

"Jaban!" Danny barked as he came to his feet. He could feel his brother within him, feel the rage and hate within him and Androcles. Anuk, Kesyla and Nayeca watched him with wide, worried eyes as he spun around and faced the Lycavorian Captain who had commanded his ship since its commissioning. "Something is going down on the surface! Report!"

"The ARIZONA just launched six squadrons!" Jaban exclaimed in return. "I am ordering our fighters to launch as well! First Echelon is moving into position and Second Echelon is spreading out to cover our flanks! Armen had just ordered the Durcunusaan Ready Detachment to deploy under Spartan Crimson Protocols!"

Anuk stepped closer to her husband and reached up to touch his arm. She could sense his unease and concern for Daniel never held back from her or Nayeca. "Daniel what is it?" She asked softly.

Danny turned to face her, his ebony skin tense and Anuk reached for his face as Nayeca and Kesyla moved closer as well and put their hands on his arm. "I don't know." He answered her instantly. "Something is happening on the surface and whatever it is, Andro and Martin both just went ballistic."

Anuk and Nayeca knew their husband as well as they knew themselves and his love for Martin was absolute. Kesyla was discovering this as well as Anuk and Nayeca often spoke of what the two men had done in the years before. Daniel had blood brothers from his parents that he loved, sisters too, but Martin had been and always would be Daniel's one true brother. Their bond had been forged through the fire of combat and so much more and it would never be torn asunder. His brothers and sisters accepted this and relished in it, for they had had many times through the last years just sitting with Daniel and Martin and listening to them tell stories of their adventures together.

"Trust in your fervon Daniel." Anuk told him. "Do what we came here to do, just as you and Martin discussed. He is not alone Daniel our love. He is never alone."

Danny met her cerulean blue eyes and calmed instantly as both Anuk and Nayeca pulsed him with their female wolf auras. He looked lovingly at Nayeca's amber colored eyes and then nodded his head.

"Jaban?" Daniel spoke turning to look at him.

"General?" The man answered.

"Let's stick with the plan!" Danny said confidently. "Martin can't talk to the douche bag on the station, so we'll talk to him instead. Open a channel and get me whoever is in charge over there."

"What do we tell them?" Jaban asked with a crooked smile.

"Tell them if they do not stand down in the next twenty seconds, I'm going to blow that station and every ship in this system right straight to nubous oblivion." Danny spoke.

Jaban's smile grew ever larger. "COM Officer!" He shouted. "Find the channel they are on and let's say hello!"