship.”

“The Wood Elves were in our territory?” One of the Elders asked. “What was their purpose?”

“That is most obvious!” Ralao snapped. “They were sizing up their next target.”

“Traveling with the Holy One?” Tareif spoke. “I doubt that very much.”

“What other explanation is there?” Ralao asked.

“Chief Minister I hope that you are not implying that the Holy One is somehow involved with the attacks on our border villages?” Thalami asked in a shocked voice.

“Who else could give the Wood Elves such accurate information?” Ralao responded. “What other possible explanation could there be?”

“I was going to question the commander of the Wood Elves High Guard and find out.” Tareif spoke.

Ralao nodded quickly. “We will convene the Council to discuss this. Report to us the moment you have any solid information.”

Tareif watched as Ralao led the other ministers back down the corridor the way Tareif had come. He felt Kenny step up next to him. “Begging your pardon sir but that man is lying through his teeth.”

Tareif turned and looked at the tall handsome young Genome. “He is Chief Minister of the High Elves!” Tareif spoke.

Kenny shrugged. “He could be fucking Gandhi himself sir, but he’s still lying to you.”

“How can you be so sure?”

Kenny touched his nose. “When someone lies, their adrenal gland pumps adrenalin into their system to allow them to hide the outward signs like redness in their skin and such. We can smell the additional adrenalin sir.”

Tareif looked amazed at this information, “Truly?” He asked.

Kenny nodded. “No doubt about it. It’s a little harder to detect in elves because of the differences in our systems, but the adrenalin that was dumped into his system when he was just talking to you was too strong to miss.”

“And you can detect this in everyone?” Tareif asked.

Kenny nodded again, “Pretty much.”

Tareif’s eyes became bright with an idea. “Come with me.” He spoke to Kenny.

Leland looked at the two figures next to his bed. Recognizing War Master Tareif was easy enough, as there were not many elves on the planet that did not know the formidable General of the High Elves. The second individual Leland did not know. He was taller and more muscular than Tareif and appeared human in every way, except that his aura was not the light green that other humans were to elf eyes. Leland watched as Tareif pulled up the chair next to his bed and motioned the attendant away.

“Dysea...?” Leland asked looking at him. “Where is she?”

“You are referring to the Queen of the Wood Elves I assume.” Tareif spoke.

“You know who I refer to.” Leland said defensively. “Where is she? What have you done with her?”

“Why were you and your Queen in High Elf territory Commander Leland?” Tareif asked.

“You... you know who I am?” He asked.

Tareif nodded. “You are Leland, Commander of the Wood Elves High Guard. I know quite a bit about you. You know of course who I am.”

“War Master Tareif, father to Queen Tarifa. There are few who have never heard your name.” Leland replied with respect. “You... you pulled my men and I from the encampment?”

Tareif nodded. “I ordered the remains of those killed preserved so that you may return them to their families.”

Leland nodded. “I thank you for that.” He spoke. His eyes shifted to Kenny, who stood behind Tareif and to his right. “I do not know you.”

“Lieutenant Junior Grade Kenneth Dakota.” Kenny replied, “SEAL Team Twelve, United States Navy.”

“United... United States... what is this place?” Leland asked.

Tareif looked at Kenny for a moment then back to Leland. “That is a very long story Commander, and one which we can discuss at another time. My most pressing concern now is why you and your Queen were in High Elf territory.”

Leland looked at him. “We... we were investigating the attacks on our villages by those whom we thought were the High Elves.” He answered, meeting Tareif’s eyes. “It appears that assumption was incorrect based on what we found.”

“And what did you find?” Tareif asked.

“We discovered that someone was destroying our villages and killing our people, and attempting to make it appear like the High Elves were doing it.” Leland replied.

Tareif looked from Leland to Kenny slowly, and he saw Kenny nod. He turned back to Leland. “It seems Commander that we may have much in common.”

Leland looked at him confused. “I do not understand.” He said. “You... you have been investigating the attacks as well?”

Tareif nodded. “We have been investigating attacks against our border villages that have taken the lives of nearly three thousand High Elves in the last six months. Attacks that at first glance made it appear the Wood Elves were responsible.”

Leland sat up in the bed. “Someone... someone has been playing us against one another.” He said.

Tareif nodded. “So it would appear.”

“But for what purpose?” Leland asked.

“That is an answer that I believe only my daughter and your Queen has the answer too.” Tareif replied.

“Dysea...? Where is she?”

“The flying craft we used to come to your aide were fired upon by Alliance Assassin Anti-Air teams after we managed to defeat the ground forces. Your Queen and my daughter were both on the same craft. It was heavily damaged, and our search for them has been delayed due to an Acid Storm.” Tareif spoke.

“An Acid Storm,” Leland spoke. “They are in The Wastes?”

Tareif nodded. “It appears they were unable to keep the craft in the air as long as they thought. Their speed would have put them into The Wastes’ very Western Edge. As soon as the storm passes we are returning to continue our search and we will find them.”

“The Alliance Assassins that were tracking us.” Leland spoke, almost ashamed at what he was about to reveal. “I caught a glimpse of their leader. He is... he was a Captain sent to us by the Alliance as a liaison. He was to facilitate the signing of a treaty between the Alliance and the Wood Elves.” Tareif did not react as Leland thought he would and he continued. “The Holy One told Dysea something, and it made her begin this investigation. After what we discovered at the last village, she was positive the Alliance was involved somehow.”

Tareif nodded. “It is just as Tarifa said.” He spoke. He looked at Leland. “Commander... I must apologize to you.”

Leland looked confused. “I don’t understand War Master.”

“It appears that both of our peoples have been pawns in a very devious scheme by the Alliance to wipe us out.” Tareif spoke. “And as much as it pains me to admit, it also appears that Elders on both of Councils have full knowledge of this conspiracy.”

“Dysea suspected as much.” Leland said.

“As did my daughter,” Tareif echoed.

“War Master, if... if Elders on both Councils are involved in this plot then we have been fighting all these years based on a lie.” Leland spoke incredulously.

Tareif’s face became hard with this knowledge. “Yes, so it appears.” He spoke. “And it would also mean the only ones who are aware of this plot are at this very moment trapped together in the middle of an Acid Storm, and we can not contact them.”

Kenny stepped forward now. “Is this Chief Minister an intelligent man?” He asked.

Tareif looked at him. “He would not have gained the title if he was not.” Tareif answered. His eyes went wide and he came to his feet. “And I just told him the general location of where Tarifa and the Holy One are.” He gasped, looking at Leland, “And your Queen as well.”

Kenny nodded. “There’s something else.” He said seeing them look at him. “If he is a traitor... and you would have a better feel for that than I would... we all just got very large bulls eyes painted on our backs.”

“And if he suspected that Tarifa knew of his actions he would act quickly.” Tareif spoke. Tareif’s eyes grew wider and he went to the door, yanking it open, “Telan! Contact our area scouts immediately and get a report from them.”

“War Master, may I inquire as to what for?” Telan asked.

“Just get a report!” Tareif barked, “Now!”

Kenny looked at him. “What are you thinking sir?” He asked.

“Your people,” Tareif spoke turning to look at him. “You must evacuate your entire encampment and bring them here!”

“What? Why?” Kenny asked.

Telan stepped into the room. “War Master... none of the area scouts have reported in for the last six hours.” He spoke.

Tareif looked at Kenny. “Evacuate your encampment Kenneth! Do it now!”

Kenny knew the sound of command when he heard it and he tilted his head. “Raptor Nine to base; we have a Broken Arrow! I say again that we have a Broken Arrow! Evac to my location! I say again evac to my location!”

Tareif looked at Leland. “Can you fight?” He asked.

Leland did not hesitate and tossed back the sheet and put his feet on the floor. “I am ready!” He spoke.

Tareif nodded. “Then it is time to do battle!”

CHAPTER EIGHT

ALLIANCE CAPITAL NEW RICHMOND

New Richmond was the largest and most modern city on the planet, and it was also the capital of the most powerful government anywhere in the world. Once encompassing sixty two and a half square miles, New Richmond, built upon the burnt and shattered remains of the old city, now encompassed almost twice that size at nearly one hundred and twenty square miles of territory.

Towering glass and steel skyscrapers, hundreds of stories high, dotted the horizon of the central portion of the city. As the city spread out, buildings began to grow shorter in height, until the structures far from the center of the city itself reached only one or two stories into the sky. Massive kilometers long rail trains spider webbed throughout the city extending to every portion of the city limits. All around the extreme edges of the city was a five story high concrete and steel wall. It wound its way through hills and valleys, and passed over three different rivers that made up the new limits of New Richmond. Along the outside of this monstrous wall, several hundred small villages were established and bustling with activity and all sorts of illicit action that the Alliance government allowed to take place. This illicit activity included slave trading, black marketeering in drugs and weapons, and pretty much anything that could make people money.

The tallest skyscraper in New Richmond was home to the government of the Alliance. Hundreds of offices occupied the two hundred story building, from lowly interns, to the highest government Ministers. This was the brain trust of the Alliance, where all the decisions were made on the fate of the government and its people.

It was here that Marcus came when he was not in the field. And it was here that he had been called this morning, into the office of the highest ranking military officer within the Alliance. Marcus looked across the desk at the man, his uniform modeled after the old Marine Corp uniforms, and decorated with a dozen rows of colorful ribbons. Here was where Marcus desired to sit one day, the fourth most powerful man in the Alliance, and in control of the Alliance's impressive arsenal of weapons and troops.

"Our mercenaries have begun their attack on Mountain City Marcus." The man spoke, turning to look at him.

"They will not succeed Commodore." Marcus replied confidently.

"We have trained them, supplied them. Why do you say they will fail?"

"They seek only to enrich themselves by capturing as many slaves as they can." Marcus told him. "They do not have the dedication of our most loyal troops."

The Commodore nodded. "I tend to agree, but they have numbers on their side this time."

Marcus nodded. "Perhaps Commodore, but the High Elves are not as weak as we like to believe them to be. Their Queen inspires them, and her father is a superior leader of troops. They may inflict some damage, but if our intelligence is accurate, these new forces that have allied themselves with the High Elves will prove most difficult to defeat."

"Ah yes... you speak of these Genomes that have suddenly been discovered on the moon. The base that was believed destroyed, and now we find is very much active?"

Marcus nodded. "I have read the report by Minister Deval in regards to his stay on this base. I also took it upon myself to delve into the archives to find out what I could about these Genomes."

The Commodore sat back in his chair. "What did you find?"

"My research is not yet complete Commodore, but what I was able to find is quite interesting. These Genomes were created by our friend Doctor Carson to be the ultimate soldiers of the twenty-first Century." Marcus spoke. "The program was not without its faults, and the unit led by this Commander Hunter seems to be one of only two successful units of hundreds that were made. The other was an Air Force unit that was lost after the Great Fire. In terms of skills, they are the equal to and possibly superior to even our Heavy Legions. All of them possess the ability to mutate into humanoid forms of the animal DNA that was grafted to their own. All of them were given the genes of the finest military minds of the century, and just one of them could turn the tide of a battle. Their weapons and equipment would be on a par with ours to some extent, and many of the humans that escaped with Hunter from this base on the moon were experts in their fields. If they have allied with the High Elves, our war could become quite expensive in monetary as well as other means.”

“Your report from the field when you were chasing the Queen elf indicated that you believe they were helped by others to escape your grasp.” The Commodore spoke.

Marcus nodded. “I believe they were Commodore. The Alliance Assassins that I sent after Tarifa were slaughtered like so many hogs, and no evidence was left of who killed them. It appears she may have been the first one to stumble upon them. This also indicates they are more than capable.”

The Commodore held out the data pad. “You will find this even more interesting. Our spies within the Wood Elf capital have suggested that Dysea was becoming suspicious of our impending Alliance. She left the city seven days ago and from what they were able to determine she was investigating the attacks on her villages. Carson was with her, and orders were sent down for her termination. Captain Thorn led his Assassin unit after her, and as they were about to capture her, two of these EDEN Raptors showed up filled with these Genomes and at least one squad of High Elf Dragoons. Thorn’s unit was almost completely wiped out, and he was killed in a particularly vicious way.”

Marcus’s eyes grew a little wider. “A bladed weapon was shoved through his head? That is very interesting Commodore as it indicates rage.”

“The anti-air unit assigned to Thorn’s group was able to get off two missiles at these Raptor flying machines. They seriously damaged one and the other escaped.” The Commodore spoke. “It appears the damaged one has crashed on the very edge of The Wastes in western Nebraska.”

Marcus looked at him. “Then they will not survive long Commodore.” He said.

“That is what I first thought.” The man answered, “Until I got this report this morning. This is also the report that initiated the attack against Mountain City. Apparently, Tarifa and Dysea were on this Raptor that crashed, as well as our good friend Doctor Carson.”

Marcus’s eyes took on a predatory stare. “Has that been confirmed Commodore?”

“The Anti-Air officer was positive that the elves were on board the Raptor that crashed.” The Commodore answered. “He was not completely sure of Carson however.”

“Is this why you asked me here today Commodore?” Marcus asked.

“Our mercenary allies were instructed to attack the encampment of refugees from this EDEN base and kill as many as possible.” The Commodore explained. “They were then to attack Mountain City and inflict as much damage as possible there. This was done to keep the Genomes and the High Elves from sending any more reinforcements to search for the crashed Raptor.”

“And you wish me to begin a search for this downed craft Commodore?” Marcus asked.

“Not you personally Marcus, you are needed here. However, I do want you to assign your finest officer to this mission. He is to search for and find this crash site, and if any survived he is to track and kill them.” The Commodore ordered. “Our agents within the Wood Elf cities have already begun to spread rumors that their Queen is dead, and that the High Elves are responsible. Soon our people will make the announcement official, and the war we wanted will begin in earnest.”

“A sound plan Commodore.” Marcus spoke. “What is it you wish me to do?”

“Once you have chosen your officer and given him his orders, you are to report to the Mistresses’ home here in Richmond. She has been asking for you.” The Commodore told him.

Marcus grinned. “I look forward to that Commodore.” He said.

“As does she I assure you.” The Commodore told him. “Do you have an officer in mind?”

Marcus smiled. “Yes sir I do. I have trained him myself. He should be able to carry out your orders with little difficulty.”

“Excellent. I’ll leave you to your business Marcus. When your time with the Mistress is done, return here and we can discuss the results of the mercenary attacks.”

Marcus rose to his feet, “As you order Commodore.”

Dysea rolled over on the hard packed cave floor, holding her arms across her chest and shivering slightly. The storm continued to rage outside, and she could just make out the security team near the entrance to the cave. The dampness of the cave, especially now that it was night time outside made it very cool. As her eyes drifted over the others in the party she saw the red haired human female Anja lying with her back to the dark skinned female Tarifa had told her was named Julie. The huge black man Tarifa told her was named Daniel was lying with his face in Julie's soft hair, his long arms wrapped around both females in a sort of protective embrace. Tarifa had told her a little of the three of them, and the fact that they were lovers, though Dysea could still remember the look Anja gave her earlier in the day before they left the crippled Raptor.

The Holy One was sandwiched between the two female Dragoons accompanying them, while the others were scattered about the cave, draped either in cloaks, or in the genomes' case simply sleeping quite easily. Tarifa had told her that the body temperature of the genomes ran higher than that of elves and normal humans, allowing them to adapt quite well in chillier surroundings such as this cave.

She and Tarifa had talked for several hours, discovering much about each other that neither of them had ever known. They talked quite a bit about their different peoples, and realized that the High Elves and Wood Elves had much more in common than the Council of Elders for either group had ever let be known. Dysea had found herself allowing her eyes to wander over Tarifa in a way she had never looked at another woman as they talked, her eyes taking in the swell of Tarifa's breasts and the way her uniform pants encased her tight shapely ass. These thoughts had surprised her at first, until she realized that Tarifa was doing the exact same thing to her. Dysea felt inexplicitly drawn to her, and she could not shake the thoughts of them tangled together without clothes, pleasuring each other in ways she had never imagined. And always within those thoughts was Martin, making them both shudder while screaming out their passion. Whenever either of them looked at her, she felt herself quiver with sensations she had never felt before. Martin's eyes were especially brilliant even in the dim light of the cave, and whenever she looked at him he always seemed to be watching her, yet not once did she detect the normal look of lustfulness she received from human men. His eyes held something else when they gazed at her, and it was that look that made her shiver in unexplained desire and need.

Martin looked upon her with an enchanting stare that even Tarifa did not receive. She could see whenever he looked at Tarifa that there was caring and desire in his eyes, but it wasn't the same way he looked at her. When those dark eyes gazed upon her, she could feel them wanting her in such a way that would possess her soul. It made her body tingle whenever either of them looked at her, and it was not something she was used to, but it was something she found she enjoyed immensely.

Dysea turned her head to look at where they had settled to rest, and her eyes followed how Tarifa's lean leg was draped over his longer ones and how her arm rested on his chest. Her hair was spread out across his chest framing her beautiful face and her glowing sapphire eyes.

Dysea's eyes grew wide and her head came up slightly when she realized they were both staring at her from across the small distance, and incredibly Tarifa's eyes were almost glowing. As she lifted her gaze she saw that Martin's eyes were also impossibly bright in the darkness, a soft yellow glow, and his eyes were also focused on her. Even in the darkness, Dysea saw Tarifa's hand extend out to her, beckoning her to them.

Dysea made her decision without hesitation and she crawled over to them slowly, her emerald eyes locked on them. She paused when she was close enough to them to hear their breathing, not knowing what to do or what to say. Tarifa decided for her and took her hand gently.

"You don't have to be alone anymore Dysea." She said in a soft, almost musical whisper. "Let us Martin you warm."

Dysea did not hesitate then, and she moved closer to them, pressing her supple body along the length of Martin's and immediately feeling the warmth he projected. She lowered her head to his chest, her eyes never leaving Tarifa's as she brought her leg up along Martin's to rest atop Tarifa's leg. She felt Martin's arm curl around her back, pulling her even closer and his head leaned back on the small pack, his eyes closing slowly. Tarifa's fingers entwined with her own over the top of Martin's chest, their faces only centimeters apart, so close that she could smell Tarifa's peach like scent mingle with the faint scent of mint, like the early mornings in the deep forests. That scent was Martin's she knew and it filled her with a sense of peace she had not known before this very moment. Her eyes did not open as wide as she thought they would when Tarifa pressed her soft, moist lips to hers and kissed her warmly. It was a kiss not of desire or passion, but a kiss of friendship and feeling and it caused even more warmth to course through her.

The kiss ended and she watched Tarifa close her eyes, her head relaxing against Martin's chest. Dysea waited for only a moment before tightening her fingers with Tarifa's and slowly closing her own eyes sleepily, and without thought, nestled her head further into the crook of Martin's shoulder, his smell permeating her being. She did not see look of satisfaction that adorned Walter's face from where he lay.

The first part of his plan was almost complete, and the future of mankind now lay in the embrace of lovers and friends. Walter had not foreseen the attraction that Tarifa and Dysea would have for one another, and the fact that they would become lovers of each other as well as Martin did not escape him either. It was there as plain as the color of the sky. His presence gave them both peace... and he could tell from Dysea's movements that she was fighting the undeniable attraction to him, and she was losing. He had intended Martin and Dysea to be together, and for Tarifa to share in a friendship with them. That they would become lovers had not come into his calculations, but he knew in the end they would go their separate ways. Dysea was meant for him in a way... drawn to him and he to her... and there would be others Walter sensed... but Tarifa would not be one. Walter closed his eyes once more, pleased that things had worked out the way they had so far, but knowing that things rarely ever worked out the way they were intended.

There was still much to do.

Dysea's emerald eyes fluttered open at the sound of the voices, feeling the heat of the body pressed against her back. Still in a sleepy fog, she pushed back against the body relishing in the warmth. Her eyes flew open wide when she felt the hand tighten on her breast, and the slim leg pressed tighter between her thighs, coming to rest against her crotch, as she was pulled closer to the body behind her. Moving only her eyes, Dysea looked down slowly, seeing the delicate hand cupping her left breast tightly.

Tarifa's hand Dysea's mind screamed.

Dysea's first thought was to leap away from Tarifa, aghast at the position that they now rested in. She could feel Tarifa's breath on the back of her neck, and the warmth that spread throughout her every time Tarifa breathed out. It was not hard to discern that Tarifa was sleeping deeply, her chest rising and falling in even intervals, her breasts pressing into Dysea's back as she subconsciously pulled the heat from Dysea's body closer to her, thereby pulling Dysea closer. Dysea's eyes moved toward the entrance of the cave and she saw Martin squatting with a Dragoon officer and the large black man. Her eyes drifted over where the others rested and saw that all of them were still slumbering. She could no longer hear the huge claps of thunder from outside the cave and she assumed the storm was over and it was still very early in the morning. She remembered crawling over to where Martin and Tarifa laid and stretching her body out against theirs. The heat from their combined bodies had quickly chased the chill from her body and Tarifa had clutched her hand as they fell into a restful sleep.

Dysea didn't remember how they had shifted during the night, as restful as her sleep was. Now she was being held tightly by a sleeping Tarifa as she spooned her firm body against Dysea from behind. The sensations Dysea felt coursing through her were both thrilling and at the same time confusing. Tarifa's hand cupping her breast, holding Dysea close to her while her taunt thigh pressed against Dysea's crotch was generating feelings of passion from deep within Dysea's belly. Dysea's mind was racing, telling her that what she was feeling was wrong, while her body continued to respond to Tarifa's touch. Dysea bit her bottom lip as she felt her nipple harden, pressing stiffly against the fabric of her uniform and jabbing into Tarifa's palm. Her emerald eyes closed tightly as the image of the red haired female grabbing her in this way flashed across her mind, causing her to become even more excited. Dysea wanted to move her legs to stop the warmth that was rapidly spreading through her pussy as Tarifa's thigh rubbed against the bottom of her cunt. Tarifa's breath on the back of her neck was intensifying the emotions swirling within Dysea. She could feel Tarifa's own nipples become hard and even through their uniforms they stabbed into her back quite noticeably.

Dysea could only clench her teeth as the pleasurable warmth continued to sweep through her threatening to overcome her sense of reality and respond to the intense feelings she was experiencing.

"Tar... Tarifa," She finally gasped, gripping Tarifa's hand with her fingers.

This sudden action woke Tarifa quickly, and she found herself highly aroused, with her lips almost touching the back of Dysea's neck, much of her silky blond hair spilling across her face. Her own eyes grew wide as she realized she was tightly grasping Dysea's large breast and her thigh was pressed between Dysea's legs, the warmth of her aroused pussy burning into her skin.

“Dysea...!” She gasped softly, quickly removing her hand and pulling her leg back. “Oh... I... I’m so sorry. I...”

Dysea’s eyes closed slowly as she felt her arousal begin to pass, but as it passed, she felt a sense of longing fill her as well. A sense of longing that made her belly feel empty, and her heart ache. Tarifa sat up slowly, her eyes looking around quickly, her face embarrassed. She breathed a sign of relief when she realized that no one had seen their predicament and she watched as Dysea slowly sat up as well.

“Dysea... I must apologize.” She spoke quickly. “I... I was dreaming... and I did not know... I did not feel Martin leave us.”

Dysea turned her emerald eyes on Tarifa, took a deep breath and forced a small smile. “Nor did I.” She said.

“Forgive me... forgive me for being so... so inappropriate.” Tarifa said softly.

“Tarifa... were you... were you dreaming about me?” Dysea asked her eyes wide.

Martin saved Tarifa the embarrassment of having to say yes when he came into the small perimeter.

“Rise and shine folks!” He spoke in a hushed voice.

Tarifa and Dysea both looked at him oddly for his tone of voice and as the others began to rise he told them why.

“I got good news and I got bad news.” Martin said. “The good news is that the storm is over. The bad news is that we have company coming.”

This statement brought everyone fully awake, and Dysea and Tarifa forgot all about what had happen between them.

At least for the immediate future it seemed.

“I make them about two miles away and closing Skipper.” Danny spoke, lowering the binoculars.

Radama lowered the set he was using and nodded. “I concur.” He spoke.

Martin nodded and turned as Tarifa and Dysea came out of the cave with several others. He turned back to Danny, “Numbers?”

“Looks like thirty at least, maybe more.” Danny replied.

Tarifa came right up to Martin and laid her hand on his arm. “Are they Acid Nomads?” She asked.

Martin nodded. “About three dozen of them, and they are heading straight here.”

“May I?” Dysea asked holding out her hand.

Martin looked at her for a long moment, his nose twitching just a bit. Tarifa knew then that he could smell Dysea’s excitement, and she held her face emotionless as she realized she’d had the same effect on Dysea as Dysea had on her. Tarifa did not want to mention that her own panties had been soaked through when Dysea had woken her, and she knew Martin could smell her. And now he could smell Dysea as well. She watched him gaze at Dysea in a way he did not look at her, and Tarifa smiled inwardly. The last few weeks with Martin had been an experience she would not forget, or ever regret. The sex between them was amazing, but always she could feel him holding something back. Looking at him now... Tarifa knew he had opened her eyes to so much more. She did not love him, that she knew for certain, but what they had shared had brought them closer than she would have thought. As she watched him stare at Dysea she felt a sense of satisfaction that Martin and Dysea had finally come together. And after waking this morning Tarifa hoped that perhaps they would allow her to explore them both before their time together was done. Martin held out the binoculars to her.

Dysea lifted the binoculars to her eyes and scanned the two long columns of Nomads that were approaching the cave. She lowered them just as quickly and looked at Martin. “We can not stay here.” She said. “We will become trapped in the cave and they will only have to starve us out.”

Martin nodded slowly. “I know. Luckily for us however, Radama couldn’t sleep and he did a little exploring while everyone was catching some winks. He found a back way out of the cave; Jules and Anja are leading everyone there now.”

“Where does it come out?” Tarifa asked.

“It comes out about a mile further north.” Martin answered. “If we beat feet we can make it to Crawford before dark.”

“Is it wise to occupy buildings?” Dysea asked, looking at Martin.

Martin met her emerald eyes and shrugged. "It beats staying out in the open." He replied. "It also beats staying in this cave waiting for them to find us wouldn't you agree?"

Dysea nodded slowly, her eyes fixed on him. His words had not been spoken in a demeaning fashion to her. They had been a simple statement of fact. Based on what Dysea had briefly seen and what Tarifa had told her... Martin and the others with him had every right to walk around arrogant yet she detected none of that from any of them. "Yes it does." She replied meeting his gaze.

"It will also allow my people to find us more easily if we are not underground." Martin said.

"Will they be looking for us?" Dysea asked.

Martin smiled, but it was a forced smile and Dysea knew that. "Don't you worry; we'll have you back to your people in no time." Dysea lowered her eyes as he took the binoculars back from her and lifted them to his face. She glanced quickly at Tarifa, who was watching her closely. The emotions that had surged through her when she had awakened in Tarifa's grasp had been nearly overwhelming to say the least, and that they had been inspired by another female was even a greater shock. Perhaps the greatest shock of all to Dysea was that a powerful desire to bed the High Elf Queen was coursing through her. Not to mention the strange emotions that swirled through her when the red haired female gazed at her.

"Ok folks, time to beat feet. Radama, take our two Queens and follow the others. Danny and I will bring up the rear." Martin spoke finally.

Radama nodded and sat up looking at Tarifa and then Dysea. "If you'll follow me Milady? Queen Dysea?" He said.

Tarifa took Martin's hand. "You're coming?" She asked.

Martin smiled and nodded at her. "I'll be right behind you." He replied. He waited until they had started back into the cave before tapping Danny on the shoulder. "Let's boogie Dan."

Dan nodded and rolled over, moving out in front of Martin as they headed back into the cave. Martin took one final look before following Danny into the cave. He paused for a moment as his eyes adjusted and then continued deeper into the darkened cave. The lights from their perimeter had been removed and repacked into their gear and Martin did a last once over of where they had spent the night before following the echo of Dan's footsteps in front of him. As he came around the corner he saw Tarifa and Dysea standing with Radama by a small opening in the rock wall. Dan was just squeezing through as Martin came up to them.

"What are you doing?" he asked.

"Waiting for you!" Tarifa spoke firmly.

"They would not leave without you." Radama told him sheepishly.

"Well I'm here... so let's go." Martin told them. "Radama go ahead and..."

All of them heard the shifting of the rocks around them and froze.

"What was that?" Dysea asked her emerald eyes darting around.

"I don't think we want to know." Martin spoke. "Radama... start squeezing through the passage, we need to..."

Radama was halfway through the opening in the cave wall and he was looking at Martin speak when suddenly Martin was no longer there. His eyes grew wider as he saw Tarifa and Dysea also drop from his view as the cave floor opened up beneath them with a loud grumbling noise and the three of them disappeared.

Martin felt himself hit the cool water after what he estimated as a sixty meter fall, sliding down the hole that opened up beneath him. He had bounced off several walls enroute to his forty meter drop into the water, all this zipping through his brain as he kicked for the surface of the water.

His head broke the surface and he spit water from his mouth, just as Tarifa's soaked head broke the surface of the still water two meters away.

"Tarifa," Martin barked, kicking his legs powerfully and stroking to her side.

Tarifa dragged her soaked hair out of her face, her legs kicking furiously under the water, and she coughed and spit out water as Martin grabbed her hand. Her eyes opened wide and she saw him.

"Martin where is Dysea?" She gasped, spinning around in the water. "She fell with me."

"Shit!" Martin cursed. His eyes searched all around them, and he saw the small beach a hundred meters away. "I'll get her... go to the beach!"

“Martin!” Tarifa yelled her voice panic stricken. “Find her!”

“I will! Now swim!” Martin snapped. Martin took a deep breath and dove back under the surface. It was surprisingly light in the cavern they had dropped into, and the water was very clear. The water they had fallen into looked to be only thirty feet or so deep and he spotted Dysea quickly. She was struggling mightily, her eyes wide in fear, her cheeks bulging in her effort to keep from ingesting water and drowning. Martin kicked powerfully towards her, his SEAL training returning to the forefront. He had always been the strongest swimmer in his team, able to swim a mile underwater in only two minutes and thirty-nine seconds. He reached Dysea in twenty seconds, grabbing her around her waist. She clawed at his shoulders in desperation, her eyes nearly bugging out of her head. Her blond hair floated all around her terrified face and Martin did the only thing he could think of. He grabbed her face in his hands and sealed his lips over her mouth just as she closed her eyes and took a deep breath.

Dysea’s lungs heaved inward, her nails digging so hard into Martin’s neck that they drew blood. She expected to feel cold water fill her lungs, and her eyes flew open when instead she felt warm air fill them. She had never learned to swim, and when she hit the water it had stunned her long enough for her to sink nearly halfway to the bottom before she began to struggle back for the surface. It was to no avail, as her combat boots and uniform were heavier than she had the strength to balance, and she panicked as she continued to sink. Martin had placed his lips over hers just as she had given up, unable to hold her breath any longer. They were now on the bottom of the body of water they had fallen into, Dysea staring into his dark eyes as she inhaled.

Martin released one side of her face and wrapped his arm around her waist pulling her tightly to him as he held her head in place locked with his lips. Her eyes were still wide with fear and he needed to calm her down quickly. Martin could hold his breath for six minutes, but that was when he was calm and not sharing the air with someone else. He pressed her body close to his and felt her arms encircle his shoulders tightly. He stared into her eyes and brought his hand from the back of her head to her cheek and caressed her cheek softly, enticing her to remain calm and breathe normally. Dysea realized quickly what he was doing, and she loosened her grip on his shoulders slightly, forcing herself to still her racing fear, her face becoming more relaxed as she felt Martin nod his head ever so slightly and she willed her racing heart to slow. She felt his hands move around to take hold of her waist and he lifted his eyes upwards. Dysea nodded and Martin pushed off the bottom and they rocketed for the surface.

Tarifa knelt in the water, her sapphire eyes searching the surface of the calm underground lake. She was soaked to the bone, yet the air here was not chilly. She felt her heart racing in anguish as she waited for Martin to break the surface. She cried out in joy as Martin breached the calm surface and she saw blond hair wrapped around him. She felt nothing but relief, at the sight of both of them, even when she realized their lips were locked tightly together.

Martin held her waist tightly as he treaded water, and he took his lips from over Dysea’s mouth and she gasped and breathed deeply of the air around them. She held him tightly as she lowered her eyes back to his. “I... I can’t swim.” She said.

Martin grinned. “Yeah... I figured that out.” He replied. “Just hold on to me.” He lifted his head and saw the blinking light above them coming from the hole they had fallen through. Dysea watched as he reached into his vest and pulled out the small flashlight. He lifted it toward the blinking light and flashed off a message of his own. The light responded and then it quickly disappeared.

“Hold on.” Martin told her as he began to swim for the shore where Tarifa waited.

The Master Chief pulled himself back up the rope quickly, and climbed from the edge of the collapsed floor. He looked at Danny who was wedged into the opening in the rock wall as he held out his hand. Tony took the hand and Danny eased back through the opening. The Master Chief turned his body and followed Dan the ten meters into the next tunnel where the others waited.

“Master Chief?” Julie asked.

“They’re alive.” Tony spoke. “They dropped into some huge cavern with an underground lake and were headed for the shore.”

“Underground lake,” Anja asked the relief at his words very evident in her voice. Only Julie seemed to notice this and she smiled to herself.

“The Great Fire caused many tectonic shifts.” Radama spoke up. “We have found many of these caverns since then. All of them have had a tunnel leading back to the surface.”

“The question is where?” Danny spoke.

“Skipper said to continue with the mission.” The Master Chief told them. “He would move north and try to link up with us as soon as they could.”

Danny nodded. “Then let’s move. Those acid nomad fuckers might not be able to get across that cave in, but they might know where this tunnel exits and I don’t want to give them the opportunity to find us. Chief I want you to head back there and drop the skipper two of the survival packs from the Raptor and then you bring up the rear.”

Tony nodded and headed back through the crevice.

Martin lay on his back on the shore, breathing deeply of the fresh air as Tarifa fell to the ground next to him.

“Martin!” She gasped, taking his face in her hands.

Martin looked at her and smiled a crooked smile. “There’s nothing like a cool sixty meter plunge into an underground lake to energize the morning huh?” He said.

Tarifa’s eyes narrowed and she slugged him in the shoulder. “You jerk!” She yelled. “I thought you both had drowned!” Tarifa turned away from him to where Dysea lay on the ground next to him breathing deeply as well. “Dysea are you hurt?” She reached out and helped her to sit up as Dysea looked at her.

Dysea saw the genuine concern for her in Tarifa’s sapphire eyes, and it made her flush with warmth. She shook her head gently. “No... just scared. I... I never learned how to swim.” She explained sheepishly. “I just sank to the bottom.”

Martin sat up and took in their surroundings. The cavern they were in appeared to be easily half a mile across and a mile long. Martin could see the stalactites protruding downward from the cavern ceiling, extending as far as his eyes could view. The shoreline also extended in both directions out of the line of sight with rock formations every few hundred feet, some extending directly out into the water.

“Well this is neat.” He spoke.

Tarifa and Dysea both looked up and their eyes did as Martin’s were doing; taking in the area around them.

“High Elf researchers have discovered caverns such as this, but I have never been to one.” Tarifa spoke. “The Great Fire caused many tectonic shifts to occur, and these caverns are the result.”

“It is fresh water.” Dysea spoke now. “And the temperature is not as cold as I would have thought it would be.”

Martin nodded. “That means it’s being fed from somewhere else.” He got to his feet slowly, shaking the water out of his weapons and his small pack. “We need to move north and try to link up with the others.”

Dysea looked up at him. “That was the light we saw?” She asked him. “The one you signaled?”

Martin nodded. “They were signaling us. I told them we were alive and that we would move north to meet up with them.” He knelt next to the small packs that had dropped from the hole as he and Dysea had started to swim for shore. They had been inflated in such a way that the contents of the packs remained dry. Martin pulled his blade from his belt and punctured the air bags in both packs, deflating them. He pulled them open and began taking items from inside the packs. He transferred all the gear into one pack and hefted it to his shoulders.

“We got some dry uniforms and rations and stuff.” He spoke to Tarifa and Dysea. “We’ll move to those rocks and change, and I’ll move ahead to get our bearings.”

Tarifa and Dysea blew air into the chambers of their weapons, water spurting out of the barrels. Dysea looked at Martin. “Will these weapons fire if they have gotten wet?” She asked.

Martin grinned, “Oh yeah!” He answered. “C’mon let’s get moving.”

Dysea finished lacing up her boots and buckled the holster around her waist. There were no new undergarments, so Dysea had decided to forgo putting on the soaked white lace thong panties she always wore, as well as the lace bra. She looked at her breasts before buttoning the fatigue shirt, proud of their firmness and knowing she did not need to wear a bra. She grabbed her wet uniform and started to climb over the rocks to rejoin with Tarifa and Martin. She had only gone a few meters when her elf ears picked up their voices. She crept forward slowly, until she could look around the large rock face. Her eyes went a little wider when she did.

Tarifa and Martin were still only half clothed. Neither of them had their shirts on, and like Dysea, Tarifa had decided to not put her wet undergarments back on. At the moment she was currently sitting in Martin's lap, her firm tits crushed against his bare chest as they shared a very deep and heated kiss.

Dysea watched as Tarifa pulled his face from hers, their lips joined by a long strand of saliva for a brief moment, their faces flush and their lips moist. Dysea let her eyes wander over Martin's chest, taking in every contour of his powerfully packed muscles and abdomen. Her eyes took in the black flame tattoos that crisscrossed his chest and shoulders, as well as his back, and she heard Tarifa speak.

"That was a very brave thing you did Martin. You saved Dysea's life you know." She told him softly.

Martin smiled and nuzzled her throat, and Dysea's eyes went wide when she saw his canine teeth extend half an inch and gently nibble Tarifa's tanned satiny skin, "That little swim?" He spoke "I've jumped from higher and landed in deeper water. She would have been alright... but I think she is still recovering and everything that has happened has shocked her." He told her quietly reaching up to stroke her cheek. "You dreamed about her last night didn't you?"

Tarifa nodded with a slight smile, totally devoid of any embarrassment with the man she had shared so many pleasurable moments with in the last few weeks. "It was... it was very vivid Martin." She said softly.

Martin smiled. "No kidding. I did too... that's why I got up and left the two of you. I could smell you from the front of the cave. And I could... I could smell her as well. She smells like wildflowers when she's excited." He said almost absentmindedly, Dysea's scent coming to him now. She was only a few meters away.

"Martin I woke up with her breast in my hand and my thigh pressing against her... against her pussy." Tarifa spoke, her cheeks turning slightly red as she spoke the words. "It was glorious... though it was very embarrassing."

Martin reached up and pulled some of her hair from her face, his hands running down her shoulders and stroking her arms. "She has affected you quite a bit." He said.

Tarifa looked at him. "She has affected you even more." She said with a gentle smile. "I've seen the way you look at her."

"Tarifa I..." Martin started to speak.

Tarifa put a finger to his lips and stopped him. "What we have shared these past weeks has been wondrous Martin Hunter. I think however that both of us have known that it would not last. We... we are meant for others... you more than I, if what I feel is correct."

"What do you feel?" Martin asked her.

"There is something about you Martin." She spoke, "Something that you will not let me see. You keep it chained well... but it is meant for others. I believe Dysea is one of them."

"You are attracted to her as well, aren't you?" Martin said.

Tarifa nodded with a shy smile, "Surprisingly very much so." Tarifa answered. "I believe I feel it from her as well... but since I have never been with a woman... I don't know. Our... our relationship has opened my eyes to many things that I would not have thought of before. And for that... I will be eternally grateful to you for."

"I have felt different since returning to earth." Martin spoke. "I can't explain it... but something inside me is calling out. To what I don't know..."

"It will come to you in time." Tarifa said with a seductive grin. "I would hope that until we decide it would be best to part ways, you would still allow me the pleasure of being with you."

Martin smiled as well. "You have turned into a little vixen." He said with a soft chuckle.

Tarifa smiled and nodded before kissing his lips softly. "What you have shown me I have never experienced before, and I have discovered I like it very much." Martin looked at her oddly and she drew back just a little. "What is it Martin?"

“Your... your teeth Tarifa” Martin said his eyes a little wider. “They are...” He reached up and with his index finger he traced her now half inch long canine teeth.

Tarifa smiled brilliantly and nodded. “They are becoming like yours.” She stated proudly.

Martin looked confused. “How... how is that possible?”

“I don’t care how it’s possible, all I know is I can feel the changes inside me and I love them.” Tarifa said. “My senses are more alive, I can smell you more clearly. I feel energized Martin, like a whole new world is opening to me.”

“You... you welcome this change?” He asked surprised. This was something he had not expected and it surprised him quite a bit.

“This change makes me more like you. I feel stronger and more alive, and it is a wonderful feeling.” Tarifa told him. “Why would I not welcome it? I spoke very briefly with Anja, but I was unable to go into details. I will talk with her when we have more unexciting things to do.”

Tarifa kissed him deeply, and felt his arms encircle her, his tongue probing and finding hers and quickly defeating her in a tongue duel. Her breasts were crushed against his bare skin, her nipples erect from both the coolness of the air and her own excitement. After a long moment they parted once more, Martin nuzzling her throat and Tarifa grasping his head tightly, turning her face to the side with her eyes tightly shut.

Dysea wore a stunned look as she too saw that Tarifa’s canine teeth had indeed become longer, extending to nearly three quarters of an inch in length now. Their entire conversation had been in regards to their feelings for her, and instead of being aghast and disgusted, Dysea found herself actually enticed by the thought. She could not deny the attraction she felt for Martin, picturing him fucking her brains out made her extremely wet between her thighs, yet it was the pictures in her mind of her and Tarifa that surprised her. She found herself becoming supremely aroused by the thought of making love to Tarifa and exploring her taunt body. Dysea found herself wanting to taste her, desiring to explore every centimeter of her tanned flesh, and have Tarifa do the same to her.

Martin’s words shook away her thoughts.

“I need to scout ahead.” He told Tarifa, easily getting to his feet even with Tarifa in his lap. She uncoiled her body from around him, yet kept her arms around his shoulders as he stood to his full height and lowered her gently to the ground. “I don’t think Dysea needs to come around the corner and see us like this. Not yet.”

Tarifa nodded with a seductive smile and kissed him. “I will finish getting dressed and we will wait for you.”

Martin nodded as well and reached down to pick up his combat vest and weapons. He looked at Tarifa’s tits standing proudly in full display for him, her nipples beckoning to him and he almost lost control and took her right there. Martin smiled as he turned and headed down the shoreline.

Dysea leaned against the rocks for a long moment, calming her heart and taking deep breaths. When she had complete control of her emotions once more she made a few small noises and then stepped around the rocks. Tarifa was buckling on the combat vest, and she turned to see Dysea come from the side.

Tarifa jacked the first round into the chamber of the K12 before sliding it into the holster on her thigh. “Martin went to scout ahead. He said we should wait here for him.”

Dysea stepped up to her slowly, seeing Tarifa begin to spin her long hair in her hands to put into a pony tail. Dysea pulled her own pony tail forward and removed the lower two strands of silk that tied her hair. She held them out to Tarifa. “Take these.” She said.

Tarifa looked at her as she held out the elaborate strands of silk. “I... I have the leather.” She said.

Dysea shook her head. “These are silk. They are stronger and they will not tangle your hair when you go to remove them. They also do not suck the moisture from your hair as the leather does.”

Tarifa took the strands of silk slowly. “Thank you.” She said.

Dysea moved in front of her and sat on the small boulder. “May... I ask you something Tarifa?”

“Certainly,” Tarifa replied.

“Martin. He... he is different isn’t he?” Dysea asked her. “The Holy One told me a little of him... that he was not completely human. That is why his aura is a darker green isn’t it?”

Tarifa nodded slowly. “They were called Genomes.” She said.

“The Holy One told me that, but before he could go into more detail we were set upon by the Alliance Assassins.” Dysea explained.

“I do not know the full story...” Tarifa said. “I will tell you what I have learned from Martin and some history files that I was given.”

“Yes please.” Dysea said.

“The Holy One created them in the mid twenty-first century.” Tarifa began.

Tarifa talked for nearly thirty minutes, telling Dysea as much as she knew; which was more than most people. Throughout it all Dysea simply stared at her, watching as her lips moved, and how her breasts rose and fell evenly. Tarifa’s voice was like a soft music to Dysea’s ears and it relaxed her greatly. She absorbed all the information that Tarifa gave to her, and almost didn’t notice when Tarifa finished speaking.

“Dysea, are you alright?” Tarifa asked.

“You... you and Martin are... you are lovers?” Dysea asked the question, trying her best not to sound that interested even though she already knew the answer. She saw the look on Tarifa’s face and raised her hand. “Forgive me... I should not have asked. I apologize.”

“There is nothing to apologize for.” Tarifa told her, moving off the rock she was sitting on. “But you ask a question you already know the answer to. Why?”

Dysea looked at her as Tarifa moved closer to her. “I... I don’t know.”

Tarifa nodded. “Yes we are, though now that you have come into his life... things will change I think.”

“Me?” Dysea asked. “Why?”

Tarifa looked at Dysea, her eyes following the curve of her neck and the outline of her lips. Her eyes also took in the swell of her large breasts, and the way the fatigue pants clung to her skin. Her platinum blond hair was clean and silky, her eyes bright and alive. Tarifa made a decision then and moved closer to Dysea.

“You asked me this morning if I had been dreaming of you when I was sleeping.” Tarifa said.

Dysea was frozen in her spot on the small rock and unable to move as Tarifa moved to within inches of her face. She could see Tarifa’s wide sapphire eyes that were alive with passion and desire. Dysea knew that look well; she had seen it in the eyes of many men, yet she had never seen desire for her in another woman’s eyes. She nodded her head slowly.

“Yes... yes I did.” She replied, her chest heaving in the excitement that was welling up inside her, and the hope that Tarifa would kiss her. Dysea’s mind was racing in confusion, yet she could not push back the thoughts and the powerful desire that was building within her. She wanted Tarifa to kiss her. She wanted Tarifa to take her right here and right now, and that realization frightened her, yet it thrilled her even more.

Tarifa lowered her hand to Dysea’s leg, running her fingers up the length of Dysea’s slim and muscular thigh. Dysea flinched at the intimate touch, but she did not draw away and Tarifa looked at her, passion searing through her veins. She brought her face close to Dysea, and saw her emerald green eyes wide in surprise, but also in wonderment. Their lips were only a few millimeters apart and Tarifa extended her tongue slowly, running the tip hesitantly over Dysea’s soft moist lips.

Tarifa stared into Dysea’s eyes, searching for any sign of rejection or doubt. Her heart sang when she saw none and Tarifa knew she could no longer hold back her emotions. She wanted this woman almost as much as she desired Martin. She could not deny it any longer and she did not care where they were. She needed Dysea now.

“Yes... I was dreaming of you.” Tarifa spoke softly before covering Dysea’s full lips with her own.

Dysea could not help the whimper of delight that escaped her throat as Tarifa’s lips covered her own. Her body tensed as she felt Tarifa’s warm moist tongue gently probing, teasing and seeking entry into her mouth. Her mind burst open with stars at the new and incredible sensations that erupted within her, and when she felt Tarifa’s strong hand come up and firmly cup her large breast, Dysea surrendered to what she was feeling.

Tarifa’s eyes closed sensuously when Dysea’s soft and delicious lips parted even wider. With barely controlled glee she plunged her tongue into Dysea’s warm mouth searching for what she wanted as she gently pulled Dysea from the rock and onto the softer earth. She had laid out the liner of one of the space blankets on the ground before she began to change out of her wet clothes, and this is where she directed Dysea. Tarifa’s hands worked frantically at the buttons of Dysea’s fatigue top, and finally she got the last one unfastened and pulled it open, exposing Dysea’s firm 34C tits to her hungry eyes. Her eyes grew wide with passion as she saw that Dysea's upper body was tattooed with a light blue ink, several light blue circles extending down between her firm tits, and what appeared to be a pendant of some kind tattooed around her belly button. Her belly button was adored with a glittering emerald piercing, and as Tarifa pulled her top from her shoulders, she saw delicate tattoos across her shoulders and circling her upper arms.

Dysea's nipples were incredibly erect, standing out proudly in excitement the likes of which Dysea had never imagined she could experience. Dysea gasped loudly when Tarifa's lips descended hungrily to her tits and took her left nipple into her warm mouth. Her hands went to Tarifa's head and her fingers entwined within her silky black hair as pleasure shot through her body like an electric current.

Tarifa suckled hard on Dysea's nipple, her own body awash with fire as her hands struggled to remove Dysea's pants. Dysea was clutching her head, her breath coming in ragged gasps at what she was experiencing. Tarifa switched to Dysea's other nipple, using her new canine teeth to nipple the erect bud, drawing yelps of pleasure from the beautiful blond woman beneath her. Tarifa dropped one hand slowly down Dysea's flat abdomen, feeling her stomach clench at the touch of an unfamiliar hand. Tarifa slowly and deftly used her fingers to unbutton Dysea's pants. Her own body was on fire, her pussy already soaking through her pants at her own excitement. She stretched her fingers out, delving further down Dysea's firm abdomen, searching for the prize she so wanted.

Dysea's hand grabbed Tarifa's wrist just before her fingers touched her dripping pussy. Tarifa's face came up from her tits, her eyes smoldering in passion, her lips moist from sucking Dysea's nipples. Tarifa blinked quickly, and questions filled her eyes as she stared at Dysea's wide emerald eyes.

"Ta... Tarifa... we..." Dysea gasped, trying to control her breathing.

"Dysea... please... I... I want you!" Tarifa pleaded with her in a husky voice. "I... I want to taste you... I want to possess you... please don't... please don't make me stop."

Hearing Tarifa's words brought down what little remained of Dysea's resistance. Dysea's eyes grew wider as she allowed the passion to sweep through her unchecked. She released Tarifa's wrist and gasped when Tarifa's fingers found the thin line of platinum blond hair above her engorged clit and gently her fingers snaked through the soft hair to find what they were seeking.

Tarifa's eyes filled with awe and a renewed passion as she found Dysea's erect clit, and discovered the surprise. Drawing a gasp from Dysea as she settled back onto the blanket, Tarifa tore at her fatigue pants. Dysea frantically lifted her hips from the blanket to allow Tarifa to strip her, and then she felt the coolness of the air around her on her bare thighs as Tarifa pulled them off her in one powerful yank. Tarifa did not pause and squirmed lower on the blanket, to settle between Dysea's thighs. Her eyes were focused on the beautifully trimmed platinum blond hair just above Dysea's throbbing clit, and the glittering diamond ring that pierced that beautiful swollen clit. Tarifa turned her head slightly, taking in the wide tattoo that decorated and circled completely Dysea's taunt thigh, and the intricate wave design that was inside the tattoo. Her lips grazed the tattoo, tasting her flesh, as her tongue traced a long path up the inside of that thigh to the outer lips of Dysea's pussy. Tarifa closed her eyes as she nestled her nose in the soft blond hair, breathing deeply of Dysea's passion. Her mind recalled Martin's words to her on how Dysea smelled like wildflowers, and Tarifa smelled them now quite powerfully, and it was Dysea's own excitement that washed away any lingering doubts about what she was about to do.

Tarifa reached up slowly with her long fingers, tracing a line along the outside of Dysea's dripping cunt, until she placed her index finger on the diamond ring that pierced Dysea's blood engorged clit. She felt Dysea's stomach clench, and her fingers entwined in her black hair. She felt Dysea pull her head towards her blond pussy and she smiled, her canine teeth now fully extended in passion. Tarifa leaned forward, took Dysea's throbbing clit within her warm lips and flicked the diamond ring gently. Dysea gasped in delight, and her thighs tightened in anticipation. Tarifa closed her lips tighter around Dysea's sweet tasting clit, her juices already splashing across her face and sliding down her throat. Tarifa grabbed her powerful ass cheeks in both hands and sucked hard on Dysea's throbbing clit, her tongue flicking madly across the diamond piercing.

Dysea's eyes flew open wide, the muscles in her neck straining as she opened her mouth and screamed in unashamed pleasure as the most powerful orgasm she had ever experienced ripped through her very being. Her legs clenched and she locked her heels behind Tarifa's shoulders, her hands gripping her lover's head tightly, as her pussy convulsed and sent rivers of her cum flooding into Tarifa's sucking mouth.

Tareif stood to one side of the platform as the last of the Raptor's settled for a landing trailing smoke as the sun began breaching the horizon. The remaining hours of the previous night had been long and very arduous. Tareif was amazed at the organization that Commander Hunter's people had, and immediately upon receiving the order from Kenneth, they began pulling up roots. The attack came from the north, as hundreds of human mercenaries hit the refugee encampment. Men, women and children were in some cases tossed into the back of Raptors and the two transports. At least five of the Raptors that had come from EDEN were destroyed by anti-air missiles as they lifted off fully loaded with civilians. Mortar rounds were dropping within the encampment perimeter, shredding flesh and smashing bone, but the genome soldiers never gave up.

Tareif had watched in stunned silence as fire balls blossomed from the area of the encampment, and Raptors began arriving to offload passengers. In displays of courage he would not soon forget, the pilots of the flying craft would take off immediately to return for more of their people or to provide close air support. Hunter had laid out a killing perimeter all around the encampment, a perimeter that included mines and booby traps. He was receiving reports from the half dozen Dragoons that had remained in the encampment and who were fighting beside the genomes, and what they were telling him was incredible... even unbelievable in some cases. These genomes were savage fighters, and even though wounded horribly, they would stagger to get the civilians to the Raptors and transports. They just never gave up, as if defeat or surrender never crossed their minds.

Ultimately it would be that dedication and sacrifice that allowed all but three hundred of the civilians they were tasked with protecting to escape. The price was terribly high though, as Tareif watched Kenneth silently counting off the number of their dead. Martin had come to the surface with fifty-three genomes in his team. As the last Raptor landed on the platform, Tareif learned that only nineteen had survived the attack, and that included the nine that were present in Kenneth's team. He also learned that if not for the actions of two of the now dead genomes, all of the elves that had been fighting with them would be dead as well. Though hideously wounded they had physically tossed the six elves into the last Raptor before it lifted off. Both of them had been shot nearly a dozen times, in places that would have dropped any normal human or elf, yet they hadn't fallen until Tareif's elves were safe.

Tareif watched as Kenneth slowly walked up to him. His face was emotionless, but Tareif could detect the anger that was boiling just beneath the surface.

"The pilot of the last Raptor reports that the mercenaries are advancing on the city. They have set up heavy mortars to the north, and it appears they are massing for a full blown ground assault." Kenneth spoke. "He estimates they will begin shelling once they have their mortars in position. Perhaps thirty minutes."

Tareif's jaw clenched tightly. "We have nothing that can reach the valley." He spoke.

"You have heavy mortars sir." Kenny spoke. "The Skipper said if we cut some tress back, they could hit the valley."

Tareif's eyes lit up. "Yes! I remember him saying that now!" Tareif turned to Telan who stood behind him. "Order all the mortar positions on the north side of the city to stand by to fire. Get as many engineers as you can gather and have them use hand lasers to cut back enough tree limbs to give the mortars a clear angle of at least eighty-six degrees!"

"Eighty-six degrees War Master?" Telan spoke. "That is almost straight up!"

"I know damn it! The heavy mortars covering the north perimeter have a range of ten miles. They can reach the valley with ease if their elevation is above seventy degrees! Now do as I order you!" Tareif snapped.

Telan nodded and turned to go just as seven genomes walked up to them carrying long black cases. Tareif looked at them oddly and turned to Kenny. "What is this?"

"Snipers sir," Kenny replied. "I was going to position them on the far north platform and have them take targets of opportunity. I also want to move three Raptors to that platform and have them use their Sabot Cannons from a stationary position, while three more orbit out of missile range. The cannons have a range of thirty kilometers sir."

"And your sniper weapons, what is their range?" Tareif asked.

"My people can hit the ass on a fly at three miles with these things." Kenny replied.

Tareif nodded. "Then I have a better position for them." He said. He pulled the map locator from his belt and activated it. A detailed map of the surrounding area came up and Tareif pointed to it. "Have one of your Raptors drop your snipers here on top of this ridge. I will send spotters for your people. It is well concealed and the Alliance mercenaries will not know where you will be firing from.”

Kenny nodded, “Works for me.” He said.

Tareif looked at him. “Why are you helping us?” He asked. “Your encampment is destroyed; many of your people are dead. We have been at war with the Alliance for decades. This is not your fight.”

Kenny’s eyes hardened. “It’s our fight now sir. And once the Skipper gets back... I got a feeling these Alliance assholes are going to regret we ever came back to the surface.”

Tareif shuddered inwardly at the man’s words, but nodded his head. “Then we should prepare quickly.” He spoke.

THE WASTES

Dysea’s eyes were half closed in passion, her breath coming in long slow gasps, her chest rising and falling as she tried to regain control of her racing heart. She could feel Tarifa’s soft lips slowly kissing their way back up her supple body, her hands roaming gently over her still painfully erect nipples. What she had just experienced was unlike anything she had ever felt. Unlike Tarifa, Dysea had never been captured and raped by Alliance troops; she was far too skilled a warrior for that to happen. And while Tarifa had allowed more than a handful of male elves to take her to bed, Dysea had had only three lovers in her lifetime. None of the male elves who had shared her bed did so more than once, and Dysea had forgotten them within a week. She was sexually very inexperienced, and until this day had never even entertained the thought of allowing a man, let alone a woman to do what Tarifa had just done to her.

Tarifa was just as overwhelmed as her lover. She had been able to pull her own fatigues off before her own passion had soaked her pants, and now she was just as naked as Dysea was before her. She took her time trailing small kisses back up the firm stomach of the Queen of the Wood Elves, allowing her hands to roam over Dysea’s beautiful tits while she softly kissed and licked her satiny skin. She was attempting to compile her thoughts about what had just happen, and allowing her own body to cool her passions. With Martin being the lone exception, Tarifa had never willingly given pleasure orally to another person. With Martin, she had desired to suck his huge cock almost more than she could stand, and he had rewarded her with his delicious tasting cum. Dysea had produced the same effect in Tarifa, the desire to please her partner with her mouth, and Dysea had also rewarded her with her sweet tasting cum.

That she had so willingly and happily lapped away at another woman’s cunt surprised Tarifa, but she had cum as well while drinking Dysea’s delicious juices, and no one had to touch her for that to happen. Tarifa spent several moments swirling her tongue around Dysea’s hard nipples, drawing soft gasps from her. Slowly, with an almost embarrassed look on her face, she pressed her naked body against Dysea’s warm flesh and looked into her beautiful face.

“Dy... Dysea... I... I’m sorry.” Tarifa spoke unable to meet her eyes. “I... I don’t know what came over me. I’ve... I’ve never done that before.”

Dysea looked at Tarifa’s flawless face, her eyes heavy in the aftermath of her crushing orgasm. She reached up slowly and let her fingers caress Tarifa’s moist lips, noticing that her juices glistened on her lips and a small portion of her cheeks.

“You... you have never done that before?” Dysea asked more than a little shocked.

Tarifa shook her head slowly, “Never.”

“Then... then how...”

“It... it just seemed like the right thing to do.” Tarifa told her, finally looking into her beautiful eyes. Dysea’s emerald orbs were very bright and alive. “It is... it is what Martin does to me.”

Dysea’s eyes opened a little wider. “Martin... Martin pleasures you like that?” She asked astonished.

Tarifa nodded with a smile, inching her supple body further up Dysea’s lush figure until their breasts were pressed together. “He is the only one to have ever kissed me too. Well... that number now includes you. He is very good at it.” She said wistfully. “Much better than I am.”

“Better?” Dysea asked stunned. The orgasm that Tarifa had produced from her was enough to leave her seeing stars and Tarifa was now telling her Martin was better.

Tarifa's embarrassment was rapidly leaving her as she reached out and ran her finger across Dysea's soft lower lip. "Oh yes, much better. You taste wonderful by the way." She leaned over quickly and pressed her lips to Dysea's in a heated kiss, her heart singing when Dysea quickly responded with no hesitation.

Dysea returned Tarifa's kiss without pause, and she could taste herself on Tarifa's lips and tongue. It caused her body to become even more aroused, and she surrendered to the feelings that this beautiful woman was causing in her. Her arms went around Tarifa's back, pulling her closer and feeling her breasts press harder against her own. Like Tarifa, Dysea had never been kissed before, and Tarifa's kisses were igniting parts of her body and mind that Dysea had never known existed.

Tarifa pulled their lips apart almost reluctantly and stared into her lover's now fiery green eyes. "I... I have something that belongs to you." Tarifa spoke softly, smiling at her.

Dysea's eyes filled with confusion. "What... what do you mean?" She asked. Dysea stared into Tarifa's bright eyes at her words and she felt all her passions, all her desires come forth. If someone had told her a few short weeks ago that she would be lying on the ground with the glorious and naked body of the Queen of the High Elves spread across her equally nude form, Dysea would have cut their tongue out on the spot.

Dysea's eyes went wide and her head turned to see Martin's head drop to her abdomen and his tongue extended to lick her stomach and tickle the emerald navel piercing she had. His arms held his powerful upper body away from her, his lower body between her naked legs, and then she felt his massive cock drag across her diamond ringed pierced clit and Dysea's body arched off the blanket as she howled in the explosive orgasm.

Dysea's hands went to his shoulders as his lips descended to her right nipple and she screamed as every thick pulsing inch of his huge cock dragged across her engorged clit and sent massive shudders through her body as she was rocked by a stream of almost violent orgasms. The piercing of her clit had been done at her mother's suggestion to try and increase her sexual pleasure. Her mother had conducted the procedure, and even though she had taken two of her three lovers after the procedure, it had never lived up to what her mother said it could be.

That was until this very moment.

Her eyes were frozen wide open as she felt Tarifa engulf her left nipple into her warm mouth and suck hard. Dysea grabbed Martin's head in her hands as he dragged his throbbing cock back down across her clit, her juices thoroughly soaking his thick shaft and the blanket beneath her. Her head tossed back and forth, her pierced clit sending streaks of pleasure slicing through every part of her body. When she no longer felt his cock touching her spasming pussy, her eyes went to his face and saw that his fangs were fully extended and his eyes had changed to yellow orbs within a black outline. He looked down on her, his strong hands holding her hips, her chest heaving in orgasmic bliss as Tarifa continued to suckle at her breasts. She watched him lean over, Tarifa moving out of the way and he stretched his body out atop hers. He held himself above her, his face inches from her and he lowered his lips to hers and kissed her. Dysea's wide eyes closed slowly in euphoric bliss as Martin kissed her more intensely than even Tarifa had. His tongue danced with hers in a sensuous tango within their mouths, her arms wrapping around his shoulders. She felt another orgasm building within her just from his kiss and she whimpered into his mouth as it hit her, her fingers digging into his skin.

Martin kissed her deeply until the orgasm had past, and then he broke their kiss, his tongue playfully teasing her upper lip as he looked at her beautiful face. He waited for her eyes to open slowly and then he reached forward and brushed some of her platinum hair from her eyes.

"I... I will stop now!" He gasped between clenched teeth. "I will... I will stop if you are not certain Dysea."

Dysea was astonished at his words. He had just triggered two orgasms more powerful than the one Tarifa had given her, and that was simply by dragging his enormous cock across her drenched pussy and giving her a toe curling kiss. She glanced between their bodies and saw his thick cock poised at the entrance of her dripping cunt. She was more excited at this very moment than she had ever been in her life, her pussy literally drooling with her cum. She had never seen a cock that was so large and thick, and she wondered briefly if he would even be able to get it all inside her. She looked back to his face, her emerald eyes ablaze with passion and need. Tarifa had awakened within her feelings and sensations she had never thought possible, and hearing Martin tell her he would stop if she was not certain only confirmed what her heart was already telling her.

Dysea glanced at Tarifa who was stretched out alongside them, her hands lazily stroking Dysea's shoulder and arm. Her sapphire eyes were bright with desire and affection, her lips moist and pouty.

Dysea turned back to Martin and nodded her head, her hands dropping to his powerful biceps as he lifted his body off her and grasped her hips tighter. She gasped when the large head pressed against her pussy lips and her mouth opened in surprise and delight when she felt him pull her closer and sink nearly half his throbbing cock inside her and stop. Dysea's nails dug into his arms as she felt every thick pulsing vein stretch her pussy beyond anything she had ever experienced. Martin had only half his huge shaft inside her, and already it was more than any of the lovers she had taken in the past.

"By... by the gods," She gasped in between shallow breaths. "It... it is so... so big!"

Tarifa smiled and leaned close to her face, allowing her tongue to run across Dysea's cheek. "He's amazing... isn't he?" She whispered in Dysea's ear, the tip of her tongue playfully flicking at the edge of Dysea's elf ears. "And he is all yours now Dysea. Though... I do hope you will share from time to time."

Dysea's wide eyes looked at her newfound lover's beautiful face and she turned her head wanting nothing more than to share a kiss with Tarifa. Martin didn't give her the chance. Dysea's body once more arched off the blanket and she screamed in glorious rapture as Martin slid the last six inches of his huge throbbing cock into her exceptionally tight pussy and sent Dysea over the edge of the abyss when she felt his extremely hot and cum filled balls nestled against her upturned ass cheeks. When she felt Tarifa lower her head slowly and engulf her maddeningly hard nipple within the grasp of her soft warm lips, Dysea erupted in the most will crushing and indescribable orgasm of her young life.

Martin leaned forward, the muscles in his neck and shoulders straining in exertion as he held himself still completely buried within Dysea's wonderfully tight and hot pussy. Pleasure seethed through his veins on a staggering level, unlike anything he had yet experienced with the exception of once. Dysea's legs were locked around his hips, her nails drawing blood from his skin as she withered beneath him in the grips of a powerful orgasm. Martin could feel her juices exploding from her, coating his buried cock and leaking out the sides of her stuffed pussy down their lower abdomens. He lowered his head next to Tarifa's and took Dysea's other nipple within his lips and sucked hard, gently biting the nipple with his extended fangs. He felt her body shudder in another intense orgasm; her head thrust back, her eyes tightly shut and the muscles in her neck straining. It was far too much for him to endure. Her pussy clamped down on his massive cock in the same fashion that Tarifa's cunt did, milking his throbbing pole with her velvet like heat. Martin's head came up and he growled in release as his cock expanded within the grip of her clutching pussy and he erupted within her depths.

Dysea's eyes nearly exploded from her head and she screamed out her pleasure as she felt Martin's cock grow even larger within her and explode. His massive cock was reaching into her womb, further than she thought possible, and the pleasure that was ripping through her was nothing like she could have possibly imagined. When she felt the first powerful blast of his cum inside her she did the only thing she could think of and she let go, allowing the incredible and staggering sensations to envelope her completely. She cried out in surprise and joy when his arms slid under her waist, pulling her tightly against his hard body and he rolled over quickly causing her to sink even further onto his erupting cock. Her hands went to his powerful abdomen and she held on for dear life as his erupting cock unleashed even more cum into her belly. Her eyes sprang open when she heard Tarifa squeal, and she watched in passionate awe as Tarifa lowered her dripping pussy over Martin's face. In her passion clouded mind, Dysea could only gaze at the woman who had triggered this release of emotions within her. She watched as Tarifa braced herself with her hands on Martin's chest and she thrust her hips down hard on Martin's face. The blissful look on Tarifa's face told Dysea that she was cumming and cumming hard. She could see Martin's tongue lapping away at Tarifa's pussy, the thin line of black hair above her clit soaked in Martin's salvia and her own juices.

Dysea acted without thinking and reached for Tarifa, taking her head in her hands. Tarifa's eyes opened wide as Martin's finger slipped into her virgin ass once again and she could not hold back anymore. She opened her mouth to scream out her pleasure but found Dysea's warm delicious tasting tongue plunging down her throat for a soul stealing kiss. Tarifa shuddered in another explosive orgasm, her juices pouring out of her and into Martin's talented mouth. Her eyes slowly closed in blissful release as Martin's tongue once more brought her up to and over the edge. As she returned Dysea's kiss with equal passion and feeling, she smiled inwardly knowing what Dysea was about to experience.

Dysea was lost now, immersed in passion and pleasure beyond her imagination. In the back of her mind she was thinking it could not get any better than this. That was until she felt Martin's thick pulsing cock expand within her again. He was even deeper within her now that she was on top of him, and her pussy held him in such a tight grasp that she felt his cum boil up through his entire length, the veins in his cock pressing against the walls of her cunt. She felt Tarifa break their kiss quickly and then her body lifted off Martin's face, allowing him to roll over suddenly, clutching Dysea to him possessively and as he pinned her to the soft ground under them, he slammed into her one final time.

Dysea felt Martin explode within her like a volcano, his hot cum filling her belly once more. Her hands went to her flat abdomen in stunned shock as she felt his cum warm her, and her body responded in kind. The muscles in her body strained almost painfully as her own orgasm ripped through her, stealing away her ability to even scream out her joy. She wrapped her arms around his massive shoulders, Martin's face burying into the hollow of her throat, Dysea reaching for anything to hold onto as her eyes rolled into the back of her head. Martin pulled her tighter to him, crushing her against his body and to Dysea it was the most wonderful thing he had yet done. As these thoughts flashed through her mind, the red haired human female flashed through her vision as well and then she lost her conscious self to the pleasures she was experiencing.

MOUNTAIN CITY

Tareif moved to one of the last heavy mortar positions on the north side of the city and saw his men struggling to align the mortar into its final firing position. He looked up and saw the gaping hole in the tree branches above the position and asked himself if this was really going to work. The genome Hunter had seemed so certain that it would, and as much as Tareif found himself not liking the man, he quietly prayed that his military tactics were sound.

The mortar officer looked up from his computer panel. "We are ready War Master!" He announced.

Tareif turned to the young elf behind him with the large radio on his back. There had not been time for the genomes to distribute the communications implants for his mortar crews and he was going to have to talk with them the old fashion way.

"Inform all crews I want the first barrage to contain a mixture of White Phosphorous and High Explosive!" Tareif ordered.

The young elf began speaking rapidly into the radio hand set as Tareif's ear implant cackled to life.

"War Master our snipers are getting into position." Kenneth's voice sounded.

"Tell me what they see!" Tareif barked.

"Sniper lead, switch to channel nineteen and give us a god's view," Kenneth spoke.

Tareif heard some small static and another voice joined the channel. "We're in position two point six miles east of the mercenaries. We have nice elevation and a clear field of fire. It looks like they are preparing to fire a battery of 105mm pieces of the towed type." The female voice reported. "Check that! They're firing!"

Tareif looked up at the booming sound and within seconds twelve explosions tore up the ground a hundred meters in front of the main defensive wall. Trees were blown into deadly splinters and slashed through the air, slamming into the concrete and wood wall.

"They do not have us ranged yet!" Tareif yelled, not realizing that with his lip mic he didn't need to shout. "They must have spotters! Find them!"

"Sweeping," The sniper leader spoke calmly.

"Got them," Another voice announced a moment later. "Two FOs, two clicks forward of the battery using long eyes to walk the rounds in."

"Kill them!" Tareif snapped.

"Roger! Stand by!"

The elf spotter glanced at the male genome who stared down the huge telescopic sight on top of the 20mm sniper rifle. His head was injured, dried blood staining the side of his face and neck, but it was slowly healing.

"The range is two point nine miles." He said. "Can you hit them from here?"

The genome grinned savagely. “They’re already dead.” He growled.

The elf brought the binoculars back to his eyes and focused on the two spotters that were watching the defensive wall of Mountain City from behind the thick tree. He flinched when the 20mm rifle next to him exploded once and his eyes grew wide when the spotter on the right of the tree pitched forward brutally, a fine red mist spraying all over his partner announcing his head being blown apart. There was a three second pause as the second spotter began to turn and look for an enemy. The second explosion next to him did not cause him to flinch and he saw the 20mm sniper round punch into the chest of the remaining spotter, lifting his body completely in the air and tossing him violently against the tree he was using for cover.

“Targets eliminated.” The sniper spoke calmly. He turned to look at the elf next to him and saw the male elf grinning madly.

“Perhaps you will teach me to use this weapon.” He asked.

The genome grinned as well. “It’s always nice to meet someone who appreciates an art form.” He said.

Tareif heard the sniper confirm the killing of the spotters and then the female voice came onto the channel once more.

“Sniper Lead to War Master Tareif, give me the green light sir, and I’ll start taking down targets of opportunity starting with obvious officers. We can make them regret they ever set foot in this part of the woods!”

“Permission granted!” Tareif told her with a smile on his lips.

“War Master, all mortar crews are ready to fire!” The young elf radio operator announced.

“Fire!” Tareif yelled without hesitation.

The mercenary commander stood next to his armored command vehicle listening to his artillery officer scream into his radio. He looked at his commander.

“Spotters aren’t responding!” He yelled.

The commander looked skyward when he heard at least thirty low booms. He knew that sound well and stepped away from his vehicle. “They’re firing mortars!” He yelled.

“That’s impossible!” The artillery officer spoke. “They can’t cover this part of the valley from their city!”

The first explosion proved how wrong he was. The 120mm mortar landed only ten meters from where he stood behind the first gun in his battery and his body disappeared in the blink of an eye as the High Explosive round shredded his body and everything within its fifty meter kill radius into tiny pieces, including the gun he was closest to and the entire crew.

The mercenary commander could only stand in horror as nearly all thirty mortar rounds landed with unerring accuracy and immolated his entire battery of artillery. Almost before the last explosions shredded what remained of his guns, another series of low booms filled the sky. The commander’s eyes went wide in terror as he saw his men stretched out before him, their eyes filled with uncertainty and fear as they looked at what remained of their artillery battalion. They had never been fired upon by heavy guns, and the booming explosions and screams of the dying had frozen most of them in their spots.

And that is where they died.

Tareif turned his head when he heard the loud crack from far above his head announcing that the Raptor on that corner of the high platforms had found a target for its sabot cannon and fired.

“Pour it on!” The voice of the sniper came through his ear piece. “You elf bastards are awesome with those mortars! Drop fifty and fire for effect! You’re tearing them a new asshole!”

Tareif grinned in spite of himself. He knew the derogatory term towards his mortar teams was meant as a compliment and he took it as such. He turned to his radio operator.

“Drop fifty and fire for effect!” He barked. “All crews! Alternate WP and HE rounds! Prepare the Dragoons for a counter attack! I want prisoners!”

The radio operator smiled as he lifted the hand set.

THE WASTES

Dysea finished lacing up her combat boot and sat back up slowly. She gazed at Martin squatting on the rocks twenty meters away as she and Tarifa finished dressing. He had elected to leave his fatigue top off and wear only the t-shirt and combat vest. His head was tilted at an angle as if he was trying to catch a scent. She let her eyes linger on the superbly defined muscles in his arms and shoulders, as well as the way his tattoos highlighted them. She could still hardly believe that only a short time ago, she was wrapped in those powerful arms and screaming her head off in indescribable pleasure.

Dysea smiled as she felt Tarifa come up behind her and lace her arms around her waist, placing her chin on her shoulder.

“He’s beautiful isn’t he?” Her soft voice filled her ear.

Dysea nodded her head and felt the wonderful soreness between her thighs that told her he was not only the most beautiful man she had ever seen, he had fucked her senseless with a cock bigger than any she had ever seen. She turned her head slightly and gazed into the sapphire eyes of her other lover. It had been Tarifa who had opened the door to what she was feeling now.

“I... I still can not believe we actually did what we did.” She said softly.

Tarifa’s eyes narrowed slightly. “Dysea you don’t regret it do you?” She asked softly, her voice carrying a tone of worry.

Dysea shook her head quickly turning to face her, “Oh by the gods Tarifa no!” She spoke, taking Tarifa’s hand and pulling it to her cheek. “It was the most pleasurable experience of my life, every single moment. And I want... I want it to happen again and again.”

Tarifa smiled. “Well that is music to my ears.” She saw the look on Dysea’s face and reached up to caress her cheek. “What troubles you then?” Tarifa asked.

“What... what does this mean for us; for you?” Dysea asked. “Martin... he...”

Tarifa smiled gently. “What Martin and I have shared will remain with me always.” She told her. “But you are the one he truly wants Dysea of the Wood Elves. I could see it by the way he held you so tightly and the way his body responded to yours.”

“I... I do not wish to... take him from you Tarifa.” Dysea spoke quickly.

Tarifa smiled and she kissed her softly. “You can not take from me what was never mine in the first place.” She said. “I do not understand it completely, but what Martin and I have shared was exquisite, but we both know it was not permanent. You are meant for him, and the two of you will not be alone... and I... I was meant for another.”

“But I... I want to... I want to do this again.” Dysea spoke shyly, still coming to grips with what they had shared.

Tarifa smiled. “And we will, for as long as you and Martin will have me.”

“What of... what of the Elders?” Dysea spoke. “They will... they will not approve of this thing we have discovered.”

“Why not?” Tarifa asked.

“Do you think your Council of Elders will accept it?” Dysea asked. “I know mine will not; at least not initially.”

“Dysea... like you, I want this to happen again. Being with... Martin has opened me to new things... and I have promised myself to not ignore what I desire any longer.” Tarifa spoke.

“I do as well.” Dysea told her. “We will have to break this to everyone easily. Now that I have found Martin, I will not lose him. Or the pleasure you have shown me that we can share. We must proceed carefully. You know this better than I.”

Tarifa sighed heavily and nodded. “I know. As much as it pains me to say, it will shock my parents to the core to know about what we have shared.”

Dysea looked at her shaking her head. "My... my mother will adore him." She said with a smile. "My people are not as... we are not as close minded when it comes to our sexuality." She said. "And when... when she sees Martin..."

Tarifa smiled. "I would like to be there to see that."

Dysea leaned over and kissed her tenderly. "Perhaps it will be something you will witness Tarifa of the High Elves, Tarifa... my friend."

"Ladies..." Martin's voice broke into their thoughts. "We need to go before our friends start to wonder what happened to us."

They both turned to see him gazing at them with his liquid dark brown eyes, though only Dysea felt the surge of love those eyes projected race through her. It was as if Martin wrapped her in some invisible blanket that overflowed with his essence and love for her, and it surrounded her with soothing warmth and comfort. They got to their feet, pulling on the small packs.

"Then let us get moving." Dysea said.

The Alliance Captain looked at the smoldering wreckage of the Raptor as several of his troops sifted through the remains, his ebony skin glistening in the sun, his burning amber eyes alert. His white hair was cut short all around, exposing the three inch long elfin ears, and the fact that he was a Drow elf. He turned as his second in command walked up. The female officer was nearly as tall as his six foot two with the same dark skin and dark amber eyes, but her long hair was flowing white in color, and braided on either side of her stunning face, only the tips and upper portion of her elfin ears sticking through the long hair.

"Nothing is salvageable sir." She spoke confidently. "What the genomes did not destroy, the acid storm that passed through here did."

The Captain nodded. "Is there any sign of bodies?"

The Lieutenant shook her head. "No sir, none that we can detect."

"Then everyone survived the crash." The Captain spoke.

"It would appear that way sir. That they were able to get this far with the damage they had speaks volumes of the skills of the pilot." The Lieutenant said.

The Captain nodded. "Indeed it does." He said. "The information the Colonel gave to us gives us a small description of the skills and abilities of these genomes. If they are even half of what the report says they are; they will make formidable opponents."

"Do you think that they... could they be..." The female started to speak.

The Captain looked at her. "We will not know that until we meet them Lynwe... you know this as well as I."

The female nodded slowly. "I know Tari... but it does not fill me with the greatest of comfort knowing we may well be seeking the very thing we should fear the most."

The man nodded. "Yes... I know what you mean."

"The cockpit took heavy damage from the missile strike sir." The Lieutenant said. "If they made it this far it stands to reason the pilot survived, but is injured."

The Captain nodded. "Even with injured members in their party these Genomes would still be able to move faster than you or I." He spoke. "They must have found shelter from the storm, and would have had to remain there until it was over. That gave them twelve hours minimum to rest and recover from wounds. Elves and Genomes have much faster healing abilities as you know. Have the company spread out in a five mile perimeter. Look for caves or buildings where they could have found shelter. And dispatch a patrol to Crawford to the north. They could have easily covered the distance to the ruins there since the storm."

"There is an Acid Nomad encampment four miles to our north. Their scouts have been following us for the last three hours." The Lieutenant spoke.

"Yes... I saw them some time ago. They will not attack us due to our size. Keep the men together and have each patrol equipped with a heavy machine gun. We will set up our base camp here and use this point as our pivot to conduct our search." The Captain said.

"Do you think that the Elf Queens are with this group as well?" The Lieutenant asked.

"That is what the report stated."

“What do we do if we find them Tari?”

The Captain looked at her. He reached up ran his hand through his short hair. His amber eyes scanned the desolate terrain all around them. “We will cross that bridge when we come to it.” He replied. “My hope is that they will accept us for what we are.”

“And if they do not?”

“We can not go back Lynwe.” The Captain spoke, turning to look at her. “We have struggled for too long and endured too much to go back.”

“If they do not accept us Tari, then we shall survive on our own as we have in the past.” The female elf replied.

The Captain nodded. “Order the men to discard their Alliance uniforms Lynwe. I have no desire to be set upon by either the High Elves or the Wood Elves due to our dress. Have the patrol moving to Crawford keep them on until they return, just in case there are Alliance sympathizers within the ruins of the city.”

“I will see to it.” The female replied.

CRAWFORD

Anja stepped up to where Danny stood to the side of the window frame. They had reached Crawford with little trouble, bypassing the Acid Nomad camp and moving into the ruins to occupy the four story building at the northern edge of the town. Julie was on the roof trying to establish communications with their encampment near the Elves Mountain City, the others spread out in defensive positions, but staying out of the sun and resting.

“How are you doing Danny?” Anja asked him.

Danny looked at her with his dark eyes and smiled. “I’m good.” He replied.

“Danny I’m sure Martin is fine.” Anja said reaching up and putting her hand on his chest affectionately.

Dan smiled. “I ain’t worried about the Skipper.” He told her. “This place just gives me the creeps. I hate ghost towns, they make my skin crawl.”

“I didn’t realize you were afraid of anything.” Anja said with a smile.

“Who me? Shit Red, my own shadow scares me sometimes.” Dan replied, matching her smile. “That’s why I like being in the middle of you and Jules at night. I feel safe.”

Anja chuckled and leaned up on her tip toes and kissed him softly. “We’ll protect you Danny. I promise.” She said.

“You’d better.” Dan told her, dropping his hand and squeezing her waist.

Anja moved away from him and back into the shade of the building. She made her way over to where Walter sat eating the remains of a power bar and settled to the floor next to him. “Doctor Carson, how are you holding up?” She asked.

“Quite well Commander considering my age, thank you for asking.” Walter replied. He saw her glance back to where Danny stood and then turn back to him. “Forgive me for being so forward Commander Peterson, but I’ve noticed that you seem to have a unique relationship with Daniel and Julie.”

Anja met his eyes and smiled. “It is unique.” She told him.

“You are... you are lovers aren’t you, lovers with both of them?” Walter asked.

Anja nodded her head, finding she was completely unashamed of what she felt for Julie and Danny now. Anja felt free and unrestrained for the first time in her life, and it was a very welcome feeling. “Yes we are.” She answered.

Walter smiled. “That is very interesting.” He said.

“Why is that?” Anja asked him.

“I was aware of their relationship before all this happened.” Walter said evenly. “I knew they were very fond of each other, but I did not expect them to have remained together for so long. I think perhaps you have extended that somewhat.”

Anja smiled and looked once more at Danny’s tall muscular form. She felt the small surge of pleasure course through her, though it was no where near as strong as when she first entered into the relationship with them, and that told her that while what they shared was very pleasurable, it was not what she was seeking.

“They are very special.” She said softly. “In more ways than I can begin to explain. They have opened my eyes to many things I would not have seen before; or... or things that I wasn’t willing to see.”

“You are speaking of your feelings for Martin?” Walter spoke.

Anja looked at him surprised. “Does everyone know of that?” She asked.

Walter chuckled. “Martin has very few friends Anja, as you no doubt have noticed. They are like a family... a pack if you will, since I understand you know what they are capable of.”

Anja nodded. “I saw it on EDEN.” She said softly. “It was surprising to say the least.” “Yes I’m sure it was.” Walter spoke.

“Doctor Carson would you tell me...” Anja began.

Walter smiled. “Please... it’s just Walter.”

“Walter it is then.” Anja said. “My specialty is genetic engineering, the same as yours.” She explained. “It was never known that Martin and Danny and the others could change like they do. Why is that?”

“It was known.” Walter told her. “There were only four people that had that information however. If that information had been common knowledge, do you think they would have allowed Marty and the others to survive?”

Anja shook her head. “No I don’t believe they would have.” She answered immediately.

Walter nodded. “You are correct.” He said. “Their ability to change did not manifest itself until they were all in their late teens. Martin discovered it first. That ability saved their lives on countless missions. With the exception of one or two changes in their appearance, all of them can control it extremely well.”

“One of those exceptions is their teeth I take it.” Anja asked.

Walter nodded. “There was nothing we could do to hide their teeth. Eventually we just said it was due in part to the animal DNA.”

Anja nodded slowly. “It... it scared the hell out of me.”

Walter nodded. “I do know the feeling.” He said. “I nearly lost control of my bladder when Martin first showed me. It’s amazing really. They have incredible strength and stamina to begin with, but when they initiate a change it increases by a factor of ten. They all seem to have the uncanny ability to control the length of their fangs, if you will, in the midst of heated engagements or moments of stress or...”

“Passion?” Anja said.

Walter looked at her and smiled slowly. “Yes.”

“And that’s why I wasn’t able to tell before I saw them change?” Anja said.

“I would hazard a guess and say they did not want to frighten you considering what you apparently share with them.” Walter said.

“Is it possible for them to... to pass on their DNA?” Anja asked almost shyly.

Walter knew immediately what she was talking about. He shook his head quickly. “I am pretty sure you mean through the exchange of bodily fluids and the answer is no. That’s not possible. We tried it in the lab hundreds of times and nothing ever came of it.” He looked at her. “Have you discovered something to the contrary?”

Anja shook her head. “No. I guess it was just a worry in the back of my mind.” She told him.

Walter smiled. “Well it’s not something you should be concerned with.” He spoke. “The Alliance on the other hand has been able to do some things that are positively horrible with my work. I have files in the Mountain City archives if you would care to review them sometime.”

Anja nodded. “Yes I would.”

Walter nodded. “Good. If you’ll excuse me Anja... the walking has tired me out more than I thought. I haven’t had this much exercise in quite some time.”

Anja smiled and watched as he settled to the floor against the pack and closed his eyes. Anja got up and went to where her pack was, settling to the floor as well. She looked around quickly before turning her head to the side. She reached up to touch her canine teeth and she concentrated as hard as she could.

Anja smiled as she felt her canine teeth slowly lengthen to almost a quarter of an inch. She felt a surge of power within her body, and for a few moments all of her senses became more alive and sensitive. She inhaled deeply during that brief moment and detected the scents of everyone within the small room. She did not yet want to reveal that she was changing, more because it frightened her than anything else. It was not what she had expected. The enhanced senses she could detect right away, but it was the surge of power and the dreams she had that frightened her now. Her mind seemed like it had opened in a whole new way, and if she concentrated enough, she thought she could almost hear voices within her head. Whatever was happening to her... it also made her realize that no matter how much she tried to discount it, she felt her desire for Martin was growing stronger as each day went by. He was pulling her to him, and he was filling her dreams and thoughts. And with him in those dreams and thoughts was the breathtaking platinum blond female elf they had rescued.

Martin stepped out onto the sidewalk behind the black Alliance soldier and drove the blade of his knife into the back of the man's skull. His body went rigid and then immediately flopped to the ground. The sound of his weapon dropping to the concrete caused the remaining four Alliance troops in the patrol to spin around their amber eyes going wide at what they saw. There were three bodies laying half in and half out of the doorways they had passed so far, blood staining the ground. Martin's blade was coated red, his fangs fully extended and his eyes had changed to the yellow and black orbs.

The remaining four Alliance troops began to bring their weapons up in a last ditch effort to save their lives. It did them no good.

The window to their left had been shattered hundreds of years before, and that window now filled with Dysea's figure, her hands filled with her dual fighting knives. They were intricately carved blades that she had thought lost at the encampment. Martin had returned them to her before they had left the underground cavern and made their way to Crawford. As she launched herself at the two closest Alliance troops, the last soldier in the file was bringing his weapon to bear on her. He never got the chance to pull the trigger as Tarifa appeared from behind him and drove her knife into his back. He dropped his assault rifle and screamed, trying to clutch his lower back. Tarifa nimbly used his body as a pivot, her black hair whipping about as she flipped over his slumping figure and landed in front of him. His amber eyes met hers and filled with fear as he saw that her canine teeth had lengthened into nearly inch long fangs. Tarifa hit him in the chest with a straight open palm that crushed four of his ribs and drove splinters from those broken ribs into his lungs and heart. Blood splashed from between his lips as he dropped to his knees, his head falling forward to meet Tarifa's rising boot. His head snapped back viciously and Tarifa heard his neck pop like a gunshot. His body flipped completely over and he landed with a sickening thud ten meters away from her. Tarifa stood there in shock at what she had just accomplished. Elves were well known as being stronger and faster than humans, but what she had just accomplished was beyond anything she had done before.

Dysea had leaped out of the window, her blades flashing to either side of her. She felt both of them bite into flesh as she executed a perfect roll away from the two soldiers and came to her feet whirling around. One of the soldiers was holding his throat, his blood arcing into the air in powerful squirts from where her blade had sliced cleanly through his jugular vein. It took half a second for her to determine he was out of the fight and she turned her attention to the second soldier who was clutching his shoulder. He had turned further than his partner and her blade had only cut deeply into his shoulder, but it was deep enough to slice through the muscles in that arm and render it useless. He tried to grip his rifle with his free arm, his eyes wide in terror and trying to bring the weapon up. Dysea spun around, still in her crouch and drove one of her blades into his gut just as his chest exploded. Her head snapped around quickly and she saw the large black genome from Martin's group step from around the corner. She heard the soldier's body hit the ground and she turned and watched Martin throw the last member of the patrol into the unyielding concrete of the five hundred plus year old building. The soldier's head impacted the wall with enough force to crush his skull, and his body slumped to the ground, blood and brain matter staining the wall as he slid to a sitting position, his eyes frozen open in death.

"Damn Skipper!" Danny spoke as he walked up. "It took you long enough to get here!"

Martin looked at him and smiled his eyes and fangs instantly disappearing and returning to normal. "We... we got a little sidetracked." He replied.

Danny's eyes went a tiny bit wider as he detected the faint scent of both Tarifa and Dysea all over his commander and friend as he walked up to him. A huge grin split his face. "Ok... well at least the delay was important." He said. "Jules was able to string an antenna and cut through the radiation. Kenny's sending a Raptor to pick us up. The encampment was attacked Skipper, and your city Tarifa."

Martin and Tarifa both looked at him intently, "Casualties?" Martin asked.

Dan shook his head. "Kenny didn't say, but from the sound of his voice Jules doesn't think it's good."

“These are Drow!” Dysea spoke now, toeing one of the dead bodies with her boot, her voice surprised. “I thought the Drow had been wiped out.”

Tarifa nodded and knelt next to one of the bodies. “They wear the uniform of the Alliance’s elite scouts.” She spoke looking at her.

“This is important I take it?” Martin asked.

“The Alliance destroyed the Drow over a hundred years ago. Or at least we thought they did.” Dysea spoke turning to look at him.

“Well they came in from the south.” Martin spoke. “And that means they came from the direction of the crash.”

Dysea looked at him. “And that means someone told them the general area where your craft went down.”

Tarifa looked at them, her fangs now retracted. “The Alliance Assassins who fired the missiles must have tracked us.” She said.

Martin shook his head. “A general position maybe, but if they had a solid fix on us we wouldn’t be standing here talking.” He looked at Danny. “How soon before Kenny gets that Raptor here?”

“We contacted him just before these bozos showed up. He said he’d have us extracted within the hour.” Dan replied. “I got the others on the north end of the town standing by.”

Martin nodded. “Let’s get these bodies off the street and link up with the others.” He said.

Dan nodded and reached down to haul two of the bodies up and headed into the doorway closest to him. Tarifa and Dysea stepped up to Martin as he quickly searched the body next to him.

“Martin your... your friend?” Dysea asked with a small amount of embarrassment. “He could smell... he could smell Tarifa and I on you couldn’t he?”

Martin stood and looked at her. “I’d say that’s a pretty good guess.” He said smiling. He stepped up to her and leaned over to nuzzle her elf ear. He heard her sigh softly in delight, her hands going to his chest in surprise. “You do smell delightful when you are excited Melda Min.” (Beloved One in Elfin language)

Dysea blushed red and Tarifa took her hand with a girlish laugh. “Come with me Dysea,” She said seeing Dysea’s stunned expression at what Martin had called her. “Let us move these scum before he embarrasses you anymore.”

MOUNTAIN CITY

No one spoke as they stood on the platform high above Mountain City watching Martin walk among the bodies of the dead. They had been laid out reverently by the High Elves under orders of Tareif, each genome and human body cleaned of any blood and dirt and wrapped in silk cloth. Tony was on one knee by the body of a close friend, Julie sitting by the body of another, tears streaming down her cheeks. Danny stood behind her, his face a mask of unreadable emotion. The Dragoons who had fought beside them sternly guarded the three lifts to the platforms, allowing no one entry as the dead were mourned. There were two ranks of Dragoons standing silently behind Tareif as well, their mood somber and quiet. Tarifa was held in her mother’s arms, their eyes focused on where Martin slowly walked among the bodies.

Anja could no longer stand it seeing the dead men and women she had only just started to get to know, and with tears in her own eyes and she rushed forward to where Julie sat on the platform. As soon as Anja touched her, Julie burst into uncontrollable sobs and slipped into her arms. This in turn caused Danny to kneel behind them both and lay his head on Julie’s shoulder as the sobs could be seen wracking his body now.

“How... how did this happen?” Tarifa asked turning to her father, tears clouding her eyes.

“They had help.” Tareif replied turning to look at her. “They killed our scouts before they could report to us about the mercenary battalion that was moving through the mountains north of us. When we realized that we were about to be attacked, Kenneth issued an emergency evacuation, but the attack commenced almost immediately after he issued that order.”

“How could they have avoided our scouts and get so close to us without knowing our safe travel routes?” Tarifa asked.

“As I said daughter... they had help.” Tareif spoke.

“Find out who helped them!” Tarifa screamed startling both her mother and father. “I want to know who caused this! I want to know who among our people helped these butchers!”

Dysea turned from Tarifa’s verbal explosion, Leland holding her close. Her heart had sung with joy when she realized Leland and two others of her party had survived the attack. All that joy evaporated when they discovered what had happened. She could almost feel Martin’s pain from across the platform, and it washed over her unlike anything she had felt before. It was almost as if she could sense his emotions within her own mind, and she left Leland’s arms to go to him.

“No Dysea.” Walter’s voice stopped her. “This is something he must confront himself. He has never suffered so many losses in a single battle, and he will either conquer his demons, or he will succumb to them, but he must do this alone.”

“Holy One... he needs the support of those who...” Dysea stopped her eyes going a little wider as she realized what she was going to say.

Walter stepped up to her and smiled as he took her hands. “Yes... he will need the support of those who love and care for him.” He told her, his words carrying to all within range of his voice. What was stunning was when Tarifa stepped up next to Dysea and took her hand tightly in her own and they stood together, their bodies touching as they watched Martin.

They did not turn at the commotion by one of the lifts, nor did they notice when Ralao and Treblar burst through the mass of Dragoons with several other ministers in tow. Ralao’s face was a mask of anger and he unleashed it without regard for what was happening.

“I told you!” He exclaimed. “I warned you that this might happen!”

“Ralao now is not the time.” Treblar began to speak.

“Now is the time!” Ralao snapped. “They have brought this upon us! These half breed animals have brought this—”

Ralao’s words ended quickly when Dysea spun around in the blink of an eye and placed the barrel of the K12 directly to Ralao’s forehead.

“Another word Chief Minister and you will not take another breath!” Dysea growled.

It happened quickly and the Dragoons all around brought their weapons up and leveled them at the Queen of the Wood Elves. Tareif’s own pistol was leveled at her blond head and he snarled at her.

“Lower your weapon Wood Elf!” He growled. “You are within our lands now!”

Dysea didn’t take her eyes from Ralao’s face. “Do you think you can stop me from killing this dog before you take me down War Master Tareif?” She spoke the words firmly. “I don’t think so.”

“No Dysea” Tarifa’s soft voice filled her ears. The eyes of everyone in the area grew wide when Tarifa spoke and they watched her step in front of Dysea and reach up to touch her face gently. “Not this way Dysea. Remember what we spoke of.”

Dysea’s glaring emerald eyes went to Tarifa’s face and everyone saw the look of hostile intent immediately fade from her beautiful features. “I do this only for you Tarifa.” Dysea said softly. She reversed the K12 in an instant and Tarifa took the weapon from her hand.

Ralao immediately began again, even angrier than before. “Arrest this wench! Seize her immediately! She is the Queen of our enemy, and we allow her to defile our very city!”

Two Dragoons began to step forward but Tarifa’s voice stopped them in their tracks. “The one who lays a hand on her will be dead three seconds after.” She spoke in a menacing tone as she turned to face Ralao.

“Tarifa!” Palina gasped.

“Daughter what are you doing?” Tareif echoed his wife, his eyes wide.

“This wench and these half breed animals have brought ruin upon us!” Ralao barked out.

“They have brought hope!” Walter yelled turning to look at Ralao. “I see no ruin here! I see the bodies of those who fought to defend this city.”

“The mercenaries would not have come here if not for them!” Ralao screamed pointing at where Martin stood. “Three of our soldiers would not be dead if not for them!”

“I may be mistaken Chief Minister,” Tarifa stated. “But I see over three hundred of Martin’s dead stretched before us. Not High Elves!”

“It was only by the skill of your father that they did not attack the city itself!” Ralao barked at her. “The Alliance has never been this bold! That Wood Elf whore has led them directly to us!”

Tarifa glared at Ralao and stepped closer to him. "Call her by that name again Chief Minister and it will be I who kills you where you stand!"

Ralao's lips clamped shut in horror at her words. "You... you threaten me?" He gasped.

"It is not a threat Chief Minister." Tarifa told him. "It is a promise." She turned to look at Radama. "Radama... see to it that Dysea is provided quarters and every comfort we can provide. The same quarters will be available to Martin and the others as well."

Radama nodded his head without question. "It will be as you order my Queen." He told her. Radama bowed his head in respect to Dysea and motioned with his hand for her to precede him. Dysea smiled warmly at Tarifa before heading for the lift that would take her down.

"What are you doing?" Ralao asked as soon as the lift was descending, his eyes still wide.

"I'm acting like a Queen." Tarifa snapped back.

"You allow these animals to remain within our city? That puts us at extreme risk to further attacks!" Ralao exclaimed. "You endanger all of us!"

"So now the men and women who saved my life and the life of countless High Elves are animals?" Tarifa spoke.

"They have always been animals!" Ralao spoke. "I warned you this would happen! I told you this would happen!"

"Minister Treblar you will call a special session of the Council of Elders immediately." Tarifa ordered. "And you will remove this sniveling man from my presence before..."

"You have prisoners?" Martin's voice carried to them.

They turned and saw him standing directly behind them, his hands folded behind his back, his face a mask of calm. A mask that sent shivers down Tareif's spine.

Tareif nodded his head and motioned to the six humans who were kneeling behind the last rank of Dragoons, being guarded by four Dragoon Elves. "We questioned them." He spoke. "They know nothing and there are no officers among them."

Martin stepped around the Dragoons and they respectfully moved aside as he came up to look at the prisoners. His eyes searched the faces of the men as they stared defiantly back at him. Martin stopped in front of one of the men.

"This one is an officer." Martin spoke his eyes never leaving the man's face.

Tareif moved a little closer to him. "Impossible! We searched all of them!"

Martin reached down and touched the corners of the man's fatigue top. "If you look here you will see the holes from where he had his rank pinned on."

Some of the Dragoons murmured to each other as Tareif moved closer. "How can you be so sure?" He asked.

"I'm sure." Martin replied looking at the man. "Aren't I bub?"

"I will tell you nothing dog!" The man spat. "You are an elf lover! You are the thing we have..." The man's eyes bugged out of his head as Martin's hand closed around his throat and he lifted him from his kneeling position. The man clawed at the iron grip that was slowly squeezing the air from his lungs, his face beginning to turn blue.

"Who gave you the information you used to plan this attack?" Martin asked, pulling the man closer to him, his eyes turning to the yellow and black orbs. When the man saw this, he voided his bladder in his pants, soaking his legs as Martin's teeth extended to their full length. He shook his head madly, his fingers trying to pry Martin's grasp from his throat. "That is a shame." Martin spoke casually before turning and heaving the man's body across the platform where it disappeared over the edge. His scream echoed for several moments as he fell a over thousand feet to his death, and then there was silence.

Tareif stared at Martin wide eyed. "You said he was an officer!" Tareif barked. "Now we will learn nothing!"

"I learned a great deal." Martin spoke looking at the remaining five men. "Who would like to learn how to fly next?"

"I will not allow you to..." Tareif began but his words cut short as four of the remaining five men were all looking at the man third from the end.

Martin squatted in front of the man, his fangs giving his face an extremely frightening appearance. “That wasn’t very nice making your soldier wear your uniform to protect your sorry hide.”

“I will tell you nothing elf lover!” The man screamed. “I know who you are Martin Hunter!”

“See now that is where you are wrong.” Martin spoke calmly as he looked at the man. “You took part in an attack that killed almost three hundred innocent men, women and children; people who were under my care and protection. You took part in an attack that killed over half of my team; men and women who I consider to be my family. You will tell me absolutely everything I want to know friend, and unfortunately for you, you will not live to remember it.”

“Tarifa we must talk?” Palina spoke softly as she watched her daughter dress in her room.

“There is nothing to talk about mother.” Tarifa spoke as she pulled on the much more comfortable dress over her newly showered body.

“Tarifa this is your mother speaking to you.” Palina said. “I have never questioned what your heart has told you to do, but since you have met Martin, you are different.”

Tarifa looked at her. “Is that a bad thing mama?” She asked.

Palina stepped closer to her. “This Queen of the Wood Elves Tarifa; she is our enemy?”

“No mother.” Tarifa spoke calmly. “I have discovered many things while I have been gone. And the most important one is that Dysea is not and never has been our enemy. A point I am going to make to the Elders in a short time.”

“What is happening daughter?” Palina asked.

“We have traitors within our midst mother.” Tarifa spoke, “Traitors that have sold out our people, and Dysea’s people. They have been pitting us against each other from the start and the Alliance has been helping them.”

Palina looked at her, and knew from the expression on her daughter’s face that what she was telling her she believed deeply. Palina however could not grasp that idea, the idea that Elders on the Council would betray their people to the Alliance. She and Tarifa had never kept secrets from each other, and over the years it had made them become so much closer than just mother and daughter.

“Tarifa... you... you have proof of this?” Palina asked.

Tarifa nodded. “I do. And I will present it to the Elders. Dysea and I had a chance to talk while we were together. Our peoples have so much in common. The Wood Elves are not so unlike us mother. The Holy One knew this, which is why he guided Dysea to begin looking for answers that were not directly in front of her.”

“Tarifa I do not understand.” Palina said. “What are you trying to say?”

Tarifa met her eyes. “There is at least one Elder on our Council that is working with the Alliance, if not more than one. And the same can be said for Dysea’s Council of Elders as well.”

“This information you present is all very troubling Milady.” Treblar spoke.

Tarifa nodded as she looked at the Council seated before her. “Yes it is.” She spoke. “I was stunned to discover this is happening.”

Raloa looked up from the data pad he was reading. “This could very well be nothing more than an Alliance trick.” He stated calmly. “While I will grant you Milady that it is very provocative, no one is mentioned by name. Your investigations... which you conducted without the permission of this Council I might add... could they be tainted in any way? Perhaps the individuals you chose have themselves been tainted and have given you false information.”

Tarifa looked at him, maintaining control of her temper. Raloa was the traitor, of that she had little doubt, but she could not accuse him without proof. “That is extremely unlikely.” She replied evenly. “Yes I conducted the investigations without the Council’s permission, but then again they were concerning matters of military attacks against our people and therefore I was well within my rights to order them. The results are unequivocal in every way. No matter how it is displayed, the Wood Elves were not responsible for the attacks on our villages, and in fact Dysea has admitted her own investigations have concluded the same thing in regards to her villages that were attacked. Someone is playing our two peoples against each other. And they have had help in doing so.”

“Do you accuse one of us of such an act?” Raloa demanded.

“I accuse no one.” She replied. “What I want is a full investigation by this Council into this matter to determine who the traitor is.”

Thimina nodded. “I agree.” She said quickly.

“We can not begin investigations without cause.” Another Elder spoke now.

“This is not cause enough?” Treblar asked stupefied. “I too agree to an investigation. I also move that we reserve judgment or action on the presence of Dysea in Mountain City until such time as we have been able to conduct this investigation.”

“Word will get out that she is among us.” Another Elder spoke.

“Very few saw her on the upper platforms.” Treblar spoke again. “We can order the Dragoons to secrecy if we have too, and she will remain in the quarters she occupies until such time we are prepared to speak with her.”

Raloa nodded quickly Tarifa saw. “I will lead the investigation.” He spoke quickly, Tarifa opening her mouth to protest when she saw Thimina nod.

“I will co-lead the investigation.” Thimina spoke. “It must be quick but thorough.”

Tarifa was satisfied with that. She trusted Thimina to be accurate and trustworthy. “I wish to thank the Elders.” She spoke.

“We should thank you.” Treblar spoke. “For if there is a traitor among us... I want a piece of their hide as well.”

Tarifa smiled and nodded her head. Perhaps things would work out in her favor after all.

ONE WEEK LATER

Tarifa stared at the sweaty bodies of her two lovers on her bed with a contented smile. The past week had flown by and it had been filled with pleasure beyond anything she had experienced up until now. Though Dysea had been confined to the upper levels of Mountain City away from the eyes of the common High Elves who lived there, she had not remained inactive. Her days were filled with helping Martin and his remaining people to set up a small encampment on top of the platforms where they had been evacuated too, and her nights were spent in rapturous bliss in the arms of Martin and Tarifa. They had spent a week exploring each other’s bodies in exacting detail. Many times Tarifa had been content to watch Martin make love to Dysea in a way that always left her gasping and crying for more. His actions were more pronounced with Dysea, more methodic and precise. He lavished her with attention, and it was she who always ended up within his embrace when it was over.

They did not leave Tarifa out of their pleasure by any means, always including her and the times when the two of them had explored her lush body with only their tongues had led to many exquisite orgasms for Tarifa. She knew however that it was Dysea who was fated to be with Martin, and she was content with the fact that they never refused her or shunned her aside. Their hours were not spent completely in bliss either, as they would talk for many hours into the night, telling Martin of things that had happened over the years to them and to their people. Dysea was eager to get back to her own people and do as Tarifa was doing and clean house among the Elders. Once she was able to do that, with Martin and the others supporting her, they would be able to forge a powerful alliance of their own and just maybe begin to turn the tide on the Alliance.

The pounding on her door interrupted Tarifa’s thoughts further and she sighed heavily at the intrusion. Martin and Dysea stirred on the bed and she watched Dysea’s platinum hair rise quickly from Martin’s chest. They had never been disturbed this early in the morning, and they looked at her with questions in their eyes.

“Stay where you are.” Tarifa said with a seductive smile. “I will tend to this and then we can say good morning in a proper fashion.” Tarifa saw Dysea’s emerald eyes light up at that since Tarifa’s definition of proper meant more pleasure for her and Martin. Almost every morning this past week Tarifa had woken them by using her lips and tongue on them in the most delightful ways.

Tarifa grabbed the light blue robe from the chair and pulled it on as she walked across the rooms of her home and went to the door, banging on the control panel and preparing to verbally lash whoever it was. Her mouth froze open, stealing her words when it slide open and revealed her father in the corridor with the tall elf officer.

“Papa?” She spoke after a moment. “What... what is going on?” Her father never came to her home this early in the morning.

Tareif stepped closer to her. “We need a moment.” He told her in a gruff voice.

Tarifa blocked his movement with her hand. “Papa why are you here this early in the morning?” Tarifa asked. “And why have you brought Telan with you?”

“Are you going to let me in?” Tareif asked.

Tarifa met her father’s eyes. “No...” She answered. “I have guests.”

“Are these guests Martin Hunter and the Wood elf Queen?” Telan asked her. His voice was neutral but carried a tone of sarcasm in it.

“Who my guests may be is none of your concern Captain.” Tarifa snapped.

“I beg to differ.” Telan spoke. “I prefer to know who my future mate is allowing into her bed.”

“Your future mate,” Tarifa laughed. “You presume much Captain.”

“Do I?” Telan spoke.

Tarifa looked at her father, her eyes wide. “Papa... what have you done?”

“You are my oldest daughter Tarifa and in accordance with the customs of our people, I am giving your hand to Captain Telan.” Tareif announced.

Tarifa’s eyes went wide at this announcement. “Papa... I do not have time for your games now.” She said moving back into the room.

“This... this is no game.” Tareif spoke following her.

Tarifa looked at him. “You are serious?” She said. “I told you we would talk about this later papa. Now is not the time.” Her eyes widened when Telan stepped into her home followed by three Dragons. “What is going on?” She demanded.

Telan motioned towards the bedroom. “They will be in there.” He spoke. “Detain them.”

Tarifa turned to her father, sapphire eyes alive in anger. “What is this meaning of this?” She demanded.

“There is nothing to talk about.” Tareif announced. “I am still the head of this family, and you will do as I say in this matter whether you are Queen or not.”

“I will do no such thing!” Tarifa exclaimed. “Remove these men from my home immediately!”

“It is already done.” Tareif told them. “The Council believes that your interaction with this Hunter person has clouded your judgment. After hearing what I heard today, I am beginning to believe they may be correct.”

Tarifa looked at him. “What are you talking about?”

“The Council of Elders met in secret last night.” Tareif spoke. “They have decided to reject the information you presented to them as their own investigations have led them to other conclusions. The main one being that you are under the false influence of this Hunter person as well as the Queen of our enemy.”

Tarifa stared at him as if he had lost his mind. “You are joking! The Council informed me of no meeting!”

“Perhaps that is because for the past week, you have spent more time sharing their bed than you have actually being Queen.” Tareif spoke his voice dull and unemotional.

They turned as first Dysea and then Martin were led from the bedroom, hastily trying to put their clothes on. Martin’s eyes burned and Tarifa could tell he was keeping his anger in check.

“Tarifa what is going on?” Dysea asked quickly.

Tareif motioned with his head. “Take them to the platforms with the rest of their kind.”

“The rest of my kind,” Martin snapped. “Would you mind telling me what is going on?”

“I will tell you nothing!” Tareif snapped. “You will return to the rest of your kind on the platforms above or I will have you arrested for treason and shot!”

Martin’s eyes went wide at this and he looked at Tarifa. The anger on her face was obvious and she gave him a quick nod. “I will discover what is happening Martin.” She spoke quickly. “Take Dysea and I will see you later.”

Martin didn't question her and took Dysea's hand in his, heading for the door followed by the three Dragoons. Tarifa looked back to her father. "My patience is gone father." Tarifa barked. "You barge into my home... drag my friends out of my home like criminals... perhaps you should explain to me what is happening quickly, or my father or not I will have you arrested and detained."

"Telan has submitted his petition to take you as his wife and I have agreed." Tareif spoke almost like a machine.

"We have spoken of this already father and I told you I will not allow you to do this. You have no right!" Tarifa shouted.

"I am your father and I have every right!" Tareif shouted back at her. "The thought of you consorting with that... that half breed human turns my stomach! And to see you and the Queen of our enemy sharing a bed in such a manner sickens me! You will take Telan as your husband, and things will become more normal around here again."

"I will do no such thing!" Tarifa snapped. "I will not allow you to barter me off as our people are bartered off!"

"You have no choice in the matter!" Tareif snapped. "It is already done and the paperwork will be consecrated within the week. Hunter is using you Tarifa! Using you to get what he wants! He cares nothing for you."

"I... I have heard some of the other genomes speaking when they think no one is around." Telan spoke now, stepping into the room. "They say that... they say that he laughs when he speaks of you. That he has had hundreds of women and you are... you are simply one of many."

"You do not know him!" Tarifa barked. "And you have no right to speak about him in such a way!"

"I know all I need to know!" Tareif snarled. "He is half animal! He has forced you to submit to him, forced you to submit to that wench of a Queen, and he is forcing you to turn away from your own people!"

"Who has told you such lies?" Tarifa snapped.

"I have eyes! I can see the lies when they are right in front of me!" Tareif growled. "You are my daughter! And you will do as your father tells you to do! You will take Telan as your husband and there will be no more discussion in regards to this!" Tareif barked.

Tarifa glared at her father with savage anger. "So now you advocate forced slavery and rape like the Alliance do you papa?" She spoke.

Tareif's eyes grew wide and he slapped Tarifa hard across her face, rocking her head back. They heard the gasp of horrific surprise and turned to see Palina rushing forward. She sprang forward, putting herself between her daughter and her husband.

"You dare you strike your own daughter Tareif!" Palina growled at him. "What has become of you? How dare you!"

"My daughter will learn her place and do as I tell her!" Tareif growled. "This discussion is over. Telan will be assigned as your new escort, and Radama will be removed from his position to attend to other duties! Once the paperwork has been consecrated we will hold the ceremony as soon as possible."

"Tareif you..." Palina began.

"That is enough of this woman!" Tareif shouted, shocking his wife of nearly two hundred years into stunned silence. "I am finished here!"

Palina watched her husband turn and leave the room, her eyes going to Telan's face. She saw the young elf smile at her and turn to follow her husband. Palina turned as the door closed and she enveloped a weeping Tarifa into her arms.

There was something terribly wrong going on, and she did not know what was happening anymore.

24 HOURS LATER

Martin walked up to War Master Tareif as he exited the lift. His eyes narrowed when he saw the half dozen Dragoons exit the other lift. Martin looked at Tareif as he stopped in front of him. His head turned when he saw Dysea move over from the tent to stand next to him. Her eyes were just as confused as Martin's and he turned back to Tareif.

“War Master Tareif.” Martin said. “Mind if I ask what is going on? I was told you wanted to see me.”

Tareif held out the data pad. “The Council has come to a decision Commander. They do not feel your presence here is a benefit to our people. They have asked that I give this to you and insure that you and your people leave our city.”

Martin looked at him taken aback. “Excuse me?”

“These are the coordinates of several locations that will sustain you and your people and allow you to survive. You must go to one of these locations and remain out of High Elf territory and business.” Tareif spoke. “Your other ships have already been informed and are standing by in the clearing to the west.”

“Where is Tarifa?” Martin asked.

“My daughter agreed with the Council of Elders in this decision.” Tareif spoke seeing Martin’s eyes go a little wider. “She is conducting her business as Queen of our people.”

“I wish to speak with her.” Dysea spoke now.

Tareif met her eyes. “What you want is of no concern to me.” He answered. “Do you honestly think she cared for either of you?” Tareif let out a small laugh. “She is Queen of the High Elves. Her only concerns are for our people. She could never actually feel anything for a half breed human and the Queen of our enemies. You were amusing toys to her nothing more.”

“We were toys?” Martin hissed taking a step toward him.

“Of course you were!” Tareif spoke, not backing down. “She will be married to an officer within my command within the week; a fine High Elf warrior that she has been betrothed too for many years now. The two of you were nothing more than items for her to use as amusement, and to learn how to become a better wife.”

“I want to speak with her.” Martin spoke quickly.

Tareif shook his head. “No. As I said she is busy, and she wants nothing more to do with either of you. You were amusing pets, but now she must return to her duties and her place.”

“We were pets?” Martin growled stepping closer to Tareif. The six Dragoons behind him lifted their weapons higher towards Martin.

Tareif smiled. “Do you think you will be able to defeat six of my Dragoons carrying weapons you supplied to us before they kill you Hunter?” Tareif spoke in a menacing tone. “I thank you for the weapons by the way. Once my armories learn how to build more of them we can supply them to all our soldiers. Tarifa thanks you as well.”

Dysea stepped closer to Martin and slid her arm around the front of his waist stopping him from moving closer to Tareif. “No Nya Nauta Melme.” (My bounded Love) She spoke softly to him.

“My daughter is above someone such as you Martin Hunter.” Tareif continued looking at Martin. “You are nothing more than an animal in human skin.” He looked at Dysea. “And you are no better than the whores in the Alliance brothels Queen of the Wood Elves. Leave our city while you are still able. My daughter is finished with you both! Her own words were ‘They have amused me long enough. Tell them to be gone and never speak to me again.’”

Dysea could feel Martin shaking in rage and wanting to lash out at Tareif. She glared at the War Master with hate in her own eyes.

“Where is the Holy One?” Dysea asked, keeping her anger under tight control.

“The Holy One will remain here with us. You will place his life at risk no more.” Tareif told her. “We passed on the information we have to your people as well, and it is my understanding that your Council of Elders has named a new Queen in an emergency session last night. You have been branded a traitor to your people, and if my intelligence is accurate, you will be arrested and executed on sight if you return to your territory.” He grinned when he saw her eyes widen in shock. “My suggestion is for you to remain with this animal you seem to prefer over your own kind, and be thankful I do not arrest you myself and surrender you to your people.”

“You sorry sack of fucking shit!” Martin swore at him.

Dysea gripped his arm tightly. “No Martin!” She spoke through the tears that were forming in her eyes. “We must go!” She pulled him away from Tareif, tugging him towards the Raptor. “Come! We must go quickly!”

Tareif nodded. “Go! Crawl into the hole you emerged from and never set foot in this city again!”

Tareif watched as Dysea had to nearly drag Martin to the ramp of the Raptor. Dan and the Master Chief came down to the bottom of the ramp.

“Skipper what the hell is going on?” Dan asked.

Martin looked at him. “Is everyone accounted for?” He asked his voice threatening to come apart. His stomach felt like he had just leaped from thirty thousand feet in a Hard Drop.

“We’re all onboard Skipper.” Dan replied. “Tina has the other Raptors and the transports standing by as well. They’re kicking us out aren’t they?”

Martin felt Dysea begin to shake uncontrollably in his arms and he picked her up easily and marched up the ramp.

“They’re kicking us out.” Martin spoke.

Dan looked to where Tareif stood a small smile on his face. “You shit sorry no good motherfucker.” He swore softly before moving up the ramp and hitting the controls.

Tareif stood there watching the ramp rise as the Raptor’s engines increased in power and it began to lift off the platform. Tareif felt one of his senior Dragoon officers move up next to him.

“War Master?” He spoke softly.

“What is it Cantel?”

“War Master I apologize for speaking out of turn.” The man spoke. “I had thought Commander Hunter and his people were going to be a powerful ally, and I do not understand what we have done or why.”

“I... I have secured the safety of my family Cantel.” Tareif spoke. “I have secured the safety of all our families.”

“I do not understand War Master. We have thrown away an ally that could have altered the course of our war with the Alliance.” Cantel spoke.

Tareif turned to look at the man who had fought beside him for more years than he could remember. “You do not need to understand why I have done this Cantel.” He spoke. “It has been done.”

Cantel nodded. “As you order War Master we do not question.” He replied. “You must know however, that several dozen of our people accompanied Hunter on his transports.”

“What?” Tareif asked, his eyes going a little wider. “Who has done this?”

“One of the Queen’s Senior Lieutenants, Endith I believe her name is; as well as many Dragoon warriors who fought with them when the mercenaries attacked, including Radama.” Cantel replied.

Tareif shook his head. “Then they shall be treated as outsiders from now on.” He spoke softly. “I have business to attend to now.”

Cantel watched Tareif turn and head for the lift his eyes filled with questions. He turned as another senior officer came up beside him.

“What is it Cantel?” He asked.

“How long have we fought beside War Master Tareif Roland?” Cantel asked.

“For as many years as I can remember, why?”

“When have you ever known the War Master to turn away such powerful allies? Or allow the politicians to dictate his actions?” Cantel asked.

“Never,” Roland answered.

“Ever since this Telan joined our ranks, the War Master has been different. And this last week even more so.” Cantel spoke softly. “I want you to make discrete inquires. I want all the information that you can gather on Telan and his family, their associates, their dealings, everything.”

Roland nodded. “It will be done.” He said softly.

Cantel nodded. “I want you to assign two Dragoons to the Holy One and two to the Queen herself. Our most experienced officers.”

“What will be their mission Cantel?”

“To watch Roland, and intervene if needed.”

The Dragoon officer nodded. “It will be done.”

Palina answered the insistent chime on Tarifa’s door, her face still angry at what had transpired between her husband and Tarifa the day before.

“What?” She screamed into the face of the female elf.

“Forgive... forgive me Lady Palina.” The elf spoke. “I... I just thought you should know. It’s racing through the city. The genomes... Commander Hunter?”

“What about them?” Tarifa came to the door, her eyes still red from tears and anger at what her father had done, and the betrayal of the Elders against her.

“They have left my Queen.” The elf told her. “War Master Tareif tried to get them to stay, but Commander Hunter took the Queen of the Wood Elves and left with all of his people.”

Tarifa’s eyes grew wide. “He would not leave!” She gasped. “They would not leave unless they had spoken with me first!”

“Yet he is gone.” Tareif’s voice spoke as he came from behind the female elf.

“War Master.” The elf spoke bowing her head.

“What have you done?” Tarifa snapped at him. “What did you tell him?”

“I told him nothing.” Tareif barked back at her. “I tried to tell you he was using you! He cares nothing for you! He took that Wood Elf whore and he left. If he cared for you so much why would he do this?”

Tarifa shook her head. “No!” She exclaimed confidently. “I don’t believe you! He would not leave! They would not leave without speaking with me!”

“Yet they have! He told me to tell you he enjoyed your time together, but he needed to move on.” Tareif spoke.

“No... you’re lying to me Papa!” Tarifa yelled pulling the medallion Martin had given her from under her dress. She pressed the button on the small transmitter. “Martin... Martin please... this is all a mistake and I need you to answer me! Dysea answer me!” She yelled into the transmitter as she moved to the balcony of her quarters.

Dysea watched Martin toss the medallion to the floor of the Raptor’s deck and get up from beside her and moved toward the cockpit. She reached down slowly and retrieved the medallion, feeling it vibrate softly in her hands. She turned and pulled down the set of head phones from above her and plugged the medallion into the panel. Her eyes grew wide when she heard Tarifa’s voice.

“...please answer me Martin! Damn you Martin! Why have you done this? Dysea are you there?”

Dysea reached up, her eyes hardening and she keyed the mic on the headset. “Perhaps you should explain to us why you have done this Queen of the High Elves?” She spoke. “Does it make you feel powerful to know you have tossed aside two people like trash?”

“Dysea...? Dysea... what are you talking about? Why have you left? Where is Martin?” Tarifa’s voice exclaimed.

“Why have you cast us out Tarifa?” Dysea asked her eyes narrowed in anger. “Martin is no animal... and I am no whore!”

“...I am no whore!”

Tarifa’s eyes grew wide at Dysea’s pronouncement. She was about to respond until the rough hand grabbed the transmitter from her grasp and tossed it to the floor where Tareif crushed it under his boot. Tarifa turned to her father, her eyes wide.

“What have you done?” She screamed.

“I am saving you the pain of having to hear them tell you themselves.” Tareif told her. “They care nothing for you Tarifa. You were only a tool for them. You are Queen of the High Elves, and soon you will be wed. I expect you to start acting like it.”

Tareif turned and walked back into his daughter’s quarters to see his wife glaring at him. Palina stepped up to him.

“Why have you done this Tareif?” She asked.

“I have done what needed to be done.” He answered. “I have a meeting to attend. What will you be preparing for dinner so that I can purchase some wine to go with it.”

Palina glared at her husband, and for the first time in nearly two hundred years of marriage she struck him in anger. Tareif drew back in shock at her action, his hand going to his cheek.

“I will be preparing nothing husband!” She told him, real anger in her voice. “You can eat dirt as far as I am concerned!”

“Palina... I... you do not understand what is going on.” He spoke.

“I understand that you have ripped from our daughter her dignity and choice with your actions.” Palina said. “And you did so with deceit and treachery. Martin Hunter would never have left unless you told him something that was not the truth. I will never forgive you for what you have done this day Tareif, and you may return to Pacifica alone. I will not be returning with you now or in the future.”

“Palina...”

“You have spoken enough with your actions Tareif.” She barked at him. “Leave now before I decide to seek the council of an arbitrator so that I may have our marriage ended.”

Tareif’s eyes went wide. “You will do no such thing!”

Palina stuck her finger in his face. “Do not presume to tell me what I can and can not do War Master Tareif. Your actions this day have sealed my decision. Leave now, before I request that you are removed.”

Palina whirled around and rushed to where Tarifa sat curled on the floor of her balcony, holding the pieces of the broken transmitter in her hands.

Dysea slowly hung up the headset on the hook above her when she received no response from Tarifa. She pulled her legs up to her chest, wrapping her arms around her knees and she allowed the small single tear to roll down her cheek. She felt the hand on her knee and looked up to see Martin settle to the seat next to her.

“Why has she done this Nya Nauta Melme?” She asked. “Why as she done this to us?”

“I don’t know.” Martin said softly.

Dysea shook her head. “Someone told her lies.” She said. “Someone has told her lies about us. That is why she is doing this.”

Martin looked at her. “Who would tell her lies about us?” He asked. “Who would she trust enough to even believe such lies after what the three of us share?”

Dysea shook her head. “I feel... I feel such so much anger at this moment.” She placed her hand over her heart. “I am no whore!”

Martin pulled Dysea into his arms tightly and her head went to his chest. “I feel it too Melda Min. I feel it too.”

Dysea buried her face in his chest and let the strength of his embrace flow through her as she clutched him tighter than she had ever held anything in her life.

Tareif entered the room and saw Telan stand to greet him.

“War Master.” He said smugly.

“I have done as you instructed.” Tareif spoke.

Telan nodded. “You have performed admirably War Master. My father is very pleased.”

“My sons,” Tareif spoke. “I want to see them.”

Telan held up his hand. “I understand this War Master. When the ceremony is complete and I am your daughter’s husband, I will contact my father and have him arrange a visit.”

Tareif’s eyes grew darker, “A visit?”

“Come War Master... you did not think we would actually release your sons did you?” Telan spoke. “Tarifa and you are far too popular among our people to not have some sort of insurance policy that once my family has assumed its positions of power that we will not lose them.”

“You told me my sons would go free!” Tareif snapped.

“Our plans have changed.” Telan stated firmly. “And they will stay as they are until your daughter bears me a son and seals the contract permanently. This is my father’s wish. Rest assured your sons will stay in excellent health and not be harmed anymore than they already have been.”

“I swear to you if my sons are harmed, I will keep you alive for days as I peel the skin from your flesh.” Tareif growled. “And then I will do the same to your father.”

Telan nodded. “Of course you will War Master. Now please if you will excuse me, I need to contact my father in regards to recent events.”

Tareif turned and stormed from the room, not noticing the female elf that was pressed tightly to the wall around the corner. Her eyes were wide as she had heard everything that was spoken. Her eyes darted down the corridor and then she quickly moved for the upper levels.

EDEN

Three months later

Admiral Wallace walked into the North Medical Clinic on EDEN with Senator Graham and saw several of the newly arrived elves lying on the infirmary beds. The deal with the Alliance had gone through quite easily, and now EDEN was home to almost three hundred elves. Graham had placed Wallace in charge of the indoctrination of the elves into life on EDEN. As the days passed, he was only concerned with fucking as many of the elves as he could. Graham still controlled things with an iron fist, and while Bill was slowly working his way further into Graham’s confidence, he knew they had a long way to go.

As the weeks had passed, Wallace and Thomas had been able to facilitate the deal with the Alliance for the additional elves. The transfer had gone off without a hitch, and even though the Alliance now had the blueprint plans to the Raptor Attack Ship, Wallace knew it would take them many months or even a full year to put the Raptor into full production mode, and then they would need to train new pilots. That would be worth at least another two or three good sized shipment of elves for EDEN.

Wallace also found himself falling more in love with Anisa as the days passed. He had never met a stronger or braver woman before in his life, and she showed these straits every day as she worked with him to purge selected elves of the addicting Alliance drug and bring them to their side. He didn’t know what Anisa felt for him, and at this point he didn’t care. Her presence was a soothing balm to him at the end of the day, and if she cared for him even a fraction of how he loved her, that was good enough for him.

Wallace walked up to where the young doctor stood next to Frank Wilson. “Good morning Colonel Wilson, Doctor Taggert.” Bill spoke in a professional manner. “I brought the Senator so you could show him how you have developed a new drug for us to use, and I want you to explain how it works to Senator Graham. Senator this is Doctor Paul Taggert, EDEN’s top bio-toxin scientist.”

“It is a pleasure to finally meet you Senator.” Paul Taggert spoke.

“Doctor Taggert.” Graham spoke. He glanced over to the three beds that were occupied by two female elves and one male. “May I ask why three slaves are occupying beds that are meant for humans?”

“That is my doing Senator. Doctor Taggert needed some elves to experiment on once he finished the drug.” Bill told him. “Paul, why don’t you explain it to the Senator so that he understands?”

The doctor nodded his head, “Of course Admiral.” The young man spoke with a friendly smile. He lifted the test tube of clear liquid up for Graham to see. “I call it X19. It’s based along the same lines as the Alliance’s drug, but it’s much more refined and subtle, and incredibly more powerful. The enzymes in the baseline code for the drug are...”

“Doctor Taggert, I’m quite sure the Senator is not interested in the baseline code for the drugs, only the end results.” Bill spoke.

Graham smiled and nodded his head. “Thank you Admiral and you are correct; but what I would like to know is can we use this drug to replace the Alliance’s drug? Can we market it?”

The doctor nodded. “Oh yes sir! Once we move to the production stage of this drug, we can mass produce it very quickly, and charge anything we want for it. It does not require the cumbersome injection unit on the back of the neck, and a single dose is good for an extended period of time.”

“How long is that?” Graham asked now very interested.

“It would depend on the dose of course... but several days at the very least, at the higher level.” Taggert replied. He motioned to the three elves. “The male and female elves were given the highest dose possible fifty-seven hours ago, and they are still very susceptible to my commands. Would you like me to demonstrate?”

Graham nodded. "Please do."

"The female elf's name is Leda Senator." Paul spoke. "Leda... please get out of bed and come over here next to the Senator."

The blond haired elf sat up, tossing aside the thin sheet that covered her perfect naked body. Graham licked his lips as he watched her stand on the floor and he admired her pert tits and near hairless pussy as she walked up to stand next to him. Her legs were lean and muscular, and her abdomen flat and well defined. She didn't have the largest breasts he'd seen on an elf, but they were very firm with small pink nipples.

"Say hello Leda." Paul spoke smiling.

"Good day Senator Graham, it's a pleasure to meet you." The female elf spoke, her eyes bright and clear.

Richard looked at Paul in surprise. "She does not exhibit the same mental sluggishness of the Alliance's drug."

"No sir. As I said I refined it a great deal. The elves will not have the sluggishness or clouded mind as they did under the Alliance drug." Paul explained. "They will act completely normal in every way, yet they will find it impossible to refuse any command or request from a human."

"Really?" Graham spoke not entirely convinced. "That seems rather sophisticated. Are you certain it works?"

Paul smiled. "The male and female elf you see here Senator are brother and sister. They arrived with the last shipment of slaves from earth. You can see the similar physical traits and facial features."

Graham nodded. "Yes."

"I've done some extensive research into the elves that the Alliance supplied to us. They consider it a vile sin punishable by death for any type of incest." Paul looked at the two other elves. "Colar... get up, and have your sister begin to suck your cock."

Graham watched in fascination as the male elf got to his feet and moved to the other bed. He pulled the sheet aside and helped the female elf off the bed. The female elf had long dark hair and a small patch of black hair above her small pussy. That they were related could not be denied, and Graham watched in awe as the female elf took her brother's decent sized limp cock deeply into her mouth and began to suck him off.

"I must say... that is excellent." Graham spoke in awe, his eyes becoming excited.

"Leda... it appears the Senator is becoming excited by what we are witnessing. Drop to your knees and suck him off." Paul ordered.

Graham watched with wide eyes as the blond elf immediately got down on her knees and began unbuckling his pants. Graham hissed through his teeth when he felt her warm mouth engulf almost half his seven inch cock and she began to suck hard. Her hand came up to palm his balls as she took him even deeper into her mouth. He dropped a hand to her blond locks and groaned, holding her head firmly in place while he thrust his hips forward brutally, driving his entire cock into her mouth even causing her to gag loudly as he rammed into her throat. Graham didn't see Wallace moved ever so slightly closer to Doctor Taggart and grasp the young man's arm tightly. He also didn't notice that Paul Taggart's face was frozen in place, void of any emotion, but his eyes were burning holes through Graham's chest. Graham looked to where the dark haired sister was eagerly lapping away at her brother's hard jutting cock, and Graham lost it. He rammed his cock deeply into Leda's throat and started cumming, driving his hips forward and keeping her blond head pinned to his groin as he emptied his load into her throat.

It took several moments for him to regain his composure and then Graham pulled his now limp cock from between her lips. He waited while Leda re-buckled his pants and slowly got to her feet a sweet smile on her face.

"Thank you Senator." She told him licking her lips seductively.

Graham couldn't help but smile as well, and he heard the male elf groan and turned as he unloaded into his sister's mouth.

"I must say Doctor Taggart I am very impressed, very impressed. Admiral... you are proving to be the best partner I have had in many years." Graham spoke.

"Senator... the Admiral explained to me your elaborate interests." Paul spoke, waving his hand toward the back of the lab. "I hope you don't mind that I took the liberty of finding three certain female elves that have some experience in what you prefer."

Graham watched as the two dark haired and one blond elf walked from around the corner of the divider and stopped in front of him. All of them were exceptionally attractive, and very well built. "Well what have we here?" Graham said.

"These particular elves work as sort of a team Senator. They are sisters, and have been seeing to the needs of some of the Alliance's highest officials with your tastes. They take care of each other and let's just say they enjoy small amounts of pain." Paul spoke.

"Now that is very interesting." Graham said. "I trust they have been given the drug?"

Paula nodded and held out the small black bag. "I dosed them this morning Senator, and it should be good for at least two days. This is for when you feel they are not being as compliant as you wish."

Graham grinned. "I think I may have to return to my quarters and break these young ladies in." He said. "Thank you for your explanation doctor. William... I expect you will see to the implementation of the drug with all of our slaves?"

Bill nodded. "I'll see to it myself sir." He spoke. "However I will need the names of the Sweeper Agents that have not come forward so that I can use them as conduits for the drug. They can also assist me in watching the elves more closely."

Graham nodded his head and his hand kneaded the full breast of the blond in full view of everyone. "Of course... I'll give the information to Thomas to pass on to you later today. Now if you'll excuse me I'll be in my office."

Bill forced the smile to remain on his face as Graham left the clinic pawing the firm ass of the giggling elf. Once the door slid shut behind him, Bill whirled around and looked for something to send flying across the room in rage. He saw the side door open and Anisa came out quickly, going directly to him and taking his hands. She knew how he would be after doing this, and she also knew he responded to her soothing touch.

Anisa looked at him with adoring eyes and stroked his face. Their first night together Anisa would admit was nothing more than a way for her to thank him for saving her life. She had to admit that William had fucked her far better and longer than any man before him, and he was very well endowed in the cock department. He could have chosen any of the female elves and instead had picked her. That first night was her way of rewarding him. Over the next few weeks Anisa found herself falling very much in love with this man. His actions were intelligent and extremely well thought out. He never asked her to sleep with him again after that first night, as it was not in his nature. Once he realized that Thomas was fully on their side, he took the young man under his wing and began instructing him in the arts of deception and subterfuge. And Anisa had to admit William Wallace was very good at both. She had accessed EDEN's computers under his security code and discovered quite a bit about the man she now was very much in love with. He was a former member of perhaps the finest military unit in the 21st century known as the Navy SEALs; the same type of unit that the genomes who had escaped were from. He was very highly decorated and considered a brilliant tactician. She discovered many things about the man in front of her that allowed her to feel love once more.

"Calm yourself William." She said softly, stroking his face. "This is part of your plan. You must maintain this guise for as long as necessary."

William nodded. "I know... but I hate having to order the elves to take part in such perversion." He turned as Leda went quickly to the nearest sink and forced herself to vomit by sticking her finger down her throat. He watched as Paul held the blanket around her shoulders until she had finished vomiting and then she turned to wrap herself in his arms. He looked at the male and female elf; who were now standing next to each other, pulling on their clothes.

The male elf took a step forward. "You have shown us that you and many like you on this station are not like the humans we are used too Admiral Wallace." Colar spoke. "It is for this reason that we help you. You have saved all of us from lives of slavery, and if the goal you have, the ultimate goal, our ultimate goal becomes reality, then all we have to do is worth it."

William turned as Leda looked at him, wiping her mouth after spitting out the mouthwash Paul had given her. "Admiral... you alone have returned hope to us." She spoke. She squeezed her body closer to Paul's. "You have enabled us to regain our dignity and honor, and you have helped us to find..." She looked at Paul with smiling eyes. "You have helped us to find those that mean a great deal to us. If our freedom requires that I have to suck the shriveled cock of some demented man, then I will do so. It only solidifies our plan and our goals in the end." She turned back to William as Paul pulled her closer.

“But having Leda have to perform such a vile act... having you and your wife have to do such things in front of others...” William spoke. “It twists my guts into knots knowing that this is what we have to revert too.”

Colar smiled in amusement. “Perhaps... but Teela is becoming very good at it.”

William watched the dark haired female elf slap her husband’s chest. She turned her eyes on him.

“Anisa told us what you were like on that first day William. And you have proved she was correct every day since. Elves are not as preoccupied as humans when it comes to sexual displays William. We are much more comfortable with our sexuality than humans. If we need to conduct these acts in front of others so that we can ultimately win our freedom, then I will gladly do so.”

Colar grinned, “As will I.” He said. “It has been many years since I have been able to take my wife in these ways.”

“Colar!” Teela exclaimed as his arms went around her waist and he nuzzled her neck.

The mood of anger in the room was broken, and all of them relaxed further. William shook his head with smile. “You are some of the most resilient men and women I have ever known.” He said. “And I am very glad I can call you friend.”

Anisa squeezed his hand. “And we are very glad you are what you are William. Without you, none of us would have this opportunity.”

Bill looked at Paul. “Ok... let’s have it.” He said.

“Thomas and Neara are seeing to the distribution of our “drug”.” Paul spoke. “Leda will see to the holding pens for the females who work in the brothels, and Colar and Teela will handle the worker sections. If all goes well... we can have the all the elves inoculated within four weeks. They are being selective as to who they start with, but the process is working. Colonel Wilson is using his contacts in the engineering section to monitor which elves we think will be easier to bring into the fold at first.”

Bill nodded. “I can’t stress enough how dangerous what we’re doing is. You need to be very careful about where you go and who you talk too. Martin’s last transmission stated they had been kicked out of the High Elf territory, but they had found a place to settle down into. I’m hoping we can tell him the station is once more in our control before our next communication.”

“Where did he settle down Admiral?” Frank asked.

“Somewhere in the southwest part of the country I assume, as that is where he was. He wasn’t specific and I didn’t have time to delve deeper.” Bill spoke. “Everyone keep your heads and let’s not do anything stupid.”

MOUNTAIN CITY

Tarifa glared at Telan as he lifted himself from the bed, and she pulled the sheet tighter around her naked body. Their ceremony had gone off quickly, with Tarifa going through the motions more than anything else, and Telan had taken his place as husband to the Queen, assuming the military and political duties of that position. Tarifa endured his near endless rutting, focusing her mind on Martin and Dysea, but never enough where she became lost in passion as Telan grunted and groaned while plunging his small thin cock into her. As husband to the Queen he could take her whenever he desired and she had to consent. She endured his pawing of her body with passionless serenity, and after he had gone she quickly went to take steaming showers and baths to rid herself of his stench and foulness from within her.

Telan reached over to pull his uniform shirt on, smiling at her as he did so. “I see you are responding more to my ministrations.” He gloated.

“Believe what you will.” Tarifa told him as she sat up on the bed, holding the sheet around her.

Telan looked at her as he buttoned his shirt. “You deny this?” He spoke.

Tarifa looked at him hatred in her eyes. “You may be my husband...” She snapped. “And I must submit to you whenever you wish according to our law... but do not for an instant believe that I will respond in any way to anything you do to me. Your very touch turns my stomach and makes me want to vomit.”

Telan’s eyes darkened. “You will see things my way in the end.” He growled at her. “Perhaps after you have given me a child, you will see things differently.”

“Don’t hold your breath Telan.” Tarifa spoke, rising from the bed and heading for the shower.

Tarifa stared at herself in the mirror of the bathroom after the door had closed and locked. Her face was drawn, and her usually sapphire eyes were red from countless nights of crying herself to sleep. Her days were filled with the mindless duties of the Queen, Raloa never ceasing to gloat over the Council's decision to expel Martin and the genomes. Her only peace came in the arms of her mother who had remained in Mountain City and taken a small apartment one level down from the Queen's home. This is where she spent most of her time now, remaining as far away from Telan as she could. She had seen her father several times in the past three months, but had never spoken to him, and only glared at him with anger and hatred. He was staying at the main barracks within Mountain City, and outside of official functions was almost never seen outside his office and small apartment.

Tarifa reached up and carefully removed the hidden latch from the side of the cabinet. She pulled softly and the entire cabinet came away from the wall smoothly. Inside on two shelves were a number of small bottles. Tarifa took one and quickly tapped out two pills. She swallowed them in one gulp wincing as the large pills went down her throat. She quickly followed them with a small glass of water. The pills she had gotten through one of her closest aides, and they would prevent her from conceiving a child. They were also very dangerous, as they made her violently sick for a short time and the traces of the drug could be detected by a doctor.

She looked in the mirror as she closed the cabinet and returned the latch in place. She closed her eyes and concentrated and felt her fangs extend to nearly a full inch. She took a deep breath and allowed herself to soak in the scents of everything around her. She wanted so much to contact Martin and Dysea, but Telan had such a close watch on her, she was unable to do anything to attempt to contact them. Each day that passed caused her to slip more and more into despair, and the only thing that kept her sane were these moments when she could escape into the bathroom and let go of her control and allow the changes that had come over her to come out. When she allowed her control to drop, it was almost as if she could feel Martin and Dysea wrapped around her showering her with their friendship and caring.

Tarifa sank to the floor of the bathroom and huddled in the corner, pulling her knees to her chest as the tears began to flow once more, and she felt wonderfully alive as her mind took her back to the moments when she was within their company.

“Sit down Palina.” Walter spoke gently as Palina came into his apartment.

“Thank you Holy One.” Palina spoke softly as she settled to the couch.

“What can I help you with child?” Walter asked.

“It is Tarifa Holy One.” Palina told him. “I... I fear she is slipping deeper into darkness as every day passes. She hardly eats anymore, and she has to endure that despicable Telan violating her at his whim.”

Walter sighed heavily and sat back in the chair. “This is not something I had foreseen as happening, and I believe it may be partly my fault.”

“How?” Palina asked.

“I was the one who told her to seek out Martin and Dysea.” Walter replied looking at her. “I knew that the only way to begin an effective war against the Alliance was to have the three of them together as allies.”

“You... you made her seek him out? You knowingly put her in danger?” Palina asked astonished.

Walter shook his head. “No not knowingly. I did not know what Graham would do, and I certainly had no idea what the Elders would do. I thought perhaps when they came together; they could form an alliance of sorts with each other, making all the elves stronger. Martin is so much more than what he appears to be Palina. More so than even you would understand. An alliance between him and Tarifa and Dysea would mean a shift of power against the Alliance. I did not expect that the Alliance has somehow insinuated themselves so deeply into elf society as to corrupt those that are in power.”

Palina nodded slowly. “I think I understand now Holy One. You... you gave them the means to see past what everyone else sees and look inside each other and what they could build.”

Walter smiled. “An elegant way of putting it; but essentially yes, that's what I did.” He looked at her. “Tarifa is very much like Martin Palina. They are both headstrong and willful, but they are the epitome of leaders, and that is why they became so close so quickly, aside from the obvious physical attraction.” He continued.

“Tarifa told me her relationship with Martin opened her to see many things that she would never have thought of.” Palina said.

Walter nodded. “They would have had that effect on each other yes.” He said. “They shared a physical relationship yes, but what developed more between them was a sense of common purpose and deep friendship similar to what one feels for a twin sibling. That is what I had hoped would happen.”

“And what role did Dysea play all this?” Palina asked.

Walter met her eyes. “She was the one I intended for Martin.” He replied. “The one who would...”

“Take his heart?” Palina asked.

Walter nodded. “Yes.”

“I need your help Holy One.” Palina spoke. “I do not know what Tareif told him the day they left, but it was obviously a lie to make them think Tarifa betrayed them in some manner.”

“Tarifa’s relationship with Dysea does not seem to bother you.” Walter asked with more than a little curiosity.

“Holy One... it was you who made us more accepting of our sexuality and who we were.” Palina told him. “I was shocked at first that Tarifa could have such feelings for a woman, let alone act on them. However, after I was able to think about it for a few days, I came to the conclusion that all parents do. If that is what makes my child happy, who am I to debate that? And it is not uncommon to see elves of the same gender together Holy One. Their relationships are accepted just as any other.”

“There is little I can do to help Palina. And believe me I have tried.” Walter told her. “I am being shadowed by Dragoon officers wherever I go. Any attempt by me to contact Martin or Dysea would be detected immediately by the thugs Telan has watching me.”

“Your implant does not work?” Palina asked.

Walter shook his head. “Unfortunately they are either choosing not to answer my transmissions, or they are somewhere that is beyond the implant’s range. Dysea has been declared a traitor by the Wood Elf Council of Elders, and there are orders to arrest her if she is found. Martin and Dysea would know this and would do little to let their whereabouts be known. I imagine Tarifa already knows that.”

Palina nodded. “She has tried every day, but no they do not respond to her.” Palina leaned forward in her chair. “Perhaps for that very reason, but I was thinking of something else however.”

“I will do what I can.” Walter spoke.

“You know that if she is to bear Telan a child, the union will be sealed forever.” Palina spoke. “She has been taking a foul medicine that keeps her from becoming pregnant, but her supply is almost depleted. She fears putting her aides at risk to get her more, and the medicine makes her violently sick for several hours. If she was discovered during this period it would definitely be discovered in her system, and there would be terrible consequences. Is there anything you can give to her?”

Walter shook his head slowly. “Unfortunately nothing that won’t be detected by a skilled physician.”

Palina felt tears coming into her eyes and she sat back. “Then I will lose my daughter.” She said softly. “If she does not have this medicine and she becomes pregnant, she will kill herself. I know she will.”

Walter got to his feet and moved to the small counter his mind racing. He poured Palina and himself a mug of tea and was about to add milk and sugar when his hands stopped in mid-motion, “Dysea?” He said softly.

Palina looked at his back, “Holy One?”

Walter turned to her, the tea forgotten, “Dysea.” He spoke again. “Dysea is the key. She has an intimate knowledge of thousands of herbs and roots; natural elements that would do the same thing and would be undetectable in Tarifa’s system. She would do such things for her own people who were captured or raped by Alliance troops.”

“Holy One... no one knows where they went.” Palina said. “How would I find her?”

“Cantel,” Walter spoke. “He is one of your husband’s senior Dragoons.”

Palina shook her head. “Tareif would discover what I am attempting to do.”

Walter shook his head. “I may be old and simply human Palina, but I am not without some skill. Cantel has had two Dragoons following me wherever I go, and two of them have been tailing Telan as well.” He said. “He would not do that without your husband’s knowledge unless he felt it important.”

“Holy One do you believe that members of the Council are plotting against their own people?” Palina asked.

“I think what has happened with Dysea answers that very question for you Palina. They claim she has betrayed them and come over to the High Elves. The Queen they have elected in her place is not as wise to the ways of the world, and she does not realize they are using her.” Walter replied. “Find a way to contact Cantel. If anyone knows where Martin and Dysea have gone it will be him. Do not for a minute believe the Elders do not know where they have settled.”

Palina came to her feet. “Even if I was to discover this, and I find them. Why would they help me? Whatever lies Tareif told them, they believed him enough to refuse even to have communications with Tarifa.”

“Do not believe for a moment that they have stopped caring for your daughter Palina.” Walter spoke. “That is not in Martin’s nature.”

“What are you telling me?” Palina asked.

Walter took her hands. “They might be dealing with it better for unlike Tarifa, Martin and Dysea share a bond of love we don’t understand, and they have each other. They will be no doubt trying to discover what has happened too... but something is keeping them from contacting her. Something they were told perhaps. That is what you must discover.”

Palina looked at him a new firmness in her eyes. “Thank you Holy One.” She said.

Walter smiled. “I have always loved Tarifa as my own daughter Palina. She is one of the keys to the future, and whatever I can do to try and correct my mistakes of the past I will do.”

“May the gods shine on you Holy One,” Palina spoke, a new brightness to her eyes.

Palina answered the door to her apartment and came up short when she saw the young female elf. “Yes?”

“The elf bowed her head in respect. “Forgive me Milady. My name is Alore, and I work within the Council’s halls.”

“Go on.” Palina spoke, trying to find a way to leave this child and get to Tarifa as soon as possible. She had to relay the conversation she had with the Holy One to her.

“My Lady there is something I must tell you.” The elf said. “I have carried this news within me for weeks, too afraid to come to you with it.”

“Child I do not have time for games.” Palina spoke.

“My Lady this is about War Master Tareif and what happen the day the genome soldier Commander Hunter was expelled from Mountain City.” The elf told her.

Palina looked at her, her eyes wide and her interest suddenly peaked. “Quickly child, come inside.” Palina spoke, pulling her into the apartment.

“You are certain of this Alore?” Palina asked.

“Yes Milady positive. I wasn’t more than five meters away at the time and heard the entire conversation.” Alore replied.

“And you have told no one about this?” Palina asked taking her hands.

“I was too frightened too Milady. War Master Tareif frightens me, and I do not trust Captain Telan.” Alore replied. “I live alone Milady, my family lives in Salem City. I did not know who to go to. When I realized you had taken an apartment here I knew I could come to you, but it wasn’t until now that I had the courage. I’m so sorry Milady.”

Palina smiled and squeezed her hands. “You have nothing to be sorry for Alore.” She said. “In fact, from this moment on you now hold the title of Senior Aide to me.” She smiled when Alore’s eyes nearly came out of her head. “You are braver than most Alore; don’t doubt that for a moment. I will have the paperwork and clearances drawn up immediately. Right now I need you to do something for me.”

“Anything Milady,” Alore spoke.

“There is a senior Dragoon Lieutenant. His name is Cantel. I need you to find him and inform him that I need to meet with him as soon as possible.” Palina said. “Can you do that?”

“Of course Milady, I know right where the Dragoons are billeted. I... I sometimes watch their training sessions when I am finished at the Council Hall.” She spoke, blushing as she did so.

Palina smiled. “Alore... you may have just returned something to your Queen that was taken from her against her will. Go now... and be quick. Speak to no one but Cantel.”

Alore rose to her feet and nodded, “As you order me Milady.”

Palina ushered her to the door and glanced outside before allowing her to come forward. She leaned over and kissed her head. “The Gods go with you child.” She said.

Alore smiled and hurried out onto the main walkway, quickly blending in with the hundreds of other elves. Palina stepped back into her quarters and closed the door. She went immediately to her communications console and entered in a code.

The face of the communications operator appeared on the screen. “Good day Milady. How may I assist you?”

“I wish to contact Salem City on a secure channel. Is that possible?” Palina asked.

“Of course Milady, may I ask why?”

“I’m arranging a surprise party for War Master Tareif, and I would appreciate it if you were able to not log this call.” Palina asked with her sweetest smile.

The man grinned, thinking he was making points. “What call is that Milady.” He spoke with a smile. “Channel secure... please go ahead.”

“Milady,” Cantel spoke, bowing his head.

Palina smiled and placed her hand on his arm. “Thank you for coming Cantel.” She said quietly.

“May I ask why you wanted to meet me? And why you wanted to meet here?” Cantel spoke looking at her.

They stood on the narrow unused bridge just below the main promenade. The bridge hadn’t been used in the years since the promenade above them had been built. They could still hear the music and voices above them from the hundreds of shops and dozens of homes and businesses.

“We do not have to worry about unwanted eyes and ears here.” Palina spoke.

“And why would this be an issue Milady?” Cantel asked.

“I know you have been looking into Telan and his family very discretely.” Palina spoke, seeing that his expression did not change in the least. “I want to know how that is coming.”

“I do not know what it is you mean Milady.” Cantel spoke quickly, too quickly.

Palina smiled. “The young woman I sent to summon you told me some interesting things Cantel. Items that are a great deal of interest to me if they are true, and things that would go a long way to explaining why my husband has been acting like such a bastard these last few months.”

“What exactly did she hear Milady?” Cantel asked.

Palina watched Cantel’s face carefully as she explained what Alore had told her. She was watching for the slightest sign of betrayal in his eyes; any hint that would tell her he was not working for her husband, but against him. She detected none of this as his face changed from impassive emotion to one of barely controlled anger. It took her fifteen minutes to fully explain everything and when she was done she had no doubts that Cantel would help her.

Cantel gripped the railing of the walkway when she had finished, his knuckles turning white in rage that he kept just below the surface.

“The Elders,” He hissed. “I suspected Telan was not everything he was made to appear, but the Elders?”

“Cantel... I need you to control your rage.” Palina spoke. “And I need your help.”

Cantel looked at her. “Command me.” He spoke firmly.

“Do you know where Martin and Dysea have gone? They are the key to all of this.” Palina asked.

“I...” He looked at her for a long moment.

“Cantel... I want my husband back! I want my sons back and I want my daughter back! If we don’t do something, then all we have fought for and loved these centuries will be lost forever.” Palina spoke.

“War Master Tareif gave him a pad with locations where they could go and where they could survive.” Cantel told her. “I do not know for sure their exact location, but there have been reports from several of our southwestern villages.”

“Reports... what kind of reports?” Palina asked him.

“Falre Lome, Phantoms of the night. The reports are of a large group of humans and elves.” Cantel replied. “They have taken over several abandoned small towns between the Tushar Mountains and the Piute Reservoir. The reports state they hear explosions and heavy equipment moving at night. They do not want to approach because whoever they are, they have established lethal minefields all around the area. Several mercenary units, slavers have been discovered destroyed in this area, hence the name Falre Lome that they have been given.”

Palina smiled softly. “That is where they have gone.” She spoke. “The rumors I have heard in regards to Dysea. Are they true?”

Cantel nodded. “The Wood Elves Council of Elders has named her a traitor and if caught she is to be tried for treason. Milady... if Telan’s family is holding your sons, this would explain the War Master’s actions the last few months. He has not told anyone for fear they will kill your sons.”

Palina nodded. “Yes it would.” Palina said. “You have been following Telan then?”

Cantel nodded. “He has done nothing unusual so far. He descends to the lower platforms three or four times a week to meet with a female elf who works at one of the seedier taverns, but outside of that, he has done nothing out of the ordinary.”

“His father is no fool.” Palina spoke. “Telan is a pawn in his father’s plot to gain power over our people. If Tarifa bears Telan a child, she will become expendable, and then Telan’s family will hold power.”

“They would kill the Queen?” Cantel asked stunned.

“If Tarifa gives him a child I believe they would. If she were to die in some accident after the birth of the child, Telan would hold power until their son or daughter came of age. And that would mean that Telan’s family would hold power.” Palina spoke. “They have always been power hungry, with no regard for those under them. It is why they are so powerful within the boundaries of New Spokane.”

“Milady... regardless of the power they hold, how they could have taken your sons is a mystery. They would have needed a base of power within the military and then the means to carry out such an operation.” Cantel spoke. “And where would they keep them? Your sons are well known.”

Palina nodded. “And that fact leads me to believe they have had outside help in their actions.” She said. “I have already contacted some friends I know in Salem City to do some of their own investigating.”

Cantel’s eyes grew a little wider, “The Alliance?” He gasped. “They would plot with the Alliance against their own people?”

“For men such as Telan’s father yes they would.” Palina spoke. “They would barter with the devil himself if it advanced their desire for more power and control.”

Cantel clenched his teeth. “I will enjoy killing him.” He growled.

Palina looked at him. “I know two people who will enjoy it far more Cantel.” Palina spoke. “Is it possible for you to arrange travel for me to this village in the southwest?”

Cantel nodded. “That would be no problem Milady.” He said. “The governor of this village has been petitioning the Queen to visit their village for many months. A visit by her mother would be just as formal.”

Palina nodded. “Arrange it under just that auspice.” She spoke. “How soon can you put it together?”

“War Master Tareif departs tomorrow morning for Salem City and the annual graduation of our Dragoon Elites.” Cantel told her. “I can process the paperwork and requisition the vehicles today and we can depart at mid day tomorrow, after War Master Tareif has left.”

“Telan is going with him correct?” Palina asked.

“Yes Milady. They will be gone until early next week.”

“And we can depart and return before they do?” Palina asked.

“Easily Milady, Roland has scouted the southern routes extensively. We can bypass the other villages quickly and be in southern Utah by tomorrow evening. War Master Tareif and Telan will have to use the prearranged western routes to avoid the human settlements.” Cantel replied.

“I do not want to draw attention to this trip Cantel.” She said. “I want nothing larger than what we would normally send on such a venture.”

Cantel nodded. "I will see to it Milady."

"Use your contacts within our military Cantel." Palina spoke. "Be very discrete and make no waves, but try and find out any information you can in regards to my sons' whereabouts."

Cantel nodded. "You can rest assured we will discover something Milady." He said. "What of the Queen? We can not leave her unprotected."

Palina nodded. "I will encourage her to visit her grandmother in Eastern Mountain City. She can remain there with my mother while we are away. It may provide her some comfort as well since Telan will be gone, and the Eastern Quadrant has always been a stronghold for my family."

Cantel nodded. "I will assign a Dragoon Troup to escort and remain with her while she is there, men that I trust, and that can watch Telan's enforcers as well."

Palina nodded and touched his arm. "We must proceed quickly, but we must be very careful." She said.

"It will be done Milady." He spoke.

SOUTHERN UTAH

CIRCLEVILLE

Edge of the Tushar Mountain range

There was a full moon this night, and it allowed the mercenary slavers to travel down what used to be an interstate highway. It was nothing more than a worn patch of clear land now, but it allowed the mercenary Hoppers to traverse the mountainous area with little difficulty and greater speed than normal. The moon was providing a great deal of light, which worked in their favor since half the twelve vehicles lacked any type of exterior lighting.

Three of the Hoppers were being used as transports, the backs of them holding large metal containers. Inside these three containers were almost sixty elf slaves taken during raids of surrounding elf villages. They would be transported to Cedar City Utah to be sold to the auctions there. The Cedar City Militia was the largest group of organized humans in the area, and next to the Salt Lake City Settlement, they were the largest in the state.

The driver of the lead vehicle heard the loud plopping noise come from the engine of his Hopper and he cursed when his control panel began to light up with alarms and red lights. He quickly pulled the Hopper to a halt and shut down the drive unit, while the four men that were sleeping began to wake up.

"What's wrong?" The man in the right seat asked groggily.

"The fucking cylinder drive has popped!" The driver replied. "I'm going to have to replace it!"

"Well make it quick!" The passenger spoke.

"Go back to fucking sleep!" The driver swore as he got out of the Hopper and moved around to the front of the vehicle, banging on the outer shell as he lifted the cylinder drive unit cover and pulling out his flashlight.

Martin lowered his binoculars and smiled. "Nice shooting Radama." He spoke softly into his implant.

"It is always a pleasure Commander." The voice replied in his ear piece.

Martin turned to the beautiful and bright emerald green eyes next to him on the ground. Dysea returned his gaze with a dazzling smile, her canine teeth now fully three quarters of an inch in length, and her emerald eyes outlined in black. Her platinum blond hair was even longer now, and for this operation she had stuffed it into the black balaclava that rested on top of her head. Three months had passed since they had come here, and the constant days in the sun working side by side with the man she so loved had changed her. Her body had been reforged into a deeply tanned temple of perfection, highlighting her platinum blond hair enormously. She had been in superb physical condition before, but now Dysea and all the elves that had accompanied Martin and the others had surpassed even their own expectations. All of them were now more muscular and lean, and the constant training with the remaining Genomes had honed their once deadly skills to even more lethal levels.

Dysea had now fully accepted the events that had led her to her current position. She was no longer Queen of her people, and was even wanted for treason by the Wood Elves, but those facts did nothing to dull her intent to return one day and take vengeance on the Council of Elders and regain her rightful place. She had also fully accepted the changes that had occurred to her since Martin had come into her life and captured her heart. They made love to each other almost every night, not stopping until they were both drained and exhausted. She welcomed the changes within her own body, realizing that she was becoming more like the man she so coveted. Martin held her very soul in his palm and he worshiped her very footsteps, but they both knew that they were not complete. They still worried for Tarifa and they knew she had married, and was still active in her duties as Queen, but information was hard to come by without exposing their location to everyone that may have been looking for them.

Martin leaned over, his own eyes changing to yellow orbs outlined in black and his fangs extending to their full length of one inch. He kissed a smiling Dysea gently.

“Shall we Melda Min?” He spoke.

“Yes I think we shall Nauta Melme.” Dysea replied.

Martin turned back to the convoy of Hoppers below him in the valley. “Ok ladies and germs. Let’s get this party going!”

The driver of the damaged Hopper used his flashlight to inspect the cylinder drive of the Hopper, reaching forward with his hand. His face changed when he felt the large hole in the drive and he moved the flashlight to get a better look. His eyes grew wide when he saw the jagged edges of the hole, his eyes going up to the cover. He saw the stars through the large hole in the metal cover and his eyes flew open.

“It’s an ambush!” He screamed, whirling around and reaching for the weapon in the holster at his side.

His hand closed over the large side arm just as the black clad giant appeared in front of him. All he could see were the glowing yellow eyes of the monstrosity in front of him, and he lost control of his bladder as he saw the glint of steel in the moonlight.

“It’s time to die asshole!” The voice told him just before the eight inch blade penetrated his abdomen.

The mercenaries’ eyes bugged out of his head and he extended up on his tip toes trying to get the agonizing pain that was ripping through his guts to stop. He heard a strange, wet plopping sound and his eyes drifted downward to see his intestines spilling from inside his belly. He dropped his flashlight, reaching down to try and stuff his organs back inside his body just before there was a bright flash and his head exploded in a shower of blood and brain matter over the windshield of the Hopper.

Dysea stepped up to the side of the Hopper and stuck her silenced HK74 into the window of the vehicle, ripping out a long burst of 10mm Teflon coated rounds. She didn’t pause to watch as the three bodies in the Hopper jerked back and forth from multiple hits, their blood splashing all over the inside of the Hopper.

The mercenary driver’s scream of alarm caused many of the mercenaries to clamber out of their vehicles, many still sleepy and sluggish and they moved directly into criss-crossing fields of fire as Martin’s team of nine Genomes and eleven elves opened fire at the same time.

Martin and Dysea swept along the back side of the convoy with Radama and the Master Chief, their HK’s spitting out death to whoever attempted to exit their Hoppers. One mercenary made it half way out of his vehicle as Dysea stepped up to the front. She snapped out a front kick that slammed into the door and drove it back into the man’s legs, and he screamed in pain as one leg shattered under the enormous power of the blow. He lifted his head just as Dysea stepped up to the door.

“You fucking elf bitch!” The man screamed, struggling to bring his rifle to bear.

Dysea’s emerald eyes, now fully outlined with black stared at the man in undisguised hatred. She grabbed the door and using her elf strength, now fully enhanced with DNA from Martin’s genome cells, she rammed it forward again. The man dropped his rifle as his arm and shoulder were crushed in the door and he glanced up to see Dysea’s eyes and fangs only inches from his horrified face.

“I am no bitch!” Dysea screamed back at him before shoving the door forward with another surge of strength and hearing the mercenary’s chest splinter and shatter under the crunching metal.

Dysea turned to see Martin leap forward nearly twenty meters, his HK dropping to dangle on the quick release strap as he pulled his knife from its sheath on his thigh. His opposite hand also filled with High Elf steel, and both blades flashed in the moonlight. Martin’s jump took him directly into a group of four mercenaries, where he drove one to the ground as he landed on him with all of his two hundred and twenty plus pounds.

Dysea watched with adoring love as his jump broke the back of the mercenary, driving splinters of his shattered vertebrae into his heart and killing him instantly. Martin kicked out with his right booted foot and slammed it into the head of another mercenary, the combat toe connecting with the mercenaries' temple and instantly shattering his skull. The man's body crumpled like a noodle as Martin spun to his right, one of his knives flashing in the dim light. The razor sharp blade sliced through the third mercenaries' throat, cutting through most of the muscle on his neck, and severing his jugular vein as well as his larynx. The fourth mercenary was considerably luckier than his partners, and he was able to raise his sidearm far enough to get off three shots, two of which punched into Martin's shoulder area, causing him to stagger back slightly.

The mercenary's face flashed a grin of false victory, and he adjusted his aim to Martin's head. He felt and heard the tearing sound and looked down to see the bloody point of the knife punch through his chest. Dysea stepped up behind him, driving her other blade into his lower back with equal force. She brought her lips close to his ear and whispered into his dying brain.

"This is for every female elf you have ever taken against her will."

Dysea slashed her blades together and they tore them from his body, blood fountaining onto the ground in front of him.

Anja and Danny moved toward the last of the Hopper transports, their HKs extended in front of them. Julie had swept in from the other side with two elves and they were eliminating any mercenary targets close to the last Hopper.

As Anja passed the door to the cockpit of the Hopper a mercenary leaped from the back, his hands closing around her HK and knocking them both to the ground. Danny lifted his HK, but did not fire for fear of hitting Anja. He needn't have worried.

Anja rolled to her feet first, butt stroking the mercenary viciously as she came up several feet away from him. She let her HK drop to dangle on its strap and she looked at the man as he too got to his feet. He was larger than her by several inches and outweighed her easily by sixty a hundred pounds. His eyes were flared with anger and hate as he glared at her.

"I'm going to beat your tight ass bitch!" He screamed.

Anja jettisoned her HK with a savage smile and tossed it to where Danny was now standing by the edge of the Hopper. The firing had stopped completely as the mercenaries were being dragged from the vehicles dead by others in her team as more went to unlock the Hopper containers to free the captive elves.

Anja's green eyes changed then, narrowing into jade green orbs and black filling the white pupil area to outline the green. Her canine teeth extended as well, lengthening to half an inch much like Dysea's and she motioned the larger mercenary forward.

"Come on then big boy!" She growled at him.

The mercenary paused for a second taking in her new appearance and he answered with more bravado than he felt. "I'll show you big boy you cunt! I'm going to beat you silly and then fuck you like you ain't ever been fucked before!"

"You are so dead." Anja spat at him.

The mercenary never saw the leaping front kick that plowed into his chest and sent him flipping backwards. He landed painfully with a loud grunt, struggling to get to his feet. Anja descended upon him with no hesitation and plenty of anger. Julie stepped up next to Danny, who was watching with a grin on his face as several others of Martin's team stopped to watch as well. Anja did not relent and was pummeling the mercenary with brutal punches and kicks. All of them could hear bones breaking in the still air, and grunts of pain from him as Anja methodically proceeded to beat him to death.

No one among the elves or genomes attempted to stop her, and after a long few moments Anja finally stopped beating the mercenary on her own. The man was curled into a protective fetal position, his face a mass of blood and torn flesh. His lips were mangled, and both his eyes were swollen shut. Almost all of his ribs were shattered and he was dragging one broken leg behind him as he used his remaining strength to try and crawl away from the red headed devil standing above him.

Anja spit on his body and stood above him, before she reached down and took his blood matted hair in her fist pulling his face up off the ground. "Your shriveled little toy couldn't begin to compare to the man that rocked my world little man! And he still does... even in my dreams you pathetic excuse for a man." She snarled at him.

Julie looked at Danny oddly as she heard several of their teammates laugh. Julie knew exactly who Anja was talking about and it wasn't Danny. The last three months had been filled with plenty of work and patrols, and she had spent more time with Anja than Danny had. She never denied him her attention when the three of them were together, and she even enjoyed herself, but Julie knew her heart was no longer in the relationship they had. She sensed Anja drawing away from them, in fact she sensed they were all drawing away from each other. Anja was still madly in love with Martin, and nothing was ever going to change that. She only hoped that the Skipper found a way to get over that one hump in regards to her to see that she loved him. She had also noticed the female elf Dysea had taken a shine to Anja, always looking at her from a distance, always with those incredible emerald green eyes.

She and Danny had drawn apart as well, though much more slowly. It was more of a mutual effect as both of them were discovering new things to keep them busy, and they were also discovering new friends. Julie smiled to herself. While she was sure they would always remain steadfast and loyal friends, they were outgrowing each other and soon they would go their separate ways.

Danny shook his head and looked at Julie who smiled at him. "Remind me never to get on her bad side."

Anja shoved his head back to the ground, the force of the blow dropping him mercifully into unconsciousness. She took a deep breath and turned around to see most of the team watching her with amused expressions on their faces. She watched Danny and Julie walk up to her with several others, all of them smiling widely.

"He... he kind of pissed me off." Anja said almost embarrassed.

"No kidding?" Julie replied, stepping up to her and slipping her arm around Anja's slim waist. "Remind me to never piss you off girl."

Dysea and Martin were helping the elves from inside the container and were motioning them back where others were handing out blankets and water. Martin had seen the latter portion of her fight and his eyes now remained on Anja as the others crowded around her. For the briefest of moments he thought he saw her eyes settle on him and look at him with desire and need. He didn't see Dysea look up at him as her hands inspected his body armor. Dysea looked at Martin, their balaclavas now dangling behind their shoulders. Her platinum blond hair was easily visible in the moon light.

"Nauta Melme, you were shot." She spoke helping another captive elf to the ground.

Martin looked at her and then down to the wound in his shoulder. "It only grazed me. The second one was caught by my vest."

"That was foolish, leaping into a group of four mercenaries." Dysea told him. "You could have been hurt badly."

Martin assisted the last elf out of the Hopper and turned to face her fully as the newly freed elves watched them with expressions of astonishment. "You were watching my back Melda Min." He said.

"That does not excuse your actions." Dysea spoke.

"I was trying to impress you." Martin said.

"Nauta Melme you could have been hurt!"

Martin stepped closer to her. "Did it work?" He asked, drawing her into his arms.

Dysea couldn't help but smile at the expression on his face and she nodded. "Yes it did." She told him, kissing him gently.

"I wouldn't worry about the Skipper too much Dy." Danny spoke walking up behind them, Julie and Anja in tow with the others. "He's too ornery to die."

Dysea smiled at him. Many among Martin's team had taken to calling her Dy as a show of affection.

"You... you are the Falre Lome." The former captive male elf spoke looking at Martin and Dysea with wide eyes, "The Phantoms of the Night."

"Excuse me?" Martin asked, looking at the man.

"The Phantoms of the Night," The man repeated. "All of the villages in the area have been speaking of you in whispers. How you have rescued other elves and are building a city in the mountains." The elf spoke. "They speak of how humans and elves live side by side in harmony. And that they are led by a man who is not completely human, and always at his side is a female elf with hair the color of white gold."

Martin looked at Dysea with a smile. "That must be why you taste so good." He told her.

Dysea jabbed him in the lower back with her fingers, "Pervert." She spoke with a smile. She stepped around Martin and looked at the sixty elves that were sitting or kneeling on the ground. "You are free now." She told them. "Take what you can from these animals and go!"

"They have destroyed our villages!" A woman spoke, coming forward. "We have nothing to return too! This is all that remains from three villages of nearly seven hundred of us."

Dysea looked at Martin in the moon light and saw his nod. She turned back to the female elf. "I am sorry we could not have stopped these scum sooner. We have been tracking them for two weeks but it wasn't until this night that we were able to act."

"You... you are Dysea." The woman spoke. "You were Queen of the Wood Elves."

Dysea nodded her head slowly as murmurs swept through the crowd of elves and they all moved a little closer to see her. "That is true." She spoke. "I was betrayed by those close to me and branded a traitor. One day I will return to take back my throne, but now I am helping to build something better for all elves."

"Then the rumors are true?" The first man to speak said. "You... you are building a city here in the mountains, a city of men and elves."

"Not just men and elves." Martin spoke. "It is a city... a place for everyone who wants to live free of slavery and hatred and fear. I am not completely human, and neither are some of the others with me, but we fight for the same thing."

"What is this city called?" A voice spoke from near the back.

Martin stood there taken aback. The decision to settle and begin rebuilding had come to him almost as an afterthought. It was a natural process in his thinking, and everyone seemed to fall in with him with no questions. He thought about it for the very first time right this minute. He could recall the excitement in the voices of the men and women, as well as the elves that had accompanied them from Mountain City. It did not hit home for him as to why they were excited until this very moment. The deaths of his comrades, brothers and sisters he had fought with for years and having Tarifa torn away like she was from his grasp had clouded his mind to almost all else. It is then he realized that the men and women with him, to include the elves, they all saw something in him that inspired them to build something better than what they had seen so far.

They were rebuilding their future.

"It is called Eden!" The male voice spoke from behind Martin. He turned to see Radama step from the darkness, several elves and genomes behind him. "It is called Eden... and it will be the greatest city to ever exist one day; a city where men and elves and all who wish peace and prosperity can live and watch their children grow without fear of persecution and war." He walked up to stand next to Martin. "It is called Eden... and you will be welcomed without question if you desire these things. If you do not, then you will be left to wallow in your own misery. We will defend it with our dying breaths, and any who wish to bring us harm will be crushed under our heel. Join us! Join us and live free!"

Martin looked at Dysea as the newly freed elves began to stir among themselves. His eyes moved to where Radama stood and the former High Elf Royal Guard Commander grinned. "Tarifa once told me you were not good with words Martin Hunter." He spoke softly. "I hope you don't mind."

Martin grinned. "I would have gotten around to that part." He said sheepishly.

"Yeah... when pigs fucking fly," Tony muttered from beside Radama. That brought laughter from the genomes and elves within Martin's team.

"That could very well be the case in this day and age Master Chief." Anja spoke from where she stood between Danny and Julie. "Who knows what we will see in the future."

Tony nodded quickly, "Point taken Anja."

"We will join with you Martin Hunter." The man who had spoken first called out. "We will join with you and work beside you to see this city... this Eden become reality. All we have now are our hopes and dreams."

Dysea slipped her hand into Martin's and looked at him. "That is all any of us have right now sir." She spoke. "And that is enough for the moment."

HIGH ELF VILLAGE SALINA, UTAH

“It is a great honor that you have arrived Milady.” The governor of Salina spoke, bowing his head as Palina settled into the chair in his office.

Palina smiled and looked at the portly elf. “My daughter sends her regrets that she could not come herself, but she has pressing duties within the capital.”

“That the Queen thought to send you is proof enough that she is as wise as she is beautiful.” The governor spoke, motioning to his aide to present the crystal cups of tea. Palina accepted the tea from the aide and sipped it, allowing the liquid to warm her insides. The trip had been long, but true to his boast Roland had led them non-stop to Salina without having to detour around any human settlements.

“You have done quite well with your city governor.” Palina told the man. “I noticed though that almost half of your defensive positions are not manned. Why is that?”

“They have not been needed Milady.” He answered.

“Is that because of the Falre Lome?” Palina asked softly, watching the man’s eyes.

The governor looked at her surprised that she knew of the phantom soldiers that had become very real. They had been running throughout the mountains destroying mercenary units almost daily. They had even destroyed the mercenary base camp set up only a few miles from Salina, destroying the entire camp and leaving no survivors before they blended back into the night.

The governor nodded his head slowly. “Yes Milady.” He answered.

“So the rumors that are making their way back to Mountain City are true?” Palina asked him.

“They have brought slaver raids almost to a halt in the lower portion of our territory Milady.” The governor told her. “They destroyed the base camp first, wiping out every mercenary there. They left nothing but the frames of the buildings they did not destroy and an unmarked grave.”

Palina looked at Cantel who stood to her side. He nodded his head. “He is no fool Milady. It appears they are stripping everything that they might be able to use, leaving nothing to be scavenged.”

Palina turned back to the governor. “And what about these rumors of the city Governor Kadeem?”

“I have not heard those rumors Milady, but I do know that it is next to impossible to get close to what used to be know as Junction City. The closest my scouts have been able to penetrate into the territory the Falre Lome has claimed is ten miles from the actual city.” The governor said.

“I don’t understand.” Palina asked. “They have claimed territory?”

“There... are... warning signs posted Milady. They stretch for miles... warning all who enter into this area of a minefield and certain death.” The governor answered. “My scouts tracked a mercenary patrol that breached this warning line and watched them die after they had gone only five hundred meters.”

“And your scouts survived?” Palina asked.

“They retraced their own footsteps Milady, and went back the way they had come.” Kadeem answered. “Very quickly I might add. We have not tried to enter that area since that day.”

Palina nodded. “A wise move I suspect.”

“It is free territory Milady.” Kadeem told her. “High Elf lands end twelve miles south of Salina. There is a stretch of three miles and then the land that the Flare Lome has claimed begins. There were many free elf villages outside of our boundaries, some that we used to trade with. They no longer exist. Our scouts tell me the mercenaries destroyed most of them, and the others were simply abandoned.”

“And all this has happened in the last three months?” Palina asked shocked.

Kadeem nodded. “Yes Milady.”

Palina looked at Cantel once more before getting to her feet. “Governor I will need three of your scouts to take us to the border of the Falre Lome territory tomorrow.” She spoke.

Kadeem came to his feet. “Milady... I do not recommend that. There are still several large mercenary groups operating within this territory. While they are not large enough to present Salina any danger, they are most certainly a danger to smaller ground forces moving through the area.”

Palina nodded. “I thank you for your concern governor, but I don’t believe we will be in any danger. I would like to leave first thing in the morning if you don’t mind.”

Kadeem bowed his head, “As you wish Milady.” He spoke.

Palina nodded. "Excellent." She turned quickly and left the governor's office with Cantel on her heels. "Is this wise Milady?" He asked as they walked. "We do not even know for sure if this Falre Lome is part of Hunter's group."

Palina looked at him and smiled. "Martin Hunter and Dysea are this Falre Lome." She said.

"How can you be so sure Milady?" Cantel asked.

Palina simply smiled and continued walking. "I'm sure."

Dysea's fists curled around the blanket, tearing it from the corners of the bed in a fit of agonizing pleasure as Martin drove every thick, throbbing and delicious part of his twelve inch cock into her tight sopping cunt.

"Lil Nauta Melme, Lil!" She screamed out her pleasure, her fangs fully extended and her emerald eyes outlined in black. (More Bounded One, more.)

Dysea was kneeling beside their bed, her upper body on the soft sheets and blanket, while her lower body was suspended in the air impaled as she was on her beloved's will crushing cock. Dysea shuddered in another crushing climax as he bottomed out inside her blazing hot pussy, his pelvis grinding against her super sensitive pierced clit. She felt his cum filled balls nestle against her dripping pussy, his hips moving with smooth, powerful twelve inch strokes into her. Martin had been fucking her for nearly an hour now, dominating her in every way, leaving Dysea to simply scream out his name and relish in the sensations of the orgasms erupting from her on a continual basis. The orgasms never seemed to stop and one raging climax followed another, her juices pouring from her like a river, coating his pile driving manhood and both of their upper thighs.

Martin leaned over Dysea's tanned muscular back, his tongue tracing up her spine, tasting her sweaty skin and inhaling her wildflower scent. His fangs were fully extended, his eyes yellow within black. Her scent was intoxicating to him, like a drug he was addicted too. He could feel her spasming pussy clutching and milking his steel hard pole, wanting him to erupt within her and not willing to let him go until he did. He had been hammering his aching cock into this beautiful female elf for almost an hour, her wildflower scent and cries of rapture, not to mention her sizzling kisses, helping him to remain hard as a rock, even after filling her twice already with his come. Martin was still not used to the fact that this beautiful creature withering in orgasmic bliss beneath him owned a piece of his very soul. There were many beautiful elves and women within the city they were building, yet only two could hold any sway over him. He possessed one of them, as she possessed him, and his mind was always filled with the images of the tight bodied Persian haired female his body ached for just as intensely as it ached for Dysea.

This platinum haired elf was one of the strongest women he had ever met in his life. She was supremely intelligent and a superior warrior in every way, and their time together had only toned her body and made her even more lethally efficient. He never tired of her body or her scent in his head or in his bed, and they were always finding ways to touch one another in whatever way they could, simply to express their feelings for each other. What he felt for Dysea he had felt and still felt for only one other woman in his life. It was a powerful emotion, and no matter what he did, his heart ached for both of them.

Dysea was gripped in another shattering orgasm, her head on the bed, her lips parted in breathless cries of delight. Never had she imagined she could feel what she was feeling. The power of his body, the way he so dominated her with his passion and desire, yet his touch was always the gentlest she had ever felt and just the tips of his fingers could send jolts of pleasure shooting through her. And when he nuzzled her elfin ear as he so often did, and he wrapped her within that imaginary aura that so possessed her, Dysea would never; could never deny him. And that thought made her blood boil in need and desire for him. Whenever she was with him, she could feel his imaginary embrace around her, though it was definitely more pronounced and intense when he was making love to her with this much passion. At these times it was like a soothing blanket that embraced and swallowed her whole.

Martin leaned all the way forward, pressing his chest to Dysea's back and grinding his huge throbbing cock deep within her. He could feel her engorged pierced clit against his skin and he smiled as his cock grinding sent her over the edge once more. His hands dug under her sweaty body to grip her 36C tits in his hands and he pulled her up to him, causing Dysea to shriek in pleasure as she sank even further onto his massive cock. He wrapped his arms around her tight, holding her large firm tits in his hands and placed his lips next to her gorgeous elf ear.

“Inye melme elye Melda Min.” He whispered into her ear before he groaned loudly and erupted inside her. (I love you Beloved One.)

Dysea’s eyes were wide in surprise and adoration, her whole body going rigid in an earth shattering orgasm as she felt Martin’s boiling hot cum explode from the head of his massive cock buried deep in her womb. She sang out her euphoric bliss and did not care who heard her, wrapped in the powerful embrace of the man who so dominated her very existence now.

They fell forward onto the bed, Martin’s cock continuing to spew his delicious load deeply into her belly. It was one of the most intense orgasms she had ever felt from her love, and it flooded her with a sense of peace and contentment.

“Inye melme elye Nauta Melme.” Dysea whispered just before sleep took her into its peaceful embrace.

Dysea lay sprawled against Martin’s hip and chest, her naked flesh pressed to his as her fingers gently traced the muscles and tattoos on his powerful abdomen. They had awakened with the sun pouring into the large window in their bedroom, and Martin held a steaming mug of coffee in his hand that they were sharing. Her platinum blond hair was splayed across her shoulders and down her back, the sheet covering only the firm cheeks of her muscular ass, her tanned legs uncovered and draped over Martin’s legs.

“Inye elmenda la carita eryl Nauta Melme.” She spoke softly, her head on his chest. (I wonder what she does now Bounded Love.)

“Sie lye Inye Melda Min,” Martin answered softly. (As do I Beloved One.)

“Then why do we not return and simply ask her why she did this?” Dysea asked, tilting her head up to look at his face.

Martin smiled softly. “I would like nothing better.” He replied, reaching out to stroke the silky skin of her shoulder. “Aside from the fact that it would quite possibly start a war we could not win, why does it matter now?”

“I do not believe what her father told us!” Dysea proclaimed. “I refuse to believe him. Not after what we shared. There is a part of me Nauta Melme... she opened a part of me I never knew existed, and I never had the chance to say thank you.”

Martin nodded. “It is the same for me.” He said softly.

“Then why do we do nothing?”

“I... I am...”

Dysea lifted herself along his body... feeling his flaccid cock between her thighs as she settled onto his lap. She ignored the shiver of pleasure it caused her and she took his face in her hands. “You are afraid.” She said softly, her face showing her surprise. “You fear... you fear you will lose me as well?”

Martin met her stunning emerald eyes with his own dark brown ones and slowly nodded his head. Dysea pulled his head to her breasts and felt his arms wrap around her almost painfully. “That is why... that is why you make love to me with such passion and intensity. You fear I will leave you as well.” She whispered. “Like Anja left you?”

Martin pulled his head back and looked at her his eyes wide. “How... how do you know about Anja?” He asked.

Dysea smiled and kissed him deeply. “It is not exactly a secret Nauta Melme.” She told him. “And I wanted to discover as much about the man who holds my heart so tightly that I could find. I asked.”

“Who did you ask?” Martin said quickly.

Dysea shrugged, “This person and that.” She replied.

“Melda Min!” He told her, his face lined with a small smile.

“Does it matter where I learned it... or does what I learned matter more?” She spoke.

“And what did you learn?” Martin asked his hands going to her hips and he leaned back slightly against the head board looking at her.

“I learned that you and Anja had a very torrid night many years ago.” Dysea spoke softly, “And that because she feared or did not understand what you were, she ended something that you did not want to end.”

Martin nodded slowly. "That's about the crux of it yes." He replied.

"She is a different person now Nauta Melme. All of you are different. Do not hold something that she regrets deeply against her." Dysea spoke.

Martin nodded. "Maybe... but that doesn't matter. She has someone... two actually, and I have you. I don't need anyone else. And how do you know she regrets what happen between us?"

"I am a woman and I have eyes." Dysea replied with that womanly "You silly man" look. "Even better than I did before thanks to what you have made me in to. It is my understanding that she has found her own apartment here in Eden City." Dysea spoke.

Martin nodded. "I had heard something along those lines." He said.

Dysea shook her head slowly, stroking his shoulders and back and kissing him softly and tenderly. "No Nauta Melme, you should never fear that I will leave you. I do not know why Nauta Melme, but I feel you and I are meant for one another, and not because of something that the Holy One might have done. There is something far greater at work where we are concerned Nauta Melme, and we will discover it together." Dysea smiled in love and fulfillment as his arms circled her waist and pulled her tightly to him. We will all discover it together. Dysea thought to herself as she wrapped her arms around his head, and Anja will be with us to discover it as well.

UTAH OUTSIDE JOSEPH OLD ROUTE 70

The three Raptors were parked in the small clearing, their ramps down and three dozen genomes, humans and elves spread about near the bottoms of the ramps calmly eating their rations and talking among themselves. Weapons were draped across laps or leaning against the Raptors where the elves and men sat. Three miles away rested the remains of a small column of slaver vehicles and twenty dead bodies which were even now being swallowed up by the creatures of the timber.

Leland sat on the edge of the Raptor's ramp calmly eating the power bar from his ration pack, his eyes touching each and every person in his team.

His team.

Five of the remaining nineteen genomes, ten male and female elves and twenty-one human men and women made up Leland's command. He had been stunned when Martin had come to him and asked him to take over his own small unit. He needed leaders who could lead, and Dysea told him he was exactly that. He had accepted immediately, and found his three dozen men and women to be the finest unit he had led in his lifetime. The elves and genomes he knew were superior warriors, but the men and women who had trained extremely hard for six weeks were shaping up to be the backbone of his unit. They trained hard everyday, pushing them beyond anything they would have thought they were capable of. And they all looked to Leland for leadership.

Martin had assigned his unit three Raptors, with a senior pilot among the group to provide the back up and experience in flight operations that Leland lacked. He had scientists and doctors within his unit that had volunteered to go through the training, and pound for pound they were just as lethal as the elves and genomes, and in realistic terms, they had more brain power than even Martin's team.

Leland loved Dysea like a sister, and over the years he had overcome the boyhood crush he had on her, but this is where he belonged. He needed to lead warriors, and Martin had given him the chance.

They were returning from a sensitive intelligence gathering mission into Wood Elf territory and had come across the mercenary column. They had made short work of the scum and then landed here to check for anything that might have been able to use. Leland had made the decision to remain here and allow everyone to eat and rest for a few hours before they made the final twenty minute flight back to Junction City, or what everyone was now calling Eden City.

He turned his head when the senior pilot Martin had assigned to him sat down beside him. Leland had never in his life felt any sort of attraction to a human female until he had met Cathy. She was a petite female, barely topping five feet tall, but as Danny had once commented to him shortly after Leland found out he was getting this team, she was built like a brick shit house. Cathy Parnelli was of Sicilian descent as Leland had learned upon meeting her, one of the many cultures of earth from her time. She wore her dark brown hair very short, and that framed a deeply tanned heart shaped face and dark brown eyes. She bore the signs of previous battles upon her face in the form of several scars on the left side of her cheek and along her jaw. The results of a missile strike into her aircraft over the battlefields of Venezuela. However, her most prominent feature was her enormous breasts. Her flight suit did little to hide her breasts as they strained against the material, and they seemed almost too large for her diminutive frame, but when you added in her small waist and extremely well formed ass and legs, Leland saw what Danny had meant.

“So how do you think it went?” Cathy asked, taking the wrapping off the power bar before bringing it to her lips and taking a bite.

Leland tore his eyes from the way her lips moved as she chewed and he nodded. “It went better than I had hoped.” He answered. “There is much more grumbling among my people in regards to the Council’s actions in recent months.”

“Do you think they believed you that Dysea is alive and well?”

“I believe so.” He replied. “I knew many of the senior Commanders, and I believe I convinced them. I know the Commander of the Wood Elf Rangers believed me. He was a staunch supporter of Dysea and hated the Elders.”

“Well if these Rangers are half as good as you say they are; we can sure use them.” Cathy spoke.

Leland nodded in agreement. “Yes we can.” He said.

“So am I going to have to jump your bones?” Cathy asked almost casually.

Leland looked at her. “Excuse me?” he asked.

Cathy looked at him surprised. “Did you get out much working with Dysea?” She asked him in a calm voice.

“I don’t understand.” Leland said, turning to face her.

“Leland, do you find me attractive?” Cathy asked meeting his blue eyes.

“I... well... that is a strange question to ask me Cathy.” Leland stuttered out.

“You do, don’t you?” Cathy said, moving closer to him. “I’ve seen the way you look at me.”

“I... I respect your obvious skills. You are an exceptional pilot and an excellent warrior from what I have seen.” Leland replied.

“And that’s all?”

“What else is there?” He asked.

Cathy’s face changed slightly and she leaned back. “Oh.” She said softly. “I must have been wrong.” She stood up slowly and turned. “I’ll be on the observation deck when you want to head back.”

Leland watched her walk back up the ramp into the Raptor, the sway of her ass catching his eye easily, as her ass was nearly as firm and tight as any female ass he had ever seen. He felt a tug in his loins and got slowly to his feet looking around at his team. All of them were preoccupied doing other things and he tried to be as casual as possible as he walked up the ramp after her.

Cody smiled to the elf fighter he was sitting next to under the shade of the tree. “I think the boss is about to get lucky.” He said.

The elf soldier chuckled. “It took him long enough to realize that she wanted him.” He said.

“It looks like Leland is going to go where no man has gone before.” Cody said with a little smile.

“What do you mean Cody?” The elf asked.

“I can’t begin to tell you how many guys have tried to get into Cathy “Ice Queen” Parnelli’s pants in the last four years.” Cody told him.

“They have not succeeded I take it?” The elf warrior asked.

“Succeeded?” Cody laughed. “Most of them were shot down with flames coming from their asses before they even got to first base. She may be a looker, but she is by no means easy.”

Leland walked up the stairs into the observation deck and saw Cathy leaning over the plot board they had set up. He watched her for a long moment before stepping forward.

“Cathy... I...”

“Is there something wrong with me?” Cathy asked turning around slowly and looking at him.

“Wrong with you, what do you mean? No... are you injured?” Leland asked, his eyes becoming concerned.

“I don’t think I’ve ever had to work this hard to get a man Leland.” Cathy told him. “You haven’t been catching all the usual signs.”

“Usual signs? I don’t understand.” He told her.

Cathy stepped up to him. “Brushing up against you; giving you the coy looks. Do you not like women?”

“What? No!” Leland exclaimed.

“Is it the scars?” Cathy spoke, turning her head slightly to show him the three jagged scars. “A lot of men are turned off by the scars. Of course a lot of men miss the scars completely because they’re staring at my tits or my ass.” Cathy folded her arms under her breasts looking at him. “Which one is it for you?”

“Cathy... I... I did not think you would be interested in a... I didn’t think you would be interested in a male of my species.” Leland finally managed to spit out.

“Your species,” Cathy said with a small smile, moving closer to him. “You think because you are an elf and you have ears that are different that you are any less attractive to me?”

“It... it is not something elves are used to.” Leland replied honestly.

“Well for your information... I think elf ears are very sexy, and your ears in particular.” Cathy spoke.

“My ears...?” Leland asked.

Cathy stepped up to him and reached out to stroke his right ear. “Yes your ears.” She said softly.

Leland felt a hot shiver run through him and he reached up to grab her hand. “Don’t do that.” He said quickly.

“Why?”

“Elf... elf ears are very sensitive.” He said as his heart began pounding and his blood began to roar in his veins.

“Yes... I know.” Cathy said moving even closer, pressing her body against his.

Leland looked at her with wide eyes. “You... you desire me?” He asked more than a little astonished.

“Leland that is what I’ve been trying to get across to you for a couple of months now.” She told him with a gentle smile.

“Cathy... it would... it would not be...”

“I know you want me.” Cathy said. “And I know I want you. You can’t deny it Leland. Your body is giving you away. Your ears are turning red, and I can practically feel your heart pounding.”

Leland looked at her. “Who... who told you that?”

Cathy smiled. “I’ve been talking with Dysea. She told me the signs an elf exhibits when they desire someone. And she was dead on accurate. Now if you don’t bend me over this plot board and take me Leland... I’m going to pin you against the bulkhead and take you.”

Leland looked into her dark eyes and surrendered to what was washing over him. He grabbed her in his arms and kissed her hard, plunging his tongue between her lips and hearing her moan in acceptance. Cathy began pulling at his uniform as he pushed her toward the plot board, his hands tearing at her flight suit. Her body was on fire in a way she had never felt before, and she loved it. She gasped against his lips when his strong hands finally pulled her flight suit down past her shoulders and he grabbed her 38D breasts in his hands and squeezed them roughly.

Cathy’s hands were not unmoving as she frantically got his fatigue pants unfastened and yanked them down. Her eyes grew a little wider as her hands wrapped around his burning cock and she felt how hot he was. Leland grabbed her head in his hands and pulled his lips from hers, looking into her smoldering dark eyes and flushed skin. His blue eyes were clouded with passion and desire and Cathy flicked her tongue across his lips, trying to kiss him again. She could feel her pussy leaking all over, soaking right through her cotton panties. She had never been this sexually aroused before and it was driving her mad.

Leland stared at her face and did not see the scars on her cheek that marred her beauty. He did not see the bored look of the female elf girls he had bedded. He saw hot passion in her eyes, passion and desire for him.

“I am going to take you woman!” He hissed at her.

Cathy gasped when he spun her around and pawed her tits again. Her nipples were harder than she had ever seen them and she gasped when his fingers squeezed and pulled on them. She had no time to think as he pushed her forward and took her panties in one hand, yanking them from her in one pull. Leland wasted no time as the desire for this woman had taken over him. He moved her legs a little wider and took his cock in his hand. He rubbed the burning head of his shaft over her engorged pussy lips, coating the swollen head of his cock with her juices which were pouring from her already. He eased the head of his cock forward, delving between her dripping cunt lips and took hold of her waist, burying his enflamed cock into this beautiful woman in one powerful stroke.

Cathy's eyes went wide and she cried out in pleasure gripping the edges of the plot board as Leland sank every hot delicious portion of his seven inch cock into her in a single glorious plunge. When she felt his cum filled balls slap against the backs of her tight thighs Cathy shuddered in the most powerful orgasm she had ever experienced in her twenty-seven years of life and her cum exploded from her coating Leland's cock in sweet liquid.

Feeling her cum showering his cock within the silky walls of her pussy Leland began to pound into her with powerful strokes, rocking her forward on the plot board again and again. Even the females in Dysea's Royal Court that he had bedded did not respond to him as Cathy was. She began thrusting her tight ass back at him, gripping the side of the plot board for support, her face contorted in blissful pleasure as he drove completely into her on every stroke. The only sounds on the observation deck were the slapping of his heated ball sack against her slick skin and their grunts of effort and pleasure. Leland's eyes went wide as he felt the familiar surge in his gut so soon, Cathy's pussy gripping him tighter than any elf female ever had. He could not hold back any longer, the sight of this woman beneath him responding as she was to him pushed him over the edge.

Leland slammed into her one final time driving them both against the plot board. He felt Cathy's hands reach around behind her to clutch his hips tightly as his balls swelled and his cum erupted from his cock, flooding the belly of this beautiful human woman. Her head came back and she screamed as she came with him, her belly clenching in orgasmic delight. She reached under their bodies and her fingers found his swollen, pulsing balls and she squeezed gently. Leland hissed into the back of her neck, his face buried in her dark hair and felt another surge of his cum explode from his cock even more powerful than the first one.

Cathy was delirious with pleasure as she wrapped her fingers around his hot balls and felt them preparing another explosion into her. Her eyes opened wider as a third blast of his hot cum filled her... and then a fourth... and a fifth. His eruptions into her milking pussy were causing small mini orgasms to rock her continuously. It felt like a fire hydrant going off inside her womb as his cum filled her. It was the most indescribable sensation she had ever experienced as she felt each blast of his hot cum shoot from his deeply buried cock and splash against the walls of her pussy. Cathy had a total of eleven lovers in her life, and none of them had ever come close to making her feel what she was feeling now, and without a doubt, none of them had ever filled her with so much cum at one time. His cum was going to be leaking out of her the rest of the day, and that thought caused her to smile and wiggle her tight ass back against him.

Cathy felt Leland's cock twitch inside her one last time and he slumped forward, leaning over her back, his heaving chest pressing against her skin. His face was buried in her neck and she felt his tongue extend and tickle her under her own ear.

"I... I am sorry." He gasped into her ear. "I... I did not mean for it to be so quick."

"God... Leland... it was fantastic." Cathy spoke dreamily. "Will you do that to me for the rest of my life?" Leland gently took her face in his hand and turned it so that she could see him. She smiled at him, "Hi there lover." She spoke softly, licking her lips.

Leland smiled. "As often as you like." He said kissing her nose.

The pounding on the door of the observation deck brought them both out of their post passion cuddling.

"Hey you two, if you're finished fucking each other silly we got company coming from two different directions!" Cody's voice carried to them.

Leland's eyes closed and he sighed heavily. "This is not exactly the way I would have preferred to reveal my feelings for you." He said.

Cathy smiled and clenched her pussy muscles on his softening cock. "We can work on that tonight when we get back." She said softly.

"I'd like that." Leland spoke, "Very much."

"I suppose we should go to work huh?" She asked.

"It would seem to be prudent, yes." Leland replied with a smile.

"As much as I would love to stay just like we are lover... you have to... you have to get off me, or we aren't going anywhere." Cathy told him.

Leland's eyes went a little wider. "Oh... yes I suppose that would be helpful." He said.

They shared a lover's laugh as Leland extracted himself from Cathy's supple body and they reached for their clothes.

"The drone picked them up about ten minutes ago. We got one small elf column of six Hoppers headed south, and this mercenary column headed right for them." Cody told them as he motioned to the monitors in the rear of the Raptor.

"This is the group we have been looking for." Leland spoke, his hands moving to the screen and using the keyboard to zoom the small drone's cameras closer. The drone was launched whenever they landed, with someone constantly monitoring the feed. It was a procedure that Ben had put into place to try and keep them from getting caught with their pants down. It was also used to spot any anti-aircraft batteries or missile carrying personnel. "I recognize their vehicles."

"You mean the one from Cedar City?" Cathy asked.

Leland nodded. "Yes. They have been able to avoid our patrols for several weeks now. Commander Hunter is very interested in this group."

Cody's eyes narrowed. "Hey I recognize this dude." He said, touching the other monitor. He adjusted the camera and they watched it zoom in on the face of the elf in the lead vehicle. "This is one of War Master Asshole's Dragoons."

Leland looked at him. "Are you sure?"

"I never forget a dickhead." Cody spoke. "Why would elves from Mountain City be this far south?"

"They shouldn't be." Leland spoke. "This is free territory. Zoom in on the second Hopper there." He spoke.

Cathy adjusted the camera again and they watched the screen change to the face of the woman. They heard Leland's intake of breath.

"By the gods," He gasped.

Cathy looked at him. "Leland... what is it?"

"It is the Queen's mother." He spoke softly.

"Tarifa's mom," Cody asked. "Are you sure?"

Leland nodded. "All elves know the face of the High Elf mother." He said. "Just as all elves know the face of Dysea's mother."

"We need to contact the Skipper." Cody spoke.

Leland shook his head. "He left this morning to check the status of our exploratory teams in the Gulf. He won't return until this evening."

"The mercenaries will try to capture them." Cathy spoke.

Leland nodded. "And High Elf Dragoons will not allow themselves to be taken alive, and nor I fear will the Queen's mother."

"Leland we have to help them." Cathy said. "We can't just let them be captured or killed."

"I have no intention of allowing that to happen Nya Lisse Indil." He said. He turned to Cody. "Load the other Raptors. We will strike the mercenary column at this crossroads, drop our ground forces and seize Tarifa's mother. I'm quite sure Dysea would like to speak with her. They are not to be harmed, non-lethal weapons only."

Cody nodded and headed out of the Raptor as Cathy stepped up to Leland. "What did you call me?" She asked.

Leland turned from the screen and looked at her dark eyes. He smiled. "It means My Sweet Lily." He said.

Cathy smiled and crossed her arms under her large breasts. "And just how do you know I taste sweet?" She asked.

Leland stepped up to her quickly, his five foot seven frame towering over her by seven inches. "If your skin is any indication it will be an adventure I will enjoy experiencing and finding out this evening." He told her in a hushed voice, bending over to nuzzle her neck.

"I'll hold you to that." She said turning to head for the cockpit.

Palina stepped up to Cantel as the other four Hoppers shut down their engines and the Dragoons piled out. They were watching the spiraling smoke as it rose into the air from the blackened wreckage of nearly twenty Hoppers. They could see the bodies of mercenary troops lying all over, some still hanging from the vehicles.

“Cantel...?” Palina spoke softly.

“It... it was a column of mercenaries and slavers.” Cantel replied.

“What could have done this?” Palina asked.

“I fear we do not want to find out.” Cantel spoke as his keen eyes swept over the scene before him. He let them drift to the treeline along what used to be an interstate highway, trying to detect any sign of activity. Cantel was one of the most experienced Dragoons in terms of having seen battle. He had fought and survived in hundreds of situations against the Alliance, yet none of them made them as uneasy as he was at this very moment. “Milady I think we should head back to Salina.” He said.

“Surely whoever did this is no friend of slavers.” Palina spoke.

Cantel nodded. “I agree with that assessment.” He told her. “But it does not mean they are friends of elves.”

“Cantel we need...”

Palina’s words were drowned out by the deafening roar of powerful engines and they all looked skyward as three of the black Raptors dropped from above and hovered only a few meters off the ground on three different sides.

Cantel and Palina watched the helmeted head of the pilot in the huge Raptor directly in front of him, and they saw the large chain cannon under the nose track on them.

“My suggestion would be to lower your weapons to the ground.” The female voice boomed from the Raptor, very clear even over the engines, obviously being amplified by a loud speaker.

The Dragoon next to Cantel moved to bring his weapon up but they all flinched when the loud crack exploded from the Raptor and a single chain gun round punched into the armored Hopper effectively blowing apart its drive core. The next three rounds impacted the dirt in front of them only a few feet away sending chunks of earth and grass into the air.

“I only give one warning.” The female voice spoke again. “You’ve just had yours. Lower your weapons or I will commence firing and I will not stop until you are all dead. And do not believe for a second I will not fire, you have fucked us over once, and that won’t happen again.”

Palina grasped Cantel’s arm. “They know who we are!” She spoke excitedly. “Do as they say Cantel, quickly.”

“We will be defenseless!” Cantel hissed.

“You already are!” The other voice shouted now from the blowing dust and dirt.

Palina and Cantel, as well as the other Dragoons looked around and saw the black clad figures move quickly from the dust, weapons raised and leveled at them. They saw the single elf walking far slower and their eyes went to him as he walked up to them.

“I know you!” Palina spoke. “You are... your name is Leland! You were Dysea’s Guards Captain!”

“And I know you High Elf Mother.” Leland spoke. “Please do as my pilot has instructed you. I would not wish to test her possessiveness of my safety.”

“You will take us as prisoners!” Cantel demanded.

Leland raised his hand. “Nya Lisse Indil, when I drop my hand you may commence firing.” He spoke, his voice carrying through his implant to Cathy’s helmet in the Raptor.

“Copy that!” Cathy’s voice echoed from the loudspeaker.

Palina’s eyes went wide and she turned to the Dragoons. “Drop your weapons now!” She ordered.

“Milady... we will be their prisoners!” Cantel spoke urgently to her.

Palina ignored him and turned to Leland. “Better a prisoner than dead Cantel. I wish to speak with Martin and Dysea.” She said. “I invoke a Diplomatic Truce!”

Leland watched as the Dragoons lowered their weapons to the ground and his team moved in to secure them. He stepped up to Palina. "I think you will find Elf Mother that where we tread, the laws are different. However, I'm quite sure Dysea would welcome the opportunity to speak with you."

Leland turned to his men who were securing the hands of the Dragoons. "Lisse Indil we are secure here! Please set down if you would and we will load the prisoners and return to Eden." He turned back to a wide eyed Palina. "Welcome to our territory Elf Mother. Welcome to Eden City."

Palina was the only one within her group that was not bound in some fashion, and she let her eyes wander over those in the Raptor with them. The men and women were a mixture of human, elf and genome, yet they interacted as if there was no difference among them in the least. The shadow passed in front of her and she looked up to see Leland standing in front of her.

"Elf Mother... perhaps you would like to see what we have built in the three months since your husband and the High Elf Council of Elders expelled us." Leland said to her, motioning with his hand to the cockpit.

Palina glanced quickly at Cantel before getting to her feet and moving for the cockpit Leland right behind her. She climbed the small staircase and moved up into the cockpit to see the backs of the pilot and co-pilot. She turned and saw the engineer sitting at her station, and her eyes went a little wide when she realized the engineer was an elf.

Palina looked out the wide windshield and could see the other two Raptors holding on either side of their craft. In the distance she saw what appeared to be buildings of some sort, but they were still very far away. She turned to Leland. "We... we aren't moving." She said.

Leland nodded. "This is the OAL... the Outer Air Limit. All of our Raptors stop at this point to confirm our identity. We have been on Eden City's radar for the last fifty miles."

"You call this place Eden City. Like the base on the moon that Martin came from. Why?" Palina asked.

"From what I understand, and we have been away for a few days, Radama came up with the name during a raid a few nights ago that rescued roughly sixty elves from slavers." Leland told her.

"Radama you say?" Palina asked stunned. "Tarifa's former Royal Captain?"

Leland nodded, "One and the same."

Palina turned back to see Cathy reach above her head to the instrument panel. "Eden OAL Control this is Raptor 49, we are holding at OAL, point two four one and we are requesting approach clearance."

"Raptor 49, please begin transmitting your identifying beacon and code word." The voice came over the intercom system.

"Roger OAL Control, transmitting now." Cathy answered.

"Identity confirmed 49, welcome back. Please state your load out."

"Control we are returning full team plus sixteen." Cathy answered. "Please inform Dysea that we have someone aboard that she will want to speak with, and have Internal Security meet us at the pad."

There was a pause on the radio. "Raptor 49, declare!"

"Raptor 49 does not declare! Repeat 49 does not declare!" Cathy spoke calmly.

"Very well 49; East pad is open for you and your flight, and welcome Home."

"Thank you OAL Control, proceeding to east pad." Cathy answered. "Raptor 49 Flight we are cleared for the east pad. Broadcast openly from here on out folks, and safe landings." Cathy eased the throttles forward and her right hand nudged the control yoke forward and they began to move.

Palina looked back to Leland. "What was that all about?" She asked.

"We've had anti-air missile batteries tracking us for about fifty miles now. The OAL is used as the point where all known craft declare themselves friendly." Leland explained.

"And if they don't?" Palina asked.

"They get shot down." Leland replied matter of factly. He pointed out the windshield. "Please just watch and see for yourself what men and elves can build if we work together and put aside century's old hatreds."

Palina turned and watched as the buildings in the distance began to get larger. The closer they got, the more items Palina was able to pick out, and the wider her eyes got.

Eden City, formerly Junction City, Utah, had become a bustling small city in just the span of three months. As they grew closer Palina could make out the newly built structures, as well as the heavy equipment needed to build. Massive steel beams were stacked in piles thirty meters high, whole yards of wood and concrete were neatly stacked and she could see men and women loading these items into large transport Hoppers. The old highway had been cleared of all overgrowth and now Palina could see right down to the cracked and pitted pavement as it ran the length of the main city. She could also see at least two construction crews laying down new concrete and sealing as they went. The abandoned and shattered structures that had once occupied the small city were all newly rebuilt, and lawns were just starting to come back in. The airfield they were heading for was larger than anything she had ever seen, and the two massive Mark Nine transports were now nothing but skeleton hulks. That told Palina these people had no intentions of leaving this area willingly. She could see the beginnings of several multiple story steel and concrete buildings spreading away from the center of the city, as if they were expanding outward at a rapid pace.

Palina's view of Eden City was blocked as Cathy banked the Raptor toward the airfield and they dropped lower to the ground. She turned to look at Leland with an amazed expression on her face.

"You have built... you have built this in only three months?" She asked.

Leland nodded. "It helps when the man you follow has detailed maps of every old military facility within the northern hemisphere." He said. "What we didn't have readily available here, we went and got. And we still are. The first thing we did is build a factory of sorts, where we are building more of these magnificent flying machines, and hundreds upon hundreds of weapons and the ammunition to go with it. We took all the useable armaments we could find at the military bases we have visited, which is quite a bit, and returned it to working order and improved on it."

"I thought the Alliance would have scoured those bases centuries ago. Our people have." Palina said.

Leland grinned. "They did." He answered. "However, they did not have Martin Hunter to tell them where the secret bunkers of weapons were hidden; tons and tons of weapons and supplies."

"Surely the Alliance had men who knew this information." Palina said.

"I'm sure they did." Leland said. "However... the Alliance never investigated the abandoned bases west of the Great River, and almost half the bases that existed at the time of the Great Fire were west of the Great River."

Palina turned as Cathy flared the Raptor for landing, extending its landing struts and setting the bird down as gently as a feather. Her helmeted head looked out the side window for a moment and saw several Cruise Hoppers pulling up and then turned back to Leland.

"Dysea is here." She said.

Leland nodded and much to Palina's surprise he leaned over and kissed Cathy with great feeling. "I will see you tonight." He said softly.

Cathy nodded; her eyes bright. "Oh you bet you will."

Leland looked at Palina. "This way Elf Mother, Dysea is waiting."

Dysea watched Leland's team exit the rear of the Raptor while her security detachment was spread out all around her. She wore the standard black fatigues, but without the additional armor layers. Her platinum hair was tied in a pony tail, draped over her right shoulder and curled under her chin. Her emerald eyes watched the rear of the Raptor carefully, waiting for Leland to exit. When OAL Control had first notified her that Leland had brought someone she would want to speak with, almost a dozen faces had flashed through her mind.

None of them had been the women who exited the Raptor hesitantly next to Leland. Dysea felt her blood boil and her eyes narrowed as Leland led Tarifa's mother over to where she stood.

Dysea didn't even let Leland say anything before she pounced on Palina verbally. "Why have you come here?" She snarled. "Haven't you and your husband caused enough trouble in our lives to last two lifetimes?"

"They were traveling in several Hoppers headed for Eden City on the old interstate." Leland told Dysea. "The mercenary unit from Cedar City was tracking them. We hit the mercenary column and then landed and took their column."

Dysea looked at him. "We caught the other half of their force last night." She said. "Did you leave any alive?"

Leland's smile was not pleasant. "Per yours and Martin's orders none survived."

Dysea nodded. "What of your mission?"

“It was successful to a point.” Leland answered. “We should be getting a visit from General Vengal within a few days.”

“And my mother,” Dysea asked softly. “What of her?”

“She is well and sends her love. I brought some things from her for you. I almost had to physically remove her from the city, but she finally succumbed and allowed us to hide her some place safe. She is demanding to be with you Dysea. You will have to bring her here soon.” Leland told her.

Dysea nodded. “I know. Another month perhaps, when we are more firmly established and have dealt with the moron in Cedar City.”

Leland nodded. “What of the Elf Mother and the Dragoons with her?” He asked.

Dysea looked at Palina for a long moment and stepped closer to her. “Do you and your husband wish to dishonor Martin I even more than you already have Elf Mother? Tell me why I should not just execute you and give your bodies to the elements.”

“I need your help.” Palina said calmly. “The Holy One said you have knowledge that I need.”

“I have nothing that you need High Elf Mother.” Dysea spoke. “I am a traitor to my own people thanks to lies spread by you and your husband and your Council of Elders. My people now have a treaty with the Alliance, against you and the High Elves thanks to your treachery. A treaty I was not going to sign I might add. I sincerely hope Tarifa is happy with her life. Now she will need to reap the rewards of her deeds.” Dysea turned to Leland. “Give them shelter and food, every comfort we can extend to them. In the morning please take them back to Salina.” She turned back to Palina. “As you banished us Elf Mother, I tell you now, never come here again. You are not welcome here, and the only reason you are not already dead is because Martin is away and does not know you have come.” Dysea turned and began to walk away from her. “He is not as forgiving as I am.” She said over her shoulder.

“She is dying inside Dysea!” Palina called out to her, causing Dysea to stop walking. “Every day she falls deeper into despair. She has cried herself to sleep every night since you and Martin Hunter left. She will not eat; she only appears for official functions. She is dying before my eyes and I can do nothing to stop it.”

Dysea stood with her back to Palina, holding back the emotions threatening to pour out of her. “And why should this matter to me? To Martin? To us?” She said finally.

“She... she had nothing to do with what my husband did!” Palina said. “He lied to her as well as you and Martin Hunter. You and Martin were the only truly deep friends that she had. She has to endure Telan’s touch upon here every night like some sort of rutting beast. I can do nothing to help her. She has no one to turn to.”

“And this is a concern of ours why?” Dysea snapped, whirling around and marching up to her. “She said we were pets to her! There only to amuse her! When she tired of us, she cast us out! Your Elders cast us out! Your husband cast us out!”

“My... my husband lied to you Dysea, I told you this.” Palina spoke. “Cantel told me what he spoke to you and Martin on the platform that day. None of it was true! None of it! He lied to his own daughter not an hour later about what you spoke of Tarifa. He took the transmitter Martin gave her from her hands as she was talking to you and smashed it before her eyes.”

Dysea stared at Palina... trying very hard to keep her anger in check and be objective. “She was married two weeks after we were banished, yet you stand there and tell me she hates this man? Do you think me a fool?”

“She was married to a man her father promised her too, using a law our people have not used in two hundred years!” Palina exclaimed. “She despises Telan to her very core! She endures his vile touch whenever he desires, and it is killing her Dysea!” Palina let the tears come forth now and they flowed down her cheeks. “That... that is what I am trying to prevent. There is so much more to this than you could possibly believe. Please Dysea... if you care for my daughter, listen to me.”

“Care for your daughter? Tarifa had become the sister I never had!” Dysea screamed, her own tears coming now. “Martin considered your daughter his dearest friend! We... we are... she should be here with us helping us to build what we are building! That was her dream if any of you had ever stopped to ask her what she desired.”

“Then I beg you... help me.” Palina spoke. “I swear to you on Tarifa’s life... I only want her happiness. What has happened is larger than all of us. Even I don’t know the full story Dysea, but right now my only concern is to save my daughter’s life.”

“She is in danger?” Dysea asked quickly, moving back closer to Palina.

Palina nodded. “You know our laws as well as I do.” She said. “Tareif promised her hand to Telan to save our sons. He does not know of the further treachery that abounds around him. I only discovered some of it on my way here. There is a very strong power play happening within the High Elf hierarchy. I believe... I believe my husband is being controlled in some manner by enemies of our family. I have no real proof, only rumors and whispers, but I know it is killing my daughter, and ultimately it could kill my entire family. Please... I beg you to listen to me, to help me.”

Dysea met her eyes, not speaking for a long moment. In the end it was really no contest and her heart overruled everything else. And she knew Martin’s heart would have done the same. No matter what had happened, neither of them could abandon Tarifa when she needed them. She held out her hand to Palina.

“Come.” She spoke. “I will bring you to our home where we can talk.”

Palina let out the breath she had been holding and wiped the tears from her cheeks as she took Dysea’s hand.

“... you have built here is amazing.” Palina said as they walked down the street toward the large one story structure at the end. They had taken Hoppers from the airfield to within a few hundred meters of what apparently was Martin Hunter’s home with Dysea. Palina had seen children, elf children and human children, playing happily in the playground of what could only be a makeshift school.

“This is only the beginning.” Dysea spoke. “We expand every day. The medical facility is nearly complete, Anja is a task master and the main school will be finished by the end of the week.”

“How... how many live here?” Palina asked.

“There were dozens of small villages scattered throughout the area when we first arrived, human and elf, barely surviving; barely living. Martin offered them something more. All he asked was that they have an open mind. We had sixty thousand people within the first month.” Dysea said smiling at Palina’s stunned expression. “That changed quickly as those who found they could not live with elves, or vice versa were either asked to leave or forced out. As we speak... our population is roughly fifty thousand. As word spreads of what we are doing, more come. We explain to them what we are building and the laws we have. Many choose to stay... some do not.”

Palina looked at the six members of Dysea’s security detachment that flanked them as they walked. “I take it these men are to protect you?”

Dysea nodded her head. “Nauta Melme insists on it.” She said with a small smile. “There was an attempt on our lives in the first month... it failed... but since then he won’t allow me to go anywhere without protection.”

Palina nodded. “He knows there are many who will oppose what you and he are building here.” She said.

“Not just us Elf Mother.” Dysea said. “Every man, women and child is here because they believe we can make this work. There will be many who don’t... and many who will... but we will try and build what the Holy One first imagined when he created elves. The same thing Tarifa wishes for as well.”

“What happened to those who made the attempt on your lives?” Palina asked cautiously.

Dysea met her steady gaze. “They did not survive.” She stated matter of factly. She stopped in front of the long building they walked up to. It was very unassuming, with fresh paint and framed windows. That it was solidly made was obvious, with the same steel and concrete construction she had seen in all the other structures.

“Where are you getting the steel that I have seen?” Palina asked. “It is in all of your buildings. I saw huge rows and stacks of steel as we were landing.”

Dysea smiled. “You don’t expect me to reveal all of Nauta Melme’s secrets do you Elf Mother?” She said, passing her hand over a small control panel near the door. Palina watched as the door slid soundlessly open into the cool interior. “Please... it is more comfortable inside.”

Palina entered the home and was immediately astounded by how modern it was inside. The main room was sunk in several feet and you had to step down four stairs into the area that held the simple but comfortable furniture. Palina noticed that the security detachment remained outside, which told her that Dysea did not fear anything that she might try. Palina had to admit that Dysea looked very different from the last time she had seen her. Her skin was much more tanned, almost as tanned as Tarifa's, and she looked leaner and more muscular. She watched as Dysea went into another portion of the home off the main room. It was a small kitchen she saw and Dysea took the thermos and two mugs from the counter and carried them into the main room.

"Please Elf Mother... sit down." Dysea spoke. "We have not yet finished the pumping station or water cleansing plant, so we tend to ration the water we get from the reservoir. I made this tea this morning and it is still quite hot. Would you care for some?"

Palina nodded. "Thank you. Why... why do you keep referring to me as Elf Mother?"

Dysea poured two mugs, handing one to Palina before she responded. "You are Tarifa's mother, the mother to Queen of the High Elves. My mother taught me to respect those who deserve it. What would you have me call you?"

"You respect me?" Palina asked.

"That you were brave enough to seek us out so far from the safety of High Elf territory says a great deal." Dysea spoke. "And... and to be honest... you have done nothing that warrants I treat you any other way. Forgive... forgive my outburst earlier. Seeing you brought back some very painful memories."

"Dysea... I can not begin to apologize for what was done to Martin and yourself." Palina spoke honestly. "I had thought perhaps when you were gone that Tarifa would begin to... that she would forget you both. I only watched as she slipped deeper into despair because of what Telan was forcing her to endure."

Dysea looked at her for a long moment before getting to her feet and going to a counter near the doorway. She took a datapad and walked back to her, holding it out to Palina. "This is how much we care for your daughter Elf Mother. This is the friend she has become to us."

Palina took the pad slowly and as she read, her eyes grew wider. She looked up at Dysea. "This is... this is..."

Dysea nodded. "It is a plan that Nauta Melme was finishing." She told her. "It is a plan to infiltrate and kidnap Tarifa from Mountain City and bring her here to be with us. He does not think I know of it. I only discovered it early this morning after he had left."

"Dysea... this... this would start a war." Palina spoke in shock.

Dysea nodded. "Yes... it probably would. Ask me... ask Martin if that matters to us?" She leaned forward on the couch. "The only reason he has not already taken her back from you is because we are now responsible for so many. I believe he thinks Tarifa would be angry with him if he risked so many just to get her back. Rest assured however... when the time came when we are strong enough to defend ourselves completely... I would have accompanied him to Mountain City and we would have confronted Tarifa. And if it was her desire to return with us, to help us continue here what she should be part of, nothing you or your husband could do would stop us from completing that mission."

Palina set the pad on the table gently. "This is not needed." She said softly. "I asked her why she despaired so when you and Martin Hunter left. She told me that the three of you were meant to build something great, and that you were closer than even brothers and sisters could be. I did not believe her at the time. I do now."

"You said she was in danger Elf Mother." Dysea spoke. "Tell me what I can do to help her."

RAPTOR ONE SOUTHERN COASTLINE OF NORTH AMERICA

The pilot of Raptor One put them into a slow bank over the beach below them. What used to be Hermosillo, Mexico was beneath them, half of the city of over half a million now underwater. The rusting and broken remains of the buildings reached into the sky as if calling for help.

"Land doesn't pick up again for three hundred and sixty miles Marty." Ben spoke from the right seat of the cockpit. "Man that must have been one whale of an earthquake. Endith... give me a ten degree turn to starboard."

"Ten degrees starboard," Endith spoke from the left seat and eased her control yoke over.

Ben watched her with a smile and glanced back to where Tina sat in the Engineer's chair. The relationship between the three of them had blossomed and grown over the last three months, and both Ben and Tina found Endith's aptitude for flying insatiable. They had been schooling her intensely for the last two months, watching her absorb it all without blinking. Her natural elf reflexes and keen eye sight made her perfect for being a pilot, and she was rapidly proving to be the perfect student.

Endith and Ben had grown very close over that same time period, and the relationship between the three of them was unbreakable now. Endith had allowed her red hair to grow longer now, and it hung out the back of her helmet almost down to her back. They shared the same house and the same bed, and neither he nor Tina had ever realized just how intensely the three of them would fall for each other. They were almost never apart, and even though Ben had taken on more duties in training new pilots, they always found time to be together.

"Water depth is a hundred feet beginning about sixty meters from shore, and then it drops to four hundred and seventy give or take a few feet." Tina called out, looking over her instruments.

"Any of those deposits we are looking for?" Martin's voice came over the com.

Tina chuckled. "They're all over the place Marty, right where Doc Morrow said they would be." She replied. "They range in depth from eighty meters to three hundred."

"Raptor's 21 and 47 are reporting similar finds Martin." Endith spoke from her seat.

Martin sat on the lowered ramp in the rear of the Raptor, secured to the inside with a tether line. He scanned the beach below him with powerful binoculars, searching for any signs of life.

"I'm not seeing much from here. A few scattered animal signs, occasional signs of human habitation, but nothing beyond that." Martin spoke.

"I believe we may be the first to come this far south Martin." Endith explained. "The Alliance remained on the east side of the Great River for the most part. The human settlements as you know stayed close to the remains of the big cities that were destroyed. I don't recall anyone coming this far south in any great numbers."

"Well it sure looks that way from here." Martin said. "Are the other Raptor's reporting signs of life?"

"Nothing more than what we are seeing." Tina answered.

"That seals it then." Martin spoke. "Ben... contact Julie... have her get our geologists ready to move. I want a full team in here by the end of the month, with all the equipment they can stagger with."

"Roger that Martin. The end of the month is when our new transport birds will be done." Ben spoke. "It will be a good first mission for them."

"Let's drop a directional buoy here Marty." Tina chimed in. "We're five hundred meters off shore, and it will give us another launching point for reports back to Admiral Wallace."

Martin nodded and got to his feet. "I'm on it." He said going to the side of the Raptor and removing the thin cylinder from the cabinet. He fitted it into a floatation device with a small flag and activated the small beacon on top. "Endith... is there anything in the water that we should know about?"

"Like what?" She asked turning her head to look into the rear of the Raptor.

"The Alliance hasn't made like genetically engineered sea monsters right?" Martin asked with a grin.

"Ha ha very funny," Endith spoke rolling her eyes.

Martin moved to the lowered ramp and heaved the buoy out of the back of the Raptor. "Buoy away." He said.

"Marty... just got a beam transmission from Dysea. She wants you to return to Eden. She says it's important." Tina broke in.

Martin nodded and moved to the ramp controls, banging on the large button. "Roger that. We're done here anyway. Ramp coming up, let's head home."

Ben waited for the light on his console to signal the ramp was locked and secured and he turned to Endith, "All yours Endith! Let her rip!"

Endith smiled like a child let loose in a candy store. She banked the Raptor over hard and kicked the throttles to maximum power causing the Raptor to leap forward and accelerate to nearly six hundred miles per hour in four seconds.

Ben turned back to Tina. "We've created a monster." He said with a smile.

"... Telan's family controls most of Pacifica." Palina was speaking. "About two years ago they began spreading their influence to other cities. Now they are second to our family in terms of influence. Telan got his appointment to my husband's Dragoons about a year ago. It was a political appointment more than anything."

Dysea sat on the couch across from Palina, her legs folded underneath her as she listened to Palina. Her tea was long forgotten, as Palina had held her attention for nearly three hours now.

“When did you notice that his actions and behavior were changing?” Dysea asked.

“I first noticed it six months ago. He selected several officers for the Dragoons that were not from within the normal channels he chose from. I did not think anything of it at the time. There were small signs that I did not pick up and recognize until after the events with Tarifa began to occur.” Palina said.

“And you say that Tarifa is not acting like herself?” Dysea spoke.

“My daughter is strong willed Dysea... you and Martin must know that... even the death of her grandfather who she adored, did not affect her like this. Ever since she began taking those contraceptive pills it has gotten worse.” Palina spoke.

Dysea leaned forward. “She is taking contraceptives?”

Palina nodded. “She came to me three days after the marriage and asked me to help her get contraceptives. She was very adamant Dysea. She knew that if she became pregnant and gave Telan a child that the shift in power would be disastrous once that baby was born. She feared that Telan would even attempt to have her killed once the child was born, a theory that I believe he would contemplate. The contraceptives make her violently ill for several hours after taking the pills, but she is almost out of them, and she fears having her aides procure more for her.”

“The pills make her ill, in what way?” Dysea asked.

“She vomits and has terrible pains in her abdomen.” Palina said. Palina reached into the pocket of the gray jumpsuit she wore and took out the small box. She handed it to her. “I took one from her supply to bring to you, and a vial of her blood.”

Dysea took the box and opened it, taking the small black pill from the cloth. She examined it closely before looking at Palina. “This is no contraceptive I have ever seen.” She said finally, “Not a manufactured one anyway.”

Palina looked at her, eyes wide. “If it isn’t a contraceptive... then what is it?”

“I don’t know... but I will find out.” Dysea said returning the pill to its box.

“Find out what?” Martin’s voice filled the room and they both turned to see Martin walk quickly into the living area. When his eyes came to rest on Palina he froze in his tracks.

Dysea sprang quickly off the couch and moved to stand in front of him, placing her hands on his chest. “Nauta Melme... let me explain.”

“Why is this woman in our home Melda Min?” Martin snarled.

Dysea put her hand on Martin’s face, and pulled his eyes to her own. “Elf Mother came here under great duress Martin. Everything we were told was a lie Nauta Melme. None of it was true.”

“A lie?” Martin said softly, meeting Dysea’s eyes.

Palina got to her feet slowly. “Tarifa never ordered you sent away Martin Hunter.” She said softly. “What my husband told you was a lie. All of it was a lie

Martin glared at Palina. “Why should we believe you?” He demanded. “You have already betrayed us once. How did you find us?” Martin asked. “We did not go to one of the locations your Council gave to us.”

“Rumors are already spreading to Mountain City about what is happening here.” Palina replied.

“We knew this would take place Martin. It was only a matter of time.” Dysea spoke softly. “Please Nauta Melme, listen to her.”

“Who knew you were coming here?” Martin asked.

Palina shook her head, “No one except the governor of Salina.” She replied. “He has been asking for the Queen to visit his city for months. I used a trip by the Queen’s mother as an opportunity to come here.”

“Kadeem will reveal nothing.” Dysea spoke confidently looking at Palina and seeing her shocked expression.

“He knew... he knew you were here?” She gasped.

“We have been trading with him for over a month.” Dysea told her. “He was only doing what we asked him to do.”

Palina’s eyes filled with realization. “That is why only half his defensive positions were filled. You destroyed all the slavers in the area and now you are protecting his people and his city.” She said. She looked at Martin. “You do this even after what my husband and the Council of Elders did to you? Why?”

“It is the right thing to do.” Martin snapped.

Palina stepped closer to him, all fear for Martin gone from her eyes. “I swear to you Martin Hunter, on my own life, what I have told you and Dysea is no lie. Tarifa needs you both, now more than ever.”

Martin looked at Dysea, the tension bleeding from his face and he saw her nod. “Very well,” He spoke. “I will listen to what you have to say.”

Anja leaned back in her chair, away from the computer console and turned to look where Martin, Dysea and Palina stood.

“You were right Dysea.” She said, getting to her feet and meeting Dysea’s beautiful emerald green eyes. “This is not a contraceptive in any way shape or form.”

“What is it?” Dysea asked.

“Well... it’s a combination of 2C-B, Dimethoxy and Methyldam.” Anja replied. “All of which are hallucinogenic drugs.”

“Hallucinogenic?” Palina asked her eyes wide.

Anja nodded. “Combining the three makes a very powerful mind controlling drug. Where did you get this?”

“Tarifa has been taking it under the misconception it would keep her from getting pregnant.” Dysea told her.

“Keep her from getting pregnant? Who told her that?” Anja spoke.

“Someone she thought she could trust.” Palina spoke, her voice low in anger.

Anja shook her head. “This combination of mind control drugs is going to make any person very susceptible to suggestion, make them have waking visions, sleeping visions... the list is endless.”

“It makes her violently ill as well.” Palina said.

Anja nodded. “I’m not surprised.”

“Why?” Martin asked confused.

“She has you to thank for that Martin.” Anja spoke looking at him. He hadn’t been this close to her in weeks and it was making her blood race. Something that only Dysea noticed.

“Come again?” Martin said.

Anja went to the computer console again and brought up a picture on the screen. “I ran a bunch of quick tests on the blood sample that her mother gave to Dysea. Marty you already know about your ability to heal exceptionally fast.”

Martin nodded, “Yeah.”

“Well... Tarifa’s DNA has changed at the molecular level.” Anja explained to them. “Just as mine now has... just as Dysea’s now has. Apparently it is an effect of having a relationship with genomes.” Anja told him with a bright smile. “Ummm... due to the exchange of bodily fluids... all of us now have accelerated healing functions within our bodies. Not on as grand a scale as you or Danny or the others, but it’s there. The ability to regenerate quickly was one of the things that Walter gave to the elves, but what they didn’t have... that Tarifa now has... and I’m guessing Dysea and myself... is the genome ability to attack any foreign substance, any disease or poison, that is detected within their bodies and destroy it.”

“So whatever this drug is... her system is destroying it because it thinks it’s a poison and that is why she is sick after taking these pills?” Palina asked.

Anja nodded, “Essentially yes. It is also the reason this drug is not making her more susceptible to outer stimuli.” She told them. “Her body is fighting the effects of the drug and while she may be acting odder than normal... it has not completely made her lose her will.”

Palina’s face took on a harder edge. “Then whoever gave her the drugs is in league with Telan.” She said softly.

“Well they had to know what they were giving her.” Anja said. “And if she is using this, thinking it’s a contraceptive, the reason she isn’t pregnant is again because her genome cells are attacking the drug and also killing any sperm that may be present.”

Palina saw Martin flinch at that word, and in that moment she saw Telan's death in Martin's eyes. Palina knew then that Telan was going to die a horrible death for what he had done, and Palina realized she would not lose any sleep over it in the least.

"Will her cells attack a mixture of natural herbs and roots that would effectively act as a contraceptive?" Dysea asked.

Anja shook her head quickly. "No." She said. "That particular genome ability is targeted more toward foreign substances like drugs and chemicals. It should not have any effect on anything naturally taken into her body."

"So something that I make that is completely natural and undetectable with modern equipment will not be targeted?" Dysea asked, wanting to be absolutely sure.

"I'm pretty positive, but if you want to make whatever it is you mean, we can test it with your own DNA." Anja said quickly, hoping to spend more time with the seductive blond elf. "It wouldn't take more than a few minutes to run the test."

Dysea nodded. "I will have it for you in an hour." She said seeing Anja's eyes shimmer in delight.

"What about Tareif?" Martin asked.

"Well... I can't be sure without a good blood sample... but if what you have told me is accurate, those are classic signs of some type of mind control drug." Anja responded. "I've run tests on the stuff the Alliance is using on elves and it doesn't sound like that. Whatever he is effected by sounds much more subtle and powerful."

"I will get you your sample." Palina spoke. "I don't know how... but I will."

Dysea looked at Martin. "Nauta Melme, you have been very quiet. What do you have running through that brain of yours?"

Martin looked at her, "A whole lot of unpleasant thoughts." He said.

"Please..." Palina said. "You can do nothing to endanger Tarifa. You..." Palina stopped speaking when she realized what she was saying and she looked sheepishly at Martin and Dysea. "Forgive me that was perhaps the most ignorant statement I have made in some time."

"The Dragoons you have with you?" Martin asked. "Can you trust them?"

"Yes." Palina answered without hesitation. "If they were not loyal to my husband they would have reported me to Telan immediately after I spoke with Cantel in Mountain City."

"Melda Min, do you think the agents you have in the Alliance capital and the other cities would still respond to orders from you?" Martin asked.

"No... but they will respond to my mother." She answered quickly.

"There have been no attacks by the Wood Elves yet correct?" Martin asked. "Even though the treaty has been signed for two months?"

"Cantel would know better than I." Palina replied. "But there has been no talk of an attack, or even rumors for that matter."

"The treaty stated the Alliance would arm us completely before we took any action." Dysea spoke. "That is one stipulation that I insisted on, and the Council agreed with me on it. Two months would not be enough time to refit every Wood Elf soldier. We estimated at least six before this could be done completely."

Martin nodded. "That makes sense. Do you think Leland could get this information from your Ranger General when he arrives?"

"Vengal and I almost always agreed on procedure." Dysea said looking at him. "I could get this information easily."

Martin shook his head. "You won't be here." He said turning to Palina. "Can you get Dysea into Mountain City without being detected?"

Palina nodded quickly, "Easily." She replied. "No one will stop me, and I have not come under any suspicion that I am aware of."

Dysea's eyes opened wide, "Nauta Melme no!"

Martin took her face in his hands. "There is no time." He said. "You need to go back with Tarifa's mother and see her. The drug may have affected her enough that she simply will not believe her mother's words. This Telan does not return until next week you said?"

Palina nodded. "Correct."

“You will have at least three days with her Melda Min, if you leave in the morning. Stay with her, be with her, help to return her strength and mind to her. And tell her she is not alone.” Martin spoke.

Dysea placed her hands on top of his and nodded her head slowly. “You are correct.” She spoke. “I have not been away from you for more than a few hours... it will just be strange.”

Martin nodded. “I know... but when you return I promise we will spend three days in bed together and no one will interrupt us.”

“I will... I will hold you to that promise Nauta Melme.” Dysea spoke as she folded herself into his arms. They did not notice that Anja was watching them intently.

“It is a promise I intend to keep.” Martin said kissing her softly. “I’m going to have a talk with Cantel. You get Palina what she needs and then work out what you have to do with Anja.”

Dysea smiled and looked at Anja. “I will need only a few moments to gather the roots and herbs I need for your tests Anja.”

“I’ll be here.” Anja spoke. “And I can give Palina a very easy means to getting the blood sample she needs.”

Palina looked at her. “You can?”

Anja smiled. “Follow me.”

“He should never have been allowed entrance into the Dragoons.” Cantel spoke as he and Martin walked along the corridor.

Martin had left Palina with Dysea and went directly to where the Dragoons were being billeted. He recognized Cantel from Mountain City and he had pulled him out of the barracks building so that they could have this conversation.

“He is not a leader of men. His tactics are inferior, and he treats his troops as if they are servants.” Cantel said. “I would be inspired if I could gut him for what you tell me he has done.”

“Have no worries Cantel... for what he has done to Tarifa... his death will not be pleasant.” Martin said.

“Good.” Cantel replied. “My... my Dragoons and I Martin Hunter, we have never seen anything like what you have built here. To see elves and human children playing side by side. To see elves and humans working side by side, laughing and joking. In my two hundred and twenty years I have never seen anything like it.”

“It is not easy I can assure you.” Martin said. “It will take a very tolerant individual to live among us. With the attitude of mistrust and hatred among many humans, it will not be an easy fight.”

“And the Alliance only enforces the hatred and belief that elves are inferior and nothing more than slaves.” Cantel said shaking his head.

“Well... perhaps in the future we can change that.” Martin told him as they entered the room. “Right now... let’s worry about our current situation.”

Cantel looked up and his eyes widened. The room they had entered was unlike anything he had seen before. There were high shelves lined in perfect rows as far as the eye could see. On the shelves and along the walls in countless racks were weapons of every make and description as well as equipment he had never seen before. He watched as the tall human man walked from among the rows of shelves. His skin was deeply tanned like so many of the others, but he had a Hispanic look to him, his black hair full and almost wild looking. He looked to be in his mid fifties.

“Ah... Martino... I’ve been expecting you!” The man spoke flashing a bright smile with perfect teeth.

“Cantel... this is Juan Garcia.” Martin said. “He is... was SEAL Team Twelve’s Master Armorer.”

“What do you mean was?” Juan snapped. “I still am... only now it’s for an entire city! The ultimate dream! I get to make all the weapons and instruments of death that my twisted mind dreams up!”

Martin chuckled. “As you can see... he’s a little off.” Martin said.

“Off? I’ll have you know I am in perfect command of all my facilities!” Juan barked. “If it wasn’t for me Martino... you would have been dead a long time ago! Don’t forget that!”

“You remind me all the time Juan!” Martin said with a grin.

“As well I should! You gringos have a short memory!” Juan roared in laughter, thinking he had made a good joke.

Cantel looked at Martin oddly and then back to Garcia who had turned to the large table set up along one wall. "He is normal is he not?" Cantel whispered.

Martin grinned, "Oh yeah."

"Emyla!" Garcia yelled. "Where is my chart?"

Cantel watched the female elf come from behind another long set of racks holding the clipboard in her hand. Her dark hair was long and flowed around her face, her ears sticking out between the silky strands of her hair. Cantel watched her walk over to Garcia and hold out the clipboard.

"Don't set it down every time you stop to inspect something you old coot!" She told him.

Garcia took the clipboard. "I will have to punish you tonight Emyla." He said.

The female elf stepped closer to him and rubbed her hips against his leg. "I look forward to it Juan." She said sweetly.

"Good! Now... back to business!" Garcia spoke. "Martin requested a few items for you to return with Senior Lieutenant. And he didn't give Emyla and me a whole lot of time to get it done either!" Garcia glared at Martin. Cantel noticed the change in him right away. He no longer acted wild and absent minded and instead appeared sharp as any blade. "We have a dozen small Chameleon Transmitters, two multi-channel receivers, two portable plasma screens, and two dozen TAP cameras."

"TAP?" Cantel asked.

Juan smiled and picked up the small black case. He opened it and Cantel saw twenty four silver objects no larger than the fingernail of his pinky finger. Juan took one from the case and Cantel watched with wide eyes and the object disappeared before him. "These are state of the art in surveillance. Transparent Aluminum Photocell, or TAP for short. A camera that is completely undetectable and invisible to the naked eye. It becomes transparent when attached to any surface, and I do mean any surface. Range is two hundred meters and it delivers a picture perfect return."

Cantel took one from the box and he smiled when he watched it disappear upon contact with his skin. He could still feel it... but even his keen elf eyes could not pick it out. "This is amazing." He said.

"The Chameleon transmitters operate off the same principle, but their range is only fifty feet." Juan spoke. "Make sure wherever you place them, they are within fifty feet of where you think the conversations will take place."

Cantel looked at Martin. "You are giving me the means to place covert surveillance on Telan?" He said.

Martin nodded. "While I trust in the abilities of you and your men... these items will put you at far less risk, and could potentially lead us to the location of where Telan and his goons are holding Tareif's sons."

Cantel nodded looking back at the TAP camera. "I have many locations that I can place these that might lead us to this very information."

"Cantel that is our ultimate goal right now," Martin spoke. "You and the others who know what is going on need to maintain the same routine you have always maintained. Nothing out of the ordinary can happen! If it takes you three or four days to be in a location to place these items, wait those days. Do not rush it. Tarifa's life... and the lives of her brothers will be forfeit if anyone discovers what you are doing."

"And if we find this information out Martin Hunter?" Cantel asked. "What then?"

"Then you continue your regular routine until there is a time when you can break away and contact me." Martin answered, "If it is a day, a week or even a month, then so be it."

"What will you do with that information?" Cantel asked.

"It's better that you don't know." Martin said.

Cantel nodded. "I agree. Is it possible to get more of these items if we need them?"

Garcia nodded quickly. "We're working with Governor Kadeem on that. He has an open trade route with Mountain City that comes in once a week. We're finishing the details of how to use that, and when we do... you'll get a message."

Cantel nodded. "Excellent."

Garcia held up the small, palm sized weapon. It looked like it would fit into the hand of a child, but based on what he had seen so far, Cantel doubted it was a toy. "This is a two shot HK Hold Out Derringer." Garcia said. "It breaks open and you load from the hammer. It fires two what I call Cookie Cutter rounds, which are small quarter inch flechettes with an explosive tipped head. I'm giving you twelve of them. They are last ditch weapons, but one shot from this puppy and even an elf will go down."

“Dysea will give one of these to Tarifa. They are easily concealed in places only we can dream about.” Martin said. “But I don’t want her carrying a blade into the city. I need you to give this to Tarifa.”

Emyla held out the six inch knife secured it the sheath. Cantel took it and withdrew it from the sheath to look at the gleaming blade. “I forged it from High Elf Steel.” Emyla spoke. “And it is coated with Teflon that Juan supplied to me, making the blade unbreakable for all practical purposes. However, this blade is different. Press the small crest on the end.”

Cantel did as she told him and he watched as the inch long needle like points extended from the blade guard, “Interesting.” He said.

Emyla smiled, “Interesting and extremely lethal. Press the crest once more.” Cantel did as she told him and he watched the points of the two needle like appendages begin dripping. His eyes went wide and he looked at her. “It is Black Scorpion venom in a concentrated dose. Death will be within ten seconds. Entered directly into the blood stream it will seize all muscle function instantly to include the heart. Press the crest one more time and it will retract the additional points. No fuss no muss.”

Cantel replaced the blade into the sheath and looked at Martin. “I will see that she receives it.” He said. Martin nodded. “I have some other things to cover with you, but let’s do it over a mug of coffee.”

“I’ll have this gear packed and ready for you in the morning.” Juan spoke.

“Thank you.” Cantel said, bowing his head slightly.

MILITARY HEADQUARTERS NEW RICHMOND

Marcus walked into the central command center for all Alliance military forces across what was once the United States and parts of the planet. There were hundreds of computer stations and monitors across the massive room, men and women occupying the chairs. Marcus wore his standard field uniform, neatly pressed with only his rank showing on his collar.

He walked along the wall of the huge room until he reached the small briefing room and entered quickly.

“Ah... Colonel Marcus.” The Commodore spoke, looking up from his seat.

Marcus looked at him, taking in the three other men in the room. “Commodore, reporting as you ordered sir.”

“Please Colonel take a seat.” The Commodore spoke waving to the lone unoccupied chair. “I’m sure you already know Minister Oleg Deval and Minister Robert Wiseman and this beautiful young woman is Minister Selene Torcram of the Genetics Division.”

Marcus settled into his seat. “May I ask what this is in regards to Commodore? I was trying to triangulate the last known position of my renegade company.”

“Ah yes... you are referring to the Drow Elves that escaped your control.” Robert Wiseman spoke. “And for the last three months have been eluding your clumsy attempts to discover them.”

“Clumsy!” Marcus hissed.

“Minister... I remind you that you are in our territory now.” The Commodore spoke. “Marcus is one of my trusted and decorated officers and I will not have you insinuating anything in regards to him. Is that perfectly clear?”

“He is the only genetically enhanced officer within our military to reach such a position of rank and power!” Wiseman snapped. “And now... the very unit of Drow Elves that he trained has gone rogue and disappeared!”

“You question my loyalty!” Marcus barked coming to his feet.

“I question your...”

Wiseman’s words were cut short by the vicious backhand from the Minister sitting next to him. His head snapped back and his hands went to his suddenly bloody lips. Oleg Deval leaned forward in his chair.

“Marcus... your loyalty and dedication to the Alliance is well documented and will never be questioned.” Deval spoke. His blond hair was cut short, framing a scared face and cruel eyes. “At least not in my presence,” He looked at Wiseman, who was sitting back up in his chair. “I don’t believe I have to remind Minister Wiseman that it was Colonel Marcus himself who discovered the Dark Elves had gone rogue. And it is he who has worked twenty hours days attempting to find them for the last three months. It is a blot on his otherwise flawless record that he works harder than anyone to remove. Isn't that right Colonel?"

"I will personally peel the flesh from the bones of the survivors when I discover them!" Marcus hissed, his face a mask of rage, and his red eyes glaring. "And I will find them."

Deval nodded. "I know you will. And that is why your integrity will not be challenged again." He looked at Wiseman, who wiped his lips with a bloody cloth and turned away. "That is not the purpose of this meeting however, so we will move on. The Commodore tells me you are overseeing the outfitting of the Wood Elves with newer weapons and armor. We would like to know how that is progressing."

"It is on schedule Minister." Marcus replied. "Once Dysea was removed and a new Queen elected that was more favorable and easier for their Council to control, the treaty was passed within weeks."

"And there is still no word of Dysea's location?" Deval asked.

Marcus shook his head slowly. "There are many rumors floating about. Some of them say she is now dead. Some of them say she escaped with Hunter. If that is indeed the case, we have been unable to find them."

"Why is that Colonel, in your opinion?" The woman Selene asked, leaning forward and putting her arms on the table as she gazed at Marcus. Her strawberry blond hair had quite a bit of red color to it, almost as if that was her natural color, and Marcus also took in the way she filled out the uniform she wore. He also noticed she did not look away while he appraised her.

"There could be any number of reasons." Marcus finally replied. "Perhaps the rumors that she is dead are true."

"Do you believe this Marcus?" Deval asked.

Marcus shook his head. "No Minister I do not. We have precious few agents working west of the Great River." He told them. "Those that we have are assigned to the large human settlements to keep us apprised of what they are doing. We have neither the trained personnel, nor the numbers of covert agents to have them combing the wilds looking for one former elf Queen and a few of these genomes, if they are even Genomes to begin with."

Minister Deval looked at him. "And why would you say that Marcus?"

The former Drow warrior looked at the man, "Because I am not a fool Minister Deval. I have gone to the same schools as our soldiers, and learned the same things they now learn. The Mistress as commented several times to me about Hunter, and the more I learn about this man, the more I believe he is who the Mistress believes him to be."

"She has also said herself that she may have been wrong initially." Deval spoke.

Marcus nodded. "Perhaps Minister... but as events go forward I believe she will gain the confirmation that she seeks. She has Colonel Moran and his Special Troops conducting many sensitive operations that hopefully will lead us to the information."

"I was under the impression his unit took some hard hits in the attack against Mountain City." Selene spoke.

The Commodore nodded. "We were able to confirm through our contacts in Mountain City that the genome force that escaped with Hunter was nearly wiped out. Only a handful actually survived." He said. "I am responsible for our forces east of the river, to include all of our cities. Colonel Moran was appointed by the Mistress to be her personal hammer so to speak. He and the others like him have been with her for centuries. I agree with Marcus that even if only a handful of them survive we should not dismiss them. We have initiated actions that will, when combined with the Wood Elf declaration of war, bring down the High Elf government in its entirety, and that is our main purpose right now."

"So you are saying Dysea is of no concern?" Deval asked.

Marcus nodded. "Wherever she is, she and Hunter are of no consequence. They lack any base of power on which to build. Dysea has been declared a traitor, and the High Elves have expelled Hunter and the others with him. There have been sparse sightings of their Raptor aircraft, but never more than three at a time. If they are not already dead... it is only a matter of time. We will begin making our own Raptors by the end of the year, and once we begin to mass produce them, no one will be able to stand with us."

"I still do not like the fact that they are out there and we know nothing." Deval spoke.

“If you prefer Minister Deval, and you authorize the funds, I will hire some of our usual contract assassins.” The Commodore said.

Deval nodded. “How much do you need?”

“An outside account with perhaps three hundred thousand credits should be more than sufficient.” The Commodore replied.

“I will make the arrangements as soon as we are done here.” Deval spoke. “I’ll route the funds from New Baltimore to the bank here.”

The Commodore nodded. “The assassins will be on their way by the end of the week Minister.” He said. “I understand you are making another trip to the base on the moon.”

Deval nodded. “It appears they have produced a drug that is actually improved over our current product. It will allow us to have more control, and actually make the elves respond better. Minister Torcrum will be accompanying me to do her own tests.”

“This Senator Graham is turning out to be more of an asset than we first thought.” The Commodore spoke.

Deval shook his head. “Graham is a fool. He thinks with his cock. No... I believe this Admiral Wallace is the man we need to befriend.”

Marcus leaned forward. “He is the genomes’ former commander Minister. Is it wise to trust him?”

Deval nodded. “I don’t trust him.” Deval spoke. “However the writing is quite clear. Graham is an arrogant slob. He thinks with only his cock. Wallace is the real power on that station. The reports I am getting is that Hunter betrayed and beat him almost to death before leaving EDEN. Wallace has sworn revenge. He is using this new drug, and very discrete methods to gain control of the elves on EDEN, and when he has enough of a power base, Graham will die.”

“We still should not trust him Minister.” Marcus spoke.

“I trust his hatred of Hunter Colonel Marcus. And the fact that he has been raping an elf slave for over three months now.” Deval spoke. “Perhaps you would like to accompany us to EDEN Colonel. Your judgment of this man would be invaluable.”

Marcus looked at his commanding officer, “Commodore?” He asked.

“It might be advantageous to all of us.” The Commodore spoke.

“And the search for the rogue company?” Marcus asked.

“I’ll put someone from my staff in charge of that temporarily. You can resume the search when you return.” The Commodore said.

Marcus nodded, “As you wish Commodore.”

Deval nodded. “Excellent. I will inform Senator Graham you will be accompanying us. The Raptor from EDEN will be arriving at the end of the week. I do suggest you finish up whatever it is you need to do in that time.”

Marcus nodded. “Of course Minister.”

UTAH EDEN CITY (FORMERLY JUNCTION CITY)

Martin held Dysea in his arms as the Raptor’s engines idled in the background. Several of the ground crew finished loading the ship as Palina and Cantel walked up to him.

“The Raptor will take you back to your vehicles.” Martin told them. “They have been repaired and under guard since we picked you up.”

Cantel nodded. “We will return to Mountain City this night.” He said. “I will attempt to send you a coded transmission in the morning.”

Martin nodded. “Remember... do nothing out of the ordinary Cantel. If we are going to pull this off... you can give no indication that you are suspicious of anything.”

Cantel nodded. “I will make sure of it Elda Cundo. You have my word.” He picked up the duffel bag and motioned his fellow Dragoons forward.

Palina stepped up to Martin and surprised him with a kiss on his cheek. She took his hand and pressed it to her cheek. "Thank you."

Martin nodded to her with a smile and then watched her head for the Raptor. Dysea turned in his arms until she faced him, looking up into his face. Martin looked down and stared into her emerald eyes.

"Be alert Melda Min." He spoke softly.

Dysea nodded. "I will Nauta Melme." She answered, snuggling her firm body close to his. "You were very good to me last night." She said with a knowing glint in her eyes.

Martin grinned. "What was with the..."

Dysea smiled and put a finger to his lips. "It is a surprise for Tarifa" She answered. "Nothing you should be concerned with."

"It was very cold Melda Min." Martin said.

"Perhaps... but did I not warm it for you?" Dysea spoke with a seductive twinkle in her eye, "Many times over. You wore me out Nauta Melme."

Martin smiled and pulled her tighter. "I wore you out? Seven times Dysea? Isn't that a record or something?" He said with a chuckle.

Dysea snuggled even closer to him, insuring her body melted against his. "Are you saying you are not up to the task?"

Martin pulled her tighter. "You just wait and see. You have what I gave you?" He asked.

"All of it Martin; trust in me."

"It is not you I don't trust Melda Min." He spoke.

"The Quende Amille will not betray us Nauta Melme. I feel this." Dysea spoke.

Martin kissed her deeply and with great passion and strength, Dysea returning the kiss with equal feeling and passion.

"Come back to me." Martin spoke.

Dysea squeezed his hands. "I will see you in five days."

Martin watched her turn and run for the Raptor. He waited until the ramp had come up before turning to look at Danny and Leland, who walked up with the Master Chief. The Raptor lifted off, turned north and accelerated quickly away.

Danny held out Martin's HK. "He called me a what?" Martin asked.

Danny pulled the twig from his mouth. "He called you a no good, elf loving, ass kissing motherfucking shit for brains." Leland and Tony smiled at Martin's expression.

"Elf loving he's got right." Martin said. "And I take great joy from kissing Dysea's ass; it's quite firm and wonderfully round."

"Spare us the details Skipper." Tony spoke with a grin.

"Hey!" Danny barked with a smile of his own. "I have no problem kissing asses that look like Julie's."

Martin glanced at Danny when he spoke as he did not mention Anja's name in that statement. "Motherfucking shit for brains?" Martin asked looking at Leland.

Leland nodded. "I believe those were his exact words too. The gentleman does not seem to possess large vocabulary skills."

Martin jacked a round into the HK with a vicious grin. "Well what do you say we go teach him some new words?"

"You mean like oh crap I'm going to die?" Danny asked.

"Something along those lines yeah." Martin spoke and started walking toward the far side of the airfield where six Raptors were standing by and loading black fatigue clad troops.

Dan looked at Leland. "It's going to be a fun five days with Dysea gone." Danny said. "How big did you say this guys' army is?"

"At last estimate... about three thousand." Leland answered.

"Master Chief... what do you think?" Danny asked as they walked.

Tony smiled. "Four hours from start to finish."

Danny smiled again. "Oh yes! It's going to be a glorious five days!"

MOUNTAIN CITY SAME NIGHT

Palina hugged her daughter tightly as the Royal Guards continued to bring the remaining crates into her quarters.

“I missed you Tarifa.” She said.

“I missed you emme. I was just getting ready to retire for the evening.” Tarifa said returning her mother’s embrace. She saw the stacked crates and shook her head. “Mother what have you brought with you?” (Affectionate term for Mother)

“Governor Kadeem was so pleased with my visit that he sent back a myriad of gifts for you.” Palina told her with a smile. “How is Nana?”

Tarifa gave a small smile. “You were right emme; it was the best thing I could have done.” She said. “She doted on me the entire time.”

“You should visit her more often.” Palina spoke removing her long jacket and draping it over the chair. “She misses you.”

“Perhaps I will.” Tarifa spoke turning away from the Royal Guards as they finished bringing in the last box and left, the door closing behind them, a single cloaked Guard remaining behind to shift the boxes around.

Palina looked at her daughter’s back as she poured a cup of tea. “You should use this time that Telan is gone to regain your focus Tarifa.” She said softly. “You have not slept well in months, and you are growing thinner.”

Tarifa turned back to her sipping the tea. “Emme we are not going to go over this again are we?” She asked.

Palina stepped up to her and smiled. “No.” She said. “In fact I have something special for you. I met someone on my trip that knows you.”

Tarifa looked at her. “Mother I have never been to Governor Kadeem’s city.” She said. “I do not know anyone there.”

“Yes you do.” Palina spoke. “She is a young female elf; a very intelligent and brave young woman by all accounts. She knows you quite well.”

“Is she from Mountain City perhaps?” Tarifa asked. “And she moved to Salina?”

Palina shook her head, stepping closer to her. “No. I believe you once knew her as Queen of the Wood Elves.”

Tarifa’s eyes narrowed. “That is not funny mother.” She snapped.

“It was not meant to be funny.” Palina spoke.

Tarifa’s eyes grew darker. “This is cruel mother.” She spoke turning away from her.

“I do not lie to you daughter.” Palina spoke. “They did not go to any of the locations that the Elders singled out. They went south beyond High Elf territory. They have begun to build something wonderful Tarifa.”

Tarifa turned to look at her. “You... you have seen them mother truly? This is not some cruel joke. You have seen Martin and Dysea?”

Palina nodded her head. “I would not joke with you about this Tarifa. They have started what you and Martin once talked about not so long ago. The city they are building is wondrous Tarifa. And they... they want you to come there as soon as you are able.”

Tarifa stepped closer to her, taking her hands after putting her tea on the table. Her face was brighter and more animated than Palina had seen it in months, and whatever lingering doubts she may have had were quickly washed away. “They... they are safe?”

Palina nodded with a smile. “They are safe.” She said.

“Where... where are they Emme? I have to... I have to see them! I have to know if they are safe... if they still...” Tarifa stopped talking as her nose wrinkled slightly. Her head turned and she looked at the remaining Royal Guard who now turned to face her, the cloak hiding all facial features.

“You have to know if we still consider our friend above all others Tarifa.” The Guard spoke softly.

Tarifa’s eye widened as the very familiar scent of wildflowers rushed into her nostrils. She turned to fully face the remaining Royal Guard as the hands reached up to pull back the hood that was covering the head.

“Dy... Dysea?” Tarifa choked out the words.

Dysea trembled as she reached up to pull the cloak fully off her head, letting her platinum blond hair spill out of the tie she had been using to secure it. Her emerald eyes were blurry with tears, and had been from the moment she entered the home and smelled Tarifa's peach like scent. She watched Tarifa's hands go to her mouth in stunned recognition.

"Yes Tarifa. We... we very much still consider you our greatest and most cherished friend." Dysea choked out the words. "That will never change."

"This... this is a dream!" Tarifa gasped finally. "This is a dream isn't it Dysea? You are... you are not really here. Are you?"

She stepped up to Tarifa slowly, her own tears now flowing freely, and reached out to gently touch Tarifa's face. She watched Tarifa's eyes close in disappointment, expecting this vision to vanish, but they flew open once more when she felt Dysea's hand touch her skin.

"This is no dream Tarifa" She said softly.

Tarifa promptly fainted into Dysea's arms.

Palina looked at Roland as she let the door slide closed behind her. "Roland... no one is to disturb them, and I do mean no one. If there is a problem you may contact me. I will inform the Elders that Tarifa is ill and will need a day or so to recover before she rejoins their daily sessions."

Roland nodded. "It will be done Milady." He said firmly.

Palina took one look at the door before smiling gently and heading toward the lift.

Dysea looked at Tarifa's restful face on the bed where she and her mother had placed her. She removed her cloak and draped it over the chair in the sleeping room, hearing Tarifa stir on the bed.

Tarifa sat up quickly, "Mother! My dream... it was so real!" She exclaimed, her eyes searching the room. They settled on Dysea as she sat on the edge of the bed.

"It was no dream Tarifa." She said.

Tarifa's eyes were hugely wide, as she stared at Dysea, "Dysea! You... you are here." She gasped.

Dysea nodded. "I am here Tarifa."

Tarifa burst into tears and leaned forward to embrace Dysea. The tears came for both of them as Dysea pulled her tightly into her arms, relishing in the smell of peaches and the feel of Tarifa in her arms. She stroked the silky black hair, loving the feel and texture of it.

"How is... how is this possible?" Tarifa sobbed, her face buried against Dysea's chest. "I... I thought I had lost you!"

Dysea shook her head looking at her. "You will never lose us Tarifa. You are a part of our hearts. You are like the sister we have never had."

Tarifa pulled back and looked at her. "Martin! Martin...he... he is not with you?"

Dysea shook her head slowly. "It was not safe." She answered. "There is much going on that you do not yet realize. That you don't know yet. Your mother sought us out... she told us how your father... how your father lied to us, lied to you." Dysea reached up and stroked Tarifa's tear stained cheek. "We have not gone a day without you in our thoughts Tarifa. Not a day!"

"Tarifa shook her head slowly. "I don't understand Dysea. What do you mean?"

Dysea leaned forward and kissed her moist lips softly, her eyes closing in bliss as she felt the familiar curve and texture of her lover's lips. Tarifa groaned in need and desire, folding into her arms as their kiss deepened. It had been so long since she had been kissed with any sort of emotion and for Tarifa it was wonderful. She also detected that Dysea was holding back... not giving in completely and that was odd to her. It was Dysea who broke the kiss knowing she had other duties to take care of first, mainly insuring that Tarifa was cured of the poisons violating her luscious body.

Tarifa gazed at her with hurt in her eyes. "You... you don't... you don't desire me anymore Dysea?" She asked.

Dysea shook her head while caressing her face. "Never think that Tarifa. You are beautiful and soft and you taste wonderful. You freed this part of me that looks upon you with lust and desire; that looks on..."

Tarifa smiled knowingly, some of the brightness returning to her sapphire eyes. "You desire someone else."

Dysea's emerald eyes gazed at her. "You brought Martin into my life Tarifa. You guided him to me." Dysea reached up and pushed away some of her raven hair. "The Holy One was right in a way. Coming together as we all did, it set us all free in a manner of speaking. I... I feel we will meet the one meant for you very soon. Events are moving along outside these walls, plans within plans, and you have not been yourself."

"What... what do you mean?" Tarifa asked.

"I must take care of you first." She said with a loving smile. "When I taste you, I want you to be free of all the poisons in your body."

"Poisons...?" Tarifa said.

Dysea nodded. "Telan..."

"I... I never gave myself to him Dysea! Never willingly! His touch makes me want to vomit!" Tarifa exclaimed.

"That is not something that needs to occupy your thoughts Tarifa. That is why I have come now. I am going to return to you what Telan has taken away from you." Dysea told her.

"What do you mean then?" Tarifa asked.

Dysea reached down alongside the bed and took something from the small wooden box at her feet. The clear vial had a liquid substance contained in it that was greenish in color. She held it up for Tarifa to see. "I have made this for you, as my mother taught me."

Tarifa took the vial. "What is it?"

"It is a mixture of herbs and roots." Dysea explained. "It does not have the most favorable of tastes, but it will purge the drugs from your system quickly."

"Drugs? What drugs?"

Dysea held up the bottle of pills Tarifa thought to be contraceptives. Tarifa's eyes went wide and she reached for the bottle.

"Dysea I need those! I can't... I will not betray... I will not betray all that I am by having Telan's child defile my body!" Tarifa said.

Dysea shook her head. "Whoever gave you these is in Telan's employ Tarifa! It is a combination of drugs to control your mind, not to keep you from having a child! Anja tested it thoroughly before we returned. Your mother brought us a sample. These were meant to keep you docile and receptive to his advances; to control you!"

"Dysea... he has forced himself on me nearly every night since our marriage, without these pills... I would have already become pregnant." Tarifa told her.

"No Tarifa! It is the gift that your time with Nauta Melme gave to you that has kept you from becoming pregnant." Dysea said.

Tarifa smiled at her, "Your Bounded love."

Dysea's smile matched Tarifa's. "He is... he is so much more than you know Tarifa. He stirs inside of me what I never thought I could know or have. And you brought us together. We would never abandon you Tarifa. We could never abandon you."

"What do you mean gift?" Tarifa asked.

Dysea concentrated slightly, and her eyes changed, black outlining the emerald, while her canine teeth extended to three quarters of an inch in length. Tarifa reached out to her face, her eyes wide. "You have... you have changed." She gasped. "Like..."

Dysea nodded. "Like you Tarifa." She said. "Concentrate."

Tarifa did as Dysea told her, and felt her teeth extend and the rush of scents fill her nostrils more clearly. She saw Dysea gazing at her lovingly and she smiled.

"This is what Martin gave to us." She said. "We have become like him in a sense. Our bodies have developed a defense against foreign drugs and diseases. That is why you are sick after you take these pills every morning. Your body is rejecting the poisons in them, killing them. And in the process of doing that, your body is purging any of Telan's sperm inside you."

Realization began to fill Tarifa's black outlined sapphire eyes and she sat up completely on the bed. "He... he has been controlling me?" She spat, her voice filled with anger.

Dysea shook her head. "Your body rejects the poisons and kills them, but enough remains to make you weaker. That is why you are sluggish and don't have an appetite to eat. As I said Tarifa, this is much larger than you realize. Telan even holds sway over your father, and that is why he forced this farce of a marriage on you."

"My father...!" Tarifa gasped.

Dysea nodded once more. "He is under the influence of a much more powerful drug." She told her. "Your mother is going to try and obtain a blood sample that I can give to Anja when I return."

"When you return?" Tarifa almost yelled. "No... you can't leave me!"

Dysea took Tarifa's trembling hands in her own and squeezed. "Tarifa... do you trust me? Do you trust Martin?"

"Of course I do!" Tarifa replied without hesitation. "Why do you ask me that?"

Dysea took the vial from her hands and held it up. "Drink this Tarifa." She said softly.

Tarifa popped the cap on the small vial and lifted it to her lips without hesitation and poured the green liquid into her mouth and swallowed. She grimaced at the slightly bitter taste as it went down, but it passed quickly and she returned her gaze to Dysea.

Dysea smiled and leaned forward to kiss her. "Good. Rest here... you will feel light headed for a few moments, but it will pass quickly. I am going to make you something to eat and then we will talk."

Tarifa took her hand. "Dysea..."

Dysea placed a finger on Tarifa's lips and shook her head. "Have no fears Tarifa. I am going to make you something to eat. We will talk... and then I intend to feast on your luscious body... I promise you that."

Tarifa relaxed seeing the promises of the pleasures she had desired for so long within Dysea's eyes.

"...has to be the Alliance!" Tarifa spoke.

Dysea nodded in agreement. "That is what your mother and Martin and I think as well." She replied.

They sat on Tarifa's large bed, sharing the extra large mug of tea. Dysea had made Tarifa eat until she was almost ready to bust, and she had to admit, she hadn't felt this refreshed in months. She had eaten two complete venison steaks with red potatoes and long stemmed vegetables. She had showered as well, now only wearing a thin cotton robe over her body.

"That is how Telan's family has gained so much power in so short a time." Tarifa spoke. "They have been getting support from the Alliance."

"We don't know why though?" Dysea said.

"Power," Tarifa spoke firmly. Her mind was clear and sharper now that the lingering effects of the drug were purged from her body, and she was rapidly regaining her keen political mind and awareness.

"They want my people to attack the High Elves?" Dysea asked, "But why? The ensuing war would kill thousands on both sides. It would leave both our peoples devastated and weak."

Tarifa nodded. "And we would be ripe for the Alliance to come in and destroy us both." She said.

"But what would Telan's family gain by that. They would be slaves as well... if they lived through the war." Dysea stated.

"They must have worked out some sort of deal with the Alliance." Tarifa spoke. "When I... when I was Marcus's prisoner, I saw several elves walking the streets of their cities freely. I could not tell what tribe they were from, but they were elves. And I also saw dark skinned elves Dysea. They were part of Marcus's command."

Dysea looked at her surprised, "Drow Elves... like those we saw in the abandoned city?"

"It had to be!" Tarifa exclaimed. "When we returned and everything happened I forgot all about them."

"But... I thought... the Holy One said they were all wiped out nearly a hundred years ago." Dysea said.

Tarifa nodded. "He told me the same thing. Their village was attacked by three divisions of Alliance troops. My father's scouts went into the village after the attack. They reported nothing but bodies and destruction."

"So they allowed some to survive in order to convert them into their ranks?" Dysea asked.

"The Holy One engineered the Drow to be similar to Martin and the genomes. One Drow warrior is an equal to ten High Elf or Wood Elf warriors." Tarifa said. "They wanted that skill to use against the other elves that broke away."

Dysea looked at her. "Tarifa... why would they target you?" she asked.

"Don't you see?" Tarifa said. "Telan's father knew that I would never willingly marry Telan. And he knew that my father would never allow such a union. He must have approached the Alliance with an offer of some type of assistance. They provided him the drugs to break my father, they kidnapped my brothers, and they got my father to invoke a law among the High Elves that has not been used in two centuries."

Dysea nodded as understanding spread across her face. "He would do this by arranging the marriage of the Queen with a prominent member of High Elf society in the hopes of a child being born."

Tarifa nodded. "If I was to bear Telan a child, then upon my death, Telan would become Steward of the High Elves until our child came of age. In essence he would be King."

"And therefore his father would rule from behind the scenes." Dysea said. "A devious plan to be sure; one that would cause the deaths of many elves, both Wood elves and High Elves, making the remaining elves look to him for leadership."

Tarifa nodded. "I have no doubts that Telan's father would find a way to get rid of me after the birth of a child." She said.

"Your mother said as much." Dysea said.

"I can not let this continue Dysea." Tarifa said.

"You have too." Dysea spoke urgently. "If Telan or his father discovers that you are no longer under their influence we will not be able to help you."

"They would not kill my brothers!" Tarifa spoke quickly. "Drugged or not... my father would never bow to them if he discovered they killed his sons."

"Tarifa... my people elected a new Queen, and she passed the bill forming a treaty with the Alliance. Even now they are arming and equipping my people. We have four months, perhaps five before the Wood Elves will begin attacking High Elf villages and cities, and a full scale war erupts." Dysea said looking at her. "We have only just begun to bring our production facilities online in Eden City. We need more time before we will be strong enough to stop a war between your people and mine."

"Dysea... I could never endure that bastard's touch on my skin again, knowing what I do now." Tarifa exclaimed. "I would be... I would be betraying all that I know... all that I am." Dysea looked at her. "Listen to me! We did not believe your father when he told us those things that day! What we shared was not something so casually tossed aside as your father and others thought. Martin had devised a plan to return here to Mountain City and take you. What we are building in Eden City... you are part of that Tarifa. Do you remember that night we lay here and spoke of it. Well we have started it in Eden. We knew that it is partly your dream as well as ours." She snapped. "When it is finished Tarifa... there will no longer be a need for our people, any elves to live separately, just as we envisioned, just as all of us envisioned."

"Why... why didn't you use this plan?" Tarifa asked.

Dysea met her gaze. "We realized that everyone who followed us and everyone that had worked beside us to build what we have, elf and human; they would have thrown it all away to follow us. We... we could not do that to them." Tears glistened in her eyes now. "You should see it Tarifa. In only three months we have brought peace to so many. Elves and humans live and work side by side. Our children go to school together. Relationships are forming, and friendships. And it continues to grow."

"I... I will not see you again once you leave Dysea!" Tarifa said. "I... I don't know if I could be that strong Dysea."

"That is not true!" Dysea replied looking at her. "Do you think we would leave you here without a way to see you? Governor Kadeem has a plan that would work. There are a few details still to work out, but you could be with us easily, and not rouse Telan's suspicions; at least not until we are ready."

"But I would still have to allow that pig to slobber all over me." Tarifa said. "The very thought of him sticking his tiny little cock in me makes my skin crawl."

Dysea looked at Tarifa with a new glint in her eye. "So he is not endowed like Martin I take it?"

Tarifa laughed. "No man is like Martin. He reaches inside me to places even I did not know I had. And his passion... it tastes so sweet." She looked at Dysea oddly. "Why do you tease me Dysea? You know this as well as I do, and you have had him all to yourself for months! I am so jealous!"

Dysea leaned forward quickly and kissed Tarifa with sultry eyes. "You will find the one meant for you Tarifa... you must believe. I have something for you." She said seductively.

Tarifa watched her get up and move to the medium sized duffel bag in the corner. She took out the black case and took a vial similar to the herb potion earlier. She came back to the bed and sat close to Tarifa. She took the cover off and looked at Tarifa. "This is for you." She said.

"What is it?" Tarifa asked taking the vial.

"It is Martin's passion. Twenty four vials all perfectly preserved; as if he was here with us." Dysea said. "When I knew I was coming here I... I wanted to have something of him to share with you. I drained him completely seven times." Dysea's eyes grew sexy as she said that. "It was very pleasurable for both of us. It will also serve to increase your resistance to the drugs. Taste it."

Tarifa lifted the vial to her lips and drank the liquid, her eyes going wide and then closing in bliss as she drank it down. She savored the flavor and texture, allowing her tongue to taste Martin's preserved cum. She opened her eyes again and saw Dysea's face and the look of desire in her eyes.

"It is delicious." She said slowly, bringing her fingers to her lips to rub it into her soft lips. "Thank you Dysea! I have so longed..."

Dysea sprang forward, sealing her lips over Tarifa's and plunging her tongue into her mouth. She pushed her back on the bed, hungrily feasting on her lips as Tarifa surrendered to her. Dysea's hands frantically pulled at Tarifa's robe, pulling it off her body, exposing her perfect breasts and suddenly very stiff nipples. Tarifa groaned as her long leg curled to press against Dysea's hip as her hands disappeared into Dysea's thick platinum blond hair. This is what Dysea wanted right now, the touch and feel of another woman against her, and until she was able to have the one she truly wanted, Tarifa would more than suffice. Dysea pulled back from their kiss leaving Tarifa gasping and reaching for her head.

"Now... Tarifa! Now I will possess you as you possessed me!" Dysea hissed before lowering her lips to Tarifa's exposed throat.

ARIZONA FOUR MILES NORTH OF FLAGSTAFF NORTH US-89

Martin lowered the cooling body of the guard softly to the ground, his black outlined yellow eyes searching the night around him. He wiped the blade of his knife on the man's shirt as he squatted next to the body, allowing his enhanced senses to reach out into the night. He turned his head slightly when he smelled the male elf come up behind him, moving like a ghost.

Martin had broken down their Special Operations forces into five teams, made up of the remaining genomes, elves and humans. He had an entire brigade of elves and humans back in Eden training every day, and it was they who were now manning the artillery pieces and rocket launcher systems set up twenty miles north of Flagstaff. It was also they who crewed the eighty M21 Scorpion tanks that were poised and ready to strike from the mountains north of Flagstaff.

The Scorpion was the United States lone heavy Main Battle Tank. It had replaced the M1A6 Abrams that had served for nearly half a century. It was a larger tank than the Abrams, at almost forty feet in length and 84 tons, yet it had kept its streamlined design and now sported a 155mm smooth bore cannon. While it was significantly smaller than the tank Martin had seen on their return to earth, for their purposes now it was well suited.

His five Special Operations teams had infiltrated Flagstaff within an hour of full dark. All of his teams had operational objectives, and their priority was to get as many of the elf slaves and innocent humans out of Flagstaff within raising a warning. Flagstaff was ruled by a cruel mercenary warlord, and with the exception of Cedar City it was the largest settlement of humans south of Eden. The five teams had been training together since Martin had broken them down. Danny commanded one team, Leland, Radama, and Tony commanded the other three, and Martin had put together the team he now led. He looked at the lean blond haired elf as he settled onto the ground next to Martin. He glanced at the body of the dead guard, and then looked at Martin.

"He was the last one Commander." The elf spoke. "We have a clear path to the outskirts where the Hoppers are hidden. Daniel and the other teams have reported in already. They have evacuated their targets and are moving back into assault positions."

Martin nodded as he replaced his knife in the sheath. “Have the extraction team move them out Ealin, as quietly as possible. They are to stop for nothing. Two Raptors will be covering them from ten thousand feet as they head to the rendezvous.”

The elf nodded and moved soundlessly to the door a few feet away. He looked inside the darkened building and saw the other members of their team guarding close to four hundred men, women and children, human and elves alike. He motioned with his hand, directing the two closest members of the team to start them moving, and then went back to squat next to Martin.

Their intelligence teams had entered the city several weeks prior to this night, covertly targeting and finding those that were sympathetic to their cause. Leaders were approached and plans were made, and on this night, they had evacuated almost two thousand people that had chosen to accompany them. There were many that they did not approach because of their positions and the crimes they had committed against elves and against humans. The leader of this mercenary group was extremely cruel in his treatment of slaves and prisoners, and no one that was within his inner circle would be given the opportunity to surrender.

Ealin looked at Martin in the darkness, seeing that his eyes had returned to normal. He could tell by the way Martin was frozen in place, his head canted slightly skyward that he was trying to pick up any scents that could be construed as a danger to them. Ealin remained silent, simply content to watch the man he and many other elves now called Lyca Ohtar in a term of reverence. (Lycan Warrior)

“We have been lucky this night Ealin.” Martin spoke, his voice almost a whisper as he turned and looked at him.

Ealin nodded. “Perhaps... but luck has eluded us for many years. Maybe now it is time for us to have some.”

Martin nodded. “We will make our own luck Ealin. Contact the battery commanders and inform them to commence firing at the prearranged time. We’ll move back into our assault position as soon as all the civilians are clear.”

Ealin nodded with a smile.

FLAGSTAFF

The human mercenary commander stepped from the building that acted as his command post holding the large mug of coffee in his hand. He was a large man, easily over six foot and two hundred pounds, and was known for his brutal tactics when dealing with slaves or elves. He had no qualms about enslaving humans when they did not conform to his order of things, and his face showed the scars of many years of warfare. He and his mercenaries had moved in and taken over the remains of Flagstaff, returning some semblance of normal life to those that followed him. He was not known for being patient or understanding, and if someone did not conform to his way of doing things they were very quickly strung up and hung, or shot dead in the street.

The mercenary stopped on the porch of the building he called home. The sun was just breaking the horizon, but he noticed that none of the slaves were in the streets conducting their usual clean up chores. Bottles of alcohol and trash filled the streets from the previous night of partying by his men, and as he looked up and down the street he saw nothing except blowing trash. He turned and went back to the door, shoving it open.

“Neely get out here now you fuck!” He screamed.

Moments later the second man joined him on the porch still trying to pull his pants up around his waist. The skinny man looked at him.

“What’s wrong boss?” he gasped.

“Do you see anything wrong here?” The commander yelled. “Where are the fucking slaves? Why aren’t they doing their fucking job?”

“I don’t know boss!”

The larger man reached out and slapped the skinny man in the head viciously. “Well find out you dumb bastard!”

He watched as the skinny man dashed from the porch heading for a building across the street. “Give me more coffee!” He roared.

He held out the mug as the small blond elf came scurrying out of the house to pour from the large thermos in her small hands. She cowered before him, pouring the coffee and then backing up to stand to the side.

Her head came up and looked north when the deep echo of booms filled the morning air. The commander's gopher stopped in the middle of the street at the sounds, dismissed them and finished running up to his commander who was staring north.

"The... slaves... they're..." He gasped.

The commander looked at him. "Spit it out you idiot!"

"They're gone. All of them! The boys guarding them are... they're dead! Someone cut their throats!"

The mercenary commander's eyes opened wide and he turned back to the north.

Martin had salvaged thirty-eight of the advanced Multiple Launched Rocket System mobile launchers from an abandoned air force base in Nevada. The vehicles had been stored in near perfect condition in a hidden underground weapons depot that had been vacuum sealed. They had been state of the art weapons in the 21st century, the latest model being the advanced MLRS 300II and with very minor modifications made by Martin's team of engineers, all thirty-eight of these platforms were now fully operational.

As if on cue, the twelve MLRS 300II that had accompanied Martin's team and were set up forty-six miles north of Flagstaff, let fly with a full twelve rocket barrage per vehicle. When they had discovered the 300IIs, they had also discovered thousands of rockets ranging from anti-personnel to anti-armor, and now 144 rockets sped towards Flagstaff. Six of the rockets were impact fused 500 pound warheads, guided by advanced Doppler radar and targeting sensors. The other six rockets were anti-personnel rockets with 700 M87 shaped charges per rocket. The mercenary commander did not see the launch tubes swivel back into position to receive the reloads.

The mercenary commander watched with fascination and horror as four of the 500 pound warhead rockets landed directly on top of the large hotel that housed his men four blocks down the street. He did not see the rockets hit the building, but he saw the immense explosion that announced the deaths of almost three thousand murdering slavers and scum. The five story hotel erupted in a fountain of rock, concrete and steel, the concussion from the blast shattering what little remained of windows in the area. The next two 500 pound warhead rockets landed squarely in the motor pool where all of his vehicles were stored. He could only watch in awe as his Hoppers and wheeled vehicles began exploding, lifting into the morning sky streaks of flames towering into the once quiet morning air. As others began to pile onto the porch they could only watch as the six anti-personnel rockets opened above a designated portion of Flagstaff and spilled out their 700 sub munitions each. Four thousand two hundred two pound shaped charges scattered as they fell, and soon the popping sounds of them going off could be heard all around them. The thunder filled the air for a full minute as each shaped charge went off as it landed, destroying anything within the ten meter radius of its blast. Huge chunks were blown from buildings all around them, glass and concrete filling the sky as deadly missiles. The mercenary commander could only stand and watch as the bomblets devastated the building that housed his now empty slave pens, as well as the auction center, and the close to two hundred men that were responsible for running his auction center.

There were now twenty remaining mercenaries standing in and around the porch, as well as several hundred humans that were piling out of their homes, all of them gawking at the amount of destruction that had occurred in little more than a minute.

Heads turned as another roar followed and nine of the Scorpion tanks came barreling through the buildings on the end of the street, causing people to run for cover as the massive machines of death cut loose with their main cannons, sending nine high explosive rounds punching into neighboring buildings, blowing out machine gun turrets and the three anti-air missile crews that had stationed themselves on the roofs of adjoining buildings. As the nine Scorpions moved off the center of the road, their main guns coming to rest on the gathered civilians, six armored Hoppers pulled onto the street and made their way slowly up to the building of the mercenary commander. None of those on the porch made a move for their weapons inside as two of the Scorpions had their main guns trained directly at them. All eyes watched the Hoppers come to a halt and a fleet of foot humans and elves in body armor and carrying weapons piled out.

All eyes went to the tall young man who walked casually toward the mercenary commander. He stopped only a few feet away from the man standing on his porch and looked at him with a smile.

“Top of the morning to you dick head,” Martin barked with a grin.

A mercenary with more guts than brains screamed and rushed at Martin, his face a mask of rage and hatred. He made it ten steps from the porch before an arm came from the side and slammed into his chest, breaking several ribs and lifting him into the air to deposit him unceremoniously on his back with a grunt of pain.

“Bad idea asshole,” Ealin growled at him, shoving the barrel of his HK into the man’s chest and ripping out a three round burst. The mercenary’s body jumped twice before becoming still as the rounds shredded his heart and lungs.

“Gee... is that how you greet visitors to your quaint little town here.” Martin asked.

“You... you’re that elf loving motherfucker from up north!” The mercenary commander screamed.

Martin smiled. “Martin Hunter is the name. And believe me when I tell you it is not a pleasure to meet you.” He moved closer to the porch. “Your slaves have been liberated and are now being treated and moved back to safety.”

“Who the fuck do you think you are...?” The mercenary screamed. “You can’t just come in here and do this!”

“Oh but I have!” Martin spoke. “Slavery is against the law sport.”

“There ain’t no law out here asshole! I’m the law! What I say goes!”

Martin shook his head. “Not anymore. You are officially out of business. And very soon you’ll be dead.” Martin looked around at the smoking rubble his MLRS Launchers had caused. “Did you like my show? I love the smell of barbecued asshole in the morning. And my intelligence tells me we caught pretty much all of your little shit heads sleeping in the hotel, too bad for them.”

“I got friends! They’ll hear about this! Your ass will be dead in a week!”

Martin chuckled. “If you are referring to your buddy in Cedar City... don’t you worry... he’ll be following you very soon.” He said. “You have caused the deaths of far too many elves and good decent people, and that stops today.”

“Who’s going to stop me asshole? You?”

“I already have, in case you are too fucking stupid to see what is going on around you!” Martin spoke. “There will be no more slavery in the area we now control. No more slavery, no more auctions and no more oppression.”

“What area? What are you talking about?” The mercenary asked.

Martin smiled. “As of zero six hundred this morning, we have laid claim to southern Utah, all of Arizona, and all Nevada.”

“We?”

Martin smiled. “Yes... the men, women and elves of Eden.”

The mercenary commander reared back his head and roared with laughter. “You have got to be joking! Elves were made to serve humans! That is what they were designed for Elf lover! To be our fuck toys and beasts of burden! Where have you been living... the moon?”

The commander couldn’t understand the laughter that filtered through the ranks of Martin’s soldiers. His face grew redder as his embarrassment grew. He stepped off the porch, “C’mon tough boy! Just you and me! I’ll fuck your ass up so bad it’ll be funny. When I win, you leave your tinker toys and go crawl back into the hole you came out of! I get all your slaves and all your equipment!”

“Eden does not have slaves.” Martin said, causing many heads among the human citizens of Flagstaff to turn and look at each other.

“What’s wrong tough guy! Afraid you can’t beat me in a stand up fight?”

Martin looked at the man with a smile, “Not at all.” He said. His right hand whipped forward faster than normal human eyes could follow. The gleaming blade of the knife slammed into the chest of the mercenary commander with a wet thud, and the man staggered back, his eyes wide. He looked down and saw the handle of the knife protruding from his chest, blood leaking out around the blade. His mind didn’t comprehend what it was and he reached up to grab the handle.

When his hand closed around the handle, his eyes shot wide as even that small movement caused the razor like blade inside his chest cavity to finish severing his heart. He dropped to his knees, blood now pouring from his mouth and looked at Martin who walked up to him.

Martin smiled as he grabbed the blade and yanked it out of the man's chest. "I don't fight fair dick face."

The mercenary commander pitched forward into the dirt, his blood rapidly pooling around his cooling body. Martin leaned over and wiped the blade on the man's shirt before returning it to its place on his thigh.

"Ealin... round up the rest of these mercenary scum and lock them down!" Martin ordered, his eyes coming up to face the several hundred men and women standing in the street.

Their eyes followed the dozen elves and humans as they sprang into action, forcing the mercenaries to their knees at gunpoint and beginning to secure them with flexi-cuffs. Their eyes went back to Martin as he climbed on top of the rusted hulk of the truck.

"I will say this once and only once!" Martin barked to the gathered men and women. "Now is the chance for you to decide. Join us and what we are building, have what you didn't have with this idiot! Prosperity! You will work side by side with elves and men in building a future your children will be safe in! A future you can have a hand in building."

"Elves were made to serve us!" A male voice yelled from the crowd.

"Elves were made to be an ally of man!" Martin snapped. "They were made for the purpose of helping mankind pull itself from the ashes of the Great Fire and move into the future! They were not made to be slaves and beasts of burden! What have you accomplished until this day? You still live in squalor and fear every day. Living under men such as this piece of shit is not freedom! It's not peace. You live in prisons of your own making. Now is the chance for you to break those chains and make something better. We have made that place... not three hundred miles from here. We have running water, power, and food for all. We have schools, medical clinics, stores and thousands who have already seen what they can build. They work day after day side by side with elves to make it better. You can be part of that. Or you can remain as you are and die. We will not tolerate slavery in any way, and we will fight for every part of our freedom. Join us and you can be free as well. Fight us..." Martin took a deep breath. "Fight us and we will crush you under our boot. The choice is yours. I give you one hour to decide, starting now."

Martin jumped down off the truck and turned to Ealin. "Search the remains! Any mercenary or slaver left alive is to be executed. Contact the engineers and have them move to our location. I want this city, or what remains of it stripped bare. Take everything we could possibly use, no matter what it is."

Ealin nodded with a smile. "Three states Lyca Other?" He asked.

Martin shrugged. "We were going to do it anyway." He replied. "We may as well get started and let the word spread."

"And the fool in Cedar City?" Ealin asked.

"He'll be dead before the end of the week." Martin answered. "I'm going to contact our teams, come and get me if there are any problems."

Ealin nodded with a smile and watched Martin walk toward one of the Scorpions to use its long range radio unit.

MOUNTAIN CITY

Tarifa's head rocked back and forth on the soft sheets, her raven colored hair spilling across the pillows. Her hands gripped her firm breasts tightly, pinching her own nipples. Her face and upper body were covered in a fine sheen of sweat, her breath coming in deep gasps as pleasure like she hadn't experienced in months surged through her body. Tarifa couldn't remember how many orgasms Dysea had given her in the last two hours, so awash with sexual energy and pleasure as she was. Dysea's delicate touches and caresses had driven her almost wild with passion, and when her lover's soft warm lips finally found their way to her dripping pussy, it was as if time had stood still.

Dysea had never entertained the thought of being with another woman until Tarifa had taken her that day in the cave and shown her what it could be like. The week they had spent in each other's arms was something she would not soon forget, but even now, feasting as she was on Tarifa's lush body, images of Anja flashed back and forth in her mind.

She had taken her time at first, exploring the supple skin and lush curves, tasting Tarifa's flesh with soft kisses and gentle licks. When she found herself between Tarifa's satiny thighs staring at her glistening pussy, everything fell into place for Dysea. She had traced the outline of Tarifa's dripping pussy with her tongue, eliciting gasps of delight. She had used her fingers to softly part the folds of her cunt, and marvel at the heat and scent that poured from her. Her head was filled with the sweet peach scent that wafted from Tarifa's core, and it took her only seconds to pull her own clothes from her before Dysea felt her own juices pouring out of her extremely excited pussy. Tarifa's fingers had entwined in her long hair, urging her to lover to lap away at her pussy, but Dysea resisted, wanting Tarifa's pleasure to last as long as possible. She had used long tender licks along the outsides of Tarifa's engorged pussy lips, tracing the contours and marveling at the texture and sweetness. She also marveled at how Martin could cram his huge cock into such a small and beautiful pussy, much as she marveled how he did the same to her. It did not take her long to be overcome by the scent and begging of Tarifa before she fastened her soft lips over Tarifa's throbbing clit and sucked hard, just as Tarifa had done to her that first time. She smiled in victory as Tarifa's body had arched off the bed and she had cried out, clutching Dysea's head tightly to her spasming pussy while Dysea drank down her juices.

That had been two hours ago, and now Dysea was still happily lapping away at her lover's still sweet tasting pussy for all she was worth. Dysea's face was covered in Tarifa's cum, and she had no idea how much of her lover's passion she had drank down, and she didn't really care as she wanted more. Her own pussy was drenched, just the task of eating Tarifa's pussy had caused her to have three of her own powerful orgasms, and once more she squirmed her crotch against the soft sheets in her own rapidly building orgasm.

Dysea's tongue was rapidly whipping Tarifa's sensitive clit into frenzy, her lips locked around the extremely hard and erect bud. She reached up with one hand and squeezed Tarifa's right tit, rolling the hard nipple between her thumb and forefinger causing Tarifa to grip the sheets tightly, her eyes shut. Dysea was like a child with a new toy as she experimented with her lover, sending her long fingers deeply into Tarifa's tight cunt, causing her hips to convulse in delicious pleasure. She found that sucking hard on Tarifa's clit while driving three fingers into her sopping pussy had caused Tarifa to scream in unadulterated orgasm, nearly throwing them off the bed.

Now Dysea used her index finger to probe Tarifa's most intimate place. Her anus was slick with pussy juice from her multitude of orgasms, and it was easy for Dysea to tickle her pink opening with little friction. She glanced up Tarifa's clenching abdomen when she felt her lover sit up quickly on her elbows, her eyes wide.

"Dysea... what are you... it has been so long since..." Tarifa gasped.

Tarifa's eyes nearly bugged out of her head and she fell back on the bed when Dysea bit down gently on her engorged clit and simultaneously plunged her index finger into Tarifa's clutching asshole.

Tarifa's back arched off the bed, and she screamed.

Oh did she scream as the most powerful orgasm that she had experienced since Martin had taken her that first night ripped through her being. Her quivering thighs clamped tightly on Dysea's head, her hands ripping the sheets from the bed, the muscles in her neck and throat standing out in exertion as she felt her belly catch fire and her cum rocketed out of her pussy in powerful waves.

Dysea kept her finger buried deeply in Tarifa's ass as she clamped her mouth over Tarifa's spasming pussy. Her eyes opened wide and then closed dreamily as Tarifa's cum erupted into her mouth with a force she had not yet experienced or was prepared for. Feeling Tarifa's juices shooting into her mouth with such delicious force caused Dysea to experience her own shattering climax, and she ground her pussy into the bed as her juices flowed from her. She wanted to scream out her pleasure, but instead kept her lips glued tightly to Tarifa's pussy drinking down the peach tasting cum her lover was giving her.

After nearly a full minute of muscle stretching orgasm, her back arched off the bed, Tarifa collapsed back onto the sheets, unable to catch her breath, and completely drained of energy. She groaned as she felt Dysea's lips leave her still clenching pussy and begin a journey of soft kisses and licks up her body. Dysea paused to tease Tarifa's nipples with her tongue before licking the sweat from between her firm 34C breasts. She trailed her tongue up the hollow of Tarifa's throat, stretching her naked body out atop her lover, making sure that their pussies came to rest against one another. She lifted her head and looked into the wide sapphire eyes of her lover and smiled contently.

Tarifa dreamily pulled Dysea's lips to hers once more and they shared a deep kiss filled with nothing but love and desire. When they parted Tarifa had tears in her eyes. Dysea reached up and gently wiped the tears away.

"What is it Tarifa?" She asked. "Tell me."

“I’m... I’m just very happy right now.” Tarifa sobbed out the words.

Dysea smiled and nuzzled Tarifa’s throat. “Things will begin to get better Tarifa. You must have faith my dear friend. You must have faith.”

“I’m... I’m so tired Dysea.” Tarifa spoke happily.

Dysea laid her head on Tarifa’s breasts and felt her arms encircle her. “We still have two days together Tarifa.” She said. “We can sleep and then pick up where we have left off. I still have another surprise for you.”

Dysea pulled the younger woman’s body tighter as she felt Tarifa’s arms tighten around her. Tarifa was still recovering from the drugs in her system and she fell quickly asleep, her head against Dysea’s breasts. It took another long moment for Dysea, and when she fell asleep, the image that flashed across her mind was that of Anja and Martin and her locked in a similar embrace. And then Dysea allowed sleep to take her into its peaceful state.

CHAPTER TEN

EASTERN ARIZONA

SOUTHERN EDGE OF OLD NAVAJO INDIAN RESERVATION

Tari, the Drow Elf commander, moved easily through the pitch black forest where he and his Company of Drow troops were camped. They had established this position two weeks ago and were doing their best to remain hidden and out of sight. His scouts had come to him a short time ago to inform him of the devastating attack on the mercenary scum in Flagstaff just yesterday by Martin Hunter and those under his command. According to his scouts, Flagstaff was now nothing but a ghost town. Anything that could be used had been stripped in only twenty four hours, and now all that remained were the shells of the city buildings and not much else.

Tari could not help but be impressed by how efficient Martin Hunter was. The man was an utterly ruthless enemy, showing no mercy or quarter, yet he was also by all reports from his scouts extremely compassionate towards the infirmed and the very young and very old. He would wipe you from existence if he detected any threat from you towards anyone under his command or towards his new city, and this above all else is what drove Tari to believe this was the man he had learned of in the schools he had been sent to. The rumors of Eden were spreading like wildfire among the mountains and plains, and he and Lynwe could sometimes hear their own troops talking quietly about seeing this city where men, Elves and whoever desired to be free lived together.

Tari had commanded these two hundred Drow warriors since their inception. They were all products of genetic experiments by the Alliance on captured Drow warriors from long ago and the children they had been forced to bear. When their species had been wiped out nearly a hundred years ago, the Alliance had kept several dozen prisoners to conduct experiments on, forcing many of them to breed. They wanted to develop a different breed of elf that would be a superior warrior, but many of the experiments ended up being sexually deviant in nature. Many of the experiments had been cruel and inhuman, physically changing many of his warriors in different ways over the years. All of his warriors however had one distinct connection and common thread among them. All of them despised the Alliance to their very cores and had been working towards a singular goal very discretely. When word had come down the chain of command that they would be the lead unit on the search for the two Queens of the largest elf factions, Tari had decided it was time for them to take all the Alliance had taught them and desert to Martin Hunter’s command, betraying the ones who thought they were the Masters. All of them had sworn they would never be taken prisoner by the Alliance again.

They had been tracking Martin Hunter’s actions since they had been expelled from High Elf territory. Tari had not felt comfortable just yet in approaching Hunter and his group. The survival of his unit and their continued existence was all that mattered to him anymore. He had nothing left to work for except to see that his men and women finally found their freedom and could live free of persecution from the Alliance. He knew Martin Hunter was the man who could see this dream come true, but the inbred fear he had of who this man might be held him back.

Tari's keen ears picked up the whimpering noises from the large tent he was heading for, and he slowed his gait. Lynwe was his second in command and had been since the inception of his unit. She was an exceptional Drow warrior, specializing in unarmed combat and stealth. She was very powerfully built and possessed unmatched speed and strength that equaled her unparalleled beauty. Her muscular body was almost equal in height to his six foot one frame and rippled with exceptionally defined muscles. Her shimmering white hair hung down to nearly the top of her tight powerful ass cheeks outlining a flawless face with soft full lips and bright amber eyes. She was extremely intelligent and kept a very tight reign on her emotions, never allowing what she felt to show through except in her actions. Tari sighed heavily as he slowed and watched what was happening in the tent before him, surprisingly feeling sorrow at the sight before him.

The opening flap on the tent was folded back, the soft lantern providing enough light for his keen eyes to recognize where the whimpering noises were coming from. They were emanating from the second female Drow officer in the tent with Lynwe. She was also quite naked and at the moment was face down in the pile of blankets beneath her, as her fists clutched at the deer skin coverings, her lips pulled back in almost a snarl like expression, a second blanket clutched tightly in her teeth. Tari recognized the second Drow officer as Anari, his senior medical officer, and another incredible specimen of female beauty and power. Tari knew that Lynwe and Anari were lovers and had been for several years now. Lynwe was obviously the more dominant of the two females, as was customary in any Drow relationship. The female Drow was always the one in charge of a relationship; even those with a male Drow she deemed fit enough to be her mate. It was the Alliance's genetic experiments on his troops that brought about the relationship before his eyes.

Tari shook his head slowly with sadness in his eyes as he watched why Lynwe and Anari would never be able to have a relationship outside of each other. Lynwe's muscular ass flexed in the dim light of the lantern, her back and shoulders slick with sweat as she drove her hips forward with dominating powerful strokes. The thirteen inch steel hard ebony cock between her legs was driving deeply into Anari's willing and extremely beautiful and tight ass. Lynwe's head tossed back, lost as she was in the pleasure of the moment. Anari had an incredible ass, so very tight and warm and perfectly shaped, and Lynwe relished the moments when she could plunge her male cock into that ass. Her hands gripped Anari's hips as she sped up her plunges into her ass, Lynwe's large come filled balls slapping loudly against the backs of Anari's thighs. Lynwe clenched her teeth and groaned loudly as she finally erupted into the bowels of her submissive lover, grinding her huge ebony pole down fully anchored in Anari's tight ass. As Lynwe groaned in release he heard Anari moan loudly as well, her small hand stroking the thick ten inch cock that jutted from between her thighs. He watched as Anari stroked her male organ with near blinding speed until she too exploded and her thick cum drenched the blanket beneath them.

This was what the sexually deviant Alliance experiments had done to Lynwe and Anari. Two stunningly beautiful women and they had cocks that were larger than most males. Tari had not been able to escape the experiments himself, and he had never attempted to have a relationship with a female due to what was done to him, and had given up ever trying. Lynwe and Anari, as well as many others of his unit still hoped to pursue what they could and had not given up. Tari looked up into Lynwe's face and saw her eyes focused on him while she emptied her cum into Anari's tight ass.

"Ah... kiss me Lynwe!" Anari gasped, turning her equally beautiful face back towards her Drow lover, the blanket falling from between her teeth. "I beg you!"

Lynwe turned back to Anari and drove her thick cock forward again eliciting a groan of delight from Anari beneath her as the last of her cum spilled into Anari's bowels. She reached forward and grasped Anari's silky white hair in her hand. Though it was much shorter she was able to grab enough of her hair to pull her head up almost painfully. "Kissing is for those in love!" Lynwe growled.

Lynwe proceeded to pull her softening cock from Anari's ass, her cum spilling from the stretched opening as Anari slumped completely onto the blankets. This was the way of their relationship. Anari knew Lynwe cared for her in her own bizarre way, but she had never once showed her any affection, and while she would never admit it to anyone for fear of appearing weak, it was beginning to take its toll on her emotionally.

Lynwe reached for her clothes and dressed quickly as Tari approached slowly from the darkness. She turned to him as she fastened the last snap of her top, encasing her large firm breasts within the uniform. She stepped out to meet her commanding officer several paces from the tent, possessively blocking Tari's view of Anari's naked form within their tent, and not even realizing it. Tari made note of this but said nothing.

“You don’t come to my tent at this hour unless something has happened Captain.” Lynwe spoke softly.

Tari looked at her as she straightened her uniform. He made no attempt to look behind her into the tent. “We are no longer members of the Alliance Lynwe.” He spoke softly. “And while we may be Drow, we do not have to adhere to ancient laws and tradition.”

Lynwe looked at him, her bright amber eyes understanding what he was saying. “It is very hard Tari.” She replied in almost a whisper. “I... I have so much hate within me.”

Tari nodded slowly. “Of that I have little doubt.” He answered. “Just know that she cares deeply for you, and she does not deserve the hate.”

“She is free to find a lover of her own.” Lynwe spoke almost defensively. “I have made that clear to her.”

Tari nodded. “Have you thought perhaps that she may not want too?” He said.

That statement caused Lynwe to pause and she glanced back into the tent quickly, watching as Anari was pulling her top on over her delicious looking breasts with hard jutting nipples, and her firm rippled abdomen. She felt a rush of sexual desire course through her at the sight, but she fought it down quickly. She turned back to Tari. “I... I will reflect on what you are saying my friend.”

Tari smiled. “I have come to advise you we will be departing tomorrow morning for Cedar City. Our scouts have reported that Hunter is going to move against the slaver there within the next three days.”

“Are they sure? It is so soon after his taking Flagstaff?” Lynwe asked.

Tari nodded. “It appears so. They have detected the remainder of his tank forces leaving Eden and heading southwest. With them were at least two additional battalions of heavy artillery and rocket launchers, as well as another two battalions of troops.”

“He has left Eden unprotected?” Lynwe asked in surprise.

Tari shook his head and smiled. “Hunter has done well in hiding the size of his forces. Our scouts were nearly captured when they got too close to Eden’s southern border. They estimate he has at least two Battalions still guarding the city, and you can be assured they have artillery and air support.”

“He’s moving to eliminate the last large contingent of slavers and mercenaries here in the south.” Lynwe spoke intelligently, her mind racing. “Once he destroys that idiot in Cedar City, he will effectively control all of Arizona, Nevada and most of southern Utah.”

Tari nodded. “And if he is stripping cities as he did Flagstaff it is for only one reason.” He told her.

Lynwe’s eyes went a little wider. “He’s going to establish his own territory!” She exclaimed.

“And Eden will be the center.” Tari spoke. “He is wasting no time either. None of the human and elf villages within the territory have refused his aide and have openly joined his movement. His ranks are swelling with men and women, as well as elves. The remaining Indians here on the reservation have been discussing joining him as well.”

“The High Elves are not going to be happy with him establishing his own territory on their southern border.” Lynwe spoke.

“There are rumors that many of the High Elf villages along that border are already actively working with him in regards to trade and mutual defense treaties.” Tari explained. “We know already that the governor of Salina has done this.”

“And you think others will follow his example?” Lynwe asked.

Tari nodded. “I believe they will. Already those he and Dysea have drawn to Eden are experiencing the benefits of their society. They no longer want for the small things. Medical attention, schools for their young children, a society free of prejudice and hate and persecution.”

Lynwe’s eyes narrowed. “How is that possible Tari?”

Tari shrugged his shoulders. “I have no idea... but however he has done it, it appears to be working.”

“Do... do you think he will allow us to join him?” Lynwe asked. “Our history with the High Elves and Wood Elves is not pleasant. Our Drow history is wrought with conquering and killing High Elf and Wood Elf villages and towns. That does not even include the history we have now, thanks to the Alliance bastards. And as you know, they have long memories.”

“Perhaps.” Tari answered. “Our scouts detected Dysea leaving with the High Elf Queen Mother only two days ago. We assume they departed to return to Mountain City. That suggests that the rumors they are lovers is at least possible, at the very least they are friends enough to not abandon Tarifa to the whim of the Alliance. That Dysea herself went gives even more credence to this notion.”

“The... the two Queens are friends... if not more.” Lynwe asked in obvious surprise. “That is why she would return to Mountain City even after they expelled them and effectively ended her reign as Queen of the Wood Elves. They must have been monitoring everything going on within Mountain City, and now that her mother has come to Eden City, they have decided it is time to act.”

Tari nodded. “That could very well be the case. There is so much information we do not yet have access too.” Tari told her. “Hunter is quite good at keeping secrets, and we have known for some time that Dysea has a security detachment after the assassination attempt. They did not accompany Dysea when she left with the High Elf Queen Mother, so we have to assume that everything is not as it is made to seem.”

“I am tired of running.” Lynwe spoke finally. “Our safest proposition is to join Hunter. We can not keep running from Alliance forces while protecting those we have sworn to protect.”

Tari nodded. “I agree. That is why we will depart tomorrow morning to join him at Cedar City. With luck he will welcome us.”

“And if he doesn’t?” Lynwe asked.

Tari met her eyes. “We have no place else to go.” Tari said. “He has too.”

MARE ORIENTALE BASIN WESTERN FRINGE OF THE LIGHT SIDE ON THE MOON MOON BASE EDEN

Anisa whimpered in passionate delight, her face buried into the soft pillows on the bed, her back arched upwards as she felt William stroke his incredibly thick cock into her from behind with power and confidence. Anisa had grown to crave the sensations his hugely thick cock gave her whenever he made love to her, and this time was no different as she met his powerful plunges into her dripping pussy with hard thrusts backwards. She groaned every time his burning hot balls slapped against the back of her thighs and sent tiny ripples of pleasure racing through her. Her pussy was soaked with her cum as he had already given her two very powerful orgasms, yet somehow he had held back his own orgasm and continued to fuck her with the same intensity.

Anisa had not intended to fall in love with this man, yet as she looked back on their last few months together she realized it was inevitable. He was the most compassionate man, human or elf, that she had ever met, yet he had a dark side to him that she had seen come out only twice before. Both times in was in response to something that Senator Graham had done, and she feared for whoever was on the receiving end of that anger. William however had never shown anything but love and warmth to her and those he deemed his friends and allies. Anisa had to practically force him to take her after that first time because he did not want her to feel servicing him sexually was necessary. Anisa didn’t tell him that his cock pounding into her made her feel things she had never felt before, and she now craved their moments alone together. Anisa quickly found that she loved being dominated by him in their bed as he drove her to new heights of pleasure each and every time they were together. It turned her on so much because she knew that outside of their bed he was the perfect gentlemen, and treated her as an equal in everything. It was not something she was accustomed too, but she was rapidly learning to accept it and take it for how it was meant as a sign of love.

Anisa could also sense there was something beneath the façade that William projected; something sinister and wild, always waiting to come out. She had seen glimpses of it in his eyes before he brought his emotions back under control. Yet whenever he was with her, she felt like a blanket of soothing warmth was draped around her body and she never questioned him about it.

Anisa felt William’s hands tighten on her slim hips and she knew he was close to filling her with his cum. She turned her head to the side and reached back to grip his pile driving hips, digging her nails into his skin as she knew he liked.

“Sardar William!” She cried, “Sardar!” (Harder!)

Bill Wallace clenched his teeth and did as his lover asked. He had been fucking this beautiful elf for nearly an hour now, and he was about to erupt inside her incredibly tight and spasming pussy. He slammed his hips forward with more force, driving his rock hard cock into Anisa with incredible strength, and when he bottomed out inside her velvety warm he felt her powerful pussy muscles clamp down on his raging cock and her lost it.

“Ah fuck!” Bill yelled as his cum exploded deeply into Anisa’s belly, filling her. He felt her own sweet juices splashing wetly across his spewing cock as her body went rigid in her own orgasm and she screamed out her joy.

Bill collapsed forward onto her back, pushing them both down onto the bed as his cock continued to erupt inside her, and his arms went under her body to cup her firm breasts and he pulled her to him. Her small frame fit snugly into his embrace, her supple ass pressed against his groin. As his cock began to soften within her depths, Anisa made no move to extract herself from his powerful embrace. She released his hips and wrapped her arms over his hands as they clutched her breasts. He shifted slightly, coming to rest beside her in the bed, heedless of the wetness her previous orgasms had caused on the sheets. Anisa could only smile in contentment as his buried his face in the hair at the back of her neck, her raven colored mane wild and unchecked. Though he was growing soft, he still was firmly buried inside her, and this is what Anisa relished so much. William never was in a rush to leave her in bed as if she was some passing whore. He held her tightly after all of their encounters, his cock still within her much of the time and stroked her soft skin until both of them were breathing regularly again.

This time was no different, and Anisa spooned back against him as his lips caressed the back of her elfin ear, sending shivers of delight through her. He leaned forward against her face.

“You are incredible.” He spoke softly.

Anisa smiled. “And you are my Cundu.” She answered. (Prince.)

Bill pulled her tighter and sighed against her ear. “The representatives from the Alliance will be arriving in a few hours.” He said.

Anisa nodded. “We will be ready.” She told him. “Do you think our plan will work?”

“The only one I see as a question mark is this Colonel Marcus fellow.” William said. “I understand he is part elf and part genetically enhanced soldier.”

“He is what we call a Drow elf and he is a monster.” Anisa said quickly. “He is responsible for the deaths of many elves and humans. He is totally heartless, and a savage brute. I have seen the aftermath of his twisted nature on a young female elf. She barely survived and her mind broke at the things he did to her. She was in the hospital for nearly two months recovering from the physical wounds alone. Her mind never recovered.”

Bill nuzzled her neck. “I intent to make sure that will not happen here Anisa. I promise you.”

“Be careful in your dealings with him William.” She spoke, turning her head slightly towards him. “He is an evil man.”

“I’ve dealt with evil men before.” William told her confidently.

Anisa turned slowly, groaning as his still large cock slipped from the warmth of her soaked pussy. She turned in his arms and reached up to take his face in her hands. “You are no match for him physically William. Promise me you will not endanger yourself. I... I could not bear to lose you now. You have... you have become my tyar... my reason for going on.”

Wallace reached up and stroked her soft cheek with his weathered hand. “Do you trust me?” He asked.

Anisa nodded. “Without question William, you know this.”

“Then no matter what you see... or what you hear... know that I do...” Wallace looked into her dark eyes and surrendered to what he was feeling. “Know that I do love you Anisa.”

Anisa felt the tears trickle from her questioning eyes at his words but she kissed him deeply. “No one has ever told me that William.” She said.

“Just don’t forget it.” He said.

“You are unlike any man I have ever known William.” She said. “Were there many of you in the time you came from?”

Bill chuckled at the question and shook his head, “No, most of us came from one city, and we didn’t venture outside our city very often.” He told her.

“You are going to put the seed of doubt into the Minister’s heads about Graham aren’t you?” She said.

“I intend to let them know who actually runs this station.” William told her, “In a discrete way of course.”

“It is a dangerous game we play William Wallace.” Anisa told him.

Wallace nodded. “Yes it is. But in order for our ultimate plan to succeed, we have to play it.”

“I have heard rumors among the new elves that have come to Eden.” Anisa said.

Wallace looked at her, “Rumors?”

Anisa nodded. “They are rumors of a city in the southern mountains where men and elves live and work together in harmony. They are destroying slavers and mercenaries alike and building great things. This is... this is your Martin Hunter isn't it?”

Wallace smiled and nodded. “If I had to guess I would say yes. Marty said he had settled in the southwest near Utah and Arizona. We communicate several times a month, short untraceable links.”

“They are building what the Holy One first envisioned for men and elves.” Anisa spoke with barely concealed excitement. “I would like to see this city one day if it is true.”

William nodded. “So would I.” He replied. “So would I.”

Anisa snuggled even closer and rubbed her moist pussy against William's soft cock. She looked at him with a seductive twinkle in her eyes. “Do we have time?” She asked.

Wallace grinned like a child in a candy shop. He rolled over on top of her sliding between her silky thighs easily. “We can make time.” He told her before covering her lips with his own.

MOUNTAIN CITY

“This is what Martin has taught me Tarifa.” Dysea spoke softly. “And it is what I will now teach you. It will give us an advantage in battle that you and I have never had. He wanted me to show you in case you felt it was needed for yourself to make a quick and silent exit.”

Tarifa and Dysea were sitting on the roof of Tarifa's home, the thick blanket spread out on the metal surface, the moon light bright and allowing them to see easily. They were both naked; their bodies nearly mirror images of perfection in the muscular curves and lean limbs. Tarifa was almost fully recovered from the months of malnourishment and addiction to the drug she thought was a contraceptive, and she had regained her lush muscular form quickly with Dysea feeding her almost endlessly for the last two days. Her natural elfin metabolism, enhanced even further by Martin's DNA, allowed her to recover much more quickly. They had shared many hours of pleasure together, endlessly exploring each others curves and most private places, until they were exploding in passion. They had grown much closer these last two days, physically and emotionally, and among the things they discovered was an almost sister like bond that had developed between them. Dysea had told her of everything that had occurred while building Eden City, holding nothing back, including her growing desire for the woman who had hurt Martin so much in the past. Tarifa had looked at her intently, listening and then telling her with great feeling to allow things to grow and work themselves out.

They sat facing each other now, Tarifa's long legs draped across Dysea's. Their breasts were pressed together, their nipples hard in the cool night air, but both of them were suppressing the feelings of passion they felt. Their eyes had changed, the black outlining the sapphire and emerald colors, their fangs extended to their full length of nearly three quarters of an inch.

“I can fight Dysea.” Tarifa spoke with a small smile. “I thought you brought me up here to have your way with me under the eyes of the moon and stars.”

Dysea's emerald eyes glittered in the moonlight and she smiled, leaning forward to kiss Tarifa softly. “That thought did cross my mind.” She said softly with a smile. “But I must show this to you before I leave tomorrow evening.”

“Show me what Dysea?”

Dysea leaned back from her and took a deep breath. “Watch Tarifa, this is another gift that Menya Melda has given to us. You must picture it in your mind first, and then allow it to come over you.”

“Picture what?” Tarifa asked.

Dysea took a deep breath and closed her eyes, “The Ahya.” (Change.) She said softly. “Feel it around you. Allow it to pass through you, embrace you.”

Tarifa closed her eyes and relaxed, taking deep breaths as the wind blew across the top of her home slightly. Her elfin ears twitched when she picked up the noise and she listened harder, trying to make out the myriad of sounds. Her nostrils flared as a kaleidoscope of smells swept over her. Dysea's wildflower scent was most prominent due to her proximity, but Tarifa could detect dozens of other scents, ranging from food to flowers and plants and even people.

"Dysea I..."

"Shhh... embrace it Tarifa..." Dysea's soft musical voice spoke. "Separate the smells, catalog them in your mind. Memorize them. Feel the breeze on our skin, how it touches us, caresses our flesh. It can tell us so much. Direction, distance... even what it is. Hear the sounds, the voices, the footsteps, allow it to embrace you and teach you."

Tarifa did as Dysea instructed her, allowing it all to surround her and fill her. It was incredible and almost more than she thought she could bear, but she felt Dysea's hands take hers and she relaxed even more, and began to file what she could hear and smell away just as Dysea had told her. She had never opened herself fully to the changes her relationship and love of Martin had brought about in her until now. She had not known the extent to which it had affected her, and now with Dysea's help she was learning.

"Once we allow the Ahya to come over us completely, all of our senses and physical attributes increase nearly ten fold Tarifa." Dysea's voice spoke softly. "We... we are no longer just elves... we are something more. In time you will be able to file away a new smell or taste into your mind without thinking, and you will never forget it."

Dysea opened her eyes and looked at the beautiful face of her lover. Tarifa opened her eyes as well, and she saw the look of wonderment in them. Dysea smiled. "You see."

"It's amazing Dysea!" Tarifa spoke looking at her with wide sapphire eyes. "What else has he shown you Dysea? Tell me."

Dysea smiled. "There is so much about Nauta Melme that he holds back, even from me." She spoke. "There is something... just beneath the surface. I can almost feel it when he makes love to me. It wants to come out, take me, possess me, but he holds it in so tightly. There... there are times when I watch him Tarifa, staring at the moon or the sky, and it's almost as if he is talking with someone else. I can hear voices... faint echoes within my mind. It is very intoxicating at times... yet it is also frightening. It is almost as if he is holding more inside him than he allows others to see, even me."

"Do you believe he... he means to hurt you in any way?" Tarifa asked.

Dysea shook her head quickly. "No... it is never that. I have known nothing but love and warmth in his embrace. Never have I seen him angry with me, though I have tested the limits of his patience at times." She answered with a small smile. "I believe it is because he wants to show me more... tell me more... but something inside him stops him."

Tarifa took her hands and squeezed them tightly. "We have known each other for so short a period of time, but I am closer to you than to my own sisters Dysea. Even without the physical pleasure we have given each other, I feel a special bond with you."

Dysea nodded with a smile, "And I with you Tarifa. I have never had the pleasure of siblings, my father died before my mother could bear him more children and she never took another husband. You fill that part of me that a sister would, and I will always cherish that."

"Dysea, should we tell the Holy One what we have discovered?" Tarifa asked, her hand absently reaching up to stroke Dysea's face.

Dysea shook her head again. "Your mother and my mother are the only ones who truly know what has been happening. We should keep it that way for now, at least until we have devised a plan to free your father and brothers. I know Nauta Melme has already begun working on one in his head, in between getting into trouble no doubt while I am away." Dysea spoke with a grin.

"The two of you were truly meant for one another Dysea... and it makes me happy to see you with him." Tarifa spoke.

Dysea reached up to stroke her cheek. "You will find the one for you Tarifa, do not fear that. If anything, my love and my time with Nauta Melme have shown me that these things most often blindsides you from the least expected area, such as my growing feelings for Anja."

Tarifa chuckled. "Well she is delightfully wonderful to look at." Tarifa spoke. "Something I would not have noticed six months ago."

Dysea chuckled, "Nor I."

Tarifa met her eyes. “We have a night and day remaining before you have to depart. What do we do?”

“Nauta Melme asked me to discover as much about this messenger who pass on the pills to you as I could.” She spoke. “This person may lead us to whoever is actually supplying the pills. I believe it may be time for you to run out of your medication and inquire that you need more urgently.”

Tarifa saw the look in Dysea’s eyes and her jaw line hardened. “Yes I think that would be an excellent idea.”

The tavern was in the lowest portion of Mountain City, and it was also considered the most dangerous, as it was where most of the petty criminals resided. It was also home to many of the seedier establishments that operated brothels out of their buildings. No matter what the elves tried, they found they could not rid themselves of these parts of their cities, and many of the elves considered these portions of their cities to be unconscious leftovers from their years as slaves. The position on the ground level and proximity to the several entrances nearby gave the criminal element easy access in and out of Mountain City. This was where many of the citizens of Mountain City dare not venture. It was an extremely rough and dangerous part of the city, and for the most part it was left without security forces patrolling it unless something major occurred. Tarifa had tried to expunge this part of Mountain City from their lives, but no matter what she did, it never seemed to die.

Dysea and Tarifa now sat in the rear of the tavern, the small table providing them with an excellent view of the entrance into the establishment. Both of them wore thick capes with the cowls and hoods drawn over their heads, effectively hiding their identities from the dozens of dubious looking individuals within the tavern. Most of the tavern was occupied by elves, but there were the few humans that were brave enough to enter. This was initially a surprise to Tarifa, who had never ventured this deep into the bowels of her own city, but she quickly understood it for what it was. None of the humans were slavers, as that would not be tolerated by even those elves prone to criminal activities, so that made many of them traders of black market goods who were looking to spend an evening with some of the more loose female elves in the cities. It was smoky inside, with the sounds of voices and music filling the air. They were watching the entrance to the tavern, as they had been for the last hour, carefully watching those who entered but remaining very subtle about it.

“Do you believe they will come?” Dysea asked in barely a whisper, almost no sound coming from her lips, almost as if she was mouthing the words. Dysea knew that Tarifa’s keen ears would detect her words now that she had opened herself fully to the Ahya. Their cowls hid the fact that their eyes were no longer normal, outlined in black as they were.

“There is no reason for suspicion.” Tarifa answered in the same manner, no sound coming from her moving lips. “I followed the procedure exactly.”

Their heads turned casually as the door to the tavern slid open and the figure of medium height stepped into the darkened room. The figure wore a long cloak and cowl as well, hiding their features from view. They watched as the head swept the room, finally coming to rest on where they sat. They gazed at the figure as it made its way towards them, moving among the mass of bodies with grace and obvious skill. That the figure was female was obvious as even the long cloak conformed to the full figure and breasts that pushed against the cloak. Tarifa sensed Dysea stiffen next to her, but resisted the urge to turn to look at her.

“Dysea... what is wrong?”

“It... it is a Drow!” Dysea answered in the same silent words.

“A Drow, here; that... that isn’t possible!” Tarifa replied, watching as the figure grew closer. “I... I thought they were nearly extinct.”

“You said yourself you saw dark skinned elves moving freely in the Alliance city where they held you prisoner.” Dysea spoke.

“I did yes, but that they could be Drow never entered my mind.” Tarifa said. “Nor the fact they could be in my city.”

“Perhaps Tarifa, but whoever this is, it is a Drow elf.” Dysea answered. “No one moves like a Drow Elf. And this person is moving like a Drow.”

“Do we change the plan?”

“No. I will just up the dosage somewhat.” Dysea spoke, her hands deftly bringing the small tranquilizer gun from under her cloak. It was something that Martin had given her to keep from having to kill anyone if she needed to make a fast exit from Mountain City.

They watched the figure settle into the third chair at their table but make no move to draw back the cowl. Now that Tarifa had Dysea’s warning, her changed eyes could just barely detect the fringes of silky white hair under the cowl.

“Tell your Queen she takes a great risk coming here for this medicine.” The female voice spoke softly.

“She is almost out of what was given to her earlier. She needed more.” Tarifa replied calmly.

“Who is your companion?”

“A friend and protector,” Tarifa answered leaning forward. “Do you have what I need?”

The female Drow Elf took a small container from under her cloak and set it on the table. Her hand betrayed what she was, confirming Dysea’s suspicions. Her skin was the color of dark caramel, though barely discernable in the dim light of the tavern. “I was able to obtain double the requested dosage so that you do not have to take such risks coming down here. It is not safe for you to walk these paths.”

“You worry for the Queen’s safety?” Tarifa asked slightly surprised.

“The High Elf Queen is not my enemy.” The female spoke. “And I have no desire to make one of her. The rumors that spread in these streets say she is in danger, and I do not wish to have her come down here and risk herself while in my presence.”

“That is very interesting reasoning for a Drow.” Tarifa spoke. “I understand the Queen is responsible for the deaths of many of your people. Why would you help her?”

“You are... you are different.” She spoke. “Not like the normal hand maidens that come into these parts.”

“Should I take that as a compliment?” Tarifa asked.

The head of the Drow female turned ever so slightly to look at Tarifa’s hidden face. “The High Elf Queen has killed many of my people yes, but it is she who also urged the end of the war between our two peoples.” The Drow answered. “And this action saved many more lives. Do you have my payment?”

Tarifa took her hand from under her cloak and reached out with the small brown bag of credits and placed them in the outstretched hand of the Drow Elf. “I thank you.” She spoke, covering the exchange discretely with her other hand, casually taking the Drow’s hand between her own as if meaning to shake the hand. Tarifa’s hands clamped down on the Drow’s hand with a vise like grip and the Drow’s head came up quickly, exposing those near glowing amber eyes for Tarifa to see. The strength of the grip on her hand should not be coming from an elf.

“What are you doing?” She hissed.

“Getting some answers!” Tarifa hissed back.

Dysea extended the tranquilizer gun under the table and fired two quick shots. The soft sound was lost in the background noise of the tavern, as was the grunt of surprise and pain as the darts slammed into the Drow’s exposed side. The tranquilizer acted instantly, and the Drow’s now exposed amber eyes rolled into the back of her head and she collapsed forward onto the table.

Tarifa acted just as quickly, scooping the Drow female into her arms, absently admiring the firmness of her body. Dysea quickly joined her on the opposite side of the unconscious Drow, as they situated the Drow warrior between their bodies.

“I know a place.” Tarifa said quickly. “We can take her there.”

“Quickly,” Dysea said. “Before we draw more attention to us than we desire.”

They needn’t have worried, as it was apparent that many of the taverns’ visitors passed out from too much wine and ale, and the few heads that had turned in their direction went back to what they were doing and dismissed the drunken elf and the comrades that assisted him in leaving the tavern.

MOON BASE EDEN

“I present Colonel Marcus of The Alliance Military Eastern Command Headquarters.” Minister Oleg Deval spoke, motioning to the tall dark skinned elf with cruel amber eyes.

William had turned out in his finest dress uniform, with all his decorations, to greet the arriving Alliance Ministers with Senator Graham. He had met Deval before, but the new Ministers he had not. There was older man by the name of Robert Wiseman and the head of the Alliance Genetics Division Selene Torcrum. Wiseman had the same hard look as Deval and Bill immediately dismissed him as another crony. Minister Torcrum however was different. She was relatively young for such a position of power, her strawberry blond hair long and pulled into a tight pony tail away from her face. The plain gray outfit she wore did not hide the long legs and ample chest she sported, and William briefly wondered how she had advanced so high up in an obviously male dominated form of government.

William now stood eye ball to eye ball with the man that many of the elves called The Alliance Butcher. Marcus was equal in height to Wallace's six foot one, and very well muscled. He had a dark cruel look in those amber eyes, and it was setting off alarm bells in William's head from the start.

"An honor to meet you Colonel," William spoke calmly.

Marcus eyes this human in front of him, taking note of his excellent physical condition, and the intelligent look of his eyes. "You may not think so after our visit here Admiral." He spoke.

"Is that so?" William said confidently. "And why is that?"

"It is my job to make certain that Alliance interests are being looked after." Marcus spoke. "I intend to do just that."

"I have no doubts you will find everything in good order." William spoke.

The politicians in the room simply stood there and let the two military men stare at each other from six inches apart for another few seconds before Graham smiled.

"We are very pleased you have come." He spoke. "I have arranged very comfortable quarters for you during your stay. All of you will have two slaves at your call for whatever you may need at all times. Please..." Graham motioned for the door. "I'd like to give you a short tour and then I have an exquisite dinner laid out for you."

Deval seemed pleased at this. "I take it you are happy with the last shipment of slaves then." He asked.

"Oh yes, very happy." Graham answered.

"Perhaps then we can begin discussions on the advanced avionics packages for the Raptors that you have so graciously given us the plans too. And I'm sure Minister Torcrum would like to inspect your facilities and see your baseline code for the new drug."

Graham nodded, "Of course. We'll pass the lab area on the way to more comfortable surroundings and I can have Doctor Taggart give Minister Torcrum the complete design and specs."

Deval turned to Marcus. "I trust Admiral Wallace will be able to give you a separate tour of the facility Colonel."

William smiled. "I'd be honored too." William replied. "We can start with the Raptor production facilities here on Eden."

Marcus nodded. "That is sufficient to start." He spoke and heading towards the opposite door that William's hand extended in the direction of.

William looked at Deval. "We'll meet you for lunch Minister. Enjoy the tour."

William turned and followed Marcus out of the receiving center and into the heart of Eden Base.

MOUNTAIN CITY DRAGOON SAFE HOUSE

"And you are sure no one knows of this place?" Tarifa asked Cantel as he lowered the two heavy bags to the floor.

"This is one of the oldest safe houses that we have My Queen. Only the most senior commanders know of its existence." Cantel replied. "And they are all loyal to you without question."

Tarifa nodded. "Inform my mother of our location so that she does not worry." Tarifa told him. "We will return sometime before mid day so that Dysea can leave with the Trade Caravan."

"My Queen... she is a Drow!" Cantel spoke. "They were thought to be extinct! How is it that she is alive and operating within Mountain City?"

“I don’t know, but we will find out Cantel.” Tarifa replied.

“You should allow me to at least leave a senior Dragoon with you. If she is schooled as a Drow Assassin, she will be lethally trained and extremely dangerous.”

Tarifa touched his arm. “We will be fine Cantel. Make sure my mother knows our location and insure all arrangements for Dysea’s return are perfect.”

Cantel nodded quickly and bowed his head, “As you order my Queen.”

Tarifa watched as the door slid closed behind him and she secured the lock. She tossed back her cloak and draped it over the chair as she headed for the bedroom where Dysea had taken the Drow.

Dysea was securing the Drow’s feet to the floor anchors with clasps and iron bracelets that were connected to the floor at the foot of the bed. The safe house was able to accommodate prisoners and had been used to interrogate individuals in the past. Dysea had removed the Drow’s cloak and cowl and she stepped back just as the Drow was beginning to regain consciousness. The woman’s silky white hair was cut short all around her head except for in the front where it was considerably longer on either side of her face. Her dark obsidian skin was flawless in its features, her lips appearing soft and colored with dark red gloss. The outfit she wore was a very revealing skin tight white dress that barely came down over her firm, muscular dark thighs. It was cut in a deep V shape, revealing her muscular abdomen and the line of cleavage from her medium sized but exceptionally firm breasts, and was held together with laces. Around her neck she wore a glittering gold medallion that Dysea quickly reached down and removed as she stirred. The effects of the tranquilizer were instantaneous in their results, but Martin had told her it would give the person a splitting head ache when they woke.

Dysea heard the Drow moan as she moved her head and she turned to look at Tarifa as she came up next to her. “She’s already coming around?” Tarifa asked surprised.

Dysea nodded. “Her metabolism is regenerative it seems, much like ours is. It appears she is much more resilient to poisons than most elves.” She answered, also surprised at this realization. “Another ten minutes and she would have woken up while we were carrying her here. She has no weapons, but she was wearing this.”

Dysea held out the medallion to Tarifa who took it in her hands gently.

“An heirloom perhaps,” Tarifa spoke turning it over in her hands admiring the intricate workmanship it would have required to make. The medallion was split down the center, as if it had been cut with a laser.

“Whatever it is, it was all she had on her in possessions.” Dysea said. “Why would a Drow Assassin be in Mountain City without weapons?”

Tarifa looked at the Drow on the floor at the foot of the bed, her sapphire eyes wandering over her body in a different fashion that Dysea’s had. Tarifa took in the lush figure and silky satin like skin, as well as the curves of her hips and the fullness of her breasts. She had touched the Drow’s skin in the tavern, and it had sent ripples through her even as she had Dysea had supported her as they left the tavern. “Her heart rate has increased. She’s fully awake now.” She said.

Dysea smiled. “You can open your eyes Assassin.” She snapped. “We know you are conscious now.”

The Drow’s eyelids opened to reveal her gleaming amber colored eyes and the anger and hatred was very obvious within those amber gems. “I will kill you both and strip the skin from your bodies!” She hissed vehemently.

Tarifa and Dysea smiled. “Just how do you plan to do that?” Dysea asked. “You are securely shackled. And you will not break those bonds.”

“No bonds can hold a Drow Assassin!” She spat.

“You think highly of your skills.” Tarifa spoke now. “Yet you allowed the two of us to take you with considerable ease. Why is that?”

“You... you deceived me!”

“Of course we deceived you!” Tarifa replied. “Did you think we would tell you who we were and expect you to meet with us! How is it that a Drow Assassin survived the Alliance purge of your people? How long have you been in my city?”

“Your city,” The Drow spoke sarcastically. “You think much of yourself if you...” Her words stopped and her eyes took in Tarifa as if seeing her for the first time, “You... you are the High Elf Queen?” Her eyes went to Dysea and recognition blossomed on her face once more. “You are the... you are the Wood Elf Queen?”

“Former Queen.” Dysea corrected her. “You have much to answer for. Paramount among them is the attempt to kill Tarifa.”

“I did no such thing!” The Drow spat defiantly.

Dysea held up the container of false contraceptives. “Then explain this?” She tossed the container on the floor at the Drow’s feet.

“I will tell you nothing former Queen! I am a Drow Assassin! I am superior to you in every way!” The Drow hissed her eyes angry.

Dysea was upon her in a blink, moving far faster than the Drow assassin could follow. She gasped when Dysea’s hand closed around her throat and squeezed. She leaned back but was stopped by the foot of the bed and her eyes sprang open as Dysea’s face, her emerald eyes now outlined in black appeared in front of her eyes.

“You will tell us what we want to know Drow Assassin!” Dysea snarled. “If you do not, I promise you more pain than you could possibly imagine.”

The Drow glared right back at Dysea, the defiance never leaving her eyes. “You... you know nothing of pain!” She stammered. “You... you have never been tortured by the Alliance Pain Masters!”

Tarifa stepped forward and placed her hand on Dysea’s shoulder, “Dysea.” She said softly, causing Dysea to meet her eyes. Dysea released her grip on the Drow’s throat and got back to her feet as Tarifa knelt in front of the Drow Assassin. “Dysea may not have experienced the Alliance Pain Masters... but I have.” Tarifa said softly.

“You lie!”

Tarifa reached up and pulled the loose fitting shirt from her right shoulder. The Drow’s eyes went to the three inch long jagged scar that paralleled her shoulder blade. She knew immediately what it was. “The Pain Master inserted his electrodes through here.” Tarifa said, touching the scar. “I was his prisoner for four days before Marcus made me his plaything.” Tarifa’s hand snapped out with lightning speed and she hit the Drow across the face with a stinging pop that rocked her head back and split her bottom lip slightly. “Never accuse me of not knowing pain! And do not doubt the pain Dysea will inflict upon you will be far greater than anything the Pain Master may have put you through. She has a particular distrust of Drow. Now, I have been used by far too many people for far too long and I want answers. You will answer our questions with no more games or spouting your Drow superiority to us. Either of us could take you as if you were a child if we so choose. Do we understand each other now?”

The Drow’s amber eyes softened slightly and she reached up to wipe away the blood trickling from her split lip. These were not ordinary female elves she was dealing with, their speed and strength far greater than anything she had ever encountered. She needed to know more before she could form a plan to escape and she nodded her head slowly.

Tarifa nodded. “Good.” She said. She got up and moved across the room, pulling the chair from under the desk. She brought it back to the end of the bed and sat in it facing the Drow assassin. “Har Undu, on the bed. You do not need to stay on the floor.” (Sit Down)

The Drow got to her feet slowly and pulled herself into a sitting position on the end of the bed, the iron shackles clanking on the floor as she settled.

“Let’s begin with your name.” Tarifa said.

“Aihola,” The Drow answered immediately, “Aihola of the Family Anatyla.”

“Who do you work for?” Dysea asked.

“I work for myself!” Aihola replied. “I am alone.”

“Then who gave you the drugs to give to me?” Tarifa asked.

Aihola’s eyes narrowed. “I do not deal with drugs! Of any kind! They are evil!”

Dysea bent down and retrieved the container from the floor and held them up in front of her face. “These are drugs Drow whore!” She snapped.

“They are pills to keep from becoming pregnant!” Aihola snapped right back. “I do not transport drugs! And I am no whore Wood Elf bitch!”

Tarifa took the container from Dysea’s hand. “These pills are not a contraceptive Aihola.” She said calmly. “They are a combination of three mind controlling drugs given to you to give to me so that someone else could control my mind.”

“You expect me to believe that?” Aihola popped, looking at her. “There is nothing wrong with you.”

“How did you get into Mountain City without being detected?” Tarifa asked.

“I was given travel papers and credits.” Aihola replied.

“By whom?” Dysea spoke.

“I don’t know. They were left for me in a delivery box in New Baltimore! Five months ago!” Aihola replied.

“So you are a member of the Alliance Military?” Dysea prodded.

“I was until a year ago.” Aihola replied honestly. Something told her that these two Elf Queens would know if she was lying, and the sapphire eyes of the raven haired Queen were boring into her in a way no gaze ever had. “I was expelled for... I was expelled and ordered executed for not butchering an innocent human family that had done nothing wrong!”

“And they just let you leave?” Tarifa asked with some doubt.

Aihola shook her. “I escaped the day before my execution.” She answered.

Dysea pulled the second chair over next to Tarifa and settled into it. “Are we to believe you escaped from a maximum security military prison the day before you were to be executed by yourself?”

“My unit commander and others assisted me.” Aihola answered. “A little more than three months ago they vanished while on a mission. All of them are Drow... and all have been servants of the Alliance. They tortured us... conducted vile experiments on us! We had decided nearly a year ago to desert at the first opportunity, and apparently that opportunity came.”

“Yet you remained in New Baltimore undetected?” Tarifa said. “Why?”

“I took on a new identity and had plastic surgery to change my appearance.” Aihola said. “There is an extensive underground network in New Baltimore.”

“There is an underground network?” Dysea asked surprised.

“There are many who do not agree with the Alliance policies.” Aihola spoke. “They have formed an underground cell where an elf or someone wanted by the government can go to for help. New Baltimore is very large, as most of the Alliance cities are. It is a small affair to remain hidden and undetected if you know what you are doing. There is a sizable mercenary network that uses New Baltimore as its base.”

“So you were recruited to come to Mountain City to poison me?” Tarifa asked.

“I was recruited to come here and await orders!” Aihola snapped. “When I arrived I was given a place to remain hidden and told I would be contacted. Just over three months ago I was. I was instructed to deliver a package to a female elf within the Royal compound. I did so and was paid quite well. I had no idea what the package contained and I didn’t ask.”

“You asked this time.” Tarifa said. “You must have or else you would not be under the impression you were carrying contraceptives for the Queen.”

“When I was contacted they offered double what I was paid the last time to deliver the pills to you this evening. I inquired as to why the figure had doubled for a similar job. She told me.” Aihola answered.

“She told you?”

“My contact was a female.” Aihola told her. “By the sounds of her voice and breathing, I estimate she was nearing a hundred years of age. She had a trace of Western City accent in her tone.”

“She told you they were contraceptives for me?” Tarifa asked.

Aihola nodded. “There are rumors circulating here in the lower levels of your city that you do not wish to bear that saura ner Telan a haryon. The voice told me the rumors were true.” (Putrid Man) (Heir)

Tarifa looked at Dysea. “I know who it is.” She spoke confidently. “She is an aide to my mother, though how she has access to such drugs is a mystery. My handmaiden must have contacted her, and she made the call to Aihola here.”

“The new aide to your mother the one that goes by Alore,” Dysea asked.

Tarifa shook her head. “You have not seen her yet. But you will.” Tarifa turned back to Aihola. “How did she contact you?”

“I have an untraceable communicator.” Aihola answered.

“Where is this communicator?”

“It... it is hidden.” Aihola told them.

Tarifa glanced at Dysea and nodded slowly. “Remove your clothes.” Tarifa spoke matter of factly turning back to Aihola.

“I will do no such thing!” Aihola spat.

“You will if you wish to live.” Dysea demanded.

“Then you will have to kill me!” Aihola barked.

Dysea moved much faster than Aihola was prepared for and in the blink of an eye she was behind her, wrenching her head back further on the bed by her hair. Dysea’s eyes changed quickly and when Aihola reached back to strike at her she grabbed one of her wrists and pinned it above her head. Tarifa was in front of her then, pulling her other arm back and pinning it behind her as well. They both noticed that this Drow female had a great deal more strength than a normal elf, forcing them to apply more pressure.

“No!” Aihola screamed, struggling in the iron like grip of Dysea and Tarifa. Her amber eyes were wide at the strength of the two Queens, “Ni indome cera hon!” (I will carve out your hearts.)

Tarifa settled onto Aihola’s lap, effectively pinning her legs down and brought up the razor sharp blade. “Do not move!” She spoke firmly.

Aihola looked at her as she lowered the knife to the laces holding her dress closed around her. “No! Le bertho na apa... ahhhhhhh!” (You dare to touch.)

Tarifa sliced open the laces holding her garment together and watched as her full and very firm obsidian colored breasts were fully exposed to her eyes. Aihola’s nipples were jutting out nearly half an inch in length, fully erect and they looked to be painfully hard. This caused Tarifa’s eyes to go a little wider, and her heart to flutter but she kept to her task.

“Le racco whores!” Aihola screamed. (You cursed.) Her head was flailing side to side as Tarifa’s hand snaked lower along her flat firm abdomen. “No! Inye nosta le! Lau!” (I beg you. No)

Tarifa’s fingers slipped inside Aihola’s thin white panties and she felt the soft white hair above the opening of her pussy. Her eyes grew even wider when Aihola’s taunt body tensed noticeably, her back arching slightly. There was only one place she could have hidden a communicator and not have Dysea find it. Tarifa’s finger slipped through the soft hair and found Aihola’s soaked pussy lips. She felt her extremely erect clit prodding the skin of her hand and Aihola’s eyes nearly rolled into the back of her head when Tarifa’s hand brushed against her engorged clit. As gently as she could, Tarifa slipped her fingers past Aihola’s drenched pussy lips and found the thin object taped inside her thigh.

“Lau...lau! Inye... inye nira buio le...Ahhhhhhh... lau!” (No...no! I will serve you!)

Tarifa was taken aback as Aihola’s body went completely rigid and her cum flooded out of her spasming pussy. The veins along the side of her neck bulged out, and her coal black skin suddenly blossomed with sweat. The strong scent of Cherry Blossoms filled the room as Tarifa lifted the communicator in her cum covered fingers, her eyes on Aihola’s withering body as she was gripped in a powerful orgasm.

Dysea looked at her amazed, her own senses overwhelmed by the scent of Aihola’s cum, which still was erupting from her cunt, soaking the panties and the bed she was sitting in. Aihola was completely out of it, her body having betrayed her as she surrendered to the sensations ripping through her. Her mind was flashing with bright lights and she silently cursed the Alliance scientists who did this to her. The slightest sensation of pleasure on her breasts or pussy caused her to become highly aroused and unable to stop the pleasure from gripping her and sending her over the edge. She had tried to control it, but Tarifa’s hand had been too soft and too skilled, and her engorged clit was fully erect by the time her hand had deftly slipped into her lace panties. Aihola lost all sense of reality as soon as her hand had grazed her clit and sent her over the edge.

Dysea no longer needed to restrained Aihola as she was gripping the sides of the bed in an explosive orgasm and she released her grip on her arms, watching as Aihola brought her hands down to her obsidian breasts and began to fondle them roughly, pinching her own nipples trying to draw out her pleasure.

“What did you do to her Tarifa?” Dysea asked in shock.

Tarifa looked just as surprised and held up the communicator. “I... I don’t know. This is what I wanted.”

Dysea took the communicator and took the wrapping off of it carefully as Tarifa turned to look at Aihola’s glistening body on the bed. She brought her fingers up to her face and inhaled the Cherry Blossom scent deeply, feeling a wave of sexual heat surge through her. Almost without thinking Tarifa slipped her fingers into her mouth and tasted Aihola’s juices. Her taste buds came alive and exploded in delight at the taste.

“I have the last communication code.” Dysea said.

“Inye Racco le ui,” Aihola spat viciously as she began to regain her composure, her chest heaving in exertion. (I curse you both!) “You had no right!” Her delicious looking breasts were shiny in the dim light, covered in a fine sheen of sweat, and Aihola tried to pull her sliced garments together to hide her nakedness.

Dysea turned to look at Tarifa and saw her chest rising and falling quickly. Her face was flush and her eyes had changed again, “Tarifa?” She asked softly.

Tarifa turned to look at her and Dysea then detected the now familiar smell of her lover’s excitement. “Dysea... I... I feel so warm.” She said in a voice that was almost pleading in tone. Dysea felt a wave of sexual warmth rush through her just as quickly as she smelled Tarifa’s excitement, “What is happening Dysea?”

“It’s... it’s the Drow!” Dysea answered hesitantly, feeling her own excitement rising quickly. “She... her juices... it is affecting us somehow.” She said stepping closer to her. “I... I have seen this before Tarifa. We should leave now... before...”

Dysea’s words were silenced as Tarifa’s soft luscious lips covered her own and Tarifa’s tongue plunged into her mouth. Dysea’s control surrendered to Tarifa’s need and her arms pulled her closer, frantically pulling at Tarifa’s clothes. Tarifa nearly ripped Dysea’s top from her, exposing her large tanned breasts and aroused nipples. Dysea gasped loudly as Tarifa lowered her head and engulfed her right nipple within her warm mouth. Even in the midst of her increasing sexual excitement, Dysea continued to pull Tarifa’s own clothes from her, finally freeing her firm breasts and eraser hard nipples. She pinched Tarifa’s nipples firmly hearing her groan in desire. Whatever had affected them was firmly in control and Aihola could only watch in stunned shock as the two Queens groped and licked each other all over. It was a new sight for Aihola, having never experienced pleasure with a woman, and even though a small part of her found it disgusting, it was having its own affect on her. She could not tear her gaze from the firm and lush bodies of the two Queens as they pulled the remainder of each other’s clothes off, exposing themselves to her gaze completely.

Aihola’s amber eyes were wide in growing excitement, and she felt the warmth returning between her quivering thighs. She watched as the two young Queens fell to the bed next to her and quickly reversed their positions. She got a full view of Dysea lowering her dripping platinum haired pussy onto Tarifa’s extended tongue, and she watched as Dysea’s blond mane lowered out of sight into Tarifa’s dark haired pussy. She was frozen in place watching Tarifa’s tongue plunge furiously in and out of Dysea’s pussy, alternating between long licks up the blood engorged lips as they opened like a flower and flicking across the clearly pierced and very erect clit. Tarifa’s hands never stopped moving, stroking her lovers’ body all over. Aihola could only stare at them and the gods help her, she wanted the High Elf Queen to do the same to her.

It was Dysea though who won the battle as Aihola saw Tarifa push her head back, her face and lips covered in Dysea’s juices and scream. Dysea’s dancing tongue and skilled fingers caused her to shudder in orgasm as her cum exploded out of her, emptying into Dysea’s willing mouth. Aihola saw Tarifa’s eyes fix on her as her neck strained in orgasm and it was then that she saw the extended fangs protruding from Tarifa’s open mouth. She also saw that the white’s of her eyes had disappeared and her sapphire colored eyes were now outline din black.

“I want... I want to taste her!” Tarifa gasped and Aihola’s eyes grew even wider.

Aihola watched as Dysea’s body turned on top of her lover and she discovered that Dysea’s emerald eyes had changed as well, and she saw the extended fangs as Dysea lovingly trailed her tongue up between Tarifa’s jutting breasts.

They were both far too gone to care and Dysea smiled as she licked her lips next to Tarifa’s beautiful face.

Aihola saw the look of desire in both their eyes and she tried to get up quickly from the bed. “I... I am a Drow warrior!” She stated quickly as both Tarifa and Dysea came across the large bed towards her. “I... I will not allow this!”

Tarifa moved like a blur of light and grabbed the chain that connected to Aihola’s ankle shackles. She yanked hard and watched as Aihola couldn’t hold her balance and fell with a gasp back onto the bed. She moved again grabbing Aihola’s silky hair in her fist. Aihola’s wide eyes saw that her lips and face were moist with Dysea’s juices.

“You will... you will not take me like this! I am a Drow warrior! I will not submit to this! I... I do not bed women!” Aihola nearly shouted, but her voice was faltering, as Tarifa’s soft hand trailed up her muscular abdomen.

“I... I have heard Drow woman like it rough.” Tarifa spoke in a husky voice, staring into Aihola’s amber eyes.

“NO! Do not... I don’t want this!” Aihola pleaded.

“Your body says otherwise Aihola.” Dysea’s voice was soft as her face appeared next to Aihola’s.

“I... I don’t...” Aihola began.

“We are going to take you now!” Dysea spoke, filling her hand with Aihola’s lustrous white hair.

“No! I... you...” Aihola’s couldn’t complete her sentence as Dysea’s lips covered her mouth and gripped her head tightly by her hair. At the touch of Dysea’s tongue within her mouth Aihola groaned against the invading appendage as it met and began a duel with her own tongue. Aihola had never been kissed before, and it sent electric shocks shooting through her unlike anything ever had. She could taste Tarifa’s cum on Dysea’s tongue and it tasted distinctly like peaches and despite the fact that it was a woman’s tongue within her mouth, Aihola found it very much to her liking and her resistance to the kiss subsided just a little.

Dysea felt this and deepened her kiss, using her free hand to reach for Tarifa’s head which was currently snuggled next to Aihola’s large breasts, her tongue dancing across the firm black skin and mercilessly teasing the monstrously erect and hard nipple. Dysea pushed Tarifa’s head lower, and needing no further encouragement in her current state of arousal Tarifa complied.

Tarifa shifted her body lowered and settled between Aihola’s quivering black thighs. She admired the lean muscles as they clenched and drew tight, and she caressed the slick black skin, the contrast of her skin against Aihola’s heightening her desire even more. Her eyes found the prize she was searching for and they grew wide as Aihola’s nearly half inch long dark pink clit was engorged and completely unhooded once more as if begging to be feasted on. The dark pink lips of Aihola’s pussy were open like a butterfly just spreading its wings and Tarifa brushed her nose against the sensitive lips inhaling deeply, burning her scent into her brain. She felt Aihola’s legs tense and her tight black ass clenched as she tried to draw away. Tarifa didn’t allow that and took those beautifully shaped black cheeks in her hands. Her ass was easily the equal, if not more beautiful than Dysea’s firm and wonderfully shaped ass and she held the tight ass cheeks firmly as she drew herself closer to that soaked and dripping pussy. She pursed her lips and blew softly on Aihola’s fully exposed clit, feeling proud as one of Aihola’s powerful hands dropped to her shoulder and squeezed tightly, trying to push her away.

Dysea knew from the way Aihola reacted that Tarifa was about to take her and she pulled away from the toe curling kiss she was giving to the Drow Assassin. She smiled when Aihola instinctively flicked out with her tongue trying to continue the kiss. She stared into Aihola’s amber eyes as she lifted herself up and rotated her body around.

“No!” Aihola protested, turning her head to the side even as her eyes stared at Dysea’s dripping pussy lower over her face. “I am Drow! I don’t... I don’t do this! I don’t bed with other women! No!”

Dysea looked down as she knelt above Aihola’s face and saw Tarifa’s sapphire eyes looking up at her positioned as she was in front of the Drow’s sopping pussy. She felt a rush of further sexual excitement and reached out to lower her hands onto Aihola’s large breasts.

“I... I would believe you... Drow assassin... if your body was not betraying you.” Dysea groaned as she pinched Aihola’s huge nipples. “Ta... taste me Aihola!” Dysea gasped. “Taste me and you will experience the second most wonderful thing in this harsh world. Taste me you Drow bitch!” Dysea lowered her drenched pussy entirely onto Aihola’s face.

Aihola was almost beyond the point of caring, as Tarifa’s continued blowing of cool air across her huge clit was driving her mad with desire. She had watched the platinum blond pussy lower over her face dripping its wild flower tasting juices onto her cheeks and lips. She tried to keep her head turned to the side, the last of her willpower telling her that it was beneath her to submit to such base pleasures, especially with another woman and a non-Drow woman at that. Her body and heart answered for her mind as she felt Tarifa’s soft warm lips encircle her almost painfully erect clit and suck hard. Aihola turned her head in order to scream out her pleasure but instead found the wonderfully beautiful blond pussy of Dysea lowering to her soft black lips and pink tongue. Without thinking Aihola stabbed out with her tongue and it plowed into Dysea’s pierced clit, causing Dysea to scream out her own pleasure as her powerful thighs clenched Aihola’s head tightly between them and flooded her mouth with cum.

Aihola's strong hand grabbed the back of Tarifa's head, wrapping her fingers in the raven black mane of the High Elf Queen and held her head in place as her cum erupted into Tarifa's sucking mouth. Tarifa drank down Aihola's juices with relish, squeezing her thighs together as she came in a powerful orgasm of her own. Aihola's free hand reached up to grab Dysea's right upper thigh and pull her down even harder onto her cum covered face as she alternated between screaming out her own pleasure and drinking down Dysea's sweet cum as if it was her last meal on this planet.

Only one thing was going through the minds of all three of them at that moment and that was to see how many times they could make each other cum.

CHAPTER ELEVEN

EDEN MOON BASE

"It is very impressive." Marcus spoke as his amber eyes took in the control room where the production of the Raptors was taking place. He could see that the center stretched as far back as even his keen eyes could detect, and there were control rooms like the one he now stood in spaced every few hundred meters. At the various stations on the floor below he could see dozens of elves working with various humans standing at different points within the massive room. Much of the production was automated, and the elves were used for the extreme manual labor of hoisting large metal components from one conveyor to another. "I noticed you do not have any security on the production floor itself. Why?"

"It's not needed." William told him. "Our drug allows the elves the most freedom of movement on the station, and we do not have to monitor every elf's progress. The way it was explained to me by my people, the drug works at almost the sub conscious level. When they are given a task, no matter what it is, the elves feel an overpowering urge to complete that task, regardless of whether they want to or not."

Marcus looked at him. "There are always exceptions to the rules." He spoke evenly.

William nodded. "Yes there are. That is why each elf is equipped with a micro receiver when they arrive on Eden. That receiver is linked to a tiny explosive charge implanted into their necks right next to the two main carotid and jugular veins. A small radio burst and that charge explodes. End of problem."

Marcus nodded in approval. "Efficient." He spoke turning to face William. "I understand you were Hunter's Commanding officer for some time."

William nodded slowly and Marcus detected the slight twitch in his jaw line at the mention of Hunter's name. "Ten years total, off and on."

"And yet he betrayed you at the end."

"He damn near beat me to death." William told him. "Then he sabotaged my station, took thousands of metric tons of supplies and almost my entire fleet of Raptors. You're damn right he betrayed me, and if I ever come across him again, I'll string him up by his guts and watch him die."

The door to the control room opened and the armed man in fatigues walked in. Marcus watched as he went directly to Wallace.

"Admiral... we have a situation in D corridor, section twenty-two." The man spoke.

"What is it?"

"An elf at the end of his dosage period is refusing to take commands. He killed a guard and took his weapon and is now holding four hostages."

"How did the guard allow him to get his weapon?" William snapped his face angry now Marcus saw.

"He violated protocols Admiral." The guard spoke carefully. It was obvious to Marcus that the soldier feared his commanding officer.

"You're damn right he did! Fuck!" William swore. He looked at Marcus. "I have to apologize for this Colonel Marcus; I gave additional instructions to be extra alert during your stay here. This should not be happening."

"Did I understand you said he was at the end of his dosage period?" Marcus spoke. "What exactly does that mean?"

“Each dose of X19 last for 72 hours. In the last two hours of that period the elves can become hard to handle if they haven’t gotten another dose. X19 is very addictive; it’s how it was designed. If they don’t get the next dose they can lose control.” William explained. “That corridor is nearby, would you care to observe?”

Marcus couldn’t hide his surprise at being invited to see this. It was an obvious failure in security and a flaw in the drug, but Wallace was not hiding it. “I’m surprised you would allow that.” He said finally.

“Why not?” William spoke. “It’s a flaw. I’m not going to try and hide a flaw in something just to look good. This drug works and works well... but it does have its flaws. This just happens to be one of them.”

“What will you do with the elf?” Marcus asked as William motioned towards the door.

“He’s killed a guard.” William replied. “There’s only one punishment on this station.”

It took them only a matter of minutes to move down several corridors and make three turns and then they arrived at the location. Marcus could hear shouting and he saw four armed soldiers with their weapons leveled at a large male elf that now held a bloody assault rifle to the head of an older human male kneeling in front of him. The body of a soldier was on the gray floor, a large pool of blood spreading outward from his prone form.

The obvious officer came up to Wallace as he approached. “He’s lost it Admiral! He’s not responding to any commands now. He keeps demanding that we bring him more X19, but he won’t let the others go until we do.”

Marcus watched as William’s jaw twitched again in obvious anger. “Why haven’t you activated the charge?” He demanded.

“We’re afraid the explosive charge will cause his finger to pull the trigger and kill the hostage.” The officer replied. “And none of my detachment wants to risk a head shot.”

William sighed heavily. “Colonel I must apologize for this situation. It’s embarrassing.”

“Unexpected events can not be planned for.” Marcus spoke. “That you have not tried to hide this from me says quite a bit.”

William looked at him. “Yeah well... that doesn’t help me now.” He said. He looked at the officer. “Give me your sidearm.”

The officer didn’t hesitate and handed over the K12 automatic. William took two steps and brought the K12 up in one smooth motion. He fired two shots from the automatic and the results were quite effective. The first round from the K12 hit the hostage in the leg and caused the man to slump forward screaming in pain. The elf lost his grip on the man’s collar as he fell forward and it exposed him for all to see. The second round from the K12 punched squarely into the elf’s chest, blowing him backwards, blood erupting from his chest in fountains. William turned to the officer. “Activate the charge now!” He ordered.

The captain didn’t hesitate and his thumb plunged down on the small button of the box he held in his hand. Marcus heard two small pops and watched as the neck of the elf burst apart ghastly, blood showering the walls at an explosive rate. The male elf had not fallen down from the bullet to the chest, and his hands dropped the rifle they had been holding when his neck exploded in two different directions and his blood began to fountain from the two massive holes. It took only seconds for him to drop to the floor clearly dead, his blood still leaking onto the steel gray metal beneath him.

William handed the K12 back to the officer. “Get this mess cleaned up!” He spoke. “And make sure the elves are up to date on their doses!”

“Yes sir!”

William turned and moved a short distance away to speak with another officer that had arrived and Marcus stepped up to the first one. “May I?” He asked motioning to the K12 William had fired.

“Yes sir!” The officer spoke handing over the weapon.

Marcus made a show of inspecting the weapon and admiring it. He ejected the magazine and looked at the steel jacketed rounds carefully before reinserting it and holding it out to the officer. “Thank you.” He said, before moving over to where Wallace was.

“...make sure you check the dosage records for all the elves. I don’t care if it takes all night.” William was speaking to the second officer.

“Yes sir.”

William turned to Marcus. “Again I must apologize for this incident Colonel.”

“You handled it well.” Marcus spoke honestly.

“It shouldn’t have happened at all. I’m going to have to devise tighter control methods to monitor the dosage records of the elves.” He said.

“I have some suggestions if you would be willing to hear them.” Marcus spoke.

“I certainly would. We are supposed to meet Senator Graham and your Ministers for lunch. We can talk as we head for the restaurant.” William spoke.

SOUTHERN UTAH TEN MILES SOUTH OF CEDAR CITY

Martin held the steaming hot mug of coffee in his hand as he stood at the front of the armored Hopper. A large and detailed map of Cedar City was spread out on the hood, and Danny, the Master Chief, Radama, Anja and Julie and two other elf officers were gathered around the hood. All of them were drinking coffee or water and munching on ration bars.

“What’s the word from the scouts?” Martin asked.

Ealin leaned forward and stabbed his finger on the map. As the executive officer for Martin’s team he had appointed himself as Martin’s administrative assistant as well. He gathered all the intelligence reports and other information that came in and went over it before it found its way to Martin. It was something he found he had a talent for, and even though Martin had told him it wasn’t necessary; Ealin had continued to conduct the duties regardless.

“They have penetrated within half a mile of the city.” Ealin spoke. “They report that there is no outward appearance that he knows we are coming.”

Martin looked at him. “You’re kidding right?”

Ealin shook his head. “All six teams of scouts report the same thing.” He spoke. “They can see mortar and artillery positions inside the wall from their locations, but none of the positions are actually manned. The two teams we have inside the city confirm this as well.”

“What about the heavy machine gun positions along the top of this wall?” Danny asked, tracing the map.

“They are occupied, but it appears the mercenaries are not at an increased level of readiness.” Ealin replied. “Scouts report they can see the sentries smoking and joking as the Master Chief puts it.”

“He doesn’t believe we’ll attack him.” Martin said to no one in particular.

The others looked at him. “Skipper that’s crazy; we’ve been going at this idiot for almost three months with raids and surgical strikes.” Danny spoke. “He has to know we would come for his ass sooner or later.”

“He thinks he has too many men for us to handle.” Tony spoke now. “That and he thinks that wall of his will protect his lard butt.”

Martin grinned. “Good... let him think that he is nice and cozy. When we bring it down on his ass he’ll change his tune.” He said looking at Ealin. “What’s the word from our people inside?”

Julie extended the small data pad over the hood of the Hopper to him. “They’ve formed into five separate cells.” She told him, glancing at Ealin and seeing him nod. “These transmissions just came in this morning. When we begin our attack, they are going to move as many elves and innocents as they can to these five locations.”

Martin leaned over the map and marked their locations on the laminated map of Cedar City. “Ealin... make sure our battery commanders have these coordinates. I don’t want stray shells landing and killing the people we are supposed to be saving. Advise them I’ll have the ass of whoever misfires and drops artillery into these locations.”

Ealin nodded with a grin. “I’ll let them know.”

Radama turned his head as his communications implant sounded in his ear. He listened for a few seconds and then looked at Martin. “Martin... Leland is coming in with someone he says you should meet.”

Martin nodded. “I wondered when they would make themselves known.” He said. “Tell him to bring them in.”

“What’s up Skipper?” Danny asked.

“It is Dysea’s former Ranger General Vengal.” Martin replied. “He and a sizeable force of his Wood Rangers have been trailing us for twelve hour now. I told Leland to go out and meet him and bring him in.” Martin sipped the coffee and made a face like he had just tasted shit. “Man... who made this coffee!”

Anja looked at him across the hood. “If one more person tells me my coffee tastes like shit I’m going to get angry!” She retorted.

Martin looked across the hood at Anja and smiled at her. Her honey scent filled his nostrils and surprisingly he could not detect either Danny or Julie’s scent on her. That surprised him somewhat and he saw Anja’s jade green eyes smile back at him in a very alluring way. This caused his heart to skip a beat and the memories of her succulent flesh and tight body from that night so long ago screamed at him.

Martin looked away quickly as Leland broke from the treeline with two of his team and two tall elves. They Wood Elf Rangers were very capable looking and very well armed. Martin turned and watched as they came up to the small command group and stopped.

“Martin may I present General Vengal of the Wood Elf Rangers.” Leland spoke.

Martin held out his hand without question. “It’s a pleasure to meet you General. You could have saved yourself a chilly twelve hours and come in last night.”

The dark haired elf hesitated, uncertainty in his eyes before he took the offered hand. “You... you knew we were following you?” He asked.

“You and your troops are top notch General. It was totally by accident that they were detected.” Martin said quickly, sensing it wouldn’t be a good thing to say that compared to his scouts, the elves were toy soldiers.

“You and your forces tread very close to Cedar City Martin Hunter.” Vengal spoke. “When I agreed to meet with you and told Leland this, I was under the impression I would be meeting you and Dysea in your new city.”

Martin looked at the elf general, taking in his height and well muscled form, as well as they lines of experienced that etched across his face. This man had seen much combat and looked to be extremely capable. “Melda Min is currently in Mountain City on personal business for the two of us. That was the plan originally, but events change as you well know.”

“You refer to my Queen as your Beloved One Martin Hunter.” Vengal said. “Am I to understand you are claiming you and she are now Nute Ve Min?” (Bonded as One.)

Martin looked at Leland quickly and then back to Vengal. “Yes, I suppose you could say that? Does that pose a problem General?”

Vengal looked at Martin with a slightly surprised expression. “Then the rumors we have heard are true?” He said.

Martin nodded. “Yes they are true.” He answered, looking somewhat embarrassed. “May I ask where you heard these rumors?”

Vengal couldn’t hide the grin that crossed his face, “From Dysea’s own mother.” He answered. “I visited her before we left. She... she is much more open minded in her views than most elves of her years and wisdom. I believe her first comment was “with Lyca Ohtar as their father and my daughter as their mother I will have powerful Indyo.”

Martin looked surprised and embarrassed at the same time. “She said that?” He asked.

Vengal nodded. “She did indeed Martin Hunter, right before she demanded I bring her with us.”

Martin looked stunned. “Wait a minute... she came with you?” He asked.

Vengal nodded. “Without even meeting her, you have gained a very powerful spiritual leader among the Wood Elves. She understands, as many of us do, if you have taken the heart of our Queen, then you are powerful indeed. I had no choice but to bring her. I left her with six of my finest Rangers at the edge of your perimeter.”

Martin turned to Ealin. “Ealin... take a detachment and escort her and the General’s men inside the perimeter. Make sure she has whatever she needs.”

Ealin nodded quickly. “I will see to it Lyca Ohtar.” He said and moved off quickly.

“You still refer to Dysea as Queen?” Radama asked softly.

Vengal met Radama’s eyes. “Dysea will always be Queen in my eyes and the eyes of many, regardless of what that fool Council of Elders say. The child they have put in her place is so easily controlled and manipulated it boils my blood just thinking about it. She is an innocent in all that is happening, and when the time comes she should be spared. That is why we are here. And I see we have come at just the right time. You are no doubt preparing a battle plan to kill the fool in Cedar City?"

Martin nodded with a grin. "That we are." He said.

Vengal nodded. "Good. I have brought a hundred of my Wood Rangers with me, and we are eager to spill the blood of those who prey on my kind and others."

Martin stepped to the side a little and motioned to the map on the hood of the Hopper. "Then let's not waste anymore time." He said.

MOUNTAIN CITY

Tarifa stood beside Dysea and her mother in the small cargo bay watching as the Dragoons loaded the Hopper for trip back to Salina. The security was heavy, but Cantel had stationed them in a way as to not draw unwanted attention. Palina stood a short distance from them talking in whispers with Cantel, while Tarifa and Dysea said their goodbyes.

"I don't want you to go Dysea." Tarifa spoke softly, slipping her hand into Dysea's.

Dysea looked at her and smiled warmly. "I don't wish to go either, but your father and Telan will return tomorrow and it would be far too dangerous for me to stay. You know that Tarifa."

Tarifa nodded her head in understanding, but her eyes held sadness in them. "When will you or Martin be able to return?"

"If all goes well with the return to Salina then we can establish a permanent trading route. As Queen you can come and go as you please, and now that you are free of the drugs and your mind is clear, I have no doubt you will find ways to come see us, as long as you don't endanger yourself." Dysea told her. "I will return as often as I am able Tarifa, you know that. We will never abandon you."

Tarifa caressed her cheek as they looked at one another and she smiled brightly. "Dysea... what happen with Aihola... it..."

Dysea shook her head quickly. "The Alliance experiments on her cause even the most casual touch to ignite passions within her. She secretes a pheromone when this happens, and it was this pheromone that affected us, at least initially." She finished the sentence with a sly smile.

Tarifa returned the smile. "Then it was pleasant for you as well?"

Dysea nodded, and even under her tan she turned a small shade of red. "Even after our systems purged the pheromone she secretes when excited and made us immune to it you mean?" She spoke shyly. "Yes... it was extremely pleasant for me."

Tarifa couldn't help but blush as well squeezing Dysea's hand. "What do we do?"

"I have seen this before, though not on as large a scale as with Aihola." Dysea spoke. "I sincerely doubt she even knows she secretes the pheromone. It is a typical Alliance method to be used as a means of control. You noticed the small scars on the inside of her thighs?"

Tarifa nodded. "Yes."

"That is where the electrodes were placed. Close to her center of pleasure." Dysea said. "She must have cut them out when she escaped, and now actual contact is needed to set her off." Dysea took the small data pad from her pack and typed on it for a moment. "These are ingredients for a potion to counteract her extreme sensitivity. Give it to her. I don't believe she is a threat to you, and she could make a valuable friend. I will see if Anja can produce something that will be more permanent for her when I return."

"I... she..." Tarifa started to speak.

Dysea looked at her with her emerald eyes. "She stirs your blood, doesn't she Tarifa?"

Tarifa nodded slowly meeting her eyes. "I... I don't know what it is about her." She spoke softly so that only Dysea could hear her, "Her scent drives me mad with desire and to me she tastes wonderful."

Dysea smiled and leaned close to Tarifa. "Then do not be afraid to explore this Tarifa." She said softly. "For you don't know what it could bring."

Tarifa took the pad and tucked it under her cloak with a smile. "You will do what I asked when you see Martin?"

Dysea nodded with a smile. "I will try Tarifa. I don't think I will be as proficient as you however. Nauta Melme is quite large."

Tarifa grinned and stepped forward to nuzzle Dysea's throat. "All it takes is practice Dysea, and patience." She said softly. "And think of the pleasure you will get in return."

Dysea chuckled softly. "Yes... there is that to consider." She said. She reached up and stroked Tarifa's lips. "Be strong Tarifa? Don't let that sara quelet ner extinguish the light inside you." (bitter corpse of a man)

Tarifa smiled brightly. "That will not be a problem Dysea." She said. "Not anymore. You have given me back my mind and my body."

Dysea kissed her softly. "I will try to contact you weekly."

"I will miss you Dysea." Tarifa said.

They pressed their foreheads together as Cantel stepped up to them with Palina. "The caravan is ready to depart." He said, not wanting to intrude on their goodbye. "We should leave soon."

Dysea nodded. She pulled Tarifa into a strong embrace and squeezed her tightly. "I'm ready." She said softly.

Palina stepped up next to her daughter as Dysea and Cantel moved to the Hopper and took her arm. "Do not fear Tarifa. Now that you are yourself again, their friendship will mean so much more."

Tarifa nodded with a smile. "I know." She looked at her mother. "We have much to do mother." She said. "We should sit down with the Holy One and begin to make our plans."

Palina nodded. "I told him we would be over to see him after we saw Dysea off. He's... he was very happy that the two of you were able to reunite."

"Amille... please do not be angry with me." Tarifa said. (Mother)

Palina looked at her. "Angry? Selye (Daughter) I am not angry with you. Confused perhaps... but never angry. I do not pretend to understand the relationship you have with Dysea. You share each other's flesh yet you are like sisters."

"It is very different I know." Tarifa said. "But Dysea's heart belongs to Martin, and his to her. And they have yet to discover the others that will share their lives I think. My... the person I am meant for will..." Tarifa's mind flashed to the Drow Aihola. "That person will come soon I think."

Palina looked at her. "Your father... when we free him of those naraca (Vile) drugs, I believe your father just may surprise you in who he truly is daughter. He is far more accepting than you have seen."

Tarifa looked genuinely surprised by this statement and her face showed it, "Atya? (Daddy) Mother you jest with me?"

Palina smiled. "No Tarifa. There is much that you do not know about your father. There are many sides of him you have not seen because of your duties as Queen and you living here in Mountain City. Perhaps we can change all that now."

Tarifa smiled. "I believe I would like that." She said just as Cantel came back up to them.

He bowed his head slightly. "Roland will contact me as soon as they are moving freely south to Salina My Queen."

Tarifa nodded. "Thank you Cantel. I want a two man detachment of Dragoons assigned to Aihola immediately. They are to treat her with every respect."

"Tarifa the Drow... this Aihola," Palina gasped. "They... they have always been our most hated enemy."

"Aihola is not our enemy." Tarifa told her. "She escaped from New Baltimore on the day of her execution for not killing a family. She was tortured and experimented on by the Alliance butchers, and I for one do not intend to reinforce to her that we are enemies, for we are not."

"My... my Queen..." Cantel looked at her, his face a mask of horror.

Tarifa looked at him. "Cantel... what is it?"

"I... I did not... I did not think my Queen. One of the men I left to guard the Drow..." Cantel looked at her.

"Yes! What?" Tarifa said.

"It is Norebon." Cantel told her seeing her eyes widen.

"Norebon," Tarifa gasped. "His grandparents were slaughtered by the Drow in one of the last raids against the High Elves! Cantel... how could you?"

“My Queen... please you must believe me. I did not think!”

Tarifa ignored him and broke into a sprint out of the cargo bay, heading for the location of the safe house.

MOON BASE EDEN

The Alliance Ministers sat in the small living room of the quarters they had been assigned and waited for Marcus to finish sweeping the room. He held the small device with a blinking green light on it, and he swept it over the last portion of the room he had yet to check. He turned back to Deval.

“The room is clear.” He said. “We may speak freely.”

Deval nodded and settled onto the plush couch. “Excellent.” He said. “We can finally relax. I’ve been bored with Graham since the third hour in his company. The man is an idiot with no sense of reality.”

Marcus stood to one side of the couch, his arms folded across his chest as the Ministers all sat down with drinks in their hands.

Selene settled on the chair by herself while Wiseman sat across from Deval. “I’m still running initial tests, and I have not broken down the components, but at first glance this X19 drug seems to be everything they have said it was.” She spoke after sipping her drink. “It is incredibly powerful... it’s amazing that this young fool Taggart was even able to recognize it.”

“You don’t think he is capable?” Deval asked.

Selene shook her head. “Oh he’s capable... he’s just plain ditzzy. He continually goes off on irrelevant tangents, and can not keep his focus.”

“So it’s possible to reproduce this drug then?” Wiseman asked.

Selene nodded. “Oh yes... and quite easily.” She replied. “The profit we could make off this drug is infinite. It’s highly addictive... and very powerful as I said. Once injected with it... regardless of what you may feel is right or wrong... you will do what you are told to do.”

“The only obstacle I see then is getting a sample off this station.” Wiseman spoke now.

“I would not recommend that.” Marcus spoke up now.

“Come now...” Wiseman said. “Surely Colonel Marcus, you do not believe these fools on this base could stop us.”

“Not only would they stop us... we would very likely end up very dead.” Marcus spoke matter of factly.

“Preposterous!” Wiseman snapped. “Is that your professional opinion Colonel?”

“Robert that is quite enough.” Deval spoke. He looked at Marcus. “What makes you say that Marcus?” He asked.

“Graham does not run this station.” Marcus said. “Admiral Wallace does.”

Wiseman couldn’t contain his laughter and got to his feet. “You must be joking! Graham has an iron grip of things here. The fool has shown us his personal control room, not to mention the files on dozens of infiltrators he has among the elves and crew of this base. He could not be anymore in control.”

Marcus simply stared at Wiseman with a look of utter contempt on his face, his amber eyes glittering. “Are you as big a fool as you act Minister Wiseman?” He spoke finally.

That remark caused Selene to chuckle and Wiseman’s face to turn red with anger and embarrassment. “You overstep your bounds Colonel!” Wiseman snapped.

“And you overlook yours you fool!” Marcus popped.

Deval had a small smirk on his face as he leaned forward on the couch. “What have you seen that tells you otherwise Marcus?” He asked.

“Admiral Wallace, whether by design or by accident, allowed me to see that it is he who controls this station and not that fool Senator Graham, no matter what he thinks.” Marcus spoke. “Whatever measures Graham used to assume control of the station have since been eliminated. Wallace controls the security, and the elves. Those with any kind of authority report to him, and not to Graham.”

“So you don’t think these Sweeper agents as he calls them are active anymore?” Deval asked.

Marcus shook his head. “Most likely they are all dead. I watched Wallace eliminate a rogue elf today. He shot the elf in the chest, and then ordered the control measures they have in place activated. The elf’s neck blew apart as we watched. I checked the weapon he fired, to reassure myself that we were not being duped. It was loaded with live ammunition. Admiral Wallace is much more than we were led to believe.”

“Why leave Graham in charge?” Selene asked. “Why not kill him?”

Marcus smiled. “It’s simple really. He’s using him as cover. He supplies him with all the elves the man has a desire for. Those elves undoubtedly report directly back to Wallace.”

“So he’s working with the elves?” Deval asked.

Marcus shook his head. “He’s working for himself. Under his cool exterior, he is a twisted and cruel man. He has no regard for the elves here. They are only a means to an end for him.”

“Then the Mistress was correct?” Deval spoke.

Marcus nodded. “I believe she was, yes. They have provided us with elves for our pleasure while we are here, but we are not in New Richmond anymore. The elves are under his control and will report to him anything that we do. I suggest we refrain from our usual activities and do nothing to cause Wallace unrest.”

“Such as what Colonel,” Wiseman asked sarcastically.

Marcus looked at him. “Such as your appetite for using sharp instruments on elves while you fuck them Minister.” He snarled.

Wiseman came to his feet. “Why you...”

Deval looked at Wiseman. “Think about what you are about to do Robert.” He said calmly. “You would not take three steps with hostile intent towards Marcus before he killed you where you stood. Now sit your ass down!”

Wiseman glared at Marcus and looked at Deval before settling back into the chair with a huff. “I do not discount myself from my own warning Minister.” Marcus spoke. “We need to refrain from our normal routines while we are here. We need to learn as much as we can while here, and then we need to come up with a proposition that Wallace and Graham can not refuse.”

“What do you suggest Colonel?” Deval asked.

“As Minister Torcrum has stated, this drug is beyond anything we have the ability to produce.” Marcus answered. “Our scientists could reproduce it easily, but first we must obtain a sample of it. That will not be as easy as asking for it. Wallace will demand quite a bit for that information. And he will convince Graham to ask for it somehow. I believe we should beat them to the punch.”

Deval sat back in his chair the gears in his mind turning. “That is very interesting Marcus.” He said. “You must have some idea in your head. Tell us what you are thinking.”

MOUNTAIN CITY

“No! Please! Ahhhhhhh,” Aihola’s voice carried to Tarifa’s keen ears as she entered the safe house.

“How does it feel Drow bitch?” The male elf mounted behind Aihola growled into her ear. “How does my cock feel up your ass?”

“Stop! Please...Ahhhhhhh!” Aihola screamed. “It... it hurts!”

The male Dragoon laughed next to her ear. “If it hurts so much... why are you cumming all over the bed bitch?” He drove his hips downwards again, sinking his entire cock deeply into Aihola’s bowels once more as she howled in pain and unwanted pleasure.

The Dragoons had set upon her the moment they entered the safe house. As physically spent as she was after her tryst with the two elf Queens, Aihola had been sluggish and her movements predictable. They had surprised her as she was thinking about how the two Queens had driven her mad with desire and passion, the Alliance experiments only heightening her intense pleasure to levels she hadn’t reached before. They had obviously had been with women before, as they had known exactly what to do to set her off. And Aihola was contemplating her own feelings on what had happen as well. The two Queens had forcibly introduced her to a new form of pleasure that she had never once considered, and she had taken to it like a fish to water, relishing in their screams of pleasure as her tongue worked on them. It shamed her that she found the experience so utterly wonderful.

The raven haired High Elf Queen had stirred Aihola in a way she had never felt before. The Queen had feasted on her pussy for hours, even letting Aihola dominant her by holding her face to her spasming pussy and grinding her dripping sex against her face in lust. It had also been a few hours of discovery for her as well. She and Tarifa had rolled together on the bed well after the Wood Elf Queen had fallen asleep, and for the first time in her young life Aihola had actually eaten the pussy of another female. And what frightened her most was that she loved every minute of lapping at Tarifa's delicious cunt.

These were the thoughts going through her head when theDragoons surprised her. In her weakened state it was easy for them to pounce upon her and render her helpless. The blood trickling down the side of her face attested to the violence of the attack. The larger of the twoDragoons had struck her with his weapon knocking her back onto the bed. The second Dragoon had grabbed her arms and pinned her face down on the bed, ripping the sheets from her naked form. The larger Dragoon wasted no time in pinning her legs to the bed with his knees while he unbuckled his pants. He fingered her sore pussy roughly, quite unlike Tarifa and Dysea who had stroked her pussy with hands like flower petals, causing her to scream out in pleasure. This Dragoon cared not for her pleasure, and pawed her pussy and ass cheeks as if she was a slab of meat. Regardless of his intent, Aihola cursed the Alliance again; as their experiments caused her body to react and it was shortly after that her pussy became a sopping mess.

Aihola had screamed and tried to fight, but the Dragoon holding her down had the proper leverage to keep her from twisting away, and soon she felt the larger elf's thick cock slap against her coal colored ass cheeks.

"Scream all you want Drow whore!" The Dragoon had snarled in her ear. "The room is soundproof! This is for my grandparents!" He barked before driving his thick cock brutally into her virgin ass with one savage plunge.

And howl Aihola did, in a mixture of agony and pleasure from the violent intrusion. He grunted and slobbered all over her back and shoulders as he fucked her ass with brutal strokes, while she whimpered and came all over the bed beneath him.

That all changed in three blinks of an eye.

Tarifa stepped into the room where she and Dysea had left Aihola sleeping on the bed and came up short. It took only a matter of those three blinks for her eyes and nose to detect what was happening here, and she felt her anger rapidly reach a boiling point and spill over at the sight before her.

Palina had not witnessed the physical changes that had manifested themselves within her daughter because of her relationship with Martin Hunter. She had not seen Tarifa in her altered state, at least not until this very moment.

Palina could only gawk in stunned silence as Tarifa's eyes changed quickly to black around sapphire, and her fangs extended to their full length in an instant. The Dragoon holding Aihola's arms saw her first, his eyes going wide in fear. He immediately released his grip on Aihola's hands and lashed out with a savage punch to the side of her head, causing her to see stars. While Tarifa couldn't stop the blow to Aihola's head, the Dragoon was hardly fast enough to stop his impending doom. Aihola's dazed eyes caught a glimpse of Tarifa stepping forward, her face twisted in a savage snarl, and grasp the Dragoon by his head. Aihola heard the sickening crunch of his neck snapping like dry timber as Tarifa grabbed his head and nearly tore it from his shoulders, and then the sound of his body hitting the floor. Aihola felt the larger Dragoon withdraw his cock from her ass before blackness finally washed over her and she passed out.

Tarifa barely paused after killing the first Dragoon, and was stepping over Aihola's inert form to reach the backpedaling Dragoon.

"My... my Queen," Norebon gasped as he stepped back against the wall with no where to go.

Tarifa lashed out with her hand, her face now a darkened mask of anger and hate. The stinging blow carried enough power to snap the Dragoon's head violently to the side as she stepped up to him. Tarifa was easily six inches shorter than the Dragoon, yet her hand closed around his throat and lifted his near two hundred pounds with little effort, pinning his half naked body to the wall. He gasped for air, clawing at her hand around his throat.

"You scum!" Tarifa snarled. "You defile the uniform you wear with your perverted actions!"

"My... my Queen," Norebon stammered barely able to talk. "She... she is a Drow whore! They... they killed my... my family!"

Tarifa squeezed her hand around his throat. "She is no whore!" She screamed. "And she did not kill your grandparents!"

Cantel knelt next to the bed, his hand gently pushing Aihola's hair from the side of her face to inspect her head wound. He had been a Dragoon all of his life, and he had never personally witnessed something like this before. He had taken hundreds of lives, elf and human alike, as well as countless Drow, yet this perversion was beyond anything he had seen. He glanced up at where Tarifa had Norebon pinned against the wall and was slowly choking the air from his lungs.

"War Master Tareif would gut you where you stand for your actions this day!" Cantel spat at his fellow Dragoon. He got to his feet and came to stand next to Tarifa, Norebon's eyes wide in fear as the air was rapidly leaving his lungs and his face was turning blue. "I will act in his stead!"

Cantel withdrew the wicked looking blade and without further thought drove it into the side of Norebon's abdomen. Norebon's eyes nearly exploded out of his skull as Cantel plunged the blade in as deeply as he could and ripped it sideways. Tarifa released him and stepped back quickly as his blood and intestines spilled from the now gaping wound in his belly. Norebon slumped to the floor, his hands attempting to hold his organs inside his body. Blood spilled from between his lips as he turned his face up to Cantel and Tarifa.

"Your name will be stricken from the rolls of the Dragoons, and your family will now bear your dishonor!" Cantel spat at him. "And now you will die like the animal you have acted as this day."

Tarifa snapped out with another blow, this one a short but exceptionally powerful punch to Norebon's jaw. The blow rocked his head back, and all in the room heard his neck pop like a gunshot within the confines of the room. Norebon sank to the floor, dead before his body stopped moving.

Cantel stood there in shock... his eyes showing his shame. "My Queen... Tarifa... I have no... I have no excuse for what has happen here." He said softly. "I will... I will present my dishonor to a Dragoon Council when your father returns."

Tarifa looked at him. "You will do no such thing!" Tarifa snapped, her eyes slowly returning to normal. "You have acted as a Dragoon Commander this day. This dog did not deserve to wear the uniform. My father would have done the same. And he can not learn of this."

"Tarifa... he must..." Cantel started.

"He can not!" Palina spoke from behind them. She was next to Aihola on the bed, pulling the sheet back over her naked form, and gently stroking her head. "If what happen here is revealed it will alter our plans and expose us all. No Cantel, you have acted honorably, and now you must dispose of these idiots."

Cantel's face showed his realization at their words and he nodded. "I will see to it." He spoke quickly. "Their remains will never be found."

"What of the Drow Tarifa?" Palina asked.

Tarifa stepped over to the bed and sat next to Aihola's unconscious figure. She reached out and caressed her bare shoulder and back gently, almost lovingly. "Take her to my home." She said finally.

"Tarifa you can't!" Palina spoke quickly. "It will raise suspicion! Telan will question all that you do!"

Tarifa looked at Cantel. "We have always thought the Drow destroyed Cantel, but they were also mercenaries before the Alliance wiped them out, were they not?"

Cantel nodded. "Many became Assassins and body guards after our war with them destroyed their power base."

Tarifa nodded thinking quickly. "Start passing the word among the Dragoons that an attempt was made on my life while I was shopping with my mother in the Merchant Quarter. Report that we were saved by Aihola, who was injured in defending me. I brought her back to my home to recuperate as thanks."

Cantel's eyes grew bright. "Saving your life would immediately grant her a pardon for all past crimes."

Tarifa nodded. "Yes. Then I can select her as a personal Attendant. That will cover any questions that might come about as to her staying with me."

"What of Telan?" Palina asked. "Surely he will know who she is and what she was brought here for. How will you explain it to him and keep him from becoming suspicious?"

Tarifa looked at her mother with a smile. "He is a man is he not Amille?" She asked with a small smile. "And Telan always thinks with his cock first."

Palina looked at her daughter carefully, while Cantel turned away embarrassed to hear his Queen speak in such a manner. "Tarifa... we can find another way."

Tarifa shook her head. "This is the only way Amille. The only way that would be plausible."

"Telan will gloat and expect you to share his bed whenever he pleases if you do this." Palina spoke.

Tarifa nodded. "Yes... and he will believe he is finally gaining my favor. And in that way he will be easily controlled." She spoke. She took Palina's hand. "I no longer fear what I must do Amille. Now that I know what Martin and Dysea and you have revealed to me, I will do what is necessary to save my father and brothers. If that means I have to allow Telan to think he is all I ever desired in a man than so be it."

"You are sure?" Palina asked.

Tarifa nodded. "It is the only way."

"You should let me string him up by his innards for what he will force upon you my Queen." Cantel hissed turning back to her.

Tarifa shook her head and reached out to gently touch his arm. "If I allowed you to do such a thing Cantel, then my brothers would die, and we will fail to discover just how deeply Telan and his family are embedded with the Alliance scum."

Cantel nodded slowly. "I understand my Queen; it does not mean I have to like it." He spoke. "What of the Drow my Queen?" Cantel asked. "What of this Aihola? Will she go along with your plan?"

Tarifa looked at him. "I will convince her."

"And if you can't?" Palina asked.

"Then I will kill her." Tarifa answered flatly.

SOUTHERN UTAH CEDAR CITY

The staccato sounds of gunfire could be heard across the landscape of Cedar City. The sounds of explosions in the distance and the brilliant blasts of flame and smoke into the sky would announce the precision accuracy of the MLRS rockets landing among the buildings and streets of this once popular mountain city.

The forces of Eden had begun their attack with complete and utter surprise. Two battalions of humans and elves launched a ground assault from the southwest corner of the city under Danny's command, while Martin brought another battalion in from the east. Four battalions of humans and elves were pushing slowly south from the northern tip of the city and from the airport. The MLRS batteries and three other batteries of the devastating 200mm Self Propelled Advanced Paladin artillery were methodically pounding different sections of the city, dropping hundreds of rounds of high explosive shells into the city proper. The force of nearly twenty thousand mercenaries and assorted scum had been taken completely by surprise, their leader saying that Martin did not have the manpower to take their city from them.

Almost ten thousand of the human mercenary force was killed in the first three hours of the operation, caught in their barracks by heavy artillery and repeated rocket attacks from the nine orbiting Raptors.

Leland led the small team of humans and elves through the half destroyed buildings that were once five stories tall. The manufacturing center of Cedar City was now a wasteland from little use and the enemy of time. The concentrated artillery barrage in this area had left little standing that was over three stories tall. The night was their friend, and Martin was using every minute of darkness they had to sweep as far into the city as they could. The keen eyes of the genomes and the elves gave them the ability to strike in near pitch black, and it was that advantage that had allowed them to press as far into the city as they had. All of them were covered in dirt and soot from the burning wood and steel that they had just come through. Leland brought them to a halt along the side of what was once a grocery store, the front of the building now nothing but a gaping hole from 200mm high explosive artillery shells.

Vengal quickly moved up beside where Leland crouched, his elfin eyes wide and excited. "Your new leader does not believe in sitting in the rear I see Leland!" He spoke with a grin. "We are further forward than our other units in this area."

Leland nodded in response. "I have learned much about him in only four months General." He replied. "Foremost among what I have learned is he does not like to be left out of the action."

Vengal sipped water from his canteen. "I have to say I am very impressed with the battle plan he put together. He has taken down a city of almost twenty thousand enemies in only a few hours."

Leland nodded. "We aren't out of the action yet General."

“No we are not, but I’ve had more fun this night than in the last hundred years.” Vengal answered with a toothy grin.

They turned as the diminutive human female squatted down next to them. She had a radio handset jammed into her helmet over her ear, and sweat poured down her blackened face.

“Ealin says we can come up from the backside along this street. It will lead us directly into their rear perimeter, four hundred meters from here.”

“Thank you Diane. Pass the word if you would.” Leland replied.

Vengal watched the young female nod and her hand went to the handset as she moved a short distance away, her eyes meeting Vengal’s gaze squarely and without any hesitation. “Tell me Leland…” Vengal spoke softly turning to look at his former executive officer. “How is it that this Martin Hunter has been able to bring together so many, humans and elves, and forge them into a workable society in so short a time? It is something the Holy One attempted and failed at for so many years.”

Leland looked at his friend. “I will tell you what I think General.” He said.

“Yes.”

“I believe that Martin seizes on the one thing that no matter how bad it gets, all of us still have within us.” Leland told him.

“What is that?”

Leland hefted his assault rifle. “Hope.” He answered quickly.

“Hope?” Vengal asked.

Leland nodded. “Do you not hope for a place where you can raise your children and not worry for their safety? Do you not hope for a place where we are seen as equals and not slaves? Do you not hope for a place where we can grow old and die not from war or disease, but from old age?”

“Hope is a relative term my friend.” Vengal said.

Leland shook his head. “No. It is a poignant term that can move many to greatness.” He replied. “And it is something that Martin Hunter, Dysea, Tarifa and many others have returned to all of us. And this time we will fight for that.” Leland got to his feet. “Let’s move!” He hissed.

Martin’s command group had occupied the small warehouse office space quickly and turned it into a working CP. Security was heavy along the edges of the half destroyed building, machine gun emplacements set up on all four corners of the building, and four teams of snipers on what remained of the roof. Inside the office, Ealin had set up a small table and had spread out two maps of Cedar City on the table, and this is where Leland and Vengal found Martin as they came into the CP.

Vengal simply watched him for a moment, taking in the dirty uniform, and the blood stained pants. His weapon dangled from quick release straps, and he had a small bandage on the side of his face. Vengal and Leland both looked at Ealin as he came up. His uniform was not in much better condition, and as they looked around the small room they saw the others of the Command Group also looked as if they had been involved in a large attack.

Ealin saw the questions in their eyes and he smiled. “We came across a company sized group of mercenaries holding this building. It took us an hour, but we secured it. Lyca Ohtar became rather upset when they refused our surrender terms and called all of us elf loving motherfuckers.”

“You have outdistanced your support Ealin.” Leland spoke. “The tank and mortar elements are scrambling to keep up with you.”

“I saw an opportunity and we took it.” Martin spoke from the table turning to greet them. “Now we have a staging area to push through to our northern battalions.”

Leland took the offered hand as he and Vengal stepped up to the table and shook it firmly. “I understand that.” Leland said. “However… Julie and the Rear Guard Detachment Commander were screaming their heads off about how reckless you are.” Leland pointed to Martin’s face. “It seems they may have been accurate.”

Martin chuckled, “This scratch?” He spoke. “Jeez! I’ve cut myself worse when I was shaving. It’s Julie’s job to scream at me, she’s been doing it for years, and don’t let Juan fool you. He would have done exactly the same thing.” Martin pointed to the map. “How is your deployment?”

Leland looked at the map. "We have secured the southeastern half of the city. I have my people establishing bunkered positions as we speak all along Route 15 all the way to the old interstate."

Martin nodded. "Danny has pushed in north all the way up to route 200 and as far east as the old coliseum. Radama has secured the airport and Colonel Fowas has relocated his artillery batteries there."

Vengal looked at Martin. "Colonel Fowas? He is the Commander of the High Elf Dragoon Ninth Infantry?" He asked.

Martin nodded. "Yes he was. He left Mountain City three weeks after we were expelled. He joined us a week later with nearly all of his command."

Vengal chuckled. "That must have set off War Master Tareif." He said. "I understand Fowas was one of his most loyal officers."

Martin grinned. "I don't suppose it gave him warm and fuzzy feelings for me, no." He answered. "Fowas told me that Tareif was acting strangely and had been for months. It apparently stems from Telan somehow. When Tareif ordered Fowas to stand down his unit and removed him from Security of Mountain City, Fowas decided it was time to leave."

"How many other High Elf units have deserted to you Martin Hunter?" Vengal asked.

Martin met Vengal's eyes with an even stare. "You'll forgive me if I don't answer that General."

Vengal nodded. "I take no offence." He replied. "In your position I would act the same."

"Leland what are your casualties?" Martin asked.

"They are surprisingly light." Leland answered. "Nine dead and thirty-three wounded."

Martin nodded turning back to the map. "We've been lucky." He said. "They didn't expect us to hit them from three sides, and they damn sure didn't expect heavy artillery. We have the advantage for another four hours, and then things will get nasty."

"Nasty? Why do you say that?" Vengal asked.

"We have the advantage now because of our sight." Martin spoke. "The genomes and elves have superior night vision. We can move more quickly and direct actions more efficiently at night. Once the sun comes up they'll be able to see us and we'll start taking more casualties."

"What do you suggest?" Leland asked.

"We've secured all the refugee sites that were pinpointed before the attack." Martin said, touching five different points on the map. "We got these assholes surrendering all over the city, and we're running out of people to watch them. Intelligence taken from them indicates that the leader of this group and roughly a hundred of his closest people have bunkered in here... at the old Southern Utah University. The only problem is they have about four hundred civilians as human and elf shields. Whoever this leader is, he figured out we aren't going to attack places where innocents are holed up and he gathered as many as he could while moving here."

"So artillery is out of the question?" Leland spoke.

"I had Ealin dig up what he could from the old City Hall as far as blueprints on the University." Martin said, spreading out some blueprints on the table over the map. "The place is built like a fortress with high stone walls all around the campus and a large sewer and tunnel system under it. I had a Raptor do a low altitude recon pass over it and it looks like they have everyone here in this building. It used to be a sports arena, so it can hold large numbers of people. The rest of them are in what used to be the Student Center. It's filled with meeting rooms and such and has open fields of fire all around it."

Leland looked at him. "Bring it down." He said softly. "A hundred men could hold these two facilities for days Martin. Open fields of fire and the time to lay traps, our people would be cut down before even getting to within sight of the building."

Martin nodded. "I know... but I'm not going to sacrifice four hundred men, women and children to this fucker." He growled.

"You are thinking a covert operation?" Vengal said.

Martin looked at him. "Yes, with half your Wood Elf Rangers and thirty of Leland's team." He spoke. He motioned to the blueprints. "This tunnel comes up directly under the arena. It has to be the drainage for the locker room or something. I don't imagine they are well armed, as the scum we captured and interrogated said they were scrambling really fast to get out of the area."

“Even lightly armed as they probably are, many civilians could die in the assault.” Vengal spoke. “The moment they knew we were attacking they would start killing these people.”

“Not if you broke in and became hostages yourselves.” Martin said, seeing the confusion on Leland’s face, but the recognition on Vengal’s face. “Get your men inside, and get them close to the bad guys. No coms will be used, just clicks on the implants when everyone is in position.”

Vengal nodded. “When we are all in position, we hit them at the same time.”

Martin nodded. “It’s very risky, but...”

“It keeps us from having the blood of four hundred innocents on our hands in our quest to do good. And if it works... the word will pass that we risked all to save them and not sacrifice them. That knowledge alone will draw thousands to our cause.” Vengal finished.

“Our cause?” Martin asked.

Vengal met his eyes and nodded. “Yes Martin Hunter, our cause. My Queen is here... and after what I have seen this night... the future of my people is here. I would be honored if you allowed me to lead this mission.”

Martin gazed at him for a long moment, detecting no signs of false bravado or deception from him. He nodded. “I’ll contact Julie and get your men set up with some implants.” He said.

Leland looked at Vengal with a smile and much respect. He turned to Martin. “What will you be doing Lyca Ohtar? Surely you will not sit this one out?”

Martin grinned. “Me? I’m going to take Ealin and my team, and we’re going to go watch a football game.”

Leland and Vengal both looked at him as if he had gone totally mad.

SALINA, UTAH

Dysea stood to the side of the small airfield, her thoughts miles away as she watched without interest as the Dragoons and the team from Eden loaded the Raptor with the last of their supplies and equipment. They had arrived in Salina without any issues, making excellent time. During the trip Dysea had time to contemplate everything that had happened in her life in the last few months.

She was no longer Queen of the Wood Elves, and she found herself honestly relieved at that knowledge. It was not something she had thought she would ever say. The realization that she was no longer Queen also made her come to realize that she no longer needed to ‘be’ Queen like in her actions. She had found something that she had long ago given up hope of ever finding, and that was her intense love for Martin. What she and Martin had begun to build, and what Tarifa would help them to build when she rejoined them, that was who she was now. She wanted a life without fear and persecution; a life full of laughing and healthy children; Martin’s children. She wanted a life of having Martin’s body wrapped around hers, and perhaps sharing that life with the red haired human who so filled her thoughts now.

Her love of Martin Hunter had also changed her physically in a way she had never expected. Though she could not alter her physical appearance to the extent that her Nauta Melme was able to, her eyes and teeth still became something other than normal. Her senses were extremely more attuned to her surroundings, and she had learned quickly from Martin how to distinguish between the different scents, and also how to use her sense of smell as a weapon. Her physical strength had also increased nearly three fold, and she was now more physically fit and her stamina and reflexes were far beyond any elf that she knew with the exception of Tarifa. And while she had questioned her mother’s attempt to increase her sexual pleasure with the piercing of her womanhood, Dysea could not deny the delicious sensations of pleasure that ripped through her when her Nauta Melme was driving his beautiful cock into her. She now understood why her mother had told her to have it done, and it was the reason that she had performed the same operation on Tarifa. Tarifa now sported a glimmering sapphire piercing of her clit, and the memories of tickling that ring while feasting on Tarifa’s luscious pussy sent warm feelings coursing through her, and quickly Anja replaced the images of Tarifa in her mind, and Dysea could not shake the images of being wrapped in an intimate embrace with the red haired human female. Dysea smiled to herself, knowing that she would need Martin to fuck her silly once she returned if she continued to think these thoughts.

As she contemplated all these things, Dysea knew as Wood Elf Queen she could never have achieved them. Yet as she was now, just Dysea, that dream was well within her grasp. They would have to fight for every inch of ground they gained, and there would be setbacks, she was intelligent enough to know that, but she was also intelligent enough to know that as long as she had Martin that dream could come true. There was an aura about Nauta Melme, a will and drive that she had never experienced in any man before. She knew there was far more to the man she loved than he was willing to let her see right now, but she knew his love for her was complete and total, and the time would come when he would share all his secrets with her.

It was this realization that came to her as they returned to Salina. This was the realization that caused her to walk to the nearest stylist of hair and make the changes she had. Her long platinum blond hair was no longer simply straight as it was now cut in such a way as to frame her face in angular waves and edges. Now her face was framed by the gentle angular style in such a way that it highlighted the emerald color of her eyes and made them stand out more. She had kept her hair long, reaching almost to the small of her back because Martin liked to fill his hands with it, but it was a new version of Dysea, a new hair style to go with the new person she would now be.

She smelled Governor Kadeem moving up behind her long before he came into view and she turned to face him as he got within sight of her. His eyes registered surprise at her new look, but her smile as he stopped in front of her.

“Your beauty challenges that of Tarifa Queen Dysea.” Kadeem spoke.

“Governor, I am no longer Queen. I am simply Dysea. Please... we are equals you and I.” She told him.

Kadeem looked at her. “But you are the... you are... you are Nauta Min... of Lyca Ohtar.” He said. (Bounded One) “It is written.”

Dysea looked at him oddly. “Written?” She asked. “What do you mean?”

“It is written in The Yara Parma, The Ancient Books.” Kadeem answered.

The Ancient Books of the Drow,” Dysea asked surprised. “It is written in there? I thought the Alliance destroyed all the history the Drow had in their main library when they purged their race?”

Kadeem shook his head. “Some of it managed to survive. I was able to obtain a copy of the Ancient Books from a human. They did not know what they had, though the books cost me quite a bit.”

“That is very interesting Governor.” Dysea said. “Would you allow me to read them?”

“Of course my lady... I will have them sent to you in the next shipment to Eden.” He answered.

Dysea nodded. “I appreciate that Governor, but regardless of what is written, that does not make me someone special.” She said.

Kadeem shook his head. “With respect... it makes you very special.” He told her. “You and Lyca Ohtar have given all of us hope.”

“We could very well fail Kadeem.” Dysea said.

Kadeem nodded. “Perhaps; but is not the attempt worth it?” He answered. “And it is this that gives us hope. Regardless of whether you succeed or not, hope has been returned to us all.”

Dysea nodded slowly. “You are correct; the attempt is indeed worth it.” She replied. “I thank you for your words Governor.”

Kadeem smiled. “I came to inform you before you left that The High Elf Council has approved the trade route to Salina My Lady.” He told her. “I received word only moments ago. They believe it is Salina that is providing them with their ripe fruit and vegetables.”

Dysea smiled. “Then let us let them continue to think that.” She said. “The trade route has been securely worked out?”

Kadeem nodded. “It has, twice a week My Lady.” He answered. “A changed letter or number will indicate that Queen Tarifa will be coming with the convoy. I will then notify you in Eden.”

“Excellent. When I return to Eden I will insure that you are delivered the fresh fruits and vegetables three times a week so that you do not miss a shipment and draw suspicion.” Dysea answered.

“There was also word from Mountain City of an attack on the Queen.” Kadeem spoke. “The reports say she was rescued by a female Drow warrior. A Drow! Everyone thought they were extinct. The Queen has announced this Drow will become her personal Attendant. Can you believe it? Is this true?”

Dysea nodded. "There are quite a few Drow that survived the Alliance purge from what I understand. She is a part of no clan or family and I met her before I left Tarifa. She will make a fine Attendant to Tarifa. You have your instructions on what to do if any dispatches come through."

Kadeem nodded. "Yes My Lady." He answered. "The communications hub you have left here will come in quite handy. It is well hidden and well guarded, have no fear."

Dysea nodded. "Until we are ready to fully announce we exist, we must maintain certain levels of secrecy Kadeem. It is not because we do not trust you; it is because we do not trust those in the larger elf cities."

"Yes I know. And I will insure we do our part as well." Kadeem told her. "Your... your hair looks very... you look very stunning My Lady. More so than any time I have seen you before."

Dysea smiled and blushed slightly. "Thank you Governor."

They turned as the Crew Chief for the Raptor walked up slowly. "We're all set to depart Dysea." The male elf spoke. "Cathy is warming the engines up and we can lift off in three minutes."

Dysea nodded and gave Kadeem a short embrace which surprised him slightly. She smiled at him. "I will see you again soon." She spoke before turning and following the crew chief towards the Raptor. The whine of the engines spooling up prevented any conversation until she was inside, and she moved directly to the cockpit.

Cathy turned her helmeted head and her eyes grew a little wider. "Wow!" She spoke. "I like the new hair cut, very sexy."

Dysea smiled and settled into the engineer's chair. "I rather like it myself." Dysea said. "I hope Martin does too."

"Dysea... you could be bald and he wouldn't care." Cathy said. "I've known the Skipper a long time, almost as long as Ben and Tina. You're in his blood girl, never forget that. You'll see."

Dysea smiled at her words, unsure what the last part of her statement meant. "He is in mine as well." She said finally. "How are things going with Leland?" She asked knowingly.

Cathy couldn't help the wide smile on her face. "I can honestly say I have never worshiped a man before." She spoke. "But Leland... well he just makes me tingle all over inside."

"He's a good man." Dysea said.

"Yes he is. I just bet he's elbow deep in trouble right now though." Cathy said.

"What do you mean?" Dysea asked.

"We've been busy while you were gone." Cathy told her with a knowing smile. "We wiped out the mercenaries in Flagstaff, and Martin and Leland are leading the assault against Cedar City."

"We went after Cedar City?" Dysea spoke a worried expression on her face.

"It's going well Dysea, relax. We've cleaned out most of the city rather quickly. They didn't think we would attack, and when we did, we hit them from three different directions. They ran like little kids."

"What are... what are our casualties?" Dysea asked.

"Thirty-seven dead and three hundred nineteen wounded." Cathy answered somberly.

"We... we predicted almost a thousand dead if we attacked before winter." Dysea spoke in surprise.

Cathy nodded. "I know... we began hitting them last night and caught them with their pants down. Martin and Leland have been pressing the attack ever since. Last time I spoke with him they were about to head deeper into the urban portion to link up with Martin and his command. Marty got a little ahead of his support elements."

"Martin is there?" Dysea asked.

Cathy nodded. "That's where we're heading. We have a load of supplies for them."

"He didn't tell me he was going to attack Cedar City." Dysea spoke.

"He probably didn't want you to worry Dysea, and besides, he knew you had another mission. Sit down sister, because there's more. Your mother showed up with a bunch of your Wood Elf Rangers too." Cathy spoke. "Last I heard they were kicking ass and taking names."

"My mother is at Cedar City?" Dysea asked aghast.

"Don't worry, she's holding down the fort at the airfield." Cathy spoke. "We've moved our command section there. When we lifted off, she was directing the arrival of wounded and the extraction of the civilians we have rescued."

"Let us go quickly Cathy. I haven't seen my mother in months." Dysea said.

Cathy grinned. "That's what I like to hear!" She turned and her hands flew over her flight controls. "Let's turn and burn."

CEDAR CITY

Martin winced as the rounds struck the side of the building above his head and showered him with broken bits of concrete and brick. He pulled his head back quickly and looked at Ealin and the other members of his personal team that lined the outer wall of the old college football stadium.

"I think they are waiting for us?" Martin spoke with a smile.

"What makes you say that?" Ealin asked sarcastically as he rolled his eyes.

"Are the other teams in place?" He asked.

The female elf with the small radio attached to her shoulder and headset stuck in her ear nodded her head quickly. "Danny split his group into two teams. They are standing by at the northern entrances. They were undetected as they moved into position."

Martin nodded. "I saw a football game here once." Martin spoke to no one in particular as he hefted his HK74 assault rifle. "The visiting team won."

"I take it we are the visiting team?" Ealin asked.

Martin grinned. "I don't know, but we are going to win I can tell you that." Martin looked at his watch and took a deep breath. "Execute!" He barked.

The twenty-two mercenaries from Cedar City had holed up in the front office of the stadium, unable to get all the way to the University grounds with their comrades. It had been a horrific twelve hours for them. None of them had ever come under heavy artillery fire before, and when the rockets and artillery rounds began landing all around them and destroying all that they took for granted, they quickly panicked. Many of them bore minor wounds from flying shrapnel and gunshots. They had been completely unprepared for the ferocity of the attack by the elves and the men and women under Martin's command. Many had seen dozens of their mercenary comrades attempt to surrender only to be brutally shot in place as the humans and elves swept throughout the city, slowly taking control of what they once had.

It mattered not where they turned, for if the area was not being hammered with artillery, it was infested with humans and elves that were heavily armed and out looking for blood. Their slaves and many of the civilians of Cedar City had disappeared in the first ten minutes of the attack, and they didn't know that most of them had been ushered to safe zones within the city limits and were under heavy guard, though they were receiving medical treatment and hot food and drink.

The mercenaries had never experienced the savage violence that was being visited upon them before. They were so used to being the ones exacting the violence on others, as soon as it was turned against them by someone stronger, they ran like the cowards they all were.

They managed to make their way here to the stadium before being cut off by artillery fire and unable to link up with their commander at the University. All of them knew they were surrounded, but they mistakenly thought they were in a good position to hold and protect them from further attacks. The guards that were posted had taken potshots at a few fleeting glimpses of armed people in and around the front office block, but they were completely unaware of how close to death they truly were. No one heard Martin's shouted command to execute, and the first any of them knew they were about to die is when the four flash bang grenades came flying through the smashed out office windows and went off in their midst. Many of them mercenaries were unprepared for the grenades' detonation, and screams erupted as ear drums were ruptured and blackness with white stars filled their eyes. Almost all of them dropped their weapons to clutch at their heads in agony, and none of them saw or heard the three teams of elves and humans burst into the room.

Nine HK74's spit out death and devastation, the Teflon coated ammunition punching through bodies with no resistance at all. The screams of the dying were quickly silenced by single shots or three round bursts through open mouths or into foreheads and chests.

Martin squeezed the trigger of his HK one last time, sending a three round burst through the left eye of a mercenary who had been unable to even get off the floor. His hands had been clutched over his bleeding ears, his mouth open in silent agony of which Martin quickly freed him of. His head blew open like an over ripe melon, splashing the wall and the floor with blood and brain matter.

“Clear!” Martin barked out, holding his position. Ealin and his radio operator were on either flank of him, holding their positions.

“Clear!” Danny’s voice sounded in the smoke filled room.

“Clear!” Radama’s voice followed. “I have the leader of this group!”

Martin got to his feet slowly as the smoke from the grenades began to filter out of the room and he saw Radama shove the human man forward to sprawl in front of Martin. His ears were bleeding, and Martin knew his ear drums were ruptured. He also bore two bullet wounds in his upper shoulder and arm, his ragged uniform soaked in blood.

“Hi there,” Martin spoke looking down at the man.

Martin saw Danny come up through the dissipating smoke, his HK in his hands. “The rest are deader than shit.” He reported. “This one zagged when he should have zigged. Radama was aiming at his empty melon head.”

Martin grinned. “Secure the building, and let Leland know that no reinforcements will be coming from the stadium.” He spoke turning to his female radio operator. “He can conduct his attack as soon as he and General Vengal are in position.”

“Danny please let Juan know that we can use the stadium here to set a triage center before moving anyone to the airfield.” Martin spoke. “Process them here and then send them forward. I don’t want to risk anything at the airfield.”

Danny nodded and turned to his own radio operator who waved indicating he understood. “I’ll get some additional security in here to lock down the place.” He spoke.

Martin nodded and looked at the mercenary. He reached out and slapped the man viciously, getting his attention. “Is there a reason why I should keep you alive?” Martin asked, raising his voice so that the man could hear him even with his damaged ears.

“Fuck you elf lover!” The man spat.

Martin chuckled. “You aren’t my type sport.” He answered. “Take this fucker and string him up outside.” Martin spoke looking at Radama. “Do it in a way so that they can see his carcass at the University.”

Radama smiled savagely and grabbed the man by his long greasy hair, “With pleasure.” He spat.

Leland lifted his finger to his lips in the universal sign for silence as the young human boy saw him lift himself from the sewer in the floor of the large bathroom.

“Where you at runt,” The mean voice echoed in the room. Leland scrambled quickly to the side of the door.

The boy turned to see the large mercenary burst through the door of the bathroom, and his eyes filled with fear. “No... please... not again!” He gasped.

The mercenary grinned widely, revealing broken teeth and a foul smelling mouth. “You liked it last night boy.”

“You will hurt this child no more scum.” Leland growled.

The mercenary’s eyes went wide and he started to whirl around, only to have Leland bury the large blade into his chest that much more quickly. Leland clamped his free hand over the mercenary’s foul smelling mouth and wrenched the blade up. The man lifted himself up on his tip toes to escape the savage pain tearing through his chest and belly, but it was of no use. His blood splashed wetly on the tile floor around him, and his eyes quickly rolled into the back of his head as Leland sliced open his heart.

Leland easily grabbed the body before it fell, catching the weapon and lowering them both quietly to the floor. He looked at the human boy.

“I mean you no harm little one.” Leland spoke gently. “And this man will no longer hurt you.”

“Are... are you an elf?” The boy asked quietly.

Leland smiled. "Yes I am little one. I have come with my friends to save you." He motioned to the hole in the floor and the boy followed his hand to see more elves and humans quickly climbing out of the sewer drain. "Are your parents outside?" Leland asked, coming up next to the boy.

The blond haired boy, no more than eight years old, shook his head. "They are dead mister." He spoke.

"Are you by yourself?" Leland asked. The boy nodded slowly, his hands clutched together as he bit his lower lip. "What is your name?"

"Johnny."

Leland smiled and held out his hand, "Johnny can you tell me how many men like him are out there?"

"Billy was really mad this morning! A bunch of his friends left last night!" The little boy answered. "They didn't think anyone saw them, but I watched as they ran off down the street."

Leland looked at Vengal as he settled next to him. He turned back to the boy. "Can you tell me how many are left Johnny?"

"Not many." He replied. "Billy was so mad he killed two of his own men to scare the others. There is only like twelve of them left. No one else knows."

Leland smiled and took the boy's small hand in his. "They won't hurt you any longer little one." He said softly.

"Are you... are you going to kill Billy?" Johnny asked.

"I am certainly going to try." Leland spoke.

"He's hurt me a lot." Johnny spoke lowering his head in shame.

Leland felt his heart go out to the human child and he brushed the blond locks from his eyes. "You have no need to fear any loner Johnny. I will protect you."

"You... you promise?"

Leland nodded without thought. "I promise you. Right now I need you to stay hidden in here until I come back for you. I'm going to go take care of Billy and his men ok?"

Johnny nodded. "Ok."

"Go hide in one of those small stalls until I come back for you. And don't move no matter what you hear. Do you understand?"

Johnny nodded and Leland and Vengal watched him scamper quickly into one of the abandoned toilet stalls. Vengal glanced at Leland a look of disgust on his face.

"They use children?" He asked in outrage.

"Scum like the ones we are about to kill have no morals General." Leland replied wiping the blade of his knife on the dead mercenary's shirt. "I will enjoy killing this scum Billy."

Vengal nodded. "Indeed. We should stick to the original plan in case the child has missed any that might be hidden."

Leland nodded. "If the child is any indication, we must move quickly. The civilians may be in greater danger if this Billy person thinks he is threatened."

Vengal smiled savagely. "Give me six minutes to move into position and then we can attack."

Leland nodded. "Six minutes General."

CEDAR CITY AIRFIELD

Dysea embraced her mother at the foot of the rear ramp of the Raptor as Cathy shut down the engines and systems from the cockpit. That they were related was easy enough to tell as her mother had the same platinum blond hair and the same slim yet luscious figure, but she looked much older.

Dysea smiled as her mother held her tightly, inhaling her mother's scent and finding joy and peace in the smell. She had not seen her in almost a year, and to finally be able to embrace her tightly like this was just the medicine she needed.

Dysea's mother finally pushed her away and held her at arm's length and looked at her, eyes moist with happy tears.

"You... you should not have come." Dysea told her, but not really meaning her words.

Normya could only grin as she looked at her only child. "Acid storms could not have kept me away child." She said. "It has been too long since I have seen you."

"I have missed you Amille." Dysea spoke softly smiling at her mother.

"Imagine my surprise when I discovered that Vengal was coming to meet with you and this Martin Hunter." Normya spoke. "I was incensed when the Council declared you a traitor to your own people. They provided no proof except some silly information they made up. Things have been very bad Dysea. There is much talk among the people that you were betrayed Dysea. This new Queen the Council has appointed bends like a reed in the wind to the Council's will."

"It doesn't matter anymore Amille. I will deal with the Council of Elders when the time is right. I am here now, and we are building something far greater." Dysea spoke.

"So I see. I have been among these people for only a few short hours and in that time I have seen something I never imagined I would, humans and elves working together." Normya told her as they began to walk away from the rear of the Raptor. "Elves treated equally... and in positions of authority over humans. And the humans accept this as if it is common place." Normya shook her head. "When I arrived here at this airfield, a human man came up to me and asked if I would take control of directing the refugees to buildings and tents they had set up. He did not blink that I was an elf."

Dysea held her arm as they walked and she smiled. "It is part of what we are building here Amille." She said. "They care not if we are human or elf, only that our ultimate goal is achieved. And that is freedom and prosperity for all of us."

"The man who has claimed you for his own, this... this Martin Hunter?" Normya spoke. "What is he like? When I asked to see him I was told he was leading an attack on the old University here personally. He commands such a following... such courage and devotion."

Dysea nodded. "Yes he does." She said. "And I think he is more frightened of you than you are of him."

Normya looked at her daughter aghast. "You jest!" She spat.

Dysea smiled, "Not at all." She told her mother.

"You have returned from Mountain City." Normya asked. "How is... how is the High Elf Queen?"

Dysea looked at her mother, trying to see any signs of disapproval and rejection but all she saw was a mother's love. "She is herself again." Dysea answered. "Amille... I..."

Normya put a finger to her daughter's lips and shook her head. "You need explain nothing to me Dysea. I have thought of what you have done many times myself, but I never had the opportunity to experience it. You have said she is like the sister you never had?"

Dysea nodded with a gentle smile. "We have become very close, yes Amille." She answered quickly.

Normya nodded. "Then who am I to say anything?" She replied. "Is this Martin Hunter up to the chore of pleasing my daughter as she desires?"

"Mother!" Dysea exclaimed, her face taking on a slight shade of red even under her tan.

"It is a fair question!" Normya spoke.

Dysea couldn't help but shake her head. "He is more than up to the task mother." She finally said. "Come... we'll secure a Hopper and go to the university and you can meet him." She looked up and waved at the heavily armed soldiers that had become her shadow as soon as she exited the Raptor. Normya took notice of this quickly and watched as one of them broke from his position and ran up to her briskly.

"Yes ma'am?" He asked.

"I want to go to the University Richard." She spoke.

The young human man nodded his head. "The General just reported in that Leland and General Vengal have taken down the last mercenary position at the University. The captives there are being moved to the coliseum."

"How many did they save?" Dysea asked.

"All of them ma'am, Leland and that Wood Elf Ranger did some serious ass kicking. They even captured the leader of the scum. The General is with him now."

"Good... secure a Hopper and let's get moving." Dysea spoke. "My mother will be accompanying us."

The young man nodded and turned to another in Dysea's security detachment and began shouting orders. Normya squeezed her hand. "You have a security detail?" She asked.

Dysea nodded. "Nauta Melme insists on it." She replied to the same question Tarifa's mother had asked. "There was an assassination attempt when we first started building Eden. Since that time he has insured I was never alone when I was not with him."

Normya nodded in understanding. "What you have built will no doubt threaten many. He did the right thing in protecting you."

They turned as the armored Hopper pulled up next to them. Dysea took her hand. "Come mother... it is time you met Nauta Melme."

MOUNTAIN CITY

Aihola stretched luxuriantly on the silk sheets of the bed she lay in. Her eyes fluttered open, a look of contentment on her face at feeling the soft sheets against her skin. As the memories of the last few hours came rushing back, her eyes sprang open quickly and she sat up in the bed with a start. She inhaled sharply when she saw Tarifa sitting on the large bed lotus style, her eyes nearly aglow in the dim light of the coming morning.

"Good morning." Tarifa spoke softly. Aihola looked around quickly, her Drow warrior instincts lighting off and Tarifa took notice of this. "You are safe Aihola. You are in my home."

Aihola turned back to her. "Safe!" She hissed. "Your Dragoons raped and beat me! I will never be safe among your kind!"

"The Dragoons who assaulted you are dead!" Tarifa stated flatly. "They were scum of the vilest sort. I had you brought to my home, and here you will be safe."

"Your home," Aihola asked her eyes going slightly wide when she heard Tarifa tell her the men who had raped her were dead. "So now I am your prisoner as well?"

"You are no prisoner Aihola." Tarifa spoke softly. "But it is safer that you stay here with me than any other place in Mountain City."

"Why should I trust you?" Aihola hissed. "You... you and your blond Queen raped me as well! You are no different than..."

Tarifa sighed heavily. "We... we did not intend for that to happen Aihola." She spoke softly. "The Alliance experiments on you... when you become excited you secrete a pheromone that anyone around you will find irresistible. It overcame us and caused us to react the way we did. I sincerely apologize for that."

Tarifa got up from the bed and Aihola noticed for the first time that all she wore were undergarments that fit her lush body like a glove and highlighted every delicious curve. The same curves Aihola had taken great pleasure in exploring intimately only a few hours ago. Her coal colored skin hid the deep blush she felt as these thoughts raced through her head. She watched as Tarifa went to the small table and she couldn't help but admire the long satiny legs and firm ass cheeks, nor could she discount that Tarifa's large breasts were straining magnificently against the light blue bra she wore. She noticed for the first time that Tarifa was perhaps two or three inches taller than her. She watched as Tarifa picked up the vial of dark liquid and returned to stand next to the side of the bed and hold it out to her.

"Dysea is quite knowledgeable of Alliance poisons and such." Tarifa explained. "I don't know how... but she is. She left this for you. It is made from herbs and roots and will effectively counteract what the Alliance experiments did to you. It will not cure you completely, but it will make it so you are not as... sensitive to unwanted manipulation. At least until such time as we can find a more permanent solution. She has returned to Eden and taken a blood sample of you back with her. If anyone can discover a cure for you, Anja can."

"How do I know this is not just some other means for you to control me?" Aihola retorted.

"I have no desire to control you Aihola." Tarifa spoke. "You are an unwitting pawn in a power play among the High Elves. Telan has been using you, as he does everyone else."

"So you say." Aihola spoke, realizing for the first time that she was very naked under the satin sheets. She gripped them quickly and wrapped them around her slim chocolate body.

Tarifa nodded. "Yes... so I say." She spoke pulling the chair closer to the side of the bed. "You have a choice to make Aihola."

Aihola watched as Tarifa settled into the chair and looked at her. Her actions thus far had not been in any way controlling. Aihola's keen senses could not detect anyone else inside the room with them, or inside the house for that matter. Tarifa was extremely comfortable and her heart beat evenly. Tarifa smiled as she saw Aihola reaching out with her acute Drow senses.

“We are alone Aihola.” She spoke. “There is no one else here with us.”

“Why have you brought me here?” Aihola finally asked.

“I need your help.” Tarifa answered honestly.

“My help? You are the Queen of the High Elves... what would you need my help for? I am a Drow warrior, an assassin, a mercenary. I am as much hated by your people as I am the humans and other elves.”

“I don’t hate you.” Tarifa spoke softly.

Aihola laughed softly. “You are Queen... you hate me more than anyone.”

“If that was the case, and I did hate you, than why are you here now? Why did I react in the manner I did when I saw those men raping you?” Tarifa asked.

Aihola was silent as she gazed at Tarifa’s face. The almost blue black hair framing her sapphire eyes, the full lips and delicate skin. Aihola remembered how those lips tasted of peach, how her skin flushed as she reached the pinnacle of pleasure at Aihola’s own urging. And she remembered the intense pleasure those lips had bestowed upon her as they drove her to heights of passion she had not known existed.

“And if I say no?” She questioned.

“Then I will kill you.” Tarifa stated flatly, “Without hesitation.”

“You think much of your skill Queen of the High Elves.” Aihola spoke. “I am a Drow warrior... I could...” Aihola’s eyes bugged out of her head as she found she could no longer breathe. Her hands went to her throat and she felt the iron grip of Tarifa’s hand on the slim neck. She glanced frantically at Tarifa’s face and saw it was only inches from her own. Her eyes had changed to sapphire orbs surrounded by blackness, and her fangs had extended to their full length. Aihola restrained herself from exerting her own strength, not wanting to reveal what she was.

“Do not for an instant believe I could not kill you Aihola.” Tarifa spoke. “I am considerably more than just an elf now, and it would not please me to have to show it to you.” Tarifa moved her face closer, her hand still clutching Aihola’s throat, but not squeezing any tighter than she already was. Aihola’s hand rested atop hers. “I have no desire to kill you Aihola. I would very much like you to listen to me and help me of your own accord.” Tarifa’s soft lips were only millimeters from Aihola’s own soft pink lips as she spoke. “You... you know too much already and I...” Tarifa sat back slowly, releasing Aihola and bringing her hands together as she returned to the chair. “I would prefer to have you as a friend.”

Aihola rubbed her neck where Tarifa’s hand had just been. “And if I do not help you, that is when you will kill me?” She spoke her eyes wide in a mixture of anger and something else she did not understand. “I have no family! No clan! My brother and those under his command have vanished and they are probably dead at the hands of the Alliance! What could you possibly give to me that would make me want to go on?”

“Hope.” Tarifa answered without hesitation. “Hope for a future where things are different. I have been among the Alliance torture chambers Aihola, just as you have been. Marcus himself tortured and raped me for nearly six weeks before giving me to his men. Nine of my father’s Dragoons died rescuing me. I have sworn never to have that monster take me alive again. I too thought all hope was lost... that things could never change, until I met someone who changed my mind and returned that hope to me.”

“The one you speak of... he is the one who changed you and the Wood Elf Queen?” Aihola asked softly.

Tarifa nodded. “He has changed us in more than just physical terms.” She replied. “My... my relationship with them is difficult to explain, but it has opened my eyes to hope for a better future. And he has already started building that future with Dysea, and they wait for me to join them, for we began this quest together. And I will join them and help them as we build a future at the earliest possible moment. You can be a part of that future with us.”

“You mean as the sex toy of you and your Wood Elf lover; as the plaything of the man who changed you and her into something other than elves?” Aihola snapped viciously. “I think not! I have no desire to become like you and she!”

Tarifa looked at her, her eyes returning to normal and her fangs retracting. “Was making love to me... to us that terrible Aihola?” She asked gently. “I did not think so, and I can tell you neither did Dysea. Part of the gift that Martin gave to us was an ability to heal and purge foreign diseases and viruses from our bodies. The pheromone your body secretes when you are gripped in passion no longer affected us after the first hour Aihola; at least it did not me. I was acting quite of my own free will.”

Aihola looked at her surprised. “You... what... you were willingly doing such things to me?” She gasped.

“While we could not resist initially, once our bodies were purged of the pheromone you secrete, we were acting quite willingly I assure you. I... I enjoy it very much Aihola, perhaps much more than Dysea. You... you could not help yourself, we understood this... but you tasted so good and sweet and...” Tarifa looked at Aihola, her cheeks turning a slight crimson. “It was wrong and I apologize to you for that. That however is not the reason behind what I propose to you. Who you share a bed with is entirely up to you, and you would be helping me by acting as my Royal Attendant.”

“Do you think me a fool? I would be your Attendant?” Aihola gasped.

Tarifa nodded. “My bodyguard if you prefer that term, yes.” She replied. “I can think of no one who would fit that role better. You are a Drow warrior, and that by itself strikes fear into others.”

“Your... your husband knows me.” Aihola spoke softly, her mind racing now at what Tarifa was offering to her. “How would you explain this to him?”

“He is NOT my husband!” Tarifa growled viciously, startling Aihola. “And he is no different than most men, and fortunately for me he thinks with his cock most of the time. I can deal with Telan.”

“You... you are married to him.” Aihola spoke not understanding. “He... he is your husband.”

“I would never willingly marry that pig!” Tarifa spoke, the heat in her voice very evident. “Telan and his family are part of the problem. Before Dysea came to Mountain City they were giving me drugs in an attempt to control my mind and my actions. You were supplying those drugs without realizing what they were intended for. Unfortunately for Telan, because of the changes in my body because of my relationship with Martin, the drugs did not work as well as they had hoped. Once my mother told Dysea of what was happening, she came here in order to help me. I am once more the person I was before all of this began.”

“Then why do you need me?” Aihola asked, now very riveted by the story Tarifa was telling her.

“There are others associated with Telan that do not think with the wrong head.” Tarifa told her. “As long as they perceive that I am doing what they want and am still under their control, and even becoming more compliant, they are not to be feared. You would be there for those that fall outside that category.” Tarifa looked at her, softness in her eyes that Aihola had not yet seen. “And... I would... I would very much like to have a friend.”

“What... what is it you want of me Queen of the High Elves?” She finally asked her voice soft and almost a whisper as she lowered her head.

“The first thing...” Tarifa spoke reaching out and grasping her jaw and gently lifting her face to meet hers. “My name is Tarifa and I want you to use it. You are not a slave Aihola, not any longer. And... and if you truly wish to leave... then I will allow you to leave if you give me your word you will never speak of what we have discussed this day.”

Aihola looked at her quickly. “You would allow me to leave? Even with what I know and what you just told me?”

Tarifa nodded slowly. “If that is what you truly wished, after what we shared... I could not bring myself to kill you.” She got to her feet and looked down at Aihola. “There are clothes for you in the truck against the wall. I am relatively sure they will fit you quite nicely. I’m going to take a bath. If you are still here when I come out then I will have your answer. If you are not here, then I will fabricate a cover story to make your exit from Mountain City easier. The choice is yours. I... I would like very much for you to stay. The vial contains enough liquid dosage for a least a month. If you leave you will need to seek out Dysea in Eden so that they can give you a more permanent solution or your symptoms will return. Now you must decide.”

Aihola watched Tarifa turn and exit the room leaving her to admire the sway of Tarifa’s ass as she walked, and to decide the future of the rest of her life.

Dysea's security detachment maintained an extremely tight circle around her and her mother as they made their way into the interior of the old football stadium. Once word had been received that Leland and General Vengal had succeeded in taking down the last holdout of mercenaries within the city, medical teams had descended upon the stadium in droves. They could see hundreds of men, women and children, humans and elves alike, being attended to by dozens of field medics, while a trauma center had been set up in one of the larger offices, Anja directing her medics and treating everyone.

Normya clung to her daughter's hand as they approached the office area of the old stadium. She was unsure of how Dysea knew where to go exactly, not realizing that Dysea was tracking Martin by his scent. To Dysea's enhanced sense of smell, Martin's unique mint scent was almost overpowering to her and she followed it easily enough. They came to a long corridor and had traveled half way down the narrow hall until Dysea pulled up short. Normya looked at her daughter.

"What is it?" She asked.

Dysea smiled. "Let's wait here for a moment." She spoke calmly. "Nauta Melme will join us momentarily."

"What... what do you mean? How do you know that?" Normya asked.

Dysea started to answer but the large crashing sound stopped her words. They both turned as the entire wall in front of them came crashing outward from the force of the large body that came through it. Plaster and old wiring was ripped from the wall as the bloody body of the mercenary leader impacted the far wall of the corridor and slumped to the floor. His hands were bound in front of him with Teflon plastic cuffs, his face bloody from a smashed mouth and a nasty cut above his eye. His nose was equally twisted and bloody, the cartilage obviously broken, and the upper portion of his nose angled sharply outward.

Normya watched as the towering male human smashed through the shattered wall right after the body of the mercenary. She took in the tall incredibly muscular body, the dark hair and the wild looking yellow eyes encased in coal black outline, and quickly realized that this man was not completely human. Her eyes grew wide when she saw that the incisor teeth of the man were abnormally long, nearing an inch in length, giving him an extremely terrifying appearance. She watched as he bent over and hauled the mercenary up by his throat with only one hand and slammed him none to kindly into the opposite wall with as much effort as lifting a twig from the ground.

"I know how many innocent lives you have taken!" Martin growled. "Human and elf alike; and for no other reason than they failed to please you in some way. You are nothing more than a disease and you have the audacity to ask me, to beg me for mercy?"

Normya was unable to hear what the mercenary leader was able to mumble, his blood stained lips hardly moving. His eyes were clearly bulging out of his head as the air circulating in his neck was slowly being extinguished by the huge man's fist. Normya couldn't help herself and found herself smiling. "Oh I like this man." She whispered to Dysea. "Tell me he is a friend of your Nauta Melme my daughter."

Dysea grinned at her mother before looking back to where Martin had the mercenary pinned against the wall. She felt her heart jump when Martin's head turned as he detected her scent, and his eyes grew wide and immediately changed back to the pools of dark brown she so adored. Martin dropped the mercenary's body unceremoniously, and stepped back from him.

"Danny?" He spoke to someone behind him. Normya's eyes grew wider still when she saw the even larger black man exit through the large hole in the wall. "String this shit sorry fuck from the tallest tree you can find before I lose my temper and begin to cut off his limbs."

Danny smiled and reached down to grab the mercenary leader by his greasy dirty blond hair. "I think I can arrange that Skipper! And I got just the tree in mind." He spoke.

Martin turned to look at Dysea as Danny hauled the groaning mercenary leader of Cedar City to his doom. "Melda Min." Martin spoke taking a step towards her.

Normya's eyes widened when she heard what Martin called her and she turned to look at her daughter, but Dysea was already launching herself into Martin's powerful arms. Normya turned back and saw her daughter within the embrace of this powerfully built man, a man who was not completely human Normya could tell from the color of his aura. She watched as their lips came together and her daughter shared an exceptionally passionate kiss with him, heedless of the others that were watching.

Martin's arms crushed Dysea to him as her long legs drew up along his sides and her arms encircled his head tightly. Dysea plunged her tongue into Martin's mouth, dancing it across his teeth and artfully playing tag with his own tongue. She quickly lost the battle and groaned as Martin pulled her tighter and deepened his kiss, pinning her warm tongue with his own and teasing the tip of his tongue across the bottom of her trapped tongue, causing tiny ripples to course through her.

They slowly and quite unwillingly drew apart, a small strand of saliva connecting their lips, and Dysea traced her fingers over his face and eyes. "I have missed you Nauta Melme." She spoke softly. "I have missed you so very much."

Martin nuzzled the hollow of her throat, his lips grazing her satiny skin. "No more than I have missed you Melda Min." He told her softly.

Dysea took his face in her hands and kissed him once more, staring into his dark eyes with adoration and love. "Tarifa sends you her undying thanks Martin." Dysea spoke, caressing his cheeks. "She so wanted to be with us here. To help us to continue what we started."

Martin set Dysea down on the floor. "You reek of her." He spoke with a grin. "And..." He sniffed Dysea's hair, "Someone else as well."

Dysea smiled and squeezed his hands. "I couldn't pull myself away from her." She told him shyly, pressing her head against his chest and wrapping her arms around his waist. "We missed having you with us my love."

Martin held her tightly, his eyes closed as he relished in the feel of her in his arms. "Then she understands of our plan?"

Dysea nodded. "She does not like it, but she knows what she must do. Governor Kadeem and I should be able to arrange visits by her that will not arouse suspicion. Now that she knows we still consider her a dearest friend, I have no doubt she will try and make as many trips to see us as she is able and not put herself in jeopardy."

Martin nodded and caressed Dysea's hair. "And who is this other female elf I smell on you Melda Min?" He asked.

"A Drow warrior we ran across." Dysea answered. "I will explain all that later when I have you alone." She told him, a lustful glint in her eyes as she gazed at him.

Martin smiled. "I look forward to that."

Dysea drew away from him partly and turned to hold out her hand to her mother. "Nauta Melme... may I present my mother Normya."

Martin looked at Normya and bowed his head slightly to her in respect. "It is an honor to finally meet you Queen Mother." He spoke.

Normya looked at him surprised. "My daughter is no longer Queen Martin Hunter... therefore I no longer hold that title."

Martin looked at her. "Your daughter will always be Queen... and you will always hold that title in my eyes." He replied, taking her hand and bringing it to his lips to kiss the back of her knuckles.

Normya couldn't help but smile broadly. "Oh I like him daughter." She said with chuckle. "I like him very much."

Martin laughed with them. "Please... we have set up a small command post of sorts nearby where we can relax and talk more."

Normya allowed Martin to take her arm, and noticed that he still held Dysea's hand tightly, as he led them down the corridor. She smiled to herself... knowing that her daughter had chosen extremely well.

MOON BASE EDEN

Taggart looked at Anisa as she sat on the edge of the medical bed. "How long has this been happening?" He asked.

Anisa met his eyes. "I would say roughly six weeks now." She answered.

"And what exactly do you feel?" Paul asked.

“There are moments when I can hear others talking when they aren’t even close to me. I smell things I shouldn’t be able to.” Anisa answered. “I... I’m stronger... my reflexes twice what they should be.”

Paul finished drawing the blood from her arm and placed the small cotton ball over where we had withdrawn the needle. He looked at Anisa carefully. “Go on.” He said.

Anisa shrugged. “It’s very scary Paul.” She spoke. “I’m changing and I don’t know why.”

Paul placed the vial of blood on the table and then turned back to look at her, leaning against the adjoining bed. “I do.” He told her softly.

Anisa looked at him surprised. “What do you mean you know? I have just come to you, and you have not even conducted an examination.”

“I don’t need to conduct an examination.” Paul answered.

“I don’t think I understand.” Anisa said. “How is it possible that you know what is happening to me without a full medical examination?”

Paul went to one of the medical tables and retrieved a data pad from it. He walked back to her as he punched in a security code and then held it out to her. “Read this.” He said.

Anisa took the pad and after a moment of looking at him, she began to read the pad. The more she read, the more her eyes grew larger. She looked up at him. “How... how did you get this?” She asked. Paul turned away and began to fiddle with the instruments on the small table next to the bed. Anisa reached out and took his arm, turning him back around. “I asked you a question Paul. How did you find this out?”

Paul met her eyes and exhaled heavily. “You must not reveal you know anything.” He said. “The Admiral would kill me if he found out.”

“Found out what Paul?” Anisa asked.

“We have a secure communications line open with Martin and the others on Earth.” The voice spoke from the doorway, startling them both and causing them to whirl around. Admiral Wallace strode into the room casually dressed in civilian clothes and looking like he had just woke up. “We have sent reports back and forth since he established Eden City in Utah.”

Anisa looked at the man she had come to love fiercely. “I don’t follow William.” She spoke. “Why... why keep that a secret from me?”

“If you did not know... and you were captured... you could not tell them anything.” William answered. “I’m... I’m sorry Anisa.”

“I don’t care about that!” She snapped. “I understand that! Why would you keep what this Anja Peterson reported from me?”

“That’s a bit more complicated.” William answered her.

“Admiral... I’m sorry... she...” Paul began.

Wallace waved his hand cutting off his apology and shook his head. “It’s not your fault Paul. It’s something I should have been more open about from the very beginning.” William looked at Anisa, “Especially with you Anisa.”

“William... why... I don’t understand.” Anisa spoke stepping closer to him, and reaching out to stroke his weathered cheek.

“I... I have always tried to keep it from others. I doubt even Marty knows.” William spoke. “All throughout my entire career I have had to hide it and turn away from it. I never wanted to, but it was something I needed to do. It was part of my mission to help in protecting him.”

“Protect who William...?” Anisa asked.

“Martin.” Wallace answered, “To protect Martin. He doesn’t know who and what he is yet. He will discover it soon enough... but right now he believes he is still a Genome.”

Anisa stepped off the table and moved to him. “William... what are you talking about? Who is Martin? What do you mean?”

Wallace shook his head and put a finger to her lips. “You have a right to know. I have never felt for a woman what I feel for you.”

“William I am an elf!” Anisa snapped.

Wallace chuckled. “Do you think that matters to me considering what I am? I saw the report that... Dym... Doctor Carson left for Marty in the computer at Eden Ground Command. How he altered certain elves to make them more attractive to genomes, and vice versa. Have you never asked why you suddenly found me so attractive Anisa?"

"Why would this matter?" Anisa asked.

"Walter Carson was brilliant." Wallace spoke. "One of the smartest men I have ever had the pleasure of knowing. And I hope to see him someday soon so thank I can thank him."

"Thank him?" Anisa asked.

William nodded. "Thank him for you." He replied.

"William... my Cundu... I don't..."

William smiled at her. "Everyone seems to think that Marty is the very first genome Walter ever created. That is not completely accurate." He looked at Anisa. "You see... Martin and those with him... they aren't really genomes at all."

Anisa's eyes went wide at this and they all heard the small yelp of surprise and the glass vial hitting the floor behind them. They turned and saw Alliance Minister Torcrum standing in the small office listening.

She had just heard everything William had told them.

CHAPTER TWELVE

CEDAR CITY

"...decided that the time was right to come to Cedar City and knock off this scum bag before he was able to consolidate his base more so than he already had." Martin was explaining to Dysea and Normya as they sat in the small office he had taken over as his temporary Command Post. He leaned against the small desk in the room, the mug of coffee in his hand. Dysea and Normya could see the members of Martin's command staff moving about checking maps and continuing to get reports from the field.

"You didn't tell me you were going to attack Cedar City Nauta Melme." Dysea scolded him moving up close to him, pressing her body against his and snuggling her face into his neck.

Martin nodded slowly and meeting her emerald green eyes. His arm snaked around her small waist and pulled her closer to him. "I know Melda Min, but I didn't make the final decision until the attack on Flagstaff went so well. Everyone was pumped up and confident, and the plan we developed last month worked to perfection."

Normya looked surprised. "And you were able to mobilize your forces and attack in less than three days?" She asked the look of shock very evident on her face.

Martin nodded. "Most of them were ready to deploy anyways in case the operation in Flagstaff bogged down. Once we swept through Flagstaff so quickly, we were on a roll and I had them move to Cedar City."

"The fall of Cedar City will not go unnoticed Martin Hunter." Normya spoke wisely. "The other strongholds of mercenary and trader scum will be ready for you now. And word will go out among the human cities as well. You and my daughter have brought humans and elves together for the first time in our history, and once word of your victories reaches elf ears, hundreds if not thousands will flock to you. And more still will want to destroy what you have built. Are you prepared for that?"

Martin looked at Normya, his arm still holding Dysea close to him, her hand resting on his chest as she looked at her mother. "We are ready now." He answered. "Eden is nearly complete, and our security measures to protect the city are impregnable. As we grow in size we will expand the security boundaries. The schools are opening within the week; our medical facility is the finest outside of Alliance controlled territory; and for the first time in four hundred years elves can become what they were intended to be, the partners and friends of humans."

"And what of those that do not want this?" Normya asked.

Martin's dark eyes changed to steely orbs. "I don't particularly care what they want or don't want." He told her. "I'm only concerned with Eden. Those that want to live free will join us, those that don't can go right straight to hell."

"And if they attempt to destroy what you have built so far?"

The look in Martin's dark eyes caused Normya to shudder as a cold shiver ran down her spine. "Then it will take them three very long and painful days to die." Martin answered coldly.

Normya couldn't help the smile that creased her face and she burst out laughing. "Oh my daughter, don't let this one get away. I might steal him myself if you do."

Dysea laughed with her mother and wrapped her arms around Martin's waist. "I have no intention of letting him get away." She spoke.

Normya got to her feet. "I look forward to talking with you more Martin Hunter. However, one of your promising young officers asked that I coordinate the transfer of wounded back to Eden, and after so long of not doing anything; I believe I will enjoy this task. I..."

Normya's words stopped when the hulking figure of Danny came into the room, Vengal and Radama with him. They walked right up to where Martin was.

"My Queen," Vengal spoke seeing Dysea for the first time and he quickly went to one knee in front of Dysea. "You don't know how it makes my heart sing to see you well."

Dysea smiled and took Vengal by the shoulders, urging him to stand up. "It is very good to see you as well General." Dysea spoke. "But I am no longer Queen, and you need not bow to me."

Vengal looked at her. "You will always be Queen to me My Lady, and to thousands of Wood Elves who recognize what is happening among our people. Never doubt that."

Dysea's face took on a tint of embarrassment and she nodded. "Thank you General." She spoke. "Martin tells me that you took part in the attack here on Cedar City?"

Vengal nodded with a smile. "We did My Lady, and I can proudly say I have not had this much fun in nearly a hundred years."

Dysea laughed and squeezed his hands as he stood back up. "Yes... Nauta Melme appears to get into some sort trouble on a regular basis." Dysea glanced at Martin with a lusty twinkle in her eye before looking back to Vengal. "How many travel with you my friend?"

"A hundred of my Rangers accompanied me My Lady." Vengal replied. "Nauro Ohtar has used us well here in Cedar City." (Wolf Warrior)

Dysea looked at him puzzled. "Nauro Ohtar? Why do you call him that?"

Vengal glanced at Martin quickly and then back to Dysea. "He has the senses of a wolf My Lady, he hunts at night, and he is unforgiving of his prey."

Dysea smiled. "Yes he is." She said turning to look at Martin oddly as if something suddenly became clear to her. "Yes he is."

"Skipper," Danny spoke now. "Some of the other elves we freed have told us about a convoy of Hoppers that left here two days ago. Apparently it was full of elves that were being taken to Las Vegas to be sold as slaves; roughly three hundred of them."

Vengal looked at Dysea, his eyes showing a spark Dysea had not seen in them in some time. "My Queen, Anuk was among them."

Dysea's eyes went wider, "Anuk? Are you sure Vengal? The reports we received told us she had been killed."

"I questioned the woman myself." Vengal told her. "She described Anuk in detail. It has to be her."

Martin pushed off from the desk he was leaning on. "Who is this Anuk?"

Dysea looked at Martin. "She is Vengal's youngest and only surviving daughter." She answered. "She was on a routine patrol eleven months ago and was attacked by slavers. The initial reports we received told us she and her Ranger unit were wiped out."

Martin perked up at this news. "General, are you sure she was speaking of your daughter?" He asked.

"I am positive Narmo Ohtar." He replied. "She described my daughter right down to the tattoos I gave to her at her coming of age ceremony. It could be no one else. I ask that you allow me to pursue this convoy to Las Vegas and retrieve her."

Martin turned to look at the map on the desk. "Two days ago would have given them quite a head start." He said. "By the time you got moving they will have reached Vegas already. How big an operation is in Vegas?"

"It is a human settlement, easily three times as large as Cedar City." Dysea answered, moving to stand next to him by the table. She adjusted the controls on the map chart and brought up a close up image of Las Vegas, Nevada taken from a Raptor in a high altitude pass over the southwest. “A slaver hub if you will. It is controlled by humans, but it is not considered a mercenary outpost. Everyone is free to come and go as they please and there are literally thousands that come to Vegas to buy and sell their slaves.”

“Elves you mean?” Martin said.

Dysea nodded. “They sell elves and humans Nauta Melme; humans who are not capable of defending themselves.”

“You must allow me to retrieve her Narmo Ohtar.” Vengal spoke, his voice excited now. “She is the only daughter I have left.”

Martin shook his head. “I’m sorry General, but I can’t send you into a settlement of humans that large. You would be captured along with her. And you now know far too much and have become far too valuable to me to risk you on such an operation.”

“She is my daughter!” Vengal snapped. “I... I can not simply let her slip through my grasp! I believed her to be dead! It nearly killed my wife when she found out Anuk had been lost! My other two daughters were killed by Alliance troops, and if there is even the slightest chance that Anuk still lives I will go after her.”

“I can’t allow that.” Martin spoke looking at him.

“You do not command me!” Vengal snapped.

“You are too emotional General.” Martin spoke remaining calm, “Too attached. You would be captured within hours of entering this city.”

“I do not care! I...”

“I do care!” Martin barked loudly, causing Dysea, Normya and Vengal to jump at the tone of his voice.

“Nauta Melme... we have to do something.” Dysea spoke softly turning to face him. “This... this could be a child of ours one day. We...”

Martin held up his hand stopping her words. “I didn’t say we would do nothing Melda Min.” He spoke taking a deep breath. “Danny... how soon can you put together a G-Team? Get in... snatch her and get out.”

“Shit Skipper I can do that in my sleep.” Danny replied. “Give me an hour.”

“Make it a four person team Dan; you, the Master Chief, Radama and one other elf.” Martin said.

“I will accompany them!” Vengal spoke quickly.

Martin shook his head. “No.”

“I must! If she is under the control of the Alliance mind drugs, only I will be able to convince her that what is happening is real. You must allow me to go with the team. I...”

Martin stepped up to Vengal and looked at him squarely in the eye. Vengal met his gaze without backing down, standing up to his full height of five foot ten and still shorter than Martin’s six foot two. “Listen to yourself General Vengal.” Martin spoke softly. “The desperation in your voice is such that you would attempt anything to get your daughter back, and that includes being captured yourself.”

“Would you not do the same thing?” Vengal asked.

Martin nodded. “Perhaps I would... but I would also listen to those who cautioned against such a move. I will allow you to travel with the insertion team Vengal, but you have to give me your word that you will return with the Raptor. Would you take the chance of making your wife a widow?”

Vengal’s eyes softened just a little bit and his shoulders slumped. “You are correct.” He said softly. “I would... I would do anything.”

Martin put his hand on Vengal’s shoulder. “I would as well... and not going is why you and I are the leaders we are. We know our limits and what we can and can’t do. Do you have someone among your Rangers who knows Anuk well enough to recognize her?”

Vengal nodded quickly. “Her cousin Leena is among the hundred I have brought with me.” He replied. “She is the finest hand to hand fighter I have, and she is also very beautiful. She and Anuk were very close.”

“A combination that is no doubt quite deadly.” Martin said with a smile. “Radio for her to get to the airfield, and I’ll get some more maps so that we can put together a plan.”

Vengal nodded and moved out of the room quickly. Martin turned to Danny. “No heroics Dan. Get in, get her out and return.”

“Me be a hero Skipper?” Dan spoke with mock surprise. “The thought never crossed my mind.”

“I’m sending Julie and Anja back to Eden with the Third Battalion and all but one of our artillery batteries to reestablish and expand the defensive zone around Eden.” Martin spoke.

Danny nodded. "Good move Skipper."

Martin stepped up to him slowly; looking at the man he considered a friend and brother. Dysea watched them carefully, no words passing between them, but once more they appeared to be speaking with one another, and the gentle echo in her mind returned once more.

Danny nodded and headed out of the office with Radama. Dysea stepped up to him and took his hand looking at him curiously. "You handled that very well Nauta Melme." She said softly.

"Let's just hope it's not a wild goose chase." Martin said turning to her.

Normya saw the way they looked at each other and she stepped closer. "I am going back to the airfield and leave the two of you alone for a few moments until Vengal returns." She spoke.

"Thank you Amille." Dysea said with a smile.

Martin watched as she left the office and turned back to Dysea, and found her in his arms and her delicious lips covering his. His arms went around her waist and he lifted her into the air as they shared the deep passionate kiss. Dysea's legs curled up alongside his hips and she could feel him thickening between her thighs. She took his face in her hands and pulled away reluctantly, looking into his eyes and seeing the adoration and love in them for her, as well as the burning need.

"We... we don't have the time Nauta Melme." She spoke in a soft voice, sending her tongue across his lips quickly.

Martin lowered his face and nuzzled the hollow of her throat, Dysea gasping in delight when she felt his tongue flick out and he traced the sensitive part of her neck just under her ear with the moist tip. "Tell me Melda Min. Why is it that I smell Tarifa all over you, and it is mixed with another scent? A scent like..." Martin tilted his head slightly.

"Scents like Cherry Blossoms perhaps?" Dysea asked her eyes bright.

Martin met her eyes. "Yes." He answered.

"Do we have a few minutes before General Vengal returns so that I can tell you of Tarifa and what transpired?" Dysea asked.

Martin smiled. "I'll make a few minutes." He told her.

"You must keep control of yourself Nauta Melme. I can't have you taking me here on top of this desk. It would not be acceptable," Dysea said, caressing his face. "No matter how pleasurable that prospect sounds."

Martin smiled and kissed her softly. "I will keep control of myself. At least until I get you back to our home." He said. "Then I intend to ravage you for two full days."

Dysea squirmed in his arms, grinding her hips against his and pressing her firm breasts tighter against his hard chest. "I look forward to that." She said with a seductive smile.

"So tell me... how is Tarifa?" Martin asked. "And who is this delightful new elf I smell all over you?"

MOUNTAIN CITY

Telan glared at Aihola as she stood in the living room of Tarifa's home. He and Tareif had returned only a few short hours ago to discover that there had been an attempt on Tarifa's life while she was shopping in the market district with her mother, and this Drow assassin had rescued her. The same Drow assassin that had been hired by his father to deliver the mind control drugs to Tarifa's aides. It was the talk of the city now, and Tarifa's actions after the attack, naming the Drow as her Attendant and personal Guard were justified and entirely within her realm as Queen, and there was nothing he could do about it.

He tossed the duffel he was carrying to the floor and stepped up the Drow quickly, his face a mask of anger. "Explain yourself quickly Drow whore!" Telan hissed at her, moving menacingly close to Aihola. "This was not part of the plan!"

Telan's eyes grew wide when he felt the pinprick under his chin and he froze. Aihola smiled at him, but her amber eyes told the true story, glaring at him with undisguised hatred. "Take care Telan." Aihola spoke in a low voice, her hand nudging the blade of the wicked looking knife just a tad higher. "I am not one of your whores. Take a step back before you lose your ability to speak."

Telan lost much of his bluster and did as Aihola instructed him, his face still frozen with anger. He looked at the Drow, now dressed in a form fitting black jumpsuit and a long cape with a cowl that was resting along her shoulders. Her shimmering white hair was draped seductively over her left shoulder to curl around her firm breasts. Her soft pink lips were moist and Telan felt the surge in his groin as he looked at her. He had to admit she was a beautiful creature, even for a Drow.

“What happen?” He asked in a much more civil tone, finally turning away from her.

“Your wench of a Queen came to pick up the drugs herself in a fit. I followed procedure and brought them too her” Aihola spoke as she casually dropped the blade of the knife back under her cape. “There were several slobbering fools who followed her not knowing who she was and thinking she was an easy target. There was a female with them, with platinum colored hair. I stopped them from raping and killing your whore, and they instead raped and beat me. The Queen ran them off with her mother and brought me here to attend to my wounds. How was I supposed to know she would make me her personal Attendant?”

“Platinum hair you say?” Telan asked. “Did you get a look at her face?”

Aihola shook her head. “She kept her face hidden, and while her men raped my ass she forced me to eat her disgusting cunt. I did not sign on to this to become a whore for you or your father! You will speak with this wench and get her to release me!”

Telan looked at her. “Does she suspect that what you gave her is not what she thinks it is?”

“Do you mean does she know the drugs are not a contraceptive as she stupidly thinks?” Aihola asked with a grin. “She still believes they are keeping her from becoming pregnant, though I don’t believe that will matter much longer.”

“What do you mean?”

“She spent time with her grandmother while you were gone.” Aihola said. “Her mother was visiting friends in Salina. Her grandmother convinced her to accept her position. And she did something to increase her desire for you, though I can’t think of anything that would do that.” She finished the comment with a smile.

“What do you mean did something?” Telan asked.

“I have no idea, nor do I care!” Aihola snapped. “All I know is she returned from her grandmother with a renewed sense of making your farce of a marriage work. Personally I think her grandmother brainwashed her. Anyone who would bed you willingly would have to be insane.”

Telan took a step toward Aihola and he saw the blade extend from under the cape once more stopping him. “You try my patience Drow.”

“I don’t particularly care Telan.” Aihola spoke. “I could kill you before you took two steps and be well within my rights as the Queen’s new Attendant. I could say you attempted to assault her yourself, who do you think she would believe? She is a fool, and thanks to your drugs, easily manipulated.”

“She does not know your true purpose?” Telan asked again.

“Would I be standing here if she did you fool!” Aihola snapped. “I did not agree to this arrangement and you will tell her to release me from this duty!”

Telan shook his head. “I must talk to my father first.” He spoke.

“I want double the money!” Aihola demanded. “All of it in advance, or I will tell her everything!”

Telan’s eyes flew open. “You think to blackmail me! To blackmail my father! You presume much!” He almost screamed.

“You have no choice!” Aihola barked. “This is not what we agreed upon, and if I have to remain as her babysitter, I want more money!”

Telan glared at Aihola with hate in his eyes but said nothing. He took a deep breath to calm his nerves and turned to look out the open window. “She suspects nothing?” He asked again.

“As I said, she is a fool in a woman’s body. My suggestion would be to have her produce you a son as your heir and then get rid of her.” Aihola spoke. “And enjoy her disgusting body while you have the opportunity, she is so dimwitted she would not know a real man if one bit her.”

Telan turned his head and glared at Aihola. “I know your weakness Drow!” He growled. “Do not force me to use it as I did before.”

Aihola’s face softened just a bit. “Double my price and no less!” She snapped.

“Where is Tarifa?” Telan asked. “I must talk with my father before I see her.”

“She is with her mother at her residence. She asked me to remain here until she returned.” Aihola answered.

Telan picked up the duffel and moved for the door. "I will inform you of what my father says Drow witch. Until that time you will act as Tarifa as requested of you. Is that clear?"

Aihola smiled, "Until the money stops." She spoke.

Telan whirled and stormed from the home and out the front door. As it slid shut behind him, Aihola let out a long breath. She turned as Tarifa came from the bedroom to stand next to her.

"You play a dangerous game Tarifa." Aihola spoke softly.

Tarifa looked at her oddly. "You were very convincing Aihola." She said, "Almost too convincing."

Aihola smiled at her, her own five foot six inch height forcing her to gaze up into Tarifa's sapphire eyes. "Perhaps... but I will need to be if we are to pull this off."

"We? I was under the impression you did not believe anything I told you, and you only remained because you lack anywhere else to go." Tarifa said to her. Aihola did not detect any sort of hostility or dishonesty in Tarifa's voice and did not take offense at her words.

"The potion you gave me." Aihola spoke turning her amber eyes on Tarifa. "It did what you said it would."

Tarifa smiled. "I'm glad." She replied.

"I must ask this." Aihola said the memories of the events with Tarifa and Dysea still very fresh in her mind. They were confusing thoughts to be sure. She was a Drow warrior, an assassin with unmatched skills, yet her tryst with the two elf Queens had made her shudder in pleasure she had never known. She had willingly, eagerly pleased them, savoring the taste of Tarifa's sweet juices even more and then wanting more. She found herself yearning, desiring more of what she had experienced with Tarifa, and only with Tarifa, yet the thought of breaking that taboo of her people willingly made her question everything she knew. Tarifa... the High Elf Queen affected her in a way she had never experienced with a man, and certainly never with a female. "I need to know if..."

Tarifa reached up and gently put her finger to Aihola's lips. "Anja will discover a permanent cure for you Aihola. I gave you my word. I will not hold you to anything, nor will I force you to do what you do not wish to do. This has only just begun and you may still back out if you wish. I can simply tell everyone I released you from your obligation."

Aihola stared at Tarifa for a long moment, taking in the curve of her lips and the bright beauty of her eyes. Aihola had to admit, the High Elf Queen was stunningly beautiful, and unlike what she had told Telan, she knew Tarifa was extremely intelligent. No one before Tarifa had ever treated her as an equal, and while her mind screamed for her to escape this place before it changed her, her heart was telling her to remain. Aihola shook her head slowly.

"I am involved now." She finally spoke. "It will only raise more questions if I simply fade away."

Tarifa smiled and leaned forward to softly kiss her on her pink lips. Aihola was surprised to find she did not draw away from the kiss, but actually found she was relishing the taste of Tarifa's lips on her own. Tarifa squeezed her hand and drew back. Tarifa had to admit to herself that this Drow warrior excited her more than Martin and Dysea ever had. She and Dysea had enjoyed their time with Aihola, but while it was only a passing interest for Dysea, Tarifa found herself desiring this Drow warrior more and more each day. She found herself caring for Aihola in a way not familiar to her. She wanted to have this Drow dominant her, take her however she wanted, but she could also sense the conflict within Aihola, and knew to push her into something she was not completely comfortable with was unwise. She decided at that moment to simply enjoy Aihola's company and friendship for as long as it lasted.

"Thank you Aihola." She said softly. "I... I believe I will need a friend through all of this, and I can think of no one that will fit that better than you at the moment."

Aihola smiled in a way that made her usually stern face soften. "I will need some more clothes and other items since I will be remaining with you Tarifa."

Tarifa nodded. "Purchase what you need and place them on my account." She answered. "I need to prepare for when Telan returns. He will undoubtedly want to bed me and it is not something I look forward too."

"Your commitment and desire to this ideal you say the Wood Elf Queen and this Martin Hunter are building is unlike anything I have ever seen." Aihola said quietly. "To expose yourself to such dangers and abuses simply to one day go to this city they are building is not something I'm sure I could tolerate."

Tarifa smiled as her thoughts turned to Martin and Dysea. "It is hard to explain and I would imagine even harder understanding. Perhaps one day, you would allow me to show you."

Aihola met her eyes. "Perhaps one day." She said softly. "Perhaps one day."

MOON BASE EDEN

"Yes! Yes! Fuck me! Fuck me harder! I'm cumming! I'm cumming!" Alliance Minister Selene Torcrum screamed out her pleasure as the elf under her buried his rock hard eight inch cock deeply into her sopping pussy once more. His hands were holding her tight ass cheeks and slamming her down on his cock with great force. Selene's strawberry blond hair whipped from side to side as her body went rigid and she came all over the elf's pile driving cock.

"You want more?" The elf grunted beneath her.

"More! Give me more you wonderful man!" Selene screamed out as she ground her spasming pussy down on the thick cock buried inside her. "More!"

The second male elf stepped up behind her, his hands taking her silky hair in his fists as he yanked her gasping head back. He licked the side of her face like a dog, leaving a trail of saliva on her cheek. "I have more for you human bitch!" He snapped. "Spread her!"

The elf below her gripped her tight ass cheeks and pulled them far apart, exposing Selene's tight pink anus to his partner behind him. Selene knew what was about to happen, and her eyes went wide as she felt the head of the elf's hard cock press against her most private opening.

"No not there please! I've never had... Ahhhhhhh!" Selene collapsed onto the elf beneath her as the second elf drove his stiff cock deeply into her ass.

He clenched his teeth as he watched his cock slid all the way into her tight ass until his balls came to rest against her dripping pussy. His hands dropped to her hips and he held her tightly as he pulled his cock back out slowly watching her sphincter dilate to allow him easy passage.

"Fuck! Your ass is tighter than anything I have ever had bitch!" The elf gasped, pulling her up against his chest and reaching around to paw her large firm tits. Her pink nipples were painfully hard and he took them between his fingers pinching them as he drove his cock back into Selene's ass.

Selene's eyes were shut tightly as pleasure unlike anything she had ever imagined ripped through her body. Her mouth was open as she gasped in delight, feeling the elf pull out of her ass slowly and then drive back in. Her entire body was alive in agonizing pleasure that she could not control.

"You want more Minister Torcrum?" The elf snarled into her ear as he pulled her hair hard, her neck muscles straining as he licked her face again. "You want more elf cock?"

"Yes... yes! Give me more you wonderful men! Oh god, fuck me harder! Make me cum!" Selene screamed.

"Give her something to shut her up!" The elf beneath her body barked.

The elf fucking Selene's ass with deep powerful strokes yanked her head to the side and Selene's eyes found the third elf cock only inches from her face. This elf was darker than the other two, his skin a deep bronze color, and his cock was larger still at nearly nine inches long and deliciously thick. Her eyes were wide as she reached up to grip the thick pulsing cock of the elf. "Suck him you Alliance whore! Suck his elf cock!"

Selene's mind told her it was the wrong thing to do, but she couldn't deny the desire that was pulsing through her body as the two elves sandwiched her between their powerful bodies and fucked both her openings. She was in almost a daze as she watched the third elf step closer and he gripped her strawberry blond hair in his rough hand.

"Suck it you Alliance bitch! Suck my elf cock!" He growled the words at her.

Selene did as he told her and lowered her head to engulf the large head between her red lips. Her eyes went wider still as he forced her head lower, driving his cock deeper into her mouth. She gagged noisily and tears came to her eyes as his thick cock rammed deeper into her virgin throat. She had never sucked a man off before, considering herself above such an act, yet now as this long thick dark colored elf cock pushed deeper into her throat she came like she had never cum before. She tried to scream out her pleasure around the thick cock invading her throat, but it came out only as more gagging sounds, the elf grabbing both sides of her head and burying his cock completely in her warm clenching throat. He threw his head back, and grunted loudly as her delicate nose pressed against his hard abdomen.

“Suck me! Yes! I’m going to cum bitch!” The elf yelled. “We’re going to fill you with our elf cum! Yeah!”

Selene’s body was on automatic now as she drove her ass back against the thick cocks invading her pussy and asshole. She could feel her elves nearing their release as they had all stopped talking now and their breathing quickened.

“Tell... tell us how much you love our cocks,” The elf beneath her yelled.

Selene pulled her mouth from the thick cock in her throat, her hand immediately reaching up to continue stroking the huge elf cock. “Yes! Yes! I love your cocks! Fuck me! Fill me with your cum!” She screamed.

“You’ll do anything for us won’t you?”

“God yes anything! Fuck me! Fuck my pussy and ass! Fuck me please!”

“You’ll help us escape won’t you bitch, to get off this station!” The elf fucking her ass drove his cock into her deeply with that question, causing Selene’s eyes to roll back in her head as another orgasm erupted from her.

“Yes! Yes! Anything! More! Give me more!” She screamed. Selene replaced her pumping hand with her mouth once more and without a second thought plunged her lips down around the elf cock until they anchored at the base of the pulsing monster.

“Yeah! I’m cumming Alliance whore! Drink it all down, every fucking drop!” The elf yelled gripping her head even tighter as his neck muscles stretched with the strain of holding back the intense orgasm her warm throat and lips were about to give him. Selene reached up to grip his cum filled balls and she groaned loudly as she felt his cum rise through the hard shaft and he erupted deep in her throat, and set fire to her belly as she swallowed it down.

Selene’s pussy and ass clamped down on the cocks inside her as she yanked her mouth from the exploding cock and squealed like a stuck pig as she felt both the elves fucking her ram into her deeply one last time and explode within her body. The spasming cock in her hand was blasting the thick cum all over her face, some of it shooting into her open mouth and her sexually charged mind found herself relishing the taste as she drank it down eagerly, while more of his cum splattered on her face and dripped down to her large tits.

The two elves fucking her were rigid now, their muscular bodies pressed tightly against her own as they filled her with their hot cum. It was unlike anything she had ever experienced, as a supremely warm sensation spread through her as their boiling hot cum blasted inside her like two uncontrollable hoses reaching places she never knew existed. And like the whore they called her, she lapped away at the erupting cock in her hand as it sent stream after stream of the delicious tasting cum into her mouth and all over her beautiful face.

It took nearly a minute before their cocks were drained, and Selene felt bloated from their thick juices filling her every female hole, yet she was wonderfully satisfied as never before. Her body felt hot and her nipples were harder than she had ever remembered them being. Her mind kept telling her what she was doing was wrong somehow, yet another part was telling her to beg for more. She turned her now cum drenched face to watch as the elf behind her withdrew his softening cock from her stretched asshole, leaving her feeling empty. She held tightly to the largest of the elves, turning back to bath the wonderful cock in her face with her tongue. The elf beneath her lifted her and withdrew his cock from her pussy, the copious amount of his juices pouring out of her mixed with her own sweet liquids. She was unaware of him extracting himself from her body as she devoted all her attention on the large cock in front of her, unwilling to release it from her grasp. She looked up into the elf’s face, seeing his handsome features for the first time.

“I want... I want more.” She gasped. “I’ll do... I’ll do anything you ask. Just give me more of this.” She said hefting the now hardening cock in her hand.

The elf standing in front of her while she lapped away at his cock smiled. “Anything you want Minister.” He said.

William shut off the monitor and turned to where Minister’s Deval and Wiseman and Colonel Marcus sat in the chairs across from his desk, half a dozen weapons trained on them from every angle in his office. He turned in the chair and looked at the men. Senator Graham sat on the couch along the side of the room, his face dark in anger.

“Is this the way the Alliance rewards our friendship Minister Deval?” Wallace asked him, “You reward us by Minister Torcrum consorting like a common whore and offering to help our slaves escape this station while they are gang banging her pretty ass?”

“Where is Selene?” Deval demanded.

“I have her in the brig!” Wallace answered. “And the elves that took part in this little tryst were executed an hour ago!”

“I demand to speak with her!” Deval spoke.

“We undertook this relationship with the Alliance under the pretense of friendship!” Graham spoke now getting to his feet. “This is how you repay our friendship, by conspiring to help our slaves escape?”

“I assure you Senator Graham I had no knowledge of this prior to this meeting.” Deval defended himself.

“One of your Ministers is caught sneaking into the slave quarters for a little four way fun with elves and you don’t know about it?” William spoke. “Why do I find that hard to believe?”

Marcus looked around the office slowly, his mind calculating options and ways to get out of this.

“Senator I had no idea that Selene... that Selene was sympathetic to elves! I assure you this is as new to me as it is to you.” Deval said. “She... she does not represent the Alliance stance on our relationship with EDEN.”

William looked at Marcus from behind his desk. “Go ahead Colonel.” He spoke, his words filled with a cold finality to them. “One twitch from you and my men will fill you with so many holes; you’ll look like a piece of old Swiss cheese. So many holes in fact, it will be far more than your genetically enhanced elf healing system will be able to handle.”

Marcus glared at William from his chair. “This is not something we were aware of!” He growled. “How can you hold us accountable?”

“So you are saying that you knew nothing of Minister Torcrum’s obvious carnal tendencies towards elves?” William spoke.

Deval nodded. “That is what we are telling you Admiral.” He echoed Marcus. “She... she has succeeded in fooling us all it appears.” His voice was laced with anger. He looked at Graham. “Richard... I assure you this incident is not... this is not something... do with her as you wish... but I urge you not to take this as a sign of how we view EDEN and our mutual arrangements.”

“We will put her on trial.” Graham spoke.

Deval nodded. “Do whatever you feel is necessary, but please do not let this come between us. I implore you.”

Graham looked at him for a long moment. “Perhaps we should discuss this somewhere more comfortable.” He said.

“I wish to see Selene.” Marcus growled.

“I’m afraid that is out of the question.” Graham spoke.

William got to his feet. “I think in the spirit of our mutual arrangements we can allow that Senator.” He said. “You can view her through a partition, but I don’t think allowing you access to her cell is wise.”

“Why is that?” Marcus asked as he stood.

William’s smile was cruel. “It’s simple really, because I want to kill her myself. I abhor traitors.” He told them. “And I would prefer you did not take that pleasure from me.”

“What makes you think that is my intent?” Marcus spoke.

“Colonel Marcus, you are just like me. You’ve been betrayed before and you have an intense hatred for people who fuck you over.” Wallace answered. “I’ll send you a video copy of her execution as soon as she is convicted and sentenced.”

Dan, Radama, the Master Chief and the very attractive dark haired elf were clustered around the plot table with Leland and Vengal. The four of them wore black high pressure suits under their desert fatigues, their faces blacked out with paint. All of them wore HK74's that dangled from quick release straps and an assortment of side arms and other nasty killing tools. There were roughly nine others in the back of the Raptor, all of them relaxing comfortably and several even sleeping.

Dan pointed to the map of the old Nellis Air Force Base northeast of Las Vegas. "This is our impact point." Dan spoke. "This is the easternmost point of the old base and infra reds show it to be abandoned. From here we'll move west until we reach the edge of the city."

Leland leaned forward. "You should enter here at the northern gate. There is much more foot traffic and security is not as heavy."

"How do we find Anuk once we are within the city?" Leena asked. "There are at least twenty slave centers within the city proper. We don't know which one she was taken too."

"The elves we talked too said one of the Hoppers they used had a bad motivator." Radama answered. "We used a recon Raptor to do a passive sonic frequency scan on the three roads they would have used. We isolated the signal and tracked the Hopper to this facility." He touched the map and the aerial view of the city came up and the large building turned red in the lower corner."

"That's the old Palazzo Casino Dan." The Master Chief spoke up.

Danny nodded. "Yeah... and from what the scans could tell us, it's loaded with people."

"The Palazzo Center Casino is operated by one of the largest gangs in Las Vegas." Leland spoke. "They call themselves The Skulls. They are exceptionally bright and skilled with their security measures."

"They aren't too good at giving themselves a name." Dan said with a smile. "That's got to be one of the dumbest gang names I've ever heard."

"Do not be fooled by their name Daniel." Leland spoke. "We have an extensive file on their operation and all their main members. They can be exceptionally brutal when they need to be. Slaves have known to disappear for hours and if they return they are never the same."

"I haven't met a security system yet that I couldn't breach." Tony told them. "That won't be a problem."

Leland held out the documents to them. "These papers identify you as Slave buyers from New Miami. All of them are quite accurate."

Dan looked at the papers. "What happened to the real owners?" He asked.

Leland's smile was not pretty. "They made the mistake of stumbling across one of our supply routes and thought they would take the entire convoy captive." He explained. "Dysea took great offense at this."

Dan chuckled. "Yeah I just bet she did."

"We've had two members of a human group sympathetic to us posing as them for several years now. They have been assisting us in running a very lucrative black market trading center, and in the process they are able to help an average of fifty to sixty slaves escape to freedom each year." Leland spoke. "I was able to contact them and they have agreed to remain out of site for a few days while we conduct this mission."

"This will get us into the slave center?" Dan asked.

Leland nodded, "With no questions."

"Ok... that covers me and Tony here, but what about our partners?" Dan asked. "I don't envy leaving Radama and Leena here sitting out in the open with no cover and no support."

"They will remain in the room that is reserved in your assumed names at the Palazzo Hotel." Vengal told them. "We have many contacts within the bowels of the operations portion of the hotel, and it was a simple matter to crack into their system and reserve you two very elegant suites."

Dan's dark eyes smiled in the dim light of the Raptor. "I've never stayed in a suite before." He said.

Vengal removed something from his jacket and held it out to Dan. "Martin requested that I give you these." He said holding out the picture and small piece of cloth. They belonged to Anuk, and I have carried them since she was lost."

Dan took the picture and the scarf. He brought the scarf to his face and inhaled deeply of the silk fabric. Dan felt himself become lightheaded for a moment and stars sprang into his eyes as he smelled the scarf. He pulled it away slowly and stared at the soft red fabric for a long moment.

"Daniel you seem distracted, are you ok?" Radama asked.

Dan shook his head quickly and nodded. "I'm fine." He spoke quickly. "It must be the altitude." He brought up the photo of Vengal's daughter and gazed at it for a long moment. He took in the long rust colored shade of red hair, and the Cerulean blue eyes and Dan felt his heart begin to beat much faster. He looked at Vengal. "This is your daughter?" He asked finally.

Vengal nodded. "Anuk is my youngest yes. She would have celebrated her one hundred and twenty-first year only last month."

"Man... I'm glad she didn't turn out looking like you." Dan said.

This brought a smile to Vengal's face and the others chuckled. "She does take after her mother." Vengal finally spoke behind his smile.

Dan tucked the picture and scarf into his fatigue top and turned back to the map. "Ok... we get in, find her, snatch her and make our way to Nellis for extraction. Leland... you and the General will be waiting for us here."

Leland nodded. "Martin asked that we use the time to do a thorough scouting of Nellis." He said. "Cathy will be monitoring the radio at all times should you need to extract quickly."

"That works for me." Dan said. "Leena... since you've never done a hard drop before, you'll be riding down with the Master Chief here. Hope you don't mind cramped quarters for a short time?"

Leena shook her head looking at Tony. "I will endure." She answered.

"If he gets fresh... you have my permission to kick him square in the gonads when we land. Not before though, or you might crash." Dan said with a smile.

Leena looked at Tony with her dark eyes and smiled. "I don't believe there will be any problems." She said.

"Not from me!" Tony spoke. "I like my balls just as they are."

"Yeah," Dan said, "Perpetually empty and underused."

"Hey that's not fair!" The Master Chief exclaimed.

Vengal listened to the laughter in the Raptor and once more he could only be amazed at the camaraderie that Martin Hunter had instilled in those who chose to follow him.

Martin waited until the last of the armored Hoppers and Scorpion tanks had pulled out with Anja in command. Julie had departed two hours earlier with all but one of the MLRS 300II mobile launcher batteries and the nine Scorpion tanks that would travel with Anja's group. A single battery of 300IIs remained with Martin's command, as well as twelve of the Scorpion tanks and a full battalion of ground troops that would ride the armored Hoppers that remained on the airfield with him. He walked the perimeter of the airfield, now considerably less busy with the evacuation of the rescued humans and elves. All of them had been transported back to Eden and would be held in a secure facility with every comfort provided to them until such time as it was determined they were not in fact spies of the Alliance. Martin's Intelligence Division used very elaborate and very accurate lie detector tests on everyone coming to Eden. Some criminals had attempted to enter Eden with new identities in order to set up an organized crime ring. They were discovered within hours and never heard from again.

Martin moved finally moved to the terminal where most of his battalion was settled in. He walked among them as they sat in small groups talking and joking while sharing coffee and rations. He moved to the office his command team had procured for him and stepped through the door, closing it behind him. He dropped his combat vest and weapon onto the chair and turned to go into the larger room of the office, only to have Dysea appear before him as quiet as a ghost. Martin noticed immediately that all she wore was the fatigue top, and she was naked underneath it. He inhaled deeply and could smell her excitement in the enclosed space of the small room.

"I have waited long enough Nauta Melme." She spoke in a husky voice stepping close to him and pressing her body against his, all the while never breaking eye contact with him. "I need you now!"

Dysea gasped as his arms engulfed her and lifted her into the air while his lips came down over hers hungrily. Dysea's eyes changed almost immediately, her fangs extending to their full length as Martin pinned her against the nearest wall and plunged his tongue between her lips in a toe curling kiss that caused her body to ignite. She could feel his fangs lengthen within their kiss, their tongues dancing to a seductive tune only they could hear. She felt Martin lift her naked legs along his hips, and broke their kiss as he began to strip out of his fatigues, holding her against the wall with only his powerful legs. Dysea helped him, tearing at the thin t-shirt he wore, ripping it down the front with a powerful yank exposing his broad beautiful chest to her hungry eyes.

Dysea placed her hands flat against his skin, caressing the wonderfully sculpted muscles of his chest and abdomen and causing Martin to stop moving as he was content to watch her explore. She was still somewhat in awe of Martin's size. His six foot two frame towered over her own five foot seven inch body, easily outweighing her by over a hundred pounds. She traced the numerous scars on his chest and rippled abdomen with her fingers, smiling as his stomach clenched at her soft touch. Dysea had always been strong willed and independent, and even as a child growing up she had pushed her parents to their limits of tolerance. When she became Queen she had never contemplated having a man in her life, yet now as her hands caressed Martin's skin, she could not imagine life without him. He could crush her easily; all of her deadly skills would be useless against him, no matter what she tried, and it amazed her at how gentle and soft his hands were when caressing her skin or holding her in his arms. As small as her frame was, she fit into his arms like the fingers of a glove, and she relished the feeling of his powerful arms wrapped around her. When she lay in his arms, fear and doubt became something she was unfamiliar with.

The first time Martin had taken her in that cave with Tarifa, she had been filled with fear at his enormous size. She had never seen such a specimen of manhood such as Martin had. He had been so gentle and loving, and she remember how she had quickly grown accustom to his size due to the quantity of her own passion that he caused to escape her pussy. His delicious cock had given her experiences unlike any she had ever imagined, filling her to the point where she thought she would split apart, and causing immense orgasms to pulsate through her body, shaking her to her very core. Dysea knew she could not love another man as she loved Nauta Melme. They were joined in a way she doubted the Holy One had foreseen, by not only physical love, but also by a deep abiding sense of passion and want of each other. She had seen and experienced his compassion for others, his desire to help and make things better for all. She had also witnessed just how brutal and savage he could be if he considered you his enemy.

Dysea looked up into his face and saw his yellow black eyes gazing back at her, eyes that looked upon her with undisguised love. Dysea lowered her head to his chest, her lips wrapping around his nipple as she felt him begin yanking at his pants once more. His hand took a fistful of her soft platinum hair and he pulled her head up gently so that he could see her beautiful emerald and black orbs.

"I like what you have done with your hair Melda Min." He told her with a smile as his tongue danced across her lips.

Dysea whimpered as he teased her, trying to catch his tongue between her lips. She felt his other hand tear open the fatigue top she wore and toss it to the ground, freeing her large firm breasts to his gaze. Martin looked at her large breasts with lust and hunger, the tattoos adorning her body only serving to increase her beauty in his eyes and increase his excitement further. Dysea grasped his face tightly and pulled his lips close to her, staring into his now yellow and black eyes.

"Do not tease me Nauta Melme, I beg you." She hissed at him. "I have hungered to feel you inside me for days."

"Tarifa did not sate your appetite." Martin asked with a small smile as he drew his tongue along her neck and tickled the bottom of her elfin ear.

"She sated my appetite for her yes!" Dysea exclaimed her fingers digging into his broad shoulders as his tongue danced across the most sensitive spot on her elfin ears. "But she could not help my appetite for this!"

Martin's eyes shut tightly as Dysea's hands dropped between their bodies and wrapped around his savagely hard twelve inch cock.

"Take me Nauta Melme!" Dysea gasped into his ear while guiding the head of his huge pole to her opening. Dysea was already so excited, her juices were pouring from her and it was a small matter to line up the head of his cock with her soft pussy lips. "Take me now!"

Dysea's eyes opened wide as she positioned the head just inside her tight opening and she felt Martin thrust. A noiseless scream escaped her lips as her head flew back, banging against the wall as her beloved sank every delicious inch of his impossibly thick manhood into her in one powerful stroke. Dysea came immediately, and she came hard, her body going rigid in his arms as her sugary fluids splashed wetly from her spasming pussy coating her beloved's massive cock. Her arms went quickly around his powerful shoulders as he buried his face in the crook of her shoulder and neck, his lips fastening onto her skin and he began to make love to her with deep and magnificently powerful twelve inch strokes. His hands filled with her flawlessly formed ass cheeks and he used her firm body to assist him in possessing her very soul. Dysea covered the side of his face and his neck with soft kisses of love and delight, her body quaking with wondrous waves of bliss on every plunge he made into her depths. She gasped words of love into his ear each time he sank home, bottoming out inside her completely and causing her to have mini orgasms on every breath stealing plunge. He was making love to her like a man possessed, his arms crushing her to him, his fangs nibbling on her neck and shoulder almost to the point of pain.

Dysea couldn't contain herself anymore, and took his head in her hands, pulling his face from her neck. She gasped each time he stroked into her, and she looked deeply into his yellow black eyes, seeing all she had ever dreamed she would see in a man's eyes as he possessed her very soul; adoration, love, passion and an overwhelming sense of need.

"By... by the gods... Nauta Melme... kiss me please!" She screamed now, not caring if anyone heard her.

Martin did just that, covering her soft lips with his own and plunging his tongue down her throat. Dysea's eyes flew open when she felt his thick shaft expand even further inside her, stretching the walls of her exceptionally tight pussy more so than she could remember. Even locked in the kiss with Martin as she was, she knew what this meant. She felt Martin's hard muscular body stiffen, and his huge manhood grew impossibly larger inside her as his boiling hot cum raced up the length of his manhood and erupted deep into her womb with a force that sent her over the edge herself. Dysea screamed even louder if that was possible as she felt her beloved's essence filling her. Her sweet juices poured from her, soaking his erupting cock deep within her and splashing wetly upon their thighs as it leaked out around his firmly seated cock.

It was at least a minute before Martin slumped against her, pinning them both against the wall, the last remnants of his essence spilling into her. His lips descended to her rock hard nipples and he lovingly traced the nipples with his talented tongue, drawing small circles around them, keeping them as hard as rocks. Dysea pulled his face up to hers and looked at him with black around emerald eyes, eyes full of her adoration and love for him.

"You... you truly... truly missed me Nauta Melme." She gasped as her chest heaved, pressing her large breasts against the burning skin of his chest.

Martin leaned forward, kissing her lips softly. "You have no idea Melda Min." He said in a half whisper.

"I too missed you Nauta Melme." She said softly. "It seems I can not be long from your arms before the desire for you almost exceeds my control. Are you finished ravaging me, or do I have more to look forward too?" She asked, her eyes promising endless pleasures.

Martin brought his lips to within centimeters of hers. "Oh there is much more, Melda Min, much more." He said before covering her lips with his own and pulling her away from the wall. Dysea gasped against his lips as she sank even deeper onto his still hard manhood and he held her there in delightful agony before turning and heading for the small couch in the office.

MOUNTAIN CITY

"Do we know who conducted the attack?" Telan's father asked from the vid phone screen.

Telan shook his head. "No. The Drow assassin spoke of a female leader however, with platinum hair."

The older version of Telan leaned forward in the chair he sat in from the elf city of Pacifica. "Platinum hair you say?" He spoke. "You suspect the Wood Elf Queen?"

Telan shrugged. "It's possible father." He replied. "Perhaps she returned for revenge, or perhaps it was just a coincidence. The Drow whore wants double her original price to buy her silence. I told her I needed to speak with you."

Anlain thought quickly, options going through his keen mind. "Pay her what she wants." He said finally. "I would rather have her keeping an eye on the High Elf wench, and then we can watch both of them. I will have some people look into this female the Drow spoke of. There has been no accurate information on where the Wood Elf whore disappeared too. Only that she went with the genome Hunter. What else did the Drow wench say?"

"She spoke of Tarifa visiting her grandmother and something about how her grandmother performed a procedure of some sort to increase her desire for me." Telan spoke.

"What procedure?" Anlain asked.

Telan shook his head. "I have not seen Tarifa since returning, so I don't know. I was going to see her after speaking with you."

"Palina's mother is an old fashioned elf." Anlain spoke thoughtfully. "We may have an unwitting ally on our side. If she convinced Tarifa to be more receptive to your advances... that will only work in our favor. She is still taking the drugs?"

Telan nodded. "The Drow was positive about that. And she still believes them to be a contraceptive."

"We'll have to adjust that if her grandmother has convinced her to accept you." Anlain spoke.

"Whatever her grandmother has done I want to know about it. What about Tareif?"

"He has returned to his home. Palina greeted him when he arrived, apparently to reconcile their differences." Telan said. "I found this odd father, considering what happened between them."

Anlain nodded, "As do I." He said. "Keep a close watch on her. I am not as concerned about Palina as her influence has dwindled to practically nothing since your mother has started visiting the different elf cities and taken part in official functions. She may however, still have enough pull to cause delays in our timetable."

"I'll assign two of our finest agents to watch her." Telan spoke.

"Impregnate Tarifa quickly Telan." Anlain said. "Bed her as often as your duties allow, but you must not keep her from acting as Queen. The drugs will allow us to control her to a degree, but her actions must appear normal."

"I understand father." Telan said. "And I will enjoy fucking her every opportunity I get."

Anlain smiled. "That's my boy. Contact me if the need arises."

That conversation had taken place three hours ago, and now Telan was emptying his sperm into Tarifa for the second time in less than an hour. He had discovered the procedure her grandmother had performed in the shape of the glittering sapphire piercing of her clit. Tarifa had seemed more docile and receptive towards him, but not fully convinced. However, once he began to pound his cock into her, she became putty in his hands due to her grandmother's gift. The piercing must have made her extra sensitive, and Tarifa had clutched at his shoulders and whispered urgings to him as he had fucked her. Unlike the other times he had taken her, she had become very wet and allowed easy penetration into her center. The warmth and tightness of her pussy had driven him crazy and his only thoughts were of relieving himself in her, giving no thought to Tarifa's pleasure, and not even noticing that her eyes were tightly shut as he grunted into her.

Tarifa's eyes were tightly shut only because she was imagining it was Martin taking her and not Telan. It took only a few thoughts of what she had shared with Martin before he left, and the size of his manhood and what it made her feel and her pussy was soaked. It allowed Telan to thrust easily into her, grunting and slobbering the whole time, while Tarifa imagined it was Martin. This is why she clutched at Telan's shoulders after she was wet enough and whispered into his ear in supposed passion. His touch made her want to vomit, and his ridiculous cock was not even half of what Martin gave to her. (Heart) She played the game well, urging him on, clenching her tight pussy around his small tool. He could not even get a decent motion going as he kept slipping out of her. Tarifa would quickly grab his small manhood and angle him back into her opening, all the while still pretending he was actually pleasing her.

Tarifa finally threw her head back in a mock orgasm as Telan emptied himself into her for the second time. He lifted himself with his arms and watched her face contort in a supremely well orchestrated fake orgasm. He collapsed onto her, his male pride at finally getting Tarifa to respond to him already taking over.

"I... I told you it would become better." He gasped.

Tarifa opened her eyes and gazed at him with a staged look of satisfied pleasure and ambiguity.

"Telan... I... I..."

Telan rolled off her naked body and slipped his hand down her smooth abdomen, roughly pawing her pussy and touching the sapphire piercing. "This was your grandmother's idea huh?" He asked.

Tarifa nodded shyly. "She thought... she thought it would help." She answered.

Telan looked at her. "I am not a bad man Tarifa." He said. "If you will allow me to show you, I can provide you all that you will ever need."

"I... I do not wish to be enemies." Tarifa spoke softly.

"Then you will try?" Telan asked her.

"I can promise nothing Telan... only that my heart is no longer held by another. I will need time... and I will need you to treat me as a wife... not a trophy." Tarifa said.

Telan looked into her eyes, attempting to see some deception, but he saw nothing but honesty. He nodded slowly. "I... I will do my best." He answered.

Tarifa reached up and stroked his cheek. "That is all I can ask." She said. "And I will do the same. Perhaps in time something true will come of this relationship."

"Do you wish me to leave?" He asked.

Tarifa nodded. "This is your home as well, and your bed. We will need to learn to share it as we share our lives."

Telan nodded and rested his head on the pillow as he lay next to her. Tarifa waited until he was asleep before climbing from the bed and moving quickly into the bathroom. She had prepared a tub of boiling hot water before he had arrived and because of the time that had passed, it was perfect now. She lowered her body into the steaming water, and with almost frantic motions began to wash away Telan's disgusting residue from her body, inside and out.

"I admire your strength." Aihola's voice caused her to stop and turn in the water and she watched Aihola appear from the shadow in the corner of the large room.

Tarifa ran the large sponge down her arm slowly this time and shook her head. "What the females in the lower city see in him I do not know." She snapped. "The man drools like a hog, and his cock would not please even the most inexperienced of them."

"Mind your words Tarifa." Aihola warned stepping closer. "You might wake him."

Tarifa looked up at her and noticed now that she wore a simple white dress that hugged her luscious body, dipping low between her high breasts and revealing her deep dark cleavage. Her nipples protruded against the thin fabric, and Tarifa inhaled catching the faint scent of Cherry Blossoms in the air. She smiled seductively at her. "I slipped him a sleeping agent when I first allowed him to kiss me. He will not wake until the morning, and he will be full of himself when he does. Two can play the game he has begun." She moved over to the side of the large hot tub and looked up at Aihola. "Do you always wear such attire to spy on me Aihola?"

"The... night is warm." Aihola responded too slowly as she gazed at Tarifa's naked body in the water. "I was coming here to use the tub when you came in."

Tarifa smiled and motioned for her to come into the water. "It is just right, and there is more than enough room." She said.

"You told me..." Aihola started.

"Do not worry Aihola." Tarifa spoke to her with a warm smile. "As much as I would like to taste you once more after seeing you dressed like that, you have nothing to fear. Unlike Telan, I do have a great deal of self control, and I told you I would do nothing to make you feel uncomfortable." Tarifa motioned again to the hot tub. "Join me please. We only need talk."

Aihola looked at her. "Talk of what?"

"You can tell me of your life before we met." Tarifa offered. "Or we can speak of the boring intricacies of politics."

Aihola gazed at Tarifa for a long moment before making the decision that would forever change her life. She reached up and untied the dress, allowing it to fall around her ankles, exposing her body for Tarifa to gaze at. Tarifa smiled and moved to the other side of the hot tub out of respect for her and simply watched as she lowered her glorious ebony body into the water. Aihola's body was much more muscular than her own, or even Dysea's lean frame. Her abdomen was wash board flat and very well defined, the muscles rippling under the smooth skin and glistening now with water as the soft triangle of white hair above her sweet pussy disappeared under the surface. Tarifa watched as she settled onto the bench in the tub, the level of the water just barely covering her full firm breasts. Tarifa's gaze settled on Aihola's amber eyes and she turned to pour two glasses of wine from the tray next to the tub. She held one out for Aihola, who took it with a nod of thanks.

“So... tell me,” Tarifa said. “Tell me of your life before you came here Aihola of the Drow Family Anatyla. In the passion of the moment with Dysea and I a few days ago, you called out the name Tari.” Tarifa smiled at Aihola’s embarrassed glance at the water. “Tell me about him, is he someone you care for?” Aihola met her eyes again. “He was my Commander... and my brother.”

MOON BASE EDEN

Anisa approached William from behind as he gazed out the large window in his quarters, his hands clasped behind his back. She hesitated behind him, unsure if she should disturb him. He had been standing there for almost an hour simply staring out in to the stars. Anisa turned to go into the small kitchen and his words stopped her.

“Don’t leave.” He spoke softly.

Anisa stopped and turned back around. “I didn’t... I didn’t want to disturb you Nya Cundu.”

William turned to look at her. “That is not something you could ever do Anisa.” He said with a warm sincere smile.

“Minister Deval and the others have departed.” Anisa told him, moving closer to him now.

William nodded. “Yes I watched their Raptor depart. They made the deal we wanted.” He said. “And I believe they will keep up their end of the bargain.”

“They fear you William.” Anisa said softly, “Marcus especially. It was in his eyes.”

“I hope that fear buys us the time we need.” He replied.

“You... you don’t like the way we handled Minister Torcrum?” Anisa asked.

“I will do what is necessary to protect you and the others on this station, but no... I don’t like meddling with people’s minds or controlling their actions. I should have known Graham would have people inside. Having her raped was not part of our plan.” He answered.

“It was the only way William, and it was not something we planned no, but it worked in our favor regardless.” Anisa said moving up to him and taking his hands in hers. “If we had not done what we did, she would have eventually told them everything she heard.”

“I know.” He said. “That doesn’t mean I have to like it.”

Anisa nodded, “If it is any consolation, one of the men who... one of the men who took her have volunteered to watch over and care for her. The effects of the drug will wear off in a few days, and she will discover what happened.”

“And then she will become an enemy prisoner.” William said, “A prisoner inside our base that will try everything within her power to either escape or get word back to her superiors.”

“They will not believe her.” Anisa said. “Not after viewing what they did.”

“You’re probably right, but now all we have to do is convince her that we did her a favor, and we weren’t the ones who had her raped.” William spoke, not believing for a moment that they would be able to accomplish that.

“Why does this bother you so William?” She asked him.

“I don’t like manipulating people for evil purposes.” He answered. “I know why we did what we did, but it was still manipulation on a grand scale. We used her rape as a controlling means. And it is something I swore I would never take part in because... because it was done to me and Martin and all the others on an even grander scale.” He looked at her beautiful face and met her dark eyes. “I should not have gotten involved with you in such a personal way. Now I have made you into something that you don’t understand.”

“Then make me understand William.” Anisa told him, her voice carrying a tinge of anger in it. “Explain it to me. I do not regret one moment of our relationship! Not one! Do you now mean to say that you do?”

William looked at her wide eyed. “What? No Anisa... that isn’t what I meant!”

“Then tell me! Share with me what is happening inside me!” Anisa told him forcefully. “I will not run away from you William, no matter what you think you are.”

“It’s not what I think I am Anisa... it’s what I know I am.” He exclaimed.

“What are you?”

“I’m something very different Anisa.” William said. “And that is only the half of it.”

Anisa stepped right up to him now and took his hands in hers. “Tell me William.” She spoke softly, looking into his weathered face. He was not handsome in such a way to turn heads, his was a rugged handsomeness that you only discovered after you witnessed what was inside his heart.

William looked at her for a long moment before taking a deep breath. “Do you know what a werewolf is?”

Anisa’s hand went to her chest, “Nauro?” She said in disbelief. (Werewolf) “Yes... yes I know what they are? They are the stories parents tell their children when they are small.”

Wallace nodded. “That they are.” He spoke. “And they are also very true.”

Anisa laughed at him. “William you jest with me.” She said her face becoming serious as he stared at her with his eyes. “Don’t you?”

LAS VEGAS

Danny stood on the balcony of the forty-second floor of the Palazzo Hotel and looked out over the skyline of Las Vegas. He could see the Venetian Hotel nearby as well as at least a half dozen other hotels up and down what was once Las Vegas strip. Much of the area around the assorted hotels was occupied by shanty towns of home made shacks and even some tents. There were hundreds of Hoppers moving up and down the large strip, and even more in the few parking garages he saw.

The drop had gone off without a hitch, as well as their entrance into the city. The guards at the checkpoint did not question Radama and Leena with them, obviously assuming they were slaves of one sort or another. They also did not question the large crate that was in the back of their commandeered Hopper, which carried an assortment of weapons and other nasty surprises. They had checked into the Palazzo Hotel with little trouble and been escorted to their rooms.

Dan turned as Tony, Leena and Radama joined him on the balcony. “Why weren’t the buildings here destroyed by the Great Fire?”

“Many of them were.” Leena replied as she came to the railing. “From what I understand the Great Fire affected many of the cities differently. The buildings here were built to last and sustain damage from earthquakes and the fires that could possibly happen as a result. For reasons that no one has been able to answer, the fires in the sky did not burn as hot in this part of the land. The result was that the buildings remained standing while the people died.”

Dan looked at Tony. “Kind of killed it as a resort town huh?” He said with a grin.

“It seems to be bouncing back well enough Dan.” Tony said.

Dan’s eyes narrowed. “Yeah well I ain’t much for slave trading. We’ll have to put this place near the top of our list of slum holes to come clean out.”

“There is much Alliance influence here.” Leena spoke. “They invest heavily in the slave auctions held here. Every major auction has at least one or two Alliance officials in attendance.”

“That’s good information.” Dan said.

“The auction begins in six hours.” Leena spoke. “We should rest and prepare.”

Dan nodded, “That we should.”

They returned to the interior of the suite, and while not as lavish as hotel suites that Dan had seen in the past, the suite was definitely more lavish than anything he had seen up until this point since they had returned to earth.

Leena went to the small table between the couches and picked up some data discs. “A table has been reserved for you near the front of the room and close to the auction center. You’re sure Anuk is here?”

Dan nodded. “I smelled her when we came into the lobby.” He answered. “By my estimates she was within five hundred meters.”

Leena nodded. “That fits, the slave holding cells are on basement sublevel three.” She spoke.

“So how does this work?” Dan asked.

“They will show the slaves today only.” Leena answered. “They will parade them around the center, allowing everyone to get a good look. Once that is done, they will allow a select few buyers purchase the slaves for the evening to try them out.”

“Try them out?” Tony barked. “Jesus this place makes me angrier and angrier.”

“Only the most beautiful of the female elves will be sold for the night, and only to a buyer that shows quite an interest in them. The Skulls will be watching everything, so when you see her as they walk them around the room, make a show of inspecting her thoroughly. Once the walk through is complete, they will take bids for the elf’s services for the night.” Leena told them. “The account we have access too has twenty-two thousand Alliance credits in it, and that should be ample for our purposes.”

Dan shook his head. “I’ll use the account we have set up.” He told her.

Leena looked at him, her eyes narrowing. “This account is quite sufficient.” She said.

“I’m not saying it isn’t, but the identities of the two guys we are impersonating says they are players right?” Dan said.

“I don’t understand. What do you mean players?”

“They run a major black market network right?” Dan asked.

Leena nodded. “Yes.” She answered. “They funnel the credits back through channels and it ends up in an account that is used by my people.”

“And you sent our information ahead so they know we’re coming?” Dan said.

“Of course we did!” Leena replied testily.

“What would look more suspicious to you Leena?” Dan asked, “Given our position and seeing an account with twenty-two thousand credits in it, or an account with four million credits in it.”

Leena looked at Radama. “We don’t have access to those kinds of funds Daniel.” She spoke.

Dan nodded. “But we do.” Dan said holding up the credit chip. “Like you... we’ve also set up a network that brings in illicit funds. We call it a black bag fund, just for operations like this.”

“How were you able to set this up?” Leena asked. “It took us eight months to channel this many credits into this account.”

Dan smiled. “Let’s just say we have a rich uncle.” He spoke.

“A rich uncle,” Leena spoke. “I don’t understand.”

“It’s a figure of speech Leena.” Tony explained to her. “We have access to larger amounts of Alliance credits, and it’s safer for your network if we use that.”

“How were you able to obtain them?” Leena asked.

“It’s better if you don’t know.” Dan said moving to the large crate they had brought with them. “Let’s see what toys we can bring to the party.”

SOUTHEAST OF CEDAR CITY UTAH DIXIE NATIONAL FOREST OLD ROUTE 143

Tari and Lynwe rested on the thickly forested ridge overlooking the lone road twisting through the Dixie National Forest. Old Route 143 was the only road that was still passable in the mountains, and it gave a direct connection to Old Interstate 89 which would lead those they were watching directly back home. They counted dozens of armored Hoppers, a kind they had never seen before, as well as the 300II and the Scorpion Battle Tanks as the miles long convoy snaked through the mountains.

Tari lowered the powerful binoculars he was looking through and looked at Lynwe. “This Martin Hunter is an exceptional tactician.” He said to no one in particular. “Notice how the Hoppers are spaced among the tanks and missile launchers? No two vehicles will be destroyed in any one attack, and the correlation of forces dictates that any part of the convoy will be able to bring maximum firepower to bear on any ambush attempt.”

Lynwe lowered her identical binoculars and nodded. “There is a gunner in every Hopper, and all of them are alert, sweeping their sectors as they move. There are portable anti-personal missile launcher crews on the exterior of every tank and probably in some of the Hoppers.”

Tari nodded. “That does not include the three flying machines we have seen make occasional appearances over the convoy since they left Cedar City.”

“Our scouts reported that Cedar City was destroyed.” Lynwe spoke looking at him as she smiled. “They saw the body of the mercenary leader hanging from a very tall tree near the old university.”

Tari matched Lynwe's smile. "I believe I could grow to like this Martin Hunter quite a bit." He said. "The man does not believe in pulling any punches."

"You know... that's really good to hear." The voice spoke from behind them.

Tari and Lynwe reacted instantly, rolling away from each other, gathering their weapons as they did. Tari rolled to his knees, his rifle coming up just as he felt the cold metal of the gun muzzle placed to his left temple.

"I wouldn't." The voice spoke again. "I haven't had my breakfast this morning, and brains aren't exactly a favorite of mine."

Tari glanced out of the corner of his eye and saw Lynwe in an almost identical position, the long platinum blond hair of the Wood Elf very visible as she held the strange looking automatic to Lynwe's right temple from slightly behind Lynwe's shoulder. He shifted his gaze upward and found himself looking into the face of Martin Hunter, his hand unmoving as it held the K12 pistol against his head. Tari looked around and saw at least a dozen elves rise from the tall grass or appear from behind trees, his own security force disarmed and being prodded forward.

"We are not... we are not your enemy Martin Hunter." Tari said as calmly as he could. In all his years as a soldier, no one had ever been able to sneak up on him or Lynwe without being detected. Not only had Martin Hunter found him and Lynwe, his entire security detachment had been discovered and disarmed. Tari looked into Martin's face, which was neither hostile nor friendly, but completely void of emotion. "We have been escorting a group of humans and elves that we have picked up enroute here from Nebraska. They wanted to join you, as do we."

Martin nodded and squatted down in front of him slowly, the K12 never wavering. "Yes I know. My people have been watching you for two days now." Martin spoke. "You weren't trying to hide very well."

"We did not wish to hide." Tari said. "As I said, we have come to join you. The innocents we picked up during our quest to reach you. We could not leave them to their fates."

"Nauta Melme they carry Alliance weapons." Dysea spoke, her eyes never leaving Lynwe's face.

Tari nodded. "And our uniforms are hidden away in one of our vehicles." He said quickly.

Martin nodded. "Yes I know. We took down your group an hour ago. We found the uniforms."

Tari looked at him astonished. "You captured my entire command? How is that possible, we had no warning?"

Martin nodded. "You'd be surprised how possible some things are."

"You admit you are Alliance soldiers then?" Dysea asked out loud.

Tari gazed at her for a long moment. There was something about this Wood Elf that seemed familiar, and it took only a moment for his keen mind to recall what that was. "I admit we were once Alliance soldiers Queen of the Wood Elves." He answered calmly, and totally at peace with the decision they had made so long ago. "We no longer serve them. All of us have chosen to... change the direction of our lives and we deserted from Alliance service. We despise the Alliance and everything it stands for! We are the last of my people and I would not see them destroyed at the whim of Alliance butchers!"

"This must be the rogue elf company we have been intercepting transmissions about these last months Nauro Ohtar." Ealin spoke from behind Martin. "Marcus himself has been leading the search for them."

"They call... they call you Wolf Warrior?" Tari asked Martin.

Martin lowered his K12 and looked at Tari, "Yeah. Kind of catchy don't you think?"

Tari saw Dysea lower her weapon from Lynwe's head and watched as she stepped away from her until she was next to Martin, but her eyes never left Lynwe, and the K12 remained in her hand. He looked back to Martin. "You believe me?" He asked.

"Let's just say that so far your story checks out." Martin told him. "The civilians that are traveling with your group appear to be in excellent health, and they trust the soldiers you left at your camp. We questioned some briefly, and they said you had been protecting them for over a month as you moved west."

Tari nodded. "We traveled only at night like the slavers do. If we were detected by the Alliance recon drones we would look like a slaver column and they would ignore us."

"How do we know they won't just shoot us Tari?" Lynwe snapped. Dysea's head turned quickly from looking at Lynwe to where Tari stood.

"If I had wanted you dead... you would be dead." Martin spoke. "Don't doubt that for a second."

“Tari?” Dysea asked, looking at him. “Your name is Tari?”

Tari met her eyes. “That is correct.” He replied. “You speak my name as if you have heard it before.”

“Do you know a Drow assassin by the name of Aihola?” Dysea asked.

Tari’s amber colored eyes lit up, “Aihola! You know Aihola? Where is she? Tell me!”

Dysea became hesitant at his excitement and she paused before replying. “How do you know her?”

Dysea asked, almost possessively.

“How do I know her? Aihola is my sister Queen of the Wood Elves. I helped her to escape New Baltimore almost a year ago, and I have not heard from her since.” Tari answered. “You have seen her? Spoken with her?”

Dysea nodded slowly. “Three days ago, in Mountain City.”

“She is alive?” Tari asked.

Dysea nodded, “Very much so.”

Lynwe stepped closer to Tari, her own face somewhat brighter. “Tell us how she is?” Lynwe spoke. “We have not spoken with her in so long.”

Dysea glanced at Martin and she saw him nod his head slowly. Tari and Lynwe both saw this. “What is it?” Tari asked.

Dysea looked at him. “Aihola is in excellent health.” Dysea said. “She is in Mountain City acting as Personal Attendant to the High Elf Queen Tarifa.”

Martin could see the looks of relief on both their faces even though their expressions hardly changed. He could smell the relief that coursed through them at this news, and that was the biggest indicator that perhaps these Drow were not enemies after all.

Perhaps they would be potential allies in the war Martin knew was coming.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

LAS VEGAS

Dan and Tony sat at the small table only four meters from where the large stage was set up. The inside of the auction center was alive with music and filled with hundreds of men and women. The majority of them were humans, the rest the elf employees of the center itself. The female elves were scantily clad in almost transparent dresses, revealing their attributes for all to see as they carried trays of drinks and food to the hundreds of tables in the center. Smoking was obviously allowed and Danny saw dozens of men with thick cigars, and some even holding pipes. All of the slaves working the floor had the standard Alliance drug dispenser attached to the back of their necks. It was really no larger than some of the cell phones that Danny had seen in the 21st century. It was anchored into their skin and the small tube that pumped the drug into their systems was hidden from plain view.

Dan and Tony both swept their eyes across the massive room slowly, taking in all they could see. They each had a small TAP camera attached to their foreheads just above their eyebrows, and the feed from these cameras was going directly back to their suite where Leena was monitoring it with a sophisticated laptop computer set up.

“Leena are you getting this?” Dan asked softly, the noise of the auction center covering his words completely.

“It’s coming in quite clear.” Leena’s voice echoed in his implant. She sounded excited and out of breath.

“What’s wrong?” Dan asked.

“We’ve... we’ve never been able to get pictures like these from inside an auction center Daniel.” Leena replied. “Not with this clarity.”

“We’re going to do slow sweeps of the room. If you see anyone of dubious fame make sure you mark their location and feed us some Intel if you are able.” Dan spoke.

“I’m doing that now.” Leena replied.

“Where’s Radama?”

“He is coordinating with those we have working in the hotel’s operations area.” Leena told him. “He will insure our escape is completely vetted. He is quite thorough... for a High Elf.”

Dan and Tony looked at each other and smiled at the tone of arrogance in her voice. “Do I detect a slight air of superiority in your voice there Leena?” Dan asked.

“Not at all,” Leena answered. “I’m merely stating a fact.”

The music became louder and they saw a man jump up onto the stage. He looked to be in his forties, muscular with just a slight bulge at his waistline. “Welcome! Welcome!” He spoke loudly, his voice carrying through the center.

“Here we go.” Dan spoke.

“That is Ambrose.” Leena’s voice sounded in their ears. “He is the leader of the Skulls, and perhaps the cruelest of them all.”

“He doesn’t look like much.” Tony spoke as he sipped his drink.

“We have confirmed he is responsible for the deaths of at least three hundred and twelve elves and humans.” Leena replied. “The last person to cheat him was flayed alive and then tossed into a pit with two very hungry Grizz beasts.”

“Nice guy.” Tony commented.

“Nice is not a word I would use to describe him Anthony.” Leena spoke, her voice dripping with arrogance once more. “You would do well to listen to me and stick with our mission.”

Dan and Tony looked at one another over the table, Tony making a show of pompous superiority with his face. Dan chuckled as they turned back to listen to the man on the stage.

“We have a new day for you folks!” Ambrose shouted dramatically, “A new day and some outstanding new slaves for your viewing pleasure! My men will be circulating, so if you see anything that perks your interest... or your sex drive... let them know! And here they are!”

The side door to the stage slid open and Dan and Tony watched as three rows of slaves were led out in single file. There looked to be about sixty of them, male and female, the females wearing only a transparent wrap, and the males wore what amounted to a loin cloth. All of them had the drug dispenser attached to the backs of their neck and appeared docile. Danny detected her scent almost immediately in the rush of air the doors provided as they opened. His keen eyes quickly found her in the last row and his eyes grew a little wider. The picture Vengal had given him did not do his daughter justice in the least.

Anuk stood at least five foot eight, her rust colored red hair flowing elegantly over her shoulders to the top of her incredibly firm ass. The wrap did nothing to hide the flat muscular abdomen, or her incredibly firm breasts. Her stiff nipples poked at the transparent wrap, causing Danny to feel a tug in his groin. He admired her long tanned and muscular legs and the perfect “V” they formed at the junction of her crotch, not to mention she had the most incredible ass of any woman he had ever see, muscular and firm and very prominent. Anuk had no hair between her thighs, her womanhood exposed for all to see. She walked with the other slaves as if this was the most normal thing in the world, allowing hundreds of others to gawk at her near naked body, and then Danny noticed her eyes. They were cerulean blue in color, just like the picture Vengal had given him, but they were blank eyes now, no emotion in them whatsoever. Dan knew this was due to the drug, and he felt his anger spike at what had been done to this beautiful young elf.

“I have her.” Dan finally spoke, “Last row, sixth from the end.”

There was a pause and they heard Leena gasp in their ears. “Yes! It’s her... by the gods it’s her! Oh Anuk.”

Danny and Tony both could hear the anguish in Leena’s voice. “Leena...” Tony spoke now. “Stay with us Leena. We need you to pull this off.”

There was a long pause and they looked at each other. “Thank... thank you Anthony.” Her voice came back on the COM. It was stronger now, and more in control. “Thank you for reminding me of our purpose. It... it’s been so long since I have seen her.”

“I know the feeling Leena.” Tony answered. “Just hang with us and we’ll get this done.”

“Ok...” Dan spoke. “I’m going to do my thing. Leena... monitor what I say and guide me if I need it.”

“I’ll be ready.” Leena spoke. “Anthony... can you move to the slave entrance and pass your camera into the rooms beyond? Pictures of the interior of the slave pens could come in useful in the future.”

Tony got as they got to their feet. “I’m on it.”

“Only the wealthiest will be allowed to approach the slaves while they are on show.” Leena told them. “Of which the two of you are as far as the Skulls are concerned. You need to act like it. Be arrogant... be powerful. Daniel... show interest in the others as you make your way to Anuk, do not focus entirely on her until you reach her. Touch the others, inspect them.”

“Touch them?” Dan asked surprised as he moved closer.

“Daniel it is a slave auction. We are considered property.” Leena spoke calmly. “Would you purchase something without first inspecting it? I was under the impression you were an experienced operator.”

“Leena...” Dan started to say.

“As distasteful as it is to you Daniel, you are a man. When was the last time you got to fondle a female without worrying about the consequences? You must do it or we will not succeed.” Leena’s voice echoed in his ear.

“Shit!” Dan swore as he approached the line of slaves with roughly a dozen other men and women.

Danny was aware of the half dozen very serious looking Skulls gang members that surrounded the stage. All of them very heavily armed and watching the men and women who had approached intently. He stepped up to the first female elf, a dark haired beauty and let his eyes linger on her for a moment. Dan was asked to act before in the course of his countless missions with Martin before they had come here, and he drew on that acting now. He detached himself as he reached up and squeezed the elf’s arm and then her thigh. He turned her around, seemingly inspecting her firm breasts, his hands lifting them and measuring them. He tried to move slowly, watching as some of the others also inspected the elves, some even reaching between the elves’ thighs and fondling their most private areas.

Dan skipped over the next two blond elves, making his face show displeasure at them and moved to the next dark haired female elf. He did the same as before, but this time he fondled the female elf as the others had before nodding his head to himself and moving on. It took him six agonizing minutes to move down the line until he came to Anuk. He paused and looked at her from the floor for a long moment, his heart racing as he gazed at her, but keeping his face emotionless and empty. He stepped up to her and turned her around to face him. Her head immediately lowered and she looked at the floor.

“She will not meet your eyes Daniel.” Leena’s voice spoke in his implant. “The drug conditions them to be subservient in every way.”

Dan reached out and ran his hand over Anuk’s leg, squeezing her thigh and feeling the power in them. He had seen others step up onto the stage and he did as well now, towering over her five foot eight height easily. He walked around her twice, squeezing her shoulders and roughly pawing at her breasts. Anuk’s cinnamon scent was filling his head in a rush, causing every nerve ending in his body to ignite. Dan had never felt this way before, not even in the most passionate moments with Julie or Anja. It was like his entire body was alive and on fire. Dan finally lowered his hand to her thighs and as gently as he could he ran his finger along her pussy lips. Dan saw her flinch slightly and wetness coated his finger unexpectedly. He brought his hand away slowly, not wanting to draw attention to himself and nodded his head in approval as he stepped off the stage.

“Motion one of the guards over now.” Leena’s voice told him. “Ask him about her. Do not move directly into asking about money, he will become suspicious. Tell him you find her interesting. Let him lead you into talk of cost.”

Dan found the nearest guard and motioned him over. The man looked at a data pad that he carried and then walked over to the hulking black man.

“What can I do for you Mister Williams?” The man asked respectfully.

“This wench here,” Dan spoke motioning to Anuk. “I find her interesting.” He used the key word that Leena had told him to use and watched as the guard nodded.

“Of course sir,” The man spoke. He looked at his data pad once more. “She is a rare find if I do say so myself sir. I was one of the lucky ones allowed to break her in when she arrived. You will have to use lubrication however, as it appears she does not respond well enough to stimuli even with the implant. Will that be an issue sir?”

Dan shook his head slowly, holding his hands behind his back, “Not at all. I rather like them tight.” He spoke.

The guard chuckled. “She is that sir.” He answered.

“Is there anything I should know about her?” Dan asked casually.

The guard looked around quickly as if he was making sure no one was listening to him. “She does not appear to care for men of your skin color sir. She has been uncooperative at times to the few dark skinned men of my guard unit. Perhaps you would care for another elf instead?”

Dan turned to look back to Anuk. He let his eyes linger on her for a long moment, her eyes staring at the floor. Dan shook his head slowly. “No... I don’t believe that will be a problem at all.” He spoke slowly.

The guard smiled. “I see you don’t mind the uncooperative ones sir.”

Dan looked at the guard, trying to keep from ripping the man’s throat out, “Not at all.” He answered. “They scream louder.”

“Daniel... now is appropriate to ask about price.” Leena spoke in his ear.

“And what would her price for the evening be?” Dan asked the guard.

“Her services for the evening will set you back four hundred thousand credits.” The Guard said. “That does include one of our top suites and unlimited food and beverage however.”

Dan heard Leena gasp in his ear, “Four hundred thousand!” Her voice said in disbelief. “That’s outrageous!”

“If I may inquire as to why such a high price is being asked?” Dan spoke smoothly.

“We were able to discover that her father is a very high ranking figure among the Wood Elves sir.” The Guard answered. “Ambrose is expecting a senior Alliance member to arrive in two days to take her back with him. He figured we could make some extra money for those two days.”

Leena again let out with a sharp intake of breath. “They know that General Vengal is her father.” She said.

Dan smiled. “Is that so?” He said, “An excellent plan by Mister Ambrose, an excellent plan indeed.”

“He thought so sir.” The guard spoke. “Will you be interested Mister Williams?”

Danny nodded as he handed over his credit disc, “Most assuredly.” He replied. “If the Alliance is interested in her, then she must be very special. In fact... I will extend my stay here and take her for the two days.”

The guard looked at him wide eyed as he took the disc and slid it into the slot on his pad, his eyes widening a little when he saw the amount of credits the disc held. He looked quickly to Dan. “You are sure that is what you would like to do sir?”

Dan nodded. “I believe I might enjoy breaking this young elf in.” He spoke.

“Would there be anything else I might be able to help you with sir?” He asked hopefully.

Dan turned as Tony came up to them. “This is my partner Mister Collins.”

The guard nodded at Tony, “A pleasure sir. Have you made a selection as well?” He asked, looking at the second extremely tall and bald black man.

Tony looked at Dan. “Did you get the red haired wench?”

Dan smiled. “Yes indeed. She might be worth the credits I have paid for her.”

Tony looked at the guard. “Add the blond on the end. She appears willing enough to sate my appetite for tonight. Perhaps I will get another for tomorrow or keep her. I’ll see how she holds up first.”

“What are you doing?” Leena asked in their implants. “That is not necessary!”

The guard smiled even wider and added the cost to the disc. “Do you have your own suites here in the hotel sirs, or can I offer you two of our own.”

“We are staying next door at the Palazzo.” Dan replied. “I have a fondness for that hotel that dates back a couple of years. Will that be an issue?”

The Guard shook his head. “Not at all sir, Mister Ambrose owns the Palazzo as well.”

“Excellent.” Dan said. “What is your fee?”

“Those of us who work this part of the operation get one percent of your cost sir. It’s very lucrative for us. That’s why we are the best.” The guard answered proudly. “We are allowed to accept gratuity from the customers if they see fit.”

Dan forced a smile. “I believe it fits then. We’ve come a long way and if this elf turns out to be as exciting as you say, you’ll have made an otherwise boring business trip eventful.”

“Business sir?” The guard asked. “Would I be overstepping my bounds if I asked what business you are in?”

“Tell him it is none of his business!” Leena spoke.

“Not at all,” Dan answered. “Joseph and I deal in rare minerals. Diamonds mostly, but we dabble in other things as well. Our main customers are on the eastern seaboard, but we’ve drawn interest from some buyers out here.”

“A profitable business I see.” The guard spoke.

“Yes it is.” Dan replied. “Add another ten thousand for yourself and bring us two bottles of your best wine when you deliver the elves to our suites.” Dan spoke holding out the second disc. “I am in suite 4291, and my partner Mister Collins is in suite 4293 next door.”

The guard’s eyes lit up at this and he bobbed his head happily. “I will see to it sir.”

“How long do we have before you deliver them?” Tony asked.

“I can have them to your suite within the hour sir.” The guard spoke.

Dan smiled. “Excellent. It will give us time to gamble in your fine casino before we indulge ourselves.”

The guard nodded and handed back the disc after removing his ten thousand credit tip. “I’ll begin processing the transfer right now sir.”

Dan nodded. “We’ll stop off for a few games of Blackjack, and then return to our suites.”

“We’ll say one hour.”

The guard nodded and turned to move away. Dan looked at Tony as they too headed out of the auction center.

“That was very foolish Daniel. You did not do as I instructed.” Leena’s voice spoke in their ears.

“However a ten thousand credit tip will entice him to be very receptive towards whatever you ask. Especially if he can get more credits from you.”

“That was the idea.” Dan spoke softly, becoming perturbed with Leena’s attitude. “We have enough juice for both of them right?”

“We have three doses.” Leena answered. “That is more than enough.”

“Is Radama back?”

“I’m making my way back now Daniel.” Radama’s voice cut into their conversation.

“How’s our exit look Ray?” Tony asked. Many of the Genomes and humans and even some of the elves had taken to calling Radama “Ray” for short. At first he was angered at this until Dysea had explained it was a means of affection and respect being showed to him by those who used it.

“I have tapped into their cameras and looped the feed for this floor.” Radama replied. “When we are ready I can switch the live feed to the looped one and we will have six minutes to make our way from our rooms to the sub levels of the hotel. Once there we can make our way through the underground rail system that used to be here. We have three Hoppers waiting at our designation point.”

Dan nodded as they walked into the casino portion of the center. “We’ll hit a hand or two of Blackjack and then move back to your location.” He spoke. “Be ready to move.” Tony did not notice how Dan brought the finger he had used to rub Anuk to his nose and inhale deeply, nor did he see him slide the finger into his mouth. The cinnamon scent and flavor caused Dan’s heart to race as they walked into the casino. There was something very different about this elf, something very different indeed.

TWENTY MILES SOUTH OF EDEN (FORMERLY JUNCTION CITY UTAH)

“...Not a lot of notice Admiral,” Martin spoke from inside the armored Hopper that had been transformed into a communications platform. He sat in the high backed chair, Dysea standing behind him.

“I know Marty, but after talking with Paul and Anisa it’s something I feel we need to do.” Admiral Wallace spoke.

Martin looked at Dysea briefly before turning back to the small monitor. “Meaning no disrespect sir, you’re asking me to possibly endanger everything we have built here over one woman’s family. A woman I might add, that until a few hours ago was working with the scum we are fighting.”

“Martin we convinced Deval of her treachery before he left. In doing so, he gave us access to everything she had been working on the last ten years.” Wallace spoke. “Paul has been through many of the experiments, and none of them were conducted on elves. The majority of her work was done in agriculture, news ways to produce crops and genetically engineered plants and such.”

“Then how is it she reached so high a place within their government Admiral?” Dysea asked from next to Martin.

Wallace sat back in the chair he occupied. “She was Deval’s main squeeze.” Wallace answered. “Believe me he was none to happy about it either. Marty... getting her to work with us would be a very large coup. Her knowledge on the internal workings of the Alliance government could be invaluable.”

“She could also bring all of you down.” Martin said.

Wallace nodded. “I’m aware of that, but we’re within a few weeks of taking back complete control of the station. Once we do that... we’ll be in a far better position to dictate what is happening.”

“How many total Admiral?” Martin asked.

“Five.” Wallace replied. “I can’t order you to do this Marty. You’ve done amazing things down there, and I won’t ask you to put what you have in jeopardy.”

“How do we know her family will even agree to this?” Martin asked.

“After listening to Deval, I believe the only thing keeping them alive was the influence their daughter exerted within the government.” Wallace answered. “Selene was not well liked among the other ministers, and we may have stumbled upon a gold mine without even realizing it.”

“The Admiral has a point Nauta Melme.” Dysea spoke softly, Martin turning to look at her. “Alliance politics are not what you are used too. There is always a struggle within their own ranks to acquire more power. And if it comes at the cost of another, they do not care.”

“There are two locations Marty, two clicks apart. Her parents are at one, and then a younger brother with a wife and child.” Wallace spoke. “They are located in New Memphis; both locations are near the river. I’m sending you the exact data now. Deval’s Raptor won’t land for another seven hours.”

“How do we know he hasn’t already contacted his government and told them to act?” Martin asked.

“We haven’t picked up any long range communications from his Raptor to earth.” Wallace replied. “I’m guessing he wants to deal with this personally.”

Martin nodded slowly, “Alright Admiral.” He said. “I’ll put something together and try to get it done sir. Will you question how I do it?”

“Have I ever done that Marty?” Wallace asked.

Martin looked at the screen. “No sir you haven’t”

“And I’m not going to start now.” Wallace told him. “If you are able, inform me when you and if you are successful. It will be another leverage point we can use to get Selene to work with us willingly.”

Martin nodded. “Yes sir.”

“Thank you Martin. Good luck my boy.”

The image faded and Martin turned in his seat to Dysea. “What do you think Melda Min?”

“Your Admiral seems like a wise man my love.” She replied. “Has he ever misled you in the past?”

Martin shook his head, “Never.” He answered instantly.

“Can we do such a thing in so short a time?” She asked.

Martin nodded, “Easily. We’ve conducted missions before on very short notice. The question is who goes with us?”

“The Drow Nauta Melme,” Dysea answered. “I believe them Martin. To travel for so long and protect those innocents as they did.” Dysea shook her head. “They could have easily abandoned them to their fates and they would have found us much sooner if their intent was anything but honorable. And there is something different about them as well. Something changed.”

“I thought you didn’t like the Drow?” Martin asked.

“It is true that our histories have never been friendly.” Dysea answered. “My... my experiences with Aihola, as short as they were, have changed my view of them. You saw how they reacted when I told them she was alive and safe, the concern on their faces. That is not something one usually sees in a Drow warrior.”

“I did notice that.” He said. “And I agree; I get a good feeling from them. And I’d know if they were lying anyway. I’ll brief Julie, I’ll lead a team and she’ll take one as well. Kenny will be our flight, and he can bring Julie and Anja when he comes to pick us up. We’ll take this Tari and his second officer Lynwe. The rest will return to Eden with you.”

“You... you don’t wish me to come.” Dysea asked.

Martin shook his head. “No for several reasons. As close to Wood Elf territory as New Memphis is, you could very well be recognized. We are the ones everyone seems to look to for leadership, though I’m quite sure they look at you for more than that,” He told her wagging his eyebrows. Dysea leaned over and punched his arm. “If anything happens, I will need to be focused and not gawking at your luscious body.”

Dysea smiled and moved closer to him, settling herself into his lap. “I will hold you to your promise Nauta Melme.” She said running her tongue along his jaw line.

“I intend to keep that promise Melda Min.” Martin spoke, kissing ever softly.

Dysea nodded. “I will contact Julie and have her meet you here while you gather your teams.” She said.

Martin squeezed her firm body in his arms one last time before getting to his feet and heading out of the refitted Hopper.

LAS VEGAS

Danny answered the chime on the suite door and after making sure that Radama and Leena were safely in the other room, he went to the door. As it slid aside he saw the guard from the auction center standing in the hallway, Anuk standing slightly behind him to his right. He saw the other two Skulls as well, their weapons in view but nit directed at him in any way.

“Ah... you have arrived, excellent.” Dan spoke. “I’ve been looking forward to this.”

“Here she is Mister Williams.” The guard spoke. “I had her cleaned up and changed into a suitable outfit, not that she’ll remain in it for very long I would imagine.”

Danny chuckled. “Indeed.” He spoke. He stepped aside. “Please bring her in.”

The man grabbed Anuk’s arm and started forward, but she did not move. “I will not... I will not let that Negro touch me. They... they are vile and disgusting.” Her voice came out softly but with some firmness to it.

The guard’s eyes went wide at her words and he squeezed her arm tightly, causing Anuk to wince in pain and nearly double over. “You will do as you are told elf bitch!” He snarled. “He has bought your services for the night, and I for one hopes he uses you in every orifice that you have!” The guard looked at Dan, who quickly hid the flash of anger on his face. “My apologies sir, I...”

Anuk let out a small scream and leaped at Dan, raking her fingernails down his face and leaving three gashes, blood instantly blossoming out. The guard reacted quickly; horror in his eyes and clubbed her on the back of the head with his weapon, dropping her to the floor. He turned to face Dan, who had a murderous look on his face as he glared at Anuk on the floor.

“Mister Williams... I... I can not apologize enough sir!” The man stammered. He looked at Anuk and kicked her viciously in the side. “I will see to it she is severely punished for this!”

“No!” Dan growled. “I would like that pleasure.”

“Sir... please allow me to return your credits to you and allow you to choose another of our females at half cost to you.” He spoke turning to glare at Anuk. “Her actions... her actions will cause me great harm.”

“No.” Dan spoke again. “This will go no further.” Dan bent down and took Anuk’s hair in his hand, wrenching her head back. She gasped in pain and tried to reach for his hands, her eyes focusing on his face. “She is not drugged?” He asked.

“She is strong willed sir, and sometimes she is able to overcome the effect of the drug.” The guard answered. “I apologize to you sir; it is not something we were told to reveal.”

Dan smiled cruelly. “I will punish her for her actions trust me.” He spoke. “Bring her into my suite.”

The guard bent over and grabbed Anuk’s arm, yanking her to her feet none to gently, her red hair flailing all over. “I hope he fucks you in the ass elf bitch, and makes you bleed.”

The guard shoved Anuk through the door, his two men following him past Danny. They entered the suite fully, the guard practically dragging Anuk into the center of the room. He turned and his eyes went wide when he saw the silenced K12 come up in Dan’s hand, and the head of one of his men disappeared in a fine mist of blood and brain matter. He saw Tony step from the adjoining door, also holding a silenced K12 and the head of his second man also blew apart like an overripe melon, showering both him and Anuk with blood and bits of bone. His eyes settled on Dan as he brought his K12 level with his head.

“I will give you exactly three seconds to release her.” Dan spoke, his voice cold and unyielding.

“I’ll... I will kill her!” He yelled, scrambling to get his own weapon to come up, and leveling it at Anuk’s head. “Don’t move! If you shoot me I will kill her!”

“No... I don’t think so. I’m going to put a slug through your medulla oblongata that will sever your spinal cord. Your brain won’t know you are dead, therefore you won’t be able to do shit.” Dan spoke and his finger caressed the trigger. The 40mm Teflon coated bullet punched through the guard’s face half way up his nose. The slug tore out the back of his neck, leaving him still standing there staring at Danny. It took several seconds for his body to finally get the message and he dropped like a limp noodle to the floor.

Anuk’s cerulean eyes focused on Danny and with another howl she lunged at him. This time however Danny was ready and he backhanded her with little effort, sending her flying across the room just as the bedroom door of the suite opened and Leena and Radama rushed out.

“Anuk!” Leena cried, going immediately to her cousin. She rushed to her side as she curled into a fetal position on the floor, glaring at Danny with anger in her eyes. “What have you done?” She screamed.

Dan was next to her in the blink of an eye. “I don’t know what her problem is, but you’d better get her under control quickly!”

Leena saw the three nasty cuts on his face and her eyes showed confusion. “What... what happened to your face?”

“She happened!” Dan growled. He got back to his feet and turned as Tony slid the door to the suite shut. “Radama... help Leena treat them.” Danny spoke. “We need to purge the drug quickly and then get out of here before someone comes looking for these three idiots.”

Tony needed no direction and was grabbing the body of one of the dead guards and dragging it into the adjoining suite. Dan reached up to his face and ran his fingers along the two gashes Anuk had given him, wincing as his hand came away with blood.

“Fuck!” Dan growled before bending down and grabbing the body of another guard and following Tony.

RAPTOR 46

83,000 FEET ORBITING NEW MEMPHIS

“...Two locations that we’ll hit.” Martin was speaking to them as they crowded around the plot table on the observation deck of the Raptor. Kenny had picked them up quickly and they had immediately climbed to this altitude and engaged the stealth mode on the Raptor. He now held them in a slow orbit of the city of New Memphis far below them.

“Both targets are within half a click of the river.” Martin spoke, his finger sliding down the map chart. “Tari... you’ve been to New Memphis?”

The Drow commander nodded and leaned over the table. “Lynwe and I took our advanced training in a school located in the northern section of the city. It is not far from where your targets are situated. The wall around New Memphis is heavily guarded due to its proximity to this edge of The Wastes. All of the Alliance cities are much more spread out than you are used too. There are many encampments all around the exterior of the wall. Men and women use their closeness to the wall as a means of defense.”

“What about security inside?” Martin asked.

“Again you will be surprised.” Tari answered. “For the most part the only individuals that will be out on the streets at this hour are criminals. The Alliance security forces do not normally patrol the streets in any kind of numbers.”

“Why is that?” Julie asked from her spot next to Martin, her eyes on Tari. She had allowed her hair to grow much longer the last few months, almost as long as Anja’s, and even though it was now wrapped tightly in a pony tail, it was shiny and draped over her shoulder.

Tari had noticed her the first moment he had boarded the strange flying craft. She had been standing near the ramp, and even in her fatigues and combat vest, her smell had elicited sensations within him that he had not felt in many years. His senses were more acute than most elves due to his Drow blood, and increased even more by the Alliance experiments on him and his people. He could detect Julie’s scent easily, and it was this scent that was causing the reactions in him.

“It is a way for the Alliance to maintain control in their cities in part.” Tari replied, meeting her eyes. “If they do not press the criminal elements that prowl the streets at night, they are better able to control the civilian population. If they do not come out at night in great numbers, the Alliance does not need to patrol the streets.”

“What if the gangs get out of control?” Julie asked.

“As distasteful as it undoubtedly is, unless the gangs do something quite violent, the Alliance does nothing.” Tari answered. “As I said... it is a control measure of sorts.”

“No civilians on the streets at night, the less they have to patrol and the fewer resources they have to provide.” Martin spoke with a nod.

Tari nodded, “Exactly.”

Julie looked across the plot board at him. She had felt this Drow elf’s eyes on her off and on for most of the trip, and surprisingly it did not bother her in the least. He was tall for an elf, right around six feet, and he had the complete opposite physical dimensions of Danny. While Danny was heavily muscled, Tari was lean and athletically built. His pure white hair was shoulder length and framed a strong jaw and thin lips. His amber eyes were what caused shivers to pulse down Julie’s spine, and she found they were not shivers of fear. His scent was pungent in the confined area of the observation deck, a powerful musky scent that reminded her of the deep timber in the early morning hours.

“That seems rather callous.” Julie commented to Tari.

“Yes it is.” Tari answered nodding his head. “However no one has ever accused the Alliance of being compassionate in any way.”

Lynwe leaned forward now across the plot board, detecting Tari’s interest in Julie and it made Lynwe think of her lover then, and turned to look at her as she sat in one of the chairs along the wall quietly. She and Anari had come together almost by accident. No one knew what experiments had been performed on the individual Drow warriors, and only through time and friendships had almost all of them been discovered by those within their unit. She and Anari had discovered each other early on during their training. They had been using the barrack showers late in the evening when no one else was awake to hide the results of the experiments on them. Each of them had thought they were alone and quite unknowingly had stumbled across one another while they were both soaking wet and completely nude. It was taboo for the Drow to have relationships with members of the same sex, a law that had been started centuries before by a long dead Drow Matron. When Lynwe and Anari realized they had been afflicted with the same curse, it was almost natural that they form a bond; a bond which grew over time until they had become lovers. Anari willingly assumed the role of submissive female to Lynwe, craving the attention Lynwe would give to her. She would wantonly suck Lynwe’s enormous cock or allow Lynwe to fuck her beautifully tight ass whenever Lynwe demanded it, and she was content to simply stroke her own organ to release. The last few months however, Anari had been increasingly asking for Lynwe to show her more affection, to kiss her and stroke her skin.

Lynwe had no doubts that she cared for Anari, but the taboo of their people and her own inability to put into words what she was feeling had always held her back.

“Lynwe?” Tari’s voice broke into her train of thought.

She looked at him, her mind returning to the present as she shook away the thoughts of what she knew could never be. “My apologies, my thoughts were elsewhere for a moment.” She said quickly. She pointed to one of the spots on the map. “This target location is closer to the Alliance school than the other.” She spoke. “There is a relatively wide field only five hundred meters from this house. It is used as a parade field of sorts, but there is nothing else in the area. It would be ideal for a landing zone if you intend a parachute drop.”

Martin nodded slowly. “That’s where the team I’ll lead will go in.” He spoke looking at the map. “Julie... you’ll land here at this point and move to the secondary target.”

Julie nodded. “No problem Skipper.” She said.

Martin nodded and looked at Tari. “You’ll go with Julie’s team Tari. Lynwe will accompany my team. Anja will be support for both since we aren’t that far away from each other. I understand you have a medical officer with you?”

Tari nodded and motioned for Anari to come forward. “This is Anari,” He spoke as she came to stand next to Lynwe. “She is a skilled surgeon and expert of all types of wounds.”

Martin nodded. “Anja... make sure she’s got everything she needs will you?”

Anja nodded from next to Julie. “Will do,” She spoke, letting her eyes go to where Anari stood. “If you’ll come with me, I’ll get you a medical bag.”

Tari looked surprised. “We will go with you?” He asked.

Martin nodded. “I don’t see why not, your knowledge of the area could prove to be invaluable.”

Tari looked at Lynwe briefly before turning back to Martin. “You will arm us then? I do not envy going into this area of the city with no weapons.”

Martin nodded. “I would be foolish not to.”

“You trust us?” Lynwe asked even more surprised.

Martin looked at her now. “Is there a reason why I shouldn’t?” He asked. “You’ve been very forthcoming up until now, and I don’t see anything that would indicate to me you are being deceptive.” Martin smiled. “Besides... Julie is your team leader on this OP, and if you do something you aren’t suppose to... she’ll put a bullet between your eyes and not even blink.”

Tari looked at Julie across the plot board. She met his eyes and smiled. Tari returned her smile. “Yes... I believe she would.” He said. “You will have no worries Martin Hunter, Lynwe and I and those under our command have come too far to turn back now. Our future rests with you and Eden City.”

“I’m glad to hear that.” Martin spoke. “Lynwe you’ll be with my team. Ealin is my second in command and I want you to stick next to him the whole time.”

Lynwe nodded, “As you wish.” She replied.

“Kenny is going to drop to 37,000 feet and we’ll jump from that height.” Martin spoke. “Once we have the packages, each team will move to this abandoned dock area here where he’ll pick us up. It should be very simple... get in, grab them and get out.”

“Martin Hunter... we... we are not qualified to jump from this height.” Tari spoke, his voice wavering just a little bit.

“That’s no problem.” Martin said. “Julie’s tandem qualified, and you can jump with her. Lynwe can go in with Anja.”

Tari glanced at Lynwe, who had a smile on her face at this news. He shook his head slowly, knowing she was the much more adventurous one of their unit, and a leap from this height had always been something she had talked of doing.

“Is that going to be a problem Tari?” Martin asked.

Tari looked at him and shook his head again. “No.” He answered. “I... I will endure.”

Martin nodded. “Ok... let’s get ready folks... I want to be home in less than six hours.”

LAS VEGAS

“Cousin?” Leena spoke softly as she stroked Anuk’s face gently. They were in the bedroom of the suite, Radama helping her carry Anuk into the room and laying her in the bed. Leena had wasted no time and injected Anuk with the anti-dote to the mind control drug. That Anuk had been able to fight the drug as much as she had spoke incredibly of her powerful will and mind. Leena knew it to be that she was the daughter of General Vengal. He was forceful and driving and he drove his troops hard, yet he also considered each of them a member of his family and did not needlessly throw their lives away.

Anuk’s cerulean colored eyes opened slowly, blinking rapidly to adjust to the light in the room and to focus more quickly. “Leen... Leena?” She spoke softly, her lips dry and cracked.

“I am here cousin.” Leena told her, gripping her hands and moving so that Anuk could see her.

“Leena!” Anuk said more forcibly, rising up on the bed. “It... it is you!”

Leena smiled and nodded her head. “It is me Anuk.” She spoke. “Go slow cousin, the antidote for the drug is still working within your system. It will take several hours to purge it from you completely, but your elfin abilities will begin to reassert themselves.”

Anuk gripped her cousin’s hands, her eyes darting around the room. “Where are we?” She asked quickly.

“We are in Las Vegas Anuk.” Leena explained. “We thought you were dead cousin. We searched for weeks, but found nothing. It was only a few days ago that we learned that you had left Cedar City and been transported here. Your father obtained permission to come get you, and here we are.”

Anuk’s eyes flooded with tears and she buried her face in her cousin’s shoulder. “Oh Leena it was horrible!” She cried. “They... they raped me over and over! Dark skinned humans! They beat me endlessly. I did not think I would survive.”

Leena took her hands. “You did survive cousin!” She spoke. “You survived and you are here now among friends. We are waiting for nightfall so that we can depart the city. Your father waits at the old air base northeast of the city.”

“My father?” Anuk said. “He is close by?”

Leena nodded, “Just outside the city, waiting for us to return.”

“Us?” Anuk said, her mind still a jumble of thoughts. She remembered the guards bringing her here, the dark skinned human and his companion, the high elf soldier. Her eyes grew wild and she gripped Leena’s hands. “I saw them Leena. Dark skinned ones. Negroes! I saw them here. They are the ones who thought to buy me and rape me further!”

Leena shook her head. “No Anuk! They are friends. They risked much to come here and get you out. And they... they are not completely human.”

“I saw them!” Anuk nearly shouted.

Leena nodded. “Much has happened since you have been gone cousin. Do you trust me Anuk?”

Anuk looked at her. “You are my blood, Leena. Why do you ask me that?”

“Then trust me now.” Leena spoke. “The one you injured, Daniel is his name. He and his partner Anthony are different, very different. They are not fully human. Radama is a former High Elf Royal Guard. Your father waits with Leland outside the city.”

Anuk looked at her oddly. “Leland? The Queen’s Guardsmen Captain?”

“Yes that Leland. But as I said much has happened since you were taken from us. You must believe me Anuk; we came to get you out cousin. Daniel and Anthony are not our enemies.” Leena explained to her. “They... they have risked their lives to come save you at your father’s behest. They...”

The door slid open and their heads turned to see Daniel step into the room fully dressed in his standard fatigues and combat vest. His K12 was now in its holster and his HK74 dangled from the quick release straps. Anuk’s eyes narrowed into slits and she launched herself at him screaming in rage even as Leena yelled for her to stop. She got within three feet of Dan before his hand closed around her throat much faster than anything she had ever seen, and suddenly she was dangling from his grip easily eight inches off the floor. She grasped at his hand around her throat, trying to claw free of the iron grasp. He was easily six feet four inches tall Anuk’s mind registered, and his muscles bulged from his body in inhumanly sculpted definition, unlike the fat slobbering slavers who had captured and raped her. He brought her within inches of his face and she watched in horror as his eyes changed to yellow orbs encased in pitch black, the whites of his eyes disappearing completely. She watched as fangs sprang from his mouth lengthening to nearly an inch, giving him an imposing and utterly fearsome visage. Anuk also saw the three deep scratches on his cheek where her nails had raked across his skin.

“I am becoming extremely upset that you insist on attacking me whenever you see me!” Danny growled. “I am trying to save your elf ass, and if you don’t learn to control yourself a little better sweetheart, I’m going to toss you out of this forty-second balcony and watch as you go splat on the pavement below. Am I getting through that thick head you seem to have.”

Leena stepped up to him. “Release her, this instant! The men who captured her; they were black skinned like you. They were negroes. They treated her very badly, beating and raping her countless times. She is only reacting to that.”

Dan’s gaze did not leave Anuk’s wide cerulean colored eyes. Her hands had stopped trying to pull his grasp from her throat because he was not squeezing her neck. “You have my sincere apologies for whatever happened to you. If I could find the men who did this to you I would, and then I would string them up by their balls myself. However I did not do this to you! I came here freely to help get you out of the hell you have been living. Do not make me begin to regret that decision Anuk, because don’t doubt for a second that I will leave your pretty ass here if you hit me again. Am I making myself clear enough for you?”

Anuk glared at him with anger in her eyes, anger that was slowly subsiding. She nodded her head slowly. Danny slowly lowered her so that her feet could touch the floor, but he did not let go of her neck.

“The sun is going down so we are leaving. Get her dressed into something better suited for moving fast.” Dan spoke, releasing Anuk and looking at Leena. “Radama is helping Judziea and we’ll be able to move in twenty.”

“Judziea?” Leena asked, “You speak of the other female elf you brought?”

Danny nodded. “Radama’s got her almost ready to go.”

“We can not bring her!” Leena spoke. “Our mission was to come for and return with Anuk only. I told you that you should not have bought her as well. She will only slow us down.”

Dan met her eyes. “It would have looked odd if we only bought Anuk. She’s part of this now, and she goes with us.”

“You can not! Anuk is the priority!” Leena snapped.

Dan’s eyes flared. “What is it with you Wood Elves?” He snapped right back at her. “Where does this “me” shit keep coming from? Judziea helped us to get your bitch of a cousin here, she goes with us. I will not leave her behind to be tortured and raped because of us. And I am getting extremely fed up with your pompous, arrogant attitude.”

“That is not the mission Commander!” Leena spoke, ignoring his words.

“I’m changing the fucking mission!” Dan yelled losing his temper now. “This is my Op, and if you have a problem with it, you are more than welcome to find your own way back you arrogant bitch! And make sure you take the Queen Bitch with you!” Dan said motioning to Anuk.

Anuk drew back her hand to hit him and stopped in mid motion as Dan’s face was suddenly inches from hers, only this time he had allowed the change to come over him, and dark brown hair erupted from his exposed skin, his face contorting into something from one of Anuk’s nightmares as a child as his features lengthened into a short snout and his vicious looking fangs grew even longer, a smaller twin set of fangs bursting from his gums directly next to the nearly inch and a half long main fangs.

“Go ahead!” Dan growled, his anger seething inside him as it hadn’t in quite a long time. “Hit me!” Anuk took a step back as did Leena, looks of horror on their faces. “What is it going to be Leena?” He asked after a long moment, turning to look at her, his yellow orbs blazing. “My way, or the two of you learn to fly on your own.”

Leena stepped in front of her cousin protectively. “We will do as you ask.” She said.

Dan’s features immediately changed back to normal, though due to his anger, his fangs remained quite visible. “We leave in twenty.” He said simply. “Be in the main room or we leave without you. Period.”

Dan turned and left the bedroom without a glance back.

“Where is Rickart?” Ambrose yelled out the door to his office at one of the men in the corridor of the back room of his casino.

“He took that new red haired elf and some other bitch to a couple of big black dudes who bought them for the night boss.” The man answered.

Ambrose’s face knotted up. “She wasn’t supposed to be put on the auction block!” He snapped. “I had a special customer for her tight ass!”

“It... it wasn’t logged on her tag boss!”

“Shit! Call him and tell him to bring her back here now!” Ambrose snapped, watching the guard lift the small radio he carried. He walked back into his office and returned to his chair. Just as he lifted the glass of ale up to take a drink the guard from the hallway came in.

“Boss I can’t raise him on the radio.” The man said. “They were only going to the Palazzo, so he’s within range easy. And the two men that went with him aren’t answering either.”

Ambrose came to his feet. “Fuck! Get half a dozen men fast and meet me in the lobby of the Palazzo. Something isn’t right here.”

Dan opened the door of his suite and carefully looked down both sides of the corridor. He ducked his head back in and looked at the others.

“Time to move,” He said. “Tony you got the rear, I’ll take the lead.”

They stepped into the hall and started down the corridor towards the elevator, moving briskly but not running so as to not draw attention from the other rooms on the floor. All of them froze at the sound of the bell chiming on the elevator as it reached their floor. The doors slid open to reveal Ambrose and three men that stepped out of the elevator. Their eyes widened when they saw Dan in the center of the hall, his HK coming up in the blink of an eye.

“Gun!” Dan screamed, dropping to one knee and cutting loose a well aimed three round burst from the HK, the Teflon coated rounds punching into the chest of the man to Ambrose’s right and lifting him off his feet.

Tony had smashed in the door of the room he was next to before Dan’s warning had finished leaving his lips. His large shoulder splintered the thick wood, and his hand dragged Judziea into the room as Radama pulled Leena and then Anuk into the room. Dan backed up, dropping into a crouch by the door, laying down accurate bursts from his HK, pinning Ambrose and his two men near the elevator.

Tony moved through the room, ignoring the older couple that was in the bed and staring at him in fear. He smashed the balcony window and stepped out, looking down to the balcony below. “Here.” He called, pulling Judziea to him and lifting her up quickly. She screamed as he swung her out over the edge of the balcony, dangling her forty-two floors above the parking lot before the momentum carried her onto the balcony below. “Ray.” Tony yelled, turning back to Radama.

Radama had Leena’s arm and pulled her back to the balcony. He didn’t question what Tony had done and began to climb over the edge.

“Are you crazy?” Leena screamed.

Radama ignored her, dropping to dangle off the balcony and swinging his body to the landing below. Leena looked at Tony. “Is there no other way?” She asked.

“You could go out into the hall and see if you could shoot your way to the elevators.” Tony answered as arrogantly as he could. “Move your ass!”

“Leena hurry,” Anuk climbed over the railing and did the same thing as Radama, swinging her body over just enough to land on the balcony below. Radama steadied her, and then pushed her into the room where Judziea huddled next to the door. Leena followed quickly, and then Tony. Dan pulled a smoke frag/smoke grenade from his vest and lobbed it down the hallway after a three count. The grenade blew, spraying razor sharp fragments at the exposed lower body of one of Ambrose’s guards. As the man howled in agony the smoke began to fill the hallway making it impossible to see.

“C’mon!” Ambrose screamed at the remaining man with him. “Go!” He lifted the radio he carried. “They’re moving to the floor below us! Get to forty-one! There’s a big black motherfucker leading them!”

Dan walked past the others as he dropped effortlessly to the balcony below and moved to the hotel room door. He opened it quickly and again looked both ways before throwing open the door and leading them out into the hallway for the elevator. As Dan approached the elevator, the door opened revealing the startled faces of three more of Ambrose’s guards. Dan didn’t hesitate and lifted the HK; spraying the inside of the elevator with 10mm Teflon coated jacketed hollowpoints. The tips of the hollowpoints were filled with a small liquid explosive that blew gaping chunks out of their bodies as the bullets flung them about unnaturally.

They ignored the bodies as they piled into the elevator and Dan punched the button for the sub level. “How’s everyone holding up?” Dan asked as he ejected the half full magazine and replaced it with a full one, “That good huh?” He spoke when no one answered.

“I’ll be better when we are clear of these shitheads.” Tony spoke.

“C’mon Master Chief, where is your spirit of adventure?” Dan asked with a grin.

NELLIS AIR FORCE BASE
9 MILES NORTHEAST OF LAS VEGAS
RAPTOR 41

Cathy Parnelli sat in the cockpit of her Raptor, her brown eyes scanning her instruments for the hundredth time in the last hour. They had landed at the old Nellis Air Force Base after dropping Dan and his team off at altitude. The base had seen better days, no doubt about that. Many of the buildings and old hangers had been destroyed or deteriorated to the point where they were falling apart. Cathy had landed behind one of these hangers with barely any effort, and had been monitoring the Raptor's ground sensors in split shifts with her co-pilot over the last twelve hours.

Cathy, with nothing else to do since Leland was investigating the immediate area with General Vengal and her crew chief, had let her mind wander over the events of the past weeks. Mainly her thoughts came back to Leland and what they now shared. In her position within the Raptor unit and others, she had always been a topic of discussion she knew. Her goods looks was the first thing anyone noticed, mainly the size of her tits. Men had made no bones about wanting to take her to bed, and over her life she had allowed eleven to do just that. She had never had to work so hard to get a man as she had worked to get Leland. Her two hour long talk with Dysea had explained many things to her, and it had left her wanting to get even closer to the blond haired, blue eyed former Guardsmen Captain. When she had first approached him just before Tarifa's mother had arrived, and he had seemingly rejected her advances Cathy had then felt something she had never felt before. Usually men fell all over themselves to get her into bed, but Leland had been different, and she had been very hurt. That all changed when they had met in the observation deck upstairs.

The quick yet passionate coupling they had shared spread across the plot board had been nothing compared to what he had done to her that night when they returned to Eden City. Cathy had never been with a man who had paid so much attention to her. Leland had explored seemingly every square inch of her firm body with his lips and that fantastic tongue of his. He had kept her on the edge of blissful orgasm for over an hour, devouring her body in ways that boggled her imagination. He was not the largest man she had ever taken inside her, but that flyboy from Edwards Air Force Base may have had a big cock, but he was a child compared to Leland. While not long at only seven and a half inches, Leland was incredibly thick, and he knew how to use it. Cathy was like putty in his hands as he fucked her silly for half the night, the number of times she had cum lost to her after the first dozen. The amount of cum he emptied into her whenever he came, which was quite frequently, was unlike anything she had ever experienced, and his cum was extremely hot and delightfully tasty. She had almost choked on what he had unloaded into her willing mouth during their time, but seeing his lean muscular body stretched on the bed before her, the veins in his neck standing out and his muscles practically ripping through his skin as she drove him to heights of pleasure he had never experienced before, caused her to have her own orgasm when he finally gripped her dark hair in his fingers and let go.

Leland had fucked her in more positions than she thought possible, his hands never stopping as they roamed her firm body, eliciting gasps of extreme delight from her, while only serving to urge him for more.

What had solidified her love, and she had surprised herself at the use of that word in her mind, was when they had collapsed in the end, both of them utterly exhausted and unable to move. Leland did not attempt to extract himself from her body. He had wrapped his arms around her, his softening cock still buried within her depths, and heedless of the copious amounts of their combined juices covering her bed, they had fallen into a content filled sleep.

The small beeping on her console jarred her from her thoughts and brought her attention back to her instruments. Her eyes went to the ground sensor panel. "Tommy get up here now!" He ordered her co-pilot.

Cathy turned in her chair to where her female elf engineer sat. "Denara did you see it?"

The dark haired female elf nodded as her hands flew over the controls quickly. "I saw it Cathy." She replied. "I'm increasing the power to our sensor array."

"Only by ten percent," Cathy warned. "If someone is out there I don't want to give away our exact location."

Cathy looked at her co-pilot move quickly into his seat, still rubbing sleep from his eyes. "What's up?"

"The ground sensors got a hit." Cathy told him. "We're trying to pin point it, but spool up engine power just in case. And bring the weapons online."

"We've done that the last three times Cathy." The co-pilot spoke. "You really want to do it again?"

Cathy glared at him, her dark eyes decidedly evil. "I don't care if we've done it the last hundred fucking times Lieutenant. While I'm in command of this bird we do as I say! Is that clear?"

"I'm on it." Tommy spoke properly chastised.

Leland sat on an equipment crate outside the Raptor, General Vengal and the crew chief with him near the end of the ramp. They had done a little bit of scouting, but did not want to wander too far from the protective armor of the Raptor. Vengal looked at Leland as he downed a gulp of water.

"I've noticed something different about you Leland." Vengal spoke munching on the protein bar.

Leland looked at him. "What is that General?"

"You seem calmer, less excitable. If I remember correctly, as the Queen's Captain you were less inclined to relax and breathe easy." Vengal spoke.

Leland nodded. "Many things have changed in these last months General." He spoke. "I have seen things I never in my lifetime felt I would see. And I have... I have found something I thought I would be denied."

Vengal looked into the hold of the Raptor towards the cockpit, "The human pilot?" He asked.

Leland nodded with a smile. "Yes."

"She is human my friend." Vengal spoke.

Leland nodded again. "Yes she is." He said. "And one day I intend to make her my wife."

Vengal looked at him. "You believe that strongly in what Martin Hunter is doing?"

Leland met his eyes. "You have not yet seen Eden City General." He spoke. "Once you do, you will know why we all feel as we do. And it is not just Martin Hunter who we believe in. True he is the driving force behind our unity right now. His leadership and skills have gotten us this far, but with every day we grow stronger and better, and that is due to everyone being able to realize their potential. Did you know that the Queen spends three days a week in one school or the other when we are in Eden teaching the children? Not just the elf children, but all the children."

"What does she teach them?" Vengal asked.

"She teaches them the arts, accurate history, what the elves were supposed to be when the Holy One created us." Leland spoke. "She does not demean human history; it is not one side or the other. She teaches both sides equally and allows the children to formulate their own opinions."

"And she shares Hunter's bed." Vengal spoke.

"You sound like you don't approve General." Leland spoke.

"I am old and set in my ways Leland." Vengal spoke honestly. "He still looks very human."

Leland nodded. "And that is where the similarity ends General. You saw his actions for yourself in Cedar City." Leland told him. "He cares not whether we are elf or human. He treats everyone equally. You are either his enemy, or you are his friend. There is no in between with Martin Hunter. If you are his friend, no matter elf or human, he will stand by you to the death. If you are his enemy, no matter elf or human, he will kill you just as easily." Leland smiled. "He did not have to allow this mission to take place to rescue Anuk."

Vengal looked at him. "I would have gone regardless of what he said!" Vengal snapped. "He does not control my actions."

Leland shook his head. "No that is true, but do not doubt for a second that he would have taken you and every Wood Elf Ranger into custody and locked you up if he thought your actions would have put Eden City at risk."

"He would have died." Vengal boasted.

Leland shook his head. "No General. He would have succeeded." Leland spoke softly. "Because every elf that has served with him would have done exactly what he ordered us. If he ordered you locked up that is exactly what would have happened General. Don't doubt that."

Vengal looked at him. "You would have gone against your own people?" He asked.

Leland shook his head. "Eden City is where my loyalty lays now General Vengal, and yes if you had threatened the security of Eden City in any way I would not have hesitated in my actions. Wait until you see Eden Vengal. You may very well change what you believe as well."

"And you would be content... happy with this human female?" Vengal asked, "Enough to make her your mate? She knows what that means I hope."

"I will explain it to her when the time is right. And yes... I would be very happy." Leland answered.

"Her lifespan is less than half of yours Leland." Vengal spoke softly.

Leland nodded and got to his feet. He did not see Cathy walk slowly down the ramp, her eyes wide as she listened to him. “Yes it is.” He spoke. “And for that half of my life I will be the happiest elf on the planet. And when she precedes me into Menel Cemenye, I will raise our children with the memory of her face on my shoulder and I will never take another wife, so that I can join her one day and we can be together forever.”

(Heaven and Earth)

The crew chief chose that time to look up and he saw Cathy. “Is there something wrong ma’am?” He asked getting to his feet.

Leland turned slowly to see her standing there, her dark eyes directly on him as Vengal got to his feet. “Nya Lisse Indil?” He asked her.

Cathy regained control of her racing mind and shook her head. “We... we’re picking up contacts on the ground sensors.” She spoke.

Leland looked at the crew chief. “Load the last of the equipment.” He spoke. “General if you’ll take the communications station as we discussed.” He motioned Vengal inside and waited for him to pass before walking up the ramp and stopping to look at Cathy. Her eyes were still wide as she gazed up at him. He smiled. “You are catching insects Nya Lisse Indil.” He said with a smile reaching up to close her mouth.

“Leland... what you said.” Cathy stammered. “You... did you mean that?”

Leland took her heart shaped face into his hands and leaned over to kiss her soft lips tenderly. “It is not exactly the time or the place to discuss this, but yes... I meant what I said.”

“Leland... we...”

“Captain!” Tommy’s voice echoed back to them. “You’d better get up here!”

The tone of his voice shook Cathy from her daze and she twisted her head to the cockpit. She turned back to Leland. “We aren’t finished with this talk.” She spoke.

Leland smiled. “No we are not.”

Cathy moved for the cockpit and bounded up the stairs, moving to her seat. She settles into her pilot’s seat. “Give it to me.” She spoke as Leland and Vengal came in behind her.

“We have nine contacts!” Denara spoke from the engineering station. “I make them as Alliance troop carriers! They are moving right for us!”

“Shit! How did they find us?” Cathy snapped, pulling her straps on over her shoulders, “Give me full power Tommy!”

“Spooling power to full! Ten seconds!” The co-pilot replied.

“They’ll be on us in two minutes!” Denara spoke.

Cathy pulled her helmet on and secured her chin strap. “We won’t be here in two minutes!” She said.

Sparks danced across the nose of the Raptor, causing them to flinch as the sound of bullets slamming into the Raptor’s armor echoed around them.

“Fuck!” Cathy Parnelli swore, “Sabot!”

“Alliance squad directly to our front!” Denara barked. “They must have used the hills as cover to avoid our sensors!”

“Try to avoid this!” Cathy growled taking her flight stick, the HUD in her helmet tracking on the six figures she saw directly to her front about three hundred meters away. “Tommy I have targets!”

“Let her rip!” His voice sounded.

“Eat shit!” Cathy barked as she mashed her finger down on the firing button for the sabot cannon and watched as a hundred rounds burst from the chain cannon under the nose of her ship and ripped into the clustered group of Alliance soldiers, even from this distance, their blood and body parts exploding clearly into the dimming sky, “Power!”

“We have full power!” Tommy called.

Cathy yanked back on her control stick without a moment’s hesitation and Raptor 41 leaped into the sky, its powerful engines burning the ground under them as she climbed straight up.

“Go dark!” Cathy ordered quickly as she brought the Raptor through six hundred feet. “Engage the stealth shield!”

“Going dark,” Denara said, her hands flying over the controls in front of her.

“Engaging stealth shield,” Tommy called out. “How the fuck did they find us?”

Leland looked at Vengal. “Who knew we would be here?” He asked.

“You suspect Leena?” Vengal asked insulted.

Leland shook his head, “The support staff at the hotel. Who knew we would be here waiting for them?”

Vengal’s eyes went wide as the realization of what Leland was saying hit him. “We... we have been infiltrated.” He gasped.

“Fuck!” Leland swore aloud, causing everyone to look at him. Leland never swore, “Contact Daniel on the emergency channel!” He ordered. “Tell him we have been compromised and are moving to the alternate site. Inform him that more than likely his primary evac plan is compromised as well. He needs to make his way to the secondary site.”

“We’re forty-two minutes from the secondary site.” Cathy spoke, looking at her chart.

Leland gripped her shoulder gently, causing her to turn and look into his blue eyes. “Keep us hidden.” He said softly.

Cathy nodded. “Don’t worry.”

Leland looked at Vengal. “Come General, we must devise another route for Daniel to take.”

LAS VEGAS

They were halted in the sewers of the hotel, the smell of human feces and urine nearly overpowering, especially to Dan and Tony. The cold water was rancid and no one wanted to shine their lights onto the surface to see what they were wading through. Dan had called a halt when he heard Leland break in over his implant. Radama helped Judziea to the side and let her lean against him, while Tony moved fifty meters further ahead, his shadow just barely visible in the near pitch black tunnels.

“Fuck me!” They heard Danny exclaim in the silence.

“What is it?” Leena asked. She supported Anuk with half her body, while the other half leaned against the damp and undoubtedly disgusting concrete wall of the near five hundred year old sewer.

“Ray!” Dan called, moving closer to where they all were. “Find us another way out of here.”

Radama didn’t hesitate and propped Judziea against the cool wall while he pulled out his map chart.

Leena looked at Dan. “What is going on?” She demanded.

“We’ve been blown!” Dan stated simply. “We need to go to the alternate site.”

“What do you mean blown?” Leena spat. “That’s... that’s not possible.”

“It’s not only possible, it’s already done.” Dan said. “An Alliance column popped out of no where and almost tagged the Raptor and crew. Cathy got them off the ground in time and they are moving for the secondary pick up site.”

“Secondary site? I was not aware of this.” Leena said. “Where is this secondary site?”

“Boulder City Municipal Airport,” Dan answered.

Leena’s eyes flew open, “Boulder City?” She gasped. “You can’t be serious!”

“I’m very serious.” Dan spoke.

“Anuk will never make it that far. Boulder City is at least ten kilometers from here.” Leena protested, her voice becoming whiny and winded. “She is too weak.”

“She’s got enough energy to attack me... tell her to use that energy to keep moving.” Dan stated matter of factly.

“Leave the other elf and we take turns carrying Anuk.” Leena spat. “She is the priority on this mission. The other one is only slowing us down. We could have already made it to the first extraction if not for her.”

Dan took a deep breath to control his building anger and he cast his dark eyes directly on Anuk. She was watching him with those cerulean orbs, a myriad of emotions pulsing through them, including hate and anger. Dan could smell the hate for him wafting from her pores even over the vile stench of the sewer and he shook his head.

“Would you mind telling me why it is so fucking important that we get her back to her father?” Dan asked. “Why is that Leena?”

“I... I am following my orders Commander, unlike you.” Leena replied.

“Your orders were to get Anuk here and disregard anything else?” Dan asked. “Even the lives of people who assisted you?”

“Judziea did not assist us!” Leena snapped. “She is a High Elf whore! Without the dose we gave her to counteract the drug, Anuk would be fine and we would have been out of this retched city by now.”

“I am... I am no whore.” Judziea spoke from where she leaned against Radama. “Why don’t you tell them the real reason? I have had to listen to it for months now! Tell them!”

Dan looked at Leena. “Well?”

“I have no idea what she is talking about,” Leena spoke not meeting Dan’s gaze.

Judziea snickered from her spot. “She knows.” She said softly. “Anuk was to be wed to the son of the most powerful family within Wood Elf hierarchy, second only in influence to Dysea’s family. It is all she could talk about after she was captured. How he had courted her and showered her with gifts. How she should not have been on the mission she was captured on. She was made for finer things, above the life of a common soldier. Her father falsified all her training documents to make it appear she was trained as she was. She is no more than a spoiled brat. It made me sick. Now that Dysea has been renounced as Queen, her union with this pompous noble born would mean even more.”

Dan settled his eyes upon Leena. “Is this true?” He asked.

“She does not know what...” Leena stopped as the barrel of Dan’s silenced K12 pressed against her forehead.

“I asked a question, and for once I would like a straight answer without the arrogant attitude.” Dan spoke softly. “If I don’t get that answer, I will put a bullet in your two faced brain, then I will shoot Queen Bitch here and I’ll leave you both in this sewer to rot. How does that grab you?” Leena glared at Dan, her lips tightly shut and her eyes filled with hate and rage.

Dan jacked back the hammer on the K12. “I’m waiting.”

“It’s... it’s true.” Leena hissed. “Are you happy now?”

“So all of this was just a set up then?” Dan asked her, “Your unit coming to Cedar City? Helping us take out that ass wipe gang leader and slaver? That was all just a cover up to get us to help you get her out of Las Vegas?”

“We have known her location for a month.” Leena told him. “Once we discovered she was still alive we began to put a plan together to get her out. Leland’s visit to see Anuk’s father altered our plans somewhat. We came to Cedar City to get Anuk, and found you were already assaulting the city. Once we discovered that Anuk had been taken, the General formed another plan to have you help us retrieve her.”

“He did all this just so his daughter could marry some sleaze ball noble born dickhead?” Dan asked incredulously.

“Matarn is... he is a fine man.” Anuk spoke now. “He is... he is handsome... and strong.”

Dan nodded. “I don’t suppose this Matarn asshole came with you huh?”

Leena shook her head slowly, causing Anuk to look at her. “Matarn... Matarn did not come with you?” She asked.

“It was too risky.” Leena replied to her.

Dan chuckled. “Yeah... more like he didn’t want to take the chance of getting his ass shot off rescuing the woman he is suppose to be marrying. Real nice fellow.”

“He is noble born!” Anuk popped. “Not... not some negro barbarian like you.”

Dan’s eyes narrowed and he was about to say something when Radama hissed loudly. “I have another route Daniel! But we have a problem.”

“Of course we have a problem!” Dan spoke moving over next to him. “When don’t we ever have a problem?”

“This sewer takes us all the way to Southeastern Avenue. From there we cut east to Boulder Highway and then south directly down to Boulder City.” Radama spoke, his fingering moving along the map chart.

“So what’s the problem?” Daniel asked.

“It appears they have found our entrance into the sewers.” Radama spoke. “The camera I left there just sent me a signal. There are at least twenty armed members of this Skulls gang entering the sewer now. I’m marking their heat signatures a click behind us.”

“Fuck!” Dan snapped. He turned back to Leena. “Your people blew us in, and when I find them, I’m going to take great pleasure in ventilating their brain cavities. Tony... move us out!” Dan looked back at Leena. “You’d better keep up, or you and your cousin here will be all by your lonesome.”

Dan waited until they had started moving before switching his COM implant to a separate and secure encrypted channel and then he began speaking.

NEW MEMPHIS

The jump had gone off without a hitch, and the six members of Martin's team had landed within ten meters of each other. They quickly discarded their chutes and O2 bottles in a dumpster behind one of the buildings. No one would find the gear for days, if at all due to the amount of garbage that was stuffed into the dumpster. They moved like ghosts across the streets, the only light being cast from the main portions of the city far in the distance. Martin reached the edge of the building first and turned to watch the others as they moved up. He was impressed with the Drow as they moved stealthily and without effort. Lynwe was directly behind him, with Anja between her and Anari. Ealin brought up the rear of their column, the lone human being the heavy weapons operator Eric. He was a burly man in his late twenties with almost an Irish accent, and he hauled the medium sized M280 5.78mm machine gun around like it was a toy. The drum beneath the receiver held three hundred rounds, and he had two more drums draped over his combat vest like poncho via from old earth history. All of them were black faced, and their balaclavas were pulled down over their heads.

Martin checked his map chart and saw that their target building was only eighty meters away. He was looking at the chart when he smelled fear and anxiety. As he looked up, the gang members dropped from above his team in silence. It was the stupidest move they could have made. Martin simply stood up and shoved the barrel of his silenced HK into the chest of the gang member in front of him and let loose a three round burst. There was no sound except the almost silent racking of the bolt on the HK. The bullets lifted the gang member into the air and dropped him to the cold pavement dead before his brain was able to catch up with his body.

Lynwe dispatched the man in front of her with her HK as well, electing for a head shot and bring up the weapon with viper like reflexes. The single round punched through his forehead and blew out the back of his head. She turned to see Anja move, letting her HK drop and dangle on the quick release snaps, as her hand filled with black coated High Elf fighting knife. Lynwe would know the craftsmanship of a High Elf blade anywhere, and she was very impressed as she watched Anja move with speed a normal human did not have as she stepped behind the man in front of her and flashed out with her blade. There was a soft gurgling sound as he dropped his club and reached for his throat which was now open to the air and spurting blood in high arcs. Anja spun swiftly her other hand also filling with High Elf steel and the gang member's head lolled to the side as she nearly took his head off with the next slice.

She needn't have worried for her lover, for while Anari was submissive in their bed, she was anything but submissive in her duties. Anari simply stepped up to the gang member in front of her and snatched his jaw and the back of his head, twisting violently with her elf strength. The gang member's head snapped like dry twigs and he went immediately limp. The heavy weapons soldier and simply used the butt of his machine gun as a battering ram and slammed it into the skull of the gang member nearest him, crushing the punk's head with one blow. Ealin she watched lower the gang member to the pavement quietly as his hand returned the blade to its spot on his leg. Lynwe's eyes remained on Anja as she moved back against the wall and she was able to catch Anari's eyes also admiring Anja's skill. Anari felt Lynwe's eyes boring into her and she tilted her head slightly to look at her lover. Lynwe flashed a brilliant smile at her in the darkness, and Anari felt a rush of sexual desire course through her when she saw the desire in Lynwe's eyes for her... and... and for the not quite human woman in front of her.

Anari let her eyes wander to Anja and she gazed at her more intently, her amber eyes able to see her quite easily even in the darkness.

Lynwe turned back when she felt Martin's hand touch her arm. He motioned Ealin forward next to them.

"Ealin take Eric and Anari and cover the south side. Lynwe and Anja and I will go in the front door. Two clicks when you are in position. Go!"

Ealin wasted no time and motioned to Eric and Anari. They broke from the cover of the wall and followed him in his elf quick movement across the front of the building.

Lynwe looked at Anja as she moved up next to her and Martin. She detected Martin Hunter's eyes on the red haired female and she looked at him as he gazed at Anja. The red haired female met his dark eyes with her jade green eyes and Lynwe could detect the sparks flying between them. Having this woman in her bed quickly fell to the wayside as she realized Anja Peterson had eyes only for Martin Hunter.

Selene Torcrum's sixty-eight year old father sat at the kitchen table with his wife of over forty years reading the book and sipping from the mug of coffee. It was an illegal book, a novel by T.S. Elliott from hundreds of years before. The binding was worn and the pages frayed, Selene had taken great care in preserving it and sending it to him, knowing of his love of reading.

Weston Torcrum let his thoughts wander for a moment to his daughter. The younger of his two children, he had known from when she was a small child that she was going to be incredibly intelligent. Her degrees in Genetics and Advanced Biology quickly earned her acclaim and the eye of the government. Weston hated the Alliance and all they stood for. As far as he was concerned they were violent butchers and cared only for keeping their grasp on power, and they used the slavery of elves to do that. Weston had an abiding hatred for the Alliance, perhaps due to the fact that his wife was an elf, and ever since they had been married she has had to hide her elf heritage by virtue of regular medical cosmetic treatments to hide her ears and make it appear she was aging like a human. Talia Torcrum loved her husband without question and knew what it would entail to remain with him, and she did it without question.

Weston had been surprised and a little angry when Selene told them she was going to work for the Alliance, but after a three hour long discussion with his daughter, he finally understood what she was trying to do. She was going to play a role, all the while attempting to change things from within the belly of the beast. It was not something he or Talia liked, but her position allowed her to take care of her family more than others, and that in turn allowed them to continue aiding the black market organization that helped elves escape the cities and return to their people.

Weston looked up and saw his wife staring over his shoulder with wide eyes, her hands frozen in the motion of the clothes she was sewing. "Talia what is it? What's wrong dear?"

Weston felt the cold hand of fear grip his stomach when his wife did not answer. He froze when he felt the cold steel press up against the back of his head near his ear, and he closed his eyes to whisper a last goodbye to those he loved.

"T.S. Elliott." The male voice spoke from behind him, "Murder in the Cathedral; that was one of his best works if I do say so myself."

Weston opened his eyes and slowly turned his head towards the sound of the voice. His eyes came to rest on the black painted face of the very tall and imposing man dressed in black and holding the exceptionally scary looking weapon on his head. Weston Torcrum took a deep breath resigning himself to his death. They had gone too long without being discovered, and he had known for some time that it was only a matter of time before they were caught.

"Is there anyone else here?" Martin asked.

"There is just my... my wife and I." Weston spoke evenly.

"Ealin and Eric conduct a sweep of the rest of the apartment." Martin spoke. "Anja and Anari cover the back door."

Weston watched with wide eyes as he saw the two men move past the young man into the interior of his home. The two women he saw turn and head for the back door of their apartment. "I assure you young man, we are quite alone." Weston said, his voice wavering in tone for only a fraction of a second as another female from the looks of the way she filled out her uniform moved up behind his wife.

Martin reached up and pushed back his balaclava, exposing his face. "You'll forgive me if I check for myself sir. I've found people who are cozy with the Alliance aren't the most truthful."

"We do not help the Alliance! You will find nothing!" Talia Torcrum hissed.

Weston held up his hand to his wife. "Let them do what they must Talia." He spoke. "We can no longer hide ourselves."

Martin saw her eyes dart to one side of the room quickly and she sprang out of her chair with speed far greater than any human. Martin had already deducted she was an elf by her scent, and he simply jammed the barrel of his HK into Weston's chest as the older man began to rise.

"I wouldn't." Martin said.

Lynwe caught Talia before she got halfway across the room, using her height and Drow strength to pin the woman's arms down and hold her tightly against her own body. She leaned over close to her ear. "You will not break my grip she elf." Lynwe spoke. "And we are not here to hurt you."

Martin looked at Anja as she came into the room. "Check the cabinet she was making for." He said.

Anja allowed her HK to drop on her straps and she went to the large ceiling length cabinet that held dishes and assorted glasses. Her relationship with Danny and Julie had given her much keener senses due to their DNA bonding with hers, and now she used that much more acute vision to detect the faint line in the wall behind the cabinet, and the faded signs of use. She pulled the cabinet aside just as Ealin and Eric came down from the second floor.

"It's clear Martin." Ealin spoke, seeing Anja by the cabinet. He saw Martin motion with his head towards Anja, and he pulled back his balaclava and moved over next to her. His elf eyes detected the indentations of the hidden door easily and he looked at Anja and nodded.

Anja planted her palm against the wall panel and shoved. The entire section of wall moved inwards and then slid aside to reveal a short staircase leading down into a well lit room that had nearly a dozen elves staring back up the stairs at them.

Anja turned back to Martin. "You'd better check this out." She said.

Eric came over next to Weston as Martin moved to the newly opened hidden door and looked down into the stairwell. He saw four adult elves and eight children who appeared in their early teens. Martin turned back to where Weston was standing, seeing that his wife was near tears as Lynwe's arms still held her tightly.

"I'm guessing they aren't exactly Alliance issue are they?" Martin spoke turning back to Weston.

Weston's eyes went to where Ealin stood, seeing his elf ears. He turned to see Lynwe release his wife who turned to also watch her as she drew back the balaclava, revealing her Drow features and allowing her shimmering white hair to fall.

"Drow!" His wife gasped, stepping away from her quickly.

Weston turned again to see Anja and Eric pull their hoods off, before his eyes went to back to Martin. "You are not... you are not Alliance Secret Police?" He finally was able to stammer.

"Lucky for you no," Martin replied, "Anari?" He called.

Weston saw the female step from the kitchen area, her balaclava also pulled down to reveal her white hair and Drow features.

"The streets are silent." Anari replied quickly.

"Who... who are you?" Weston asked as Talia came up to him. He pulled her into his arms protectively, "Slavers!"

"I am no slaver!" Anari hissed stepping forward towards him.

Anja stepped between her and Weston just as Lynwe got there as well. "He is frightened Anari." Anja spoke in a soft voice.

Anari and Lynwe both looked at Anja with their amber eyes, surprised at the soothing tone of her voice and the almost musical elegance of her tone.

Martin turned slightly to his left. "Raptor One to Raptor Three, give me a status."

Julie's reply was immediate and he heard her within his implant. "We have secured the packages One. However, we have a situation."

"Explain."

"Nine additional situations to be exact," Julie's voice said.

"Stand by Three." Martin turned to look at Weston. "You're running an underground network to get elves out of the city aren't you?"

Weston met Martin's eyes. "I'm sorry but I will reveal nothing to you until I know who you are. You are obviously not with the Alliance, not if you are working with elves. Who are you?"

Lynwe looked at Martin. "They are common Martin Hunter." She spoke, "Humans who are sympathetic to our plight. His woman is an elf after all."

Martin nodded. "Yeah I figured that out in one sniff." He answered.

Anja stepped up to him now. "Marty this is a problem. Kenny's Raptor is not configured for twenty-two additional paxs."

Martin met her green eyes. "Yeah, that is a problem isn't it."

“Falre Lome.” The voice said causing everyone to turn and look at the male elf that had moved up to the top of the stairs. “You... you are the Falre Lome aren’t you?”

Weston and Talia both focused their eyes on Martin now. The rumors of the Falre Lome had been circulating throughout the city for weeks. The Phantom soldiers as they were called were said to have begun building a city deep in the mountains of the west, a city of men and elves.

“That is nothing more than a rumor Rumala.” Weston spoke, looking at him. “There is no truth to it. The Alliance would never allow a place like that to exist.”

“No Weston.” The elf spoke coming fully out of the hidden room now. “It is real.” He looked at Martin. “Isn’t it? It is said that the leader of the Falre Lome moves like a ghost, that he has eyes that can look through you into your soul. That he has the eyes of a Lyca Ohtar. They say he travels and fights with elves who are his friends and brothers. And they say he shares the bed of the Queen of the Wood Elves. It is you, you are the one.”

Martin looked at him. “They say all that?” He asked quite surprised by this information.

Weston’s eyes grew wider and he looked at Martin. “You... you are saying it’s true?” He gasped.

Martin turned to look at him and nodded. “Most of it yes.” He replied with a smile, “Though the part about seeing through your soul is a little off; flattering... but not really true.”

“How... how did you find us?” Weston asked.

“Your daughter,” Martin told him.

EDEN MOON BASE

William looked through the window of the cell door at Selene Torcrum very confused. He turned to the elf that stood outside the door.

“What’s this?” He asked.

The elf, his bronze colored face badly bruised, looked through the one way glass. “Apparently that is her natural color Admiral. When... when I cleaned her in the shower, the false coloring she was using came out.”

Bill looked at the elf. “I’m sorry Aenin. I didn’t expect Graham to move so quickly after I told him we had her.”

“It is not your fault Admiral.” The elf replied. “We thought that we had found all of his Sweeper men. No one imagined he would use elves to replace those he lost.”

“I’m sorry for what happen to you and what you were forced to do.” Bill said.

“I am recovering Admiral.” Aenin spoke with a small smile. “We elves are very resilient.”

“Yes... just how resilient I learn every day.” Bill replied.

“Have we discovered how they were able to obtain the drug?” Aenin asked.

“One of the elves that Paul treated after the conduit accident was actually working for Graham. He was able to lift a vial out of the infirmary. Paul has put everything under lock and key now.” Bill answered.

“Admiral... I... I am not proud of what happen.” Aenin spoke.

“It is not your fault Aenin.” Wallace told him again. “Graham’s men were able to stick you and her before you realized it and tried to intervene. You were not in control of your actions.”

“I should have been able to fight it more.” Aenin said.

Bill shook his head. “If there is blame to accept it is mine.” He said softly. “I should have been more careful speaking where I was. And then I allowed Graham to use the tape he made to blackmail the Alliance.”

Aenin looked at him. “You are upset about that?” He asked surprised.

“Not about the Alliance, just about the tactics we resorted to using to obtain what we wanted.” Bill answered.

“That was not your order Admiral.” Aenin told him. “You bear no blame for that. And given our circumstances, I would have used the tape in the same manner.”

Bill looked through the glass again. “How is she doing?”

“She has not eaten in almost two days.” Aenin spoke. “She is angry and worried for her family. Admiral... you know of course that she is part elf?”

Bill nodded. “I just discovered that. How can you tell?”

Aenin looked through the glass. “She has had cosmetic surgery done on her ears to hide their natural size and shape. It is very painful the first few hours after being done, and it must be repeated every few years. Due to our natural regenerative abilities, the shape of our ears will always grow back.”

“You have to admire her for that.” Bill spoke. “Apparently her family has been running and underground network for many years, helping elves to escape New Memphis and other cities.”

“Why would she work with the Alliance then?” Aenin asked.

“That’s what I’m going to find out.” Bill spoke holding up the data pad. “Stay by the door if you will.” Aenin nodded, “Of course Admiral.”

Wallace entered the code on the door and stepped into the room. It was not a large room, a standard ten by ten room with bunk and toilet and sink.

Selene Torcrum screamed when she saw him walk through the door and she lunged at him with hatred in her eyes. Her strawberry blond hair was gone, replaced by the deep burgundy red that was her natural color. No longer tied up in the bun she wore when she had come to Eden her hair tumbled past her shoulders in waves. The plain white jumpsuit she wore did nothing to hide her very shapely figure, and her eyes were steel blue in color and filled with a murderous intent. All of it directed at him.

Bill caught her throat in the grip of one hand, his eyes changing to yellow orbs outlined in black and he brought her frightened face within inches of his own.

“Doctor Torcrum, do not make me regret my decision to keep you alive.” Bill growled at her, his fangs clearly evident and protruding from his lips. “Please control your urges to rip my face off until you have heard me out.”

Selene glared at his changed face. “Or what... you’ll arrange to have me raped again you sonofabitch!”

“That was not my doing!” Bill spoke.

“You expect me to believe that! You even brought one of those fuckers in this room with you!” Selene spat. “Why should I even talk to you?” Selene slumped in the grip of his hand around her throat now, and her eyes instantly filled with tears. “Everything that meant anything to me is gone now. Thanks to you!” She hissed, the fire in her eyes returning. “I swear... I swear to you... if I ever get the chance I’ll kill you.”

Bill smiled as he let go of her neck and watched her step back. He willed his features to return to normal and looked at her. “You can join the ever growing list of people who want to kill me, but for now let’s talk about your family.”

Selene backed away from him, her arms wrapping around her upper body as if she was cold. “My... my family is dead.” She stated softly.

Aenin saw that she was shivering and removed his fatigue top. He stepped up to her and held it out for her to take. Selene glared at him, noticing for the first time the large bruises on his neck and arms. “Regardless of what you may think of me Selene Torcrum, you are cold and it is just a piece of clothing.” He spoke.

“Go to hell!” She barked at him.

“You might want to be a little nicer to the man who saved your life.” Bill spoke.

“Do you consider rape saving someone’s life now Admiral?” Selene spoke. “You and the Alliance will get along very well then.”

Wallace exhaled deeply, maintaining control of his emotions. “I had no desire to go over this, but before I slap you silly due to your attitude I’ll explain it to you.”

“Oh please... I look forward to hearing how you planned my rape and killed my family.” Selene spoke.

“You were placed in this cell after you overheard my confession to Anisa.” Wallace told her. “I advised the Senator of my actions and made up an excuse that you were trying to steal the secrets to our drug.”

Selene looked at him. “Your drug? Your drug doesn’t even work!” She barked. “It’s a fabrication!”

Wallace smiled. “Yes I know.” He told her, causing her head to come up and her eyes to focus on him. “Graham took it upon himself to act without my knowledge once he learned I had locked you up. He had previously recruited four elves to his cause, promising them power and control. One of these elves managed to steal a sample of the Alliance drug from our labs. A drug you helped to improve over the last few years I might add.” He spoke causing Selene to lower her gaze. “Anyway... the four elves came to your cell and injected you with your own drug, thus making you very compliant to whatever suggestions that Graham wanted you to show. Aenin here tried to stop them, and he was able to kill one before they also injected him with the drug.” Selene let her steel blue eyes go to where the elf stood. He was the one she could remember the most. He had the deep bronze skin and the incredibly handsome face. "Once they injected Aenin they forced him to conduct himself in a manner which he had no control of. Your drug is very effective Selene." Bill continued, her eyes coming back to him. "When they had finished what Graham wanted them too, they very nearly killed Aenin before two of my security team were able to stop them."

"I... I am supposed to believe this?" Selene asked, though her tone was much more subdued.

Bill looked at Aenin. "Show her." He said.

"Admiral it is not necessary." Aenin spoke softly. "It is a shame I must bear."

"I told you it was not your fault Aenin. Now show her!" Bill snapped.

Aenin sighed heavily and reached down to pull off the t-shirt he was wearing exposing his upper body. Selene winced at what she saw crisscrossing his chest. Aenin's hairless yet well developed chest was criss crossed with jagged looking cuts that were still healing. Selene was half elf and therefore knew that if the cuts were still healing, they must have been very deep. His sides and abdomen were adorned with large purple welts and some of his skin was still red.

"They broke six of his ribs, snapped his collarbone and stabbed him four times, on top of what you can see." Bill spoke. "He spent nine hours in the infirmary, and you want to know the first thing he told Anisa when she went to see him, he told her he would still watch over you."

Selene dropped her gaze from Aenin, unable to meet his eyes.

Bill looked at Aenin motioning for him to put his shirt back on. "I can be a brutal motherfucker when I want to be Selene. Some have even called me heartless." He told her. "However, I have absolutely no use for rape or those who commit rape. What happened to you was not my intent, and the only thing I can do is offer my sincere apologies. The two assholes that lived are in the brig as we speak. I'm going to squeeze every ounce of information out of them that I can, and then I'm going to vent their carcasses into space. When I'm finished with that, I'm going to take care of Graham as well."

Selene shook her head slowly. "It... it doesn't matter anymore." She said softly. "Deval will have my family executed the moment he gets back. Everything... everything I have worked for all these years... it's all gone now."

Bill lifted the data pad and touched the small control panel. The woman's voice burst from the pad.

"Selene! Are you there dear?" Selene's head snapped up at the voice and she nearly jumped from the bed she had sat on, snatching the data pad out of Bill's hand. The small monitor was active and full of a picture of her mother's face.

"Momma?" Selene whispered softly.

"Martin... he told me I could send you a message dear. I had no idea you were involved with these Falre Lome people Selene. They came here tonight. They said you had gotten into some trouble and that we were no longer safe. They are taking us to their city in the mountains, all of us. I... I never thought I would see it in my lifetime Selene, men and elves working together. They follow this young man without question Selene. He didn't bat an eye when he saw the refugees. He said his Admiral would give you this message and that as soon as we were safe we would contact you. Your father is with him now plotting a route out of the city. He sends his love Selene. Be safe child. I don't want to lose my daughter when the thing we have desired for so long is within our grasp. I love you daughter."

"Amille," Selene whispered reaching up to touch the screen. She slowly looked up to where Bill stood his arms crossed over his chest, "How?"

"I didn't expect Deval's reaction Selene." Bill spoke. "I assumed he would be upset, but he was incensed. Why is that? Did he know you were half elf maybe?"

Selene clutched the data pad to her chest. "No... if he had known that I would have been executed." She shook her head. "I... I have been sleeping with him for over a year." She replied, moving back to the bunk and sitting down. "I've allowed him to use me however his twisted mind wished in the hopes I could gain information that would save the lives of my family and other elves. I have shamed myself with my actions. He is a twisted evil man, and Marcus is no better. Worse even in terms of brutality. Deval believed... Deval believed I was beginning to fall in love with him." She looked at him. "You ordered... you ordered this Martin person to get my parents? Why?"

"I asked him." Bill spoke. "He has built something down there with the others. They look to him for leadership now. I no longer consider him a subordinate. I asked for his assistance in this matter, and ultimately he decided he would help. He'll get your family out of the city; I have no doubts of that. As to the why, well it stands to reason that I got you into this, and I should at least attempt to make things right."

"What... what do you want of me?" Selene asked, firmness returning to her voice.

"Every bit of information you can give me on the Alliance and the inner workings of the government. People involved; places they meet; times; everything you can think of."

"The Alliance is massive Admiral Wallace. There is no way you can bring them down." Selene spoke. "Many have tried in the past four hundred years."

Bill grinned. "Have you ever heard the story of David and Goliath?" He asked.

Vengal watched as Cathy lowered the Raptor to the ground as gently as a feather, the remains of the Boulder City Municipal Airport spread out all around them.

"Cut engines!" Cathy ordered. "But leave the turbines at seventy percent charge in case we have to blow our way out of here."

"Cutting engines," Tommy reported. "I'll take the first watch with the sabot cannon Cathy. I don't envy getting caught with our pants down again."

Cathy smiled as she unbuckled her straps. "Thanks Tommy." She spoke as she began to climb out of her seat.

"Your flying skills amaze me." Vengal spoke, looking at her. "These... flying ships... Raptors you call them Do you have many of them?"

Cathy was about to reply when she saw Leland come up behind Vengal, his fist clenched around the K12. Her face twisted into confusion. "Leland... what's wrong?" She asked.

Vengal turned as well, only to have Leland press the barrel of the K12 to a spot between his eyes. Vengal's eyes burst open in surprise and he froze. "Leland... what is... what are you doing?" He gasped.

"Take his weapons Nya Lisse Indil." Leland spoke coldly.

Cathy reached down and removed Vengal's side arm and his fighting knife without hesitation. "Leland... what's going on?" She asked.

"I'm going to ask the General right now." Leland replied. "And he is going to tell me everything I want to know isn't that right General?"

"Leland you will stand down this minute!" Vengal ordered. "That is a direct order!"

Leland jacked back the hammer of the K12. "As I have already explained General, my loyalty is now to Martin Hunter and Eden City. Perhaps you can explain to me why my friends are now in a great deal of danger attempting to rescue your daughter so that she can become the wife of the new Queen's brother. Perhaps you can explain to me why our primary extraction location was compromised, and why my friends now have to move even further to get out of harms way." Leland leaned closer. "And perhaps you can explain to me why I should not just pull this trigger now and allow your brains to decorate the console behind you for betraying our trust in you."

"Leland... you don't understand!" Vengal spoke quickly.

"Then I suggest General you make me understand, and do so quickly." Leland told him.

MOUNTAIN CITY

"I propose a gradual increase in tax revenue from the coastal cities during the fishing season to absorb the difference until the next growing season." Raloa spoke to the members of the full Council of Elders.

"Only if we do it over the next four years," Tarifa countered. "It will give time for the citizens of the coastal cities to become accustom to it and adjust accordingly." She spoke, looking over the documents in front of her.

Raloa looked at her. "The increase in revenue will help the farmers now my Queen." He said.

Tarifa nodded. "At the expense of the fishing villages, yes I know. We must learn to balance Minister Raloo. I will veto anything under four years, and I know you don't have the support to pass a referendum." She looked across the table at him with her sapphire eyes sparkling in delight.

Raloo nodded his head. "Very well, four years." He spoke.

"Excellent." Tarifa said, looking around the room. "What else?"

"I have a request here from Governor Kadeem of Salina Majesty." Treblar spoke lifting the formal looking document. "He thanks you for the visit of your mother to his humble city and formally asks that you accept an invitation to honor Founding Day in Salina."

"Salina?" Tarifa spoke. "That is the city that we have recently established a new trade route with isn't it?"

"Yes Majesty. Due to a new process designed by Governor Kadeem's City Scientists, they have been able to nearly triple their output of fruits and vegetables. All the fresh produce we have received in the last week has come from them. It is quite good actually. I had some grapes that came in this morning." Treblar spoke with a smile.

Tarifa looked at Raloo. "Minister Raloo this Governor Kadeem is in your district is he not?"

Raloo nodded. "A fairly large city Majesty and Kadeem is a competent leader. Their location provides them adequate security and for reasons we aren't aware of, the slavers and mercenaries are no longer venturing into the mountain areas in the region."

"Why is that?" Tarifa asked.

"There are rumors Majesty, nothing more." Raloo spoke.

"Such as?" Tarifa asked.

"Phantom soldiers Majesty." Raloo said.

Tarifa laughed. "Phantom soldiers... oh my." She feigned fear and the Ministers at the table chuckled.

"Forgive me for asking my Queen but you appear considerably more relaxed since your rather horrible experiences some months ago." Raloo asked her suspiciously.

Tarifa nodded. "Let's just say I am attempting to put those times behind me. My visit with my grandmother brought everything into perspective for me. My husband... my husband and I are growing closer and things are returning to normal."

Tarifa saw the nods of agreement from around the table and she turned to Treblar. "When does this Governor Kadeem expect an answer Minister Treblar?" She asked.

"He asked that you allow him two days to prepare if you will be attending." Treblar replied. "He will of course need to clear things with Cantel in regards to security arrangements."

Tarifa's brow furrowed. "Yes. I also would like to ask Telan about it as well. Perhaps he will accompany me. I believe the Holy One has voiced a request to get out of the city as well."

Raloo's eyes narrowed. "Is that wise my Queen?"

"I told him I would consider it, Minister Raloo." Tarifa answered. "You said yourself Salina is relatively secured. If Telan and my father believe it to be safe then I will bring it to this Council. We can not keep him confined to Mountain City, regardless of what we may think of his security. He has never been confined, and I for one do not wish to be the first Queen to basically have the Holy One under house arrest. Do you wish to be the First Chief Minister to allow this?"

Raloo met her eyes. Tarifa was right of course, as there were already rumors floating through the bowels of Mountain City that he was the one demanding that the Holy One stay within his quarters. He nodded slowly. "I do see your point." He spoke finally.

"I have no desire to lose him either Chief Minister, but we can't keep him locked within the walls of Mountain City forever." Tarifa spoke. "Perhaps you would like to attend Founding Day as well. Salina is in your district."

Raloo's eyes showed genuine surprise and he smiled. "I have not been away from Mountain City for some time." He said looking at her.

"Perhaps you should consider it then. I for one am extremely tired of having to argue with you about every bill I present. Perhaps we could use it as an opportunity to learn about each other more." Tarifa spoke.

"I will consider this." Raloo spoke seeing Tarifa nod.

"I believe that is all the business we have today Majesty." Treblar spoke.

“Excellent.” Tarifa spoke coming to her feet. “Tomorrow we will need to discuss the appropriations bill for the Mineral Resource Center.” Tarifa smiled at the groans from the gathered men and women. “I don’t look forward to it either, but we must pass something. I’m going to enjoy a quiet dinner with my mother and the Holy One and prepare. I will see you all tomorrow.”

They stood and bowed their heads as Tarifa made her way out of the chamber. As she exited the door, Aihola fell in beside her. She had taken to wearing form fitting dark gray jumpsuits with a long cape and hood. They were common among the citizens of mountain city; though very few of those wearing the same clothes were quite as deadly as the Drow. Tarifa had spent three hours the night before brushing out her long lustrous white hair, and it was now wrapped in silken ties that Dysea had given to her before she had left.

“Are you seriously going to ask Telan for permission to go Tarifa?” Aihola asked in a voice just above a whisper, knowing that Tarifa alone could hear her. “And you invited that dog Raloo. He despises you, it emanates from his pores like oil.”

“It will appear even less suspicious if I can say Telan approves of the visit. He is a senior military commander, and even as Queen it would be proper to ask him his opinion.” Tarifa replied as she smiled and nodded to several Ministerial aides. “As for Raloo... if he does bring his fat carcass, then I will have plans for him.”

“What if they decide to come with us?” Aihola asked. “You would have no time to... no time to meet with Dysea and your Martin Hunter.”

Tarifa kept the smile on her face. “There is a Dragoon training exercised scheduled for that same time. It would be wholly inappropriate for him to excuse himself for what is essentially a vacation. As for the Minister, I can divert his attention if needed.”

Aihola found herself smiling. She had discovered much about Tarifa, the High Elf Queen, in their last few nights together relaxing in the soothing waters of the tub and speaking of different things. She was exceptionally intelligent and had a keen mind. She was quick witted and not afraid to voice her opinions and even though she was holding up well, having to submit to Telan and make it seem like it was pleasurable was taking its toll on her.

Aihola also learned that she longed for Tarifa’s touch on her body. She wanted to taste Tarifa’s flesh over and over. She wanted to dominate her and make her beg for release. And she wanted to wrap herself in Tarifa’s arms and allow sleep to take them. And most of all she wanted Tarifa to feel the same thing.

“We are going to your mother’s residence then?” Aihola asked.

Tarifa nodded as they rounded the corner of the building into a relatively unoccupied hallway. “We need to discuss some things with the Holy One.” She replied.

“We?” Aihola asked.

Tarifa slowed to a stop and looked at her. “I told you I would include you in everything Aihola. I meant that. You have as much right to know what I am doing as everyone else. Perhaps more so due to...”

“Due to what,” Aihola asked.

Tarifa looked at her evenly with her sapphire eyes, “Due to how I feel about you, and the fact that those feelings grow stronger with each passing day.”

Aihola’s blush wasn’t seen due to the color of her skin, but she did blush and she felt a warm sensation spread across her skin. “It is... I have never...”

Tarifa looked at her. “What?”

“I’ve never met the Holy One Tarifa.” Aihola spoke softly.

Tarifa smiled. “He is not some magical wizard Aihola. And we will need his guidance.” She said looking at her closely and seeing the confusion on her face. “What is it Nya Istel? What troubles you?” (My Light) Tarifa had taken to calling her that in private when they were alone, and though Aihola never acknowledged it, those words and the way she spoke them caused warm and desire to surge through her.

Aihola looked at her only inches away, the curve of her lips and cheeks, the dazzling color of her eyes. She saw Tarifa look around carefully and then she leaned over to press her lips to hers. Aihola’s heart sang as she realized what Tarifa was going to do, but then Tarifa stopped. She reached up with her hand, their lips so close and placed two fingers on Aihola’s lips.

“I’m sorry.” Tarifa said softly. “I... I forgot myself for a moment. I promised I would not do anything to put pressure on you.” She stepped back and took a deep breath before looking into Aihola’s amber eyes with a smile. “Perhaps I have something else that will bring a little more joy into your life.”

“What... what do you mean?” Aihola said.

Tarifa held up the two data pads, her eyes brightening. “These came this morning with the convoy from Salina.” She replied. “I believe they are for you.”

“Me?” Aihola questioned.

Tarifa nodded. “It seems you are not as alone as you first thought Nya Istel.” She spoke. “One is from Dysea, and the other I believe is from someone you know quite well. His name is Tari.”

Aihola’s amber eyes exploded open. “Tari! He is alive? How... I mean where... he...”

Tarifa smiled and took her hand squeezing it. “Be calm Nya Istel, you can read them when we reach my mother’s home and you can have privacy. Just know that he is with Martin and he is safe.”

Aihola took a deep breath calming her excitement at this news, knowing they both still had roles to play. She nodded to Tarifa. “Avatyare nin.” (Forgive me)

Tarifa released her hand reluctantly. “There is nothing to forgive. Come... my mother is expecting us.”

LAS VEGAS

FIVE MILES FROM BOULDER CITY AIRPORT

They were resting in the broken down building just on the edge of Las Vegas. The lights of the city could be seen easily now in the darkness. Leena held Anuk close to her body as Anuk was shivering in the cool night air partly from the symptoms of drug withdrawal and partly from the night air.

“We have another six miles to go.” Dan spoke softly. “We’re on the surface now so we can move quicker. Radama you have anything on the motion sensors?”

Radama shook his head. “Nearest contact I have is three and a half miles north of us. They seem to be concentrating the search in the sewers still.”

Dan nodded. “They’re as stupid as they look. Ok... we can make it in under an hour if we hump it. Let’s get moving.”

Leena looked at him. “Anuk is getting worse.” She said. “Her body temperature is dropping dangerously low.”

Dan looked at Judziea and saw she was huddled close to Tony, but did not appear to be suffering from the chills. “It’s a symptom of the antidote.” Dan said. “Anja said it makes elf body temperatures drop quite a bit.”

“She will go into shock if we can’t warm her up!” Leena spoke quickly. “My body alone does not provide enough heat for her.”

“Get her up and moving. Activity will generate body heat.” Dan said.

Leena glared at him. “She is exhausted! She can hardly stand!”

“Would you rather stay here?” Dan asked.

“I... I will be alright.” Anuk’s voice said as she struggled to her feet.

“Anuk you...” Leena protested.

“He... he is right.” Anuk spoke. “I need to keep moving.”

Leena slipped her arm under her cousin. “Are you sure Anuk?”

“I do not wish to be captured by those animals again.” Anuk spoke as they began moving, “Never again.”

Dan turned to check their rear and heard the loud crashing noise. His head snapped back around to see the floor of the building open up and swallow Leena and Anuk completely. He dropped his HK to let it dangle and dove for the opening in the floor. He slid to a stop on the edge and his eyes widened as he realized he was looking into an empty black maw. A black maw he could not see the bottom too. Leena was holding onto a dried out piece of timber with one hand, Anuk dangling from her other hand. Her face was a mask of pain.

“Help... help us!” She grimaced as the words left her mouth. “I... I can’t... I can’t hold her!”

“No Leena!” Anuk screamed her eyes now very wide and filled with undisguised fear. “Don’t drop... don’t drop me!”

“Hold on!” Dan yelled shoving his HK from under his gut, his eyes frantically looking for something to use to support himself. He could hear the floor of the building creaking under his two hundred and sixty pounds of muscle.

“Daniel!” Radama’s voice cried out as he, Tony and Judziea started back towards them.

“No!” Dan screamed at them. “The floor will give out completely!”

“I’ll find a board!” Tony yelled, his eyes searching the immediate area.

“Fuck me!” Dan grunted. “This shit only ever happens to me and the skipper!” Dan leaned over as far as he dared and clamped his hand onto Leena’s arm. “I have you!” He yelled to her. “Pull her up! Have her grab my other hand!”

“She’s too weak!” Leena screamed.

“Fuck woman, don’t argue with me!” Dan yelled.

Dan watched as Leena grimaced in effort, pulling Anuk up as far as she could, almost level with her shoulders. “Take his hand!” Leena snapped.

Anuk grabbed Dan’s hand, using the last of her strength to reach up and clamp onto his forearm with both hands. Dan began to swing Leena back and forth and looked over to Tony. “Sling shot!” He yelled and saw Tony nod.

“Wait! What are you doing?” Leena screamed. Dan swung Leena one more time and then heaved with all of his strength. Leena screamed in pain as her shoulder was immediately dislocated the moment Dan yanked her up. She flew wildly through the air, easily twenty meters until she slammed into Tony’s unyielding body with a loud grunt of pain.

Dan reached down without pause and grabbed Anuk with his free hand and now had both hands on her arms. “Hold on!” He yelled. “I’ll get you up.” Dan heard the floor creak below him and he looked down slowly.

“Pull me up!” Anuk screamed. “Pull me up!”

Dan ignored her and tried to focus his eyes on the beams beneath him. The darkness made it hard to see but Dan found what he was looking for and his eyes grew even wider. The support beams for the floor he laid on were thick old timber, and all of them had been eaten away by time and what appeared to be termites. He could also see the foundation walls on the side beginning to push inward and sand began to slide through cracks already in the concrete walls. He had maybe seconds before the additional weight on his body made the old timbers snap off and he would plunge into the darkness below. “Oh shit!” He muttered. He snapped his head up and looked at Tony. “Get to the evac point now!”

Tony looked at him confused. “I got a board!” He yelled.

“Master Chief I’m giving you a direct order!” Dan screamed. “This building is sitting on a sink hole and that fucker is about to open! Evac now! God damn it evac now!”

Tony’s eyes were wide as he pulled the struggling Leena away from the building. “No!” Leena screamed. “We can’t leave her! No!”

The screeching sound grew louder now and Tony watched as the edges of the building began to bow inward. “Radama run!” He yelled. “Run!”

Dan waited until he saw his teammates turn and sprint for safety and then he looked at Anuk. Her cerulean eyes were filled with tears, her body wracked with sobs. “Oh man, this is going to hurt!” Dan said to himself as he gazed into the darkness beyond Anuk’s dangling body.

Dan closed his eyes and willed the change upon him. Anuk could only watch in horror as the human hands that had been holding her suddenly transformed into tough leathery skin and sprouted thick dark hair. The fingers lengthened and grew savage looking claws almost two inches long. She looked up and watched as his face grew into the shortened snout, and square like nose with wide nostrils. Coarse like dark hair blossomed over his face and neck, the muscles under his skin rippling and pulsing in inhuman exertion. His gleaming white fangs burst forth from his gums and Anuk saw her death. And then his eyes opened and staring at her were the most beautiful yellow black orbs Anuk had ever seen. She saw his face clench and then Dan pushed off from the floor, pulling Anuk up towards him with inhuman strength and crushing her to his body protectively as their bodies began to fall back into the huge hole beneath them.

There was a brief second when Anuk was inches from his animal like features, and she looked into his yellow black eyes, and Anuk saw fear.

“Hold on!” Dan told her.

And then they fell.

NEW MEMPHIS

Martin’s yellow black eyes were currently scanning the quiet empty dock area along the Mississippi River. He could see the hulk of the former Hernando Desoto Bridge in the southern distance against the backdrop of night sky. There were almost no clouds, and the moon and stars were in full force, bathing the urban area in a supernatural like light. Martin knew that the other side of the bridge no longer existed, the concrete and steel pilings having been eroded away by the countless years of the huge river flowing by. Martin turned his superbly keen eyes back northward, searching for anything that could be construed as being out of the ordinary.

They had left Weston Torcrum’s home on the lower end of Mud Island and moved north. They had linked up with Julie and Tari, three more adult elves and six children among their team. Martin and his eleven member unit were now responsible for the lives of nine adult elves and thirteen elf children. The lateness of the hour bode well for them and they were able to move to their current location unimpeded. Martin could see the massive wall surrounding New Memphis now. Its thirty meter high concrete and steel construction was an imposing sight. The wall stopped at the river’s edge, to be replaced by what was easily an impassable layer of number three ten strand razor wire. It was stretched tight across the water, at surface level, and the narrow pedestrian bridge overlooked this man made barrier. Martin’s eyes could detect at least six guards on a roving patrol walking from either end of the bridge.

Martin turned slightly as Julie eased to the ground next to him. “It’s nice and quiet Skipper.” She spoke softly.

Martin nodded. “It won’t stay that way.” He answered.

“Where did we find two PAVE LOW III helicopters Skipper?” Julie asked. “I thought they had all been retired when the Raptors came into full production.”

Martin smiled. “The better question is where did we find anyone old enough that remembers how to fly them?” He spoke.

“Don’t let Ben hear you say that Skipper.” Julie spoke. There was a long pause as they squatted there in the cool night breeze listening to the sounds of the river and then Julie turned her yellow black eyes on Martin. “Can I ask you something Skipper?”

Martin detected the shift in the tone of her voice and he looked at her. “Shoot.”

“You ever wonder when the fighting will stop.” Julie asked him. “You, me, Danny, the others, we’ve been fighting on and off since we were sixteen.” She continued. “We landed the EDEN mission and we all thought we’d be home free. No more wars, no more fighting and dying. Less than a year into that gig and look where we are?”

Martin nodded. “Back where we started.” He replied softly.

“Do you ever think about just saying fuck it and disappearing?” Julie asked him. “Find an out of the way place and just living life?”

Martin nodded, “Every day.” He answered honestly, “Especially now that I have Dysea.”

“Have you finally figured out how to love Marty?” Julie asked him.

Martin smiled and looked at her. “It’s never a dull day that’s for sure.” He replied. “I find myself wanting to just take her and find an island somewhere in the Pacific where we can run around naked and not have a care in the world. She has made me see there is more to life than fighting.”

“I think Danny and I have run our course Skipper.” Julie said softly, looking at the man she had called brother as long as she could remember. “We’ve talked about it and we think it would be best for both of us.”

“What about Anja?” Martin asked more quickly than he had intended.

Julie grinned. “Anja... well that’s another story. We both care for her deeply, but... well I think it was just an infatuation. Something that was new to all of us and very enjoyable.”

“Does she know?”

“I think she senses it. She’s a lot smarter than she lets on, and to be honest I think she feels the same way. She’s been very distant of late.” Julie answered quietly. “This world we’ve introduced her too, becoming like us in a way. She’s still walking through it like a wide eyed teenager. I don’t think it has hit her just yet what she is capable of. She’s still operating on her training wheels so to speak.” Julie looked at him. “And she is so in love with you she can’t see straight Marty.”

Martin looked at her his eyes wide. “What?”

Julie nodded. “Why do you think we’ve drawn apart from each other?” Julie said. “Anja still loves you... and while we may have had a really good time together, the longer she is around you, the more she realizes she still loves you, and the more she makes Danny and I realize that it’s time to move on.”

“Jules...”

Julie shook her head. “Don’t you dare apologize for something that is not your fault Skipper, don’t even think about it. Danny and I have known we weren’t meant to be together. Anja coming into our lives just hastened that break, and made it a lot easier.” Julie said. “She loves you boss... you can smell it all over her. My advice would be to not let her slip away.”

“Jules... I have Dysea now.” Martin said.

Julie laughed. “Man... you are as dense as Danny sometimes Skipper. Dysea and Anja have the hots for each other too. Haven’t you noticed the shy looks and longing stares between them?”

Martin shook his head slowly. “No.”

Julie laughed softly again. “It’s there Skipper.” She said. “Man... what’s it feel like to have two hot women want you so bad they walk around with their panties wet all the time?”

“Julie... that...”

“Have you ever thought about changing Dysea boss?” Julie asked suddenly.

Martin nodded. “Yes I have.” He told her. “Like you... I think it will be too much. We struggled with it in the beginning remember. Then there are times when I say why not. Dysea knows I can change to a degree, but she is also not stupid. She senses there is something more.”

Julie nodded. “Anja does too Skipper.”

“Julie... you know I will never be angry with you or Danny. We... the three of us... we’ve been together since the beginning.” Martin spoke.

Julie nodded. “I know. I just wanted you to hear it from me.” Julie said. “Danny is too much of a coward to tell you.” She finished with a smile of affection.

Martin looked at her. “Jules... you and Dan are like brother and sister to me. You’re the only family I have. The only family I’ve ever had. What happened... the comet... it changed us all, but it would never stop me from telling you guys to go with what your heart tells you? In the end, that is what matters.”

“Dysea has changed you boss.” Julie told him with a smile.

“Jeez! Don’t tell her that, I’ll lose my advantage.” Martin said. He turned soundlessly. “Head back to your team. We have five hours to kill before Ben gets here with the PAVE LOW III. That puts us an hour before daybreak. I want everyone to be ready to roll.”

Julie nodded. “We’ll be ready.”

MOUNTAIN CITY

“...hope you don’t think ill of me Aihola.” Dysea’s image was on the data pad in Aihola’s hand as she stood on the patio balcony of Palina’s home. “I have spoken with Anja, and she is confident she can produce a more permanent solution to your situation. I have sent up another mixture of the serum in the supply run with this data pad. Anja is currently on a mission with Martin, but she will return soon. I hope to see you soon Aihola. I must go now... until next time Aihola.”

Aihola smiled as Dysea’s picture faded and her fingers drew away from touching her image on the pad. She felt her skin flush at the memories of the Wood Elf Queen and her delicious pussy. Aihola set that pad aside and picked up the second pad Tarifa had given her. She took a deep breath, closing her eyes as she activated it.

“Hello sister.” Tari’s voice caused tears to come to Aihola’s face and she opened her amber eyes to look on Tari’s face for the first time in over a year.

“Tari,” She gasped, touching the screen.

“I must make this brief sister, for Martin Hunter has requested we join him on a mission. The Wood Elf Queen assured me this would reach you. I did not believe her when she told me you were alive my sister, and it made my heart sing to the heavens. I have missed you Aihola, and I look forward to the day I can hold you again. Much has changed since we last spoke Aihola. I have broken our unit, our family from the Alliance as you no doubt already know. We have spent the last months shadowing this Martin Hunter while he rampaged through the mountains and built something unlike anything we have seen. As we traveled we picked up humans and elves alike that suddenly looked to us for protection. They looked at us not with fear sister, but with acceptance. I must tell you Aihola, it was inspiring. I have never felt welcome anywhere, but after only a few hours among Martin’s group, I feel welcome.” Aihola watched as he looked away for a moment and nodded. He turned back to face her on the screen. “I must go sister, but before I do, I wish to tell you what else I discovered while traveling the wastes and living a new life. We are Drow Aihola, meant by the Holy One to be dominant in all which we are. I have learned much sister; I have learned that the old ways are no more. The ways of our parents died with them. We need no longer cling to centuries old traditions and rules. This is a new age, and a new era. It will bring war and death this I know, but we are now free to follow our calling no matter where it lies. You were always the more emotional Aihola, mother said this many times.

“You are Drow Aihola of the Family Anatyla. Do not be afraid to take what you want my sister, and no longer should you be afraid to express who you are inside.” Aihola watched her brother wave his hand and make the strange faces he always made when he was at a loss for words, and she chuckled at his antics. “Bah... listen to me; I have become a philosopher in my old age. I must go, but we will see each other soon Aihola. Until then... be who you are, not as you think you should be.”

Aihola touched the small screen just before his image faded and she wiped the tears from her eyes. She looked up at the sky above her and felt a great weight lifting from her shoulders and she smiled.

“Take what I want.” She said softly and nodded her head. “This... this I will do my brother.”

Aihola tucked the data pads into her small hip pouch and walked back into Palina’s home.

“I have obtained the blood sample Anja needs from your father to determine what controls him.” Palina spoke as Aihola came back into the room and moved to the chair across from where Tarifa sat on the couch.

“We can take it to her when we go to Salina for Founding Day.” Tarifa replied to this confidently.

“You don’t seem concerned that they might try to keep you from going.” Palina asked her daughter.

Tarifa shook her head. “They will know that they can’t keep me locked down here in Mountain City indefinitely.” She spoke. “Telan is becoming more comfortable and he is reporting this, as well as my actions.”

“I have almost all the cameras that Martin Hunter gave us deployed in locations around the Council Chambers and promenade.” Cantel spoke from behind them. “I will be able to place the remaining ones in two days when we gather for the training meeting. To approach the administrative offices before hand would look suspicious on my part. I have stated many times I hate going there, and to suddenly appear would lead to questions.”

Tarifa nodded. “Holy One I’ve requested you accompany us as well.” She spoke looking at him. “Some of the Ministers looked skeptical, Raloo more so, but after I invited him as well and told them we can’t keep you locked in Mountain City forever they appeared to acquiesce.”

Palina looked at her daughter wide eyed. “You invited Raloo Tarifa?” She exclaimed. “Why would you do such a thing?”

Walter chuckled as he sipped his tea. “Keep your friends close, but keep your enemies closer.” He spoke. “It is an old adage, but one that Tarifa is wisely staying true too.”

“By inviting the man who has betrayed us,” Palina gasped. “How is this going to make our tasks easier?”

“It would illicit trust, at least temporarily.” Tarifa replied. “And it will allow me to keep an eye on him.”

“But if he accompanies us, you will not be able to meet with Dysea, or Martin. I thought that was part of the reason for this trip.” Palina said.

Tarifa chuckled softly. "You don't know Martin very well mother." She replied. "I will be able to spend considerable time with Martin and Dysea both. And I'll be able to see Eden for the first time. And Aihola needs to see her brother."

"Putting your safety at risk because Aihola wants to see her brother is not wise daughter." Palina spoke.

Tarifa's eyes narrowed. "Aihola has... she has been there for me every night after Telan has had his way with me. I can not rush out to come here mother. Aihola has soothed me and we have talked of many things. She has been my friend, and she deserves your respect mother!"

Tarifa got to her feet and angrily stormed out of the room to the balcony area of her mother's home. Palina started to rise, but Walter got to his feet first. "These are trying times Palina." He spoke, his voice soothing. "You must trust in your daughter's wisdom. There is something bothering her, and she has always talked to me. I will speak with her."

Palina opened her mouth to speak but stopped herself and Walter headed onto the balcony following Tarifa. Palina took a deep breath and nodded her head slowly. "She is right." She spoke softly, turning her eyes to where Aihola sat. "Please forgive me Aihola, my concern for my daughter caused me to forget what you have endured yourself. Tarifa has never had those she called friends. Her position and the status of our family have prevented that. I thank you for the friendship you have given her."

Aihola leaned forward in the chair. "Queen Mother... I am Drow. I understand our two peoples have never been friends. Drow do not make friends, yet my time with Tarifa, as short as it has been, has shown me many things that I would not have seen before. She is your daughter yes, but she has become my... she has become my friend." The words were foreign to Aihola, but they came from within her as easily as the morning breeze, and it only served to confirm what she already knew. "I will die before I allow harm to come to her Queen Mother. I give you my word as a Drow Warrior."

Palina looked into Aihola's amber colored eyes and she saw truth and devotion in them. She smiled slowly and came to her feet holding out her hand. "Come Aihola... let you and I check on the progress of our dinner. I'm beginning to get hungry."

Aihola looked at Palina in surprise, and in an act that unlocked that final door into her new world, Aihola took Palina's hand as she got to her feet. "I would like that Queen Mother." She spoke softly.

Walter came up behind Tarifa slowly. She was leaning against the railing, her face upturned into the night.

"Tarifa?" He spoke quietly.

Tarifa turned quickly and folded herself into Walter's arms. Surprised, he allowed his arms to encircle her as she placed her head to his chest.

"I am so confused Holy One." She spoke softly.

Walter tightened his grip on her. "I have no doubt of that Tarifa." He told her. "Are you concerned that you can not go through with what you have in mind?"

Tarifa drew back her head slightly. "No." She answered. "I can do that."

"Then what troubles you child?"

"Holy One is it wrong for me to... to have feelings for someone?" Tarifa asked.

Walter shook his head quickly. "I think you know it's not Tarifa." He said. "Martin is..."

Tarifa shook her head. "No Holy One... it is not Martin."

Walter looked at her. "I don't understand... I thought you and Martin were... I thought you were lovers."

Tarifa nodded. "We were." She spoke. "And for the time we had together it was glorious. We... we needed each other at that time."

"Not anymore though?" Walter asked.

"Your own words to me and to Martin Holy One," She said. "We would help each other to see different things, to see in a whole new perspective. You were right. Martin and I will always be like brother and sister, as close as two siblings can be, but Dysea owns his heart... as does Anja. There is much more to Martin than he shares Holy One. Perhaps much more than you even know."

Walter smiled at her. "You might be surprised at what I know about Martin." He said. "I did not realize that Anja still held sway over him though?"

Tarifa nodded. "Holy One I think I may be in love." Tarifa said.

“There is nothing wrong with that Tarifa. Love is a natural way of things.”

“Even if that love is for another woman,” Tarifa asked, seeing Walter’s eyes go slightly wider.

“You speak of... you speak of Aihola?” He asked.

Tarifa nodded slowly. “Holy One... she stirs me like no other I have ever met, male or female.”

“Then why do you ask me if it is wrong Tarifa?” Walter asked her taking her face in her hands. “You above all the elves I have created and those that were born after like you; you deserve happiness more than all of them, because you have endured more than most. If Aihola stirs these feelings in you Tarifa... do not dismiss them or deny them. Explore them.”

“You will not... you will not think less of me?” Tarifa asked.

Walter pulled her close for a strong embrace and smiled. “Think less of you? Why would I think less of you child, when you do the one thing that still many cling to as wrong? No Tarifa... I will think more of you. Not less.”

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

NEW MEMPHIS

Anja Peterson had changed in the last five months.

She had come to EDEN with an attitude of arrogance and distrust, having been working the last three years directly for Senator Graham, a man whom she despised. She had allowed Graham’s son Kevin and even Graham himself to take her to bed and slobber and grunt all over her, in the hopes of furthering her career. She was out only for herself at that time in her life, not caring what she had to do, or who she had to sleep with to get where she wanted. Anja was smart, beautiful, and an extremely skilled genetics expert, yet she considered people below her education level to be beneath her and undeserving of her attention. She could have used her brains to obtain what she wanted, and instead chose to use her looks.

All that had changed when she met Daniel Simpson and Julie Collins, two of the Genomes she had been sent to EDEN to have declared not fit for duty and removed from the active Navy roles. And in an ironic and amazing twist of fate, Anja had become the very willing and quite submissive lover to both of them, and her world had suddenly become so much larger and clearer.

Anja did not think of herself as a bad person, nor did she start out acting as a pompous bitch. She was extremely intelligent, tops in her class at the Naval Academy, one of the first women to complete the Navy’s SEAL training with honors, and she had two advanced degrees in Genetic Engineering and Bio-Research. The people she had chosen, or more importantly her father had chosen for her to associate with had changed her. Yet her relationship with Danny and Jules had opened so many doors that Anja had never known existed. She no longer looked at Genomes as beneath her, primarily because she had become part Genome herself thanks to Danny and Julie and their torrid relationship. During her time in school Anja had always preferred to look at things objectively, yet her duty posting with Graham and his son had dampened that trait in her. When she had joined EDEN’s crew and been reunited with Martin Hunter and the other genomes, that objectivity made a smashing come back. She witnessed utter self sacrifice during the emergency on EDEN after the comet had passed them by when the unknown Raptor had crashed into the base. Martin and Danny wouldn’t leave several human engineers to die in the vacuum of space and so they worked as a team and repaired the damage and kept themselves alive.

When Anja had first met Martin Hunter she was stuck by his carefree, almost reckless path in life, and somewhat angered at his lack of emotion towards her. Anja knew she was beautiful, and not just beautiful, but downright head turning, eye stopping gorgeous. Though only five foot three, she had always kept her body in superb shape. She was proud of her large, firm 34C breasts and her naturally stiff nipples. Her tits were usually the first thing that men noticed about her and then she knew she had them. She had long legs for her height, and she kept them in lithe, muscular shape by her hand to hand regime and riding a bike as much as she could. Her ass was perhaps her finest asset, extremely firm and perfectly round muscular ass cheeks allowed her to fill out any pair of pants she wore with considerable ease. Anja had soft jade green eyes and full red lips that, Julie had commented on not so long ago, were wonderful to kiss and feel moving across her body. She had always used her beauty to her advantage, but that night with Martin Hunter had changed all that. He looked through her arrogance and defenses and her pompous attitude and dove right for her soul. He had fucked her into senselessness that night, igniting within her a need and passion she never knew she could feel. It was a need and passion she did not rediscover until she had returned to EDEN.

She had fought her feelings about going to EDEN and seeing Martin again, and when she acted like a bitch to him, he had responded in kind. Her brief but intense relationship with Danny and Julie had granted her almost immediate acceptance by the Genomes that remained. Her actions over the next few days cemented that trust even more. She did not have to think what her decision would be when it was discovered Graham was making a play for control of EDEN when they returned from earth with Tarifa. It was actually the easiest decision she had ever made.

Anja had left with Martin and the other Genomes and returned to earth to carve out their own life. Meeting the elves and eventually having to leave their capital city and build their own city had drawn her even further in. Her true self had blossomed and grown by leaps and bounds aided by her new Genome cells and skills. Anja had finally become what she was meant to be, a compassionate but capable warrior of unparalleled skill, with a firm devotion to what was right and just; a pattern of action and concern that mirrored Martin Hunter, the one man she was madly in love with.

Anja had also discovered her true sexuality while sharing a bed with both Danny and Julie. She no longer repressed her feelings and reveled in sensations that were new and wonderful. That she was without any question bi-sexual did not cause her to blink in surprise at all now. Julie's lush body had ignited a different type of passion within Anja, with its suppleness and sensuous curves and Anja loved them both. They had awakened a new person in her, and at first she thought it was love she felt for them both, yet as time passed she realized it was nothing more than a close knit friendship. They held a place in her heart and always would, yet over the last few weeks she had wanted to expand and explore because she was still looking for something. She was still missing a core piece of her being; a sense of actually belonging to someone. It was a feeling she had not felt since that night with Martin. She sensed it in them as well, a calling of sorts. Returning to earth had changed all three of them. She figured their time remaining together was short, and while that saddened her to a degree, she knew it was for the best. All of them were growing and their paths were taking different roads, and to try and remain together would only hurt them in the end.

Anja had a new sexual appetite, and she knew what she wanted. She wanted to be dominated; she wanted to be taken over and over again. Anja discovered she was totally submissive in bed, and she wanted someone to take her, dominate her, and command her but also someone who would respect her in and out of their bed. Anja had noticed many attractive elves and humans over the past weeks, even fantasizing quite a few times of having Dysea and Martin dominate her and make her do what they demanded. Thinking of Dysea caused Anja to shudder in delight. She desired the Wood Elf Queen, more than she had ever desired Julie. The elf Queen's body was even more enticing than Julie's and she longed to see Dysea naked and wrap herself around that lush body. The platinum blond hair and the lithe figure of the former Wood Elf Queen always got Anja hot, and she already knew how impressive Martin's assets were, and she couldn't help but notice the almost constant smile Dysea walked around with. It had surprised her at first that she would apprise women as she did men, but that shock had long since passed and it came quite naturally to her.

It did not surprise her however when she came to the realization that she was deeply in love with Martin. He had stolen her soul that single night so long ago, and no matter what she did, she couldn't purge him from her thoughts. He was who she was meant for, of that she had no doubts. Seeing him all the time now made it worse, and knowing that he was sleeping with Dysea even more so, because she wanted both of them so bad it was almost painful.

Anja turned when she felt the hand of the dark haired female elf Talia touch her arm. She looked at the woman and smiled warmly. "Yes ma'am."

Talia Torcrum looked at the young human female. "Your... your aura is not completely human young lady. Nor is it like that one... your commander..."

"Martin?" Anja asked.

Talia nodded. "Yes. His aura is a much darker color than yours. Like a deep forest in the west. A normal human aura is lighter in color... similar to the color of the skins of pears. Yours is different somehow."

Anja nodded. "I'm not completely human any longer." She replied with a smile. "My DNA has been altered somewhat because of a relationship I was having." Anja surprised herself when she used the past tense to refer to her trio with Danny and Julie.

"And you knew this?" Talia asked.

Anja shook her head, "Not at the time no. We only discovered it was happening later, but it was a willing change. It was not something forced on me."

"The Alliance conducts horrible experiments." Talia said softly. "Genetic experiments on elves and even humans that do not agree with their rules." She looked shyly at where Anari sat alone, her back against the wall of the building they were in. Lynwe had moved up to where Martin, Julie and Tari were squatting in a small group. "I understand that these very Drow elves with you were subjected to terrible experiments."

Anja looked at her. "How do you know?"

"The unit they belonged to came here for schooling or training or something like that many years ago." Talia explained. "I recognize the leader and his female second in command. She is very imposing." Anja's eyes moved to where Lynwe squatted. "There were rumors floating around the city all during the time they were here about how the Alliance had conducted terrible experiments on them." Talia saw the questions in Anja's eyes and continued. "Many years ago, a little over a century I think, the Drow were very nearly destroyed by the High Elves in the last battle of a war they had been fighting for decades. At the end of this battle there were only five or six thousand Drow elves left. Many of them became mercenaries and slavers. Apparently their fortitude impressed the Alliance scientists and their last village was attacked. The Alliance slaughtered them like hogs; the only ones to survive were taken prisoner by the Alliance to be used for experiments. The Drow you see here are offspring of those captured, and it was they who paid the price in the end."

"What was done to them?" Anja asked tearing her eyes from Anari just as she turned her head, feeling eyes on her and turning to see who it was.

Talia shrugged. "It is said that many of the experiments were sexual in nature, and that many of the Drow even went so far as to commit suicide when it was discovered what was done to them. Those that travel with you and any who live elsewhere must have been the strongest of mind and body."

"They seem very capable." Anja stated.

Talia nodded. "They are." She answered. "Many of them were trained by Marcus himself."

"Marcus?" Anja asked.

"He is a Drow as well, but he is different. He willingly underwent the Alliance genetic experiments. He wanted them, and they turned him into a vicious cruel monster that would butcher his own parents if he needed too. He has no heart, no soul." Talia spoke as if the mere mention of his name would bring him down on top of them. "Trust me you do not want to fall into his hands."

Anja smiled and took her hand. "We only have a few more hours and then all of you will be safe." She said.

Talia met her eyes. "We will be safe yes." She spoke softly. "What about those we leave behind?"

"We're working on that." Anja told her.

MOUNTAIN CITY

Aihola looked up from where she lay on her bed listening to the message from Tari again when she heard the door to her small quarters open and close. Her fingers closed around the handle of the R4 Razor Hybrid Knife. The doubled bladed weapon was one of a dozen that had been secreted into Mountain City and picked up by Cantel earlier in the morning. The R4 was a new designed knife, forged from High Elf Steel but finished with a matte black coating of Teflon, making it virtually indestructible. She had taken to the weapon immediately, quickly realizing the one Cantel had given her was perfectly weighted and balanced for her own hand. Cantel had told her that it was Dysea who had given specifications that were ideally suited for Aihola. She had smiled at the time thinking she would have to thank the Wood Elf Queen in a similar way.

Aihola moved nimbly from her bed, the thin white robe tied around her curves loosely. She had been passing time until her nightly rendezvous with Tarifa in the large hot tub, and no one besides Tarifa had access to her private quarters. She pressed her back against the corner of the wall that led into the small main area of her quarters, and lifted the R4 closely in her hand, intending to strike for the vital neck area of whoever came around the corner.

“Nya Istel?” Tarifa’s soft voice called out.

Aihola leaned around the corner and saw her, “Tarifa!” She exclaimed softly. “What are you doing here?” Aihola moved up next to her, amber eyes scanning the area behind Tarifa. “It is three hours before we meet, you must go! If Telan finds you here he will discover all is not as he thinks!”

Tarifa shook her head. “I slipped a pill into his drink at dinner. He will not wake until tomorrow morning the pig.” She spoke looking at the R4 Hybrid in her hand. “Were you expecting someone?” She asked with a smile.

Aihola saw where she was looking and shook her head. “I did not know it was you.” She said. “And it is no secret that Telan does not appreciate my company.”

Tarifa nodded. “That is true.” She said as she looked around the small apartment. Aihola had decorated it sparingly, Cantel bringing over some items she had requested from the small apartment she had been staying at before. “So this is where you come when you aren’t by my side?”

Aihola looked at Tarifa and for the first time saw what she was wearing. Tarifa’s robe was thin like hers, but a light blue in color, and Aihola could see her erect nipples straining against the thin fabric. She felt her face flush and warmth rushed to between her taut thighs. While her visit was a surprise, Aihola had already planned to do what her brother had said and take what she wanted. At this moment, Aihola wanted Tarifa more than anything else in her life. She had not been able to stop thinking about her time with the two Queens and what they had made her feel and do, and those memories came rushing back to her now, sending great waves of desire through her. And that desire was solely focused on Tarifa and had been for some time.

“What is it you want Tarifa?” Aihola asked confidently. She was determined to be the Mistress here, no matter Tarifa’s position as Queen.

Tarifa looked at her, detecting the slight change in her tone of voice. It was almost a tone of annoyance, yet held something else as well. “I’m sorry... I didn’t mean to disturb you.” Tarifa spoke. She started to move around her to leave, but Aihola planted her hand against the wall, blocking her path with her arm. Tarifa looked at her again and now she saw Aihola’s amber eyes staring right into her soul.

“You came here for a reason.” Aihola spoke moving closer. “What would that reason be?”

“It’s... it’s nothing really.” Tarifa spoke turning so her back was against the wall. She was confused by Aihola’s suddenly dominate nature, and while it caused a tingling sensation within her belly, Tarifa was still unsure of how Aihola would react.

“If it was nothing why did you come here dressed so?” Aihola asked, her next step putting her only inches from Tarifa’s glowing sapphire eyes. “Was it your intent to come here and try to seduce me with your charms?”

Tarifa laughed off that truth and shook her head. “No... I... I was only going to see if you would like to...”

Aihola smiled as her desire for this female continued to grow by leaps and bounds. “I think that was your intent.” Aihola spoke reaching out to stroke Tarifa’s neck with her nails. She watched with a gleam in her eyes as she allowed her fingers to move lower, stroking the hollow of Tarifa’s throat and dipping closer to the valley between her breasts.

Tarifa was frozen as Aihola’s fingers caused electric tingles to course through her body. “Ai... Aihola... what... what are you doing?” She was finally able to say.

Aihola moved her lips closer to Tarifa’s until they were almost touching. “I believe you came here with a purpose Queen of the High Elves.” She spoke softly, her hand dipping even lower. She turned her hand over and brushed the back of her knuckles across Tarifa’s left breast, eliciting a small gasp when her knuckles grazed over Tarifa’s nipple. Aihola smiled when she felt the bud harden and become even stiffer. “What is that purpose?”

Tarifa had very nearly lost it already. Her skin was on fire, her nipples protruding proudly from her thin robe. She felt the change come upon her, and the world became so much more vibrant and real. Her sapphire eyes, now outlined in black looked to the ceiling as her hands came up to grip Aihola’s strong shoulders. “Aihola... you can’t... I... I am Queen... I...”

Aihola no longer feared Tarifa when she changed, and she smiled when she saw Tarifa's teeth lengthen into half inch long fangs and her eyes change into the sapphire black orbs. Aihola brought her lips closer to Tarifa's neck, lightly grazing her skin as her hand moved lower, sliding down Tarifa's firm abdomen and making its way between the folds of her robe to touch her warm naked skin. She felt Tarifa's muscles clench and her fingers tighten on her shoulders as Aihola ripped away the robe with one hand while her other dipped lower between Tarifa's thighs. Aihola's eyes grew slightly wider when her fingers grazed the area where she knew there should be soft dark hair and she found nothing but smooth soft flesh. This only served to incite her even more and she pressed her body tighter against Tarifa's, her nipples pressing against Tarifa's own breasts, while flicking out her warm pink tongue to caress the tip of Tarifa's ear eliciting a gasp of delight.

"You have removed your hair Tarifa?" Aihola spoke softly into her ear. "What exactly am I suppose to deduce from this? I can smell your excitement Queen of the High Elves, and..." Aihola slid her fingers down even lower, curving them around slowly until they reached Tarifa's pussy. "And you are already dripping."

Tarifa shook her head slowly. "Please... I don't... I don't want to..."

"I think you do slave!" Aihola spoke more confidently. "You have not cum in so long! And you must endure that disgusting beast slobbering all over you." She whispered into Tarifa's ear. "He can not touch you in the places I can. He can not do to you what my tongue can do." As she was speaking to her, Aihola was sliding her fingers back and forth lightly over Tarifa's fully aroused and spread labia, being careful to rub her pierced clit every time she brought her fingers forward. Her pussy lips were engorged with passion, Tarifa's clit standing erect and burning with desire. The sapphire piercing was causing the pleasure to slowly build in her belly, and there was nothing she could do to avoid it now. "And Telan most assuredly can not do this to you." Aihola spoke softly, bringing her face around to stare at Tarifa. Her eyes were heavy with passion, her mouth slightly open and her breath coming in soft gasps. "Can he Tarifa?"

Tarifa shook her head quickly back and forth. "No! Gods... no!"

Aihola reached out with her tongue, running it along Tarifa's upper lip slowly and ever so sensuously, pulling back quickly when Tarifa tried to kiss her. Tarifa's eyes were wide, and she bit her bottom lip as Aihola's fingers worked her into a sexual frenzy. Her pussy was sopping wet now, her legs weak and Aihola was having little trouble. She was also becoming very aroused herself, feeling the warmth spread through her own belly and into her loins. She pressed herself closer to Tarifa, pushing one of her legs between Tarifa's thighs as she tore open the robe further, pulling it almost completely from her body and suckled on Tarifa's silky neck. Tarifa gasped loudly when she felt Aihola's lips on her skin, her body on fire. In the haze of pleasure she thought she felt two sharp points graze her skin. She felt Aihola's knee press against the back of her own hand manipulating Tarifa's soaked pussy, allowing her to apply more pressure; pressure that was soon going to force Tarifa into a blissful orgasm.

"You... you came here... you came here to seduce me didn't you?" Aihola spoke softly, her own arousal very nearly out of control. "You wanted me to taste you! To suck your sweet pussy, didn't you High Elf Queen. Answer me!"

"Yes!" Tarifa cried. "Yes! By the gods yes... that is what I wanted!"

Aihola smiled and drove three fingers deeply into Tarifa's pussy. Tarifa stood up on her tip toes gripping Aihola's shoulders for support as her orgasm shattered her resistance, and her sweet cum poured all over Aihola's fingers and hand. Her head tilted back and she looked at the ceiling and the metal striping of the window above them. She saw the look on her own face and she saw Aihola smiling, pleased with her self that she was making Tarifa come. She also saw the tips of what looked like two very sharp fangs extend from Aihola's lips and then her head came crashing forward. She clutched at the Drow warrior, burying her face between Aihola's firm breasts, as she rode out the first orgasm she had experienced since Dysea left, humping the three fingers Aihola had stuffed up her pussy, wanting it to last as long as possible.

After a long moment of Tarifa clenching her powerful pussy muscles down on her fingers, Aihola slowly pulled them out, hearing her moan in reluctance. Aihola brought them to her mouth, slowly putting one finger then the others seductively between her lips and drawing Tarifa's juices from them, savoring the taste and feeling her own desire nearly triple in intensity. She released Tarifa after ensuring she assisted her in slumping to the floor gently so that she wouldn't fall and stepped back.

"Perhaps I will do these things." Aihola spoke as she started towards her bed.

Tarifa watched her walk, still in the afterglow of the small but powerful orgasm given to her by Aihola's distinctly experienced fingers. Her eyes were clouded over in obvious lust, wanting more, needing more. Tarifa watched as Aihola turned to face her and sat down on the edge of her bed. She pulled aside her white robe to reveal her taut body in all its glorious beauty. Her ebony skin glistened with a fine sheen of sweat; her breasts though considerably smaller than Tarifa's own were conical and firm and looked oh so tasty, the dark nipples jutting proudly and begging to be suckled. Her legs were long and slender for her height, packed with muscle yet still looking feminine. And then Tarifa's eyes found her center and she whimpered in desire. Aihola's pussy was breathtaking; the thin line of pure white hair above the pink half inch long clit, now standing out proudly and obviously waiting to be fed upon. Her pussy lips were a deep red and opened like a butterfly spreading its wings. It was so different than Dysea's pussy, Aihola's clit much larger and not pierced, and Dysea's blond platinum line of hair above her opening. Dysea's tattoos only added to her beauty, but Aihola's skin was so dark and inviting, it had its very own addicting nature, and this is what Tarifa wanted. Tarifa looked up into Aihola's amber eyes and then watched as Aihola dropped one of her hands to her glistening pussy and ran her fingers invitingly over her own pussy lips slowly.

"Come Tarifa, Queen of the High Elves." Aihola spoke confidently, her lust making her confident. "This is what you want. It's written all over your face."

Tarifa didn't dare attempt to stand up, so she discarded what remained of her torn robe and began to make her way over to Aihola on her hands and knees, her hybrid eyes focused on that beautiful pussy. With graceful and feline like seductive movements she made her way to the edge of the bed on her hands and knees. Aihola reached out with her hand as Tarifa finally settled between her thighs, her eyes never leaving Aihola's now very excited pussy, her lips only centimeters from her engorged clit. Aihola caressed Tarifa's face before she wrapped a large portion of Tarifa's raven black hair in her fist and looked at her with unabashed lust in her amber eyes.

"I am your mistress now Queen of the High Elves. You will do as I demand when you share my bed. And I intend to see you share my bed quite often." Aihola spoke softly but very firmly and confidently. "If you please me, perhaps I will return the pleasure to you." Aihola was not kidding herself and she knew it; she would be the dominate Drow mistress to Tarifa, but she would never deny her anything. "Now to get your reward slave... you must eat my pussy and make me scream!" Aihola spoke, pulling Tarifa's head closer to her dripping pussy. "Eat my pussy well and I will reward you slave!"

Whatever doubts Tarifa may have had when she came into Aihola's room vanished when Aihola spoke those words. She felt the pressure Aihola exerted on the back of her head, pulling her closer to that dripping cunt in front of her face. Tarifa knew Aihola was right, she would do anything for her; she would allow Aihola to dominate her, as long as Tarifa got to dine on her wonderful pussy. The act of being submissive to Aihola in this way was driving Tarifa mad with lust and she inhaled deeply, the scent of cherry blossoms filling her nostrils, as the tip of her nose was nestled in the soft white hair just above that jutting clit.

"Eat my pussy now slave!" Aihola spoke more forcefully now, and she pulled Tarifa's head into her pussy with more strength than she intended, pushing her hips towards Tarifa's face in desperation and want. She thought for an instant that perhaps she had overstepped her bounds with her actions, but her eyes flew open and she screamed, her head falling back as Tarifa's wonderfully soft lips encased her painfully erect clit and she bit down ever so gently.

Tarifa's hands moved up to Aihola's breasts and began to pull and pinch her stiff nipples as her body fell back on the bed. Aihola still clung to her head, holding her face against her pussy. She needn't have bothered, Tarifa had no intention of leaving the position she was in until her Aihola had cum harder than she ever had before. That was her duty now as slave to her Drow Mistress.

Tarifa sucked hard once more on Aihola's clit before extending her tongue out as far as she could and trailing the tip of her tongue from the bottom of Aihola's delicious pussy back up to her clit with agonizing slowness. Aihola's body strained against her orgasm the entire time, her hands pulling Tarifa's head closer as she ground her pussy against Tarifa's lips, using all of her will power not to explode right there. She draped her long legs over Tarifa's shoulders, pulling her closer and holding her firmly in position.

"Yes... yes my slave!" Aihola gasped her amber eyes wide, her entire body shaking in pre-orgasm shudders. "You... you eat me so good! You're going to make me cum!"

Tarifa felt wetness between her own thighs as she feasted on Aihola's sweet pussy. She kept her left hand firmly fixed on Aihola's left breast, manipulating and pinching her nipple almost to the point of pain. Tarifa sensed that Aihola would enjoy that more than most and she was not disappointed as it drew moans of pleasure from her Mistress. Tarifa dropped her right hand down to scap her nails down the backside of Aihola's taut thigh. She traced Aihola's firm supple ass with her hand, squeezing that mound of delicious ebony flesh tightly, marveling in the firmness and texture. A part of Tarifa's mind told her she would have to explore every nook and crevice of that gorgeous ass at another time. Tarifa brought her fingers up the inside of her thigh to Aihola's soaked entrance and slowly pressed a long slim finger deeply into her dripping pussy, feeling Aihola's pussy muscles clamp down tightly on the invading appendage. She heard Aihola groan softly as she added another finger slowly, pushing her fingers in deep. Aihola's pussy was exceptionally tight, and she could feel the powerful walls of her tunnel clamping down on her fingers, as well as the incredible heat. Tarifa was beyond caring at this point, totally intent on making Aihola cum as hard as she could. Another finger followed the two already buried in her pussy and Aihola's body tensed as Tarifa shoved them in as deeply as she could.

"That's it, cum for me... cum for me Mistress!" She gasped, removing her lips from that hard clit, willingly accepting her role as slave to her Drow Mistress, plunging her fingers faster and deeper. She lapped away at Aihola's defenseless half inch grape sized clit with her tongue now, flicking it hard on every plunge of her fingers into her pussy.

It had also been far too long for Aihola, and her orgasm began in her belly, spreading outward and down to her spasming pussy. Aihola's body went rigid, her mouth opening wide and her amber eyes staring at the heavens as her orgasm exploded out of her. Tarifa's eyes also flew open, yet it was for a different reason. Aihola's cum erupted from around the fingers Tarifa had buried in her pussy, her sweet liquid splashing wetly on Tarifa's jaw and neck. Aihola's body arched off the bed, and Tarifa quickly pulled her fingers from her clenching pussy and opened her mouth wide, locking her lips around Aihola's entire spasming pussy, her own eyes closing in bliss as she drank down Aihola's cum.

"Ahhhhhhh... Yes my... yes my slave!" Aihola screamed her neck muscles straining to the point where veins were protruding from her skin, as her body shuddered violently in the midst of the most intense orgasm she had ever experienced. "Drink my juices slave... drink it all!"

Tarifa did just that, swallowing Aihola's cum as it squirted into her mouth with such force it set Tarifa off as well. She didn't remember Aihola cumming this hard before, her juices squirting out of her into Tarifa's waiting mouth, but she relished it none the less. Tarifa ground her tight ass cheeks down onto her heels as her pussy jumped and spasmed and her cum flooded out of her, splashing wetly down her thighs. Aihola came for nearly thirty full seconds, and Tarifa did not remove her lips from their pussy lock until she had consumed every delicious drop. Tarifa then spent the next minute lovingly licking Aihola's still swollen labia, lapping up every minute amount of cum that was left, cleaning her beautiful pussy with her tongue as she felt Aihola's body settle back onto the bed and she lovingly licked the puffy outer lips of her cunt. She began to lick and softly kiss her way up Aihola's still heaving belly, stopping to allow her tongue to explore the sweet tasting dark flesh before her. The contrast in their skin color was driving her into a passionate frenzy, and even though she had just cum for the second time, Tarifa felt another orgasm begin to burn slowly within her belly. She climbed onto the bed slowly, as her tongue trailed up Aihola's lithe body, teasing her still painfully hard nipples and rolling the stiff buds in her fingers while her tongue traced the edges of the sweat soaked dark globes.

Tarifa gasped when Aihola grabbed her and rolled them over, pinning her body to the soft bed. She took hold of Tarifa's face tightly, while looking down at her and skillfully using her own tongue to clean off her cum from Tarifa's chin and cheeks.

"Was... was that pleasing Mistress?" Tarifa finally asked in a soft submissive voice after Aihola had tongued her face clean.

"It... it was pleasant enough slave." Aihola answered firmly, though Tarifa could detect the passion that was still there.

"I will do better next time Mistress." Tarifa spoke, her hands absently caressing Aihola's waist and back.

Aihola smiled. "Oh I know you will my dear. You will have much time to practice. You will serve under me whenever we are together. If you please me then perhaps I will do the same for you."

Tarifa smiled brilliantly. "Oh yes! Please Mistress... I need... I need your attentions!"

Aihola smiled, still getting her breathing under control. "So... you want your reward do you slave?"

"Oh yes Mistress! Please... please don't tease me." Tarifa pleaded, fully getting into her role as submissive. She knew full well that it was not all an act. It may have been the fact that Aihola was a Drow elf, but being near her this way, submissively in her arms, their naked flesh touching, all Tarifa wanted to do was please her in every way she could. Aihola would never refuse her and never hurt her, Tarifa knew that and she actually found it most pleasing to be dominated in this way, especially by a Drow.

Aihola smiled warmly, her amber eyes gazing upon Tarifa with love and desire, as she realized just what she felt for this High Elf Queen. She leaned over and kissed her deeply, plunging her tongue into Tarifa's mouth and hearing her whimper in delight as she returned the kiss with equal lust and passion. Aihola held her face while she explored Tarifa's mouth with her tongue, dancing it across her teeth and the insides of her cheeks, exploring everything she could, engaging in a duel of tongues that Tarifa naturally lost. Aihola pulled back after a long moment, Tarifa's tongue dancing across her lips as she did, trying to reclaim her soft lips.

"Now you will know your position, Queen of the High Elves." Aihola spoke softly. "Under me, pleasing me and now you will continue your duties while I feast on your delicious flesh." Aihola shifted on the bed quickly before Tarifa had time to speak, turning opposite of her and seductively lifting one of her legs to the opposite side of Tarifa's head and she positioned her still dripping and passion bloated pussy over Tarifa's face. Aihola looked down at her prize, her fingers lightly running across Tarifa's hairless already soaked labia and seeing her fully aroused and unhooded clit. Aihola smiled; as this was the prize she so coveted. The round sapphire piercing glittered in the light, and Aihola could see how it actually pierced the hood of her clit, and caused the sapphire ring to brush against her sensitive bud when she was aroused, stimulating her even more. Aihola inhaled deeply of Tarifa's aroma and smiled.

"Prepare yourself slave... and you may scream if you wish." She spoke.

The moment Aihola's strong tongue flicked out and slammed into Tarifa's pierced clit, she did just that, screaming out her pleasure as a hammer like orgasm struck her instantly. Her screams of rapture were drowned out quickly as Aihola plunged her pussy down onto Tarifa's face and Aihola began to feed.

LAS VEGAS BOULDER MUNICIPAL AIRPORT

"Do you believe him?" Cathy asked Leland.

Leland met her dark eyes. "I want to." He answered softly. They sat in the cockpit of the Raptor as night rapidly fell all around them. "You must understand Nya Lisse Indil, elf families of influence and power will do anything to keep what they have, and gather more power and influence. It is the same with the High Elves I have no doubt. Vengal promised his daughter Anuk to the son of this family."

"She didn't have any say in it?" Cathy asked.

Leland shook his head. "I doubt it. It is more than likely that she was raised from a child with the intent she would eventually become wife to this man. When Vengal made this arrangement, Dysea was still Queen. Vengal's family was very powerful themselves, but a marriage between the two families would have given them even greater influence and ties to Dysea." Leland turned back into the Raptor's crew compartment to Vengal sitting on the bench near the ramp. "He was not aware of the Alliance betrayal of Dysea, and I do not believe he knew the daughter of this family would be chosen Queen. At least I do not believe he knew of this. Vengal may be many things, but a traitor to Dysea he is not."

"You're sure about that?" Cathy asked.

Leland nodded. "Yes."

"What did Dysea say when you talked to her?" Cathy asked him.

"She said to return to Eden once the mission was completed and she would confront Vengal." Leland answered. "You have not seen Dysea when she is angry. It is a sight to behold."

Cathy grinned. "I have no doubt about that." She answered. Cathy looked at his handsome weathered face, his blue eyes bright and intelligent. "Leland... about what you said earlier." She spoke softly.

Leland looked at her with a smile and reached up to touch her cheek. He caressed the scars on her otherwise flawless face. "It is what I want." He spoke. "I would hope it is what you want as well."

“Leland... I’m... Vengal is right. I’m completely human. I... I won’t live anywhere near as long as you will. It would not be fair to you.” Cathy told him.

Leland smiled. “Half a lifetime with you Nya Lisse Indil is enough for me.” He replied. “Besides... technically you are already almost four hundred years old. Much older than me, and I have always wanted to enjoy the charms of an older woman.”

Cathy couldn’t help but chuckle and she moved closer to him kissing him softly. “You are a very unique man Leland.”

“I like to think so.” He answered. “You do not have to give me an answer now Cathy. When you are ready... though I think I know what your answer will be.”

“Oh do you?” Cathy spoke with a smile.

Leland nodded. “You make these delightful little noises when you are in my arms, and you have whispered many professions in my ear during...”

Cathy put her fingers to his lips. “I get the point.” She spoke with a smile. “And you are right. I would be very happy to...”

Tommy turned from his co-pilot’s seat and looked back at them. “Boss... we got company.” He spoke.

Cathy and Leland both go to their feet and moved the few meters to the pilot’s seat which Cathy quickly settled into, “Where?”

“Four contacts moving from the north.” Tommy spoke.

Cathy looked at Leland. “That’s the direction they would come from.” She said. “But there should be six of them.”

“How far out are they?” Leland asked.

“Nine hundred meters,” Tommy answered.

Leland nodded. “I will go out and meet them.” He said heading for the rear of the Raptor. He watched Vengal get to his feet when he saw them coming. “General we have four contacts moving quickly towards our location.”

“Four?” Vengal spoke confused. “But there were six of them.”

Leland nodded. “Yes I know. We do not have communication with them because they are maintaining radio silence until they have us in sight. I’m going out to meet them.”

“I will accompany you.” Vengal said.

“I don’t think that is wise.” Leland told him.

“We are in the middle of enemy territory Leland.” Vengal spoke quickly. “I may be many things, but I am not a fool.”

Leland thought about it for only a second before nodding, “Very well.”

Tony skidded to a halt next to the ramshackle building that used to be a hanger. Leena half hung to his shoulder, her arm useless and her feet almost dragging. The tears in her eyes had long since dried up at having to leave her cousin to her death, the pain and the fact that she did not want to die pushing the grief away.

Tony turned as Radama and Judziea stopped next to him. “We’re almost there.” Tony hissed quietly. He looked at Leena in his arm. “Are you going to make it?”

Leena met his eyes and nodded with a grimace. “I have suffered worse injuries.” She spoke through clenched teeth. “You did not have to break my ribs when you caught me though.”

Tony grinned. “Hey... that wasn’t on purpose.” He replied. “You landed awkward is all. Besides... it could have been your head.”

Leena met his eyes. “You... you do not seem to be upset that we lost your friend.” She spoke.

Tony looked at her. “Danny? Danny ain’t dead.”

“How do you know this? We don’t know how deep the sinkhole was.” Leena said. “It could have been miles deep.”

“It wasn’t.” Tony answered, his hybrid eyes searching the darkness.

“How do you know?”

Tony looked at her answering quickly, almost too quickly. “The minute I saw them begin to fall I switched my internal implant to Danny’s command channel. He called off distances as they fell. The last transmission that came through said they'd fallen a hundred and thirty meters. He must have struck something, because his COM blinked out after that."

"A hundred and thirty meters," Leena asked aghast. "Anuk... Anuk would not survive a fall of that distance. She..."

"Company!" Tony snapped, pulling Leena down as he saw the two shadowy figures rise up only thirty meters away.

"Raptor! Raptor! Raptor!" Leland's voice called out in a loud whisper carrying to them in the still night.

"Here!" Tony barked, smelling Leland and the Elf General. He watched as the two figures sprinted to where they were and took shape. "It's good to see you Leland."

Leland's eyes swept their small group quickly. "Where is Daniel?"

Vengal also chimed in. "Anuk! Where is Anuk?"

"We took shelter in an old building after getting out of the sewers." Tony replied. "As we were moving out the floor gave way and a sink hole opened up. Our additional weight must have triggered the sink hole. Dan saved Leena here, but he and Anuk..."

"He and Anuk what?" Vengal snapped.

"They fell." Tony told him.

Vengal's eyes went wide. "They fell! And you did not think to go back to see if they had survived?"

Tony ignored Vengal and continued talking to Leland. "Danny told us to haul ass. It was a four story building and it all got taken down on top of them. He was speaking to me for a few seconds, and then his transmission got cut. There was nothing we could do."

"You should have gone back!" Vengal almost screamed. "We... we came all this way! We had her in our grasp, and you let her die!" He stepped closer to Tony.

"Fuck you General Elf!" Tony spat. "I've served with Danny a lot longer than you. We've survived this long because we follow orders! If he hadn't told us to beat feet we'd all be at the bottom of that sink hole with him! Now step off or I'll chop you to fucking little chunks." Tony had moved Leena away from him against the wall of the battered hanger as he prepared to draw down on the elf.

Leland stepped between them. "We do not have time for this." He spoke. "We..."

"Leland! That armored column has found us!" Cathy's voice came over his implant. "We need to leave and now! They're three minutes away!"

Leland looked at them. "We need to go! The unit that we ran from earlier today has discovered us again! We need to leave!"

"I will not leave my daughter!" Vengal snapped.

Leland looked at him. "General we do not know if they are alive!" He said. "We need to leave now. We have this position and we can return when there are not enemy forces in the area!"

"I will not leave her!" Vengal almost screamed. "She could still be alive! We need to find her! We must go back! We have to..."

Leena took a step forward and swung her hand viciously. The butt of the handgun slammed into the side of Vengal's head, dropping him to the ground like a sack of shit. Everyone looked at her. "He has lost all reason because she is his daughter! I am not stupid. We can not stay here any longer to search for them, no matter how much I want to." She said. "We need to go now!"

Leland wasted no time and gathered Vengal into a fireman's carry, "This way!" He said and headed off into the night.

Ninety seconds later, Tony was staring out the ramp of the Raptor as they lifted off into the air. He was looking back at the city of Las Vegas, and he was making a silent vow to himself and to a lost friend.

"We'll be back to get you Danny. Hang tough my brother. Hang tough."

She was called Anuk, daughter of Vengal.

She was one hundred and twenty-one years old, the youngest daughter to the senior Wood Elf Ranger Commander. She was born into a powerful and influential elf family, never wanting for anything. She had the best schooling, the best clothes, the best foods and lived in luxury as far as the elves considered the definition of that term. She was courted by only the most handsome and influential elves, but her hand had already been promised in marriage to the son of another powerful and influential family. Matarn was extremely handsome, and well established within the Wood Elf Ranger command structure. He had risen to his position by virtue of his family and their standing, not by any of his own deeds. He had been involved in only limited combat against the Alliance and in small raids against the High Elves, his family not willing to risk his life in the mundane duties of a soldier.

Anuk had gone through the standard Wool Elf Ranger training and completed it with barely passing marks and a little nudge from her father. Anuk had never wanted to be a soldier, feeling herself above such things due to her family's influence and closeness to the Queen. She had gone through the training to please her father, and enhance her standing among her people, as well as attempt to impress Matarn. Anuk knew she was beautiful, and she made no bones about that. Her five foot eight height came from her father, her long rust colored red hair and cerulean blue eyes she inherited from her mother. She weighed a hundred and twenty pounds, most of it muscle, but still with some baby fat spread out in places that she worked hard to control and get rid of. She was still considered a child by elfin respects, and this bothered her to some degree. She had long tapered legs, satiny skin and a tight, head turning ass that she worked hard at keeping that way. Her 34B breasts were firm and conical, topped with small eraser hard pink nipples. Her cheekbones were high in a regal fashion, her light red lips soft and full. She had allowed Matarn to paw her body at times since she was to be his wife anyway, yet his groping was usually roughly done with no sense of what he was doing. Anuk had never been with a man, ensuring Matarn would have that honor.

Her capture had changed all that.

The mercenaries that had captured or killed her small Elf Ranger unit were vile and disgusting men. And they were exceedingly brutal. Nearly all of them were of the dark skinned variety of humans, African Americans the history books had called them. Most of them were the most disgusting human men she had ever seen, and their appearance did nothing to quell Anuk's dislike for humans to begin with. She had been captured pitifully easily, one of the mercenary slavers hitting her on the back of her head during the battle. She had awakened to find herself in a large cage like cell, her head throbbing in pain. She felt the Alliance drug dispenser on the back of her neck immediately, and gasped as her fingers inspected it. She could almost feel the drug working its way through her system. Anuk had looked up when the cell door opened and the enormous black man had come in. She had flung herself at him in rage, intending to shred his face with her nails, but he simply backhanded her inexperienced and still woozy body across the cell and then pounced on her back as she tried to recover. He had shredded what remained of her uniform until she was completely naked and feeling exposed and helpless.

Then with the Alliance drug doing half his work for him in making her more docile he then proceeded to rape her savagely for several hours, taking her virtue with grunting animal like noises while tears had streamed down her face. He had even gone so far as to cum all over her naked body before he left her to wallow in sorrow. That had begun the cycle she had been living for the last nine months. She had lost count of the men who had raped her, sometimes two or three at once, and with the Alliance drug keeping her from resisting for the most part, she endured acts so vile she did not even want to remember them. The drug and the fervent hope that her father would come for her with Matarn and rescue her was the only thing that kept her from taking her own life.

Anuk opened her cerulean eyes slowly, that effort itself causing her to groan in pain. She didn't move the rest of her body as her eyes slowly came into focus. Her whole body ached liked it never had before, every muscle and bone screaming in protest. Her eyes came into focus slowly and she saw the pieces of concrete and wood next to where she laid. The memory of what had happened in the last few hours came rushing back to her. The auction where she had been bought by a giant of a black man, her cousin Leena, the withdrawal effects of the Alliance drug making her cold and stripping her of her strength. The escape through the rancid sewers of Las Vegas and finally the floor opening beneath her and her plummet into the darkness of the abyss in the arms of a beast.

Anuk's eyes grew a little wider when she realized she was no longer cold and shivering. The dangerous drop in her body temperature from the anti-dote to the Alliance drug was gone and she felt incredibly warm and strangely soothed. She slowly lifted just her head, wincing as her neck and shoulder muscles yammered at her in protest to the movement. Anuk realized she was lying on top of another body. A body that was pulsing with heat and incredibly hard and firm. She turned her head slowly and her eyes settled on the face of the man who had saved her life.

Anuk remembered now what had taken place in those last few seconds.

She was dangling above the blackness after the floor had caved in and nearly swallowed them. She and Leena were holding to this man's hands for dear life, screaming for him to pull them up. In an incredible display of strength, he had heaved Leena clear out of the hole and out of sight, both of his hands then taking hold of Anuk. His face appeared confused and when he looked at something under where he lay, Anuk had followed his gaze and felt her heart sink. The main support beams were splintering under his additional weight, and sand and dirt was pouring through a foundation that was cracked and broken from centuries of deterioration. Anuk had looked back up quickly to see him changing as he had done before, changing into a fearsome looking hybrid of man and animal. He pushed off the floor powerfully pulling Anuk up into his arms like she was a child just as the floor gave way. She looked into his yellow black eyes for a split second, before they began to plunge into the darkness.

Anuk had felt him wrap those long powerful arms around her, one clawed hand pulling her head into his chest protectively. Her face was pressed so tightly to his chest she could smell his musky animal like aroma. She heard him counting off numbers in the beginning of their fall, amazingly twisting his body while they fell so that he took the brunt of impacts against the side of the tunnel they were falling into. She could hear him grunt in pain on each impact, and all she could do was try to huddle closer into his arms and say silent prayers to her gods. The final impact before she blacked out caused her to cry out as her head slammed upwards into his jaw. Anuk had felt a flash of intense pain and then blacked out.

He looked dead, Anuk thought to herself. He was unmoving, several gashes marring his dark skin, blood still oozing from the jagged cuts but surprisingly they seemed to be healing in front of her very eyes. He had protected her during the fall, using his own body as a shield to keep her from harm, and judging by their position now, he had twisted his body at the end to cushion her landing.

Anuk grit her teeth as she tried to move her legs, nearly crying out at the pain that shot through her.

"Don't move!" Dan's voice spoke.

Anuk turned her head as quickly as she dared and looked at him as his dark eyes opened slowly and he looked at her. She watched in awe as his face broke into a smile.

"Wow... I must be dead." Dan spoke softly looking at her. "I didn't think angels were real."

Anuk looked at him confused. "Angels?" She asked. "I don't understand, what is an angel?"

Dan shook his head as he started to move his arms slowly, "Never mind." He replied. "Oh man... did you get the name of the pilot driving the Raptor that hit us?" Dan's entire body ached horribly. He'd been conducting combat operations since the age of seventeen, and until this day, had never known that so much of his body could hurt at one time. He lifted his arms to make sure that they worked, and moved his eyes to Anuk once more. "Can you move?"

"It... it is very painful." She replied in a soft voice.

Dan nodded. "I do know that."

"How... how far did we fall?" Anuk asked.

"I lost count at a hundred and thirty meters... but we hit shortly within a few seconds after that." Dan answered. "I'm guessing maybe two hundred meters."

Anuk looked at him wide eyed. "We... we fell two hundred meters?"

"Well... we were making like a pin ball in a machine as we fell." He said with a forced grin. "We didn't exactly drop straight down."

"You... you protected... you protected me." Anuk spoke softly, her mind just coming to realize that to its fullest extent. Had she fallen alone, regardless of whether she bounced back and forth, the fall most certainly would have left her broken and bleeding, and above all else, very dead.

Dan groaned as he moved his legs and shoulders. "Yeah... and I'm going to pay for it later I can tell." He spoke through clenched teeth. He looked at her. "As much as I enjoy having you plastered across my chest and all, we do need to get up and try to get back to the surface."

Anuk's eyes flared at his words and she pushed herself up off his chest regardless of the pain it caused. "You pig!" She snarled.

Dan watched her roll off him to the side, her face grimacing in pain and he sat up as gingerly as he could, his entire body screaming out in agony at this action. His ability to heal was rapidly asserting itself, but even he hadn't taken this much damage to his physical body in a long time. He knew it would be a few minutes before he could move about with no pain.

"Glad to see you haven't lost your cheery disposition." Danny spoke as his eyes took in their surroundings.

It was surprisingly well lit where they were, and Dan looked up to see crisscrossing beams of wood and pieces of concrete above them. They were effectively buried alive. As he turned his head he could see what looked to be a larger tunnel roughly a hundred meters from where they were and small fingers of light coming from above. He looked around his body and found the barrel of his HK sticking out from under some rubble. He reached out and pulled on the cool metal, only to have it come free from under the wood and concrete with no stock and no receiver. Dan shook his head and tossed the useless hunk of metal to the ground. He did a quick inventory, feeling his K12 still strapped to his thigh, and his combat vest still loaded with his usual assortment of goodies.

"What... what is that smell?" Anuk asked as she painfully pulled herself into a seated position.

Dan sniffed the air and looked at her with a smile. "That my dear is you and I." He spoke. "I've always wanted to take a walk through waist deep shit. I guess I never counted on smelling it once it dried though."

"What... what are you?" Anuk asked looking at him now.

Danny grinned, "Lieutenant Commander Daniel Simpson Ma'am. United States Navy SEALs."

"SEALs?" Anuk asked. "Like the... like the animal?"

Dan's grin faded. "You're making a joke right?" He asked looking at her sternly. Her facial expression told him she had no idea what SEAL stood for. "Let's forget that part ok." He spoke.

"You... you should not have been able to survive such a fall." Anuk said.

Dan nodded. "Yeah... I've heard that before too."

"How... how is it possible?" Anuk asked. "Are you... are you a Drow? There are rumors that the Alliance kept Drow warriors as prisoners and conducted terrible experiments on them."

Dan shook his head. "No... I'm not a Drow... and before you ask, no I'm not part of the Alliance."

"Then what are you?" Anuk asked.

"I am what was commonly referred to in my time as a Genome." Dan replied, pulling his K12 from its holster to ascertain if it was still serviceable.

"Genome... what is this Genome?" Anuk asked.

Dan looked at her. "It stands for Genetically Engineered Nomenclature for Operations and Military Expenditure." He answered, "Genome."

Anuk's cerulean eyes saw that the injuries on his face were almost gone. She pointed to them, "Your... your face. The cuts are almost healed."

Dan nodded. "One of the few things they did right when it came to making us." He answered. "All of us have a regenerative system that works about a hundred times faster than normal."

"There... there are more of you?" Anuk asked surprised.

"There are other Genomes yes, but me personally, I'm one in a million." He spoke with a grin. Dan noticed that his words didn't get the response he was hoping to elicit. "Did you get out much when you were back at your home?" He finally asked.

"What do you mean get out?" Anuk questioned him.

"You know... go to parties." Dan said. "Go out on dates. Go dancing."

Anuk looked at him like he was from another planet. "I am the daughter of General Vengal. I am above such things. And I am the betrothed of Matarn, son of Fal'duil."

"Oh right..." Dan spoke to her as he rolled his eyes, "The noble born putz who didn't want to come get you himself." He spoke. "Nice guy by the way."

"Matarn is a fine man!" Anuk snapped, her temper flaring. "He is educated and proper! He is not a dark skinned beast like you! He is not a negr..." Anuk stopped herself and saw Dan looking at her intently.

"A Negro like me," Dan finished her sentence for her.

“Men who look like you took my dignity! They took my virtue!” Anuk screamed at him, tears bursting from her eyes now. “They raped me! Over and over! And they laughed while they raped me! I was pure before they took me! Now... now I am tainted by those beasts!”

Dan looked at her as she lowered her face into her hands, her body softly shaking with the force of the tears. “Anuk... I am truly sorry for what happened to you.” He spoke gently. “I don’t pretend to understand what you must feel or are going through, but if we are going to survive this and get out of here you have to realize something,” He waited for Anuk to raise her face from her hands and look at him through tear stained eyes. “I am not those men.”

Anuk snorted in disgust. “Yes you are!” She spoke softly. “All of you are alike.”

Dan shook his head and realized there would be no arguing with her on that point right now. It was too soon after her captivity and rescue and the ordeal she had suffered through. He did make a mental note to himself to try and find the men who had captured her and make sure they felt every inch of his blade as he gutted them. Dan’s eyes widened just a little as he realized that he wanted to find the men who did this to Anuk and make them pay in a very painful manner. He’d never felt this type of anger surge through him, and he was uncertain what it meant.

Dan rose to his knees, his eyes inspecting Anuk as he did. There was no doubt about it; she was without a doubt the most gorgeous creature he had ever laid eyes on, and that included Julie and Anja. Her rust colored red hair was matted with dirt and sweat from the sewer and the fall, and dust from the falling concrete and wood. The clothes that Leena had brought for her were not practical and most of them had been shredded by the drop into the darkness. Her firm breasts were almost completely exposed for his eyes and anyone else who cared to look. He groaned as he removed his combat vest and set it aside, before unbuttoning his fatigue top. He pulled it off and held it out to her.

“Take this.” Dan told her.

“I am fine.” Anuk replied testily.

“You’re an elf, and you are beginning to shiver again. I’m guessing the effects of the anti-dote have not completely worn off yet.” He told her. “You need it more than I do.”

“I would be fine if you had not given the medicine to the High Elf whore as Leena said.”

Dan looked at her. “She helped us to get out of Las Vegas. It wouldn’t hurt to be a little more understanding.”

“She was a High Elf whore!” Anuk spewed. “She enjoyed what those beasts did to her every night! I did not!”

Dan stared at her for a long moment, getting lost in her fiery eyes. He shook his head and held out the top again. “Do you want this, or would you rather freeze?”

Anuk looked at him before slowly reaching out and taking the fatigue top from his hands. When she reached up to grab it, her face twisted into a painful grimace and she cried out softly. Dan’s eyes went wide and he moved closer to her.

“You’re hurt!”

Anuk drew back from him quickly. “I... I am not!” She replied pain in her voice very obvious to Dan, as well as the adrenalin that had just got dumped into her system.

Dan didn’t let her tone deter him and he moved even closer. “Keep your tongue in your mouth and let me look at your side.” He demanded.

“I will be fine!” Anuk spoke.

“Christ woman, you are dense!” Dan spoke, moving forward and pushing Anuk to her back before she could react.

“No!” She screamed, rearing back her hand to strike him, “Ahhhhhhh!”

Dan ignored her cry of pain and pulled aside what little remained of the top she wore. He winced inwardly when he saw the wound. There was a nasty five inch long gash along her rib cage just below her breasts and it was very deep. The slice looked clean, and he assumed it was from some protruding piece of metal she had scraped as they fell. His fingers gingerly touched the wound, and Anuk’s body went rigid as she grabbed his arm and squeezed with every ounce of her natural elf strength.

“I can see the bone of your ribs.” Dan commented, causing Anuk to turn her head and look at him, all the fury gone from her eyes now. She was exposed for his eyes to see, her breasts very nearly touching his face, yet his eyes remained focused on her wound as his fingers gently moved along the edges making certain there were no leftover pieces stuck in the cut itself. He didn't even glance at her breasts by accident, intent as he was on the tear in her flesh.

Anuk watched Dan lean back and pull his vest to him, delving into one of the larger pockets. He pulled out a small plastic container and cracked the seal on it. He shook the small bottle vigorously and then used his thumb to pop the cap off. Anuk saw the spray top and looked at him.

"What is that?" She asked.

"It's a disinfectant." Dan replied and he leaned over again to spray the cut. "This is going to sting some, but hopefully it will kill whatever may have got in there after our little sewer bath."

Anuk winced slightly as he sprayed the liquid over the entire cut, gritting her teeth to hold back the scream she wanted to let out. Instead she dug her nails into his arm again, his face impassive as he worked even though she would have drawn blood if not for his t-shirt. Dan finished spraying the wound and reached for the other part of the kit. He tore open the sterile packaging, his eyes never leaving her wound, and again this did not go completely unnoticed by Anuk and it surprised her to say the least.

Dan looked at her and held up the small white cloth that looked like a bandage. "This is what we call a MEDCOM patch. It is something that the docs where I come from thought up and put together. It's not something I think the Alliance would readily distribute. It's a self adhering bandage. Once I put it on, it will anchor itself with tiny microscopic filaments. Once it's anchored, it will help pull the edges of your wound together and pump a steady stream of anti-infection drugs into your system. There is one side effect though."

"What?" Anuk asked.

"It will hurt like a mother for about twenty seconds while the filaments anchor into your skin, and I have to hold it onto your wound so it seats properly." Dan answered. "If I use it, hopefully it will kill any bacteria that may have got into your wound and stop infection."

"Why are you telling me that?" Anuk asked.

"I'm telling you because I don't want you decking me, or trying to rip my face off when my hand touches you." Dan replied.

"What if you don't use it?" Anuk asked.

"After walking through a sewer that smelled that bad... do you really want to take that chance?" Dan asked. He shrugged. "If I don't use it, then there is a good chance that your wound will get infected and it will only get worse." He answered. "Trust me... I have no desire to put my hands on you. Personally I think you're an arrogant and spoiled little bitch and I wouldn't waste two seconds trying to get into your shorts. You ain't worth the effort."

Anuk's eyes flared wide in anger and she opened her mouth to come back at him with a tirade of vile and derogatory insults but her eyes widened when Dan slapped the MEDCOM patch on her side. Anuk's eyes flew open even wider and this time her nails did break the skin on Dan's arm, her head dropping back against the ground as the MEDCOM patch began to work.

Dan held the patch to Anuk's side as she took very long and deep breaths, trying to calm her nerves as the pain slowly dwindled until it was gone. She looked up at Dan slowly, her cerulean eyes burning in anger.

"You... you said that on purpose." She spat at him, "To make me... to make me angry."

Dan nodded as he sat back. "It got your adrenalin pumping and that makes the medicine in the MEDCOM work faster." He answered.

Anuk bit off a reply and closed her mouth as she watched Dan sit back across from her and pull the K12 out. She watched him break down the strange looking sidearm in less than twenty seconds and inspect the pieces carefully as she slowly pulled the fatigue top on over herself trying to block out the pain of moving. It was three times too big so she rolled up the sleeves and used a torn piece of the shirt she was wearing as a belt of sorts, tying it around her waist and pulling the fatigue top tighter.

"What... what are we going to do?" Anuk asked finally. "They will return for us won't they?"

Dan slapped the magazine back into the K12 and worked the slide chambering a round before he looked at her. "It looked like that entire building came down on top of us, and I doubt they'll try and get a work crew digging at the site so close to Las Vegas." He answered. "We're going to have to find our own way to the surface and then contact them to come and pick us up."

"How will we find a way to the surface?" Anuk asked. "We are buried alive here."

Dan shook his head. "There is a slight breeze coming in from that way," He told her, pointing deeper into the tunnel they apparently had fallen into. "Fresh air means a way to the surface. We just follow the fresh air."

"How do you know this?" Anuk asked.

Dan looked at her. "Man you are just full of questions aren't you?" He spoke. "Part of my genetic DNA is made up from an animal back in our time called a Timberwolf. My sense of smell, sight, hearing and taste is a hundred times more sensitive than a normal human."

"You said that before... your time. What do you mean?" Anuk asked her natural curiosity getting the better of her.

Dan met her eyes. "You got about ten years for me to try and explain it to you?" He asked with a smile. "Ok... listen, I'm from a base on the moon called EDEN. We..."

EAGLE FLIGHT ENROUTE TO NEW MEMPHIS

Ben's fingers caressed the control stick of the MH-53EJ PAVE LOW IV adjusting their course by one degree. Ben was in his glory, as the PAVE LOW IV was the aircraft he had started his career in the Air Force flying. At the time, it was the most highly advanced flying craft of any country in the world, rivaling even the space shuttle. It was the only rotary winged aircraft in the world that had an auto-pilot, terrain following and terrain avoidance radars, inertia navigation system, GPS Doppler computer system, and integrated avionics. The cockpit of the MH-53 was almost as sophisticated as that of the Raptor, and indeed, many of the systems on the Raptor were first used on the MH-53EJ. When they had discovered the vacuum sealed underground hanger at Luke AFB outside of Phoenix Ben had been thrown back dozens of years as they discovered twelve MH-53EJ's and all the equipment needed to maintain them for the next fifty years.

Ben's helmeted head maintained its position on the landscape in front of them as they flew only a hundred feet above the trees. The visor of the helmet was down, casting a eerie greenish glow on the land below him, but giving him a perfect view of the surrounding terrain. He didn't need to adjust the controls in any major way as the terrain following radar was slaved to the main computer and doing the work for him.

They had received the call from Martin three hours before, and because of their location and the number of additional passengers, Martin did not want to risk exposing a Raptor to Alliance troops. He wanted to make it appear as if elves and humans conducted this operation. Ben immediately had thought of the Pave Low IVs and decided he would fly the mission himself. There were only three other pilots qualified to fly the Pave Lows, and none of them had even half as many hours in one as he did. His helmeted head turned to his left and he saw the second and third Pave Lows maintaining a rigid formation not far off his wing and he smiled to himself at the skill they were displaying. He had trained his pilots well in the Raptors, and that was being seen in their ability to adapt to the Pave Low.

Ben turned his head the other way and saw Tina in the co-pilot's seat, her helmeted head keeping a close watch on her instruments.

"How is everyone doing?" Ben asked cheerfully.

Tina turned her head to look at him. "You actually learned how to fly in one of these things?" She asked him.

Ben chuckled. "These babies were state of the art until the Raptor came out." Ben answered. "You're just spoiled."

"They are very loud." Endith's voice came from behind them at the engineer's console.

Ben nodded. "Inside here they are, but the bad guys won't know we're coming until we set down on their asses, not unless they are very attentive." He replied.

"It's like flying a museum." Tina commented from her seat putting the rib to Ben.

He looked at her. "Hey... I take offense at that remark."

Tina chuckled from her seat. "I know." She spoke.

"Do not worry Ben." Endith's voice cooed in his helmet. "You were no museum last night or this morning."

Ben felt his chest swell at the memories of Endith's cries of passionate orgasm and the way she clutched at his shoulders as they had sex a few hours earlier. "Well thank you Endith." Ben spoke looking at Tina. "Maybe I'll be extra special tonight."

"That's just because she gets you so hot." Tina spoke playfully.

"Hey..." Ben replied. "Whatever works right?"

"Perhaps we'll see if he can handle both of us tonight Endith." Tina spoke turning back to the diminutive female elf that now shared their bed and their lives.

"I would like that very much." Endith replied with a twinkle in her eyes just as her console began to beep. Her helmeted head turned, "Contact! I'm picking up Martin's beacon." She exclaimed, "Ten miles."

Ben nodded and they became all business again. "Ok folks time to put our work hats on! Spin up those mini guns back there," Ben spoke into his mic to the three elf gunners that rode in the spacious rear of the Pave Low. "Kenny... Paula... give me a thousand meters of separation on either side. We'll be doing the pick up; you guys just make sure no one bites me in my ass."

"Copy Eagle Lead," Kenny's voice answered.

"A thousand meters it is boss," The female voice answered.

"Ok... I'm taking it down to twenty-five feet off the river." Ben spoke. "Eagles Two and Three maintain a hundred feet and look for targets. Mini guns are free."

NEW MEMPHIS

Deval gripped the table and flung it across the room of Weston Torcrum's now abandoned living room while Marcus studied the hidden room from the top of the stairs.

"That fucking half elf whore!" He screamed.

Marcus turned as the senior Alliance sergeant walked up to him silently, avoiding Deval at all cost. "What have you discovered?" Marcus asked.

"They were here until very recently Colonel." The man replied. "I estimate no more than eight hours ago. The chamber below appears large enough for at least two dozen elves, and there are bedrolls and uneaten rations as well."

Marcus nodded. "Her family has been running an underground network for slaves it seems." He spoke absently. He looked at the sergeant. "Contact the garrison commander and make sure that there have been no attempts to breach the wall. And then spread out the search of the area to include all the way to the river. They must be attempting to leave from somewhere nearby."

"Do you think they are still in the area Colonel?" The man asked.

"There has been no attempt to leave the city as of yet." Marcus spoke. "The security checkpoints at the gates report no sign of Torcrum or any who have been trying to leave. That tells me they are still within the city and waiting for the right moment to leave."

The sergeant nodded and moved to quickly exit the room. Marcus turned to look at Deval as he glared at a photo of Selene and her family.

"I want them found." Deval growled. "I want to listen to Weston Torcrum scream as I castrate him in front of his wife and son. And when he is almost near death I will rape his elf wife in her ass in front of his broken eyes before I gut him."

"I have issued orders to the garrison here to begin a wide search." Marcus spoke. "We do not know how deeply this underground network goes. Perhaps we should begin interrogating slaves."

Deval slammed the photo against the far wall and watched as it shattered into hundreds of pieces. He turned to Marcus and shook his head. "No." He replied. "If we begin to randomly arrest and detain slaves and interrogate them to the point where they are no longer useful to their owners we will lose what little support we have among the local city governors."

"I do not understand why we allow the governors to have as much power as they do." Marcus asked. "It is symbolic only."

Deval nodded. "Perhaps... but sometimes a symbolic show of support goes much further than an iron grip squeezing the life from a victim."

Marcus shrugged his shoulders. "It is a waste of time if you ask me." He spoke. "It appears they had several adults and at least a dozen small children with them when they departed." He reported. "They will not be able to move well enough to avoid detection for very long with a group such as that."

"Find them Marcus." Deval hissed. "Find them and bring Torcrum to me. I wish to inflict upon him the shame his daughter has brought upon me."

"What about Minister Wiseman?" Marcus asked. "He too knows of Selene's betrayal."

Deval looked at him, his eyes cruel and utterly ruthless. "I have already given orders that will silence Minister Wiseman, permanently."

Marcus nodded. "A wise move Minister, a very wise move."

Martin moved up next to Anja and Ealin on the second floor of the dock warehouse where they sat in front of the half smashed out window.

"What's up?" He asked.

Anja looked at him and held out the small binoculars. "Take a look." She spoke.

Martin brought the binos up to his eyes and trained them on where she motioned. The sun was less than an hour from coming up, dawn breaking over the horizon, and it was easy enough to see the Alliance troops off loading from several trucks in the small clearing four blocks away.

"Oh boy," Martin spoke.

"They started arriving a few minutes ago." Anja spoke, her eyes going back to the window as Martin watched the troops through the binos. "They're just milling around right now, but I'm betting they are fixing to start searching this area very soon."

Martin nodded and lowered the small binos. "I never bet with a beautiful woman." He spoke meeting her jade green eyes. "Ben is seven minutes out... coming in from the north. Ealin keep an eye on them and report their movements. Anja get the others ready to move."

Anja nodded... keeping her face impassive. Martin's words had struck a cord within her, and she didn't know what to make of them as she watched him blend back into the shadows. She turned slowly to Ealin who was watching her intently. "What?" She asked.

"I did not know that you and Lyca Ohtar knew each other in... in such a way." Ealin spoke innocently.

Anja nodded her head slowly. "It was a long time ago." She answered, "In another time and another world."

"It appears to be not as long as you might think." Ealin said.

Anja shook her head to clear her thoughts. Martin's eyes had done to her just now what they had done to her all those years ago before he had taken her to bed and fucked her into a multi-orgasmic state of pure bliss. "He has Dysea now." Anja said, fighting the warmth that was spreading through her at the memories of that night.

"Are you so sure?" Ealin asked softly before bringing the binos back up to his eyes and turning to look out the window. "Perhaps they want you as well."

Anja didn't respond to him as she gathered up her silenced HK and headed for the stairs.

The Alliance guards walking the pedestrian bridge over the river were bored. They hated this duty, and the eight hour period they had to sit in the guard houses on either side or walk the half mile back and forth across the top of the raging river forty feet below them. They had not received the heightened security alert and were totally unaware of renegade slaves and humans in their location. The pedestrian bridge had been built to keep gangs and mutant creatures from infiltrating into New Memphis via the river as they had done when the city was first beginning. The concertina wire beneath the bridge was deployed in long strands and done by boat. There was no way an animal or human could pick their way through the ten strand wire without raising some alarm. On either side of the river the concertina wire was anchored into concrete pillars nearly two feet thick.

The two guards were in the center of the bridge when they stopped to light cigarettes and chat. They were young, new recruits into the Alliance army, and this was their first night on actual duty.

It would be their last.

“What’s that?” One of the men asked, lowering his smoke to gaze out over the river.

“What’s what?”

“Don’t you hear it?”

“I don’t hear anything but the river.” The second man proclaimed as he took a long pull from the smoke.

“It sounds like... it sounds like a turbine.” The first guard told him.

“A turbine,” His companion spoke. “Freddie you’re getting senile on me. There is nothing out here but you, me and the river. Just like always. The drill sergeant said this would be the most boring duty of all.”

“I’m telling you I heard it!” The guard called Freddie spoke moving from the center of the twenty foot wide bridge to the side that faced north. “And it’s getting louder.”

His partner listened harder and then he too could hear the whine of what sounded like a powerful turbine. “What the hell is that?” He asked as he made his way to where his partner stood near the edge of the bridge.

“I don’t know. I’ve never heard anything like that before.” Freddie replied. “It sounds almost like an aircraft engine or something.”

“Aircraft engine, out here?” His partner asked. “There’s nothing out here but us.”

“I’m just telling you what it sounds like.” Freddie snapped. “Maybe you better call it in.”

“Call it in? Are you crazy? They’ll think we are both nuts and put us on shit duty for a month.” His eyes went wide as Freddie turned to look at him.

The guard called Freddie saw the look in his partner’s eyes and then looked down to see him urinate in his fatigue pants gripped in fear. He turned back around slowly and could hear quite clearly the whine of the powerful turbines now, and the sudden mass of air pushing down at him. His eyes grew wide when he saw the cockpit of the enormous, matte black helicopter looking directly at him from only fifty feet away. He could clearly see the pilot and co-pilot’s helmeted heads in the greenish lit cockpit.

And he could clearly see the barrel of the mini gun swing toward him in the eerie glow, and the helmeted head of the person operating that gun as they hung out the side.

Then Freddie and his fellow Alliance soldier died as a thirty round burst from the 20mm mini-gun chopped their bodies into bloody mush.

Ben jerked the nose of his Pave Low up ten more meters and sent them hurtling down the river towards the infra red beacon he saw in his helmet.

“Give me my diversion!” He barked over his radio.

“On it Eagle One,” Kenny answered. “Stand by for the fireworks.”

“Three is moving to cover position.” Paula’s voice spoke.

“One minute out!” Tina barked. “Stand by Marty... here we come!”

Martin squatted next to Anja just outside the old dock warehouse. Julie was on his opposite side, Tari close to her, and Lynwe just to Anja’s right. The elves and the rest of their two teams were lined up just inside the warehouse for the moment that Ben set down. They would run in a single file to the rear of the MH-53EJ and up the ramp.

“One minute!” Martin spoke. “We need to make this orderly as possible folks. Space out between the elves, the Pave Low is loud when she’s on the tarmac, and I don’t want anyone wandering out of the file and getting chopped in half by the blades.”

Their heads all turned as a massive explosion to the northeast lit up the early morning sky. Kenny’s Pave Low was sweeping back and forth over the large vehicle depot and the three mini guns on his craft were tearing up the trucks and Hoppers with ease.

“Kenny is having fun.” Julie commented with a grin.

Ealin’s voice in their implants made them all tense. “Martin... Alliance troops are moving towards the depot!” His voice sounded excited. “But there is a small detachment that is sweeping towards your position from the south! They are in two Hoppers, roughly nine men.”

“Fuck!” Martin swore.

“I’m on it Skipper.” Julie spoke quickly beginning to move.

“Jules... don't be late.” Martin spoke.

Julie grinned again, “Me late? When have you ever known me to miss a flight home?” She turned to Tari and looked into his amber eyes. “You interested in a little payback?”

Tari's smile would have chilled a cobra to its core. “By all means,” He spoke.

Julie nodded and they headed around the edge of the building.

“What is going on?” Marcus screamed from next to the armored Hopper that was parked on old Auction Avenue.

The sergeant turned from the radio. “Someone is attacking the vehicle depot Colonel!” The man yelled. “A strange aircraft is firing down into the depot and destroying the vehicles!”

Marcus looked toward the rising black smoke and flames. “Deploy the entire garrison immediately!” He barked out the orders.

“They are already enroute Colonel!” The sergeant answered.

Marcus's keen eyes picked up something else as he looked toward the river. He glanced inside the Hopper and snatched up the binoculars. He brought them to his eyes and trained them on the area he had been watching. He watched as the whirling blades of an ancient helicopter dropped from site as it settled to the ground on the other side of some warehouses.

“There!” He screamed. “The attack on the depot is a diversion! Torcrum and the others are escaping from the riverbank! Divert the garrison there!”

Julie and Tari waited on either corner of the small alley road that led directly to the waterfront. They could see as Ben settled the big MH-53EJ to the ground gently several hundred meters away, as well as the civilians begin to run towards it. Julie peered around the corner quickly once more, spying the two Hoppers as they moved down the road. The shadows that she and Tari occupied were rapidly fading away as the sun rose and they needed to act quickly. She looked across the alley at Tari, seeing his amber eyes settle on her. She flashed two fingers and hefted her HK as further sign of what she wanted to do. Tari nodded and flipped his HK to full automatic. Julie held up three fingers and counted down. When she lowered the last finger both she and Tari stepped from around the corner and opened up.

The HK was designed as an all-purpose assault rifle with the properties of a sub machine gun and an assault rifle combined; the 10mm Teflon coated armor piercing rounds gave the HK74 the punch it needed while its basic design allowed for silenced operation and lightweight use. The caseless ammo allowed for high magazine content, and no worries of hot brass hitting the floor or ground and spooking the enemy in an urban environment.

That did not matter now however as both Julie and Tari each burned an entire magazine into the two Hoppers and those inside them. The 200 10mm rounds punched through the light armor and windshields of the Hoppers, tearing into engine drives and body parts, shredding flesh and splashing blood wetly over the interior of the two vehicles. The driver of the first Hopper caught two rounds directly through his chest, blowing his heart out the back of his seat and sending the Hopper careening into the nearby wall effectively blocking the street. The second Hopper fared a little better, but only because only three of the four occupants died. The man furthest away in the passenger seat had the presence of mind to duck down to try and protect himself and was hit by only one bullet which passed through the meat of his side. The other occupants of his Hopper were instantly chopped to bloody chunks, the second vehicle slamming into the first, the engine beginning to spark and smoke.

Tari was in the process of changing magazines when Julie sprinted over to him. “Let's go!” She yelled.

Tari ignored her and lifted the HK to pump another sustained burst into the two Hoppers. Julie grabbed his arm and pulled him hard towards her and he whirled to face her, eyes ablaze in hate and rage. It caused Julie to step back quickly. Tari saw the look of horror on her face and immediately the killing rage that had come over him passed. He shook his head. “Forgive me.” He spoke quickly. “I... I have much hatred for the Alliance.”

Julie stepped closer to him, her hand squeezing his thick forearm. "I understand Tari." She spoke softly. "I do. But now we need to get out of here."

Tari nodded. "You are right." He replied.

"They have everyone almost loaded. By the time we get back we..." Julie's words didn't come out as her head canted slightly and she turned her head.

"What is it?" Tari asked, knowing the hearing and senses of the Genomes were far superior to his own elf senses.

"Vehicles," Julie answered. "A lot of them, and they're getting closer. C'mon!" Julie grabbed his arm and they sprinted to the closest building on the waterfront, bounding up several flights of stairs. They found their way into a room facing the street and Julie went to the window. She didn't need the binoculars to see the dozen heavily armored Hoppers moving slowly down the main street toward them. "Shit! We got loads of company!"

Tari lifted the binos he carried and scanned the column of armored Hoppers, "T14 Hoppers." He reported. "They are heavily armored and each is capable of carrying a dozen troops. It is unlikely our weapons will do much against their armor."

"Ours might not, but our guardians will." Julie told him. "Eagle One from Raptor Three we need heavenly support, armored column moving towards your location. Respond."

"Raptor three standby; support is inbound your location, twenty seconds." Tina's voice replied immediately.

"Three this is one," Martin's voice filled her implant. "When air support arrives you carry your ass back here, and you can take that as a direct order."

"Understood Skipper," Julie answered. He turned to look at Tari. "Watch this."

It took only fifteen seconds for Paula's MH-53EJ to appear over the road from behind the column at a hundred feet off the ground. The attack was a complete surprise and completely devastating. The 20mm mini guns on both sides of the MH-53 spit death at the rate of 6000 rounds a minute, the tongue of flame from both guns nearly three feet long. Paula swept over the top of the column moving slow; her elf gunners dead on accurate in their concentration of fire. They knew the weak points of the T14 Hoppers, and this knowledge paid off as the armoring piercing rounds punched through the heavy armor of the Hoppers, shredding flesh and metal.

Julie looked at Tari in the rising sun of the morning as the explosions shook the ground around them, "Time to go handsome." She spoke with a smile and touching his arm.

Tari met her bright dark eyes, surprise written on his own face. No one had ever called him handsome before, and it left him quite speechless. He nodded finally and turned back to take one last look at the carnage being wrought further down the block. He lifted the binoculars once more and swept them over the column again, his blood going cold and his breath stopping as he saw the flash of white hair.

"Marcus!" Tari hissed.

Julie's face narrowed and she moved up next to him. "Are you sure?" She asked.

Tari nodded. "I know him intimately Julie." Tari spoke, his voice bordering on the edge of losing control. "I owe him much pain."

"Tari we need to go!" Julie spoke.

"We can not simply let him go." Tari snapped. "He has killed and maimed hundreds of my people."

Tari gripped his arm again. "This is not our mission Tari." She told him. "We need to exfil now!"

Tari looked at her. "You don't know what this man has done to my people, to me! He deserves to die horribly!"

"That may be true... but if you go off half cocked now; you'll compromise the mission and get yourself killed!" Julie snapped.

"I don't care!" Tari snapped back at her.

"But I do!" Julie barked. She wasn't sure what made her say that, but it came as naturally to her as breathing.

Tari met her eyes for a long moment, seeing something in them that he had not seen in the eyes of a woman before. He nodded. "We will go!" He said quietly.

Julie led them down the stairs at a dead run, bursting into the street from the side of the building. They didn't break stride as they headed for the Ben's MH-53EJ. They could see the last of the civilians boarding the craft as they sprinted for the helicopter. Paula still circled above the armored column like a predatory bird, her elf gunners cutting loose with burst after burst of concentrated fire. Many of the Alliance troops had never come under any sort of sustained fire, and after seeing almost all of their armor shredded by the high velocity armor piercing rounds, and many of their fellow troops chopped into bloody bits, none of them had any desire to stick their heads out from the holes they had found.

At the moment Marcus was being held down and covered with the bodies of two senior human sergeants who were attempting to protect him at all costs. As Marcus himself had never been under any sort of air attack before, he remained where he was, not wishing to move and expose himself to unnecessary risk.

Another Alliance soldier skidded to a stop next to Marcus. "Colonel they've destroyed all the armor!" He yelled above the whine of turbine engines and mini gun bursts. "Half our force is dead, many are wounded! What do we do?"

"We do nothing!" Marcus yelled back. "Do you have a death wish? This was not some operation that was thrown together! This was carefully planned and executed. The humans and half elves have grown smarter! Did you bring anti-air missiles?"

"We are not allowed to store them at the garrison headquarters Colonel." One of the sergeants replied as he pushed himself off Marcus and to one knee.

"Whose fool order was that?" Marcus spat as he sat up.

"The Garrison Commander Major Vallow sir," The man answered.

Marcus got to his feet slowly and turned to look down the street through the smoke and haze and flames. He watched with his keen elf eyes as two figures boarded the ramp, one a tall human male, the other a shorter female with red hair. The male turned to look in his direction as the ramp closed slowly while the big helicopter began to climb into the air. Marcus could have sworn that the figure was smiling at him.

"I want to know how they got into the city." Marcus spoke turning to look at the two sergeants who had protected him. "You two just became my personal aides. Question who you must, search what you will... but find me answers!"

The two men nodded quickly, "Restrictions Colonel?" The older of the two asked.

Marcus looked at them, his amber eyes burning in hate, "None at all."

Anja looked at Martin as Ben lifted the MH-53EJ into the sky slowly and began to accelerate smoothly. "What did you see?" She asked softly.

Martin looked at her. "What do you mean?"

Anja smiled. "Don't try it Martin Hunter. I know you well enough to know that you saw something, or someone that held your attention. I would say it was either a bad guy, or a very attractive woman."

Martin grinned. "Anja... you wound me." He spoke as his eyes went to the ramp now as it locked into place. The large ramp of the MH-53EJ locked halfway up, the scene below in the streets of the city still very visible. Martin's eyes caught the bright flash from a nearby rooftop and the grin on his face disappeared. "Ben evade now!" He screamed as he stepped in front of Anja without hesitation.

Anja heard the alarm in his voice and her combat senses lit off as well as he stepped in front of her. She was close enough to Martin to hear the wet thud and see his body go rigid and teeter towards her. "Marty!" She screamed.

"Sni... Sniper," Martin gasped as his eyes flared and he fell forward into her arms just as his three word command to Ben registered and the MH-53EJ slew violently to the right.

The combination of the helicopter's quick movement and Martin stumbling into her arms caused Anja to lose her balance and fall backwards, Martin in her grasp. He twisted his body enough, wrapping his arms around her as they fell and he took the impact on his right side.

"You've been keeping an eye on me Anja." Martin spoke the words softly as he looked up at her.

Anja looked flustered. "I... I have not!" She hissed at him in a slightly defensive whisper, meeting his dark eyes with her jade green orbs and seeing the pain in his eyes and the fact that he was fading fast.

Martin smiled again and leaned close to her ear. "That's too bad." He said softly again. "You know, you're still just as delicious looking as when we first met. And now that you're part like... like me... you smell even sweeter." Martin's arms went limp and his eyes closed.

Anja stood there in stunned silence as a warm feeling rushed through her at his words and she caught his head before it impacted the steel floor of the helicopter. "Martin!" Anja screamed at him. She moved her body off his and pushed him over onto his side. She saw the blood on the floor of the helicopter and the large caliber entry wound just under his shoulder blade. "Fuck! She swore looking up and seeing Talia Torcrum gazing at her wide eyed. "My bag," Anja yelled pointing to the medical knapsack. "Give me my bag!"

Anja's voice spurred Talia into action and she moved quickly to get the bag just as Julie and Tari came towards them from the cockpit. Julie's face filled with worry at seeing her Skipper on the ground and Anja covered in his blood.

"Anja!" Julie snapped skidding to a halt next to her.

Anja was tearing open her bag with one hand while holding Martin on his side. "A sniper," Anja spoke, "On one of the roofs! Martin... he got in front of me Julie! He took the bullet for me! Hold him up... I need to treat him. The bullet is still inside him!"

Julie's hands grabbed Martin's unconscious form and held him on his side as Anja dug in her bag. "Tari... help me!"

Tari settled onto the deck next to her and grabbed Martin's side as Julie held his head off the deck. Anari scrambled over next to Anja and began to rip open the back of Martin's vest and fatigue top.

The sniper brought the rifle down from his shoulder, his steel gray eyes emotionless and unblinking. "Slayer One from Slayer three, negative hit. I say again negative hit."

"What is your status?" The voice spoke from within his implant.

"Raptor One must have caught a flash from my scope. He stepped in front of target just as I fired." The sniper answered.

"You hit Raptor One?" The voice asked incredulous.

"Affirmative," The sniper answered. "Target is still alive."

"Fuck!" The voice echoed, "Damage to Raptor One?"

"He would have caught the round high in the shoulder." The sniper answered the simple question dispassionately. "It shouldn't be fatal with his healing system."

"Damn! He can still create havoc wherever he goes." The voice answered.

"Colonel if I may ask sir, why are we going after him and his team?" The sniper spoke as he began to break down his rifle. "Commander Peterson is one of us now Colonel, at least partially. You've seen the reports."

"We don't question orders Sergeant." The voice answered.

"Roger sir." The sniper replied, "Orders Colonel? Do we assist Colonel Marcus?"

"Fuck that half breed elf!" The reply was quick. "Let him clean up his own mess. Move to the exfiltration point. We need to report to the President."

"Roger that, moving now," The sniper answered.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

MOUNTAIN CITY

Tarifa sat on the edge of Aihola's bed, her eyes gazing on her new Drow lover and Mistress as the sun began to creep up in the horizon and cast light into the small window. Aihola's face was quite peaceful as she slept, her soft pink lips open slightly as she breathed. Tarifa remembered vividly the taste and texture of those wonderful lips as they had kissed her passionately and explored her body. Tarifa shifted her eyes and watched the rise and fall of her chest, Aihola's somewhat smaller but still very firm breasts hidden by the thin sheet, her dark nipples pressing against the fabric. Her shimmering white hair was splayed across the pillow, soft and shiny in the early morning light. The sheet covered her lithe ebony body only partially, and Tarifa allowed her eyes to wander hungrily over the taut dark flesh of her muscular thigh and calf. Gazing on Aihola like this sent a shiver of pleasure through Tarifa as she remembered the events of the previous night. The pleasures she had shared with Aihola were unlike anything she had ever experienced. Even her times with Dysea had not compared to the sheer will breaking orgasms that Aihola had produced from her, or the enormous pleasure she had experienced simply by having her face snuggled between Aihola's delicious thighs. Aihola had dominated her completely, instructing her how to please her, demanding her to do things that gave them both untold pleasures. Tarifa had experienced orgasms more powerful than anything, just by simply having Aihola firmly in control of her every move. Yet unlike a typical Drow relationship, which Tarifa knew full well was usually very one sided for the dominant Drow, Aihola had returned every sliver of pleasure back upon her with undisguised passion, desire and glee.

Tarifa stared at Aihola's peaceful face, her thoughts rushing through her mind with clarity she had never known. Tarifa had been raised to hate the Drow, she had even killed many of them in the latter years of the war they had fought, yet lying before her now was not a hated enemy. On the bed before her was a woman Tarifa had come to desire almost painfully. Tarifa knew that a small part of it was the taboo of the Drow that Aihola was breaking by sleeping with her, a small part of it was the fact that the contrast in the color of their skin drove her mad with desire, but most of all Tarifa knew it was because of the woman Aihola was. Tarifa had learned much about Aihola in their time together, relaxing in the hot tub simply talking of different things, and she had caught a glimpse of the woman Aihola truly was. On the bed in front of her was not a hated Drow enemy, but a complex and intelligent woman who had quite unexpectedly wormed her way into Tarifa's very soul. Aihola was a skilled and deadly warrior without question, but there was a side to her that Tarifa had only glimpsed at until last night. Aihola was Drow yes, and it was in her genes to dominate and be superior, but she had not hesitated in giving pleasure to Tarifa every which way she could the previous evening. She had even gone so far as to do things to her that Tarifa had never considered. Looking at her, Tarifa felt no more questions in her. This woman had wormed her way into her heart as surely as the sun came up every morning. And Tarifa relished that feeling more than anything in her life right now.

Tarifa reached out and softly ran her fingers along Aihola's shoulder and upper arm, causing her to stir and her amber eyes to slowly open. Aihola turned her head and saw Tarifa, and a small smile creased her soft pink lips. She gazed at her with a longing that made Tarifa want to lose herself within the pleasures of those lips once more. Aihola's amber eyes saw the sun coming up through the window, and she came instantly awake, her eyes ever alert as she bolted upright in the bed, holding the sheet over her breasts.

"It... it is morning!" She gasped. "Tarifa you must..."

Tarifa smiled and took her hand quickly. "Fear not Nya Istel." She spoke softly. "Telan is already gone. I woke him earlier and sent him off with a smile on his putrid face, and none the wiser."

Aihola looked at her, her eyes taking on a shamed expression. "Forgive me Tarifa... I have been remiss in my duties. I should not have allowed myself to act in such a way last night. It has... it has put you in danger."

"Why in the name of the gods would I be angry over something that I found so overwhelmingly wonderful Aihola?" Tarifa asked her. "And it did nothing to put me in danger, so put that thought from your mind."

"I allowed... I allowed my personal feelings to override caution Tarifa." Aihola told her, gathering the sheet around her body and preparing to get out of the bed. "I took what I wanted and my actions put you at risk. That was not what I had intended to..."

Tarifa silenced her words by covering her soft lips with her own and kissing her deeply. Aihola's instinctive reaction was to grasp Tarifa's head with a moan of desire and kiss her back harder, thrusting her tongue between Tarifa's lips with determination and domination. Tarifa groaned in delight, sinking into Aihola's arms, surrendering to her Mistress as Aihola returned her kiss and she gave herself to the sensations coursing through her. It felt so gloriously right and wonderful to surrender to her like this.

Aihola quickly brought her raging passions under control and pulled back from their kiss with barely concealed reluctance. "Tarifa..." She gasped softly. "Someone might come in." Aihola stared into Tarifa's sapphire eyes as they opened slowly with a dreamy expression on them, and Aihola had to fight down the urge to take her right there. Seeing her face and lips so close, Aihola realized she had some very un-Drow like feelings rippling through her, and they were feelings she now welcomed with open arms.

Tarifa nodded slowly, a look of disappointment on her face that did not go unnoticed by Aihola. "You... you are correct." She spoke as she leaned back on the bed. She closed her beautiful eyes briefly as if composing herself and then opened them again to look at her with an expression that caused Aihola's heart to leap. "I brought us breakfast." She spoke motioning to the small table where the hot tea and small breakfast biscuits rested.

Aihola looked at the table and noticed the smell and shape of the biscuits for the first time. They were an ancient Drow recipe that she hadn't had in years and her eyes grew bright, "Lunta biscuits!" She exclaimed, holding the sheet around her as she reached for the sweet breakfast biscuit.

"I hope you don't mind." Tarifa said as she began to pour two mugs of tea. "I inquired of the Holy One a few days ago in regards to foods that the Drow considered delicacies. He told me that these biscuits were among your people's greatest invention."

Aihola chose one of the biscuits and took a bite out of it, her eyes closing in bliss as the warm biscuit practically melted in her mouth. Aihola opened her eyes as she chewed and looked at Tarifa. "Tarifa... these are... they are delicious." She said.

Tarifa beamed with pride and set the tea down in front of her. "I'm glad."

Aihola plucked at a piece of the biscuit on the edge of her lips and looked at Tarifa closely. "Do you not have to appear before the Council soon?" She asked.

Tarifa shook her head. "I postponed the meeting until tomorrow before we leave for Salina. I wanted..." Tarifa looked at her shyly. "I wanted to spend as much time as I could with you."

Aihola suddenly looked very embarrassed. "Tarifa... I... I apologize again for my actions last night." She spoke softly. "I should not have... I should not have treated you in such a way."

"Why?" Tarifa asked her. "I did not exactly protest in any way." Tarifa smiled and her eyes turned seductive as she remembered their actions, "Quite the opposite in fact if my memory serves me correctly."

"You... you are Queen of the High Elves Tarifa." Aihola replied slowly, her own emotions raging within her now. "I am..."

Aihola looked at her, and knew without question at that very moment that she had fallen in love with Tarifa. A taboo that was so anchored in their Drow culture, two females being lovers and Aihola found that she was surrendering to it with no qualms. Tarifa had found her way into her heart and soul as easily as any blade could have. The Queen of the High Elves had a body that caused her own pussy to pulse with excitement, a body that Aihola could explore every night for the rest of her life and never tire of. Yet Tarifa was also the Queen of the High Elves, and any relationship that Aihola desired could never...

"Don't do that." Tarifa's words interrupted her thoughts and she looked at Tarifa who was gazing at her intently.

"Don't do what?" Aihola asked.

"Don't you dare question the feelings that your heart tells you are right." Tarifa told her. "And don't question whether our relationship will continue or is right? That is what you are thinking isn't it?"

"Tarifa you are the Queen of the High Elves." Aihola spoke calmly. "I am a Drow Assassin. There could never..."

Tarifa moved much faster than Aihola could track her with her eyes thanks to her newly enhanced genome DNA, and suddenly her face was within inches of her own, her sapphire eyes having changed to the sapphire orbs outlined in black. Aihola also saw the tips of her fangs extending past her soft lips. It no longer frightened her when Tarifa changed, and she stared into those sapphire orbs with desire and love.

"I know some of the taboos of your people Aihola." Tarifa spoke softly. "I am not a fool in regards to your culture Nya Istel. I have spent several nights deep in conversations with the Holy One, learning about the Drow and your history. He gave me many books and data pads to study. I know that you have broken one of the strongest taboos of your people already by taking me into your bed. That by itself speaks volumes of the person you have become. Before last night you were hesitant with me, knowing that I desired you so, and you did nothing. What happened to change that?"

Aihola found she could not tear her eyes from Tarifa's bright beautiful face. Tarifa called her Nya Istel, "My Light" in the elfin language, and those words caused Aihola's heart to pulse in joy, "My... my brother

Tari.” She answered softly. “In his message to me he told me that many of the cultures and traditions of our people had died with them. He said we no longer needed to adhere to customs and rules hundreds of years old. That we were free to take what we wanted, and that we would build the Drow again in a different image, a better image.”

“And I was what you wanted?” Tarifa asked shyly.

Aihola nodded slowly, “Since that very first night.” She replied honestly. “I... I have never felt for anyone what I feel for you. No woman and certainly no man. No one has elicited the emotions within me that you have stirred. It confused and frightened me until I saw the message from Tari. His words made it all so clear to me.”

“So... so what we shared last night you do not regret?” Tarifa asked softly, her voice holding hope and promise.

Aihola shook her head slowly with a smile. “No Tarifa, I do not regret it.” She moved closer to her, reaching out to caress her cheek. “Do you regret it Tarinya Enda?” (Queen of my Heart)

Tarifa welcomed Aihola’s touch and she smiled dreamily, “Never.” She replied softly. She reached up and took Aihola’s hand in hers. “And I hope it happens again and again, for as long as I have years on this earth.”

“What... what of your role as Queen? What of...” Aihola looked at Tarifa, her amber eyes searching Tarifa’s face. “It would never be accepted Tarifa.” Aihola asked.

“I will not lie to you Aihola.” Tarifa spoke honestly as well. “It would not be easy. I have... I have always searched for love. I... I believe I have finally found it with you. I do not care what you are... I only care what I feel when I am with you.” Tarifa got up and moved to the small window looking out over the top of Mountain City.

“But... Tarifa, I am Drow?” Aihola asked getting to her feet as well and moving up behind her slowly, her heart hammering in her chest as she waited to hear what Tarifa would say to that. Aihola was prepared for the worst though she hoped for something more.

Tarifa turned and looked at her. “I do not care Nya Istel.” She spoke. “I have fallen in love with you. I don’t please you enough... is that it? I’m not submissive enough? Tell me Nya Istel; tell me Mistress, I do not want to lose you.”

Aihola’s amber eyes did nothing to hide the feelings that ripped through her at Tarifa’s words. It was more than she had expected or hoped for, and it made her soul sing with new found joy. She looked up into the eyes of her taller lover. “Ta... Tarifa,” She started to say.

Tarifa stepped closer to her, pressing her body to Aihola’s and taking her hands in her own. “I have fallen very much in love with you Aihola of the Family Anatyla. It has happened very quickly I know, but I know what my heart is telling me and... and I truly hope I am not making a fool of myself and you feel the same in return.”

Aihola stared at her for a long moment, the silence in the room so complete she thought for sure she could hear the pounding of both their hearts in the still morning air. She stared into Tarifa’s eyes, memorizing every contour of her beautiful face and let the words come. “You are not making a fool of yourself Tarifa, and I do feel the very same thing. More powerful than anything I have ever felt for anyone.” She answered with a loving smile.

Tarifa stepped closer to her now and kissed her softly. It was a kiss of two people very much in love. There was no dominance by either of them, only a deep kiss that drew them together even more. “You do not know how that makes my heart sing.” Tarifa spoke softly after they had reluctantly parted.

“What of your mother and everyone else? What will they say?” Aihola finally asked her, her hand coming up to caress Tarifa’s cheek and jaw line.

Tarifa smiled dreamily once more. “I care not what they will say.” She said firmly. “I had something torn from me once before because I listened to others. I almost lost the one man and woman who are like the dearest brother and sister I have ever had. We are rocks for each other, and while we may have shared something long ago, it has blossomed and grown into what it is now, a deep abiding friendship that nothing could ever come between. I will never allow that to happen again, concerning anything, least of all my feelings for you.”

“Tarifa I...” Aihola began.

“I will be your willing slave in all things private to us Nya Istel.” Tarifa spoke softly with a knowing and delightful smile, pressing her body against Aihola’s harder, “Most especially in our bed. I enjoyed my role immensely, and I will do whatever you ask of me my Mistress.”

Aihola smiled seductively, “As did I... my slave.” She answered squeezing Tarifa’s hands and leaning over to nuzzle her cheek with her lips. “But never in public Tarifa. I honor and love you too much, and you are still Queen. I want us to be equals in everything we do Tarifa. Is that even possible?”

Tarifa traced a finger over her cheek, relishing in the warmth and radiance of Aihola’s amber colored eyes. “It will be soon Nya Istel.” She spoke softly in response. “We have much to accomplish in the months ahead, and you must meet Martin as well as the others. I will not hide from them what we share, and he would be angry with me if I tried. The time we spent together opened our eyes to many new things, and we have so much to do. Once all of us have broken from such old traditions and customs we can be together as we want to be Aihola. Until that day, we must be patient and enjoy what little privacy we will have here to the fullest. Can you do that?”

Aihola nodded confidently. “I have waited over a hundred years to feel what I feel for you Tarifa, Queen of the High Elves. Another few months being cautious of our love will not be so long to wait, and then I intend to announce it to the world.”

Tarifa smiled. “You will have to beat me to that.”

Aihola smiled and leaned forward to kiss her gently. “By the gods you are delicious my love.” She spoke huskily. “How did... how did Dysea let you get away?”

Tarifa smiled at her words and drew Aihola back towards the bed. “I believe that Dysea’s true heart lies with Martin and perhaps someone she has yet to discover. She did not say as much when she was here, but I could feel her soul longing to return to Martin, and longing for the touch of someone else. It was radiating from her strongly.”

“He is the core isn’t it?” Aihola asked as they settled onto the edge of the bed.

Tarifa nodded slowly. “The moment he returned to our planet, events were set in motion that will forever change the face of everything we know. I think you will be impressed. Aside from his obvious physical attractions and he has quite a few of them,” She spoke with a knowing smile. “He is perhaps the most compassionate man I have ever known. Yet that compassion is laced with steel. If you are his friend he will do anything within his power for you, but if you are his enemy... well let’s just say I have seen the side of him that no one wants to see. It is not a pretty sight when he becomes angry, and part of me believes that there is much he does not let anyone see. Not even Dysea.”

“You are looking forward to seeing him aren’t you?” Aihola asked with absolutely no malice or jealousy in her voice at all.

Tarifa nodded slowly with a smile. “I have missed him a great deal. He... he is like a brother to me now... a brother and dearest friend. You know what it feels like to feel as if you are alone? When someone you are close to... someone who shares your values and ideals and you are close too, you know what it feels like when you are apart from them. That is what it feels like to have not seen him in so long. I thought perhaps I had lost him and Dysea... their friendship and caring... but her visit here made me see that it has perhaps made the bond between us stronger. A bond that now includes you.” She looked at Aihola and slipped her arms around her waist pulling her ebony body tightly against hers. “Enough talk of that, I am with you now my Mistress. How... how may I please you?” She said.

Aihola smiled as passion again swept through her and she allowed it to consume her. She pushed Tarifa back onto the bed her amber eyes filled with desire and hunger as she spread her body out on top of Tarifa. “Yes... yes you are... my slave, and I’m sure I will come up with something over the next few hours.” She spoke before lowering her lips to Tarifa’s and pulling her body to hers.

EDEN (FORMERLY JUNCTION CITY UTAH)

Dysea stood on the tarmac of the airport her blood boiling in anger and her heart aching with worry as she paced in front of Vengal. She wore the standard dark gray fatigues she had adopted after coming to Eden. They were practical and comfortable yet did nothing to hide her figure in any way. Her long platinum hair cascaded past her shoulders, framing her face and falling to nearly the top of her tight ass. Buckled around her waist was a utility belt that held a holster for her K-12 automatic on her left hip, and the long bladed Wood Elf fighting knife was strapped to her right thigh. She had spent the last twenty minutes communicating directly with Anja after they both tore new assholes into the communications officer in the tower. Dysea had come immediately to the airport when Leland had contacted her that they were inbound and what had happened on their mission. It was here that she discovered that Martin's team was also inbound from their mission, but that Martin had been wounded. It took another thirty minutes of screaming and yelling before she had spoken directly with Anja.

Dysea had lit into Vengal the moment he had come down the ramp her face a mask of rage. Leland stood at the top of the ramp, Cathy next to him as they watched. They saw roughly a dozen and a half of Vengal's Wood Elf Rangers approach, led by the man Leland recognized as Matarn. Tony and Radama stood to one side of the lowered ramp, Dysea's five person security detachment spread out in a loose circle around her, Vengal and the others.

"...realize what you have done?" Dysea ranted, only inches from Vengal's face. "Do you have any idea what your actions will do?"

"I was only attempting to rescue my daughter!" Vengal protested.

"You have used us!" Dysea screamed. "You used us to accomplish something you could not do yourself! You knew this!"

"She is my daughter Dysea!" Vengal spoke softly. "The only daughter I have left."

"You should have been forthright the moment you arrived in our presence!" Dysea screamed. "I would have done everything in my power to give you the help you needed. Everything! Instead you betrayed my trust and what's worse you betrayed Martin's trust!"

The young elf who had arrived after Vengal and the others departed stepped forward now. Matarn came from a very influential Wood Elf family and thought very highly of himself. He was very handsome with fair skin and long blond hair. His blue eyes were bright and clear, but they also held a small amount of malice in them. It was also obvious to even the casual observer that he did not care for anyone or anything that was not elfin in nature.

"He is no elf!" Matarn snapped. "Why should we care in the least if what we told him was the truth? We should not trust these human hybrids!"

"Matarn keep your silence!" Vengal hissed at him viciously.

"I will not!" Matarn barked again. "Anuk is sworn to me! She will be my wife! She belongs to me! She has been a slave and defiled by those like these men and women for too long and in what should have been a simple operation she should be back here with us and not trapped with some black skinned barbarian who is neither human nor elf!"

"These men and women are not like the others!" Vengal snapped.

"They are all the same!" Matarn answered. "We are superior to them in every way. All of them are barbarians as far as I am concerned!"

Dysea turned her head slowly to look at Matarn, seeing the look of astonishment on Vengal's face at Matarn's words. "Does this arrogant young fool speak for you now Vengal?" Dysea asked her eyes boring into Matarn.

"No my Queen, he does not." Vengal answered softly.

"She is no longer Queen!" Matarn almost shouted. "My sister is Queen now! And it was she who sanctioned this operation! An operation we should have never revealed to these people! Their incompetence has most likely cost me my most treasured property!"

Vengal's dark eyes glared at Matarn, "Property? My daughter is no one's property!" He growled. "You would do well to remember that!"

"You promised your daughter's hand to me!" Matarn spoke.

"That is true... but she is still an individual!" Vengal replied. "You speak of her as some sort of possession."

"We will not have this discussion here." Matarn growled. "And it matters not now. Because of these fools and their incompetence, she is lost to us. I am quite sure that this black skinned barbarian is having his way with her even as we speak. We..."

Matarn's eyes grew wide when he felt the prick of the razor sharp blade press against the soft flesh under his jaw. Dysea was directly in front of him now, her emerald eyes outlined in black and her lips curled back over her fangs. Her arm was extended, holding the Wood Elf Shakur ritual fighting knife in its position. The blade had moved from the sheath on her thigh to its present position in less than a single blink of an eye. The men with Matarn had not seen anyone ever move so quickly, not even an elf and they were slow in reacting, their weapons coming up almost in slow motion. They were also far too slow and froze in mid motion when they heard the snicker of bolts slamming home driving live rounds into rifle chambers, and the barrels of a dozen HK-74 rifles jamming into their bodies in various locations. Their eyes also heard the mechanical sound of the retractable turret in the side of the Raptor behind Dysea extending and locking into place, a female elf behind the controls of the 30mm chain cannon.

Dysea glared at Matarn as a predator would look upon its prey. Her extremely cold and emotionless emerald green orbs outlined in black gazed at him with the finality of death's touch.

"You stand closer to death's door than at any other time in your pathetic life." Dysea's words were measured and filled with an icy calm that sent a shiver down Matarn's spine unlike anything he had ever felt. "You speak of a man who has more honor within him than you have common sense. The only reasons... and I do mean the only reasons... that you still stand there now and are not on the ground attempting to hold your innards inside your body, are due to General Vengal and the relationship we have shared in the past, and the fact that Anuk is betrothed to you." Dysea stepped closer to Matarn, keeping the blade pressed tightly to his throat, a thin trickle of blood beginning to slide down his neck, staining the blade. Dysea's black outlined emerald eyes stared at Matarn intently. "If Nauta Melme were here you would already be dead Matarn, don't doubt that for a single moment." The sounds of the PAVE LOW III approaching caused Dysea to turn her head and look to the sky for a moment. She glanced at Leland who stood on the end of the ramp his HK-74 leveled at two of Vengal's Wood Rangers, "Leland... place Matarn and the others under house arrest. General Vengal will be kept separate from them. Insure they want for nothing, but they are not to be allowed free access to anyplace in Eden City, or any type of communication equipment. Make sure you search them thoroughly and take anything that might be used as a weapon."

Leland nodded, "As you order Dysea." He spoke.

"You have no right to do this!" Matarn gasped, even with the blade against his skin.

Dysea turned back to him. "I have every right to do this. You have used us once, and I will not allow you to do so again. Daniel Simpson is like a beloved brother to Martin Hunter young Matarn. They have fought and survived in places you and I could not possibly imagine, they have seen things that we could never hope to understand. I dare say if anything has happened to Daniel due to your deception, you will not have long left in this world." Dysea took her blade away. "Take them."

"Dysea..." Vengal began to speak but Dysea shook her head quickly.

"We will speak later." She spoke, her words carrying firmness in them that Vengal did not question.

Vengal bowed his head slightly as Leland stepped up to him, "Until later." He said.

Dysea had already dismissed him as she turned to watch Ben bring the PAVE LOW III in for a landing. She could see the medical Hopper racing across the tarmac toward them to transport Martin to the clinic. Dysea's heart was caught in her throat at the moment as she contemplated just how important Martin was to her.

The past few months spent at his side and in his bed had confirmed for her that no man would ever have her heart as he did. That first time within the cave had been a moment of passion and lust that Dysea had been denying for too long. Tarifa had triggered something within her that she had kept buried deep and Martin had been the one to release it. She had allowed him to enter her soul, and he had allowed her to see into his, bringing them closer together than she ever thought possible for two people to be. The first few weeks after being exiled from Mountain City they had made love to each other because it gave them peace. As the weeks passed by however their loving making became more intense, more spontaneous and considerably more passionate, and they would pleasure each other for hours on end. Dysea didn't believe that Tarifa loved her and Martin anymore than they loved Tarifa, but they would always share a friendship forged in the most trying of times and one that they could always turn to in times of need or council.

Dysea's love for Martin however was something else entirely. It consumed her being in a way she could not put into words. There were times when they were in bed where she would simply allow her eyes to wander over every contour of his body and face, marveling that such a specimen of a man belonged to her. And Martin made no bones that he did indeed belong to Dysea. There were times lying within his embrace when she could also feel Martin's eyes on her doing the same thing, and she felt washed with warmth and love. Her feelings for Martin however consumed her very soul in the embrace of love.

Dysea had also recognized that a new part of her had awakened, and she no longer shied away from appraising other females. There were many beautiful women within Eden, human and elf alike, but for some reason she could not explain, her thoughts always returned to one and she found herself comparing whoever she was looking at to that woman.

Anja.

Perhaps it was because she knew of the relationship that Anja and Martin had shared however briefly so many years ago. Perhaps it was due to Anja's exotic Persian red hair and the smooth contours of her face and skin. Martin had told her everything about that night and what had transpired afterwards. Dysea could also detect the tone in his voice when he spoke about Anja. His words and tone softened, as they often did when he spoke to her. Dysea could tell that Anja still held a part of his heart that he kept locked away from even her.

Dysea had spent considerable time with Anja Peterson when she wasn't working beside Martin. The human/genome hybrid woman and she shared much more in common than she had first realized. At first Dysea had kept her distance because of the relationship she knew Anja was involved in. When she first began to change because of her love for Martin, Dysea began to hone her body in a way that she hadn't before, always waking early to go to the makeshift gym the genomes had established in a nearby school. She always saw Anja doing the same thing, but with Julie and Daniel at first, and then only Julie, and finally over these last few weeks she was alone. Dysea had found herself gazing at the definition of Anja's toned body. Anja's breasts were larger than her own, and while she was easily six inches shorter than Dysea, she had long legs for her height. Legs that ended in the most incredibly perfect ass Dysea had ever witnessed on a woman. Anja's abdomen rippled with muscles, lean and deeply tanned. Her legs were also muscular, yet they remained distinctly feminine. Her dark Persian red hair shimmered in the morning sunlight, and Dysea had found herself wondering on many occasions if this was her natural hair color.

As Dysea stood waiting as the large rotors on the flying machine slowed she silently gave thanks that it was Anja caring for Martin. Anja had contacted her immediately after getting his condition stable, and they both had resorted to cursing and screaming at befuddled and very frightened communications technicians until they could talk to one another clearly.

Dysea walked with the medics and her security detachment as the ramp on the PAVE LOW came down slowly and she felt a small smile crease her face when she heard the bellowing voice from within the strange flying machine Ben had been so ecstatic about discovering.

"I can damn well walk!" Martin's voice bellowed.

"If you try I'll knock you out and sedate you myself!" Anja's equally loud and firm voice replied as Dysea walked up in front of the now apprehensive elf medics from Anja's clinic.

Dysea stopped when she saw Anja standing over a sitting Martin, her hands on her hips and not budging a muscle. The front of her uniform was saturated in what Dysea assumed was Martin's blood, and her keen eyes detected the civilian elves and humans that Martin and his team had rescued from New Memphis. Martin was shirtless, with a large bandage over his shoulder and back that was stained with blood as well.

Dysea watched Martin get to his feet slowly and with a grimace of pain and he towered over Anja by nearly a foot. He glared down into her face, his eyes changing to yellow/gold within black orbs and his fangs extending to nearly a full inch.

"I am entirely capable of walking out of here on my own!" Martin growled at Anja.

Dysea could not help but be impressed by Anja. She knew her Nauta Melme was an extremely intimidating physical presence all by himself, but when he allowed his eyes and fangs to alter, he appeared like some fearsome visage from an adult's nightmare. Anja looked up into Martin's face and Dysea watched as her jade green eyes changed and shrank in size, becoming outlined in black as well, and her canine teeth extended to nearly half an inch. Dysea almost forgot that Anja's relationship with Daniel Simpson and Julie had changed her as her own relationship with Martin had done to her. Anja remained in front of Martin, no back down in her whatsoever, and met Martin's eyes.

"You so much as take a step off this aircraft and I will stick you with enough sedative that you will drop like a limp noodle in the wind." Anja growled back at him.

Dysea watched Julie move from the direction of the cockpit, the Drow warrior Tari right behind her. The civilians were watching this confrontation intently; unable to move for fear of igniting something they had no control over.

“Better listen to her Skipper.” Julie spoke with a grin. “She can be very tenacious. And I know from experience you won’t win.”

Anja smiled sweetly at Martin as he continued to glare at her. “What’s it going to be Marty?” She asked.

“You wouldn’t dare.” Martin spoke.

“Do you really want to test me?” Anja asked calmly.

Dysea could not help but smirk at the stunned expressions on the faces of the elves of Martin’s team and the civilians. They had never heard anyone challenge Nauro Ohtar in such a way. Dysea chose that time to step forward so that everyone could see her. She heard the soft gasps from some of the civilians as they recognized her immediately.

“She is correct Nauta Melme.” Dysea spoke softly.

“I will not have my troops see me carted off this aircraft on a stretcher Melda Min.” Martin replied, his eyes never leaving Anja’s. “My healing system is…”

“Your healing system is not infallible Martin.” Anja spoke softly now. “The bullet was coated with some kind of poison.” She told him, seeing his face wrinkle just a tiny bit in confusion at this information. Anja reached up and touched his cheek, the warmth of his skin sending electric shocks through her fingers. “It is just a precaution until I get you back to the clinic and insure that your healing factor is indeed destroying the poison. Trust me on this please.”

Dysea stepped up next to Anja. “I agree Nauta Melme.” She said softly. “Please listen to Melyanna.”

(Dear One)

Martin glanced from Dysea to Anja and back before his eyes returned to their normal dark brown and he acquiesced, lowering his frame back onto the bench in silence as Anja ushered the two sturdy male elves forward with the stretcher.

“Take him directly to the exam room and begin routine prep.” Anja ordered. “I want all of these civilians brought there as well to undergo complete physicals. Make sure they have ample food and plenty of liquid to drink, some of them looked malnourished.”

The other medics nodded and began to usher the civilians off the helicopter as Anja looked at Dysea. “Thank you.” She said softly.

“You appeared to have it completely under control.” Dysea said. “I simply echoed what you were telling him. What happened out there Anja?”

Anja didn’t hesitate and took her hand. Dysea felt a warmth course through her as Anja led her from the PAVE LOW III. “I’ll tell you everything as we head to the clinic.” Anja spoke as they headed for one of the extra Hoppers that had arrived minutes before.

NEVADA SIX MILES OUTSIDE LAS VEGAS 187 METERS UNDERGROUND

Anuk’s eyes popped open with a start at the loud snapping noise nearby. Her cerulean blue eyes darted back and forth as she remained perfectly still, bringing her senses back from her fitful sleep. The flickering light from the small fire several meters in front of her cast ghostly shadows across the small tunnel they were in. She felt the thick wool like blanket draped over her and her eyes grew a little larger as the blanket came into focus. It wasn’t a dirty ragged piece of cloth as she expected, but it looked almost brand new with a slight musky odor. She let her eyes wander over where she was once more. They had traveled for several hours, until he had chosen this small tunnel to stop and rest. It was situated above the main tunnel and was only about twenty meters deep. The interior walls were smooth and unbroken, though a cave in had collapsed the roof of the tunnel preventing them from going any further into it. He had told her to rest, and she had sat down almost immediately and fallen into an exhaustive sleep.

Anuk's dreams were dotted with memories of her months as a prisoner and slave, the uncountable rapes and beatings at the hands of her captors, the wild breakout of the hotel only a short while ago, his fearsome face inches from her, and then their drop into the unknown. Her body was incredibly sore, most especially the deep cut along her rib cage. She winced slightly as she stretched out her legs and leaned forward just a little. Her eyes settled on him as he squatted by the small fire adding wood to it as he broke the thick boards in his hands. He was the man who had rescued her, and the man who had saved her life twice in less than six hours.

Daniel Simpson he had said his name was.

Anuk had never seen a man such as him. The slavers that had captured her and killed the rest of her Ranger patrol were also black skinned men, but many of them were fat and foul smelling as if they hadn't bathe in weeks. They were ill tempered and disgusting humans, yet most of them were exceptionally large and brutal in their dealings with slaves.

Daniel was different.

He was easily as tall as many of the slavers, but his body looked as if it had been sculpted from a marble statue. She watched as the muscles in his arms and shoulders worked under his skin as he snapped boards that no elf would have been able to break even with their enhanced strength. His head was completely bald, the firelight gleaming off the crown of his skull. His skin was not as dark as the slavers, more like a deep caramel color. He squatted with ease, the dusty fatigue pants covering long muscular legs. His combat boots were black and she saw the hilt of a small knife secured on his left boot ankle. He wore only a tank top t-shirt, his utility belt around his waist, the matte black automatic in the holster, as well as the Wood Elf Shakur fighting knife. Anuk's eyes grew a little wider when she saw the knife. She hadn't noticed it before, and now she wondered just how he had the knife in his possession.

Anuk stared at his back remembering what he had turned into right in front of her. She would never have believed it had she not witnessed it herself. The change that came over him was terribly frightening. Anuk had thought for an instant her was going to rip her apart when he first changed. The short dark brown hair that had erupted from his pores and covered his exposed skin, as well as the long and vicious fangs that curled from his mouth. He had changed into something then, a version of a wolf he had explained to her. The story he had told her was almost impossible to believe, yet for some uncanny reason she believed him, but she felt there was more he wanted to tell her and didn't. When she had fallen asleep hours before there was no blanket over her, and now the wool blanket surrounded her and she smelled...

"Food!" Anuk gasped, scrambling from where she sat heedless of the pain that lanced through her side.

Danny turned as she came off the ground and moved toward the small fire. He smiled when she knelt next to him and looked at the metal pot he had sitting in the center of the fire, her nose flaring at the smell.

"What... where did you find food?" Anuk asked reaching forward to stick her finger into the brown substance in the pot.

Dan motioned to the main tunnel. "I noticed something odd about these tunnels when we got out here into the main shaft." He explained pointing out into the main tunnel below them. "I remembered that in my time the city of Las Vegas had begun construction on an underground rail system between here and Phoenix. They got it working from Vegas to Prescott Arizona before they ran out of money. It was actually really cool. The rail system had stops along the entire route, and at each stop was a small shopping mall. There's one about two miles down. I was able to rummage around the stores until I found some food with a shelf life of forever. Mainly old military rations from the sporting goods store. That blanket was the only one that was sealed in a vacuum wrap and serviceable. I was able to scrounge together different clothes for you that will at least allow you to be less exposed." Dan spoke as he handed over the small bundle. "They should fit you well enough."

Anuk stared at him with the bundle in her arms. "You did all this while I slept?" She asked incredulous.

Dan nodded with a grin. "I'm quick on my feet." He answered.

"What... what is that?" Anuk asked licking her fingers.

"That my beautiful companion is what the military called field rations in the time we came from." Dan spoke moving to adjust the small pot and stir the concoction around more with the metal spoon. "If eaten alone they were the most retched things known to man, but we learned a few tricks to make them actually pretty good."

Anuk stared at Daniel as he stirred the pot. He had called her beautiful in such a way that Anuk felt warmth flush across her skin. It was not spoken with a sarcastic tone in his voice, and Anuk could not detect any other motive from his words. She looked at the bundle of clothes and saw that he had brought her a sturdy pair of dark work pants, and a button down shirt that would cover her entirely. There was also a pair of boots that looked as if they would fit her.

Dan glanced at her. "Go ahead and change while I serve out this wonderful slop for us to eat. I will keep my back to you, don't worry."

Anuk didn't take her eyes from him as she moved further back into the tunnel to change. She wished that she could bathe to remove the grim and dirt from her body and attempt to wash away the filth of what she had endured these last months, but the clothes would at least return some of her dignity to her until she could cleanse herself in a pool of steaming hot water. She dressed as quickly as she could, heedless of the fact she had no undergarments to put on. She pulled on the pants which slid over her legs and hips smoothly, amazingly fitting her almost perfectly. She pulled on the dark green socks and then the black boots before standing and beginning to unbutton the oversized fatigue shirt. As she stretched awkwardly to remove the top she let out a small gasp of pain, her eyes closing tightly as it felt like a thousand needles were stabbing into her side.

"What's wrong?" Dan's voice spoke almost instantly.

Anuk's eyes opened quickly to see him towering over her, his dark eyes bright in the dim light of the tunnel. Anuk attempted to cover her half exposed breasts and shied away from him. "I... I am fine." She managed to gasp.

"Oh really," Dan spoke. "I can smell your pain and how your adrenalin just spiked sky high." He said stepping closer to her and reaching for the fatigue top.

Anuk prepared to hit him as hard as she could to keep him from taking her. Her fingers balled into a fist as his hands touched her and gripped the shirt. As her arm tensed to throw the crippling punch into his neck she felt him lift the fatigue top from the bottom, being very careful not to expose her breasts, and look at her wound.

"The MEDCOM patch is gone!" Dan exclaimed. "Why didn't you tell me?"

Anuk watched him move quickly back to where his vest was and grab the small medical kit. "It... it came off as... as we were walking here." Anuk spoke softly as he returned with another bandage in his hand.

"Damn!" Dan grunted as his fingers once more probed the wound tenderly. "It's infected now! Fuck!"

Anuk watched him tear open the remaining bandage and hold it out over her side. He looked up at her. "Ready?"

Anuk nodded and grit her teeth as he placed the bandage over the long slice in her skin. His hand slid around to the small of her back to give him leverage as he held the bandage to her skin, and his fingers sent electric jolts through her skin at the contact, and it was not from pain. Anuk hissed in pain then, her hand going to his shoulder and squeezing with her elf strength, as the micro filaments of the bandage bore into her skin to anchor the healing patch in place. It passed within seconds and she relaxed her hand, but did not take it from his shoulder. She watched him as he secured the bandage even further with white tape from the kit, gingerly applying two strips across the middle of the bandage. Satisfied with his work he slowly began to get to his feet and Anuk allowed her hand to drop away.

"We need to find someplace where you can take a bath and wash this crude off yourself." Dan spoke softly. "I have one more patch, but it's already infected and unless we can clean it up, it's only going to get worse." He held out his hand and Anuk saw the two small pills in his large palm. "These will take the edge off and make the pain a dull throb."

Anuk looked at the pills in his hand and then to his face. "I..."

"Anuk... if my intentions were anything other than honorable do you think I would be doing this?" Danny asked her in a voice that was calm and sincere.

"I... I would fight you!" Anuk spoke.

Dan nodded slowly. "Yes you would. And if that was my intent you would lose." He told her plainly. "My brothers and sisters and I were not raised to act in such a manner. Marty... the oldest among us... I watched him beat a man to near death for attempting to take something that was not his right to have. Take them... and then finish dressing and come eat. You will need your strength to fight the infection, and I would prefer you return to your father in good health. He does not strike me as the type of man you want pissed off at you."

Anuk's eyes softened slightly. "You... you have seen my father?" She asked.

Dan nodded. "He was waiting for us at the pick up sight." He answered.

“Why did he not come for me?” Anuk asked.

Dan chuckled. “He wanted too.” He replied. “He was ready to invade Las Vegas to get you back once he discovered you were still alive. Marty convinced him a small operation was better and since your father is apparently well known among elves, he would not give us away.”

Dan took her hand in his and Anuk felt shivers shoot through her as he dropped the small pills into her palm. “These will be good for twelve hours, and when that patch comes off tell me so we can put the last one on.” He curled her fingers around the pills and stepped back from her. “Now finish dressing and come eat some of the slop I have prepared. It’s my own recipe.”

Anuk watched him turn and move back to the fire. She looked at the small pills in her hand contemplating what she should do. He was right she concluded. If he had wanted to take her against her will he could have done so already many times over. And Anuk was no fool, after seeing what he could transform himself into, she held no doubts she would never be able to fight him off. She popped the pills into her mouth quickly and bent to retrieve the shirt he had brought her.

“This is delicious!” Anuk exclaimed as she shoveled another spoonful of the mixture into her mouth.

Dan chuckled to himself as he chewed and shook his head. “I’ve heard it referred to as many things, but never delicious.” He replied as he too shoveled another spoonful into his mouth.

“What... what it is?” She asked finally.

“They’re called Meals Ready to Eat.” Dan replied with a large grin. “It was the standard military ration in my time. The most disgusting thing army scientists ever devised. Many of us thought they were developed as a slow way to kill us, but they are packed with nutrients and calories, and if you learned how to mix and match them and add additional seasonings, you can at least make them tolerable.”

“Where did you get seasonings?” She asked looking at him.

“Apparently the owner of the sporting goods store was ex-military.” Dan replied. “He had everything that we used to spice them up.”

“Were you able to find a way back to the surface?”

Dan shook his head. “I found two of the exit tunnels, but both of them were buried. Looks like a large cave in sealed them shut.”

“But you said you could smell fresh air.” She told him.

Dan nodded. “I think it’s coming from vents in the ceiling.” He answered. “When they built this tunnel they installed ventilation shafts every few hundred meters. I’m guessing the air is coming in through the ones that were covered or destroyed. We’ll just have to keep moving southeast until we find a place where we can get out, or someplace where the rock above us isn’t so thick that it blocks my implant.”

“What is this implant?”

Dan tapped his jaw line. “We have microscopic implants under our skin that act as radios.” He answered. “We’re too deep for a signal to penetrate the ground above us, but we might possibly come to a point that is higher up and a signal can penetrate the rock.”

“How is it that you know so much about this tunnel?” Anuk asked warily.

“When we were children our training was very thorough.” He explained. “Since we were genetically created... they were able to make us have photographic memories and be able to use thirty-three percent more of our brain capacity. Pretty much anything that I read I remember.”

“How many of you are there?” Anuk asked. She saw a look of pain flash across his dark face before he set his bowl on the ground.

“There were sixty-two of us when we came back to earth four months ago.” Dan answered. “An attack against our base camp near Mountain City killed all but nineteen of us. We did manage to save many of those who came with us, but not all of them.”

“I don’t understand, what do you mean those who came with you?” Anuk asked him.

Dan nodded. “I told you about EDEN. Well we left there in quite a hurry when one of the political assholes we had in our time decided he was going to take control of the station and work with this Alliance. He didn’t like genomes to begin with, and we knew that once he got control, not only would he enslave any elf he found, he would have us all killed. We left EDEN with almost two thousand men, women and children who felt as we did. After the attack in Mountain City the High Elves kicked us out and we moved to Junction City Utah. We renamed it Eden City and that's where we began rebuilding."

"Rebuilding?" Anuk said. "What are you rebuilding?"

Dan smiled. "Eden is a city where everyone is free and does not have to live in fear. Elf, man, whoever wants to live free. That's what Eden is."

"But the Alliance would never allow a city such as you describe to thrive." Anuk spoke.

Dan chuckled. "You don't know Martin Hunter." He answered. "Marty is genetically descended from Kings." He told her, seeing Anuk's cerulean eyes grow a little wider. "When they made us, they combined DNA from many sources, some of the greatest military minds in history up until that point. Martin's DNA is made up of the ancestors of the Spartan King Leonidas. If you were to trace back his bloodline, it would lead directly to him."

Anuk had set her bowl down now, enthralled with this information. "Your... your leader is descended from Kings?" She asked.

Dan nodded. "Don't tell him I told you that." He said with a smile. "He hates it when we tease him about that."

"Who was... who was this Spartan King you speak of?" Anuk asked.

"He lived in 480 BC." Dan answered. "You know what..."

"I am not a fool Daniel Simpson." Anuk told him with a genuine smile. "We have kept the same format of telling the years since the Great Fire."

"Sorry." Dan said sheepishly. "Anyway... King Leonidas was a Spartan. They were the premier military state of that time period. King Leonidas was a military genius, and the Spartans up until that time had never lost a battle. A Persian army invaded Greece in 480 BC and Leonidas led 300 of his Spartan soldiers along with several hundred allies into battle against nearly a million Persians. It is called the Battle of Thermopylae. They were guarding a small mountain pass and for three days they held that pass killing almost twenty-five thousand Persians. It's possible they could have held for even longer but they were betrayed in the end and the Persians were able to get behind them and attack from both sides. Leonidas and his Spartans fought until the last man, but they eventually were all killed. That action spurred the entire city state of Sparta to war, as well as all of Greece at the time and a year later they routed the Persians. Leonidas had a son, and it was that bloodline that was passed down through the centuries until it reached an Army General in our time. This General was considered the most brilliant tactician and skilled warrior since the days of George S. Patton. It was his DNA that was the template for Martin." Dan smiled. "There is a poem Martin taught us all as children, and we recited it before every mission we went on."

"What poem?" Anuk asked very curious. "Tell me this poem."

Dan took a deep breath.

*"Where is the honor of yesteryear, Of Thermopylae, and the Spartan's lack of fear?
Where is the ambition to give one's life, in the fight for Freedom, Truth, and Right?
Is to be honorable such a sin that it brings scorn from friend and kin?
O God, to be a Man is such a struggle that I wonder the meaning of this life of trouble.
Yet, from the back regions of my mind I hear a lonely echo rise,
An echo that pierces my very soul And helps me remember my goal:
"WE DIE PROUD.....WE DIE PROUD!"*

Dan looked at her. "Marty likes that poem." He said. "It was written by an army officer over a hundred years before we were created."

Anuk stared at this giant of a man with ebony skin. When he had spoken the poem, she could almost feel the passion he put into the words, and how his dark eyes grew brighter in the fire light.

Dan shook his head. "Well... eat up." He spoke reaching for the pack he had returned with. "We'll need to start walking out of here." Anuk watched him as he reached into the pack and drew out the holstered weapon. He set it on the ground next to her feet. "I assume you can use that." He spoke. "I cleaned it and it should work fine. I loaded four extra magazines for you." He added as he placed those on top of the holster.

Anuk stared at the pistol for a long moment before lifting her eyes back to him as he rummaged in the pack. “You... you are giving me a weapon?” She asked.

Dan looked at her. “Why wouldn’t I?” He asked.

“I... I don’t...” Anuk stammered, trying to find words to answer his question.

Dan set the pack aside and met her cerulean blue eyes. “Anuk... I understand... I understand what you have gone through these last months. I can’t begin to imagine what happened to you... or what was done to you. The only thing I can say is I am not one of those pigs... and my friends are not like them. If I had the chance I would hunt down every one of them and make them pay in blood for what they did to you. Right now I just want to get you back to your father. You will have to trust me.”

Anuk stared at him as his words sank in. They were spoken with as much sincerity and warmth as she had heard from anyone in her life, and she found herself looking at Daniel in a new light. Slowly she bent down and picked up the automatic at her feet. She returned her eyes to him and nodded slowly. “I... I will try to trust you Daniel.” She spoke haltingly. “I hope you will understand that after what has happened I will not give my trust lightly.”

Dan nodded. “That’s good enough.” He told her. “Now finish eating and let’s get our asses moving. I like caves and all... but I surely don’t want to spend anymore time down here than we need too. I have to work on my tan you know.”

Anuk couldn’t help but chuckle at his words and she began to finish the bowl of heated MRE in her hands. Dan turned away to busy himself with something else, and he did not see her eyes return to stare at him intently. And it was not a look of hatred that filled Anuk’s eyes now. It was a look of intense curiosity and interest.

“I’m fine Melda Min really.” Martin spoke to Dysea. He sat shirtless on the medical table in the clinic, the bandages gone from his wound and any sign that he had been shot only hours before erased.

Dysea stood next to him, holding his hand tightly. “Trouble seems to go out of its way to find you Nauta Melme.” She said with a small smile.

Martin leaned over and kissed her deeply. He withdrew after a moment and smiled. “Most would say it is the other way around.” He told her.

Dysea placed her hand on his bare chest, feeling the warmth from his skin spread across her palm and throughout her entire hand. “There are times when you do test the limits of my patience with you my love.” She said with a smile, her emerald eyes glimmering with love. “It appears you have the uncanny ability to get into trouble wherever you go.”

“Why doesn’t that surprise me?” Anja’s voice carried to them as she entered the room. She had changed into a new set of fatigues, but now wore a white lab coat over them. She walked up to them, her eyes never leaving Martin.

Martin detected something different about her and he slowly slid off the bed to his feet. “What?” He asked.

Anja held out the small datapad for him. “It was Batrachotoxin.” She spoke.

Martin took the pad from her. “Are you sure?”

“I did the test three times.” Anja replied. “There’s no mistaking it.”

Dysea looked at her. “What is this Batrachotoxin?” She asked.

Anja looked at her. “It’s a neurotoxin.” Anja told her. “Perhaps one of the most lethal ever known to man, if not the most lethal. The bullet was coated in it. If it had hit me, even with my new genome genes, I would have been dead in minutes. I narrowed it down to Phyllobates terribilis, or the Poison Dart Frog.”

Dysea looked at her. “Wait... I know of them.” She said. “They are indigenous to the lower continent. The central continent is no more. How did they find their way here?”

“The better question is who would know how to use the toxin that secretes from their skin.” Anja said. “It’s not exactly the most well known information about Dart Frogs. Most people just looked and saw that they were very colorful and pretty.”

Martin was silent for a long moment before looking up at Anja. “Well obviously someone within the Alliance knows about their other uses.” He said, “Perhaps this Marcus fellow?” He asked looking at Dysea.

Dysea shrugged. "It's possible. He is a Drow, and it is well known they dabbled in the use of poisons and ancient magic."

"Magic?" Martin asked looking at her with a smile.

"Do not mock me Nauta Melme." She scolded him, but did so with a smile. "I am only telling you what I have heard."

"Do you think this Tari or anyone with him might know?" Anja asked.

"It's possible." Dysea answered. "I will approach him about it. I doubt they would answer questions from someone who is not an elf just yet. The Drow were very protective of their secrets, and we need to earn their trust just as they do ours."

Martin nodded. "I agree. Can you talk to him?"

Dysea nodded and stretched up to kiss him softly. "I will go see him right now."

"I will see you for dinner then." Martin spoke.

Dysea squeezed his hand with a smile and headed out of the clinic. Martin's eyes followed her until she was out the door, then he looked back to Anja.

"Why didn't you tell her Marty?" Anja asked him.

"Tell her what?" Martin asked.

Anja smiled. "Don't try and fool me Martin Hunter." She said. "Only one military unit in the entire world was known to coat their bullets with Batrachotoxin. They were the Genome sniper teams."

"Anja... the only genomes left are the ones under my command." Martin said. "Do you think one of them secretly infiltrated New Memphis and then tried to kill you?"

"No." Anja answered.

"Then someone within the Alliance obviously has the same knowledge we did." Martin said. "Let's not add problems where there are none. Now tell me about Danny. Dysea will fill me in with more detail, but what do we know?"

"Cathy did a high altitude flyover before returning to Eden due to fuel restraints. She was using seismic and infra red sensors." Anja replied as she pulled the chair up next to the bed when Martin sat back down on the edge. "They are alive, that much she was positive about. They apparently fell into what use to be the old Vegas Interstate Tunnel."

"The underground train tunnel between Vegas and Phoenix?" Martin asked.

Anja nodded. "I traveled on it once from Flagstaff to Vegas. It was actually quite nice." She answered. "Anyway... they are too deep underground to get a signal to his implant, but she said there were a lot of infra red signatures in those tunnels."

"Humans?" Martin asked.

Anja shrugged. "There's no way to tell." She replied. She looked at Martin's face and it appeared as if he was deep in thought. His eyes changed then and he looked at her.

"Danny is fine." He spoke.

"Marty... we don't know that." Anja said.

"I do. Don't worry. Dan's hard to kill." Martin told her.

Anja looked at him oddly before nodding her head. "Dysea put Vengal and the others under house arrest. That Matarn asshole is a real jerk and I get the sense there is more to him than he wants everyone to believe."

"How are you doing Anja?" Martin asked softly.

Anja looked at him. "I'm fine why?"

"You seem different." Martin said. "I know that things with Julie and Danny did not work out as you had hoped."

"And how would you know what I hoped?" Anja asked somewhat defensively.

"I'm sorry... I thought..."

"I care for them as friends." Anja said quickly, regretting her defensive response. "And I believe they care for me the same way. We needed to go our own ways and discover ourselves. I don't hold any ill will toward them. We are still very close; we just don't share a bed anymore. With everything that has happened in the last few months, I think it has opened all three of us to new things and we all want to expand and stretch our wings."

“No hard feelings?” Martin asked.

Anja smiled, “Never.” She said softly. “I’m fine Martin really.”

“Ok... I just wanted to make sure.” Martin said.

Anja got up from her chair. “Thank you for what you did Martin. You saved my life you know.” She said.

“Bah! You’re stronger than you think.” Martin said as he turned to pull on his blood stained uniform shirt.

Anja eyed him strangely as he buttoned the shirt. “Why the sudden concern about me Martin?” She asked softly. “You never cared about me before. Not after what I did to you.”

Martin turned to look at her, slinging his combat vest and utility belt over his shoulder. “Did you ever stop to think Anja; that perhaps that is what you chose to see?” He told her. Martin stepped up to her and leaned over to kiss her cheek gently. While he did, he inhaled deeply of her honey scent. “Thank you.” He whispered before turning and heading out of the clinic.

Anja stood there frozen in her spot. Her new found genome senses were alive with his mint like scent and she felt a massive rush of warmth and sexual desire course through her unlike anything she had felt since... since that night so long ago. His words echoed in her ears and she turned to look at the door he exited out of. Her eyes went wider and she turned to look at her desk and the vid/conference screen. Anja moved to her desk quickly.

MOON BASE EDEN

Anisa lay on the bed, her breathing coming in deep gasps. Her light brown skin was slick with a fine sheen of sweat, drops of sweat pooling between her full breasts. Her dark nipples were standing almost painfully erect in her excitement. Her eyes were wide in wonderment, her long black hair splayed across the pillows wildly. Never in her life had she met a man who could pleasure her for so long without rest. William never seemed to tire of her firm body, and their love making sessions went on for what seemed like hours. Nothing had prepared her for his endurance, and no man before him had ever pleased her in the ways he now did.

Wallace’s face was situated between Anisa’s olive complexion thighs, his tongue twirling madly around the outer edges of her engorged labia. Her pussy was spread open like a butterfly spreading its wings and he was feasting like a man who hadn’t eaten in days. His tongue swept slowly up one side of her dark lipped pussy and then just as slowly down the other side. He was deliberately avoiding her eraser hard clit, wanting to prolong her pleasure as long as he could. The small bud was fully unhooded now, demanding attention in her excitement, and her pussy was continuously leaking her sweet cherry smelling juices. William’s face was covered in her juices and it did not deter him in the least. Her legs were thrown over his shoulders, her ankles locked together behind his shoulders. Her taut thighs quivered in anticipation of her impending orgasm, telling him she was teetering on the edge. He glanced up from between her luscious thighs and saw her face twisted in pleasure. She was gripping her own breasts, squeezing her nipples tightly; her lips parted slightly signaling her impending orgasm. He had seen it enough times to know she was right on the brink.

William decided it was time to send her over. He brought his tongue to the entrance of her pussy, pushing it in half an inch and began to drag it up towards her erect clit. His fingers danced along her firm ass cheeks, probing around her most private of openings. He positioned the tip of his index finger against her puckered anus and heard her gasp. Her eyes flew open and she struggled to lift her head from the bed.

“Will... William... what are you...”

William fastened his lips over her proud clit and bit down gently as he plunged his index finger into her tight ass.

“Ahhhhhhh... William...” Anisa’s eyes flew open wider than ever before, her hands grabbing his head almost painfully as her body arched off the bed. She howled out her pleasure as her cum exploded from her into his waiting mouth. The pleasure came in huge waves, rocking her very world, and shattering whatever bonds she may have still had in place. This was unlike anything he had given her so far and her body was screaming out its joy.

Wallace reached up with his free hand and grabbed one of her breasts, squeezing it within his strong hand as her back arched off the bed. Anisa's hands flew to his and she gripped his large hand tightly as her entire body shuddered almost violently in the mind shattering orgasm. He had moved his mouth slightly lower, fastening his lips over her entire pussy, the tip of his nose still rubbing her engorged clit as her sweet cum filled his mouth. Wallace drank it down with relish, savoring the taste and smell of her essence.

To Anisa it seemed as if her orgasm had lasted for hours. When she finally collapsed back onto the bed, she saw only stars and was unable to catch her breath. Her chest heaved with exertion, her black hair matted with sweat. She felt William planting soft lingering kisses all over her pussy and on the insides of her still twitching thighs. She felt him shift on the bed and begin to move back up, his warm tongue leaving a trail of soft kisses and nibbles up her firm abdomen and between her breasts as he lapped up the sweat from her skin. Anisa whimpered in delight when his face appeared in front of her and he covered her moist lips with his own, and he kissed her hungrily. Her arms flew around his shoulders and she kissed him back just as hungrily, even nipping at his lips in an attempt to dissuade his tongue from stealing her breath away. It didn't work, as she knew and hoped it wouldn't, and his arms slid under her head and he pulled her tighter to him as his body settled on top of hers.

Tears formed in her eyes as her lithe figure melted against his, and he rolled over slowly, pulling her on top of him so as not to crush her with his weight. Anisa felt his cock between her thighs as her still dripping pussy coated his shaft. Her breasts were flattened against his hard chest, and slowly she pulled away from their kiss. She tossed her head to the side, throwing her billowing hair over one shoulder and stared into his blue eyes which brimmed with love and desire for her.

"You... you are incredible." She whispered, still attempting to catch her breath.

Wallace smiled and reached up to caress her neck and shoulder. "Does that mean I can taste you whenever I wish?"

Anisa looked at him with brilliant brown eyes. She had resisted his attempts to pleasure her like this, feeling that it was her duty to give him pleasure first and foremost. She had allowed him to have his way this night and now she did not know if she could live without it. "Oh... oh yes." She gasped with a smile, "Most assuredly whenever you wish."

Wallace grinned. "I told you so." He said as his arms wrapped around her waist and pulled her even tighter. "And you do taste so good."

Anisa opened her mouth to reply when the communicator on the small table next to the bed chimed. She chuckled and rested her forehead on his chest. "Answer it my William. I need time to regain my senses anyway."

William reached over and punched the panel. "What is it?" He growled.

"Admiral it's Leda." The female voice spoke from the com panel.

William and Anisa both perked up at this. It was not one of Graham's stooges calling him for something ridiculous, but one of their cohorts in the small resistance they had formed. "Go ahead Leda." William spoke.

"Paul asked that I contact you immediately. We are receiving a communication from Eden on earth." She explained. "It's Anja Peterson on a highly encrypted channel."

"Is it an emergency?" William asked.

"No not at all." Leda answered. "She's discussing some things with Paul right now, but she requested to speak with you. Paul did not want to transfer the connection for security purposes."

"The mission for Selena's family was a success I take it?" William asked as Anisa slid off his chest and he lifted himself on his elbows.

"Yes. They had a spot of trouble at the end, but everyone returned quite safe." Leda replied.

"Very well... inform her I will be there in fifteen minutes." William spoke.

"Yes sir."

William looked at Anisa with regret on his face. "I'm..."

Anisa put a finger to his lips. "Do not say you are sorry." She spoke. "We both know you have to take the transmission."

"You stay right here and we will continue this when I return." Wallace told her.

"I have not the strength to go anywhere." Anisa spoke curling up on the bed.

William grinned and kissed her softly. "Good."

“...a search of the archives and find out for me if any other Genome units survived the purge.” Anja was telling Paul. “And keep this between us ok.”

“What’s going on Anja?” Paul asked.

“It’s nothing really. I just want some background information. That’s all.” Anja replied.

Paul turned as the door to the clinic slid open and Admiral Wallace came in. “The Admiral is here Anja. I’ll get to work on what you asked for.”

“Thank you Paul.” Anja replied as Wallace nodded to Paul and took the chair he vacated for him.

William waited until Paul had left the small room before looking at the screen. “I understand the mission was successful Commander.” Wallace said.

“Yes sir. We retrieved Minister Torcrum’s family as well as two dozen others. I’m sure Martin will be contacting you with a full report soon.” Anja answered.

“So why are you communicating now on a different channel than normal?” Wallace asked.

“Admiral... I have some things that I want to ask you, and I want the truth sir.” Anja spoke keeping her voice calm and neutral.

Wallace nodded without hesitation. “The truth I’ll give you, if I have the answers.” He told her.

“Admiral... I want to know who really requested that I be assigned to EDEN.” Anja asked. “And don’t bullshit me sir, I’m part Genome now as I’m sure you are already aware and I’ll know if you are lying to me.”

“Commander... if you are asking me that question then I would say you already know the answer.”

Wallace replied to her. After a long moment he added. “What’s going on down there Anja?”

“...last scans put their position here.” Julie told Martin as they leaned over the plot board. “It looks like they survived the fall and were able to move roughly eight hundred meters from where they dropped.”

They were in the Command Center for all of Eden City’s defenses. Many of the technicians and engineers that had accompanied them down from the moon had set to work on building this center immediately after arriving in the former Junction City and it was decided here was where they were going to stay. The center was built in a large circular pattern, with large monitors and screens covering one half of a U shaped perimeter. Men and women occupied a dozen different consoles that were used to monitor the hundreds of sensors that had been installed in the dense mountains surrounding Eden. These sensors were able to pick up movement and heat signatures for hundreds of miles. No one would be able to sneak up on them without the defenses of Eden City knowing about it. Several of the other stations monitored all communications that they were able to intercept, most of it Alliance communications, with some elf transmissions and weak broadcasts from across the planet.

The technicians had duplicated EDEN’s HIS, or Holographic Imaging System, and tied that system into the sensors around the perimeter. They could also download scans from any Raptor and transfer the information to the HIS.

“So they aren’t injured?” Martin spoke.

Julie nodded, her face showing the signs of relief. “Unless Danny is carrying this female elf, it looks that way.”

“They haven’t moved far enough away from Las Vegas to suit me.” Martin spoke. “Get another Raptor up for more scans.”

“This Ambrose character has an extensive array of anti-air missiles Skipper.” Julie told him. “We’ll have to drop to two thousand feet to get detailed seismic scans of the area. Any higher, and we won’t be able to pin point their location because of the thickness of the earth.”

“Fuck!” Martin swore his eyes never leaving the plot board. He reached out and stabbed the easternmost portion of the tunnel. “We don’t know what these are?”

Julie shook her head. “Some of them are human sized, some are not.” She replied. “The signal could also be distorted somewhat. All we know is that he was headed in this direction.”

“And he doesn’t know what’s in front of him.” Martin said. “More than likely he is following the smell of fresh air coming from the ventilation shafts in the ceiling. Some of them are two hundred meters deep, and were designed to circulate air in case of a fire or accident. Most of them are placed in the main shaft,” Martin leaned over and pointed at the darker spots on the board. “He probably thinks it will lead them to an entrance.”

“Fresh air coming in from these vents is bad. It would also serve to block the scents of anything in front of them.” Julie commented. “The only one of us with a better nose than Danny is you Skipper, but if there is a breeze coming down these shafts, he won’t be able to smell anything in front of them.”

“Do we still have engineers in Flagstaff?” He asked.

Ealin chose that time to walk up to the board from one of the other consoles. “We have a company of them just outside of Flagstaff.” He replied, catching Martin’s question. “They were just finishing up striping the city.”

“What’s their security?” Julie asked.

“They have a platoon with them.” Ealin replied.

Julie looked at Martin. “You want to have them enter from the Flagstaff end Skipper?”

Martin nodded. “They’ll need to unbury it. When we shelled the city, the terminal would have collapsed over the entrance. Get them working on opening the entrance again. Find out what they need and get it to them. Have the platoon with them set up a heavy defensive wall once the entrance is clear. Reinforce them with light mortars and send four chain gun turret emplacements.” Martin leaned over the plot board. “Julie I want you to get teams to these ventilation shaft locations. If they are clear have emergency packs lowered and secured. Danny will know to look for them.”

“Why can’t we just pull them up through these main ventilation shafts Skipper?” Julie asked.

“The ceilings are too high Jules.” Anja’s voice spoke now. They turned as she walked up, moving to stand next to Julie. “The main shaft where the trains ran was at least two hundred meters high, I remember that much from my ride on them. And that doesn’t include the depth of the earth above the tunnel at any given location.”

“Anja’s right.” Martin said after a long moment of eyeing Anja. “Even if we got lucky and a train was stopped under one of the shafts, there’s no way they could climb up to the shaft itself. And Danny’s fat ass is too big to squeeze through one of those shafts anyway.”

The others in the room smiled and relaxed a little more. Julie nodded as she looked at the board. “I’ll put the packs together myself.” She said. “Standard emergency packs with a few surprises.”

Anja’s eyes didn’t leave Martin’s face. “I’ll put some medical supplies together for each pack.” She spoke. “They could be injured, and they might come in handy.”

Martin nodded as he turned back to the board as well. “I want a four ship detachment airborne within six hours. Get Ben in on this. Two will ride shotgun and take out any anti-air emplacements that this ass hole Ambrose might have. One will drop the teams to lower the packs, and one will come back with a complete seismic sensor sweep. Ealin... get four people, elves or genomes to drop the packs. This area is still unknown to us and I want them to move fast when they are on the ground.”

Ealin nodded. “It will be dark by then Lyca Ohtar.” He spoke. “May I suggest a team of six to provide security as well?”

Martin nodded slowly. “The fastest scouts we have.” He said. “I don’t want them on the ground for a long period. Not in an area we haven’t explored yet.”

“I will see to it.” Ealin spoke.

Julie shifted her HK over her back and looked at him. “I’ll have the packs ready in an hour.” She said turning to Anja. “I’ll meet you at the clinic.”

Anja nodded. “I’ll be right behind you.” Julie nodded and headed out of the Command Center. Anja turned back to look at Martin and she moved slowly to stand in front of him. “The... the Admiral is waiting for a status report from you.” She said.

Martin nodded. “Getting my people back is more important right now.” He replied. “I’m sure you told him the most pertinent facts though.”

“I needed to speak with Paul,” Anja replied evenly at his unspoken question as to why she contacted EDEN on her own. “That is why I contacted EDEN on my own. The Admiral just happened to walk in.”

“What did you need to speak with Paul about?” Martin asked, leaning up against the plot board. “You are a far more skilled and knowledgeable geneticist than he is.”

“Perhaps in some things,” Anja answered with a small smile. “I would prefer not to say anything about it at this time.”

Martin nodded, “Fair enough.”

“I hope this doesn’t hurt the trust we have built over the last few months.” Anja spoke.

Martin looked at her oddly. “Why would it do that?” He asked her. “Technically speaking as far as rank goes, you are third in command behind Danny and me. You don’t need my permission to conduct yourself Anja. Not if you deem it to be important in some way. This... what we are building here is not the prevue of just me. It’s an effort by all of us.”

Anja could not force out what she truly wanted to say and she finally looked down at the floor. “I’ll go put those medical packs together.”

“I need to contact the Admiral and then speak with General Vengal.” Martin said. “Let me know when everything is ready to go.”

Anja nodded and turned quickly to leave the Center. She was very confused and did not want to make a fool of herself by saying something she would regret. She took a deep breath as she left the center and got her emotions under control. Saving Danny was the priority now. She would have to deal with her feelings for Martin and Dysea at another time.

MOON BASE EDEN

Selene Torcrum looked up from the data pad she had been reading while she sat on the bed in the brig and saw Wallace enter the cell. She set aside the pad and got quickly to her feet. She had been afforded every comfort she asked for up until now, yet she had to remain in confinement in case Graham made another attempt on her.

Wallace looked at her, the expectation on her face and the worry. He held up his hand before she could ask him the question she wanted the answer to. “Before you hit me with a barrage of questions, your family is safe.” He told her. “They were extracted to Eden along with nearly two dozen elves that they were attempting to smuggle out of New Memphis.” Wallace looked at her. “I have to hand it to them; that is very brave of them, running an underground network for slaves.”

Selene met his eyes. “They have been running an underground network out of New Memphis for over a decade. I have attempted to help when I was able.”

Wallace nodded. “Sit down Selene.” He spoke, motioning her to the bed.

Selene did as he told her and settled onto the edge of the bed as he pulled the chair over. “What is going on Admiral?”

“I just got done with a three hour communication with Martin Hunter.” Wallace spoke. “He’s the man who leads the free elves and slaves on earth. Does the Alliance, to your knowledge, use Batrachotoxin in any way, shape or form?”

“Batrachotoxin? You mean the poison that a Dart Frog secretes from its skin?” Selene questioned.

Wallace nodded, “That Batrachotoxin yes.”

“I didn’t work in the Bio-Weapons Division Admiral, you know that.” Selene replied. “But no... I’ve never heard of them using such a weapon.”

“You’re sure?”

Selene nodded. “I sat in on almost every Council meeting Admiral.” Selene replied. “Nothing like that ever came up. If it is a project that they are pursuing then the entire Alliance Council is in the dark. Batrachotoxin is lethal and extremely hazardous to handle even with the proper precautions.”

William nodded. “Yes it is.” He spoke. He held out the data pad to her. “You will find a message from your parents on that pad. I have one more question for you, before I leave you alone.”

“Yes?”

“I’m going to give you a choice Selene.” Wallace spoke. “You can remain here on this base, and once I remove Graham from power you will be quite safe from Alliance fingers. Martin is sending one of his Raptors here to the moon to bring back some equipment and other items. You can return with that Raptor to Eden to be with your family.”

Selene looked at him. “What is the catch?” She asked.

Wallace shook his head. “There really is no catch. I just want you to understand that if you return to earth, while you will be quite safe in the city Marty has been building, the word will eventually get out that you are still alive. Marty can protect you, but only to an extent. You will not be as safe down there as you would be up here.”

“I... I would be able to be with my family?” Selene asked.

“Of course,” Wallace told her. “It is not a confinement in any sense of the word. Martin wanted me to make it clear to you that you would be free to come and go as you please anywhere on earth. But outside the confines of Eden City down there I doubt you would last long.”

It was not really a hard decision and after only a few seconds Selene nodded her head. “I wish to be with my family.”

Wallace nodded. “I’ll let Marty know.” He said getting to his feet. “The Raptor will be here in 36 hours. They are taking a very out of the way route so as not to be picked up by any ground or air based radar the Alliance has.” William moved to the door before stopping and turning around to look at her once more, “Selene... a word of advice. If all of this is just a big game you are playing, I should tell you that I’m a Prince compared to Martin Hunter. If you double cross him... there won’t be anywhere safe enough or far enough away where he won’t find you. And when he does find you, regardless of the fact you are a woman... it will take you a long and painful time to die.”

Selene just stared at Wallace as he spoke and then watched him turn and exit the cell.

EDEN CITY (FORMERLY JUNCTION CITY)

Martin was not thinking of Selene Torcrum at the moment. He was flat on his back on the sheets of his bed, his fingers entwined in the long platinum blond tresses belonging to Dysea. He was naked, his tanned skin soaked in sweat, the muscles in his abdomen and thighs straining against the exquisite pleasure that Dysea was currently bestowing upon him.

Dysea was kneeling on the bed equally naked and soaked with sweat. Her soft hands were stroking the hard muscles of Martin’s thighs, the entirety of his thick, twelve inch cock buried in her throat. Dysea ground her tight ass down on the heels of her feet, the insides of her thighs slick with the juices that seemed to be continually pouring from her pussy. The room smelled of sex, as they had been making love for the last three hours.

Tears streaked the corner of Dysea’s eyes, her nose buried against Martin’s washboard hard abdomen, her lips stretched around the massively thick base of his cock. It had taken her over twenty minutes to finally reach this position, her beloved’s entire manhood anchored snugly within her velvety throat. Tarifa had told her of the pleasure she could get from this act, and Dysea had not believed her until this very moment. She had only sucked Martin’s cock occasionally, preferring to have it pounding into her tight pussy, but as she had tossed her head from side to side and shoved forward finally engulfing his entire cock within her mouth, Dysea had exploded all over the sheets beneath her in an incredibly powerful orgasm. Her lips were stretched almost obscenely around the base of his cock, as she moved her tongue as much as she could in the limited space within her lips. She could feel the thick pulsing vein that adorned the underside of Martin’s cock against her tongue and she attempted to whip the tip of her tongue back and forth over this vein.

Dysea dropped one delicate hand to where Martin’s huge cum filled balls were swollen and ready to explode. She hefted them in the palm of her hand, hearing the hiss escape his throat as she squeezed gently. Her other hand reached up to explore his rock hard abdomen and chest, and her thumb and forefinger found one of his nipples and she pinched his nipple between her fingers.

That was all that was needed and Dysea gagged loudly as Martin’s hips came off the bed. Dysea felt his thick twelve inch cock swell even larger within the confines of her warm tight throat and then the rocketing flow of boiling hot cum as it raced up the length of his manhood. Dysea whimpered in carnal delight as she felt his large cockhead flare deep in her throat and the first jet like blast of his cum erupted into her belly. Dysea released his heavy balls and both her hands clutched at his chest, her nails digging into his skin as blast after blast of his delicious tasting cum poured into her belly. Martin’s hands held the back of her head tightly to his groin, the muscles in his legs rigid and stretched; it seemed, to the point of snapping. His face was contorted into a grimace of pain and pleasure, his teeth clenched and his eyes tightly shut. He needn't have bothered to hold Dysea's head, for she had no intention of releasing his pulsating and gushing cock from the prison of her throat until she had drained him of every drop of his cum. His eruption had set her off yet again, and her pussy was spasming in the throes of her own orgasm.

Dysea pulled her head back slowly wanting to taste him even further, and she dragged her lips and the edge of her teeth along his still exploding cock, causing Martin to whimper in pleasure. She wrapped her small hands around the four inches of his saliva coated cock she had released from the grip of her throat and greedily continued to drink his cum, relishing in the mint flavor. His explosions within her mouth were lessening in force, but still she sucked as hard as she dared, wanting to taste every drop as it warmed her belly. She squeezed her thighs together, trying to prolong her own orgasm as Martin's hands fell away from her head to grip the side of the bed. His knuckles turned white and he thrust his hips upward several times as the last of his cum spurted into her willing mouth.

Dysea opened her tear stained eyes and watched him drop heavily back to the bed, but she didn't release his softening cock from within the grip of her soft lips. She took a deep breath and plunge back down on his thick pole, milking him for everything he had to offer her. Slowly she began to draw her lips back along the entire twelve inch length. Several agonizing moments later, just the tortured head of his huge cock rested in her mouth and Dysea lavished it with attention, using her tongue to twirl around the crown and trace the ridge. She allowed his cock to slip from between her lips and it slapped wetly against his abdomen, fully half of its size from a moment ago. Dysea extended her tongue and licked the entire length of his softening shaft, and then proceeded up to his powerful abdomen, tracing the ridges and contours of his rippled stomach muscles with her talented tongue. When she was reasonably sure she could move without fear of collapsing from her own breathtaking orgasm, she began the delightful trek up his hard abdomen and broad chest, nibbling and kissing his skin the entire way.

Dysea slowly and deliberately plastered her body on top of his as she brought her face even with Martin's and found his incredible dark eyes staring at her. Her eyes flew open in joyful surprise when he pulled her face down to his and drove his warm tongue between her lips, kissing her with passion and love, heedless of the drops of his cum that still clung to her lips. Dysea returned his kiss with equal hunger, her small hands holding his face as his fingers grasped her tight ass and ground her still dripping pussy hard against his soft but still incredibly large cock.

It was a long soul stealing kiss and when their lips finally pried away from each other both of them were out of breath again. Dysea flicked her warm tongue out as their lips drew apart; caressing his moist upper lip and then his strong chin as a cat would lap up a bowl of warm milk.

"That was... that was unbelievable Melda Min." He whispered to her, his lips moving to caress the soft silky skin of her throat.

Dysea's eyes closed dreamily and she smiled as he nibbled on her skin. "I... I did not realize how... how delicious you taste Nauta Melme." She replied in a whisper as well. "I will... I will have to devour you more often."

Martin smiled and rolled over quickly pulling her with him until he was above her. Dysea smiled as the weight of his body pressed against her and made her feel safe and wanted. She looked at his face as his eyes took in her beauty. The shape of her lips, the contour of her cheekbones, and the sexy ridges of her pointed elf ears, "Tye harya nya fea mi immo mannars Melda Min." He whispered to her. (You possess my soul in your hands Beloved One.)

Dysea couldn't help the choked up sound that came from her throat at his words, or the tears that sprang to her eyes. She took his weathered face in her hands and used her thumbs to trace his cheeks, "Ar tye luhta farme inye harya mi immo ranco nya Nauta Melme." (And you enchant all that I possess when I am within your embrace my Bounded Love.)

"Inye vamme lelya immo uvane," He continued, reaching up to caress her cheek. (I could not go on without your beauty.)

"You will always have me my love." Dysea spoke softly.

Martin smiled at her. "And you will always have me."

“What you feel for me my love?” Dysea asked, running her finger across his lips. “Is it the same as what you feel for Anja?”

“Anja?” He asked surprised.

Dysea smiled. “Do you think I don’t see the way you look at her? It is the same passion I see in your eyes for me just before you bed me. She shares your heart with me Martin, I can see this.”

“Melda Min... I...”

“Do not mistake my words for anger or jealousy my love.” Dysea spoke quickly. “It can not be anger when she stirs my blood just as she stirs yours.”

Martin looked at her. “You...”

Dysea smiled brilliantly. “My relationship with you has opened my eyes to many things I would never have known or experienced before. When I look at her I desire her, and it stirs my blood more than even Tarifa can. Will you tell me I am wrong?”

Martin shook his head. “I will never lie to you Melda Min, about anything. I love you too much to dishonor you in such a way.”

“Then tell me why she stirs your blood so, for when I see you look at her, I see the same intense passion in your eyes that is there when you possess me.” Dysea said.

Martin looked at her. “She is like you Melda Min. So intelligent and strong willed. So willing to put others needs before your own. She wasn’t always like that, she lost her way for a time, but it is coming back to her. When I see her now... it is like it was before.”

“And it troubles you that you can feel this for both of us?” Dysea said.

Martin nodded. “It is not easy to explain how I can love you and love Anja just as completely. I have trouble understanding it myself. Tarifa... she allowed that part of me to be released... and I can only hope that I was as helpful for her. We will always care for one another, but she does not hold my attentions as you and Anja do. No.”

“It is no different for me Nauta Melme.” Dysea said softly.

“I thought...”

Dysea smiled. “We will never deny the other our council; we have grown too close for that. She holds a place within me that I did not know I have... it is like a love for a dear sister but her true heart does not reside with me and we will never share a bed again.”

“Then you have sensed it as well?” Martin asked.

Dysea nodded, “Since my time with her in Mountain City. When we discovered Aihola, it was as if something inside her was reborn. While we may be in her heart, I believe Aihola holds her soul.”

“I suspected as much.” Martin said. “Her messages after you departed began to become less frequent, as if something else was holding her attention.”

Dysea nodded. “She has discovered who she really is, just as I have. We will be able to speak with her soon enough. She should be arriving in Salina tomorrow evening.” Dysea traced Martin’s eyelids gently. “I see the intense interest in Anja’s eyes when she looks at me, and it is in me as well. I see the love in her eyes when she gazes at you. I wish... I wish to pursue her Nauta Melme.”

“Do not do this because you think it is what I desire Melda Min.” Martin said stroking her cheek. “Whatever my feelings for Anja may be, I love you with every fiber of what I am.”

“I would never have reason to question that Nauta Melme. You show me your soul every time you leave me breathless in your embrace and then hold me in your arms as sleep takes us. What if... but what if Anja is what I desire as well?” Dysea asked him.

“I would never deny you anything Melda Min, you know that.” Martin said.

“If... if something happens between us, can... can you put aside the pain she caused you so long ago and allow your true feelings for her to guide you?” Dysea asked.

“I have moved beyond that Dysea.” Martin said, “As with you, I love her too much to allow the mistakes of our past to dictate our future.”

Dysea wrapped her arms around his shoulders and stared into his gorgeous dark brown eyes. “Then make me yours completely Nauta Melme.” She whispered.

“You are already belong to me completely Dysea,” He told her with a smile. “You...”

Dysea shook her head. “No Martin, make me like you.” She said. “I know it is possible for you to do this. There is something you hold back from me Nauta Melme. Something that only Daniel and Julie and the others you came with share. I see it Nauta Melme, I can feel it in you. And I wish it more than anything.”

Martin stared into her emerald green eyes for a long moment. He shook his head slowly. “Melda Min... if I did that, there is a lot you don’t know Dysea. It is not what you think it is.”

Dysea took his face in her hands. “It is part of you Nauta Melme. Part of who you are. You have made me... you have made me like you only partially Nauta Melme. I wish you to make me like you completely.”

“Melda Min... there are times when even I don’t know what I truly am.” Martin spoke softly. “I have tried to figure it out my entire life... and I still don’t have the answers.”

“You... you and the others are not these Genomes that you wish everyone to believe are you?” Dysea spoke. “You are something different, something much more.”

Martin stared at Dysea, her emerald orbs gazing at him with complete and unabashed love. “There would be no going back Melda Min. It can not be undone. The initial change is extremely... it will take some time to come to grips with what you can do. What you have seen is only part of it Dysea. And it would... it would link us forever.”

“I do not find the prospect of being bound to you for the rest of eternity in the least bit daunting Nauta Melme.” Dysea told him with a smile. “It is what I desire. And I have you to hold me and give me strength through the pain.”

“You... you are sure about this?” Martin asked.

“I have never been surer of anything.” Dysea answered.

Martin ran his fingers over her cheeks and lips once more, staring into her eyes. Dysea thought for a moment he would refuse her, and she opened her mouth to speak. “Close your eyes Melda Min.” He said softly.

Dysea shook her head, “No my love. I do not fear the beast inside you. It is part of you, and it is part of the reason why you make love to me with such passion and power. I will not...”

His lips descending upon hers stopped her words as he kissed her hard, plunging his warm tongue between her lips and stealing her breath away. Dysea moaned against his lips and her arms tightened around his shoulders. She whimpered when she felt the huge head of his thick cock, now fully engorged in passion once more, press against her pussy lips demanding entrance into her warmth. Martin pulled back from their kiss leaving her breathless and trying to pull his lips back down to hers. She gasped as the head of his cock pushed into her warm tunnel, his teeth clenched. He hissed in pleasure as her snug warmth encased his glands and he stopped with just the huge head inside her.

Dysea’s eyes went wide as the change came over him in front of her. Short black hair sprouted from his skin, and she felt his muscles thicken and grow more powerful, like bands of steel stretching across his back and shoulders. The hair was soft and it rubbed against her delicate skin setting fire to her body. His face began to alter as well, his lips curling back as vicious looking flesh shredding fangs lengthened into view. She saw for the first time that there was a smaller set of fangs next to his larger canine teeth. The hair erupted from his face, his features transforming into a short snout, his eyes changing into the beautiful yellow black orbs she so adored. Dysea had never seen him in his fully changed form, and her hands trembled as she clutched at his powerful shoulders. This was not it though... he was still holding back.

“Everything my love please?” Dysea gasped. “Hold nothing back from me I beg you!”

His entire body had become thicker and more muscular and... Dysea gasped loudly as she felt his cock swell inside her. Her emerald green eyes flew open wide at this revelation. She dropped one hand between their bodies and suddenly realized that his cock had grown in proportion to the rest of his body. She looked into his yellow black orbs when her hand found his cock and she saw him smile. She could not wrap her fingers around his cock before the change due to its thickness, and now it seemed as if it had doubled in size.

“Nauta... Nauta Melme...” Dysea gasped, suddenly unsure of what she had asked from him, “Ahhhhhhhhhhhh!”

Dysea’s head flew back and she screamed in a mixture of intense pain and exquisite pleasure as Martin hunched forward and drove the entire fifteen inch length of his burning hot cock into her belly. Sweat immediately blossomed all over Dysea’s skin, and it felt as if she was on fire from within. Her legs were spread out and she brought them up to curl around his lower back, locking her ankles together. His lava like balls, now the size of large oranges, slammed against her tight ass cheeks as the head of his cock penetrated very nearly to her womb. The emerald piercing on the hood of her steel hard clit caused waves of a volcano like orgasm to envelope her. Her body arched off the bed and she screamed in unimaginable pain and bliss.

Martin's looked down on her, passion, desire, lust and unadulterated love pouring from his yellow black eyes. He saw her neck muscles straining against her sweat slick skin, her hands gripping and tearing the sheets from their bed. Her neck and throat looked so inviting, and the incredible heat and tightness of her spasming pussy would cause him to lose control very quickly. He leaned forward, placing his fanged face next to her elf ear as she shuddered in out of control orgasms.

"All that I am Melda Min." He whispered and lowered his head to her neck.

Dysea felt his fangs pierce the skin of her neck and sink deeply into her flesh. Her arms flew around his massive shoulders as a burning sensation ripped through her. She screamed again, louder this time as another orgasm even stronger than the first followed almost immediately and the pain increased. The burning sensation raced through her shoulders and down her arms. Dysea felt his now incredibly massive cock swell within her pussy and when the first eruption of his searing cum blasted into her womb Dysea's eyes rolled into the back of her skull and she howled longer and louder than ever before as the incredible pain and wondrous pleasure mingled together and became one.

Tarifa's eyes sprang open at that moment as if some unknown force had prodded her awake. The moon was casting an eerie glow through the window of Aihola's room, the shards of white light bathing them in a soft light. Tarifa was snuggled within Aihola's embrace, her muscular body spooning her from behind. Her face was buried in Tarifa's hair at the back of her neck and she could feel her warm breath on her skin. Her left hand was snaked around her waist and cupped her full breast possessively even in her sleep. Aihola's taut thigh was pressed between Tarifa's own legs, and Tarifa could just detect the faint smell of their lovemaking saturating the sheets and the air in the small room. They had spent the better part of the day entwined within each other's embrace, pleasuring each other in ways that only they could. They had stopped only when Telan had returned, and it had taken Tarifa only a few short hours to make Telan dinner and have him grunting over her until he was spent. The drug she had put in his wine knocked him out almost immediately and Tarifa had left his vile clutches.

Aihola had spent the next hour washing her body in such a way that Tarifa felt cleansed of Telan's retched touch for the first time in months. After that they had spent hours pleasuring each other once more before drifting off to a content filled sleep.

Tarifa snuggled back against her Drow lover's form, coveting the warmth of her skin and the grip of Aihola's hands on her body. She felt something within herself, as if something wonderful had just occurred somewhere and it filled Tarifa with peace and a soothing calm. She smiled dreamily and closed her eyes, falling back into a deep sleep within Aihola's embrace.

NEW MIAMI

The woman stood on the balcony of the home overlooking the crashing Atlantic Ocean. The moon caused the water to appear silver as it crashed onto the beach, foaming until it was soaked up by the sand. The beach was deserted for miles in either direction, the far off lights of New Miami giving the sky behind the large beach front home an ivory glow. The woman wore only a long cape and hood, the cape hanging open revealing her naked tanned flesh. She had long legs with muscular calves that extended up to her lean olive colored thighs. There was a single strip of black hair extending above her pussy. Her abdomen was flat and rippled with muscles, her breasts large and firm. Her black hair billowed around her shoulders, the moonlight giving her hair an almost unnatural glow. She held the single mug within her hands as her black eyes gazed across the surface of the water.

The woman did not move a muscle as the tall man approached her from behind. He was no threat to her as she had detected his presence long before he had come to this point. If he had been a threat, he would have been killed the moment he had set foot on the property of her home.

“The mission failed.” She spoke, not wording her statement as a question.

The Colonel nodded his head. “Hunter stepped in front of the target just as Slayer Three took his shot.” He told her.

The woman turned, her face hid by the shadows cast from the walls. “You hit Hunter?” She asked.

“His healing system would have protected him Madam President.” The Colonel answered.

“You had better hope so Colonel, for your sake.” The woman replied.

“Ma’am, if I may why is the target Commander Peterson? If all the reports are accurate she is half... she is like him now.” The Colonel asked. “Shouldn’t we be going after the elf Queens?”

“The elf Queens are irrelevant right now.” The woman answered. “We are about to initiate a war between the Wood Elves and the High Elves that will most certainly tear them apart. With our support the Wood Elves should have no trouble eliminating most of the High Elf Ruling family, as well as most of their best troops. Once that is accomplished we can move in and clean up the remainder of both groups. We will have thousands more slaves, and our control over North America will be complete.”

“You don’t believe Hunter will act for one side or the other?” The Colonel asked.

“Perhaps... but his support will be miniscule. He has no power base, no army. What could he possibly do?”

“So you don’t believe the rumors about this Falre Lome and the hidden city within the mountains?”

“Ah yes, the Phantom Soldiers?” The woman laughed. “And the mythical city of elves and men that is so prevalent within their cultures. Yes... Walter did much to enhance their legends to give them hope. It is almost as bad as the actual legends and lore he used to tell me about when he was engineering the elves. It is a false hope, one that does not exist. I have a new mission for you Colonel.”

“Yes ma’am.”

“Doctor Carson is the center of their religion.” The woman spoke. “Find him. Kill him. Once you do that, we will have won half the battle and not even lifted a finger.”

The Colonel nodded, “As you order Madam President.” He answered.

“Excellent. How many men accompanied you here tonight?” She asked, stepping closer to him.

“Myself and three others Madam President,” He answered as her hand came to rest on his broad chest.

“Why don’t you insure the compound is locked down and you and your men come upstairs? I have need of your services, and I grow tired of these paltry human men. They have neither the size nor the stamina to please me.” The woman said. “Their diets produce cum that tastes bitter and sour. I need the sweet taste of your cum Colonel, as much as you and your men can supply. Are you up to the challenge?”

The Colonel looked at her with hunger in his eyes. The woman before him was President of the Alliance, but she was also a woman, and his eyes grew hungry as he remembered the times in her bed before. “I believe we can arrange something ma’am.” He finally spoke.

The woman smiled under the hood. “Excellent.” She stated. “And tell them not to hold back this time Colonel, for I will not. My body is theirs to use as they will, including my ass.”

The Colonel watched as she turned away from him, dragging her hand across his chest and moving for the stairs that would take her up to the bedroom. He smiled a sadistic smile and headed to get his men.

The woman stopped on the stairs as she watched the Colonel move quickly, a small smile on her face.

“Soon my love Martin; soon you will be dead, before you even know who you really are. And then I will rule this planet as we were meant to before your father got in the way.” The woman reached up and drew back the hood revealing her distinctly Asian features. “Soon...”

Yuri Tanaka smiled as she continued up the stairs to prepare for the gang bang she would be experiencing in only a short while.

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

MOUNTAIN CITY

Tarifa looked at Minister Raloa as she walked up to the large heavily armored Hopper he stood next too. She wore a full length ivory white dress that flowed outward at the bottom and brushed against the soft soled shoes she wore. The dress was trimmed in gold lace and sparkled in the early morning sunlight. The design and cut of the dress caused it to hug her lush figure like a glove, accenting every curve and contour. There was a choker for a collar and the dress split open as it plunged down between her firm breasts, fully exposing her ample cleavage and tanned skin. Aihola had spent two hours of the early morning braiding part of her hair into four separate rows on either side of her face. These braids she then wrapped tightly around Tarifa's head like a natural crown, accenting them with recently picked white lilies. It was a custom of the Drow for such a hair style, as it signified the possession of one Drow for the other in the Mistress/Slave relationship. Since Aihola had decided to forgo most of her people's ancient rituals, she decided this would be how she would show her possession and love of Tarifa. Tarifa and Aihola agreed that no one outside of the Holy One would know what the braids really meant, and Aihola then instructed Tarifa as she did the same to her hair, further cementing their relationship for all time. It was a way for them to publicly showcase what they felt for each other, without publicly revealing their relationship completely. The remainder of Tarifa's billowing black hair cascaded down her shoulders framing her flawless face and stunning sapphire eyes, falling to the middle of her back.

"Minister Ralao you have decided to accompany us?" Tarifa exclaimed as they approached the Hopper. Aihola walked slightly behind and to Tarifa's left. She wore a simple dark gray jumpsuit and utility belt, a long cape and cowl draped over her shoulders. The hood was down; her shimmering silver/white hair braided and pulled into a tight pony tail.

Ralao met her words with a small forced smile and nod of his head. "It has been many moons since I have left Mountain City. I decided it would be a pleasant trip."

Tarifa gave him a brilliant smile and slid her hand into the crook of his arm. "Then I insist you travel with me in my Hopper. We may be able to use the time to allow each other to see different perspectives on an assortment of issues."

Ralao seemed taken aback at this and he shook his head quickly. "I would not dare to presume I could change your mind on anything my Queen." He stammered. "I will ride with Ministers Thalami and Treblar if that pleases you."

Tarifa bowed her head to him in return, "Of course." She spoke evenly. "I hope you will see fit to spend time with me while we are in Salina. There is much we could work out if we sat down together."

Ralao nodded his head, "At your call my Queen."

Tarifa watched him move back to the third Hopper in the line of seven. She glanced at Aihola who stood just to her right, "What a pompous wind bag. He is coming to watch me, so that the powers controlling my father and Telan can keep an eye on me." She muttered. "They must consider me to be a brainless idiot."

Aihola smiled ever so slightly. "You do play the part so well Ussta ssinssrigg." Aihola spoke softly so that only Tarifa could hear her. (My Love in the Drow language)

Tarifa's eyes gleamed in adoration when she heard Aihola call her that. It had surprised Aihola that Tarifa, as a High Elf Queen had an excellent working knowledge of the ancient Drow language. The Drow language was different in many ways from the normal elf words, and there were very few non-Drow who could speak it. That Tarifa was one of them had only made their relationship all the more pre-ordained as far as Aihola was concerned. They could talk almost completely in private even in front of others, and no one would know what they were saying.

Tarifa turned back to watch as Ralao got into the Hopper further down the convoy.

"Usstan orn l'amith popping ukt sokoya lotha tresk'ri vel'drav l' draeval chu." Tarifa replied softly. (I will enjoy popping his pretty little world when the time comes.)

The corners of Aihola's lips curled slightly in a smile. "That would be very fun to watch Tarinya Enda." She spoke softly, switching back to the common elf language. (Queen of my heart)

Tarifa turned as her mother walked up to the Hopper, Walter Carson beside her. Two Dragoons that she did not recognize walked behind them. Tarifa bowed her head to Walter. "Holy One, it warms my heart to see you accompany us."

"I have you to thank child." Walter replied, "You and your mother." His face did not change expression, but Tarifa clearly saw that he recognized the braids in her hair, and those in Aihola's shimmering white tresses. "I see that time has been good to you child." He spoke, leaning over to kiss her forehead as he had done since she was a baby.

Tarifa smiled and squeezed his hands as the Dragoon in Cantel's command stepped from around the back and opened the armored door to the interior. "We are ready to depart my Queen." He spoke.

Tarifa nodded and turned to enter the Hopper. Aihola waited for Palina and Walter to enter the Hopper before she moved to get in. She blocked the Dragoons from entering the Hopper and jerked her thumb back to the Hopper behind them. "You can ride back there." She ordered.

"We were told to stay with the Holy One always Drow witch." The Dragoon snapped, looking at Aihola with undisguised hatred.

Aihola smiled at him sweetly, not intimidated by him in the least. "Unless you plan on riding on top, you just got bumped to the next Hopper." She told him evenly. "Maybe next time, but I doubt it."

Aihola got in and pulled the armored door shut even as the Dragoon officer began to protest. She secured the hatch and took a seat next to Tarifa on one of the interior benches. The MV9 Hopper was very spacious inside, providing every comfort with plush couches and a small bar. It was armored even more than the normal MV9 due to the fact that it was the Queen's transport. When Aihola had settled next to her on the soft seat Tarifa rapped on the armored glass that separated their compartment from the cockpit of the Hopper. Palina and Walter watched as the hatch slid aside to reveal Cantel's weathered features.

"We can depart whenever you wish my Queen. I swept the vehicle myself and you may speak freely for the duration of the trip."

"Thank you Cantel. You may proceed." Tarifa replied.

Palina waited until the divider closed before speaking. "It... it may not be very wise to antagonize the Dragoons assigned to the Holy One Aihola." Palina spoke, looking at her with an expression of surprise. "We had to pull many strings to get the Council to allow the Holy One to accompany us."

Aihola met her gaze evenly. "Would you have preferred I invited the Dragoons in and we rode the entire way to Salina in silence Quende Amille?" She asked calmly.

"I only meant..." Palina started, surprised by the respectful tone of voice Aihola used with her.

"I know full well what you meant Quende Amille." Aihola said respectfully. "You do not trust me, or what you think my motives may be. Rest assured that your worries are unfounded. My only concern on this trip is Tarifa's safety." Aihola glanced at Walter. "Forgive me Holy One."

Walter grinned, "For what?" He asked as the Hopper lurched forward and they began to move. "You will do what you must Aihola. I expect no less from you."

Aihola looked at Tarifa, "Dosst ilhar kyonen naut whol uns'aa ussta ssinssrigg." (Your mother cares not for me my love.)

Palina noticed for the first time the identical braids in Tarifa's and Aihola's hair. She watched as Tarifa took one of Aihola's hands within both of hers and pulled her back into the seat. She looked at her daughter, her eyes slightly wide as Tarifa spoke to Aihola in a language she didn't understand.

"Ussta ilhar 'udtila naut share ussta orlingg xor ussta xukuth wun selg'tarnen concerning dos," Tarifa told Aihola, her sapphire eyes bright. (My mother does not share my bed or my heart in matters concerning you.)

Aihola smiled and Palina saw her relax. Tarifa squeezed her hand within hers and then she turned and met her mother's eyes. "We are all on the same side." She spoke calmly. "I will not have us bickering amongst ourselves. Mother... Aihola has my fullest trust and confidence, as well... as well as my love." She saw her mother's eyes go even wider. "We have much to cover before we get to Salina, and I would like to arrive rested. As Martin is fond of saying; 'Can we dispense with the political bullshit and get to it?'"

Walter burst out in a hearty laugh unlike anything he had shared in many months. "Ah Tarifa... your time with Martin has certainly expanded your sense of humor."

Tarifa smiled at Walter's words. She glanced coyly at Aihola, and they shared a knowing smile between them. "My time with Martin has expanded many things for me Holy One." She said. She took a deep breath and her face became serious once more. "For now we must speak of how to avert this coming war that the Alliance is urging the Wood Elves to partake in, against us."

"We do not have the numbers to combat the Wood Elves daughter." Palina spoke dismissing for the moment the fact that her daughter was showing affection for a Drow assassin. "Not with the support they are receiving from the Alliance in material."

"That is why we must devise a way to make the Wood Elves see what is happening." Tarifa said.

“How do we do that Tarinya Enda?” Aihola asked openly, ignoring the surprised look from Palina.

Tarifa looked at her. “I do not know Nya Istel.” She answered sitting back in the comfortable seat. “The odds do not seem to be in our favor. That is why I hope Martin can help us in some way.”

“This would never have come about four centuries ago.” Palina spoke softly. “The High King always kept the peace between the elf peoples. When the Alliance murdered him in his sleep darkness descended upon us all.”

Tarifa looked at her mother oddly, “High King?” She asked. “I don’t know what you mean mother. What High King?”

Palina looked at Walter and he leaned forward. “This is not common knowledge Tarifa, and it should not be bandied about. When I first created the different elf species, I took from elfin lore not only their cultures, but also the fact that there was always a High King to be the mediator between the different cultures. When I created the elves, I also created a High King to lead them all. Each elf species would have their ruling family, a King or Queen, or both. But the High King was the final say in all matters. The first High King lived only ten years after he was conceived, but long enough to have a son. That son was recognized as High King and he served in that capacity for the next thirty years when he came of age. I used the genetic make up and DNA from a royal bloodline that I had preserved from the 21st century when I originally created their gene code.”

“Are you saying somewhere out there is an elf descended from this royal line?” Tarifa asked, stunned at this news.

Walter shook his head slowly. “To the best of my knowledge the Alliance murdered him in his sleep before he and his wife were able to conceive a child.” Tarifa saw his eyes go a little wider for a moment and then they returned to normal.

“Holy One is everything alright?” She asked.

Walter looked at her. “Yes. Yes of course... I was just remembering something. It is of no importance.”

“Each culture was given a sample of his DNA so there would be no disputes and no trying to bring false imposters into the picture.” Palina continued now. “We have it stored in our archives, as I’m sure the Wood Elves do, as well as every elf clan left on the planet.”

“I would very much like to hear about this at a later time, but that does us no good now.” Tarifa exclaimed. “Martin and Eden City are the best hope we have for avoiding this war. And they are who we must petition for help.” She spoke as she sat back. Tarifa did not see the look Walter gave her as she settled back into the seat a look of frustration on her face.

Aihola looked at Walter with great interest now. She had seen the look pass across his face as Tarifa did, yet she thought she saw something else. She had always been a student of history, often times defying her Alliance Masters and studying history scrolls that were not allowed to the Drow in their captivity. “Holy One... if I may ask the question; this royal bloodline... the... the DNA,” Aihola clearly did not grasp the concept of genetics, and she struggled with the technical terms. “You say this High King was created from the bloodline of a King in the 21st century?”

Walter shook his head. “The descendants of this King yes. There was a General officer within the American military that was a blood descendant of the King. The actual King himself lived in 480 BC.”

Aihola’s eyes grew a little wider, “A warrior King?” She spoke somewhat in awe, knowing the age the Holy One spoke of as a time of great men and many battles.

Walter smiled genuinely. “I see you disobeyed the Alliance in regards to your education Aihola. I’m very happy about that.”

“Ancient history was a subject I enjoyed greatly Holy One. And all of the Drow studied extensively the warriors that came before us in centuries past. I just took it one step further and managed to acquire history scrolls they did not allow us to have.” Aihola replied appearing more excited than any other time that Tarifa had seen her, discounting the moments when her lips were fastened on Aihola’s sweet pussy. She smiled as her love questioned the Holy One. She learned something new about Aihola every day it seemed. “Was it Alexander The Great, Holy One or King Edward; King Henry perhaps?”

Walter smiled at her enthusiasm. “They came after the King we used as the template, though all were great men.” He answered.

“Then who Holy One,” Aihola asked with anticipation.

“We used the bloodline of Leonidas as the template.” Walter finally answered her.

Aihola's eyes went wide in undisguised awe, "The Spartan King?"

EDEN CITY FORMERLY JUNCTION CITY UTAH

Welcome to the club.

Hello Dysea.

Good morning.

It's about time.

Is she awake yet?

Don't make fun of her Kenny.

It didn't take me this long to wake up!

That's because you aren't as intelligent as she is.

Enough!

Martin's deep sounding word ended the voices.

There were flashes of desert sands. Explosions that sent billowing black smoke into the blue sky, strange places that she had never seen. Oceans the color of green silk, flashes of Anja's face contorted in pleasure, Tarifa's beautiful eyes and the face of a strange Asian woman. There were bare white corridors, the billions upon billions of stars and the stunning picture of the blue green planet.

Dysea's emerald eyes sprang open and she bolted upright in their bed, the sheet dropping away to reveal her glorious nakedness. A multitude of strange sounds and smells assailed her senses and she gripped her head as it throbbed almost painfully.

"Melda Min?" Martin's voice carried to her.

Dysea looked up as Martin came into the room wearing no clothes. He carried a tray with him which he quickly set on the table next to the bed. He took Dysea's hands in his and pulled her into his embrace as he knelt next to the bed.

"Breathe deeply Melda Min," He spoke softly. "As I taught you before, slowly catalog everything and file it away. You will remember it later. Bring your mind back to peace. You can do it."

"Nauta Melme... it hurts!" She gasped. "I can... I can hear things! The smells... it is too much!"

Martin took her face in his hands. "Look at me Melda Min. Concentrate, just as I taught you before. You will need to apply yourself more this time until you become accustom to the changes. It is no different. One scent or sound at a time, just as before. You can do it. We will help you."

"I don't... I don't understand!" She grimaced, her hands coming to her head. "There is only... there is only you!"

"No Melda Min." Martin said. "Do you trust me?"

Dysea looked at him with pain filled eyes, tears beginning to form. "You... you know I do Nauta Melme." She spoke through clenched teeth.

"Trust me now my love." Martin said. "Do as I taught you before. We will help you Melda Min. We will help you."

Dysea gripped Martin's thick arms; her forehead pressed against his chest as she listened to the sound of his soothing voice and did as he instructed her. As he had taught her before, with painstaking detail she memorized every smell, every sound and filed it away within her head. She pictured her brain as a massive library, the shelves filled with the information she put there. It was too much though, there were so many sounds and smells and images that she did not understand. Her hands squeezed his arms tighter as she fought with all her strength to keep from going mad. She was about to scream out in hopelessness when in her mind she saw the soft green light appear before her.

We will help you Melda Min. The soothing voice told her.

This was Martin's voice.

Martin?

Don't fight it Dysea. The female voice she recognized as Julie's spoke now. Allow it to envelope you. Embrace it.

Julie? What...

You will get the answers to your questions Dysea. This was Danny's voice she had no doubt of that, but he was hundreds of miles away, how was that possible. For now you must be at peace.

Let us help you. The voice of Martin's Master Chief who she knew as Tony, Don't fight it.

You hold my heart in your hands Melda Min. Martin's voice filled her again, so soothing and warm.

Dysea loosened her grip on Martin's arms but did not release them. She forced her body to relax in his strong embrace and she felt the pain slowly drifting away from her temples. The lances of pure white hot pain began to dull and withdraw. The sounds and smells began to become distant and bearable, and as she relaxed further and embraced the green light within her mind, they completely disappeared. Dysea opened her eyes now, a look of wonderment filling her face as she saw things within her mind that she could never have imagined. She felt a complete and utter acceptance embrace her, surrounding her and making her feel protected and wanted.

Dysea looked up slowly until she was gazing into Martin's beautiful dark eyes. He smiled at her.

Hello Melda Min. His words filled her mind, but his lips did not move. Welcome to our world.

"Nauta Melme... I hear... your words... but... your lips are not moving." Dysea gasped.

Martin nodded. I know; it's pretty neat huh? Try it.

I do not know how. Dysea said with her mind, even as her eyes grew wider at the revelation she had just done it.

Martin smiled and moved further onto the bed, pulling Dysea into his lap as he settled. The sheet fell further away from her naked form, but neither of them moved to pull it back up. Martin pulled her close to him, her full breasts pressing against his chest and she slid her arms around his shoulders. "It is quite amazing isn't it?" He asked her, speaking normally.

"Nauta Melme how..." Dysea's face was bright and animated as if she had just discovered a pot of gold under the rainbow.

Martin put a finger to her lips and shook his head. "I will answer your questions Melda Min." He spoke softly. "But first you must promise me something."

Dysea looked at him, "Anything my love." She told him.

"What I am going to tell you must never be spoken of openly with anyone." Martin told her, his face very serious, "Never without permission from all of us. Some of what I will share with you not even Admiral Wallace or Walter have knowledge of."

"All of us?" Dysea asked confused. "But there is only you and I here."

"The world you have now entered is far more than just you and I Melda Min." Martin told her. "Promise me."

"Nauta Melme, the Holy One is father to..."

Martin shook his head. "You must promise me Melda Min!" He spoke almost urgently. "You will understand soon my love, I give you my word. It is the only reason we have survived for as long as we have."

Dysea met his eyes and nodded slowly touching his face. "On my eternal love for you Nauta Melme, I swear to you." She said.

Martin nodded and took a deep breath. "When Walter first created us... only four of us could change our physical forms, The Admiral, me, Danny and Julie. It was a decision that Walter made and he never revealed to anyone the reason for it. We never asked. He created the Admiral four years before the three of us or so he told us, encoding into his DNA the ability to age normally until age fifty. That is why he appears older than us. He will age now as we will, living for several hundred years at least." Martin smiled to himself. "Walter was... is a genius Dysea. He can manipulate genes and DNA like a god. However he did not expect the Genomes he created to develop the flaw that became our downfall. No one knows what triggered it, but the Genomes began to go insane. They would snap mentally and go off on killing rampages. Hundreds were massacred before the government decided to exterminate us." Martin took a deep breath. "It was affecting all Genomes, all but the four of us. Even some on our own team were showing signs of breaking. The Admiral had an idea that because of our animal DNA, whatever was causing the others to lose their minds was not happening to us.

“We developed a plan then, Danny and Julie and I. Even the Admiral did not know of it. We decided to save our brothers and sisters if we could. We knew our saliva was infectious, filled with whatever genes that were keeping us safe from the disease. We... we began changing the members of our team in secret. No one knew but the three of us and those we were changing. We endured the hundreds of tests that the government saw fit to give us to insure we would not snap. It worked Dysea. Whatever was in our blood, in our genes, it saved those we had come to regard as brothers and sisters.”

“No... no one ever knew?” Dysea asked awestruck at this news.

Martin shook his head. “I believe Walter may have suspected, but he did not mention it to anyone, least of all those who wanted to exterminate us.” He looked at her. “We did not want to die.” He said with a wry grin.

“So... so all of you that remain can change?” Dysea asked.

Martin nodded slowly. “Once they allowed us to return to duty we made sure that no one would change their appearance unless it was a matter of life or death. There were a few that knew about the four of us, but not the others. And we never gave them reason to suspect otherwise.” Martin smiled. “Anyway... we didn’t know of the biggest side effect of doing what we did.”

“What do you mean side effect?” Dysea asked.

Martin met her emerald eyes. “Changing everyone had the effect of allowing us to speak with our thoughts. We don’t know how this ability came to be; only that it did. Julie believes it is because we all now share common memories and thoughts. What Danny has experienced, I can see within my mind if I try hard enough. The same holds true for all of us... and now it holds true for you as well.”

Dysea’s eyes grew a little larger. “You mean... my thoughts... what I think... these things are no longer my own?”

Martin shook his head. “No... I will teach you how to guard your mind and shield your thoughts Melda Min, and all of us have sworn never to invade the mind of a comrade without good cause. Your private thoughts will be just that. Private to you and only those you choose to share them with.”

Dysea brought her hands up to his face, “And your thoughts Nauta Melme?” She asked softly. “Do you guard them as well?”

“My thoughts are yours to experience and share whenever you wish Melda Min. From you I will hold nothing back, I will keep no secrets.” Martin told her.

Dysea felt the tears form in her eyes at his words. “You would... you would do that for me?”

Martin smiled. “You have seen the part of me that no one else has Dysea. The part I wish to share with only one other. And then I will be complete.”

Dysea smiled as the tears rolled down her cheeks, “Anja?”

Martin nodded. “She is as much a part of me as you are now. When... when the time is right... and if it is what she wants... then I hope she will choose to join us.”

“I could...” Dysea began.

Martin shook his head. “I know what you are going to say Melda Min, but no. As you asked me... Anja much ask as well. We force the change on no one, not since the Purge. As time passes and we take wives or husbands, and it is what they wish, then they can join us, but never by force. The only exception we have agreed to make is if the individual is in danger of dying. And that is the only exception. We make no others. I know she stirs you... as she stirs me... and I want her just as badly as you do... but if you pursue her, you can’t change her unless it is something she asks for.”

“I have... I have this ability now?” Dysea asked stunned.

Martin nodded. “Yes... and it will grow stronger as you come to realize what you are able to do. You were right Melda Min... there is much about me that I have not told you. I will share it with you now over the next few days.”

“And what of Tarifa Nauta Melme, you... she has changed as well, in part because of you.” Dysea asked.

“You must guard yourself even from her my love.” Martin said, reaching up to stroke her cheek. “She is special to us both, but I believe her path leads down a different road as you yourself have said. If she... if she asks... perhaps... but she must choose that path... and I am not entirely sure I wish to change her as I have changed you, as I wish to change Anja. I do not feel for her what I feel for you and Anja.”

“Why do you not speak with your minds all the time?” Dysea asked him, wanting to leave the subject of Tarifa behind for the moment.

“As you probably can tell, it gives us a great advantage over those around us.” Martin answered with a smile. “But it is physically draining, especially over great distances.”

Sudden recognition showed in Dysea’s eyes. “That... that is why you have not launched a full blown search for Daniel. I... I heard his voice in my mind. You speak with him... even now.”

Martin nodded. “We use short code words that we have developed over the years. The communications are brief, but yes. There is much I need to teach you.” He told her. “Your physical abilities, as you will no doubt discover over time, have increased by ten fold, even over what you already were capable of as an elf. You will need to guard against showing your true abilities very often. They are somewhat more extensive than what you have seen so far.”

“My appearance... I can... will I change?” She asked softly, “As you did last night.”

“Did... did I frighten you Melda Min?” Martin asked, suddenly very concerned.

Dysea kissed him quickly, seeing the look of concern flash in his eyes. “I was never frightened my love. The beast within you still has your mind and your heart. I knew I was in no danger.”

Martin nuzzled her neck with a smile before looking at her again. “I will teach you all that you need to know as time passes Melda Min. Yes... you will be able to change... even more than you know.” He replied. “First however, you need to eat and drink. You will find that your appetite has increased as well as your abilities.” He told her with a smile. “And then you must depart for Salina. Tarifa and the others will be arriving early this evening, and you will need to coordinate with them how best to get them away from her guards so that she can see Eden City.”

“Me?”

Martin nodded. “There is no one else I trust more other than Anja, and she will be going with you. Tarifa, this Aihola, Cantel and two others will be coming with her to Eden.”

“I will be recognized if I am seen my love.” She spoke.

Martin smiled and leaned forward to kiss her softly. He lowered his head and nuzzled the silky skin between her full breasts once more. “Then don’t be seen.” He told her.

“What... what will you be doing Nauta Melme?” Dysea asked.

“General Vengal and I are going for a little trip.” Martin told her. “I have no intention of harming him Melda Min,” He said seeing the look of concern flash across her face now. “By the time you return to Eden City with Tarifa we will have already come back.”

“What do you intend to do Martin?” She asked.

“I will tell you when you return.” He said. “Not before.”

“Martin you...”

Trust in me Melda Min. His voice spoke within her mind.

Dysea allowed her fingers to caress his face for a long moment as she stared into his dark eyes. She smiled finally and looked at the tray of food he had brought in.

What did you bring me for breakfast? I am starving. She asked him within their thoughts. When Martin didn’t move or attempt to release her she turned her head back to look at him. What she saw in his eyes and on his face made her breath catch in her throat, and a wave of desire swept through her unlike anything she had ever experienced before.

“There... there is something else you should know right away.” Martin’s voice was soft and husky yet she could detect the barely controlled passion in his tone and she felt her skin prickle with warmth. Dysea also felt his cock beginning to thicken between her thighs, pressing against the soft platinum hair of her pussy. The heat from his growing manhood was setting her loins ablaze, and a searing need was rapidly engulfing her belly.

Dysea closed her eyes as the pounding desire began to spread through her body and her heart began to quicken. She looked back to his face and saw that his eyes had changed, and his fangs were fully extended now, and in his eyes she saw the most animalistic and natural of desires. “Nauta... Melme...” She gasped, barely able to contain the passion that was seething through her. A passion and want she had never experienced before.

“We... we are very possessive of our mates Melda Min.” He spoke to her in a soft rumbling voice. “We can... we can control our sexual auras, filling the air around us with our pheromones. It will affect anyone... but to the one you have chosen... as your mate, it is...”

Dysea gasped loudly, her hands going to his head as his lips descended to her breast. Her nipples were harder than she had ever known them to be, almost painfully hard and when his lips engulfed her left nipple she hissed in agonizing pleasure. A burning heat had spread throughout her entire body, a heat that caused her skin to smolder with passion and need. She looked down at his face as his lips pulled away from her nipple, leaving it wet with saliva. His eyes met hers again.

“To the one you have chosen as your mate... it is irresistible!” He growled.

Dysea screamed, her nails digging into his shoulders as in one deft movement, Martin had lifted her hips and impaled her completely upon his will breaking cock. Her lips parted slightly and she whimpered loudly in delight as she felt every thick wonderful inch of his enormous cock fill her in one magnificent plunge. Her entire body was on fire, burning with fervor and lust and want. And somehow instinctively she knew that only Martin could fulfill that craving. She brought her head back up, her platinum mane flying around her face and shoulders, her emerald eyes now changed as well. Her fangs, larger than before the change, extended now in her own passion and she locked her fingers behind his neck. His large hands gripped her firm, gymnast shaped ass in a commanding embrace. She felt potent and reborn, and she stared at him with scorching emerald/black orbs that mirrored his desire for her. Dysea ground her tight pussy down upon his hips, feeling his magma hot balls press against her asscheeks, swollen with the liquid she so madly sought. She could feel every pulse of his throbbing twelve inch cock filling her to the point where she thought she would split in half. Her sweet juices flowed freely from her clenching pussy, unlike any other time before this moment.

Dysea seized his face in her delicate hands tightly and her emerald/black orbs bore into his yellow/black ones. She could see the fire for her in his eyes; she could feel the heat in his blood racing through his veins under his skin; and she could most definitely feel the mad hunger for her pulsating in his cock. An almost savage smile split her striking lips as she gazed into his eyes. She was having the same effect on him that he was having on her, his chest heaving in passion, his muscles corded and straining like flexible bands of steel, as if he was waiting for permission.

“Take me!” She gasped. “Take me Nauta Melme! Take me now!”

He reacted almost before the words had left her lips, twisting her around until she was beneath him, and then Dysea’s world dissolved into a myriad of white stars and bright lights as he withdrew his entire cock from her dripping pussy and plunged back inside her tight warmth. His first twelve inch stroke into her depths caused her to gasp at the power he commanded, and she knew then she never wanted it to end. When he struck home, his swollen balls slapping against her upturned asscheeks, Dysea felt the pleasure devastate her and she howled. She wrapped her silky-smooth thighs around his battering hips, her ankles pressing against the backs of his muscular legs and her hands gripped his tight powerful ass as he withdrew and once more rammed into her completely. Dysea howled again as another orgasm rocked her, her pussy convulsing around the dominating cock within her velvety depths. The emerald piercing of her flared clit only enhanced this agonizing pleasure to a height she had not yet experienced and her juices were pouring from around his battering ram of a cock. She felt him withdraw once more and on his return plunge Dysea clenched her teeth, her mind now focused on only one thing.

It was focused on the sinful pleasure that was ripping through her very soul, and overriding everything else.

When Martin’s bloated balls pounded into her again, she clenched her powerful pussy muscles and heard him cry out next to her ear as she milked him. Dysea released his pounding ass and wrapped her arms around his broad back for better leverage. She needed him to fill her with his searing cum; nothing else mattered at this moment. She wanted to feel his life giving seed erupt within her and finally claim what was truly his. She began to meet his powerful thrusts into her, driving her hips up to meet him as hard as she was able. It was almost too much for her, as her clit piercing was crushed against him with every dominant stroke, sending electric like shocks of pure bliss spiking through her. In her pleasure clouded mind Dysea did the only thing she could think of. As he drove into her once more Dysea reached as far down as she could, past his straining ass and clutched his throbbing balls.

Martin’s head came up from beside her neck, his lips leaving the spot on her neck that they had been sucking on and he too howled. Dysea’s eyes went wide as she felt his burning cum race up the length of the huge cock buried in her depths. His entire shaft swelled in size and power and her body arched off the body to crush against his chest as the first eruption of his cum within her sent her completely over the edge. Her voice joined his in a symphony of passion, mingling as one their physical bodies as well as their voices as they exploded together.

It took nearly a minute before Martin's rigid body finished emptying into her and he lowered his head to her chest completely spent. During that time Dysea had ridden wave after wave of pleasure as each blast of his cum inside her had initiated another orgasm. As he lowered his head to her sweaty chest, she wrapped her arms even tighter around his back, not wanting him to escape from within her grasp. She hummed in delight when his arms slid under her and pulled her even closer, making it almost impossible to tell their bodies apart. Neither of them cared in the least that the sheets were soaked with sweat and their mingled juices.

Martin kissed her breasts lightly, his lips soft and warm as they moved up her neck to her throat and finally they claimed her lips as well. The kiss was deep and filled with a passion neither of them had known, and the only reason they finally parted was so they could both breathe.

Dysea reached up with her hands, her arms weak, and placed them on his face.

"I... I am no longer hungry my love." She managed to speak the words with a small smile.

Martin grinned and nuzzled her throat, "Neither am I." He spoke to her softly, "Neither am I." Dysea's body responded immediately to the hungry look in his eyes, and she felt her belly clench in anticipation once more as she smiled at him, "At least not for food."

LAS VEGAS/PHOENIX INTERSTATE TRAIN TUNNEL THIRTEEN MILES EAST OF LAS VEGAS

Anuk woke quickly, sitting up as her cerulean blue eyes searched for Danny almost without thinking. She saw him squatting by the embers of the smoldering fire, his head canted upwards at the ceiling as if he was talking with the gods. Posing as he was, Anuk could almost see the animal side of him showing through, waiting to pounce on an unsuspecting enemy. As she sat up completely, tossing the blanket aside Anuk realized something for the first time. Never in her life had she felt so safe and protected. His very presence instilled a feeling of calm in her, and somehow she knew that he would never allow any harm to come to her person if it was within his power to stop. This feeling caused a different wave of emotions to course through her, and they were emotions she was not familiar with. The thought that he would protect her from any harm filled her with a strange sense of warmth and... desire. She stared at his powerful back, shocked that she could feel desire for a man who so resembled the butchers who had raped and brutalized her.

Anuk shook her head slowly. No... he was not like those animals. Even when her breasts were fully exposed for his eyes to see, he did not even blink as he worked on her wound. He could have taken her at anytime since they came together and Anuk knew she could never fight him, yet he had been the complete opposite. He was almost shy when treating her wound, as if touching her skin would validate everything he thought she felt towards him. There was something very different about this man, something so different that it intrigued her like no other. Anuk watched a small smile cross his face and just before he turned around she busied herself with making it seem like she had just awoken.

Dan's eyes fell upon her. "Good morning." He spoke moving back from the smashed entrance to the old store.

They had traveled for nearly six hours before coming to this small way station. It appeared to be some sort of stop along the path of the train tracks and there were dilapidated remains of old stores of some nature. None of them had any windows remaining intact and Danny had moved them to the rear of the first building they came to for protection. Anuk realized that she had slept for at least a solid seven hours.

"You... you allowed me to sleep longer than you intended." Anuk said to him.

Dan nodded. "You needed the rest." He told her.

"You did not sleep?"

Dan smiled and shook his head. "There are times when I can sleep and still be awake." He explained. "I can rest, but my senses are still very active and I can react more quickly."

"Do you ever sleep fully?" Anuk asked.

"Oh yeah, and I snore like an over aged Grizzly Bear." Dan replied with a chuckle. "I used to keep Julie awake all the time."

Anuk moved next to the still warm embers, sensing an opening to get more information about the man in front of her. "Julie... she is your wife?"

Dan looked up into her eyes and Anuk caught the gasp of surprise before it escaped her lips. His dark eyes smoldered with desire, a desire for her. It wasn't lust that she saw in those eyes, Anuk had seen enough of the cruel lust in the eyes of the butchers who had captured her to know the difference. No... what she saw in Danny's eyes caused a shiver to race through her. And it was by no means a shiver of fear. It was gone in a split second, and she saw him shake his head.

"No... she is not my wife." He said with a smile. "We were an item for a long time."

"You are no longer together?" Anuk asked, for some reason she found herself wanting to hear him say no.

Dan shook his head. "Ever since we came back to earth, things have been different." He answered. "We drew further apart as the days and weeks progressed. I guess it was the natural course of things. We both wanted more than what the other had, at least at the time. We have moved on, but we are still very close friends. At least I hope so... I haven't seen her in a couple of weeks."

Anuk wanted to change the subject suddenly. There was something about this ebony skinned man that caused her to feel things she had never felt before. That he was not completely human had something to do with it, but that was minor. She found herself increasingly attracted to him, and it troubled her greatly. She was about to say something totally irrelevant, but almost as if sensing her discomfort Dan did it for her.

"Let's take a look at your wound." He said turning to face her.

Anuk hesitated for only a split second in alarm. He had already seen her in the most revealing of ways, first in the hotel while dressed as a slave. The clothes they provided to them were not supposed to hide anything. And while his fingers had been stiff and unyielding when they had touched her down there, as if he was not comfortable conducting himself in such a manner, that touch, brief as it was, caused Anuk to immediately become wet between her thighs. Even all during her captivity and the countless rapes, she had never once become wet. Try as she might to imagine different things to ease the pain of her rapes, nothing worked. She was as dry as paper whenever one of those monsters had raped her. Yet with but a single fleeting touch of his fingers, Anuk had felt the wetness seep out of her center. He had never attempted to pursue her in any way, and most certainly, even with her breasts exposed to his gaze when he treated her injury, his eyes had never wandered over her flesh lustfully.

It was this knowledge that caused her to hesitate only that split second before she turned slightly and lifted the work shirt she wore.

Dan looked at the wound and hid his grimace from her. The five inch long cut was beginning to heal thanks to the MEDCOM patches, but there was no denying that it was infected. Dan could detect the smell of the infection and a greenish tint was beginning to form around the edges of the wound. He reached up gingerly and applied just a minute amount of pressure on the wound. Yellow brown puss leaked out from two places and the smell was rank and powerful.

"It is still infected isn't it?" Anuk asked. She had seen the look on his face, and then she captured the wave of rotting flesh when he squeezed her side.

Dan looked up at her and nodded. "It's spreading too." He told her. "Is there a lot of pain?"

Anuk shook her head slowly. "The pills keep it at bay." She told him.

Dan lowered the shirt back down over her wound and returned to his feet. "We'll get you fixed up real soon. You need antibiotics."

Anuk turned to face him, having to tilt her head up to see into his eyes. And in those eyes she saw worry for her. "We do not have antibiotics Daniel." She stated flatly, "Unless you are hiding them somewhere."

Dan tore his eyes from her gaze and bent to stuff items back into the pack he was carrying. "Not with me... but there are some about a click up the tunnel."

Anuk looked at him. "How do you know this? Did you go exploring last night while I slept?"

Dan looked at her. "No... I don't intend to leave your side again." Dan spoke softly, returning the blanket to the pack while she gazed at him with wide eyes.

After a moment of disbelief at the sincerity of his words Anuk shook her head. "How do you know where antibiotics are then?"

Dan stood up and shouldered the pack. He turned to face her and held out his hand. "Trust me Anuk." He spoke.

Anuk looked at his extended hand for a long moment. Her eyes traveled up to his deep dark brown pools and at that very moment Anuk made the decision that would change her life forever.

Anuk placed her small tanned hand into his. "I trust you."

EDEN CITY (FORMERLY JUNCTION CITY UTAH)

Anja walked down the ramp of the Raptor and stopped when she saw Dysea about a hundred meters away next to the Light Hopper. She was talking with Julie, and Anja felt her heart lurch when they embraced tightly. Dysea turned away and headed for the Raptor, and Anja felt a momentary pang of jealousy and betrayal at what she had just witnessed. Her Jade green eyes shifted to Dysea as Julie pulled away in the Hopper and she watched the platinum blond elf walk towards the Raptor. Anja felt her breath catch in her throat as she gazed at Dysea. There was something different about her. She had always struck Anja as exceptionally beautiful, yet there was something new radiating from her. Anja admired the way she filled out the Woodland fatigues, and she found herself imagining what it would be like to feast upon what undoubtedly was a delicious pussy. As far as she had seen so far, most female elves were naturally beautiful. It was the way Walter had created them, to be desirable to men no matter what shape they came in. Yet with Dysea it was much more pronounced; the color of her hair, the shape of her lips and face, and the extreme tightness and delicious curves of her body. Even her pointed elf ears looked scrumptious. Anja had looked upon Julie with lust once she had discovered that side of herself, but looking at Dysea now, Anja found she was gazing at her with unabashed desire and want and above all else... need.

Dysea came to the ramp and walked up to where Anja stood, her emerald eyes alive and brilliant. She looked at Anja with those eyes and for a fleeting moment, Anja thought she saw the same thing radiating from Dysea. Then it was gone.

"I'm sorry I'm late." She explained. "I had some trouble waking up this morning."

Anja shook her head. "It's no problem." She spoke. "Tarifa and the others should be arriving in Salina right about now."

"They drove through the night?" Dysea asked surprised.

Anja nodded. "Marty had a Raptor watching them from long range, but we pretty much cleared out this area of any slavers and mercenaries."

"And Cantel would know this." Dysea said with a dazzling smile. "I'm sorry Anja... I seem to be very distracted this morning."

"That's ok." Anja replied. She hesitated a moment and continued. "I saw you and Julie hugging."

Dysea nodded. "We had breakfast before I came here. It is why I am late." She replied. "She needed to give me some information."

"Oh." Anja said.

"Shall we get underway?" Dysea asked.

Anja smiled. "Sure." She spoke as she turned to hit the button to bring the ramp up.

Dysea moved further into the Raptor and saw Lynwe sitting on one of the benches. She got to her feet as Dysea walked up to her.

Lynwe bowed her head slightly in greeting, "Dysea." She spoke. "I want to thank you for allowing me to accompany you."

Dysea smiled. "I gathered from your reaction when I told you that Aihola was alive that you knew her well. It might be nice for her to be able to relate to someone she knows while we travel back to Eden."

"If I may ask," Lynwe said. "How do you intend to bring everyone back to Eden without it being discovered they are missing?"

Dysea allowed herself a small smile. "We'll just keep that a secret for now." Dysea said as Anja came up behind her and took the seat across from Lynwe. She turned and looked at Anja, feeling a powerful rush of desire sweep through her as she gazed at the gorgeous red head. She turned back to Lynwe quickly, fighting down the urge to take Anja right where she stood, in front of everyone. “It is only a thirty minute trip to our landing zone, and then you will see your friend again.”

Lynwe nodded and sat back down as Dysea turned and took the open seat next to Anja on the bench. Anja looked at her as she sat down, her eyes never leaving Dysea’s face, and not missing the fact that Dysea could not tear her eyes away. She smiled a dazzling smile that tugged at Dysea’s soul.

“What?” Anja asked. She found herself enjoying the attention from the beautiful blond elf, and secretly hoped that perhaps Dysea felt something more.

“Tell me... tell me about yourself Anja.” Dysea asked softly.

“Me?”

Dysea nodded. “I know so little about you. I have seen you in the gym in the mornings; I hesitated to approach you because I sensed you had much on your mind. You... you cared for Martin when he was injured and that means more to me than you know, especially now. I would like to know about you.”

“There’s not much to tell.” Anja replied with a smile. “Don’t you want to hear about Martin and how I met him? That’s what everyone is interested in for some reason.”

Dysea shook her head with a smile. “I would prefer to learn more about you.” She answered. “I already know everything about my Martin.”

Anja looked at her oddly. “What do you mean?”

Dysea shook her head and reached down to take Anja’s hand within hers. Dysea fought with the urge to release her aura and lose herself in this woman’s pleasures, but Martin had told her it wouldn’t be right. It would be paramount to taking away her choice. If she desired Anja as she did, then she needed to discover if Anja felt the same way. Something within Dysea told her that was very much the case with Anja as she gazed at her. She could sense the woman’s interest not only in her but in Martin as well. It was at that moment that Dysea realized Anja was still very much in love with Martin. Looking at her now, Dysea found that the prospect of sleeping with Anja stirred her blood even more than she first thought, and the possibility that she could be sharing Martin with this stunning woman did not make her hesitate in the least. “Perhaps in time you will come to understand. I’d like to hear about you though.”

Anja smiled at her, unsure of what to make of Dysea’s comments. There was no mistaking the interest that she was showing, nor the fact that Anja felt a ripple of excitement course through her when Dysea took her hand. She found Dysea nearly irresistible, and as she looked at her face she began to imagine what it would be like to taste her lips and her skin. To feel her body wrapped around her. Even if Martin did not want her, she could still find solace in Dysea’s arms and be close to him.

Anja squeezed Dysea’s hands and began to speak.

“Am I allowed to ask where are we going?” Vengal asked Martin.

Martin had arrived outside the secure quarters where he had been since confined there by Dysea. While the small apartment was comfortable and he received everything he asked for, he was still a prisoner. He had been dressed in complete body armor and fatigues as well as his combat vest and the HK-74 dangled from quick release clasps. Martin had thrust the body armor and vest to him without speaking and waited while Vengal had changed. Word had spread quickly that Lyca Ohtar had been shot and seriously wounded on a mission to New Memphis to save the lives of elves and half elves. Upon hearing this Vengal had cursed his actions over and over. He had allowed Matarn to manipulate him through his sister the Queen and therefore betray all that he stood for.

Martin Hunter had agreed to help him rescue Anuk, asking for nothing in return. This should have been the first sign that Hunter was different and that Matarn and the new Queen were wrong not to trust them. Against his better judgment he had ignored his own instincts and ended up losing his only remaining daughter and from what he understood a man that Martin Hunter considered to be closer than a brother.

They had ridden in silence to the airfield where Vengal saw six heavily armed elves in full body armor waiting for them. The elf driver of the Hopper that had dropped them off only nodded to Vengal as he pulled away. Martin ushered him to the ramp of the Raptor that was waiting on the tarmac. He saw the Wood Elf Ealin, who he knew commanded Hunter’s personal team. As he let his eyes linger on these six elves he realized for the first time just how exceedingly deadly they were. He knew right away that four of them were High Elves from Pacifica and he was reasonably sure from New Salem. The remaining two, including Ealin who appeared to be the second in command were Wood Elves he remembered from Dysea's personal detachment.

These six elves moved like predators. Their cold eyes watched him constantly from the moment he had left the Hopper. All of them were at least two hundred years younger than him, and he had countless hours of combat experience to fall back on, but Vengal knew that to attempt anything now would result in his immediate and probably very painful death. These six elves surpassed even his Wood Elf Rangers in their now muscular builds and the effortless way they moved. Their steps were light, alert and prepared at a moment's notice to pounce. It suddenly occurred to Vengal that Hunter and the other Genomes had used the past few months to train already very skilled elf fighters. What stood before him now were perhaps the most lethal fighters he had ever been in the presence of, and he had not even seen them in action.

Martin looked across at him from the opposite bench. His attitude and demeanor made it very clear he neither feared nor cared what Vengal could do. "I am fulfilling a promise I made." Martin replied.

Vengal nodded once and turned to look out the rear of the Raptor. The ramp was locked in position halfway up and he could see the tree tops barely a hundred meters below them as they sped through the air. He had never liked flying, and seeing the ground streaking below them made it even worse.

"How was your daughter captured?" Martin's voice interrupted his thoughts.

Vengal turned to look at him. "We received intelligence that this particular group of slavers had several of our scientists that were captured a few weeks earlier." He spoke. "Our intelligence said they would be passing within fifty miles of one of our outlying villages on the border of High Elf territory."

"Had they ever come that close before?" Martin asked.

Vengal shook his head. "The consensus of the Council was that they were only becoming bolder."

"That should have been your first clue that you were infiltrated." Martin told him.

"It was a trap. An ambush was waiting for the scout unit Anuk was part of. They took her and the female elves, they killed the males." The bitter taste of defeat burned his tongue as Vengal spoke. "It was only supposed to be a scouting mission!"

"Someone blew your mission General." Martin told him. "And your Council of Elders is as dirty as I have ever seen politicians."

Vengal glared at him. "It is no different with the High Elves!" He snapped.

Martin shook his head. "No... that is where you are wrong." He spoke leaning forward. "Tarifa knows they are dirty... three of them at least. The others always bow to the will of the three. She's been having them watched for several weeks now. Dysea saw it... that is why the Alliance tried to kill her. And that is why the Elders elected a new Queen so quickly." Martin looked at him. "Doesn't it seem pretty convenient that Matarn's sister was chosen?"

"They are a wealthy and powerful family." Vengal spoke.

Martin nodded, "Perhaps." He said. "How close were you with Dysea when she was Queen?"

Vengal looked at him. "I was one of three she trusted above all others." He snapped. "And my actions have stained my honor for generations to come."

"You don't find it odd that your daughter was taken Vengal?" Martin asked him. "The daughter of one of the most ardent and loyal supporters of the Queen they did not control. And you don't find it odd that the man whom your daughter is supposed to marry is the brother of the Queen they elected in Dysea's place?"

Vengal glared at him. "What are you saying?"

Martin shook his head. "I'm not saying anything." He replied.

Vengal turned at the motion from the cockpit of the Raptor and he saw the female elf in a dark gray flight suit and flight helmet step part way down the stairs.

"Martin... Ben is bringing us in over the site." Endith spoke loudly over the sound of the engines.

Martin nodded. "Thank you Endith." He said getting to his feet.

Vengal stood. "Where are we?" He asked. "If you are planning to execute me, at least give me the honor of meeting death like a soldier."

Martin looked at him. "I have no intention of executing you General. That would be one of the most ignorant things I have ever done in my life, and believe me I've done some ignorant things." Martin watched Vengal steady himself by grabbing a hand hold above his head as Ben brought the Raptor in for a landing.

Vengal looked out the open portion of the ramp and saw black smoke rising into the sky. The lower they dropped the more he saw. At least a dozen Hoppers from light to one Heavy Hopper were smoking ruins, flames still engulfing several of the destroyed machines. He could see dozens of bodies on the ground, twisted in macabre poses of death. The upper bodies of blackened men could be seen dangling from the vehicles, as if they had been killed as they tried to escape. The Raptor settled gently to the ground and Ealin punched the controls for the ramp and it started to lower. Martin waved Vengal forward.

“After you sir,” He spoke.

Trepidation gripped Vengal. He had no idea where he was or what was about to happen, and for the first time in his long life he felt fear grasp his belly tight and squeeze. It was then that he noticed Matarn and several others from his Wood Elf Ranger detachment standing nearby. They were dressed as he was, but they were also unarmed.

Vengal looked at Martin as they descended the ramp and touched the soft earth. He could see tall white capped mountains in the distance which he determined to be south, the land around them partially barren, but they were surrounded by distant treeline on the other three sides. Vengal had been in this part of the country enough times to know where he was and he looked at Martin. “We are in what used to be Arizona.” He said.

Martin nodded. “It still is Arizona. Or more correctly, it is Arizona once more. We control it now.”

Vengal looked at him stunned. “You control it? I don’t understand.”

Martin grinned. “Eden City will only be the center. The City State if you will. There are smaller settlements all across what is left of Arizona and Southern Utah, and some reaching into Nevada now. They are settlements of men, elves and whoever wants to live free and in peace. People who want to raise their children without fear of persecution and death and slavers. Each settlement has a detachment of regular soldiers from Eden City. Each settlement is more than capable of defending themselves. We’ve established regular communications, and in the event of something they can’t handle, we can send reinforcements from Eden within hours.” Martin stepped closer to Vengal. “We are rebuilding Vengal. When Walter created the elves they were intended to be the companions and friends of men. That’s exactly what we are doing.”

“You... you have done all this in the almost five months since being expelled from high Elf territory?” Vengal asked incredulously.

Martin smiled. “It’s amazing what a little honesty and trust will do.” He answered, putting the barb into Vengal. He saw the elf general’s eyes lower in shame.

“The Alliance...” Vengal started.

“When the Alliance realizes what we are doing it will be too late.” Martin told him. “Why do you think Dysea never returned to the Wood Elf capital to reclaim her crown?”

“The Council said she went into hiding for betraying her people. They said she was conspiring with the High Elves to destroy us.” Vengal spoke, knowing the words were a lie even as he spoke them.

Martin chuckled. “Yes... and I’m sure that is not all they said about her.”

“Why are you... why are you telling me this?” Vengal asked. “Why did you bring me here?”

“I told you. I’m keeping a promise.” Martin replied.

“Yes... but a promise to whom?” Vengal asked.

Martin saw movement and smiled. “I’d like to introduce you to two men.” He said.

Vengal turned and watched as a short elf male and a tall human male walked towards them. They were outfitted in fatigues and were well armed, as were all the humans and elves that Vengal could see, with the exception of the slavers that were on their knees a hundred meters distance with their backs to him. Their hands were above their heads, and a dozen elves guarded them closely.

“Martin!” The male elf spoke as he and his companion walked up.

“Thon’hin... it’s good to see you again.” Martin spoke, returning the handshake. He turned to the human man, “Charles... good to see you.”

“Same here Martin.” The older man replied. “We’re glad you could make it. Thon’hin and his boys and girls have been tracking these idiots ever since they entered into our exclusion zone. When we got your message last night, Thon’hin knew right away this was the bunch.”

“Did you suffer any casualties?” Martin asked.

Thon'hin nodded. "One of my flankers caught quite a bit of shrapnel in the chest. We have him stabilized and were about to transport him to the settlement for treatment. The medic doesn't know if he will survive though."

Martin turned quickly, "Endith!" He called towards the open window of the Raptor. They watched as the female elf stuck her head out the window far above them, her long red hair shimmering in the morning light. "Tell Ben to warm it up! Critical casualty for transport to Eden City! Have one of Anja's trauma teams standing by!"

Thon'hin and Charles heard the engines on the Raptor ignite and begin to spool up even before Martin's words died on the wind. "Martin... he may not live." Thon'hin spoke. "Is it wise to possibly waste the fuel?"

"Fuck the fuel!" Martin snapped. "If we can save him... that's what we're going to do!" Martin turned to find Ealin. "Ealin... get that casualty over here now! The medic goes with him!"

Ealin didn't hesitate and sprinted for where the medical Hopper was parked. Martin didn't see the exchange of looks between Thon'hin and Charles, or the glances that the men and women soldiers from the settlement passed among themselves if they were close enough to hear Martin's words.

"Thon'hin... Charles... I'd like to introduce General Vengal of the Wood Elves." Martin spoke motioning to Vengal.

Thon'hin bowed his head to Vengal. "It is an honor General. I have heard much of your exploits."

Vengal looked surprised. "You know of me?"

"Who does not know the name of Vengal, Hero of New Boston?" Thon'hin spoke. "What you did there was inspiring."

"I... I wasn't aware that information made it this far south." Vengal said.

"It has in the form of books and papers." Thon'hin answered. "It is something all our children learn."

Vengal looked at them. "The human children would..."

"All the children of Ash Fork received the same education General." Charles spoke before Vengal could finish. "There are far more humans like myself and the others than the Alliance has led you to believe. There are thousands of us spread all over this land that know and believe that the elves should not be slaves. Before Martin came along we simply lacked the courage or the will to come forward and prove that. Not anymore." Charles looked at Thon'hin. "The Ash Fork Arizona settlement is such a place. We have made it such a place, and so have the ten thousand men, women and children who live there."

"Ten thousand!" Vengal gasped in disbelief.

They turned as the medical Hopper stopped nearby and two medics carried the stretcher bound elf out of the back. The Raptor's engines were screaming in preparation to take off and Martin quickly made his way to the stretcher. He looked down at the injured elf, his chest a mass of bandages, his neck immobilized within the brace. Blood stained the stretcher and his pants. His eyes were glossy, but they focused momentarily to look at Martin.

"He's in severe condition General." The elf medic spoke. "Chances are he won't make it to Eden."

Martin looked at the elf as he slowly lifted his bloodstained hand. Martin didn't hesitate and took that hand in his and squeezed. "What is his name?" Martin asked.

"Thrlas sir," The medic replied.

Martin leaned over close to the injured elf's bloody pointed ear. "Coi mirima! Fir mai! Faila ava sina lya!" (Live free! Die well! Just not this day Thrlas!)

Martin smiled as the elf's grip on his hand grew stronger and he struggled to move his head. "I will visit you when I return to Eden Thrlas. Don't disappoint me." He said.

The medic standing at the foot of the stretcher stared wide eyed at the medical monitor that rested between the man's legs. Seconds ago it was showing a weak pulse and shallow breathing, not to mention a low blood pressure. As soon as Martin spoke to the elf, the man's vital signs spiked and stabilized.

Martin stepped back as the two medics moved up the ramp into the Raptor. "Ben!" Martin spoke into thin air trusting his implant that he would be heard over the sound of the engines. He was.

"Go Marty!" Ben's voice responded in his ear.

"Turn and burn Ben!" Martin spoke.

Martin saw Ben's head nod in the side of the cockpit, "Turning and burning boss man!" Ben's reply had barely left his lips when the Raptor lifted six feet off the ground, executed a neat one hundred and eighty degree turn and then accelerated to nearly four hundred miles an hour in just under five seconds.

Martin watched it until it was a dot in the sky then turned back to look at where Thon'hin, Vengal and Charles watched him intently. He stepped back to them quickly and smiled. "Well gentlemen... shall we go and fulfill a promise I made."

Thon'hin and Charles smiled and motioned to where the prisoners were being guarded, while Vengal looked at him strangely and followed.

The prisoners were a sullen group, many of them wounded and bleeding on the ground. Vengal saw Matarn and the others escorted forward from where they had been standing. He turned back to the prisoners and his eyes went a little wider. All of the slavers were black skinned men, many of them obese and foul smelling. "They..." Vengal gasped. "These are..."

Martin nodded. "These are the assholes that captured your daughter." He finished the statement.

Vengal's eyes filled with a killing rage as he glared at the men. The obvious leader of the slavers was one of the ones that had survived the ambush. He looked at the tall human and the older elf and he smiled savagely, exposing blackened and rotting teeth.

"Well... well... if it isn't the ass wipe elf General." He spoke. "You're that red head's father. Man she had a sweet pussy. Do you want to hear how she would sling her tight elf cunt on my big dick almost every night! She loved my big black dick... and then I'd give her to my men and she would scream for hours. It was beautiful man!"

Martin saw the twitch in Vengal's jaw and knew he better act quickly. "Who gave you the details to the elf patrol and the location to ambush them? Who told you to capture Anuk?"

"Fuck you elf lover!" The man spat, "Human's rule this world now! Elves are fodder for us. Only the strong survive! His whore of a daughter is in Las Vegas now getting fucked by dozens of men every night! I bet you she is sucking the biggest cocks in the city!"

Martin shook his head. "You are right on only one thing." He spoke coldly.

The black man grinned and looked at Martin. "Yeah faggot, what's that?"

"Only the strong will survive." Martin growled.

Martin moved like a blur, his right hand snatching out to grab the throat of the slaver kneeling next to the leader. The man's strangled yelp was cut off, as suddenly he was hauled nearly eighteen inches into the air and Martin allowed the change to come over him. Before the terrified eyes of the slavers and the shocked eyes of those who did not know Martin they watched as his face contorted and shifted into a snarling visage of a monster. His arm popped and thickened as hair sprouted over his forearm and the hand clutching the slavers throat formed long black razor like claws.

Martin held the horrified slaver off the ground with barely any effort, and brought the man's petrified face within inches of his gleaming white fangs. The pungent odor of urine filled Martin's flared nostrils as the man vented his bladder in undisguised fear. Martin sniffed the man, his face pulling back quickly at the powerful stench of unwashed body. He turned his yellow/black orbs to the leader, the man's black eyes wide in the grip of fear he had never known.

"Unfortunately..." Martin's voice remained normal and his vicious fangs curled into the most savage grin the slaver had ever seen. "You and your cohorts are not part of the strong."

There was a loud gurgling sound and then a resounding snap, and the slaver in Martin's grasp twitched once before going limp. Martin had snapped his neck with a simple twitch of his wrist. Everyone watched as Martin turned and with a howl none of them would ever forget he heaved the body across the open plains. The slavers body landed thirty meters away with a sickening thud.

Martin turned back to face the leader, his features returning to normal quickly. Martin squatted down in front of the terrified man, his nose twitching as he detected more urine and the smell of shit in the breeze. The man had defecated in his pants.

"For your crimes against elves and humans I sentence you to death." Martin's voice had the cold finality of death in it. "And don't you worry my ugly friend... your partner in crime who now controls Las Vegas will be joining you within a few weeks."

"Wait!" One of the slavers screamed. "What... what about a trial? We should get a trial!"

“You just had your trial!” Thon’hin spoke now as he stepped forward, his words spoken with commitment and force. “The shortest judicial proceeding in history I should think.”

Charles turned to the Ash Fork troops that stood behind them. “Hang them!” He ordered. “Once they are dead, leave their bodies for the animals. They need to eat as well.”

Martin grinned at the still wide eyed slaver leader. He saw the brief flicker in his eyes over Martin’s shoulder and then back again, “Not you friend.” He spoke softly. “Hanging is too good for you.”

Martin returned to his feet and looked at Vengal as he drew out the Shakur fighting knife from the sheath on his right thigh. He held out the blade to Vengal. “He is yours General.” Martin spoke. “Do not toy with him, but relieve yourself of the revenge in your blood before it destroys you.”

“My daughter is probably dead!” Vengal snapped. “Revenge is all I have left.”

Martin shook his head slowly. “Anuk is very much alive.” He replied quietly, so that only Vengal could hear him. He saw the elf’s eyes go wide at this news. “She’s injured, but she is being cared for. My brother is bringing her to you.”

“Where? How?” Vengal gasped.

“That is not important.” Martin told him. “Only that she is safe and will be returned to you in a few days. They have to walk quite a distance because of where they are, but we are monitoring their progress.”

“You... you have known this all along?” Vengal asked.

Martin nodded. “And for now that is how it will remain. Tell no one, or we put at risk two people we both care a great deal for.” Martin looked at the slaver. “Now kill him and get it out of your system before your hatred causes more damage than you intend it too.”

Vengal stared at Martin for a long moment. “You... you are unlike any man I have ever known.” He spoke.

Martin grinned. “Careful... words like that sound much better coming from Dysea’s lips and not yours.”

Vengal could not help the smile that split his face. He looked at the knife Martin had handed him and flipped it in his hand returning it to Martin pommel first. “You have given me back hope Martin Hunter.” He said calmly. “I no longer need blood to sate my anger, only to feel my arms around my daughter once more.”

Martin nodded and took the knife. He looked at him briefly before his arm whipped out with the speed of a striking pit viper. Vengal heard the wet thud and soft grunt and his eyes went wide as the leader of this group of slavers slowly keeled over, the Shakur imbedded to the hilt in his forehead. Vengal allowed his eyes to slowly turn back to Martin.

“You... you never intended to hang him did you?” Vengal spoke.

Martin met his eyes as Ealin stepped from behind him to lean over the slaver’s body. He spit on the man’s lifeless form before yanking the blade out of his head and wiping it clean on the man’s shirt.

“I told you... I made a promise. And I just kept it. Why don’t we move to Ash Fork and you can see the general set up of our settlements. We have about two hours before Ben returns to take us back to Eden.” Martin answered him as he took the Shakur back from Ealin. Martin looked up into the cloudless sky as he motioned Vengal to where Thon’hin and Charles waited in the light Hopper.

It is done brother. He cast out the words with his mind.

LAS VEGAS/PHOENIX INTERSTATE TUNNEL

It is done brother.

The words echoed in Danny’s mind and he allowed a small smile to pry his lips apart. He nodded his head and turned back slowly to see Anuk moving up behind him, navigating the fallen rocks and rusted hulks of the four hundred plus year old vehicles that jammed the tunnel.

Dan felt the burning in his blood for her, and had ever since he had smelled the scarf given to him by Vengal in the Raptor. Her rust colored red hair was dirty and grimy, her face dusty but determined. It had taken all of his will power to ignore the sight of her naked breasts while he treated her wound. To him, her body was a wonderland that he wanted to explore for hours on end. Her cinnamon scent filled his senses every waking moment. This was the woman he wanted for his mate. Having her Danny knew would complete the most powerful urge and need he had as an animal hybrid Genome, or whatever he truly was and that was to find a mate. He had felt Dysea become one with their small group this morning, her mind melding with his and the others, bringing a soothing warmth to all of them. His brother had chosen well as the Alpha male of their pack. Dysea's essence and spirit bespoke of intelligence and strength. She was the first to have joined them in nearly a decade, and after the loss of so many of their brothers and sisters in Mountain City, Dysea was like a breath of fresh air. Dan smiled to himself, happy that Martin had found the first of his eternal mates. He didn't know who else his brother coveted, but he knew there was one other female who stirred his blood in the same fashion as the Wood Elf Queen, and perhaps more.

Martin had always been the most private of their group, perhaps because he was the first and older than all of them by a few hours. While many of their pack would open their minds to the group on occasion, Martin always kept his secrets and desires walled behind mental shields that were impervious to anyone within the pack. There had been challenges to his leadership, especially after they had turned the other members of their Genome unit to keep them from the disease that had ravaged the Genome units across the globe. None of them had come close to succeeding, and over the years they had all come to trust Martin to lead them without fail. Dysea was the only one he knew of to ever have broken through the barriers his brother had in place, and that proved to all of them that she would be a worthy Alpha female in terms of power and wisdom.

Dan shook his head as he realized Anuk had reached where he was standing and was staring at him. Her cinnamon scent washed over him as he looked at her.

"What?" Anuk asked.

Dan smiled. "Justice has been served." He replied softly. "Let's keep moving; those medical supplies are just ahead, and hopefully some real food."

Anuk watched him turn away from her and continue forward. She watched him for a long moment, marveling at how he moved so lightly for a man his size. This was a very different man than she was used to dealing with. When he looked at her, Anuk saw a burning desire in his dark eyes. An almost animal like craving that wanted to possess her, and even though Anuk hardly knew this black skinned giant, she found herself wanting to lose herself in that craving. She knew what lust and savagery looked like in a man's eyes, and that was not what she saw in Daniel's dark eyes. It was a different kind of lust... and for reasons she could not explain... she reveled in the sensations that just being close to him caused to ripple through her.

Anuk's eyes followed him for another moment before she looked out across the expanse of the massive tunnel. The slight movement caught her attention as she shifted her eyes upward until she saw the dark military pack dangling high above them. The rope was holding it secure and it appeared to have been lower through some sort of shaft in the huge ceiling.

"Daniel! Look!" She called pointing to the pack high above them.

Dan followed her motion and he grinned as he saw the pack. Now he just had to find a way to get it down. He gripped the K-12 and pulled it from the web holster on his leg and reached into his vest for the silencer. He looked over to glance at Anuk and froze, his eyes going wide. She was standing with her feet slightly apart and aiming her handgun at the ceiling.

"Anuk! No!" He shouted.

The sharp report of the 40mm shot rang out in the tunnel like rolling thunder, the echo caroming through the huge tunnel like a wave. Danny watched the rope holding the pack snap and the black bundle fell the two hundred meters to the tunnel floor, landing in a cloud of four hundred year old dust. Dan saw the brightness of Anuk's face and the pride in what she had accomplished. She scampered toward where he moved to collect the pack, his eyes searching the darkness far ahead of them as he squatted next to the pack on the tunnel floor.

"I did it!" Anuk exclaimed as she came up. "I always was a good shot my father told me."

Dan turned to look at her, his eyes filled with anger. Anuk's smile vanished instantly. "That was a singularly stupid thing to do!" He snapped at her.

"I was trying to help Daniel!" She snapped back on the defensive. "I thought you would be happy!"

Dan lifted his K-12 and the silencer. "No sound!" He hissed. "Our voices don't carry more than a hundred meters or so. The sound of a gunshot will echo off these walls for hours! Anyone or anything that calls these tunnels home now knows that something else is down here, namely us!" Dan bent over and snatched up the pack. "Fuck!"

He turned again as his keen eyes began searching for a place to hole up until he was sure that nothing was coming down the tunnel. His eyes found the small crevice that appeared to be an old toll booth of some sort. He grabbed Anuk's arm. "C'mon." He barked pulling her towards the crevice.

SALINA

Tarifa stood among the crowd of people in Salina's main square; her eyes searching the many faces for any sign of someone she hoped would be here. There were smiling and cheering men, women and children as they greeted their Queen, but not who she wished for. Aihola sensed this from her and leaned close to her ear.

"Ka uk zhah 'zil imposing 'zil dos inbal descibed ussta ssinssrigg," Aihola spoke to her in Drow. "Uk orn'la kyorl hwuen klezn inbal calmed p'los contacting dos." (If he is as imposing as you say my love, he would wait until things have calmed before contacting you.)

Tarifa looked at her and nodded with an impish grin. "Thank you Nya Istel." She replied softly. "My head is not my own."

Tarifa turned as Kadeem made his way through the crowds and bowed to her and the ministers behind her. "My Queen, Salina welcomes you and the esteemed Ministers to our humble city."

Tarifa nodded her head politely. "You honor me Governor." She spoke.

Kadeem smiled. "We have prepared a rather elaborate feast my Queen. Perhaps you would prefer to freshen up in the private quarters we have assigned for your use while here in Salina. They are on the eastern side of our fair city, and the most defensible as I already confirmed with Dragoon Commander Cantel."

Tarifa detected the very subtle shift in his tone and she smiled. "That would be very welcome Governor, as long as the Commander approves. And you have arranged similar accommodations for my guests Governor?"

"Of course my Queen, however they are in the western portion of the city near where our merchant market is." Kadeem spoke. "I assumed they would want to busy themselves with what Salina has to offer. I hope I assumed correctly."

Tarifa looked at the three Ministers standing behind and to her right. "Minister Raloo, does that meet with your approval?"

Raloo nodded slowly, "Of course my Queen." He spoke.

Tarifa nodded. "Governor, my husband Commander Telan may be joining us in a day or so. Please inform your security he is to be directed to our quarters when he arrives."

Kadeem nodded, "As you wish." He motioned with his hand, "If you will allow me the honor of escorting you to your quarters my Queen. My Assistant Governor will guide the Ministers."

Tarifa smiled and took his arm. "Please... I would like that."

Raloo looked at Treblar and Thimina. "I didn't realize that Telan would be joining us." He spoke.

"Nor did I." Treblar spoke.

Minister Thimina nodded her head. "Tarifa mentioned it to me just before we left. Telan may be able to break away from the training exercise he is on, and he will come directly here."

"She did not mention this in the Council session." Treblar spoke.

"It is not something a woman would think to discuss with other men. Telan is her husband, and it came up among other things that women talk about." Thimina replied with a smile.

They watched as the young looking elf stepped up to them, "If you will accompany me Ministers." He said.

Raloo turned one last time and saw that Kadeem was pointing out something inane along the street he and Tarifa were walking along. Raloo shrugged. Kadeem was in their pocket anyway, and should Tarifa attempt to do something out of character, they would be informed immediately. Raloo was not entirely convinced that she had done this dramatic turn around in only a few short weeks.

Tarifa smiled at the young child that greeted her as they walked, Cantel and Aihola the only others with them. Tarifa held tightly to Kadeem's arm.

"Are they here?" She asked softly, all the while maintaining the charming smiling face to the crowd that gathered along the streets.

"They are waiting for you my Queen." He answered, the fake smile never leaving his face.

"The Ministers?" She asked.

"They will be attended to my Queen." He spoke softly. "Any of them would have to cross almost the entire city to reach where you will be staying. Any number of a hundred of my people would set off a prearranged alarm should they get within ten blocks."

"It seems you have taken it upon yourself to become quite close with those in Eden City Governor." Tarifa said.

Kadeem looked at her, sudden worry in his eyes. "I did it... I did it for my people my Queen. Those that follow the Falre Lome protect us from the few small scum that still hide within the mountains. We have prospered more in the nearly half year trading with them than the last decade with the other High Elf cities. I..."

Tarifa held up her hand. "You mistake my comment for criticism when it was merely an observation. I am in no way angry with what you have done, and in truth it is I who should be apologizing to you for neglecting the outlying cities as much as I have."

"You have not been yourself these last months my Queen." Kadeem told her.

"Do you know how many other High Elf cities have been secretly trading with Eden?" Tarifa asked.

Kadeem looked at her, "Five others that I know of my Queen." He answered honestly. "But as Eden City grows, more free settlements come under their wing."

"What do you mean?" Tarifa asked intrigued.

"You must see Eden City for yourself my Queen. I have been there several times and it is a place of wonder. Children play in the streets, humans and elves stroll in the parks together. They work side by side. It is amazing."

"And these free settlements you mentioned." Tarifa asked.

"At last count twenty-three settlements have formed." Kadeem spoke. "We trade with many of them. They number from several hundred to the largest of thirteen thousand in terms of population, humans and elves alike. They have built much smaller versions of Eden City, and receive both financial and military support from Eden."

"Financial support?" Tarifa asked. "How is that possible? Eden City and the Falre Lome are still only rumors in most circles. How could Martin have established a financial system already?"

"I do not know the details my Queen, only that it is so." Kadeem answered. They stopped outside the large three story concrete home. Tarifa looked at it, seeing the fresh flowers adorning the balconies above, and the recent security measures that had been put in place, to include cameras and motion sensors. "It is the oldest building within our walls." Kadeem told her. "It is said that there are many tunnels that dot the landscape below our city, and some that even come up into this very building."

Tarifa looked at him when he said that and she saw the glint of knowledge in those eyes. She smiled and bowed her head. "I'm sure they are just myths governor." She spoke.

Kadeem met her smile, "Perhaps." He bowed his head. "I will return to escort you and the others to the celebration just after dark. It promises to be an incredible party."

Tarifa watched him blend back into the streets. Cantel stepped forward and looked at Tarifa. "My Queen... I am going to do a sweep of the perimeter. I will take up position at the front door when I am finished, and insure you are not disturbed."

Tarifa nodded, "Thank you Cantel, for everything."

Tarifa turned back to look at the home and reached out with her hybrid senses, trying to detect any scents that were familiar to her. A small smile split her lips as Aihola stepped up next to her.

"Who do you smell?" She asked, knowing what Tarifa was doing.

"Dysea is here, but her scent is... it is different somehow." Tarifa answered. "I believe it is Anja with her and Radama too." Tarifa opened her eyes. "Martin's scent is very weak, as if he is far away."

Aihola nudged her forward. "We must go in my love." She whispered. "It would look silly to remain out here and continue to stare at the walls."

Tarifa looked at her and almost laughed. They moved to the front door which was already open and walked through it.

The windows in the dining room were covered by thick silk curtains to block the bright sun in the east. It also did not allow for anyone to see into the room, and this is where Tarifa found Dysea and the others waiting. She stopped only momentarily as she watched Dysea rise from the chair. There was something different about her, something powerful and almost animal in nature. This was not the same Dysea who had left her weeks earlier. This Dysea was even leaner and more toned than before, her hair sparkling in the light. Her skin almost glowed in radiance, and her emerald eyes were far brighter than Tarifa remembered. When she saw the smile spread across Dysea's face those thoughts were forgotten and they moved quickly to embrace.

"Dysea!" Tarifa gasped, squeezing the shorter woman in her arms and feeling the extraordinary power of Dysea's embrace.

Dysea released her quickly with a slightly embarrassed smile. "Forgive me Tarifa. I forget my strength."

Tarifa looked at her, holding her hands. "You... you are different Dysea." She spoke.

"I will tell you and Aihola more when we have more time." She spoke. "It is so very good to see you."

It was as if two giddy school girls had discovered one another again as they launched into a series of questions and answers directed at each other. Anja couldn't help but smile as she stood to the side. She saw the tall Drow female, taller than her own five foot three anyway, watching carefully and walked up to her.

"You must be Aihola." She said holding out her hand.

Aihola gazed at this petite red head and rightfully deduced there was more to this stunning young woman than any first glance would tell. She was not entirely human, as her aura was a lighter shade of green than normal humans. She took the hand and found the hand shake to be friendly and warm and accepting. Aihola began to relax then and she allowed a smile to touch her lips.

"Yes. I am..."

"You're Tarifa's lover Aihola." Anja spoke quickly but with a bright smile. "Yes I know. Her scent is all over you."

Aihola turned a deep red, and thanked the gods it would not show through her ebony skin. "You are... you are a Genome?" She asked.

Anja shook her head, "A hybrid actually." She answered, extremely comfortable with who and what she was. She saw the question in Aihola's eyes and waved her hand. "It's a long boring story." She said. She held out the small box. "This is for you."

Aihola looked at her oddly as she took the small box. "What is it?" She asked.

"It is a permanent solution to your... issue." Anja replied as diplomatically as she could.

Aihola eyes grew wide at this news. She had never expected this, already consigning herself to having to take the drug Dysea had given her for the rest of her life. Her fingers trembled as they opened the box and she saw the small container with four pills in it.

"One pill a week for four weeks." Anja told her. "It will counteract the chemicals in your body within one month and return your system to normal. It was quite easy to produce actually." Anja stepped closer to her, apprising Aihola and liking very much what she saw. "That was all... that was all they did you?" She asked.

Aihola met her eyes. "It was enough." She replied softly. "I was barely able to function as it was."

Anja nodded. "True enough." She spoke. "Forgive me for being forward, but we are not going to get many chances like this to talk and learn about each other. I just want to make sure I do all I can to help."

Aihola held up the small container. "This does far more than you know." She replied. "That is all it will take, these small pills?" Aihola asked still disbelieving.

Anja nodded with a smile. "I do good work." She spoke brightly.

Aihola found herself liking this human female immediately. She was honest and up front, and full of optimism, and very easy to look at. Aihola appraised her just as Anja had done seconds before and decided that yes, this woman could share her bed with Tarifa.

"Anja... forgive me." Tarifa's voice spoke and Anja turned to embrace Tarifa.

Dysea looked at Aihola with her emerald eyes, and Aihola found she could not meet her gaze. "Dysea... I... I did not..."

Dysea stepped up to her and took her hands. “Never apologize to me Aihola.” She spoke. “You and Tarifa did only what your hearts told you to do. I do not hold any anger for you in my heart, quite the opposite in fact. We will talk more, but for now let us get going.”

Aihola looked at her, then to Tarifa who had a confused look on her face as well. “Where are we going?” Aihola asked.

Dysea smiled. “You did not think I came alone did you.” She said, “Radama?”

They turned and watched as Radama touched the wood cabinet that held the fine china. It slid to the side soundlessly, revealing a stone passageway that headed down.

Dysea looked at them as Anja and Radama entered the passageway, “This way.”

The tunnel angled downward at a ten degree slope, and was lit with torches every hundred feet or so. The stone walls were cool and worn smooth from centuries of use it seemed. The passageway took them along a twisting path and finally opened into a massive cave where the sunlight poured in from the huge opening in the side. They could see the MH-19 Raptor sitting idle on the ground, having flown into the mammoth opening in the cave and settling to the ground. They were easily two hundred feet above the floor of the cave, the stalactites far above their heads reaching easily fifty feet down from the ceiling.

Dysea led them down the path that had been carved into the rock and twenty minutes later they were on the same level as the Raptors. There were people standing around the ramp and Aihola slowed her steps as she recognized the taller Drow warrior. Tarifa picked up on this immediately and looked at her.

“Nya Istel?” She questioned. “What is it?”

“The Drow,” Aihola replied as they walked.

“You know her I take it?” Dysea asked as she fell in on the opposite side of Aihola, concern on her face now as well.

Aihola nodded. “Yes.”

“Why do I sense there is something else in your voice Nya Istel?” Tarifa asked, slowing her steps even more, concern clearly on her face. “Is she a threat?”

Aihola looked at Tarifa and Tari’s words came back to her. She took a deep breath and smiled. “She is no threat Tarifa.” She answered.

“You are sure?” Dysea asked.

Aihola nodded. “We had a relationship many years ago.” Aihola spoke softly. “She was the dominant one.”

Tarifa looked at her. “Aihola... I thought that... I thought we were...”

Aihola met her eyes and even though she had shared pleasure with Dysea, it was Tarifa who she worried about upsetting. “It is not as you think ussta ssinsrugg.” She spoke softly. “Lynwe zhah equipped saph natha nesst.” Aihola’s lips curled up in a small sad smile, “Natha ves izznarg nesst. Il 'udtila naut zhaun vel'bol ol zhah ulu satiir vel'bol dos lu' Usstan satiir whol weth byr; Ol morfethen ilta hasstn foldraevals, Il zhah unable do'bauth l' culture d'udossta draeval p'los.” (Lynwe is equipped like a man, a very large man. She does not know what it is to feel what you and I feel for each other. It makes her angry sometimes, and she is unable to escape the culture of our past.)

“It has been a long time since you have seen her Aihola.” Tarifa spoke squeezing her hand. “Perhaps things will have changed.”

Aihola nodded, “Perhaps. That she would come with you now is very unlike her.” Aihola looked at Dysea. “Tari... where is he Dysea?”

“He will be waiting for you when we get to Eden.” Dysea answered. “He has been working closely with Julie the last week or so, and they were on a short mission this morning when we left. He is fairly busting at the seams to see you Aihola.” She said with a smile.

Aihola’s eyes smiled at that and she nodded. “I feel the same.” She said. “It has been...”

“Aihola!” Lynwe’s voice echoed loudly in the cave and they watched the tall Drow warrior move quickly to their small group.

Aihola hesitated and she felt Tarifa squeeze her hand once more in support. She had been with Lynwe many times, always as the submissive Drow. The times with her were for the most part quite pleasant, but there were times when her anger got the better of her and she could hurt you with as large a package of equipment that she had. It surprised her when Lynwe embraced her ever so gently and held her like a lost sister. She held Aihola in front of her with gleaming amber eyes.

“You do not know how glad we were to discover you lived Little One.” Lynwe said softly. “Your brother and I sang a song that night.”

Aihola smiled because she could say nothing due to her loss of words. “How... how is Anari?” She asked finally.

Lynwe’s face changed just a little but she smiled. “She is well. She went with the flying ship to Martin Hunter’s base on the moon Aihola. I do not mind flying high, but that is beyond me. She jumped at the chance.”

Aihola now smiled genuinely. Anari had always been the more adventurous of the two of them and hearing the way Lynwe spoke of her with the emotion that she was caused Aihola to think perhaps Lynwe had changed.

They both heard Tarifa’s gasp beside them and they turned to look at her. Her sapphire eyes were wide and they were gazing towards the rear of the Raptor. Aihola followed her gaze, and was shocked to feel her breath catch in her throat as well as her eyes settled on the tall, heavily muscled man who had walked off the flying machine next to the much shorter and older elf. Tarifa’s gasp had caused him to turn, and Aihola saw his eyes then. Even the few dozen meters that were between them did not dim the brightness of those liquid dark brown eyes. In only a heartbeat Aihola knew what Tarifa meant when she spoke of this man.

Aihola saw that he did not even excuse himself from the older elf as he started toward them. Tarifa did not give him the chance and burst into a sprint towards Martin. He caught her when she leaped into his arms. It did not escape Aihola’s notice, or Dysea and Anja who stood next to her, that there was no kiss between Martin and Tarifa. It was an embrace of something not of passion, but of love with respect.

Tarifa’s heart sang as she felt Martin’s powerful arms crush her body to him, his face buried in her hair. They held each other for several minutes just like that, Tarifa actually suspended in the air in his embrace, the tears flowing from her eyes and splashing wetly onto his shoulder. For Tarifa, this was what she needed. Not the breath stealing kisses, or the pleasure of his enormous manhood, but simply the way his arms could hold her and make everything seem completely focused. She had not seen him in almost six months, and it now seemed like only yesterday. She pulled her head back slowly and took his face in her hands before kissing him very tenderly on the lips.

“Oh I have missed you Martin.” She spoke between sobs.

“No more than I have missed you Tarifa.” Martin answered, nuzzling her cheek with his nose. “It has been far too long since I have held you in my arms.”

Tarifa looked at him with a surprised but brilliant smile. “Your speech is improving Martin. You sound almost like an elf now.”

Martin burst out laughing and spun her around in his arms before setting her down and caressing her face. Everyone had given them a respectful distance and Martin gazed into her sapphire eyes. “How... how have you been Tarifa?” He asked softly.

“I was... I was almost lost Martin.” She answered him quietly. “If not for the support you and Dysea have for me, I would have been.”

“You are stronger than you know Tarifa. Never doubt that.” Martin told her. “And now you have someone that holds your heart, even more than I once did. That makes me very happy.”

Tarifa looked at him her eyes wide. “How... you can smell her can’t you?” She said with a small smile.

“She does smell quite tasty.” Martin answered returning the smile.

“Martin... I...” Tarifa spoke quickly, feeling the need to explain what had happened between her and Aihola.

Martin shook his head slowly. “Do not go there Tarifa.” He told her softly. “You have no need to explain yourself to me or to anyone. And as I’m learning you can not control what your heart tells you, so are you.”

“I... I do not wish you to think that I...” Tarifa said looking into his dark eyes. “My... our time together was..., but... Aihola...”

Martin took a deep breath and took her hands in his. “Walk with me.” He said softly, drawing her towards the front of the cave. Tarifa grasped his arm tightly and held it with both arms as they moved to the edge of the massive cave and looked out over the expanse of open landscape before them. The cave was easily three hundred feet off the floor of the valley, and it gave them an unobstructed view of the mountains.

“It is possible to love in ways not of physical pleasure Tarifa. I’m learning that as I go along, because it is what I feel for you. You... you have become like the sister I never had, the true sister.” He told her.

Tarifa smiled gently, still grasping his arm. “You have remade Dysea Martin.” She spoke softly. “It suits her you know, and her love and devotion to you wafts from her pores.”

“And I love her with equal passion and devotion, if not more.” Martin said. “She burns like a sun within my blood.”

“But you are not yet complete Martin; I sense that in you and her.” Tarifa touched a finger to his chest directly over his heart. “Not in here.”

Martin nodded slowly. “I know. I am hoping to rectify that one day.”

Tarifa glanced over to the Raptor and her eyes saw Anja standing at the bottom of the ramp, her Jade green eyes watching them. She turned back to Martin. “She still loves you Martin. With all that she is; as does Dysea. Do not wait too long, I don’t wish you to endure the pain I felt when I thought I had lost everything.”

“What about you Tarifa?” Martin asked looking at her. “Does this Aihola complete you?”

Tarifa nodded with a bright smile. “She does Martin. More than I am able to put into words.” She looked at him, putting her hand to his face. “I will always need you Martin, for your own words explain exactly as I feel.”

Martin’s eyes smiled at her. “But for you as well as me... our true souls reside with others.”

Tarifa couldn’t help but chuckle. “You do sound more like an elf Martin. My mother would be very impressed.”

Martin matched her laugh and nodded. “Normya, Dysea’s mother has said the same thing. It must be the company I’m keeping these days.”

“Aihola... Nya Istel... knows my feelings for you. The bond we share, and always will share, the three of us.” Tarifa spoke. “That she is strong enough to accept they will never change and she still loves me as she does; it is proof to me that I was destined to be with her; just as you were destined to be with Dysea.”

Martin nodded. “I do.” He spoke softly. “Her scent is clear and powerful. She is quite a find.”

Tarifa nodded. “And she burns within me, just as Dysea burns within you. And... and she sees in you what I do. And that is the future for all our peoples.”

Martin smiled and took her hands in his. “Yes well... that is something for another time and place perhaps. And as for right now let me show you what we have built. How much time do you have before you and Aihola need to return?”

Tarifa smiled, “Several hours. The celebration will not begin until dark.”

Martin nodded. “That is plenty of time.” He took her hand. “Follow me.”

Martin led her to the rear of the Raptor and they walked up inside, but not before Martin gazed at Anja for a long moment. Anja’s heart fluttered within the grasp of his eyes, but then he was gone and she was alone again. She started to walk up the ramp and stopped when Dysea stepped in front of her.

“I was wondering if perhaps you might be able to show me some of the martial arts moves you learned from Daniel and Julie after we have returned Tarifa and Aihola this evening.” Dysea spoke.

Anja looked at her. “Don’t you want to spend time with Tarifa?” Anja asked.

Dysea nodded. “Yes... but at the moment I would much rather spend that time with you.”

A flash of anger blossomed in Anja and her eyes flared. All things aside, regardless of her feelings, Anja would not be second fiddle to anyone. “Dysea I don’t want...”

Dysea could smell the anger on her before she even began to speak and she stepped closer to her. “No Anja...” She spoke, interrupting her words. “My intent is not what you think it to be.”

“It isn’t?” Anja asked.

Dysea remembered Martin’s words to her that morning as she gazed at Anja. “Perhaps in the future, if you are willing.” Dysea said boldly. “But I really would prefer to spend time with you, unless that is not your desire as well.”

Anja looked at her for a long moment. She knew without a doubt that she wanted Dysea, yet she also knew there was much more to her feelings for the blond elf than she was ready to admit to herself. She nodded with a small smile deciding that it could not hurt to spend time with her. "I... I think I would like that." She said finally.

Dysea stepped even closer and touched Anja's face with her fingers. The warmth of her finger tips sent an electric shock through Anja's veins and she could not tear her eyes from Dysea's face. "You have nothing to fear from me Anja?"

Anja lowered her eyes quickly. "That... that isn't why I..." She said softly.

Dysea shook her head. "I can smell your desire for me as surely as you smell mine for you Anja." She spoke softly, so that only Anja could hear her. Dysea had to be careful. She desperately wanted this woman, to feel her wrapped around her body, to taste her skin. There was an aura that surrounded Anja that even Tarifa did not have. It very nearly matched the aura that surrounded her beloved, and it drew her like a moth to the flame. Yet Dysea also wanted to know Anja in a way that transcended physical means, just as she now knew Martin. "We share something in common you and I Anja Peterson." Dysea spoke softly; her words coming out like a soothing rhythm of soft music. "There are only two people who now hold sway over Martin's heart Anja. Two people that he would give his very soul for if they asked him. I have come to realize that I am one of those people. I had no idea that I would feel attracted to the other in the way I am attracted to you. Yes... I want to taste you, explore you... but more than anything else I want to know you Anja. And I want to know what drives Nauta Melme and I to love and desire you so completely."

Dysea turned quickly and walked up into the Raptor leaving Anja as she raised the ramp and contemplated her words.

And I want to know what drives Nauta Melme and I to love and desire you so completely.

Anja's eyes grew a little wider as the meaning of Dysea's words finally hit her and she looked at Dysea as she sat down next to Aihola with a smile and they began to talk.

NEW MIAMI

Marcus entered Yuri's beach front home, all of his senses alive. He could smell the pungent odor of sex and his keen ears picked up the muffled groans and harsh voices coming from the second floor. He had flown here from New Richmond as soon as he had dispensed with Minister Wiseman. The man had begged for his life for a full hour, the Chief Interrogator prolonging the agonizing pain of the acid covered blades and barbed whips. In the end the once proud Minister was a whimpering pile of bloody flesh and Marcus was satisfied. Wiseman's body would never be found as it now resided in the bellies of several berserk Grizz beasts that were kept for disposing of unwanted evidence. Marcus would have preferred to take out his frustrations on Selene. The red headed whore had made him lose face, and that was something Marcus did not appreciate. It irked him that Wallace had been the one to kill her, more than likely after he had raped her endlessly. The human Admiral was almost as ruthless as Marcus was, but there was also something behind those calm blue eyes that Marcus didn't trust.

His Mistress had summoned him here no doubt to punish him, and as he made his way up the stairs he knew how she was going to do it. The sounds of sex filled the hallway upstairs and Marcus walked to the room that he knew would be in use. He pushed open the door and the heat and smell of sex nearly bowled him over. It was a windowless room with only the large round bed in the center. Marcus clenched his fists tight as he saw what he had dreaded.

There were four Genome soldiers in the room, all of them naked and sweaty. The Colonel lay on the bed on his back. Yuri sat astride his lower body with her back against his chest. His hands were wrapped around her huge breasts and he was pawing them like an animal, pinching her nipples until she whimpered, his cock completely embedded in Yuri's tight ass. There was a black genome above her, grunting and slamming his own cock deeply into Yuri's sopping pussy, each powerful plunge into her depths causing copious amounts of male and female juices to squirt hideously from around his pounding shaft. Her lower body was covered in dark bruises from where their hands had squeezed her skin so tight they broke blood vessels beneath the skin. Judging from the amount of bruising Marcus guessed they had been fucking his Mistress for at least a full day. Her taut olive skinned body was slick with sweat that mingled with cum. They had obviously been spewing their loads all over her velvet skin at their leisure.

The reason for her muffled cries became evident when he saw the second black genome standing over her head, his fist tangled in her radiant black hair and he was savagely ramming his nearly ten inch cock deeply into her throat. Horrible gagging sounds filled the room every time he brutally rammed his cock in, and all it was doing was spurring him on. He held her long black hair and was pulling on it viciously, forcing her head back further so he could shove more of his cock into her beautiful mouth. Her silky throat was distended abnormally and Marcus could almost see the thick shaft invading her mouth without regard.

The fourth genome was kneeling next to the pile of bodies madly stroking his glistening cock and preparing to explode over his Mistress's red and bruised breasts. He was the first to cum, his chest swelling with air as he leaned over her beautiful chest and large nipples and sprayed a huge amount of cum over her bouncing breasts. The thick white liquid coated her breasts completely, running down between her firm globes to saturate and pool on her abdomen.

"Fuck yeah! Swallow it all bitch!" The black genome grunted as he rammed his cock deeper into Yuri's mouth and his large balls pulsed with a life of their own as they unloaded an enormous load of cum into her throat. Yuri gagged terribly, her throat flexing and swallowing, trying to keep up with the flow to no avail. Long strands of his cum spilled from her ruby red lips obscenely spread around his erupting cock, rolling back onto her face and into her silky hair.

A third grunt of release and the black genome fucking her tight pussy slammed into her one final time, his ass clenching in release as he spewed deep inside her beautiful cunt. Only the Colonel remained and as his team mate slowly climbed off the bed, his hands lifted Yuri by her beautiful ass cheeks. Her eyes flew open, her lips still locked around the thick black cock in her mouth as he lifted her hips until only the head of his enormous cock remained inside her. Marcus knew what was coming next and he shut his eyes tightly. The Colonel shifted his hands and lifted his hips off the bed while pulling Yuri's hips down savagely. Her hands shoved the black genome away from her mouth and she screamed as that nearly fourteen inch cock savaged her beautiful ass, plunging into her with no regard for pleasure. The Colonel was only worried about getting himself off, and he repeated this action four more times, each time her scream cutting through Marcus as easily as any knife. Yuri was cumming continuously, her sweet juices spilling from her battered pussy like a gushing faucet.

"Fuck yeah! Here it comes boys!" The Colonel yelled out. He reached around the front of her body and grabbed her firm melons viciously, pulling her body down even harder upon his cock. Marcus opened his eyes in time to see his balls swell massively and then Yuri's eyes flew open, filled with tears and she squealed like a pig stuck on a barbecue spear as the Colonel's hot cum erupted within her bowels like a fire hose.

Then it was over and Marcus had to watch as the Colonel rolled over on top of Yuri, pulling his thick softening cock from her now stretched asshole with a loud plop. He slapped the long shaft against her ass cheeks several times and his men chuckled in amusement. Yuri groaned in a contented hum, stretching her lithe body on the bed and sat up slowly.

"I must say boys; it has been an extremely fun time." Yuri spoke now, her voice still tingling in the aftermath of her orgasm. We will have to do this more often I can tell."

"Whenever you direct us Madam President," The Colonel snickered. "Next time I can bring more of my men."

Yuri smiled seductively as she threw her long legs over the side of the bed. Marcus noticed that the sheets were covered in more cum and soaked with sweat and bodily fluids, indicating they had been fucking his Mistress for longer than he first thought. "Now that sounds absolutely divine." Yuri purred. "Make yourselves some food before you leave boys. I wouldn't want it to get out that I left you all depleted of energy and didn't feed you."

The four genomes chuckled as they headed for the door. They all snickered at him as they moved past carrying their clothes, completely oblivious to the fact they were naked. The genome Colonel stopped at the door, his gray eyes burning into Marcus for a split second. "I will report back as soon as our mission is accomplished Madam President." He called back over his shoulder.

"Thank you Colonel." Yuri spoke getting to his feet. "Please leave instructions that I am not to be disturbed for at least another four hours. That is how long it will take Colonel Marcus here to lick my body clean I believe. He likes to take his time."

The Colonel laughed as he brushed past Marcus. "Yes ma'am."

“Come in Marcus.” Yuri spoke sweetly. “I believe you know what to do for failing to capture and kill one old man, his wife and a dozen or so elf slaves. I am beginning to lose faith in your abilities Marcus.”

“They had assistance Mistress.” He spoke.

“Yes... so I understand.” Yuri replied moving to the blank wall and pressing her hand against it. The wall pushed back and exposed a large bar and Marcus watched as she poured a fair amount of the red liquid into the glass. She lifted it to her lips and drank heartily before pouring another and turning to look at him, her dark eyes cruel.

“The local security detachment commander refused to authorize the storage of anti-air missiles in their armory.” Marcus spoke. “With those I could have shot down the helicopters and killed any who survived the crashes.”

“Does this commander still live?” Yuri asked.

“I slit his belly open myself Mistress.” Marcus spoke savagely.

Yuri walked up to him, reaching out with her hand to stroke his face as she glided around him. “And your excuse for allowing an elf sympathizer to infiltrate the highest levels of our government?”

“Selene Torcram’s appointment was not within my purview Mistress, you now that?” Marcus spoke. “Am I to blame now for allowing her the access she had when I was not even in New Richmond for her appointment?”

“You have overall command of the New Richmond Security Force.” Yuri spoke, still moving around him. “The background checks on the ministers are to be conducted every six months and reviewed by you. Was this not done?”

“It was Mistress. Nothing came back to red flag Selene’s actions or sympathies.” He answered.

“So we have had a half elf on our Council Board for several years now and you knew nothing about it?” Yuri asked.

Marcus looked at her, “Mistress?”

Yuri smiled. “Ah... you didn’t know she was a half elf did you Marcus?”

“No Mistress I didn’t.” He answered, taken completely off guard.

“That’s because you did not look hard enough.” Yuri finished. “I’m only sorry that she did didn’t live and return with you. I would have enjoyed tasting her before I killed her.” She walked to the bar and refilled the glass. “What did you think of Wallace?”

“He is the true power behind the throne Mistress.” Marcus spoke.

Yuri nodded. “Yes he is.” She spoke. “The question is; who does he serve? Will he be friend or foe? The resources on that station could be a great boon for us. What is your opinion?”

“I do not believe we should trust him Mistress.” Marcus replied.

“Why?”

“He is motivated only by power.” Marcus replied. “The more he has the more he will want. I believe he will be a threat to the Alliance, and to you.”

Yuri laughed. “Wallace is human and therefore no threat to me.” She spoke. “However, you are correct that he could be a threat to the Alliance. I did not know him well in my time on EDEN but what I saw I did not like. We will deal with him for now. If he becomes a problem we will simply take back the station from him. Have you been able to locate the ruling elves?”

“All but Dysea,” Marcus replied. “I reviewed the reports from my agents before coming here Mistress. Dysea’s whereabouts are unknown, though it is possible that she could be dead. The others shift locations frequently, but we have all of their safe houses marked.”

“And what of the plan that involves the High Elf whore Tarifa?” Yuri spoke.

Marcus looked at her. “It is proceeding according to schedule.” He answered. “The Wood Elf Queen assures our people that they will be ready to attack in two months time.”

Yuri nodded. “It will be rewarding to finally kill that bitch and destroy the two largest elf factions in this country. Once we have secured North America we can expand our other international operations.”

“Yes Mistress.” Marcus said, his amber eyes now gazing upon Yuri with undisguised lust. This always happened. If he remained in her presence for too long, the lust overtook him and he would do anything she commanded just to taste her flesh.

Yuri smiled knowingly. “I see you have finally worked yourself into frenzy.” She ran her tongue seductively over her lips moistening them. “Come Marcus... I grow tiresome of all this cum on my body. Clean me with your tongue as your punishment, and perhaps I will reward you.”

Marcus turned and closed the door behind him before turning back to his Mistress. He was hers to command.

SALINA

Tarifa stood on the balcony of the home in Salina, holding a steaming mug of tea in her hands. The thin robe wrapped around her naked body as she stared at the early morning stars and let the cool breeze play across her flesh.

Her trip to Eden City had been unlike anything she had ever experienced. She and Aihola had sat in the cockpit of the Raptor as they approached Eden City, their eyes growing ever wider as the size and scope of what they saw began to hit them. The influx of humans and elves in the last month alone had caused Eden to expand in size to double what Junction City once was. And after they had landed and were taken around the city in an open Hopper they got an idea just how much. It stunned them both to see elves and humans walking on the streets, shopping at the many stores and even sitting in outdoor cafés laughing and actually spending time together. They could hear the laughter of children, and the hum of construction from all across the city as new buildings and facilities were going up almost weekly. Two fully staffed hospitals operated around the clock, with the one large university that had been built in the center of the city now finished with students rushing to classes across the lush green campus.

The homes were modest, yet very comfortable. Tarifa noticed that no one lived in pompous luxury and it seemed that everyone worked. The city teemed with life. She and Aihola also saw the factories on the outskirts of the main city, producing everything from furniture to the machines of war. It was rare to see anyone walking the streets without some sort of firearm, and it appeared as if everyone knew how to use them.

When Martin showed her the Command Center, the heart of Eden City itself, she was speechless. Twenty-three settlements across two and a half states, numbering from several hundred to thirteen thousand strong, just as Kadeem had told her. All of them linked directly to this one building. A single call for assistance and forces from Eden City would be moving in minutes. And she discovered how they had established such a huge financial wealth. They had started from the beginning and raided every old government place of its precious metals, gold, silver, rubies, everything. With this as their backing, one of the first things they had done was print new money. It was this money that they used in trading with the free settlements and other elf cities. When not trading with Eden, the settlements and elf cities used the Alliance credits, but since many of them were now getting almost everything they needed from Eden or one of its free settlements, their stock of Alliance credits was growing, and since the elf cities did not trade directly with the Alliance, their coffers were overflowing. In only six months, Eden and the free settlements aligned with her had become far richer than all twenty-two High Elf cities combined.

It was these things that were running through her mind as she stood on the balcony. Aihola was asleep in their bed, leaving Tarifa to gaze at the stars and bring her mind into focus. The banging on the door downstairs shook her out of her thoughts and caused her to whirl around. She moved quickly into the bedroom only to see Aihola scrambling to throw some clothes on.

“Vel'uss orn'la doer ghil a nindol klew'kin,” Aihola spoke in the ancient Drow language. She and Tarifa had taken to speaking only the ancient tongue when alone, as they felt it brought them closer together. (Who would come here at this hour?)

Tarifa smiled as she watched Aihola pull the thin robe similar to hers on over her luscious body and a small surge of pleasure swept through her loins. “Ka dos insist pholor maintaining nindel gyot udos orn neitar ragar doeb Jabbress; Usstan orn tlu ichl noamuth wund dosst siltrin ulu an'yui l' dobor.” She spoke. (If you insist on maintaining that pose we will never find out Mistress. I will be too lost within your flesh to answer the door.)

Aihola pulled the robe on with a smile and stepped up to her, drawing her into an embrace, pressing their bodies together. “'Zil tempting 'zil nindel ul'tro ussta bronretla rothe, having dosst ilhar ragar udossa while dos ph' pleasuring uns'aa orn'la naut endear ilta ulu uns'aa wun jala i'dol." (As tempting as that sounds my wonderful slave, having your mother find us while you are pleasuring me would not endear her to me in any way.)

Tarifa laughed softly, "But think of the pleasure Mistress." She said, leaning forward and kissing her soft pink lips.

Aihola squeezed her firm ass tightly. "I am trying not too. At least until we discover who is banging on the door at this early hour. Perhaps when I get rid of them you can show me how much you have learned."

"I look forward to that Mistress." Tarifa spoke.

Aihola kissed her gently, "As do I."

Aihola went to the door and her fingers closed around the short barreled automatic on the dresser before she went out into the hallway. She descended the stairs quickly and moved to the door, standing to the side and looking out the small window. She pounded the control panel on the wall and lifted the automatic into the face of Minister Thimina before she brought her hand down again.

"Bang on the door again woman and you will not be able to use your arm for a full day!" Aihola snapped, the automatic not wavering an inch from Thimina's surprised face. She saw a Dragoon move up behind Thimina.

"I tried to stop her, but she would not listen." The Dragoon spoke.

Aihola's amber eyes glared intently at Thimina. "Why are you here at this hour? The Queen still sleeps! Not even the insects are awake yet. Speak quickly before I lose my temper."

The older elf woman smiled in the dim light coming from inside. "I would like to speak with Tarifa." Thimina spoke.

"At this hour woman? You must be insane." Aihola replied. "Are all the High Elf Ministers as lacking in protocol as you?"

"It is very important."

"So is the sun rising in the morning," Aihola snapped. "That does not mean it can be rushed."

"Are you always this protective of the Queen?" Thimina asked calmly. "Or is it because you are the Bounded Lover of our Queen and you are protecting her for some other reason?"

Aihola's face didn't change. "What nonsense do you speak woman?"

"There are but three or four who know the significance of the braids you and Tarifa wear in your hair Aihola." Thimina said calmly, clasping her hands behind her back. "I just happen to be one of them. L'joining d' vesdrac, I believe it's called." (The Joining of Souls)

Aihola's eyes went wide now. "How... how do you know that?" She demanded.

"It is a very moving ceremony if I am not mistaken." Thimina said. "We will have to insure it is conducted soon so that it means something to others as well. I am not your enemy Aihola. And I am certainly not Tarifa's enemy."

"Nya Istel let her in." Tarifa's voice carried softly from behind her.

Aihola lowered the weapon slowly, as Tarifa stepped up behind her. She moved to the side and allowed Thimina to enter the hallway just inside the house, the door sliding shut behind her.

Tarifa looked at Thimina and sipped her tea calmly. "Would you like a cup of tea Minister Thimina?" Tarifa asked. "It's fresh; I brewed it within the last hour."

Thimina looked at Tarifa, realizing she was on very dangerous ground here. She had been watching Tarifa for months, knowing that something was wrong with her early on. She was not the strong willed young Queen that everyone had come to expect, and she and Treblar had spoken many times in private about this. It was only after this Drow Assassin had come into her life had things changed. The old Tarifa had returned, but there was something decidedly different about her. "You... you must trust me greatly to allow me into your realm here." Thimina spoke softly.

Tarifa smiled sweetly, "Not at all Minister." She spoke very calmly stepping up to her. "You will leave this house now in only one of two ways. You will leave as an ally, or you will leave dead. Nya Istel and I are very private when it comes to our relationship, at least for the moment."

Aihola's hand came up and the automatic pressed to her temple. "I will not miss." Aihola growled her amber eyes filled with fire. "And I will know if you are lying."

Thimina felt the beads of sweat begin to form on her forehead as she froze her every movement. Her eyes cut to Tarifa as she stepped in front of her and sipped her tea again. “Why are you here?” Tarifa asked.

“We... Minister Treblar and I wish... we wish to see Eden.” Thimina spoke softly, her throat dry and her voice barely a whisper.

Aihola jacked back the hammer on the automatic in that instant, Tarifa holding the tea in her hands as it froze on the way to her lips. She looked at Thimina, cocking her head slightly to the side.

“And what exactly is this Eden?” Tarifa asked after a brief moment.

“I am no fool Tarifa.” Thimina snapped.

Aihola pressed the automatic harder against her temple. “You will be a dead fool if you do not watch your tone!”

“Tarifa... we are... we are not your enemies!” Thimina spoke quickly, knowing her very life depended on what she said in the next few minutes. She had underestimated the protectiveness and the ruthlessness that Aihola and Tarifa would display, and she knew that the truth was her only way to stay alive, for neither of them would hesitate in splattering her brains all over the wall she stood next to.

“We were with you Tarifa!” Thimina pleaded, “When we first met Martin Hunter! We were with you!”

“And this grants you some sort of acceptance why?” Tarifa asked. “There are only three people who I trust absolutely Minister. And only one of them stands in this room with you and I. May I suggest you begin to make me understand why you have come here, before Nya Istel's finger becomes fatigued and she pulls the trigger.”

“There are four Ministers still loyal to you Tarifa!” Thimina spoke quickly. “The others have sold out our people! When we saw what had happened to you, the drugs Telan had given you, we thought all was lost! And then... and then Aihola came into your life and you became yourself again, but you were different. You accepted your marriage to Telan, which the four of us knew you would never do willingly.” Thimina met her bright sapphire eyes, “Unless you were playing a role for some other purpose.”

“Why should I stand here and listen to anything you have to say?” Tarifa said. “You allowed this to happen! You and the other Ministers have allowed our people to arrive at the brink of annihilation. We stand on the cusp of a war with the Wood Elves that neither of our people will win. And when we have destroyed enough of each other, the Alliance will sweep in and wipe us out completely! I am trying to save my people, and I will do what is necessary to make that attempt. But rest assured Minister... should I fail... Telan, his father and all those who have plotted against me... against our people... they will all die exquisitely painful deaths.”

“So you are playing a role?” Thimina spoke.

“Of course I'm playing a role!” Tarifa snapped. “Nya Istel has more common sense in her big toe than Telan has in his entire putrid body!”

“Then allow... allow us to help you in whatever way we can Tarifa.” Thimina said softly.

“Treblar and I know that Martin Hunter and Dysea still live. We know they have built Eden. What everyone else dismisses as unsubstantiated rumor we know to be fact.”

“And how would you know this Minister?” Tarifa asked.

“Because Raloo and the others are idiots who wouldn't know about something that didn't line their pockets with Alliance credits until it leaped up and bit them in their faces!” Thimina snapped.

“Yet they still hold sway over many.” Tarifa said.

“Yes... but we need to change that.”

“I intend too.” Tarifa spoke firmly. “And I intend to do so very soon.”

“I know where they are keeping your brothers Tarifa?” Thimina spoke.

Thimina blinked and Tarifa was in front of her in that instant, her eyes having changed to the black outlined sapphire orbs, her fangs extending to their full half inch length. Thimina gasped and tried to step back, slamming into the wall as Tarifa pressed closer. Her face showed true fear now, and sweat began to break out across her entire face, her lips quivering.

“Minister Thimina... you stand over a maw of blackness at this moment. And it will claim you if you do not tell me where they are. Do not play games with me Minister, do not attempt to bargain for my favor, tell me where my brothers are and how this information came to you.” Tarifa growled.

Aihola smiled from where she stood. She was seeing her love in rare form, and to see the strength and conviction she was displaying at this moment, Aihola knew they were meant for each other.

“It was never my... it was never my intent to hold this information from you Tarifa.” Thimina spoke softly, fear dripping from her words. Tarifa could smell the fear wafting from her pores and she waited. “It was last week, I was returning to the Ministry building because I had forgotten some work. I saw Telan enter Raloo’s office acting very secretive. I found it suspicious and went to the door. I heard Raloo and Telan speaking, and then they contacted Telan’s father. I could hear that windbag say that Tareif’s sons were being held in a remote prison within the Wastes!”

“The Wastes!” Tarifa gasped, “Where in the Wastes?”

“In Kansas, a place called Dodge City.” Thimina spoke quickly. “I do not lie to you Tarifa.”

“Why should I believe you Minister?” Tarifa exclaimed. “You knew what was going on; what Telan and his father were doing to me. Why did you not stop it?”

“The four of us knew that we could not help you if we were dead.” Thimina replied. “We were ready to act in regards to the drugs, we had a plan, but Aihola stepped into the picture and did it for us.”

“So why come forward now?” Aihola asked.

“While Raloo and the others have dismissed these rumors in regards to the Falre Lome and Eden, we have not. We put out discrete feelers among certain people that we trust. Several reported back about Flagstaff falling, and then Cedar City. They said the cities were razed to the ground, the slavers butchered and the elves and human prisoners freed. The four of us knew that the only person with the skills and knowledge to do this was your Martin Hunter. We have contacts all over the High Elf cities Tarifa, they have told us of the trading going on between Eden and at least three of our cities that we know of. If we were your enemies Tarifa, this information would already be in Raloo’s hands.” Thimina told her.

“Even if everything you say is true, I am limited in what I can do now.” Tarifa spoke. “While Minister Raloo accompanies us I can do nothing out of the ordinary.”

“Raloo is on his way back to Mountain City.” Thimina said. “He has a family emergency. His mistress has mysteriously fallen ill.”

Tarifa looked at the woman with a small smile, “Your doing?” She asked.

“We may only be four my Queen, but we are not entirely helpless.” Thimina answered. “You are not alone my Queen.”

“And what do you intend to do about the Dragoons with the Holy One?” Tarifa asked her.

“They have fallen mysteriously ill as well my Queen.” Thimina spoke. “If what Governor Kadeem tells me is accurate, they will not recover or wake up for at least four days. And it also appears that Telan will be contacting you this day to inform you he has to leave for New Salem. He will be gone four days as well.”

Tarifa glanced at Aihola quickly. “It seems you are able to do quite a bit for only four.” She said, still not convinced.

“I have come to you this morning because we have done everything within our power at this moment.” Thimina said slowly. “Once we realized you were coming to Salina we knew you had to be planning to meet with Hunter and Dysea. We knew that if we were going to act, it needed to be while you were outside of their grasp. Unfortunately... we have expended our resources in what we have done so far.”

Tarifa stared at Thimina for a long moment before her eyes shifted to Aihola, “Dosst ssiggrins ussta ssussun?” She asked in Drow. (What are your thoughts my light?)

Aihola looked at her, “Dos zhaun nindolen lodias alur taga Usstan Tarifa.” (You know these people better than I Tarifa.)

Thimina looked at Tarifa not knowing what to do. While she spoke a few words of the ancient Drow language, amazingly Tarifa appeared to be fluent in it, which was a great surprise as the language hadn’t been used in over two centuries. Not even the Drow that Thimina had known so long ago had used the language. It was thought to have died with their Elders. Thimina did not have any idea what they were discussing and it caused her fear to return.

Tarifa returned her gaze to Thimina, “Nya Istel... if you would be kind enough to ask the good Minister Treblar to come inside please.”

Thimina looked at Tarifa as Aihola moved for the door. “My Queen... he is not...”

Tarifa’s eyes glared at her once more. “Should we have an agreement Minister, to not lie to one another?” She snapped. “I can smell him outside the door... being held by my Dragoon guards.”

Thimina was silent as she absorbed this information. She could smell her fellow Minister through a steel door and even with the cool breeze. How...

Aihola motioned the very worried looking Treblar into the room, closing the door behind him. He lowered his eyes to keep from seeing how Tarifa and Aihola were dressed in only the near transparent robes.

Tarifa looked at him. "Good morning Minister Treblar." She spoke.

"And to you as well my Queen," He answered meeting her eyes. "Though I assume this is not cause for celebration?"

"Indeed." Tarifa replied. "Minister Thimina has been kind enough to fill me in on your plans and your actions." She spoke. "Now I feel I should fill you in on something as well." Tarifa waited until their eyes were fixed on her. "I went to Eden City yesterday..." She spoke seeing their stunned expressions. "I saw Martin and Dysea for several hours. It was wondrous to be with them again, if only for a short time. Aihola and I were given a tour of the city they have built, as well as the other things they have accomplished in these last months. They trust me... they trust Aihola... they do not trust you. You've heard the rumors and stories of Lyca Ohtar?"

Thimina nodded slowly. "Yes... it is said this warrior can transform into a man wolf... a Ngauro."

(Werewolf)

"I will tell you now those stories and rumors are true. Martin and those who follow him have the ability to shift their shapes into Ngauros." Tarifa saw the looks of disbelief on their faces. "I tell you this for two reasons... the first is that I am a member of their "pack" if you will; their circle of life. And by virtue of the bond that Martin and I share, Martin expressed to me yesterday before we left that Aihola is now considered a member of their "pack" as well." Tarifa stepped forward towards them, her eyes fully changed and her fangs extended. "If you betray me... if you betray Aihola... if you betray us in any way... you betray Martin Hunter. I am one of three who have seen him change his form Ministers. Trust me when I tell you that no force on this planet will protect you from him. Not wind, nor rain, nor the thousands of Alliance troops that he may face, none of those things will save you from his wrath. He will hunt you down and strip the skin from your bones before he allows you to die. Do I make myself very clear?"

Thimina and Treblar could only nod their heads quickly in the affirmative. Tarifa smiled sweetly, completely oblivious to the threat she had just made, speaking as if it was the most natural thing in the world.

"Very well, I will contact Martin. I will ask him what you request, but it is he who will decide what is best for him and his people." Tarifa spoke. She looked at Aihola. "Will you see them to the sitting room my love? I'll contact Martin."

Aihola nodded and motioned with the automatic towards the doorway further down the hall.

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

LAS VEGAS/PHOENIX INTERSTATE TRAIN TUNNEL

Anuk opened her eyes slowly, unmoving as she allowed her senses to come fully awake. Her head turned slowly and her cerulean blue eyes came to rest on Danny. He was squatting by the small doorway into the abandoned toll booth they had taken refuge in after her ill advised stunt. He was in almost the exact same position as when he had ushered her off to sleep, looking down the dark tunnel for any danger that might be coming their way.

Anuk had given no thought to the fact that there might be less than friendly individuals within the parts of the tunnel they had not yet traversed; she only thought to... Anuk's eyes grew a little wider. She only thought to attempt to impress Daniel with her skills.

The sudden realization of this fact stunned Anuk. Something had made her want to impress Daniel, to show him that she was not a whiny spoiled brat as he had once called her. She looked at his broad, powerful back as these thoughts raced through her mind. His caramel colored skin almost glowed in the wash of soft white light from the lantern that had been in the pack. His head twitched every few moments as if to search for scents wafting through the stale air of the tunnel. His only derogatory comment had been the initial sentence he had spoken after she fired her weapon. He had not mentioned it after moving to the old toll booth, and he did not mention it while she was practically naked before him as he treated the wound on her side. Anuk had held the fatigue top across her breasts while his large hands had applied a soothing ointment across the width of the wound on her side. She hadn't realized until that moment how warm his hands were, and they scorched her skin wherever they touched, sending wonderful jolts of pleasure through her, even though they moved very businesslike across her skin.

Anuk had never expected to be able to feel any semblance of pleasure ever again in her life, not after her months of enduring the endless rapes and beatings. She had spent many a night wondering if Matarn would even find her desirable after her ordeal. Daniel's touch answered that question; and it also brought forth another, more powerful question. How could the hands of a man who reminded her so much of her tormentors cause her skin to sizzle in desire, the desire that she wanted his hands to do so much more.

The answer was easy enough to discover as she gazed at his back. Daniel was the first man to ever show her the kindness that she had received in his care. With that single exception when he had allowed the desire and want for her to filter through his eyes enough that she took notice of it, he had been the ever protective man. Even when his hands were touching her skin in more intimate places and with considerably less clothing that Matarn had ever seen her in, he had done nothing more than to treat her wounds with the gentlest of actions. She marveled that a man his size could move so deftly, and with complete and utter control of his actions. There were no wasted motions, each movement measured and almost predatory in nature. He always seemed to be sniffing the air, ever alert to their surroundings. And his eyes, his eyes danced in her mind, so endless in depth she could lose herself forever within them. This was no ordinary man, and while he had told her what he was, there was far more to his persona than he was telling her, or... allowing her to see.

It hit her then, with the force of a wall falling on top of her. She wanted this man. She known him only three days and she wanted this man to possess her and swallow her into his arms.

Anuk shifted her feet slightly, the soft scrapping noise barely audible and yet his head turned quickly and his dark eyes found her.

"You're awake... that's good. We should get moving." His voice carried to her.

Anuk got to her feet and wrapping the blanket around her to ward off the chill, she moved slowly up to where he squatted and knelt down next to him. "Daniel..." She said softly.

"Ummm," He spoke turning to look at her, bathing her with those delicious dark eyes. Anuk shuddered as she gazed into them and she knew it was not from the chill.

"I'm sorry... I'm sorry I did that earlier today." She said softly. "It was foolish."

Danny waved one hand in a dismissive motion, "Water under the bridge as they say." He replied. "How do you feel?"

Anuk smiled. "Better than I have in a few days." She replied. "I think the ointment you spread over my wound is working."

Dan nodded. "It should... that antibiotic ointment will kill just about any bacteria known to exist. Combined with the pills... the infection should be gone from your system within a day or so."

"What will we do now?" Anuk asked.

Dan motioned down the main tunnel in the direction they had yet to travel. "Roughly seven miles further down the tunnel splits. One part goes to Prescott Arizona, and then it was suppose to extend to Phoenix, the other tunnel goes to Flagstaff. The Prescott tunnel ends shortly after the city limits and the portions that were supposed to continue to Phoenix were never finished."

"Which way do we go?" Anuk asked.

"We head for Flagstaff." Dan replied.

Anuk looked at him. "Flagstaff is a major slaver's hub." She spoke, worry in her voice. "They would discover us?"

Dan shook his head with a grin. "We shut that man down weeks ago." He answered. "We freed all the slaves, many of whom joined Eden, and then we moved to Cedar City and did the same thing."

Anuk looked at him with wide eyes. "You are saying you have destroyed the two largest slave settlements east of Las Vegas?" She asked.

Dan nodded, "Yep!"

"We have tried for years to end the threat of those two settlements." Anuk spoke. "How have you managed to do it in only a few months?"

“I have learned over the course of my life never to question Marty and his tactics.” Dan spoke. “He has gotten us out of more firefights and battles without a scratch than I care to recall. He’s saved all of our lives on more than one occasion. His mind is like a computer, always running different scenarios, always figuring.”

“Is he like you... physically I mean?” Anuk asked.

“He’s shorter by a couple inches, but more ripped. More defined. Sometimes I think he’s got muscles in his ears.” Dan spoke with a small chuckle. A laugh that Anuk found she adored and it made her chuckle as well. “That isn’t what is unique about him though.” Dan said.

“What do you mean?”

“His... his aura is power. He exudes strength and dominance.” Dan said his voice carrying a tone of awe in it that Anuk detected. “That’s why he is the Alpha of our pack.”

“I don’t understand... your pack?” Anuk asked looking at him.

Dan nodded returning her gaze intently. He did not know if he should pursue this as far as he wanted. Anuk had been held and raped by men of his skin color for months, forced to endure beatings and torture at their hand. Racism had dwindled to practically nothing in the mid 21st century. Danny did not consider himself black, even though he was. He didn’t consider himself white either. He was a pack member and that was all he ever cared about. Pablo was Hispanic, Cody was a red neck from Montana, and Kenny was a slick Italian from New York. There wasn’t any color within their pack, but he had experienced it. He had no more patience for ignorant black people than he did for whites. Dan wasn’t sure if Anuk would ever be able to trust another man, especially him. Should he tell her some of the most intimate details of the life of the pack, details that no outsider had ever learned? He wanted her, the need almost overwhelming, yet he had controlled it up until this point. Her cinnamon scent filled his nostrils and after only a brief moment he chose his direction for good or ill. “We consider ourselves a pack.” He explained to her, “A unit and a family. We are all any of us has had since we were very small. You know what a wolf pack is right?”

“Of course, we see them sometimes in the spring high up in the mountains.” Anuk answered.

“Well each pack has an Alpha male and at least one, usually two or three and sometimes four or five Alpha females, depending on the size of the pack. The leaders if you will. They are the strongest and most intelligent of the pack.” Dan spoke. “Marty is the Alpha... the strongest and smartest of our pack.”

“He is... he is stronger than you?” Anuk asked surprised.

Dan nodded. “Oh yeah... remember, I told you he is descended from a Spartan King. There are a few of us who are bigger than him physically sure, probably stronger if that was the only measure of strength, but it isn’t and you are smart enough to know that. Regardless, none of us will ever challenge him. We couldn’t beat him even if we wanted to challenge him. He’s stronger and faster than all of us, in more ways than I could begin to explain.” Anuk’s eyes showed her amazement. She had seen Daniel in action and his speed and strength was far superior to any elf she had ever seen, and here he was telling her that this Marty was even more powerful. “No...” Dan continued. “He has done more than just keep us together and help us to survive all these years, he has been our anchor, our source of power, the driving force behind all that we do. It’s like he knows what each of us needs, and he has always... always without fail been there for us, no matter what. That is why we will never challenge him. We love him too much. He’s like our brother... all of us are like brothers and sisters in a way really. It’s how we think.”

Anuk sensed there was much he was not telling her, but she did not push him. She loved hearing his voice swim around her; it was so warm and inviting. “And... and he is this Alpha.”

Dan nodded, “Yep!”

“Is... is there an... an Alpha female?” Anuk asked.

Dan looked at her with a twinkle in his eyes. “Nosy aren’t you?” He spoke.

“I... I find it fascinating Daniel that is all.” She replied.

Dan chuckled. “There wasn’t... until...” Dan looked at her, “Until yesterday.”

Anuk’s eyes grew more interested, “Yesterday? What do you mean?”

“Marty found a mate.” Dan said with a grin, “Which is incredible to say the least. She must be very special, that former Queen of yours.”

“Queen Dysea?” Anuk gasped in disbelief.

Dan nodded slowly. “She joined our pack yesterday.”

“What do you mean former Queen?” Anuk spoke. “She has been our Queen for half a century. She is beautiful and wise.”

“That’s another story.” Dan told her. “I should let your father fill you in on that, or Dysea herself.” Dan saw her shiver slightly even under the blanket. “Are you cold?”

“It is just a chill.” Anuk replied. “I am an elf... unnatural medicines introduced into our systems... while they work quite well... drop our body temperatures lower than normal for a short time. It is why the shot you gave me to purge the drugs from my system took such a toll on me physically. I was not fully recovered from the last beating I received.”

Dan opened his arms without thinking. “Come closer to me.” He said to her. Anuk looked at him with sudden fear in her eyes and Dan saw this. “My body temperature runs about four degrees higher than the normal human and elf. We put off a lot of body heat. It will chase away the chill.”

Anuk saw in his eyes that he had no ulterior motives for his offering, and she chastised herself for thinking such a thing when she desired him so. He saw it was his duty to protect her and keep her safe, and if that included keeping her warm, it was something he would do. She scooted between his legs and pressed up against his hard chest and abdomen, leaning into him. She felt the effects almost immediately, even through the blanket. His body was like a heated rock, waves of soothing warmth flowing from him, and Anuk found herself relishing in the warmth.

“Why do we head to Flagstaff?” She asked, unconsciously leaning her head against his chest. “Wouldn’t Prescott be closer?”

“There is still an engineering team in Flagstaff. They are reopening the tunnel at that end and once they get inside they’ll move to us in vehicles. There is plenty of room in this tunnel for wheeled traffic.” Dan replied.

“How... how do you know all this?” Anuk asked. “You said that we were too deep underground for this implant of yours to work.”

“I know it the same way I know that every lousy sonofabitch that laid his hands on you is now dead.” Dan spoke softly, his words carrying a tone of savage pleasure.

Anuk tilted her head to look at him. “What do you mean? How do you know that?” she asked, feeling sleepy once more with the heat from his body filling her. The depth of her exhaustion was obviously more than she had first realized and sleep was rushing upon her quickly.

Dan didn’t look at her as he gazed down the tunnel, his arms draping over Anuk with a possessive tone to them. He felt her hands grip one of his arms and pull it close to her. Dan smiled, reveling in her cinnamon scent as it saturated the very air around him because of her closeness.

“I know that because my brother made me a promise.” Dan spoke softly, his words barely above a whisper. “And my brother always keeps his promises.”

SALINA

Tarifa stood next to Aihola on the floor of the cave waiting for the Raptor that would bring them to Eden. Her mother stood with the Holy One, Thimina and Treblar only a few steps away while she and Aihola conversed in whispers in the ancient Drow tongue.

“Tesso uns'aa vel'bol dos ph' talintha Nya Istel?” Tarifa asked her. (Tell me what you are thinking)

Aihola met Tarifa’s eyes, “Usstan xuat zhaun, Usstan daewl ulu z'reninth ilta, ka whol naubol else, t'yin whol dosst sreen'aur ussta ssinsrigg. Ol zhah dubo though talinthin nind sat lu' xunus naubol whol ji verve.” (I don't know. I wish to believe her, if for nothing else, then for your safety my love. It is hard though considering they sat and did nothing for so long.)

Tarifa smiled lovingly at her. “Nindel zhah ilro'e vel'bol Martin said 'zil al. Henotep ulu l' letter.” (That is exactly what Martin said as well, almost to the letter.)

“Truly?” Aihola asked.

Tarifa squeezed her hands, “Dos ph' mzild saph ukta taga dos zhaun Nya Istel.” (You are more like him than you know Nya Istel.)

Aihola looked at her, amber eyes wide at what she was about to ask. It came out before she could stop it. “Do Dos daewl ulu raise dalharen xuil uns'aa?” She asked her. (Do you wish to raise children with me?)

Tarifa was unable to reply because the deafening sounds of the Raptor's engines filled the cave as the dangerous looking craft appeared from below the cave entrance without warning and slowly began to move into the cave. Everyone noticed two things right away, the cockpit of the Raptor was blacked out, only a small red light could be seen behind the windshield, and the ramp was already down.

Walter was the one who recognized what this meant and he stepped in front of Palina as something drifted across his nose. "No one move!" He yelled. "If you wish to live... do not move from where you stand!"

Tarifa turned wide eyes on him. "Holy One, what is it!" She screamed over the Raptor's engines as Aihola pulled out the automatic from beneath her top.

"Trust me child!" Walter screamed. "Do as I say!"

The Raptor dropped hard to the floor of the cave and the dust partially obscured the seven bodies that rush from the Raptor's rear. They were clad entirely in black as Tarifa had first seen Martin and his team, their weapons thrust out in front of them. They moved with precision and grace, almost running towards where Tarifa and Aihola stood. Tarifa knew in an instant there were no elves in this group.

"High left!" A voice called.

The lead man in the phalanx shifted his HK up to his left and ripped out a three round burst.

"High left!"

"High right!"

"Shift!"

As if guided by some unseen force the phalanx of troops split apart, their HKs spitting death as they went. At first Tarifa did not know what they were shooting at, and then the first body from above slammed into the ground only a few feet from her and Aihola. Tarifa's eyes went wide as she realized they were dressed almost exactly like Martin and his team. She looked up in time to see the first genome reach her and Aihola. His gloved hand reached out and pushed her to the ground.

"Down Tarifa!" Martin's voice barked as his hand shifted to Aihola and he pushed her down as well, covering both of them.

The genome lieutenant lowered his binoculars from where he lay on the small ledge three hundred meters above the action that was happening below. "Do you have a shot on Walter?" He snapped in a harsh whisper.

"Negative! They just pulled him down!" The sniper beside him answered.

"Do you have anything?"

"One of the Ministers!" The sniper answered.

"Take the shot! How did they see us! Shit we are so fucked!"

"You have no idea." The female voice spoke from behind them.

Both the sniper and the lieutenant were rolling before the words finished echoing in their heads. It wouldn't have mattered in the least. Julie and Tari were behind them waiting to pounce, and it was over in a heartbeat. The lieutenant died from having Julie's blade driven through his skull, and the sniper died with Tari's knife severing his head almost completely.

Julie lifted her head and looked far below her.

"Clear!"

"Report!" Martin barked.

"Clear!"

"All clear!"

"Good!"

"Secure!"

"All secure boss!"

“In the rear with the gear,” Came the next voice over the COM, and the tension was broken as Martin and the others turned to look at the lone genome who had been securing their rear flank. He actually sounded disappointed to have missed all the action.

“Check the bodies!” Martin ordered, reaching up to pull away his balaclava. He turned back to where Tarifa and Aihola were getting to their feet slowly. Aihola’s eyes were especially wide as she stared at him in wonder. “Tarifa?”

“I’m fine.” Tarifa replied. “Martin... who... who were they?”

Martin gripped Aihola’s arm and she nodded, still staring at him in open awe. “I’m... I’m fine.” She said.

Martin looked at her. “Where did you hide the weapon? I told everyone to come here unarmed.”

Aihola met his eyes. “I will not lose her Martin Hunter!” She spoke.

Martin grinned and leaned over to kiss Aihola softly on the lips, her amber eyes nearly exploding out of her head in surprise. “Thank you.” He spoke. He turned away quickly. “Jules you copy?”

“We’re on our way down.” Julie answered. “Two targets down, one was a sniper. Marty they were after Walter. And they are... they are genomes.”

Martin was looking at one of the bodies that Kenny had rolled over as Julie was speaking. “Yeah... I’m seeing that.” He replied to her. “Did you strip them?”

“Right down to their skivvies,” Julie replied immediately, “They aren’t very flattering in the equipment department if you ask me, but then again I’m spoiled.”

Martin grinned. “Does that include Tari?” He asked knowing that they were on a private command channel.

Julie grinned where she and Tari were moving down the long path. Martin looked up and saw her turn to look back at the tall fleet footed Drow warrior who had become her constant shadow it seemed.

“I’m working very hard on that part Skipper.” Julie finally answered. “I’m thinking this may just be the one.”

“Well let’s figure that out back in secure territory.” Martin spoke. “You and Tari move to the house within the city and get Cantel and the other Dragoons not aligned with Telan. Have Kadeem get some people down here to gather and preserve these bodies. We may have just discovered a way to get a few extra days to locate War Master Tareif’s sons if the Minister is correct.”

“How so?” Julie asked as she held out her hand for Tari to stop as they got to the side tunnel that would take them up into the house.

“Remember Africa?” Martin asked.

“Which part? The part where we got abandoned by our recovery team? Or the part where we had to shoot our way out of the port in Cape Town,” Julie asked. “I don’t seem to recall liking either one.”

Martin chuckled. “Before Cape Town, after the recovery team ditched us.” He said.

“Ah... I remember now. Devious boss. Very devious.”

“Nobody ever accused me of being a nice guy.” Martin answered. “You got twenty... we’ll meet you at the Raptor.”

Martin watched as his team drew everyone over to where he stood. “Martin... what is going on?” Palina asked. “Who are these men?”

“I don’t know who they are... but I can tell you what they are...”

“Genomes!” Walter gasped as he saw one of their faces. He bent down next to the body. “Martin I recognize this boy. He was part of the Air Force team. I treated him just before the comet came. I thought they were wiped out when Andrews was destroyed.” He spoke returning to his feet.

“They were after you Walter.” Martin told him, seeing everyone’s eyes turn to him.

“Me?” Walter asked.

Martin nodded. “Julie and Tari found a sniper higher up.” Martin replied. “They were targeting you. Do you know why?”

“How did you even know they were here?” Thimina asked, still rather shaken by the events and the violence that had just occurred.

Martin looked at her as he spoke, his gaze causing feelings of nausea to grip her stomach. “I can smell another... genome... ten miles away in a driving rain and thirty mile an hour winds. These idiots were stupid...”

they didn't account for the breeze that washed through the tunnels when you opened the hidden door to come down here. I smelled it at the bottom of this mountain while we were waiting to come up to pick you up."

Dysea chose that time to come out of the back of the Raptor where she had been waiting with Anja. Both of them carried chopped down versions of the HK. Dysea went to Tarifa and shared a brief hug with both her and Aihola in relief. Anja stopped to stand next to Martin.

Martin looked at her. "Think you can do an exam for me?" He asked.

Anja's eyes twinkled at him and she cocked her head slightly upwards in an impish face Martin had never seen her make before. She stepped up close to him so that only he could hear her. "I'll examine you for free anytime you want... the dead stiff will cost you though."

Martin looked at her in surprise as she brushed past him, deliberately pressing her right hip up against him as she squeezed between him and Kenny. Martin inhaled deeply and her honey scent washed over him in a powerful wave, her aura strong and her desire for him drifting from her pores clear and pure. So strong in fact that it caused Kenny's nose to twitch and he looked at him after she had passed.

"Jesus Skipper." He muttered softly. "She's hotter than a fire stoked branding iron. She wants you bad."

"Cody will you help me with this body." Anja voice spoke as she bent over the dead genome.

Martin shook Anja's scent from his nostrils and tore his eyes from the way her fatigues outlined her absolutely perfect ass and hips. He looked at the others quickly. "I want everyone in the Raptor. Kenny... you and Pablo hang out here and cover Anja in case any leakers come snooping."

Martin backed towards the ramp of the Raptor as the others moved around him. Dysea stopped and stared at him with her emerald eyes and she squeezed his arm. Dysea had caught the scent of Anja's desire as well and it had immediately set her own blood to burning, for both Martin and Anja. "I told you Nauta Melme." She whispered before kissing his cheek and moving up the ramp.

LAS VEGAS/PHOENIX INTERSTATE TRAIN TUNNEL

Anuk's eyes flew open when she felt the large hand clamp over her mouth. An arm pulled her body close against warm iron hard flesh, the body in front of her gripping her tightly blotting out any light. She brought her hands up to begin beating the person, her wide eyes looking up, searching for Daniel. Anuk froze when she realized it was his hand keeping her silent, his arm around her waist pulling her tight against him. She saw his face was tense and he brought his finger to his lips motioning for her to be silent. Anuk relaxed almost immediately, her hands falling gently to his thick arms as he held her.

Dan felt her relax in his arms and he took his hand away from her mouth. He lowered his head slowly next to her pointed elf ear, her cinnamon scent washing over him like a blanket. His lips touched her ear and Anuk closed her eyes as a flash of desire swarmed over her.

"We have company." He whispered in her ear so softly she barely heard it. Her cerulean blue eyes became instantly alert and she nodded slowly letting him know she had understood. She felt him pressing something into her hand, his wrist and forearm brushing hard against her firm breasts and she stifled a gasp at his touch. She looked down and saw the silenced K12 pressed into her palm and she closed her fist around it as he pushed an extra clip into her other hand.

Anuk looked up into his dark eyes as saw him staring at her now. His dark eyes had changed... the whites surrounding his pupils replaced by blackness. His teeth had lengthened in three quarter inch long fangs, and his face was stern. Anuk gazed into those dark eyes with no fear this time for she knew what Daniel was and with acceptance that stunned her, she realized she found him even more attractive.

Dan held up four fingers and pointed to the outside of the toll booth, and then indicated with his motions that they were armed and walking towards them spread out. Anuk nodded again slowly, her fist closing around the grip of the K12. She almost gasped when Daniel slipped away from her with little more than a passing breeze and he was gone into the shadows. She calmed her nerves and moved silently to the opening, inching her eyes around the corner.

There were four of them alright.

Anuk's eyes filled with fear almost instantly and she couldn't tear her eyes away. Whatever walked towards them was neither elf nor human. It was completely hairless, its skin the color of white paste. There mouths had only thin strips for lips, and protruding past those lips were pointed razor sharp teeth. Their heads were void of any hair or markings, glimmering in the dim light of the tunnel. Their eyes were abnormally large and a deep crimson red in color. Their bodies were not muscular, yet thin and lean, the fingers on their hands easily three inches longer than any normal elf or human, and each finger ended in a razor sharp white nail.

Whoever they were, judging by the way they were moving they were not friendly in the least. And if the long spear like staffs they carried were any indication, Anuk didn't doubt they were here hunting her and Daniel. She shifted her position slightly and brought the K12 up slowly, closing her hands around the grip as she had learned to steady her aim. She cupped her firing hand, arm extended straight, into the palm of her support hand with her elbow slightly bent. Anuk centered the K12 on the head of the nearest creature and slid her finger onto the trigger. She would wait for Daniel to make the first move and then she would begin firing.

A flash of movement directly in front of her caused her to blink and turn. Her eyes went wide and she screamed as the face of another of the creatures appeared in front of her. She saw the hand come up and the razor like fingernails descend on her. There was a moment of agonizing white hot pain and warm liquid gushing onto her face and then Anuk fell into blackness.

Danny lowered the body of the pasty white creature with deadly silence. This fifth creature had been moving along behind the other four as a rear guard sentry, which told Danny that these creatures knew what they were about. The pasty white creature looked stronger than it was and Danny had snuck up directly behind it, nearly ripping its head clean off when he broke its neck. As he felt his finger tips leave the body on the ground, his senses in full combat mode, Danny heard Anuk scream.

It was a scream not of anger or fear, but of pure unadulterated terror, and it ripped through his being unlike anything ever had before him.

“Anuk!” Danny screamed, bursting into a run towards the four creatures in front of him.

The pale things whirled to face him, looks of surprise on their ghostly features that one of the humans they were hunting had gotten behind them. It took only an instant for them to realize that their brother behind them was dead, and this raging bear of a human was bearing down on them with speed no human should have. The first creature raised its staff to strike at Danny, and he lunged forward, driving the point at his chest. Danny simply sidestepped the move, grabbed the staff in his hand and ripped into backwards. The creature sailed ass over elbows twenty meters down the tunnel as Danny thrust it back at him while he ripped it from his hands. He stepped into a swing at the second creature, the sharpened tip of the wooded spear driving deeply into the creatures neck, his attempt to block the blow only causing his own staff to ram into his neck and pierce his jaw as the spear Danny hit him with caved in what little skull he had with the powerful blow.

Dan ignored the other two as his eyes caught a glimpse of a sixth creature leaning over Anuk's body. Rage swelled in Danny's chest and the roar that came out caused the tunnel to vibrate with its intensity. The creatures looked up; giving Danny a flirting glance at Anuk on the ground and his scream became even more savage. Anuk's beautiful face was torn open in three long bloody gashes that stretched across her right eye extending down over her nose to her jaw. It took Danny only a second to see her blood on the creatures' hand and two things took place.

The creature that had struck Anuk died in that split second...

And Daniel Simpson went completely berserk.

RAPTOR 41

You must do something about this Nauta Melme. Dysea told him as they stood near the front of the Raptor.

They were speaking with each other within their minds, both of them raising mental shields around their minds to block out the others. It was the first thing Martin had taught her, and over the course of the next day she had constantly attempted to hammer at his shields with her mind, and he against her mental shields. Martin had been surprised at the power of her mind, and she had been able to resist all but his most powerful attacks to enter her mind.

What can I do Melda Min?

Do not tell me you can not sense the aura radiating from her Martin. I have only been fully changed for two days and it is as clear to me as the sun in the sky. Dysea told him. She desires you so badly it is nearly consuming her. It is leaking through what little shields she does have, and within it I can sense the desire for me as well. I am not yet strong enough to resist that for very long my love, not with what I feel for her. It is so powerful and deep.

Melda Min... you don't understand. I opened my heart to her once before... and she returned it shredded into pieces. He looked at her. I don't know if I can bear that again.

Do you love her?

As surely as I love you Dysea; I don't believe I ever stopped loving her.

Then you must tell her Nauta Melme. Dysea said. You must make her ours; change her... so that she can be with us eternally. You know that is what she wants; you can feel it pulsing in her blood, for if you don't it will destroy you... and Anja... and ultimately me. She is not the same person you knew all those years ago my love. You have said that yourself.

And if she refuses?

Then you will know for certain and go on. We can go on. But you know what her answer will be my love... it oozes from her pores. Have faith in the woman she has become. She... she will not let you down.

I... don't... I don't know.

“You have to do something Nauta Melme!” Dysea burst out with her voice, exasperation clearly layered in her words.

“What do you want me to...” Martin began to shout back, surprising both Dysea and everyone within earshot. His face grimaced and he reached for his head just before he began screaming and dropped to his knees.

“Nauta Melme!” Dysea yelled reaching for him just seconds before the shooting pain, unlike anything she had ever experienced, lanced through her temples, “Noooooo!”

Tarifa and Walter came to their feet immediately after Anja, just as every genome on the Raptor dropped to the floor clutching their heads in agony. Anja skidded to a halt next to Martin and Dysea, reaching for them.

“Martin! Dysea!” She cried.

Tarifa's eyes turned to Walter. “Holy One... what is happening to them?” She yelled. “They are... they are in such pain!”

Walter did not answer her, his face wincing in pain as if he was feeling it too, and instead he moved for the cockpit faster than Tarifa had ever seen him move. He took the four steps in a single bound, and could hear Ben and Endith calling out to someone on the radio.

“Don't know... it's happening here too!” Ben shouted into his helmet radio. “All of them are on the deck screaming. I...” Ben saw the shadow next to him and turned to see Walter standing between their seats. His face was contorted mildly, as if he was holding back some great pain of his own. “Doc... what the fuck is going on?”

“Are any of the genomes seriously injured or hurt?” Walter asked quickly.

“No. Not that I know of. Danny was still moving to the rendezvous, but he wasn't hurt.” Ben answered.

“What do you mean?” Walter asked as Tarifa came up next to him.

“Daniel was lost on a mission to Las Vegas last week. He got separated from the others and is making his way towards Flagstaff to meet an engineering crew that is reopening the Flagstaff end of the Vegas to Phoenix Interstate Train tunnel.” Ben replied.

Walter's face grimaced even more, his hand reaching up to put his fingers to his temple. “Daniel is dying.” Walter spoke. “What is his location?”

“Dying?” Ben gasped. “What do you mean? How do you know that?”

Walter glared at him. “What is his location Major?”

Ben looked at Endith. “Bring it up on the HUD Endith.” He told her quickly. Endith operated the console next to her and the holographic imagery map appeared between them. “Here!” Ben spoke.

“Head there now! As fast as you possibly can.” Walter ordered.

“Wait a minute!” Ben spoke. “We have Tarifa and the others on board. Marty said they were the priority should anything happen.”

“Major... listen to me... listen to me carefully. You have some idea of what Martin and the others are. Daniel Simpson is dying... what Martin and the others are experiencing is a residual echo from his screams of agony within their minds. They usually are strong enough to block this type of pain out, and I will help them, but if you do not get us to Daniel’s location as fast as this infernal machine will take us, I will personally rip your heart from your chest and watch as you die, for you will not wish to see what Daniel’s death will make Martin do. Am I making myself clear enough to you?”

Ben turned to Endith. “Jesus... full power Endith, and throw the aux boosters to max thrust!”

“Ben... every radar in three states will see us if we go that fast.” Endith cautioned.

Ben nodded. “Yep, and I’m guessing that ain’t gonna matter a whit if we don’t get to Danny and fast. Do it Little Elf.”

Endith nodded quickly when he used his secret name for her. It was a name that they only used in private with Tina, and if Ben was using it now, then he was serious.

“Aux power transferred; stabilizers at full extension.” Endith spoke sitting back in her seat.

Ben nodded. “Hold on to your hats folks.”

Walter turned as the Raptor jumped to nearly three thousand miles an hour in less than ten seconds. He looked at Anja on the deck, her hand clutching Martin’s as his face was twisted in a visage of extreme pain. He went to the deck next to her, turning to Tarifa. “Help me child.” He spoke.

Tarifa hesitated for only a second, as she had heard the Holy One’s words to Ben, and in that moment, he had no longer been a frail man of almost five hundred years old. She knelt on the deck next to him, looking at him oddly. “What can I do Holy One?”

“At the moment, your connection with Dysea is stronger than anyone’s,” Walter explained. “Take her head in your hands like this,” He gripped Martin’s head on either side and spread his fingers out. “Empty your mind and think of nothing but good things you have experienced with her. Place your forehead to hers and do this.”

Tarifa looked at him oddly, “Holy One how will that help?” She asked.

Walter sighed, knowing he was going to have to reveal something he had not intended. “They are telepathic child. They can communicate with each other within their minds, all of them... and now Dysea. She will feel your thoughts and reach for them, allowing her to shut out the pain. Martin will as well. Your relationship with them will be the link.” Walter could detect Anja’s eyes on him intently.

Tarifa looked at him, her face suddenly pained. “Holy One... I... I am not as close to them as I once was. I told you this before.” She told him. “I have another in my life now. They knew this.”

Walter looked at her. “Then who do...?” Walter’s nose wrinkled slightly and his blue eyes went to Anja, “Anja?” He said softly. “It is you who holds their souls. I can... I can sense an echo from you within them.”

“Me?” Anja asked shocked.

Tarifa looked at her. “Anja... my heart belongs to another. While we still care for one another, both of them desire you more than anything. I knew this... we spoke of these things before. You must help them.”

“How?” Anja asked without hesitation.

“Do exactly what I told Tarifa to.” Walter spoke. “Empty your mind and think of only good thoughts. Think of the three of you together, walking in a mountain stream with the wind against your skin.”

Anja scrambled quickly between Martin and Dysea, their heads almost touching as they withered on the deck under her. Anja took a deep breath and began to shape the thought as Walter said, picturing the three of them walking in a field together, and the bright sun beating down on them, the cool breeze blowing across their skin. Their scents were nearly overpowering to her as close as she was, Martin’s mint scent and Dysea’s wildflower smell permeated her senses, and this threw the overwhelming desire for both of them into overdrive. Anja saw flashes of a strange place, with lush green mountains and warm blue oceans against white sands. There were two towering mountain walls and angry crashing seas. Half hidden images of faces interchanged with the fearsome visages of monstrous wolves and bears. And then there was the face of a goddess, olive complexion with large shimmering blue eyes and flowing raven black hair. An image of wolves running on four legs, two black haired wolves, one blond and one red. They were running among the tall grasses of the plains, playfully nipping at each other.

Anja gasped loudly and her body stiffened as suddenly there was a spike of intense pain in her head. Tarifa went to grab her, fearing she would succumb to what was happening to the others but Walter's hand stopped her. "No!" Walter's raised voice stopped her. "Oh... she is strong! Martin my boy... you never told me this. You never told me she is..." His eyes went a little wider and he looked at Tarifa as he placed his hand on Anja's shoulder. "Let her continue child. She is stronger than any of you realize. Martin knows this and he has reached for and found her mind first. Then they will pull Dysea through. Give her time to make the connection complete. It has already begun." He said softly. "I... I didn't see it before... and it was right in front of me."

"See what Holy One?" Tarifa asked.

Walter met her eyes. "I will share some things with you Tarifa, after this event is over. Things you must never reveal until it is time. Promise me that child."

"Holy One..."

"Have I ever broken my word to you or you to me?" Walter asked.

"No Holy One. Never"

"Then trust in me now." Walter spoke.

Anja was swimming in a sea of pain now, as if she was drowning. The water was closing in around her and she was sinking. She could just see the surface of the water, but she didn't have the strength to swim towards it. She kept sinking further and further into the depths, the light drifting away to nothing. Her panic was growing, and she knew she was losing the fight. Tears formed in her eyes as she realized she was going to lose what she desired most in this fucked up world. A man who had stolen her very essence and she had lost and then found once more, and a woman that caused shivers to course through her just by being in the same room with her. In this one wrenching moment she was going to lose them both because she wasn't strong enough.

You are stronger than you know. Martin's voice carried to her, Stronger than I ever could have believed.

Anja felt a gentle caress encircle her mind and then Martin was beside her in the vision, holding her to him as he stroked powerfully for the surface of her pain.

Stronger than I. Dysea's sweet voice spoke and then she was next to her as well, her arm joining Martin's around her dream image. Anja had only to look up and she could see the sun just as they broke the surface of the water of pain.

Tarifa gasped as Martin's eyes sprang open, and then Dysea's. Both of them were heaving for air, their chests rising and falling as they gulped in lungful after lungful, as if they hadn't breathed for hours. Anja's tear streaked eyes opened as well and she looked at him, drinking in the gaze of Martin's dark brown orbs. Martin's hand came up as quickly as a striking viper and he pulled Anja's head down to his, bringing her lips down and kissing her so hard and so passionately that Anja thought she was going to burst. She held his head in her hands, returning every bit of emotion that he was giving her, her tears dropping to his face. When they finally parted it was with reluctance, and Martin stared at her.

I have never stopped loving you Anja Peterson. Never! Martin's words exploded into her mind. Only Dysea has made me feel what you make me feel. What I still feel for you, and now for her as well. Can you accept that she is as much a part of me as you always have been Anja?

Anja couldn't contain the joy that was bursting from her, the tears coming freely now. She nodded her head slowly. If it is possible to love two people as much as I love you and her Martin Hunter, then I can accept anything.

This has never happened before you know. He told her. Not until... not until someone has been changed. Changed? What do you mean?

I will explain later. I must save my brother. Help Dysea, she is still very weak. The powers of your mind appear to be much stronger than hers.

Go. I will be with her and then we will all go and save Danny.

Tarifa was clutching Aihola, Palina, Thimina and Treblar behind them watching the events unfold as the Raptor Ben was piloting tore through the sky. They all jumped back when Martin sat up quickly, and Anja moved to where Dysea still laid, her emerald eyes fluttering. Martin spun around and got to his feet teetering for a moment until Cantel reached out and steadied him.

"Lyca Ohtar? Are you alright?" He spoke.

Martin nodded slowly his eyes going to Walter. "What is happening?" He asked him, not caring who heard him now. "It has never been this strong Walter. His pain smashed our shields as if they were paper."

“You were not prepared for such agony on so concentrated a level. He’s fighting for his very life Martin, your brother is. There is something else I can not sense completely, but he is in agony. I ordered Ben to his location. We must find a way into the tunnel and reach him before it is too late. I will attend to your brothers and sisters.”

Martin pushed Cantel’s hand from him. “Ben!” He screamed.

“We’re four minutes away Marty!” Ben yelled above the roar of the Raptor’s engines.

“Pull up the most recent scan of his location!” Martin spoke as he staggered into the cockpit.

Endith did this before Ben ordered her too, the holographic image appearing between their seats once more. Ben pointed to the small red dots. “This is Danny and Anuk. The tunnel is still a hundred meters thick here Marty. Nothing we have on board will punch through. I could launch every missile we have and it wouldn’t dent the depth.”

Martin’s eyes scanned the image quickly. “Here!” He said pointing. “This ventilation shaft is only a hundred meters behind him. Can you target a low yield bunker buster and clear whatever sits on this entrance.”

“That could crush anyone who is underneath it.” Endith spoke softly.

“I’m willing to take that risk.” Martin spoke. “Do it.”

“Warm up an AN-19 Endith. It’s the lowest yield we have and it will do the job.” Ben told her. “I’m bringing the targeting computer online! I’ll launch in twenty seconds Marty. By the time we get there the debris will have cleared.”

“Drop us right over the opening.” Martin told him. Ben looked at him, eyes wide. He saw the set of Martin’s jaw and nodded. “I’ll leave it up to you how to get us out my friend.”

Now it was Ben’s jaw that tightened. “If I have to drop a nuke on the fucking thing Marty, I’ll give you a way out.”

Martin nodded and turned, walking out of the cockpit. Dysea was on her feet now holding tightly to Anja, and he went to her, his arms going around her and Anja both. “Melda Min?”

Dysea looked at him. “I am fine.” She said her hand grasping Anja tightly and unwilling to let go.

Martin nodded and turned not taking his arms from her. “Kenny!”

Walter had gone among the remaining six Genomes and quickly brought them out of their painful states, assisting them with his own mind to re-establish their mental shields. Martin gazed at Walter and wondered how he was able to do this so easily. Kenny stepped up from the back to stand between Tarifa and Aihola, his face still shiny with sweat.

“Skipper?”

“Shift drop!” Martin snapped. “All of us. Unpack the extra uniforms.”

They all saw the glint appear in Kenny’s eyes and he nodded. “I’m on it Skipper.”

Anja looked at Martin strangely now. “Martin...”

Martin drew the embrace he held them in tighter. “Promise me Anja... no matter what you see... no matter what happens... promise me that you will always know I love you.” He told her softly so that no one else could hear his words.

Dysea turned her head to look at her, “As do I.” She spoke with no hesitation.

“I’m going with you aren’t I?” Anja asked. “What... what am I going to see Martin?”

Martin nodded slowly. “Anuk is seriously injured, as is Danny. He’s fighting, but fading fast. I need your skills, but... but I fear what you will witness.”

“I’m not afraid Martin.” Anja spoke.

“Missile away!” Ben’s voice roared and the Raptor vibrated as the air to ground missile left the right wing rack and streaked ahead of the Raptor leaving a blazing trail of smoke and fire.

“When we enter the main tunnel I will throw you towards Danny’s location. We will still be at least a hundred meters in the air, so I trust you have enough skill to use your... your genome abilities to land without killing yourself.” Martin told her.

Anja punched his arm very lightly, “Ha... ha ... very funny.” She said. “I’ll grab my medical bag.”

Tarifa stepped up to Martin. “Martin... this is crazy. The main tunnel is at least a hundred meters high and that is after you fall the hundred meters just to reach the main tunnel.”

Martin nodded. “I know.”

“Then why?” Thimina asked, stepping up next to Tarifa. “Why risk your life when you said yourself that he is fading fast.”

Martin looked at her, his eyes swiftly changing to yellow outlined in black. “Why? Because he is my brother! My pack mate! And he would do the same for me! That is why! Now get out of my way or I will throw you out the back of this fucking aircraft myself!”

“Yeah baby!” Ben’s voice screamed from the cockpit. “I just blew you a big fucking beautiful hole all the way down Marty!”

“Thirty seconds!” Endith added, “Ramp coming down!”

Tarifa grabbed Martin’s arm as he passed her. “Martin...”

Martin squeezed her hand tightly. “You are in charge now. If anything should happen to Dysea or I, Eden City will follow you and only you. Those are the orders I have left.” Tarifa’s eyes grew wide at this news. “Get us out Tarifa.”

Tarifa nodded slowly and reached up to kiss his cheek softly. “I will.” Aihola moved up next to her and in a very uncharacteristic display of emotion for any man she kissed him on the cheek as well.

Martin nodded and moved to the back of the Raptor with the rest of his team as they stood around the lowered ramp. His arm circled around Anja’s waist and she wrapped her arms around his neck, turning to face him, the medical pack over her shoulders.

“Martin?” Walter spoke from behind them. Martin turned to look at him, seeing him take a deep breath. “Come home with your brother and Anuk Martin, or don’t come home at all.”

Tarifa and the others looked at him as if he had gone mad, “Holy One!” Palina gasped. “How can you say that?”

Walter only smiled, his eyes never leaving Martin’s face. Martin returned the smile and as the familiar sensation of those words swept through him he nodded slowly. “I intend too.” He replied.

Anja looked at him as he turned back to face the rear of the Raptor. Ben had slowed to a more sedate speed and as he swept low over the tunnel and began to turn, Martin saw the gaping hole where the ventilation shaft cover used to be. It was now a ten meter wide crater with a dark abyss at the bottom. “Martin... tell me you’ve done something like this before?” Anja asked him.

Martin looked at her with a grin, “First time for everything.” He replied.

“Shit... I was afraid you were going to say that.” Anja said, burying her face against his chest.

The Raptor came to a complete stop over the hole beneath them and Ben turned his head. “Pay back is a bitch! Go get them Marty!” He screamed.

Martin grinned and Anja closed her eyes tightly as he stepped off into nothing.

Danny felt the staff smash into his shoulder and spin him around, dropping him to the floor of the tunnel. Whoever these creatures were, they were faster and stronger than he first thought, at least when they wielded those fucking staffs. His eyes were fuzzy as he lifted his head once more. His chest and arms were sliced open in over a dozen places, his blood leaving puddles wherever he stumbled. He had not changed for fear of being drawn away from Anuk. He was not going to leave her inert form for these monsters to have. He dragged his left leg along the floor; the six inch slice in his thigh was deep, exposing the bone. He held his hand over his leg, attempting to stem the flow of blood, but he knew it was a losing battle. He was getting weaker by the second. The explosion a minute earlier had filled the tunnel with dust as rocks and steel had come crashing to the floor giving him a moment’s respite. He had killed four of the ugly creatures that he knew of, but five more had appeared from the tunnel and attacked almost immediately.

Danny heard the soft popping sound and his eyes lifted skyward. Blood clouded his vision, but he saw the white/blue flashes of light almost like flashes of lightning in the sky, as they fell from the still smoking ventilation shaft. He also saw the small black clad female tuck into a ball as she was hurled directly towards him. Danny began to laugh, blood spilling from between his lips.

“Ha... you motherfuckers,” He screamed, drops of blood splattering the face of the nearest creature as it moved closer to him. “You assholes are so dead! My brothers and sisters are here motherfuckers! It’s time to die!”

Danny screamed as well as the white/blue light engulfed him and what remained when the light cleared was a massive blood stained brown wolf, dragging an injured leg and snapping its muzzle. A muzzle filled with gleaming white fangs. This caused the creature closest to him to stop, its red lidless eyes going wide as it watched the animal the human had become claw its way towards the critically injured female elf.

The creature's head snapped around at the sound of wheezing from one of his comrades and he saw him falling, his chest spurting blood at a high velocity from the four long slashes as he fell. He heard a snarl and stood straight up, watching as two large brown wolves brought down another of his kind, one of the wolves ripping the throat open with an almost playful toss of its large head. Another wolf, darker in color slashed out in mid air with a paw, four rakes appearing across the back of his last companion. The creature staggered forward, only to have the caramel colored wolf snap his skinny leg in its steel trap jaws and wrench his feet out from under him, where a platinum blond hair wolf sprang from the side, lowering its muzzle and ripping open his throat with a speed the creature had never seen. Blood began to fountain into the air as the platinum wolf landed lightly on its paws, only to stagger just a bit only a few meters from him. The creature lifted its shaft, intending to launch its sharpened point at the unsure platinum wolf. The creature felt a presence next to him and he turned his head.

Less than a meter away was the most enormous wolf the creature had ever seen. It stood four feet high at the shoulders, hair as black as the deepest night covering its body. Muscles bunched under its skin like bands of stretchable steel, flexing with the deep rumbling of his breath and the expanding of the huge chest. The snout was long and tapered, but his red eyes could not miss the two inch long fangs that were bared in a vicious snarl. Teeth that were razor sharp and could rend nearly anything in seconds. The creature looked into those glowing yellow eyes and knew instantly that he was dead.

Martin's head snapped forward like lightening, his jaws closing like a huge vice, applying almost two thousand five hundred pounds of pressure per square inch. The creature's head ruptured like a water balloon under such crushing force, and Martin released him quickly, the twitching body slumping to the tunnel floor.

Anja ran with a pronounced limp as she crested the top of the pile of concrete and rocks. She had stumbled when she landed, rolling too much and crashing into the wall, but aside from that Martin's throw had been perfect. She came upon the toll booth and staggered back as she saw the large brown wolf lying next to the red haired elf. The wolf whimpered and Anja raised her arm to cover her eyes as a flash of white/blue light blinded her momentarily. When she lowered her arm again, Anja's jade green eyes went wide at what she saw. Danny held the elf's hand in his, his eyes boring into her.

"Anuk!" He gasped, pain filling his voice. "Treat her first; hurry Anja... please!"

Do not fear what you do not yet understand Anja.

Martin's voice echoed in her head as if he was standing next to her and she whirled around to see the massive black wolf come up behind her. Its pace was measured and even, calmness in the storm, yet Anja could not contain the gasp as she saw the rippling muscles on the legs and the claws of black steel. The scent of the black wolf nearly brought her to her knees as it was a smell she had experienced before. A smell that made her entire body tremble with a desire she could not deny. The fangs dripped with blood, razor sharp and ready to rip any threat to bloody shreds, but she had seen those yellow orbs before, yes she had seen those eyes before and she had fallen in love with them.

"Martin?" She gasped.

Smell the wind Anja. It is me. Do not fear me, for this is what I am. And what you will become should you choose to.

Anja watched as the platinum haired wolf came to stand next to the black one. Half the size of Martin, Dysea brought her muzzle under Martin's thick neck and nuzzled his throat, her tongue licking the blood on his thick black coat of fur. She looked at Anja, her emerald green eyes bright and so very clear. In another flash of white/blue light Dysea was suddenly transformed, returning to her human form, completely naked, and glistening in a fine sheen of sweat. She scrambled past Anja.

"Anuk!" She cried out, going to the injured elf. "Anja help me!"

Dysea's voice snapped her out of her trance like state and she turned away from Martin, scrambling over next to the fallen elf. She winced when she saw her face, the three bloody gashes in her perfect skin open enough to see the cheekbone. Her blue eyes were open, but she was shuddering slightly, her eyes unmoving.

“Fuck she’s going into shock!” Anja snapped tearing open her bag. She withdrew a hypo, handing it out to Dysea. “Inject it into her chest quickly!”

Dysea pressed the hypo to Anuk’s chest and pressed the trigger sending drugs shooting directly into her heart. Anja held the medical scanner over Anuk, running it down her head and chest. “My god, her system is full of poison! Those things must be poisonous. It’s rushing through her system so fast nothing I do will stop it Martin! I’ve never seen anything like it!” Anja removed a long needle and syringe from her bag and bit the plastic cover with her teeth, spitting it aside as she stabbed it into Anuk’s unresponsive chest, shoving down on the plunger of the long needle. “Shit!” Anja cried out, tears coming to her eyes. “No!”

“Bite her brother.” Martin’s voice carried to them over the heavy breathing and sounds of despair.

Anja turned her head, with Dysea and Danny shifting their eyes as well. He squatted behind them, completely naked, the remains of his uniform shredded and left on the ground somewhere. He hadn’t changed completely back, as his eyes and fangs were still very visible.

“Marty…” Danny gasped.

“Your desire for her spills from your pores brother, as does hers for you.” Martin spoke.

“For me!” Danny gasped in disbelief.

Martin smiled gently. “Your desire to protect her, to prove to her that you are not the same as those scum who took her against her will, it has blinded you to the fact that she has come to desire you as much, if not more than you do her. Bite her. It will change her and save her life. Then you will be complete.”

“Martin…that… that would be no better then what those monsters did to her!” Danny screamed. “It would not be willingly.”

“What is our rule brother?” Martin asked.

“Never… never without their consent… unless… they are injured,” Daniel replied softly.

Martin nodded. “Yes… unless they are injured and in danger of dying. She will die if you do not. She is the one you desire brother, I will not bite her, it is not my place. No one can but you. You know the law we have lived by. We will all help her to adjust, to make her come to understand. I think she already does in some way.” Martin’s eyes went to Dysea and the complete and total acceptance of what she had become.

Danny’s eyes found Julie, blood dripping down her chin, the sweat pooling on her skin between her firm breasts, “Jules?”

Julie took a spot next to Martin, squatting next to him. She ran her arm across her lips, wiping away the blood and looked at him with a soft smile. “I will forever treasure our moments together Danny. But this Anuk… she is who you are destined for. We can all smell it.”

“And if she hates me for eternity Martin? Then what do I do? I… I don’t think I can live without her.” Danny demanded.

“Then she will hate you and she will be alive.” Martin replied. “Do nothing and she will die brother. Which do your prefer Danny… that she live and perhaps never speak to you again, or that she die and you will never know. Reach for the unknown brother, do not fear it. Is that not what our pack has lived by for so long, to embrace the unknown? Isn’t that what we have fought for all these years, to embrace the unknown and perhaps finally discover who and what we truly are?”

“It is.” Danny replied softly.

“We are not genomes brother. We have known that for some time, regardless of what Walter would have us believe. We have lived by this code for years Danny, always hoping to discover what we seek above all else. Now reach for the unknown, and do not be afraid.” Martin spoke, his nose twitching. His head turned to look down the tunnel, “For we have a bigger problem coming our way.”

Danny looked at Anja and Dysea. “Look away!” He snapped as he moved closer to Anuk and slid his hands under her head gently.

Dysea took Anja’s shoulders and turned her away from them. “It is not something for others to see Anja. It is a private affair.”

Martin stood up slowly, Anja’s eyes wandering over his naked body in all its glory. She gasped softly as she watched the glistening sweat dripping from his sculpted frame, the power in his legs and arms displayed for all to see. The flat rippled abdomen of steel and the perfectly shaped and powerful ass. Her eyes drifted to his manhood, and her heart did little flips, her pussy becoming moist as the memories of the one night they had shared rushing back to her. He seemed larger now, and filled with a dominating power that threatened to sweep her away. She felt Dysea's hand take hold of hers.

Is he not the most delicious specimen of a man you have ever seen? She reached out with her mind for only Anja to hear, blocking the others.

Anja turned to look at her, gazing at Dysea's equally naked body with just as much lust and desire. Dysea moved closer to her, pressing her breasts against Anja's shoulder as her lips moved closer to her ear. Anja could smell her so poignantly, the wildflower scent rushing into her nostrils.

You are what we desire Anja. You are what we want and need Melyanna. It is you that makes our blood burn with fire. We... Dysea's voice within her head stopped as she looked up.

"Skipper?" Kenny's voice pulled Anja out of her thoughts, his eyes also focused down the tunnel.

Danny leaned back from Anuk's bloody neck and felt the rush of desire surge through him as he looked at her, tasting her blood on his lips and tongue. His fangs had left two deep puncture wounds in the side of her neck and he watched as they closed slowly, indicating that it was not too late. Danny's brown eyes closed slowly as well, and he lowered his head to her blood soaked chest, exhausted and allowing that exhaustion to now claim him.

Kenny, Pablo, Cody and Julie stood behind Martin as they gazed down the tunnel.

"What is it?" Julie asked softly, her nose twitching. All of them could sense the power and aura of whatever was coming towards them.

"A predator," Martin replied softly. "Protect Anja and Dysea. Create a defensive position around Danny and Anuk. If it gets past me, do not look back, do not hesitate, and get out of the tunnel however you can."

"Martin no!" Dysea screamed rising to her feet, moving towards him. He looked at her as Anja came to her feet too. "I can feel its malice and rage Nauta Melme."

"Yes... so can I." He looked at Julie and Kenny. "You have your orders."

"Why must you face it alone?" Dysea demanded.

"That is my duty." Martin replied simply.

It was his duty, his role, his charge. Those words swept through him and filled him with a calm he had ever known. This was his purpose he now knew. He was Alpha... it was his duty to protect those he loved and cared for against everything that threatened them. There were times in his life where he had denied what he could do, what he could become. He did not want this, yet his being called to him and told him this is what he was meant for. Martin smiled inwardly to himself. Tarifa had been right... his time among the elves had improved how he thought and how he spoke.

Anja stared at him. I... I have found you again Martin Hunter. I can't reach past the unknown if you don't return. She told him within their minds. Anja did not yet know how to block the others from hearing her thoughts and they all looked at her.

Martin smiled and then turned to move away from his pack mates to protect them. The tunnel was wide and open, and he would battle with whatever was coming towards them where he could use his speed as an advantage. He moved to the center of the tunnel and slowly squatted down, waiting.

Raptor 41

"There!" Endith barked as Ben banked the Raptor in a slow circle over where they had dropped Martin and the others, "The spillway!"

"What?" Ben asked. "What do you mean?"

"Lake Mead Benjamin; the spillway connects directly to the tunnel. If these schematics are correct they would have been able to flood the tunnel in case of a fire." Endith said.

"We don't want to drown them Little Elf." Ben spoke with a smile. "We want to get them a way out."

Endith reached across the space between their pilot seats and punched him. "Think!" She snapped. "The level of the lake has dropped in the last four hundred and seventy-eight years! The spillway is on level ground fourteen feet above the lake surface. It connects here... just south of the split in the tunnel. We can hover a quarter mile away and launch every missile we have. It will be strong enough to blast a hole in the side. It is only six feet thick at this point."

Ben's eyes lit up. "God you are just too damn beautiful and smart!" He shouted. "I knew there was a reason I loved you!"

Endith beamed and looked at him. "And I thought it was because I kissed so well." She said with a grin.

Ben laughed, "That too!" He spoke keying his helmet COM. "Raptor 41 to Eden Control. Get three evac Raptors airborne within the hour! Have General Vengal and his people on one, and tell him we're fixing to blast a hole to his daughter." Ben listened for a moment and his face tightened. "Captain I don't give a rats fuck what standard procedure says. Martin Hunter told me to make him an exit out of that fucking tunnel and that's what I intend to do. Now get those ships airborne, or when I get back there I will string you up by your balls and let the birds pick your fucking eyes out! Do I make myself clear?" There was a pause. "Good. We're moving to 3476.9. Have one of those birds loaded with a double. We're going to expend all our munitions opening the hole and I want to land and reload after. Send a reload crew with the arms bird. And round up every medic you can find at Commander Peterson's clinics. Get on it son."

Ben turned back to see Walter, Tarifa and Aihola looking at him strangely. "What?" Ben asked. "Sometimes you have to motivate your people."

"You threaten to hang them by their balls and let the birds pick out their eyes?" Aihola asked stunned.

"Hey... whatever works." Ben replied looking at Endith. "Set the course and engage."

Walter chuckled and placed his hand on Ben's shoulder. "I should have known there was a reason that Martin refused to have anyone else assigned to EDEN." He said.

Ben looked at Walter... his words still ringing in his ears. "Marty's saved our bacon more times than I care to remember. We would have been dead six times over if not for him; you don't need to motivate me when it comes to him."

"Yes I can see that." Walter spoke.

"You really wouldn't have done that would you doc?" Ben asked.

Walter met Ben's eyes. "What do you think Major?"

Ben shook his head and turned back to fly the Raptor.

LAS VEGAS/PHOENIX INTERSTATE TRAIN TUNNEL

Martin was as alone now as he had ever been in his life.

He was the first to discover he could change his form fully to that of a wolf. He was ten when it first happened, and he was spying on a wolf pack in the Blue Ridge Mountains of North Carolina. He had wished for a split second that he could be a wolf, picturing the thought clear in his mind and in a flash of white/blue light it was upon him. It had frightened him so terribly he had urinated all over his torn pants. He didn't change for three full months after that. He had questioned Walter carefully on whether the animal DNA within their systems would allow them to alter their forms, and Walter told him it was entirely possible when in moments of extreme stress and emotion.

When he changed again on that wind swept night, he had remained a wolf for the next three days, not wanting to change back. He felt so alive, so free. He taught himself to use his tail to change directions quickly, when to accelerate, when to brake. He watched the wolf pack endlessly, their every movement when they ran, when they walked. How they hunted... how to use his incredibly keen senses. It took him another four months before he brought Danny and Julie out with him. An entire year they spent learning the ways of the pack, until it came to them as it did the wolves, like second nature. It was the night before their sixteenth birthdays when they decided to never tell anyone the extent to which they could change. The powers that be were afraid of them to begin with, and to tell they would only give them an excuse to shut down the project. They shifted into wolf form only as a last resort... and it had saved their lives and the lives of their team on more than one occasion. It had been Martin who suggested they turn the others within their team... their pack as they had come to regard their team mates... when the disease that was ravaging the other teams began.

Martin's senses were a hundred times more acute when in wolf form, though they had taught themselves to carry many of their senses over into human form.

What Martin sensed coming down the tunnel towards him was completely twisted and felt of evil? It was brimming with power and an underlying sense of pride. His keen yellow eyes detected the figure begin to take shape. It was a man, yet it wasn't. Martin's eyes could detect the subtle differences and what was walking towards him was also a...

A Wolf.

The man wore loose fitting clothes, his dark hair past his shoulders. He was just as tall as Martin, but more heavily muscled. His burning blue eyes glowed in the shadows. There was a strange sort of strap on his left arm that angled across his palm, up the underside of his forearm and wrapped again just below the elbow. It looked somehow burned into his very skin.

I can smell your fear wolf. The voice reached into Martin's mind, brushing past his mental shields as if they weren't even there, a deep angry voice that was filled with rage and pain.

Martin pushed aside the panic at such an intrusion and the power it took to achieve what he had just done. No man or beast had ever been able to breach Martin's mental shields when he was prepared, and this killer had just ripped them asunder. He quickly began concentrating on anything other than his pack mates behind him.

Only a fool does not feel fear. Martin reached out with his own mind, feigning confidence where he felt none, probing and finding nothing but a solid wall. Who are you?

I am death.

I do not wish to do battle. My only intent is to safeguard my pack mates. They were attacked by these creatures. Surely you as a wolf understand this.

You know what I am? The voice sounded surprised.

I can smell you as clearly as you smell me. You are an Alpha.

As are you young one, the most powerful I have ever felt. Yet you are inexperienced and you question yourself, your purpose.

Why are you here? Where do you come from?

My Home is far away... far away from here. I... I can not remember.

How did you come here?

I do not know.

Why do you fight?

I must. Honor demands I hold to my oath.

Why.

Blood demands it. Honor demands it.

Does your honor extend to killing the injured as well?

All will fall before me. I am death.

I do not wish to fight you.

Then I will kill you like the pup you are and take your females for myself. You have marked an elf. That is good... I have never had an elf. She smells good; ripe and juicy. I will enjoy listening to her howl under me.

That will never happen.

Who is to stop me? You boast of confidence and power you do not have.

We shall see.

I... I will let you live. Give your females to me. I will kill your weak and you can escape.

That will not happen.

There are many females out there. You would die for these?

I would... happily.

Why?

They are the reason my heart still pumps. Why my lungs still draw breath. I would never surrender them to such as you or to anyone. If it is blood you wish... then come. I will show you blood. I will show you what color your blood is.

Martin stared at the blue eyed man across from him. He squatted like Martin, unmoving and staring at Martin as if he was contemplating something.

You have a familiar smell. And your voice rings in my head as if I should know you.

You and I have never crossed paths before. You side with these white skinned creatures that kill without regard. I have no use for someone like you.

Life is death. The strange man spoke.

Life without purpose is death! Martin exclaimed with his mind. Life without love is death. Death without reason is stupid.

There are thousands of females, and yet you would die for these two. You would die to defend them. The human is different... but she is no wolf. Why have you not turned her?

It is her choice to make.

Bah! Alphas take what is ours!

Alphas lead. They insure the survival of their pack! They do not force their will on those they wish to bear strong children with. That is wrong in any semblance or form.

You are strange, yet your words somehow ring true. I... I am certain I know you.

Martin could feel the blood lust at this man's words rushing through him. Here was a man that deserved death; a man who would kill and rape just to sate his own perverted wants.

Enough talk! Martin snapped. You will not harm my mates or my pack. He rose to his feet, "If you want them... Molon Labe!" The words felt so right and surged from him before he had known what to speak. It was a language Martin did not know, yet those words flowed from his tongue as if they were second nature.

Martin watched the other man rise to his feet as well, a stunned expression on his face now. His blue eyes shone brighter in the dim tunnel and he stepped forward slowly. Martin could see he was much older than himself, looking as if he was in his early fifties, the dark hair laced heavily with gray. It... it can't be! He gasped in his thoughts. It... it is you! You have finally come!

Martin stood there his expression confused. "What are you talking about?"

The man grabbed for his head, almost doubling over in pain. His fingers curled around his thick dark hair and he pulled on it savagely. "No! I won't! Not this time! Not this man!"

Martin stepped towards him. "What is wrong? Who are you talking too?"

The man looked at him and Martin hissed at the pain he saw in the man's eyes. He could smell the pain pouring from him with hurricane force. He dropped to his knees smashing his head into the ground, his skin splitting open on the jagged rocks.

"Never! Not this man! I will not listen this time! I will not do your bidding!" The man twisted on the rough dirt now, his body withering in agony. A hysterical laugh split the air, spittle flying from the man's lips. "You will all die! Ha... your time is at an end!"

Martin reached the man, his body twisting on the ground, the muscles straining against the skin as if ready to burst. "What is it? Let me help you!"

Martin jerked back when his face snapped around and those blue eyes bore into Martin's soul. His fangs were extended and his eyes blazed with fear, anger and pain. Forgive... forgive me my... My King.

The man's forearm flared with soft golden light and suddenly his forearm was encased in gleaming gold armor from the elbow down and sitting atop that arm was a rounded disc of some sort, easily two feet across. It bore intricate markings on the face, with a large cursive letter S etched into it and it shone with glimmering brilliance even in the dim light of the tunnel. The man extended his arm and Martin watched with horror as all around the edges of the shield/disc, razor sharp blades snapped into place, circling the entire circumference. And then the shield/disc launched off his forearm straight at Martin's head with blistering speed.

The only thing that saved him from losing his head was the fact that the man's arm was quivering, and the aimed throw was not accurate. Martin dodged as fast as his reflexes could carry him, though it was no where near fast enough. The edge of the shield bit deeply into the flesh of his arm, blood spurting from the wound and pain lancing through him. His eyes watched with horror as the shield/disc curved with blinding speed and returned to the man's forearm. The man was staggering to his feet and he launched it again only a mere second after it had returned to his arm. Tears washed down his face as he fully regained his feet, watching Martin dive to his left, attempting to avoid the shield/disc once more. He smiled grimly when the shield sliced across Martin's thigh and sent him sprawling out of control.

"You can not win!" The man screeched. "I am mightier than you!"

Martin grimaced in agony as the shield struck his abdomen this time, careening off after tearing a four inch deep cut into his skin. Pain lanced through his nerves, blocking out all else except the need to get away. He pushed with his bare feet on the dusty and cracked tunnel floor, propelling his body away from this warrior. A trail of thick red blood followed along behind him. His eyes went wide as he felt the hand grasp his ankle and the man lifted him off the floor with a mighty heave. He smashed his shield/disc into Martin's face, one of the blades on the edge cutting deeply into Martin's head and upper cheek and nearly removing his eye. He could feel his body sailing through the air like a doll and he cried out as his body impacted the tunnel wall, the thick concrete driving the wind from his chest and leaving a huge dent where there was once solid unbroken concrete. He fell to his knees, bits of stone and dirt falling onto his back, the pain causing him to see stars. His vision was fuzzy, as blood continued to pool under him from the three wounds. He heard the sinister laughter and lifted his head as he saw the man approaching.

His only chance was to somehow disable the man's arm so he could not lift it to launch the shield. He could not fall, the thoughts of what would happen to Dysea... to Anja... to his pack. The thought of this monster taking the two most precious things in his conflict ridden life brought forth the power from deep within his soul.

Dysea... the long strands of her platinum hair sweeping around her face, so powerful, so intoxicating; the elegant curves of her elf ears, the sweep of her hips and the maddening scent of her womanhood.

Anja... her Persian red mane billowing in the wind, the texture of her honey lips, the strength of her mind, the compassion in her heart, the burning desire to please him in any way he wished and the overwhelming velvet warmth of her center.

A rage unlike anything Martin had ever felt coursed through him. A blood lust that consumed him entirely, driving away the pain of his wounds. He got to his feet slowly, blood splashing wetly on the ground around him, the pain forgotten, and in its place a burning in his blood he embraced fully.

The warrior stood ten meters away and smiled. "You will die now my King! I can not fight it!" He screamed. He lifted his arm and the shield/disc launched on its unerring path straight for Martin's neck.

As if moving in slow motion, his task clear in his mind Martin jumped back against the concrete wall behind him bending his legs and launching himself into the air with every ounce of remaining power in his limbs. The shield/disc never wavered; never alter its course, its purpose single minded. There was a white/blue flash of lightning and the shield passed not through the body of a man, but under the body of a massive black wolf. Martin's yellow eyes burned with unbridled rage as he saw the look of almost amusement cross the face of the warrior, his jaws opening to reveal gleaming white powerful fangs. Martin saw the man smile sadly as his leap completed with Martin's jaws sinking into his shoulder and wrenching mightily. The warrior bellowed in agony as Martin's jaws clamped down and ripped muscle and flesh from his shoulder and arm like paper. Martin brought his front paw up and raked his razor like claws across the warrior's face, cutting into his flesh and digging one of his eyes from its socket. Martin gulped the flesh between his jaws as he dragged the man down with his three hundred pounds of wolf weight, bones splintering and cracking at the impact. The shield/disc was buried into the concrete wall almost halfway to its center, all but forgotten now.

Snarling like a wolf possessed, Martin slammed his bloody paw down on the man's chest, blood erupting from between his lips as he stepped over the warrior, his yellow eyes burning with hate and the desire to kill this foul creation of a man. As he bared his teeth and began to lower his head to rip his throat from him he saw the blue eye that remained and the gentle smile that creased his mangled face.

The warrior's gaze was clear and free of pain, as if he had been released from whatever he had been fighting within his tortured mind.

I... I am free. His voice clawed its way into Martin's mind.

The wolf stared at the man beneath his dripping fangs, Martin's muzzle saturated with his blood.

You... you have granted me all... all that I have desired for four decades my King; ended my torment at the hands of these abominations. No... no warrior... no warrior has ever... ever dodged a Shi Viska. It is... it is yours my King.

Martin's wolf eyes watched as the man reached across his bloody with his free hand and brought it over the top of his left hand. He closed his good eye and there was a shimmering gold glow before he pulled the strange looking leather and metal covering from his arm.

Who are you? Martin asked him.

I... am one who was lost. Do not... do not leave me to rot in this strange land my King. I... I wish to go home.

Why have you become this... this killer of innocents?

I... I was captured from our land. These creatures... their numbers are few... but they have powerful minds, twisted minds. My... my actions were not... not of my choosing my King.

You... you call me King. Why?

The warrior's remaining eye clouded for a brief moment. You... you are not yet aware of the blood you carry in your veins Martin Hunter. You must discover it, and soon.

You know my name?

I know your true name my King. I am not worthy to speak it now. He... he is among you now. He will guide you.

They heard the scrapping of feet and Martin looked up to see his team coming towards them. Dysea and Anja were supporting Danny between them, while Kenny was carrying Anuk.

You have... have chosen well my King. They... they will bear you fine children. As... as will your final Queen. I... I can see your thoughts... you have seen her... in your minds eye.

Hair like night... eyes blue like an Azure ocean. Martin spoke.

She is my... my niece. The warrior coughed heavily, blood leaking from his mouth. You are... you are stronger than you know my King, stronger than any wolf I... I have ever known... and I have almost two thousand years of life behind me. Your strike... your strike shattered my ribs. The splinters have... have ripped open my lungs and kidneys.

You are wolf! Martin gasped. Shifting will heal you.

The warrior shook his head slowly. I have not the strength. It... it is better this way. Our... our people await your return. As we have waited for three thousand years. Will you take... will you take me home My King? I wish... to wish to be laid in my own land.

I do not... I do not know where you come from!

The warrior's torn lips smiled. You have always known.

Tell me what to do! My mate... she is a doctor... she can heal you. Save you! You do not have to die!

Save me? I am already saved. You have granted me that. His good eye twitched and became worried. They are coming now my King. Take my Shi Viska. Only you can do this. Take my revenge upon them.

I do not know how to use your weapon.

You are King! It is in your blood! Avenge me!

No! Martin cried as the warrior's eye closed slowly and he breathed his last. Martin stared at his now calm face for a long moment before allowing the change to come over him. In a blink he was human again and he heard the gasps of anguish from both Dysea and Anja at his bloody appearance. The wounds had healed for the most part, but fresh blood still seeped from them. Martin looked at the leather and metal covering that rested on the warrior's body. He picked it up slowly, turning it over in his hands. It appeared as a simple bridle like piece of leather and metal that fit over your arm for decoration.

"Skipper, more of those things are coming down the tunnel." Pablo called urgently.

Martin pulled the bridle onto his arm, feeling the power surge through him. As he stretched it completely onto his forearm it tingled on his skin. The intricate leather ends had carvings on them, the thin metal band stretching between the two bands of leather. Another smaller band of leather encircled his hand, moving directly across his palm perfectly. It was unlike anything he had ever seen, yet he knew it somehow. It was vaguely familiar and he could feel the power surging through him because of it.

Anja held Danny's weight under her one shoulder as her eyes took in the man she loved more than her own life, naked and bleeding from at least three very deep wounds. He was oblivious to the wounds, the one on his face still seeping blood even more than the others. She watched as Martin pulled something onto his arm and gazed at it like he was remembering something for the first time.

"Fuck me... look at this." Kenny called. Their heads turned to see him gazing at the shiny gold shield/disc imbedded in the concrete, and the blood that dripped from its blades. "He... he was fighting this."

"Nauta Melme... we must go!" Dysea spoke, her voice urgent.

"In a moment Melda Min," Martin replied softly.

"Jesus Skipper those things are almost upon us. You're in no shape to fight them while we evac!" Cady declared. "Let's count our losses and get the fuck out of here."

"They are no danger." Martin said evenly.

"Skipper... they damn near torn Danny and Anuk to pieces!" Kenny replied, moving towards his brother and leader.

Julie saw something in Martin that she had never seen before and she reached out to grasp Kenny's arm. "Wait." She said softly.

"Jules... maybe he's hurt or something. Man he's bleeding badly all over the place." Kenny spoke.

"No." Julie said calmly.

They all heard the soft hum and saw the flash of gold light on Martin's arm. Their eyes went wide when he extended his arm out to where the Shi Viska was imbedded into the concrete and they saw the gold armor encasing his lower arm up to his elbow. Their eyes grew even larger when the razor disc in the wall began to shake and shudder.

"Fuck!" Kenny asked jumping back. "This thing has got an engine or something! It's busting free!"

They watched in awe as the gold Shi Viska broke free of the concrete showering them with bits of stone and dust and leaped for Martin's extended arm.

"Martin!" Anja screamed.

What they saw stopped them all in their tracks as the Shi Viska landed on Martin's upper forearm and he aimed it down the tunnel at the willowy figures appearing in the dust. The Shi Viska leaped from Martin's arm with an audible snap, shooting down the tunnel with the speed of a bullet. They watched in stunned silence as it struck the first shadowy figure, severing the pasty white head and amazingly curved in the air as if it was being directed by some guided hand. The Shi Viska cut across the tunnel with blinding speed and accuracy, even before the creatures had a chance to react. Five more heads joined the first on the tunnel floor before the Shi Viska returned to Martin's arm. There was a flash of golden light and then all that remained on his arm was the leather and metal bridle.

"Now... now he is free." Martin said softly looking down at the dead warrior. He turned as Dysea and Anja lowered Danny to the slab of concrete to sit and his eyes settled on Martin.

Martin moved up to him quickly, seeing his eyes open and looking at him, "Showoff." Danny muttered between dry lips.

Martin reached out with a smile and took Dan's head in his hands kissing the top of his bald crown. "Brother... can we go now, or do you have more surprises for us to endure?"

Danny chuckled out loud and it was an infectious laughter as everyone slumped to the tunnel floor exhausted and their adrenalin bleeding away. Kenny had placed Anuk in his arms and he held her with one hand reaching up and taking Martin's shoulder with the other. "I owe you Marty?" He said.

"For the sixth time." Martin told him with a smile.

"Hey... Columbia doesn't count! I thought we agreed on that?" Dan said softly.

Martin grinned. "So we did." He stood up slowly. "There is a connecting Spillway from Lake Mead five miles ahead of us. They are going to blow the tunnel as our way out."

"Great!" Kenny said shaking his head. "So we have to swim now too."

Martin laughed, his breathing finally returning to normal. "The level of the lake has dropped. There will be no swimming Kenneth."

"Bout time something went our way." Kenny muttered.

Martin looked at Danny once more. "Can you shift?"

Dan nodded. "It will wear me out, but yes." He replied. "Why?"

"I would imagine you want to walk out of here carrying your mate." Martin said.

Martin saw fire return to Dan's eyes and he nodded. "I do."

"Leave Anuk with Dysea and Anja and shift to speed the healing," He said. "We'll leave in twenty minutes."

"Martin..." Julie called. She stood looking down at the warrior on the floor of the tunnel. "He is... he's a..."

"Wolf." Martin spoke, causing their heads to turn to him in shocked silence, "A very old wolf. He is one of us, he goes with us."

There were no snide or sarcastic comments from Kenny this time as he got to his feet. "I'll find a sheet or something to wrap his body in. Cody... you and Pablo find some poles we can rig a stretcher on."

Julie knelt next to the body. "I'll clean him up. He shouldn't be brought into the sun looking like this." She said softly.

“I will help you.” Dysea spoke as she moved to help Julie. She was a new wolf Dysea knew, but she had fully accepted her new life with little question. It had felt so completely right. The fires that had always burned within her, the questions and countless dreams all brought her here. She could feel the same pull as the others, the need to shelter and care for one of their fallen own.

Martin turned and looked at Anja. Her jade green eyes gazed upon him intently. We heard what you said Martin. She projected her thoughts into his mind.

Martin looked at her. What do you mean?

We are the reason your heart pumps. She said stepping closer to him after ensuring Anuk was safe. We are the reason your lungs still draw breath.

Martin scooped her into his arms and crushed her to him, his lips descending over hers. Anja whimpered softly as he kissed her harder than he had ever kissed her before. She plunged her four inch tongue between his lips to do battle with his own, only to find that he won quite easily, which suited her just fine. His hands pressed her tighter, roaming over her neck and down to her ass and she gripped his shoulders even tighter, pushing her body against his wishing he would just tear her clothes from her and take her right here and make her his.

Martin pulled away quickly and stared at her with his smoldering brown eyes, the fire in them causing wetness to seep from between Anja’s thighs.

I intend to do just that. He told her within her mind, And so much more.

Dysea’s soft musical voice jumped into her mind as well. As do I. She echoed.

Will... will I be like you? Like Dysea?

That is our hope.

Anja’s smile was brilliant. It is mine as well.

Martin kissed her softly, lovingly. I am going to make you scream out my name Anja Peterson, many times over.

I didn’t stop for hours. Dysea chimed in brightly. He is such a beast.

Tonight Anja, tonight you will be ours. In every way your mind could imagine. Martin said.

Ben had ripple fired every missile in his inventory until he had blown a gaping hole ten feet across into the side of the spillway tunnel. As he was landing the Raptor, two other ships appeared nearby and began to set down in a small clearing a short distance away, while a third came towards him and began to land. A smile had passed between him and Endith as they powered down their ship. They had left the cockpit and joined with the dozens of others who had rushed to the newly blown opening and began to clear rocks and chunks of concrete away.

Vengal was working like a mad man, heaving portions of rock to the side that was taking two and sometimes three humans to move. Beside him Ben saw the remaining twelve genomes were tearing at the rock with just as much energy. The Drow warrior Tari mixed in their ranks, adding his strength to the task. The human men and women were wise enough to allow the elves and genomes to do the back breaking work while they cleared the area behind them almost as quickly as rock and concrete was tossed there. Walter stood to one side, Tarifa, Aihola, Palina and the two Ministers watching the events unfold. Tarifa and Aihola were covered in dust and tiny slivers of concrete as they had been among the first to reach the hole and begin clearing.

Tarifa looked at Walter as he stood there, his eyes unreadable. She noticed that his face was different somehow, appearing almost younger looking than he usually did. And he stood rock solid motionless, as if nothing would move him from his spot. This was far from the man who she knew as a frail but immensely wise scholar, and the man who had created the elves. This was someone different.

“Do you sense them Holy One?” She asked softly, so that only Aihola could hear her words.

Walter shook his head. “They are blocking my attempts to communicate with them, whether by choice or by design I do not know. All I can feel are fleeting images of a battle, and it was not very pretty.”

“You did not tell me you were telepathic Holy One.” Tarifa spoke.

Walter looked at her. “I am not... completely.” He answered. “Only with those I have a connection with.”

“You have known me since birth Holy One. Does that not imply a connection?” She asked.

“We do have a connection child. Just on a different level than the one I share with Martin and the others.” He answered. “With them it is different.”

“May I ask why Holy One?”

Walter looked deeply into her sapphire blue eyes. “Do you trust me Tarifa?”

“I believe I have already answered that question Holy One.” She told him. “The better question is do you trust me. Do you trust me enough to tell me what it is that you are guarding so tenaciously. Apparently what you have guarded for longer than many of us have been alive.”

“Do you fear the unknown Tarifa?” Walter asked.

“I don’t understand the question Holy One?” Tarifa spoke confused.

“Do you fear what you don’t understand? Do you fear what your eyes reveal to you, or are you capable of reaching past what you know to be fact, and grasp the unknown.” Walter said. “Do you fear what does not reside within your realm of comprehension?”

“There are many things outside my realm of comprehension Holy One.” Tarifa answered honestly. “As Queen I must look beyond that.”

Walter nodded. “As Queen yes you must. What about as a person, a beautiful young woman. Would you look at a new insect you discover on one of your walks through Mountain City as something wondrous and something to be explored, or would you consider it a nuisance or fear that it might bite you, and crush the life from it.”

“You are making no sense Holy One.” She spoke.

“Aren’t I?” He asked. “You and Aihola share a love that you would never have even discovered if you feared the unknown. Would you have pictured yourself in the arms of a woman a year ago, let alone a Drow woman? Would you have seen yourself sharing the same bed as she, loving her as you would love a man?”

“That is not a fair question Holy One.” Tarifa asked. “No I would never have thought I would be here like this a year ago. What does my love for Aihola have to do with anything?”

“Perhaps nothing, perhaps everything; what do you think?” Walter asked.

“I think you are speaking in riddles again so that you do not have to give a direct answer.” Tarifa told him.

Walter nodded his head with a smile. “True... but behind the riddles are the answers you seek. You...”

“Look!” A voice screamed out causing all heads to turn to the opening, and all conversation to cease.

A light dust cloud obscured the inner portion of the tunnel that had been cleared, and it was here that they first saw the figures. Martin was first, his imposing figure easily seen as he walked out of the dust. Almost directly behind him and spread out to each of his flanks was Anja and Dysea. Between them walked a severely limping Danny, the petite form of Anuk cradled in his arms, her head resting against his chest. Julie, Kenny, Pablo and Cody each carried a corner of the makeshift stretcher that bore the body of the warrior Martin had fought. It was wrapped in the blanket that Anuk had used to stay warm, Kenny finding it among the other items they had left.

They had changed into the fresh uniforms that they had dropped in with, but Martin wore no fatigue top, the blood staining the tank top he wore, marking the wounds he had suffered. A small line of blood trickled down from the wound across his eye. Danny had refused any new uniform, instead choosing to drape the fatigue top around Anuk, and his wounds were clearly visible, blood beginning to seep from the deepest slashes in his flesh once more.

The remaining team members were silent as they watched their Skipper lead the others out of the tunnel. Their wolf like senses knew immediately who was being carried on the stretcher, and they moved forward slowly, almost reverently reaching out to touch the body on the stretcher as it passed them. It was a connection they could all feel coursing through their blood and they fell in behind Julie and the others, moving immediately to take positions next to their brothers and sisters to help carry the burden that was their history.

Vengal and Matarn moved forward with half a dozen Wood Elves, heading directly to where Danny was. Martin saw this and turned to Tony, motioning with his head. Tony and four others broke from the group to intercept them, closing ranks behind Vengal as he passed.

Matarn stared at the large genomes in front of him. “That is my wife to be! Get out of my way!” He demanded. “I will see her.”

“Not today sport.” Tony told him. “In fact... not ever again I’m guessing when she wakes up.”

“Get out of my way you fool!” Matarn snapped, reaching for his knife.

Five K12s came up within a heartbeat, all leveled at Matarn. Tony glared at him with crazy dark eyes. “You might want to think twice about that motherfucker.” He growled.

Vengal had stopped to watch this, his eyes wide. He dismissed it... his only concern was having his daughter back in his arms. He kept moving, watching as the huge genome named Danny limped towards him. Vengal watched him stumble, his leg almost giving out, but Danny clench his teeth and stayed on his feet. Vengal could not believe this man still lived, the wounds he had were grievous, and all of them still leaking blood. Yet he forced himself to continue. Anuk looked like a child in his arms, yet there was something... something about the way he held her that bespoke of what Vengal would never understand. He quickened his pace, so that Danny did not have to cover so much distance and soon he stood in front of the six foot five genome giant. His heart slammed into his throat when he saw her in his arms.

“Anuk...” He almost cried.

“She... she was injured... but she is alive General.” Danny spoke softly. “And she will recover completely. She is... she is stronger than you know sir, and she is very much like you.”

Vengal held out his arms and Danny gently placed Anuk in her father’s arms, tears streaking down Vengal’s cheeks. Vengal looked at her face, the three slashes across her face that had marred her beauty almost completely healed, though there would always be very faint scars. Vengal looked at Danny, as Martin stepped up to him and took most of Dan’s weight now that he no longer held Anuk.

“You... you have given me back my daughter Daniel Simpson.” Vengal spoke softly. “This debt... this debt can never be repaid.”

“Yes it can.” Dan spoke.

“But... but how?”

“You’ll know when the time is right.” Dan said softly.

Anja moved up next to Danny, putting her arm around his waist attempting to take more weight from his injured leg, even though he stood a foot taller than her. “C’mon hero... let’s get you to the Raptor. You need to be in bed, I have to clean those wounds.”

Martin saw Walter moving towards them and he turned to Tony. “Master Chief... give Anja a hand getting hard head here into the Raptor.” He called.

Tony glared at Matarn for another three seconds before he lowered the K12 and moved up next to Danny, taking Martin’s place. “Jesus Commander... why is it that you and the Skipper always get the shit end of the stick?” He asked as he slid his shoulder under Dan’s armpit.

Dan chuckled loudly and looked at him. “It must be in our blood Master Chief.” He replied as Tony and Anja led him towards the Raptor.

Julie and the others carried the body of the warrior up to where Martin stood as Walter and Tarifa stopped in front of him. Tarifa moved up close to him, caressing his face, careful to avoid the long gash that cut vertically down across his left eye. Aihola stepped up to him as well, gripping his arm and squeezing.

“What... what happened down there Martin?” Tarifa gasped. “It... you are... you are injured in many places.”

Walter’s eyes were on the bridle that Martin wore on his arm, a look of shock etched across his features. Martin did not take his eyes from Walter’s face, and Tarifa noticed this as well, her eyes going to Walter.

“Where... where did you get that?” Walter asked softly.

Martin turned slightly and looked at the body wrapped in the wool blanket. “He gave it to me.”

Walter eyed the body, moving slowly to stand beside the stretcher. He reached out with his hand and placed it on the chest of the warrior. Walter gasped softly, and slowly drew his hand back. Walter turned back to look at Martin. “Did... did you kill him Martin?”

“He left me no choice.” Martin answered. “There were things in the tunnel that were controlling his mind. He’s been their prisoner for forty years, killing for them, providing them entertainment. Sick fuckers are what they were!” He hissed. “I had to fight him! He would have killed my...” Martin caught himself. “He would have killed the others.”

“You defeated him?”

“He gave me no choice.” Martin answered, nodding his head slowly. “You have a lot of explaining to do Walter.” Martin said softly. “He told me things... many things. It all came together down there and I want answers.”

“So it seems.” Walter answered. He looked at Tarifa and Aihola, their eyes on him. Tomorrow Martin; tomorrow I will give you the answers that you seek; the answers that you have sought for so long. Walter projected his thoughts into Martin’s mind. To his credit, Martin didn’t flinch at this.

What will you do now?

Now? Walter looked at the body on the stretcher. Now I will say my goodbyes to a friend and a brother.

Martin’s gaze went to the body and then slowly back to Walter. What was his name?

His name? His name was Androcles. Walter answered as he turned and began to follow the stretcher to the Raptor. And he... he was my youngest brother. Our father named him after our grandfather.

Martin’s eyes grew wide in horror at this and he turned to watch Walter walk away from him. Tarifa saw this and her eyes narrowed.

“Martin... Martin what is wrong?” She asked.

Walter? Martin spoke. I... I did not know... I...

You gave him a warrior’s death Martin... for that... for that I can never repay you. There was a pause as Walter walked with the stretcher toward the Raptor. You should know Martin... you should know that your name is not Hunter... my King. Your name is Leonidas... Martin Leonidas.

Walter...

Tomorrow my King, for tonight you will claim another that is yours. And you will need your attention on that.

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN

EDEN (FORMERLY JUNCTION CITY UTAH)

[Background Music: Show me Heaven; Days of Thunder ST, Inama Nushif; Children of Dune ST.)]

Heaven.

If this was what heaven was, then Anja Peterson wanted to be lost in it forever. All of the failed attempts at love throughout her twenty-eight years, all the groping and pawing for what satisfaction she could gain, the one night of blistering and sensual love that stood out above all the others, all of it had led her here to this one moment.

